A Budget For The Times

The Hon. J. L. Ilsley has the respect and confidence of the Canadian people and his budgets have been accepted by them with good grace; as the pills grow bitterer our faith in the physician waxes, for we know that our only cure lies in drastic measures. The new budget is severe, but no more so than we expected. Canada has steeled itself for heavy taxation and heavy taxation we undoubtedly have.

The sharp increase in the Income Tax is not unexpected, and although it is going to mean a reduction in our standard of living generally, it should cause little real hardship. The method of collecting it at the source, however, is a novel one and it will have to be explained with great care to all wage-earners before September 1 when it begins. The burden of collection now falls upon the employer, who must take a substantial chunk of money from each pay envelope before he gives it to his employee. Human nature being what it is, most of the resentment which is felt at this deprivation will be directed against the employer rather than against the Government, and there may be cases where relations will become strained. It must be thoroughly understood, therefore, that no employer is docking his employees' wages; he is merely collecting taxes, and he himself suffers a proportionately heavy loss. It must also be clear that a proportion of the deduction is Minimum Savings, which will be returned after the war with interest at 2 per cent.

Let no worker, therefore, assume that the 'higher-ups' are cutting his wages. The fact is that the employers, as well as paying heavy taxes themselves, have been drafted as tax-gatherers, and the burden which this places upon their accounting departments will involve them, in many cases, in extra expense. It is to be hoped that, as the Government is getting a lot of its work done for it at the expense of the employers, it will be able to save some of the public's money by reducing the number of its tax-gathering offices.

It is also clear that the increase in taxation is going to make the selling of War Savings Certificates and Victory Bonds more difficult. Many people will feel that, as the Government is already taking a considerable amount of money from them before they actually get it in their hands, it need not expect voluntary contributions on the same scale. Let us dismiss this idea at once. Certificates and Bonds must be bought in even greater quantities. This will mean a squeeze, but we must understand now that, if we mean to win this war, we must haul in our belts till the buckle bends, and smile as we do it. Most of us have not yet begun to learn the meaning of sacrifice.

That section of the public which has been calling for confiscation of excess profits will be pleased with the Government's move to place a hundred per cent. tax on these; there is a wise provision, however, that twenty per cent. of this money will be returned after the war, which will do something to alleviate the inevitable industrial slump in the post-war period. England has already adopted this system.

Increased taxes fall upon luxuries, where they can best be borne. The enemies of Demon Rum will rejoice at the heavy increase on all alcoholic beverages. The large returns here will come from the increased beer tax. Comparatively few people can still afford to buy spirits, and sparkling wines have been as scarce as hen's teeth for several months. Smokers also will get less for their money. Let us hope that those blameless persons who neither drink nor smoke will continue to consume candy, chewing-gum and soda pop in their accustomed large quantities, as by doing so they will swell the Dominion's coffers appreciably.

We congratulate Mr. Ilsley on a good job. We expected a severe budget and he has given us one. It hits us all in some way or other, and it puts employers even more firmly in the class of unpaid civil servants. But if it is necessary we shall not complain.

A Matter Of Opinion

This paper has a high regard for the abilities of Mr. Kirke L. Simpson as a commentator on the war; that is why we publish his daily articles. But we do not regard Mr. Simpson as infallible, nor do we assume responsibility for everything he says. Sometimes we think that he is greatly mistaken. Yesterday, for instance, he wrote thus: "Whatever else the British defeat in Libya portends or reflects, it serves to stress the fact that Washington, not London, became the nerve centre of Allied war effort when the United States entered the war. Mr. Roosevelt, not Mr. Churchill, is the dominant personality of the United Nations." And in his article Mr. Simpson gave us to understand that "British politicos, squirming under a new and ominous British defeat, dare not change horses midway in the war stream or even greatly hamper Mr. Churchill's powers of command without a nod from Washington, and Mr. Churchill knows it."

Now this, in our opinion, is tactless nonsense. We think it most inadvisable to discuss the matter of who is the "dominant personality of the United Nations," and we doubt if Mr. Roosevelt would thank Mr. Simpson for setting him in that position. And the idea that Westminster acts upon 'nods' from Washington is absurd. The Mother of Parliaments is too old to fawn upon a nurse. If Mr. Simpson uses this sort of language to describe the co-operative efforts of two great nations, and hints that the President of the United States can keep a Prime Minister in office when that Prime Minister's colleagues are anxious to be rid of him he must have a dangerously simplified notion of world politics and international relations. But, as we have already said, we have a high opinion of his abilities and have not previously found him guilty of any such foolish ideas.

The British are often criticised for their insularity, and it is true that many of them regard their islands as the hub of the universe. Only a British paper, when a fog descended on the English Channel, would use the headline "Continent Isolated." But we suggest that our American friends are also guilty at times of what we may call "continental insularity," and are inclined to exaggerate the significance of their country in world affairs. It needs no foolish exaggeration. The alliance of the United States is the assurance which the United Nations hold of ultimate victory. The wisdom and greatness of spirit which are characteristic of President Roosevelt are assurances to all men that the peace, when it comes, will be a wise and fair one. The spirit of the American people fills us with admiration. That is why we do not think it necessary for Mr. Simpson to attempt to snatch for his capital and his President honors which must remain in the gift of posterity, and suggest that the British Prime Minister holds his office at the pleasure of the chief executive of another state. And we also point out that Mr. Simpson's unfortunate disposal of importance leaves Russia out in the cold, and as yet neither Mr. Churchill nor Mr. Roosevelt has done quite as much to earn our gratitude as has Premier Stalin.

If ever there was a period of the world's history when tact was needed it is now. Why not add tact to your great gifts of perception, Mr. Simpson?

Women At Work

The task of preparing the temporary sugar rationing cards which will be distributed on July 1 will be undertaken by women's organizations in Canada which have volunteered for this work. During the past two weeks 500 women have been busy preparing for this gigantic labor, and from June 26 until June 30 tens of thousands of women will be engaged day and night in sorting and distributing. There are to be, in all Canada, 106 centres where information will be transferred from application forms to the ration cards.

In Peterborough this work will be undertaken by the C.W.V.S., an organization which is at present under sentence of death from Mr. Thorson. Before it goes into oblivion the local branch means to do one more good job, without pay and with little glory.

Since the outbreak of war women everywhere have shown the greatest desire to serve and to sacrifice for victory. Severe trials have been put upon the women of the occupied countries. The women of China have built roads and carried burdens. The women of Russia have fought in the field and in the air. The women of Canada have been given the unheroic and the drudging tasks and they have performed them with skill and devotion. We should take pains to keep our gratitude in good repair.

Language and Slanguage

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

NOBODY can keep a language from growing. New words are continually being added to it and of these some remain and some vanish after a short popularity. Old words die, some because they are no longer needed, and some because they are neglected. The new words are coined to fit new advances in science or politics, and some are simply matters of fashion. For instance, in our modern age of efficiency and super-salesmanship it is considered more fashionable and impressive to say that one has "contacted" a "prospect" rather than merely to say that one has visited a man. Let us hope that this phase of development will not trouble us for long.

One of the most entertaining and attractive elements of a growing language is its slang. The Oxford Dictionary defines slang, somewhat snobbishly, as "language of a highly colloquial type, considered as below the level of standard speech, and consisting either of new words or of current words employed in some special sense." Slang is quite unnecessary, but like many unnecessary things it would be a pity to be without it. An educated man can say anything he wants to say without using slang expressions, but often a slang phrase will save him much trouble and will make his meaning immediately vivid to his hearers. That is the chief use of slang—to give color and vivacity to language. When it is abused the effect is tedious, but slang used with taste and discretion can be a delightful thing. When Winston Churchill told Canada's Parliament "if they want to play rough we will show them that we can play rough too," he made a slang expression carry more meaning than his accustomed Gibbonian eloquence.

GOOD slang has a special flavor of its own; sometimes it is forceful, sometimes it is elegant; at is very best it is even poetic. It should always have a spice of wit. To say that a man and woman who have separated legally have been divorced is merely to state a fact; but to say that they have been "Reno-vated" implies an interesting criticism of their conduct. To describe a man as a keen business man is sufficient, but to call him a "go-ghetto" may be far more eloquent. And the man who calls his wife his "ball-and-chain" says in a phrase what Havelock Ellis strove to say in a book.

American slang is vivid, witty and constantly changing. It finds its way wherever English is spoken by means of the moving pictures. But the Americans have no monopoly on slang. Some excellent slang comes from England, or perhaps it would be more correct to say that it stays in England. Well-educated English people, in the main, do not use slang, and when they do so they are apt to use slang of a rather feeble variety. But the English working-class have a very fine slang of their own; it has an earthy quality not found in the American article. Much of it is trade slang, and much of it comes from sailors and soldiers who have picked up words of foreign languages and have pressed them into use in their own. And much of it is that peculiarly English invention, Rhyming Slang, which is entirely incomprehensible to the uninitiated. In this special slang "the apples and pears" simply means the stairs, Rosy Lee is tea, and "a bite of Jim Skinner" is a bite of dinner. A man's hat is his "this an'" (this and that) and his nose is his "I suppose." The object of Rhyming Slang is not to mystify, as you might think, but to add vivacity to language, and in the mouth of a Cockney it achieves this end.

TO THE slangy Englishman an inn or public house is likely to be a "boozer," and what he gets there is "a glass o' belch" or, if he does not think highly of the beer, "belly-vengeance." Indeed, drinking-slang is a special and rich department of English popular speech. Thus a man may drop into a "boozer" for a "rinse" and not leave until he is "drunk as a nurse at a christening"; the friends he meets will undoubtedly invite him to "soak his chaffer" or "read the maker's name," and if he wants beer they will ask the barmaid for a' 'loaf from the brewer's basket." If he should ask for a mixture of old and bitter ales, this refreshments is appropriately described as "mother-in-law." If he wants gin in his beer it becomes "dog's nose" for a reason which you may figure out for yourself, though neat gin is called "heartsease" or "strip-me-naked." Rum may be "a penn'orth of paradise," or "Nelson's blood." Brandy is "a ball of fire" or "cold tea"; Queen Anne, who consumed this comforting liquid in considerable quantities (she was known as Brandy-Faced Nan) always called it "cold tea," and drank it from a teacup. And so I might go on for a long time but, there is no space for such diffuseness.

There are two sorts of people who do not understand the proper use of slang. They are those who despise it and never use is, and those who cannot speak standard English and who use slang in and out of season. Slang is for occasions when the speaker is at ease, and when his waistcoat and his language are both unbuttoned. There is no vocabulary so fine that it may not be enriched with slang. The people who affect to despise it are missing one of the good things of life. Far better slang than a depleted and juiceless vocabulary of standard speech.

Unconsidered Trifles

At a local swimming bath this season a record number of husbands have taught their wives to swim. It must be the thrill of telling them to keep their mouths shut.

Said the countryman to the dentist: "I won't pay nothin' extra for gas. Just pull it out, even if it does hurt."

"You are very plucky, sir. Let me see the tooth."

"Oh, 'taint me that's got toothache; it's my wife. She'll be here in a minute."

"I want this photograph of my husband enlarged," said the woman to the photographer. "Now can you do it with his hat off?"

The photographer studied the portrait.

"Yes," he said at last. "I think I can manage to fake the hair all right. By the way, which side does he part his hair?"

The woman looked at him in blank surprise.

"Oh," she said, "I can't remember, but you'll be able to see that when you take his hat off."

Adolf Can't Wait Now

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

HITLER apparently has ordered his army commanders in Southern Russia and North Africa to get on at once with their bloody jobs, regardless of losses or risks.

Time is the one thing he dare not lose. His grandiose concept of smashing eastward against Russian and British forces simultaneously demands instant action, if victory is not again to elude him, perhaps forever.

Russian reports of the rising fury of German attacks led by massed tanks south of Kharkov make that appear for the moment the most crucial phase of the vast battle. The Nazi assault there has admittedly dented Russian lines, how deeply is unrevealed.

There is no indication, however, that a blitzkrieg breakthrough has been affected to split or roll up Marshal Timoshenko's army—an army that menaces the flank of any German attempt to sweep to the Don and around the Rostov corner. No claim of surging tanks plunging through the Russian lines to spread confusion and havoc behind them is voiced from Berlin.

And while the Russian front from Kharkov to the Sea of Azov remains intact, even if forced back here or there, and the outnumbered and perhaps doomed Russian defenders of Sevastopol fight on under their "Victory-or-Death" slogan, the full force of German might cannot be loosed against the Caucasus or against Egypt. Stunning as was the loss of Tobruk, terrific as the pressure is in Russia, the outcome still is in the balance—and with it probably Hitler's fate.

Cairo and London are still too engrossed with a post-mortem analysis of the Tobruk defeat to furnish a very clear picture of subsequent happenings. It seems clear, however, that British defense lines are bracing along the Egyptian border for an expected onslaught by Field Marshal Rommel.

Cairo reports that Rommel's victory-flushed but unquestionably battle-worn forces are already bombarding the coastal fortifications on the Egyptian border, and rushing southward for a wide turning movement.

Fortified British strong-points on the Libyan-Egyptian frontier fifty miles or more inland and beyond the supporting range of British naval guns were the indicated objective of the new Axis turning movement. The coastal terrain in the border area is difficult. It is also in range of the big guns of the British fleet. That region and its blood-drenched escarpment cut by "Hell-fire" Pass has been fought over repeatedly. Rommel well may plan to evade major hostilities there while his weary tank forces attempt to turn the British front from the south.

Until the scope and nature of Rommel's next move is more clearly defined, it must remain uncertain just where the British command proposes to make its stand. Much will depend also on the degree of Axis fatigue that is detected in preliminary skirmishes as the battle lines take shape.

The reinforced British 8th Army has the tremendous advantage of shorter and better communication lines. It is in a position to pick its own ground for a decisive test.

Rommel must be even less well prepared for it than his foes due to wear and tear on his men and machines. It's a reasonable deduction that if Hitler forces him to attack at once, he will be gambling all on British disorganization and lost morale rather than his own proved military judgment.

Whitehall Notebook

By DOUGLAS AMARON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 25 — (CP Cable)—Lord Reith, former chief of the British Broadcasting Corporation and the Ministries of Information, Transport and Works and Buildings, has joined the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve as a lieutenant comamnder.

The 6½-foot peer, who once commanded $45,000 a year as head of the British Overseas Corporation, now draws $6.10 a day and allowances. He is on the staff of the Rear Admiral commanding the coastal forces but the Admiralty says it hasn't "the slightest idea" what sort of a job he's doing.

His navy appointment recalled to friends a remark he made during the First Great War when he was visiting the United States. He was denouncing the Germans and his face, scarred at the Battle of Loos, had an even fiercer expression than usual.

When a woman suggested Lord Reith should remember the Biblical quotation, "Vengeance is mine," he retored, "Yes, vengeance is the Lord's, but I'd like to be one of his instruments."

CYCLING VISITOR

JOCK McGOVERN is in Ulster this week visiting North Ireland's members of parliament and industrial establishments. As usual, his method of travel in Belfast is by bicycle, and he arranged to have one waiting for him when he arrived.

A cyclist from away back, McGovern has pedalled through many European countries. Currently he is hoping to establish a branch of the I.L.P. in Belfast.

CLOTHING PROBLEMS

W. S. LIDDALL, oversized M.P. for Lincoln, recently complained to Commons that he coudn't buy any size 20 collars. His complaint received much publicity, with the result that a woman wrote that wartime living has so reduced her size 20-necked husband that he now takes size 17. She said she would let Mr. Liddall have eight of her dwindling hubby's biggish collars for a shilling apiece.

Now the question is does Mr. Liddall (fellow members call him "Henry the Eighth") have to surrender coupons for them?

PAGING AN EXPERT

HOUSE of Commons authorities, shocked at finding visitors in shirt sleeves desiring admittance to the Chamber, satisfied themselves with this syllogism:—

"The South Africans were in battle dress without a jacket. A jacket is not essential to battle dress. Therefore, the South Africans were fully dressed."

Now back to Commons: What's going to happen when an A.T.S. girl presents herself in shirt sleeves and rightly claims it's an authorized walking-out dress?

FACTUAL NOTES

R. A. CARY, Conservative, of Eccles, has been appointed parliamentary private secretary for the Indian office....Jenny Lee, wife of Anuerin Bevan, M.P., resigned from the I.L.P. because of its anti-war attitude....The treasury has instructed all government departments to cut down on the use of their cars and the mileage they travel....Alfred Duff Cooper has taken over the chairmanship of the Swinton (Hush Hush) committee, set up after the collapse of France to frustrate fifth column activities in Britain.

RETIREMENTS

SIR Noel Curtis-Bennett doesn't intend to let his retirement as treasury officer interfere with his activities for the national savings committee. His score to date: 350 speeches, 62 war-weapons or warship-week openings and 36,140 miles of travel to get all this work done.

George Dixey, whose shout "Taxoi" when calling cabs for M.P's became his nickname, is retiring after many years' duty at the members' entrance to Commons. "Taxoi," be it known, isn't a mispronounciation of "taxi" but an ingenious coalescing of the old London cry "Taxi, ahoy."

Economy and Chic

Demands for rigid economy in materials for women's clothing are not going to rob milady of her attractiveness and chic. Fashion authorities have, as usual, risen to the occasion, and have produced designs which make the most effective use of the goods still left to them.

The lines of women's styles will change; their smartness will remain. This is as it should be. The morale of womankind can be maintained if they can continue to have the consciousness that they are becomingly and fashionably gowned. They will put up with scarcity of materials, will sacrifice flounces and pleats, and thus achieve a saving of essential materials that will play a large part in the national war effort, so long as the style arbiters produce for them modes which continue to show off their attractions to good effect.

Letter To Editor

Dear Sir,—

I read with deep interest a column from the Kingston Whig-Standard published in your paper of June 18th. In this column the Presbyterian Record is scantly criticised for condemning Sunday radio advertising.

The following is a quotation from the column: "The editor in his leading editorial condemns Sunday radio advertising in a wholesale way. We admire his enthusiasm, but we are afraid that his arguments are neither very logical nor very consistent. It is just as annoying to many people to have a solemn service of worship and praise interrupted with a long list of announcements about this and that as it is to have advertising over the air."

Most of our announcements refer to the church activities and helpful philanthropic and social enterprises. Surely these are not a disruption or negation of worship. They emphasise and call people to work for God and man. We announce the Red Cross and community appeals, hospital auxiliary meetings, meetings of the W.C.T.U., appeals for blood donors and similar humanitarian and social efforts. What is wrong about this practice? Surely the church is the place to publish this news. These projects are mainly supported by Christian people anyway. These announcements should, says your column, be tacked up in the lobbies of the church. Let us try to imagine such a situation—a congregation jostling around a billboard instead of going home quietly with the word of God in their hearts.

The columnist goes on to say: "It seems to us that if, as the editor of the Record advocates, we should again emulate the zeal of the Master and throw the money-changers out of the temple, we might at the same time have to give some thought to the bazaar-pushers, the garden party advocates and others whose announcements referring to the commercial ventures of the church which seem to be necessary if our churches are to survive, are a feature of most church services."

What is wrong about a bazaar or a garden party that it should not be mentioned in church? Many women who have not much ready money to give will work strenuously in baking cakes and making garments to sell for the funds of the church and kindred organizations. We should be very slow to point the finger of scorn at them. They literally consecrate their physical energies to God. We should boost them by every means in our power. Jesus threw the money-changes out of the temple because they were grafters and entertainers. This passage of Scripture has been more often misused than any other incident in the Bible.

The crux of the matter comes out at the end of the Whig-Standard column: "The C.B.C. went into the advertising business when the public protested so vigorously against raising the license fee. The C.B.C. wanted $3.00. Parliament made it $2.50. It costs a lot of money to operate the C.B.C., and if the radio owners will not put it up the money must be found in some other way."

Why did not the columnist say this at the beginning? Advertising over the radio makes money, therefore it is quite legitimate for announcers to boost their wares on the Sabbath Day. In other words, whatever pays must be right.

We were glad to notice a few days ago Gladstone Murray announced that Sunday radio advertisements would be cut down in future. Long live the Presbyterian Record. It is a well edited paper. We hope that the editor will continue his effort to promote a Christian Sabbath. There are sinister forces in Canada that are continually seeking to commercialize the Sabbath. They are clever men and in one way or another they wish to break down the Christian conviction that as an institution it is a priceless asset in our civilization.

I am, Yours sincerely,

E. W. YOUNG.

Students Honor Principal On Departure

OMEMEE, June 25 — (ENS).—On Friday evening the students of Omemee High School were hosts to the ex-students and the members of the Board of Education, at a social evening, in honor of Mr. R. J. Moon, their principal, who has been granted leave of absence for the duration of the war.

The classroom in which the gathering was held was decorated with baskets of flowers. A source of great interest as the names of all the students who had attended the school since Mr. Moon came twelve years ago written on the blackboard. Red stars after over twenty names indicated those boys now known to be in the service of their country.

When the guests had assembled and the lusty ringing of the handbell called the boys from the ball diamond, Arthur Burritt, as chairman, welcomed the guests. The program began with Mr. R. B. Harle at the piano leading in the singing of patriotic songs.

Then the audience enjoyed a song by Harold Brooks accompanied by Eva Boate at the piano, and next a humorous poem dedicated to Mr. Moon, read by Donald Grandy. A quiz program of tricky questions under the direction of Marie Dick, assisted by Beth Magee, provided plenty of merriment for every one. Then followed a euphonium duet by Russel Weir and Bill Nurse. A rather unusual item was presented when a parliamentary debate took place as to whether or not Mr. Moon should leave this community.

Arthur Burritt was speaker of the House, Trevor Sandy and Jane Curtis spoke for the government, presenting the case for Mr. Moon's remaining, and Clayton Fee and Dorothy Brooks opposed the resolution. The discussion varied from eloquent gravity to witty nonsense and clever repartee, all much enjoyed by the "honorable members." When the account was taken, the speaker announced an overwhelming majority supporting Mr. Moon in his decision to devote his time to work vital to our war effort.

That question settled, Mr. Moon was presented with a mantel clock by Keith Bradley, and Mrs. Moon received a bouquet of Talisman roses, presented by Marie Dick. The following address was read by Ruth Paul, president of the Students' Association.

"Dear Mr. Moon:—We, your former and present students, have gathered this evening to express our deepest regrets on your departure. Some of us, no doubt, you will have forgotten, whereas, perhaps, there are others you wish you could forget. It is very hard to remember all who sat in these seats so many years ago, but no matter how many years elapse I am sure we will remember you and some of your favorite quotations.

When a number of us were away in the morning you would always assume that a dogfight was taking place. Stories of various people kept us from becoming bored during a brain-wracking algebra class. You will be away from the rough house of our noon hours at least.

We will all be looking forward to seeing you back shortly after peace is declared. We all hope it will not be long until you return after your duties there have been completed, but in your absence we will always regard you as our Mr. and Mrs. Moon. So, Mr. Moon, we want you to accept this gift and with it our best wishes, and to you, Mrs. Moon, we offer these as a token of our esteem.

We hope it will tick off thousands of happy moments for both of you and bring to your memory other happy times which you have enjoyed in this village.

Signed on behalf of the students and ex-students

Ruth Paul, Marie Dick.

Mr. Moon made a very suitable reply, thanking the students.

The following people spoke briefly, paying tribute to Mr. Moon's valuable contribution to the school and the community and extending their good wishes for his success: Mr. H. J. A. Jones, chairman of the Board, Rev. F. W. Pooley, Rev. L. M. Sharpe, Mr. D. Dart and Miss M. M. Faulkner of the staff of the Omemee Public School. Mr. R. B. Harle, teacher of music, Miss C. A. A. McQuade, the present assistant and acting principal in Mr. Moon's absence, and Dr. G. N. Earle.

Dorothy Brooks, accompanied by Elva Boate rendered a pleasing vocal solo and brought to a close a most enjoyable program. Refreshments were then served by the students.

This happy gathering provided a fitting opportunity for the school and those closely connected with it to express their appreciation of the accomplishments of Mr. Moon, who has been in Omemee twelve years. He and his family will be greatly missed, and are assured of a hearty welcome on their return.

U.K. Takes Over All Coal Mines

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 25 (CP)—The day of private ownership of British coal royalities is gone.

It was wiped out with the issuing of thousands of government compensation cheques in favor of royalty holders and totaling £66,450,000 $301,025,000). Henceforth the state owns coal royalties.

This step means the end of an era started in 1568. It is a major preliminary move in formation of a concrete government policy for administering the coal mining industry to the general benefit of miners and the war program at a time when Britain needs 10,000,000 more tons of coal annually than there is available.

In 1568 the English courts ruled in a case, Queen Elizabeth versus the Duke of Northumberland, that land-owners' rights extended to the centre of the earth; that owners were entitled to the minerals under their soil excepting silver and gold.

The decision assured thousands of fortunate property owners of thousands of pounds annually while somebody else worked the coal on their land.

From the buying-out date of July 1, ownership of all coal in Britain is vested in the coal commission on behalf of the state, and while collieries will continue to pay royalties, they will be paid to the treasury. As compensation for their loss of rights, royalty owners will share £66,450,000, the equivalent of 15 years' net royalty revenue at £4,430,000 a year.

GENERALS DEFEAT BRINTONS FOR FOURTH STRAIGHT VICTORY

Betty Jameson Grabs Lead Women's Open

CHICAGO June 25 (AP)—Betty ameson hit her old-time golfing form yesterday, and as word spread around the Elmhurst course the other seven survivors in the Women's Western Open agreed the Texas girl had become the "one to beat."

San Antonio Betty, twice a national champion, rolled down the first nine holes in 35 strokes, two under par, and took a 5-up lead on Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich. She took one of the next four holes and halved the others to crush Miss Wall, 6 and 5, and move into tomorrow's quarter finals.

Miss Jameson was grouped in the lower bracket with Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga., Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Ill., and Dorothy Foster of Springfield Ill. Betty's immediate concern is Miss Foster, her foe tomorrow, while Miss Kirby and Miss Cline will tangle.

One upper-bracket match tomorrow will be between Majorie Row of Detroit, Mich., and Virginia Ingram of Winnetka, Ill., and the other between Phylli Otto of Atlantic Iowa, and Sallie Sessions of Muskegon, Mich.

Miss Kirby, highly regarded Georgian, moved up by defeating Dorothy Ellis of Indianapolis, Ind., yesterday 7 and 5. Miss Cline long-driving 16-year-old girl, rallied after being one down at the turn to conquer 19-year-old Betty Brown of Texarkana, Ark., 1 up, in one of the two closest matches of the second round.

Miss Foster qualified for tomorrow's match against Miss Jameson with a 5-and-3 victory over Mrs. Charles Dennehy of Chicago.

The day's other battle was between Phyllis Otto and Georgia Tainter, the Fargo, N.D., youngster who entered eight winter tournaments and won four. They played even for the first nine holes, Miss Tainter won the tenth and fifteenth and Miss Otto the twelfth and fourteenth so they were still even on the seventeenth tee. But the Iowa girl took that hole with a birdie four and halved the final hole to win, one up.

Miss Sessions advanced with a 2-up triumph over Mary Wilder of Chicago, and Miss Ingram eliminated the 1941 Trans-Mississippi champion, Mrs. Russell Mann of Omaha, Neb., 4 and 3.

Marjorie Row, the Detroit girl who beat Medallist Eleanor Dudley in the first round yesterday, took her second-round match from Mrs. Frank D. Mayer of Chicago, 3 and 2.

SUCCESSFUL ROOKIE - By Jack Sords

SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR

By BLANCHE ROBERTS

THE STORY: Judith Kingsley is secretary to the president of an airplane factory. Her employer is sending her to the factory's west coast branch to investigate a "leak" in the organization. Boarding a westbound plane Judith sees Tom Burke, whom she loves and with whom she has quarreled. Tom is also bound for the west coast factory with plans for a new bomber. Before the plane leaves Judith sees two men watching Tom intently.

CHAPTER II.

"Comfortable?" inquired the air hostess, bending over Judith and smiling pleasantly.

"Oh, yes," she answered cheerfully, even though she felt depressed at the moment.

"May I get you something? Coffee or fruit juice?"

"Nothing, thank you." Judith had missed her lunch but she was not conscious of hunger; her mind was too busy with other thoughts.

The pretty girl turned to the man across the aisle and repeated her questions. Judith started at the sound of his voice. He spoke with a heavy accent, gruffly, as if he resented being bothered. When the hostess passed on, he looked at Judith. She smiled and for a moment it seemed he would not return her greeting. Then he grinned, breaking the stern expression of his face. But his eyes did not smile, only his mouth. Judith had heard of cold-blooded people and now, she was sure, she had met one.

"You like flying?" he asked, and his voice made her think of someone with a mouth full of mush.

"I think it is the only way to travel," she answered. She decided if the man thought she was easy to talk to, then she would not be taking too great a risk in speaking to Burke later and warning him to watch out for this fellow.

After a moment the man in the seat in front of her craned his neck to look at her. She tried the same winsome smile on him and it worked.

"Everybody on this plane will believe I am an easy pickup," she told herself. "But so much the better." She instantly averted her eyes and looked out the window.

As the miles flew swiftly by, Judith thought over the situation.

"Those men watching Tom know about the plans he is carrying. The blond one is a foreigner, and the one to fear. I don't know about the heavy man in front of me. He may be just a curious passenger."

She opened her purse and felt the small automatic there. Then her hand came in contact with a tiny package. She pulled it out to have a look and her eyes widened.

"Ye fishes!" she thought. "Helen's sleeping medicine she had me buy for her this morning." She lifted her eyes and looked at the back of the man's head in front of her.

"If he should make trouble and I got the chance, I could put him to sleep with this." She smiled at her childish plan and dropped the package back in her purse. She was supposed to be an intelligent investigator, not a silly girl.

She turned again to stare at Tom's seat and as she did, he turned his head and glanced backward. His dark eyes met hers in astonishment. A bright gleam flickered in them and died as she chose to ignore him.

He faced the front abruptly and she smiled, satisfied with the turn of events. The man across the aisle grinned at her, thinking probably that she had tried to flirt with the young man and been snubbed.

"At least, Tom knows I am aboard the ship. That will give him something to think about," she decided.

At sundown the hostess informed each passenger the next stop would be half an hour and there was an airport cafe if anyone cared to have a bite. Shortly after that, a light in the front of the ship flashed "Please fasten safety belts."

The big ship came down on the runway without a bounce, taxied back to the buildings and rolled to a stop. Judith was the first passenger off. But she lingered nearby to give Tom Burke an opportunity to reach the cafe first. She followed him in and sat down at the counter next to his stool.

"Please continue to be indifferent, but listen to me," she whispered as the other two men took places at the far end of the counter by the door.

Burke half turned his head and stared at her serious face. There was inquiry in the lift of his brows and disturbing sparks in his eyes that made her heart beat unevenly. He toyed with the glass of water before him while he asked from the corner of his mouth:

"Why are you here, Judith?"

"On business—not following you," she said curtly.

"Oh!" The way he said the word was maddening.

"You're horrid, Tom," she said, her cheeks burning. "Mr. Watson is sending me to the coast to check on the office force there. But that's beside the point. I'm sure one or both of those men at the end of the counter are interested in you or the plans of that bomber. I thought you might like to know."

But he did not bother to glance where she indicated.

"One sits behind you and the other across the aisle."

Still he did not act as if he believed there was any truth in her suspicions. After that she ignored him, even when he asked:

"Don't you feel anything sitting here by me?"

She could have slapped him for asking that question. Of course she felt something—that same old quickening of the pulse and breathlessness that made her weak in the knees. She wanted to forget the quarrel and feel safe once more in his arms.

Between bites of food he said, "Thanks for the warning, darling. I more than appreciate your interest." There was a twinkle in his eyes that infuriate her.

"I don't want anything to happen to the plans," she said sweetly.

He deliberately turned and grinned at her. He was so much better looking when he smiled. She gave her stool a spin and slid to the floor. Without a backward glance she walked to the cashier, paid her check and left the cafe, red head in the air.

She paused outside the ship to have a smoke in the crisp evening air. She was just lighting it when a hand was put to her elbow and the cigaret taken from her mouth. Before she realized what was happening, she was pushed into the cabin of the plane.

"Just what do you know about the plans and who told you? It was a secret." Tom's voice was low and his hand was warm and firm on her arm.

"Mr. Watson told me. He thinks there is a leak in the company and I'm on my way to investigate the office force at the factory." She looked squarely into his face, chin up. "Something tells me the foreigner knows you have the plans."

"Well, don't worry your beautiful little head, honey," he told her, and his own head bent towards hers.

She stepped back instantly.

"I am merely minding my job," she said cuttingly and sat down.

"Then I'll ignore you."

Burke moved on to his place, but

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The winner of tonight's City Softball League clash at Riverside Park between Royals and Soldiers will climb a notch in the standing. A win for Royals would put that outfit up into second spot. On the other hand if the boys from the Military Training Centre come down in front they will go up into third place in the loop race and shoot the Royals down into fourth position. There is plenty at stake and the game should prove one of the best in a season that has already produced a lot of interesting clashes. The league standing is as follows:

Plazas	5	2	.714
Luckies	3	2	.600
Royals	3	2	.600
Soldiers	3	3	.500
Juveniles	0	5	.000

It will either be Irish Kilfoyle or Lefty Fleming on the firing line for the Soldiers in tonight's battle while Bill Fraser is the logical starter for Royals. The game will be staged at Riverside Park starting at seven o'clock and it looms up as about the evenest looking proposition the City League schedule has produced in a long time.

* * * * * *

The other Girls' Softball League teams had better soon discover a way to stop this C.G.E. Generals' crowd or Mike O'Brien's club will be operating in a division by itself with the rest of the outfits as another. The Generals won their fourth game without a defeat so far last night when they triumphed over Brintons 15 to 5. The winners were without Marilyn McCarthy and Bea McDowell but even the absence of those stalwarts did not seem to bother them any. Norma Strickland had too much stuff for the losers and was given fine support while the Brinton defence fell apart at the seams and the losers kicked in with a total of ten errors. Elinor Craig continues to supply a lot of the offensive punch for Generals. She had four hits, including a homer and a double in last night's fracas. With her consistent hitting and such dangerous batters as Marilyn McCarthy and Bea McDowell in the line-up Generals pack a lot of power. Tomorrow night they will meet Westclox for the second time this season and it should be a good argument. The Big Bens made it close in the first clash between the two.

* * * * * *

The attraction in the Men's Softball loop Friday night brings together Juveniles and Luckies, and that promises to be another good battle. Luckies just did manage to beat the kids last time out, pushing over the winning run in the ninth inning and the Juveniles are hopeful of reversing that result tomorrow night. The Griffin club, however, has been strengthened by the addition of Bill Moorhead and rumors have it that they will have Mowry, hard-hitting Royals' catcher in action with them tomorrow night. The story has it that Mowry and the Royals have agreed to part and that the backstop will throw in his lot with Luckies. In any case the club is now a strong aggregation and they are tough opposition for the Juveniles. The youngsters, however figure that the law of averages makes it certain that they cannot keep on giving every club they meet a battle without finally breaking into the win column.

Braves Turn On Cards

The morale of the St. Louis Cards seems to have been shot by the Brooklyn debacle that saw them drop four out of the five games played in last week's series. Anyway the Boston Braves who haven't been beating anybody lately turned on the Southworth gang yesterday and handed them two trimmings. Bill Tobin who had been beaten seven times in a row pitched the first game for the Braves and Boston won handily by 6 to 2 with Gumbert the losing Card twirler. Willard Donovan, a rookie from Evansville who hadn't been able to win a game for the Braves before was the successful heaver in the second game holding the Cards to five hits as the Boston outfit won 3 to 1. Ernie White only allowed six blows but lost the verdict.

* * * * * *

The Yanks won their second game in a row yesterday when they defeated Johnny Niggeling and the St. Louis Brownies 6 to 4. The New Yorkers were outhit 15 to 12 and Fireman Johnny Murphy had to be called in to save the day for Marvin Breuer but after all they still pay off in runs and the Yanks had two more than their opponents at the finish. There were two whitewashes in the American loop yesterday. Cleveland scored one at the expense of Toronto's Dick Fowler when they defeated the A's by 9 to 0. Al Milnar held the A's to five scattered blows and helped his own cause with a homer. That sensational rookie Les Fleming also poled a four-master, his eighth of the season. Chicago White Sox blanked Washington 6 to 0 with Humphries pitching effectively. Tom Turner had his first homer of the season and he picked a spot with the bases loaded to drive the ball out of the park. Wynn was the losing Washington twirler.

Soldier Teams May Meet

As a feature of Army Week next week a softball game between the Military Training Centre club of the City Softball League and a team from the 4th Battery with the proceeds to go to some worthy war service cause is mooted. The Artillerymen number in their ranks some good performers on the softball diamond and they believe they can muster a team that would give the boys from the big camp a real battle. There will be a definite announcement in regard to the game in a day or so. Incidentally another challenge is being hurled around. The members of the Provost staff at the Military Training Centre have organized a softball club and according to the way they report it they walloped the officers of the camp in a game the other day. So far headquarters has declined either to deny or confirm the report. At all events the Military Police would like to battle the city police in a softball game for the Spitfire Fund so it's all up to Chief Newhall's brigade.

Ted Williams, power-house of the Boston Red Sox undoubtedly has the range of the Detroit stands accurately taped. Williams hadn't hit a homer for nearly a month when the Sox blew into Detroit day before yesterday but he proceeded to slam his 16th of the season out of the park. Last night he came through with No. 17 and as a result Boston won the tightest kind of a game from the Bengals 1 to 0. Williams also had a double and a single. Charlie Wagner held the Tigers to three hits in chalking up the shutout. The loss was chalked up against Virgil Trucks. A home run won the other night game when Bert Haas came through with a circuit clout in the tenth frame to give Cincinnati a 4 to 3 decision over the New York Giants. Bucky Walters hung up his ninth win of the season while Hal Schumacher was beaten after winning four games in a row for the Giants.

Carpetmakers Allowed Only Five Hits

C.G.E. Generals won their fourth straight game in the Girls' Softball League at the Bowl Wednesday night, defeating Brintons 15 to 5. Manager Mike O'Brien's team are undefeated this season.

Norma Strickland was on the hilltop for the winners and had little trouble in keeping the Carpetmakers under control. She allowed only five hits, no two in an inning and struck out ten batters. Generals played good ball in the field behind this steady pitching, with Elinor Craig setting the pace by handling eight chances at second base without a skip.

Leila Hughes did the tossing for the losers and was the victim of some very loose support on the part of her teammates who kicked in with ten erorrs and most of them were costly.

Elinor Craig led the assault for Generals coming through with a homer, a double, and two singles in six trips to the plate. Agnes Weir was the only member of the Brinton team to get more than one hit. She had two singles.

Both teams scored a run in the first. C.G.E. got their counter after two were out on singles by Phyllis Bigelow and Elinor Craig and Norma Strickland.

Brintons came back with one in their half on a single by Agnes Weir followed by a high throw to third.

Generals went out in front in the third when May Wade got a life on an error, stole second and scored on Elinor Craig's single. In the fourth, singles by Ruth Hewitt and P. McQuaide and an outfield error gave the winners another counter and they added two more in the fifth on a pass to P. Bigelow, Elinor Craig's double over third and a single by Ruth Hewitt.

An error and an infield out were responsible for another in the sixth. In the seventh P. Bigelow was safe on an erorr and Elinor Craig homered to the cars in left to send a pair in. Then Ruth Hewitt was safe on a fumble and eventually scored on P. McQuaide's hit.

Brintons got a pair in the eighth after having been blanked since the first frame. Nellie Smith walked, M. Barrie struck out, A. Weir drew a pass. M. Batley grounded to first and Nellie Smith scored and E. Basciano singled to centre to score Agnes Weir. Leila Hughes got a life on a missed third strike but Doris Walker popped to Norma Strickland.

The ninth frame was a weird mix-up with a couple of plays getting away from the umpires to make it worse. As a result of it all the Generals chased six runs over on three hits, Brintons making five errors, three on one play.

Brintons got two back in their half on three walks and a single by Helen English.

With the defeat of E. Wall's rink by R. Payne's boys it leaves B. Chesler's quartette the only undefeated rink in the club. Just how long that state of affairs will exist, we don't know but we do know it tightens up the race in group one.

We notice by the scores that there must have been a couple of close games.

In the afternoon the boys staged a little doubles tournament all their own. The had twelve entries and appeared to have a good time.

The results:

R. Herman and J Cullen, first; R Downey and H Darling, second; B. Chesler and I. Moldaver, third. All received War Savings Stamps.

Our club was well represented at Cannington yesterday afternoon and evening at their annual open tournament for men's rinks.

The entry was a little smaller than in former years but considering everything it was a fair turnout.

H. R. Martin was successful in landing a second place. The other two skips, G. Gimblett and R. Bacon were just a little short. The rink was: P. Moore, J. McDonald, J. Matthews, H. R. Martin, skip. Second. each received War Savings Stamps.

Scores:

R. F. Downey	20	J. Harrison	19
T. McMillan	14	R. Hendry	12
C. Renaud	24	W. Jeffries	16
R. Payne	20	E. Wall	14

Harris Back For All-Star Tilt

NEW YORK, June 25—(AP). — Tanned by the tropical sun and filled with tales of army life, Mickey Harris, the former southpaw pitcher of Boston Red Sox, is home from the Canal Zone to pitch for the Service Stars in the All-Star spectacle at Cleveland, July 7.

The 25-year-old baseball star, now is a private in a coast artillery unit and a soldier in speech as well as appearance. He would rather tell you how the guardians of the Panama Canal are itching for a chance to fight than to talk about the no-hit game he pitched last winter in the Canal Zone's baseball league.

But he is obviously proud of being selected on Lieut. Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane's Army-Navy squad and joyous over his 30-day furlough which has given him a few days at the home of his parents here before beginning training at the Great Lakes naval station Sunday.

"I'm in good shape," he said today, "and I hope that I get to pitch a part of the All-Star game. When Mickey told me I would be on the squad he said he couldn't promise me I would get into the game, but I don't guess they would bring me all the way up from Panama for nothing.

"I think we've got a good chance of winning. Our team looks good to me with Feller and Rigney pitching and Greenberg and Travis and those other hitters.

"I played about twice a week during the winter and pitched a couple of one and two hitters besides the no-hit game. I'd say the league was about a fast Class B circuit. The independent teams had some pretty good minor league stars from this country. But the season closed about a month ago and I haven't pitched since."

Harris brought along the baseball uniform he wore for his Coast Artillery team and revealed that in the All-Star game each Service man will play in the uniform of his army or navy unit.

Knights Smother Barons 21 to 10

Knights of Columbus defeated the Barons 21 to 10 Wednesday night to shove the East City team deeper down into the Catholic League cellar.

Mongraw on the mound for the Barons was touched up for 25 hits. The Knights were teeing off and Masterson led the attack with a double and four singles while Galvin slammed out two doubles and a pair of singles.

Guerin and McLean had two hits each for the losers. Casey Masterson in left field for Knights shone with several catches that robbed Barons of what looked like sure hits.

HALLETT SHOWS CLASS PITCHING LEAFS TO EASY WIN OVER WINGS

Strikes Out Ten; Chiefs Shade Orioles 3-2 In 11

By The Associated Press

Jack Hallett, 200-pound Maple Leaf right-hander, is beginning to show the form predicted of him ever since he entered organized baseball in 1934.

The former Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia Athletics moundsman, who is staging a comeback in the International League, has been the victim of a number of bad breaks. Three of his seven setbacks have been by one run, including a 1-0 affair, and in another his mates also failed to score.

Hallett's four victories all have been red letter accomplishments, the latest a five-hit 4-2 triumph over Rochester Red Wings last night in which he struck out 10 men. His other three winning jobs include a two-hit shutout over Montreal Royals, a 12-inning victory over Baltimore Orioles and a 7-2 triumph over Jersey City Giants in which he also hit a home run to put his team in the lead.

Last night's game was tied 2-2 going into the seventh when Al Jurisich, Wing hurler, walked three straight Toronto batters and was removed in favor of Lou Sakas. But Bob Latshaw singled and two runs came in which won the game.

Rubber-armed Tom Delacruz relieved Ewell Blackwell and pitched three hitless innings to give Syracuse Chiefs an 11-inning 3-2 victory over Baltimore Orioles.

Elmer Burkart, Oriole pitcher, had a one-hit shuout until the eighth when he allowed three hits which tied the score, 2-2. Burkart was relieved in the 11th after Al Lakeman tripled, but was charged with the defeat as Chico Rodriguez singled off Ken Trinkle, who had replaced him.

Montreal Royals defeated Buffalo Bisons, 9-6, in the only other game played. Chet Kehn, who relieved Cowboy Jack Kraus, was the winning pitcher

The Royals scored four times in the first inning, but the Bisons pecked away and had a one-run lead going into the last of the seventh, when the Royals scored three times to clinch the decision.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By MAURICE DESJARDINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, June 25—(CP). — Ten to Ace, Canada's wonder horse, is described by Owner Harry Giddings, of Oakville, Ont., as "one of those freaks that come along one in ten years of racing." Interviewed by Herb (Winnipeg Tribune) Manning, Giddings said that the Ace gave everything he had from the start. "Most of his workouts," he added, "are faster than the average good horse will run in actual competition. There's nothing you can do about it. He just loves to run." Ten to Ace is favored to cop the Canadian Derby at Winnipeg July 1.

Chip Off Old Block

Don Smith, Junior, 15, son of the old Wanderers and Renfrew hockey star, pitched a no-hitter for a Juvenile baseball team in Montreal and scored his team's only run on a squeeze play. He's quite a hockey player, too....Margaret Esson, who astouned experts when she won the Saskatchewan women's golf title at 15, has been transferred by her bank to Vancouver, where she will have the advantage of year-round fairway activity.... The citizens of Fairbanks, Alaska, stage dtheir annual midnight ball game on Sunday, no reflectors being needed there at midnight on the "longest day of the year".... Gordon Sastell, Canadian free style swimming champ, will come out of retirement for the medley relays at the National Championship, to be held at Ste. Adele, Que.

A Tip to Turfmen

Eighty-five-year-old G. K. Allen is still going strong as a race track employee. Here is his advice to prospective horse owners: "Buy horses with an eye on their earning capacity, not their looks. The best buys are the $15,000 to $20,000 kind. But who has that kind of money now? It's a great game though, whether with cheap platers that cause you trouble and worry or stake horses that can make you fret just as much."

Thisa and Date

Australian Airman Ronnie Richards picked up his tennis racquet after a two-year layoff and ousted seeded player Jimmy Duff from a tournament held for war charities in Montreal....Jimmy is a brother of the late Lewis Duff, R.C.A.F. pilot killed in an air collision a few months after being defeated by Don McDiarmid in the Canadian net finals in 1940....Eb Collings, 26-year-old Winnipeg pro hockey star, with Providence Reds last season, has volunteered for service in the Royal Canadian Air Force. He turned pro in 1940 with Philadelphia Ramblers.

Armstrong Beats Rangel In Ten

OAKLAND, Calif., June 25—(AP) —Former triple boxing champion Henry Armstrong tucked another notch in his comeback belt last night when he defeated Sheik Rangel, tough Fresno, Calif. welterweight, in a bruising 10-round encounter.

The stocky Los Angeles negro who once held the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight titles at the same time, hardly resembled the perpetual motion fighter of a few years ago. He hammered his rival, however, from start to finish to win a clear-cut decision.

There were no knockdowns.

Armstrong, who came out of retirement two weeks ago after a 14 month layoff, weighed 145½ pounds and gave away two pounds to his opponent.

Claude Passeau, Walters Bid Mound Honors

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Those two hardy perennials, Claude Passeau and William (Lucky Bucky) Walters are bidding strongly for the pitching leadership of the National League again.

This year most of the attention in the senior circuit has been given to Mort Cooper, St. Louis Cardinals, with his five shutouts, and Lefty Larry French of Brooklyn Dodgers, with his unmarred record of six victories and an earned run average of less than one per nine innings.

But Passeau and Walters made their claims heard anew last night with standout performances.

Passeau pitched a four-hitter for Chicago Cubs to beat Philadelphia Phils 3-1 and attain his 11th victory, the most games any pitcher in the major leagues has won. Hurling for a second-division club he has been at a disadvantage, yet has accounted for exactly one-third of all the victories the Bruins have scored this season.

Walters also has had little help from his teammates, with Cincinnati ranking last in the league in both batting and fielding, yet he has been consistently good and held the New York Giants to six hits over 10 innings last night to lead the Reds to a 4-3 decision in a twilight game.

It was Bucky's eighth success against five setbacks. He had a duel all the way with Hal Schumacher and a two-run homer by Frank McCormick, his 10th tied the score in the eighth inning and another round-tripper by Rookie Bert Haas in the overtime stanza settled the issue.

The Reds' triumph coincided with a double defeat for St. Louis Cardinals to close the gap between second and third place to a single game.

The Red Birds were beaten 6-2 and 3-1 at Boston by the Braves as Jim Tobin and Rookie Willard Donovan turned in two nice pitching jobs. Tobin was tapped for 11 hits, but kept them spaced and collected his first victory since May 13. Donovan allowed only five hits in gaining his first Major League triumph.

In the American League New York Yankees captured their second straight decision over St. Louis Browns, 6-4. The champions, outhit 16-12, made up for this deficiency with four double plays, running their total to 92 for 64 games.

Broadway Charley Wagner came up with his second 1-0 victory in a row as Boston Red Sox stopped Detroit Tigers on his three-hit hurling. Wagner's previous victory was the celebrated 1-0 defeat of Edgar Smith and the Chicago White Sox on Dom DiMaggio's inside-the-park home run. Yesterday's victory also came on a home run, this one Ted Williams' 17th of the season and second in two days.

Lefty Al Milnar organized a five-hit 9-0 shut-out of Philadelphia Athletics for Cleveland Indians. He had the backing of a 15-hit attack on three Philadelphia hurlers, getting a home run himself along with Les Fleming's eighth circuit clout.

Combines Crush St. Kitts 19 to 7

TORONTO, June 25 — Mimico-Brampton Combines maintained their winning gait in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series last night by crushing St. Catharines Athletics, defending Canadian champions 19-7 at Mimico boxla stadium.

A crowd of about 700 fans turned out for the first Mimico "home" game of the Combines and watched a spirited contest which reached a climax in the third quarter when Wandy McMahon of the visitors and Jim Mullis dropped their sticks and traded punches. Mickey McDonald and Tank Teather also earned displeasure of the officials and were given misconduct penalties.

Pacing the winners was Arch Dixon, Fred Hatton, Scoop Hayes, Jim Mullis nd Pete Anthony. Anthony's goaltending was good enough to break the hearts of the St. Kitts snipers. Gus Madsen and Wandy McMahon were the pick of the Athletics. It was the second straight loss for the Canadian titlists.

St. Catharines—Goal, Whittaker; defense, C. Madsen and Wright; rover, Mackie; centre, Coles; wings, Teather and Morton; alternates, Garriock, Nelson, McDonald, McMahon Whitley.

at the recent Ottawa air training conference.

The United Kingdom will supply 40 per cent of the air crew recruits to be trained in Canada under the plan, leaving 60 per cent of the recruits to be supplied by Canada, Australia and New Zealand, the agreement showed.

In the plebiscite debate, Elphege Marier (Lib. Montreal-Cartier) said that while his constituency had voted "yes" in the plebiscite to free the government from no-conscription promises, he would oppose the bill because that vote was not a mandate for overseas conscription.

If he felt cnoscription was necessary to win the war he would vote for it, said Mr. Marier, but he believed Canada needed its men at home to defend the Dominion.

Poirier Also Opposes It

Another French-Canadian, J. Alphee Poirier (Lib., Bonventure), also opposed the bill although, representing a constituency which had supported Liberal principles for 53 years, he opposed the Government with regret.

"It is easy to see that it is high finance that is influencing the will of the Government and forcing it to bring in such a bill," said Mr. Poirier.

His county was loyal and patriotic and had furnished 2,000 volunteers out of a population of 42,000, but it would oppose overseas conscription because it feared such a method would destroy the war effort and disrupt the defence of Canada.

Labor Minister Mitchell will be the first speaker when the debate is resumed today.

Col. Mulock warned against any feeling of unjustifiable optimism and declared the danger was pressing in upon Canada with more than a possibility of attack in force on the West coast.

Death or slavery was the price Canada would pay for failure to be on the winning side, and the enemy were in deadly earnest in their determination to conquer.

The Government should be given freedom to make whatever disposition of Canadian troops and Canadian manpower that knowledge of the situation dictated.

"I believe the amendment is necessary for the protection of this country and for the protection of our volunteers overseas," he said. "I do not believe conscription should be put into effect unless it is going to assist and strengthen the war effort—and at this time I do not believe it would do so."

Capt. White compared Canada's attitude with that of the United States, where conscription without limitation was effective "within a matter of minutes" after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

"And in imposing conscription for anywhere in the world, the United States did not seek to appease any one section of that great nation, neither did they sit on the fence."

Scores St. Laurent Speech

Capt. White critized the speech of Justice Minister St. Laurent in which Mr. St. Laurent declared it was not the accepted duty of French-Canadians to fight abroad for another power.

The fighting which Canadians might be called upon to do abroad was for Canada's very existence and if it could be won abroad it would save the Dominion from the slaughter, bloodshed and destruction that was entailed.

"In all democratic countries there are people who are only too willing to accept all the right, advantages and privileges of free citizenship but when war comes they are the first to find excuses for staying home." It had not been claimed by the Justice Minister that Quebec did not wish to dominate but only demanded recognition "as full partners and full citizens anywhere and everywhere in Canada."

"Will the minister deny that members from his province have had their fair share in the government and direction of affairs of this country?" Capt. White asked.

"The minister himself holds the most important portfolio after that of the Prime Minister."

Canadians of French origin had received a fair share of everything Canada had to offer and their rights had been presered. Those rights would disappear at once if Germany won. Yet many of them were opposing an all-out effort.

"I say to them that if they persist in that course they are going to leave the Dominion such a legacy of hate, distrust and suspicion that no one sitting in this House will ever again, during his lifetime, see even a semblance of unity in this country."

A Liberal member shouted "Shame on you."

Capt. White proceeded: "Apparently the view of national unity held by members from Quebec is that the other eight provinces must bow to their will.

"For Their Own Benefit"

"For years the province of Quebec has held the balance of power in this Dominion and they have used that position for their own benefit.

"I, for one, say that the end of this has come. No longer are the eight other provinces of Canada going to be dominated by the province of Quebec. If this matter is to come to a show down, the sooner the better."

Joseph Bradette (Lib. Cochrane) interjected: "Is that not shameful "

Capt. White: "I say to you honorable members that today you are sowing seeds of bloodshed and revolution in this country."

Edouard Lacroix (Lib. Beauce): "That is what you are trying to do."

Mr. Bradette shouted: "The most shameful speech I have heard in this House."

Capt. White retorted: "The honorable member will hear many more like it."

He concluded: "Let us be frank and tell the people the real truth.

"The real truth is that to date we have lost the war ever since it started and have not even held our own."

Mr. Picard said there were "extremists and demagogues" in Quebec who were having some apparent success "who will appeal to prejudice in the same way as my honorable friend (Capt. White) did a moment ago."

But "these people do not represent Quebec any more than the honorable gentleman represents English speaking Canada I hope."

He appealed for tolerance and reason and for help so that "we can curb the speeches of those people who try to do in Quebec what the honorable gentleman did here this afternoon."

Want Full Share

Mr. Picard claimed that Quebec only needed to be given a full share in National enterprise to bring about complete unity and willingness to share in all liabilities. That method of dealing with the problem had not been attempted.

It was true, Mr. Picard said, that Canada did not have a "true national sentiment," and, he added, "nor will it have as long as French Canadians—and I admit it for my own part—consider their province to be their country, and as long as English Canadians talk of the ways of Empire and of Britain, rather than Canada.

"My mind and my heart have been torn asunder on the vote to be given on the measure before us and I am not ashamed to admit it . . . .

"I admit that I would have no repulsion to extending conscription for overseas service if I were conscientiously convinced that it was needed in the interests of our own country.

"As things are at the moment I cannot come to that conclusion. I have no such conviction. On the contrary I think it would hamper our war effort and make it less efficient."

Board Demands

nouncement said "Under the present order beef of lower quality must be sold at appropriate reductions from the maximum prices of the highest quality. An attempt will be made to specify what reduction is appropriate for certain defined grades of beef."

At the same time, the board issued a statement giving further details of the operation of Wartime Food Corporation Limited in providing beef cattle for the domestic market. General principles of the Government - owne corporation's methods were announced last week by Donald Gordon, chairman of the board.

Under the new setup, designed to relieve beef shortages reported from many Canadian centres because of increased domestic demand and a strong export movement, exporters of beef cattle must obtain a licence from the corporation, "giving such information as required."

The exporter must then notify and obtain written authorization to do so. All such cattle are subject to purchase by the corporation "upon such terms as it may prescribe." If the United States quota is unfilled, the price paid by the corporation for cattle destined for the United States will be equivalent to the United States price.

The order covering these terms of sale is effective to-day and prohibits export of cattle other than those designated in written authorization issued to licencees. No person "may transport or permit transport beyond any Canadian border of cattle other than those authorized to be exported."

"It is further provided that any person owning or having control of any cattle shall, when required by the corporation, sell to it or to a designated representative any or all of such cattle on terms and conditions prescribed by the corporation," the board said. "No owner may withhold such cattle from sale to the corporatio nor sell them to anyone else."

Berlin Scoffs at 2nd Front.

Prospects for a second Allied front in Europe this year drew scoffing comment from the German press yesterday and neutral observers in Berlin expressed belief Hitler plannd a vast extension of the armed effort in both Russia and North Africa, advices via Switzerland said.

Telephone service from the Nazi capital was interrupted overnight, recalling similar manipulation of communications in the nerve wars which preceded lowland, Balkan, and Russian invasions.

Breaking a period of apparently bemused silence concerning London and Washington reports of a possible second front in 1942, Propaganda Minister Goebbels declared in the weekly newspaper Das Reich that they "can only be received with a smile by those who are informed of the real facts of the situation."

Swiss correspondents said the Germans — who have a transport problem of their own—relied largely on U-boat warfare to break up the shipping concentrations necessary for invasion.

They reported the consensus of neutral diplomatic and informed observers was that Germany would be able to wage war for another year; that the main onslaught to come would be against Soviet Russias "unbelievably immense stocks of men and material."

Perhaps bearing upon expected military developments it was announced in Ankara that Sergei Alexandrovich Vinogradov, Soviet Ambassador to Turkey, has been called home to Moscow for consultation.

launched an offensive against Axis shipping in the Mediterranean, with special emphasis on Tobruk.

Whether the Allies can attain and hold control of the skies in the battle for Egypt is a question still to be decided. It was conceded that the R.A.F. losses over Libya were heavy, but Axis losses were heavier —93 enemy planes up to June 17.

(In London, The News-Chronicle suggested editorially that the R.A.F. fly 10 per cent of the bombers now standing by in Britain to Egypt in an effort to turn the tide of the African campaign.)

Full support for the British armed forces was pledged meanwhile by Egyptian Premier Nahas Pasha, who told the Chamber of Deputies the Government is determined to fulfil its treaty obligations. The Premier said the situation "is grave, but not so serious as at the same time last year."

(Dispatches from Australia said Gen. Douglas MacArthur had cabled encouragement to the British Commander in Chief in Egypt, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, saying: "You can do it. You can still fight your way through. Remember Wellington.")

Akyab Peppered

NEW DELHI, India, June 25 — (AP).—The R.A.F. announced today that it bombed the Burmese port of Akyab yesterday for the second successive day, striking a wharf and buildings with bombs which tossed debris 100 feet into the air.

The Akyab and wireless building were machine gunned .

Successful Box Social Provides Good Entertainment

BONARLAW, June 25—(ENS).—Friday evening the young people of St. Mark's Church, Bonarlaw, held a box social. There was a good attendance and a splendid program was arranged after which the sale of the boxes took place, with Mrs. Charlie Wellman as auctioneer. One beautiful box in the form of a house brought $2.45. The boxes were all beautiful forms of baskets and hearts, and sold for $1.00 or more. Those without boxes were served with a lunch of biscuits and cheese and coffee. The entire proceeds were $20.

Unusual

On Sunday morning while Jack Prest was riding on the back of Wellman's milk truck, he noticed a beautiful doe in the pasture near the road. It was seen later in a nearby meadow as contented as an ordinary cow.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

NEW DIRECTRESS

Mrs. Maj. Howlett has been appointed to George Street Soldiers' Recreational Centre in place of Mrs. Maj. Godden. Major and Mrs. Godden have been assigned to the military camp at Woodstock.

AT CONVENTIONS

Morley Shaver, city treasurer, is attending the convention of the Municipal Financing Officers Association at Buffalo this week, and Ross Dobbin, manager of the Peterboough Utilities is in Chicago attending another convention.

COLLEGIATE CADET CORPS

Members of the Collegiate Cadet Corps who are going to camp at Connaught Ranges are requested to be at the store room at the Collegiate Institute and Vocational Training School tonight at 7.00 o'clock in order to be measured for uniforms.

BIG ANNUAL OUTING

Members of the Corinthian Chapter, A.F. and A.M. are hoping the weather will have warmed up for Friday night. That evening the members are holding their annual excursion on the steamer Stoney Lake, down the Otonabee river. The boat leaves the wharf at 6.30.

EARLY IN THE MORNING

Firemen responded to calls for two chimney fires this morning. The first call came in at 8.04 a.m. from T. McCartney, 223 George street. The second was received at 9.45 a.m. when another chimney fire was reported at the home of C. Fitzgerald, 282 Sherbrooks street. Damage in both cases was negligible.

THESE ARE HIT TOO

Purses and luggage valued at more than $1.00, jewelry, either real or imitation, valued at over 50 cents, both have a 25 per cent tax in the new budget, and the taxes are effective now. Alarm clocks costing more than $1.00, pottery and fine china ornaments, are also hit, and the tax on playing cards is raised from 15 to 20 per cent.

MORE BABY FISH

Charlie Kingan reported today that workmen from the Deer Lake fish hatchery had deposited a large quantity of bass fingerling in the following spots on Wednesday of this week: Indian River, Lovesick, Young's Point, Big Cedar, Mink, Tallons, Trout, Jacks, Loon, Long and in Eel's lake.

BIGGER SPECKLES

Buck Guerin and Gordon Poolman both report that the speckled trout in Kelly's creek up in centre Dummer are getting bigger and better. The water is low enough now for the fishermen to spot the deep pools and no time is wasted. Poolman caught one 12½ inches long that weighed a pound and a quarter, and Guerin reports he knows a pool in this creek where there are speckled trout 18 inches long.

BUILD ROADS FIRST

It was announced today that the sewers, water mains and roads for the Wartime Houses on the Hatton property will be completed before the building of the houses commences. The experience of the builders at Burnham's Point and, at Parkhill Road was a distresing one as far as roads were concerned and this new plan will not only assist the contractor who build the houses but will give a larger measure of convenience to the tenants.

THEY WANT WORK, TOO

On Friday afternoon, the Public and Separate schools of the city will turn lose a young army of girls and boys who want jobs. For them the school term will be over until September and many of them, strong and husky for their age are seeking jobs, both to secure a little money and to help start Hitler and Tojo on the long slide to pit of defeat.

WANT TO STAY

The impossible has actually happened. School children have begged to be allowed to stay and work after school. Miss Marion Wray, of King Edward School, had just finished reading her Grade 1 class a poem which they were going to try and illustrate with suitable drawings when the bell rang. The children made vigorous protestations and it took the teacher ten minutes to shoo them out. A little more experience will likely change that attitude.

Sunday School Of St. James' Holds Picnic

King Edward Park was the scene of a gay picnic on Wednesday afternoon and evening when more than 200 children, parents and friends of St. James' United Sunday School gathered for their annual fete.

At four o'clock registration began and those attending the picnic were received and welcomed by the committee, which included Rev. F. W. Craik and Mrs. Craik, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Frost, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Kitney, Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Meredith.

The general sports program was run off from four to six under the supervision of the sports committee: Art Pagett, Harold Fife, Horace Naish, Mrs. Palmer and Ken. Meredith. The following were the winners in the various events:

Straight Races

Girls under five years — Nancy Zolyamy, Carol Dorrington, Alice Burnside.

Boys under five years — Vernon Smythe, Philip Chesher, Jimmy Orr.

Girls, six years—Marjorie Wood, Dorothy Dunk, Sheila Jones.

Girls' 3-legged Race—1, Dorothy Hay, Freeda Floyd; 2, Jeannine Collins; Levina Riel.

Boys' Wheelbarrow Race—1, Edward Cumming, Alvin Wood; 2, Bob Self, Don. Breadman.

Ladies' Nail-driving contest—1, Mrs. W. H. Young.

Men's Horse-shoe Pitching—1, S. Hanlon; 2, J. Whatley.

Immediately after the supper hour, a softball tournament was enjoyed, with the winning teams including the following boys and girls: Art Wilfong, Don Pagett, Art Dolan, Allan Lee, Don Floyd, Shirley Watkiss, Gladys Lawson, Wilma Floyd, Lois Hay.

The second team included Adrian Langhorne, Gordon Scriver, Jane Porter, Ruby Luther, Don. Ball, Roy Bush, Betty Hamblin, Ard Worrall, Gary Davies.

A feature of the evening's entertainment was the cub demonstration under the direction of Mrs. Langhorne, and a scout demonstration led by Stan Leggitt, which gave evidence of the fine work being done by these groups.

A fitting finale to the outing was the Vesper service conducted by the pastor, Rev. F. Craik, assisted by St. James' Choir.

Much of the success of the picnic was due to the efforts of the Sunday School Superintendent, E. R. Frost, and members of his committee, E. G. Kitney, Mr. and Mrs. George Wallace, and W. K. Meredith.

The refreshment booth, in charge of Mr. George Wallace, Mrs. G. Harris, and Mrs. R. B. English, was well patronized and realized a good sum.

Barnardo Club Gives Aid To War Victims

The Peterborough Barnardo Club, quite a small group of people who are working to help supply the much greater demand being made for supplies to help the Dr. Barnardo homes in England, which the war has necessitated, have come forward with a donation for the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, which they allocated from the proceeds of a draw concluded on Wednesday night at the Brock Street Summer Gardens. This small group of which J. F. Degen is president and J. L. Bean, secretary, has already sent six bales of clothing to England this year, and it was in furtherance of their work that the draw was conducted.

The draw was made by the secretary of the fund and resulted in the first prize of a woollen afghan being won by Gerald Condon with ticket No. 513, the second prize, a gent's dress shirt and tie by L. Ridyard with ticket No. 186, and the third prize, a pair of hand-embroidered pillow cases by J. Williams with ticket No. 473. Most of the male members of this are serving in the active forces overseas.

Recently the King Edward Home and School Association held a picnic for the children in that school, and after doing full justice to all concerned it was found there was a surplus of $9, and this amount they have given to the fund through their treasurer, Mrs. G. Harris, repeating a part they played in helping the fund during last year.

One nice personal donation of $5 is listed from a Friend, M.M., this also coming from one who has helped on a number of occasions previously.

Flower Holders

Sunday next, June 28 is Decoration Day, and a great number of people will be wishing to decorate the last resting places of loved ones who have passed on. Those wishing to secure good flower holders for that purpose will find it a convenience to be able to to secure these quite close to Little Lake Cemetery at very small cost, from M. Isaac Harrison at the cemetery greenhouse, and 100 per cent of the money they give will go to help the people of Britain through this fund by the kindness of W. Naish who has made and donated them for that purpose.

Wednesday night, the industrial Midlands of England were attacked, which may mean Coventry, Birmingham and Sheffield, with its consequent trail of disaster for these congested areas, making the need to continue our aid to them all the more apparent. Your donation will be gratefully received, wisely administered in the best possible manner, and thankfully acknowledged.

Bicyclist Hurt In Car Crash

Harold Fry, 634 Weller street, received facial injuries and bruises on his right leg this morning in a collision between the bicycle on which he was riding and an automobile at Monaghan Road and Weller street.

Norman Edgar, 631 George street, was driving his car north on Monaghan road. As he neared Weller street, he reported to police after the accident, he noticed a bicycle travelling east on Weller street. Edgar says he stopped his car, but that the bicyclist, Harold Fry, tried to make a turn into Monaghan road and collided with the left front fender of the automobile.

The front wheel and forks of the bicycle were damaged in the crash.

Cyclists Summonsed

The police department has declared war on bicyclists who do not obey the regulations in regard to lights. Summonses have been issued for nine youths whom the police declare have been operating their machines without lights.

Tax Comparisons

By The Canadian Press

Following table shows comparative difference between proposed new Canadian income taxes and those paid by Britons and residents of the United States:

Single Persons:

Annual Income $	Tax Canada $	Tax Britain $	Tax United States $
480	—	30.00	—
1,000	92	188.50	20
2,000	441	624.50	106
10,000	4,312	4,624.50	2,190
Married with Two Children:
1,250	16	156.00	—
2,000	107	304.50	—
10,000	3,346	4,304.50	1,628

(The Canadian figures do not include the proposed refundable income tax feature. This tax is to be returned by the Government after the war and will earn two per cent interest.)

Sunny Weather Is Needed To Save Hay Crop

Few people, particularly those in the urban centres realize that the crop situation in Peterborough County is becoming serious and unless good sunny weather prevails during the next three weeks, a large portion of the hay crop will be lost.

Frank Paterson reported this morning that he had visited many sections of the county during the past few days, and while the general outlook is fairly encouraging, there are quite a number of possibilities that serve to dampen the hopes of a bumper yield. The hay is late, and the cutting has been delayed because of the wet weather. The hay that has bee ncut is not curing properly because of the excessive rain.

Farmers have been practically paying their hired help to stand around during the past two weeks and look at the weather and unless the weather man comes to bat with three weeks of warm sun and drying winds, the farmers will have big headaches.

There are a great many fields of lovely spring grain, which is growing strong. There is however a great variation in the height of the grain, because of the unusual variety of spring weather and the excessive moisture which made many of the flats soggy. Right now it appears that the harvest will drag out late as much of the grain will be late in ripening, and this will add more expenses to the farmer as he will not be able to concentrate his harvesting in a short period.

Farm laborers are scare and the demand may best be described as "terrific" and it will be aggravated if weather conditions bring about an early ripening of the hay crop. Should that happen, there will be a rush for assistance to harvest the hay crop, and it is likely that a general appeal will have to be made to city workers to lend a hand to salvage the crop.

Winners Named At Lawn Social

Fair weather added to the usual success of the 33rd annual social of the Sacred Heart Church congregation on Tuesday of this week, and while it was a little cool, the rain held off, and the crowd attending was on a par with other years.

Rev. J. J. O'Brien, parish priest voiced his appreciation today for the splendid assistance given by the general public and the fine spirit of cooperation shown by the parishioners in putting this annual venture over the top once again.

The following are the draw-prize winners, the prizes this year being War Savings Certificates in keeping with the spirit of pushing the war effort: Joseph Fitzgerald, R.R. 7, $25; Mrs. J. O'Neill, 22 New Romaine street, $25; Rev. J. V. McAuley, Campbellford, $25; W. Mahood 1033 Water street, $15; R. S. Earle, 603 Gilchrist street, $15; Joseph Slattery, R.R. 6, Peterborough, $15; Eleanor Grady, 255 Lake street, $10; John Brennan R.R. 8, $10; Mrs. J. H. Slattery, R.R. 8, $10; L. Dominik, 568 Romaine street $5; Reg. Gurney, 593 Chamberlain, $5; Gerald Corbett, 623 Lock street, $5.

No Boost to Troops

MONTREAL, June 25—(CP). — A spokesman for Imperial Tobacco Company Limited of Canada said today that tobacco tax increases in the federal budget will not result in any increase in the price of cigarets sent as gifts to members of the Canadian armed forces overseas.

Smith Commandos

Lakefield, June 25 (ENS)

A COMMANDO swoop by furry four-footed raiders has at least one farmer in Smith on the warpath. The result is that Stan Higgins is reported to have sent a call for aid to a relatives of his wife's, a high-ranking member of a local reserve unit, for a counter attack. Seems when Stan went out the other morning to give his mangolds a second going over he couldn't find the patch. They were in the right field but there just wasn't anything to hoe—well, unless you count half a dozen three-inch plants too close to a thistle to chew off. There were eight rows each 250 yards long, cleaned off slick as a whistle and the shock of the discovery didn't do Stan any good, and it didn't bode any good for the Jackrabbits in the district either for the neighbors report Stan muttering dire threats as he resows the entire field in turnips — maybe they don't like turnips.

Chinese Girl Doing Relief Work In Physiotherapy At Clinic

That China can no longer be compared to a drop of mercury that breaks into separate globules, but is unified as she has not been for many years, and will accomplish great things in the future, is the opinion of Mrs. George Gung, of Toronto, who has been doing the relief work in physiotherapy in the Clinic for the past month.

This charming Chinese girl wanted to be a nurse, but at the time she finished high school all the classes were filled, and with the flaming impatience of youth she couldn't wait until the next year, so she registered at the University of Toronto in the physiotherapy course. After two years she graduate in 1941, having interned nine weeks after her first year and six months after her second. She confesses quite frankly that she got a big kick out of interning in big hospitals like the Toronto General and the Toronto Sick Children's.

After graduation, she did quite a bit of private work in the homes, giving massage treatments and instructing the patients in the benefits to be received from physical healing with heat and sunshine. This idea originated in the East, although the methods used were slightly different, she explained.

Mrs. Gung is very much interested in sports, particularly badminton, and holds a few of what she terms "unimportant championships."

Shortly after she finished university, Mrs. Gung married George Gung, a mechanical engineer, and it is understood that she is continuing in her work to help her husband get his degree as doctor of philosophy. As soon as she returns to Toronto, which she expects to be at the end of this week, she hopes to resume her duties as a relief worker there. She spoke somewhat wistfully about the other specialists in physiotherapy who are serving overseas and added that married women were not eligible.

Unawariness

Although only in her early twenties, Mrs. Gung showed a remarkable grasp of the seriousness of the war that is affecting both Canada and China, and feels, like many others, that the people in this country are still not fully aware of the danger that is threatening them.

Some years ago she accompanied her mother to China to visit some of her relatives in Canton, that formerly busy seaport. She was a girl of school age and attended the equivalent of the Canadian public school. At that time there was no free schooling and so only a privileged few had a chance of overcoming the illiteracy that was the lot of so many millions.

"In 1929," she said, "I saw evidences of the ruthlessness of the Japanese war machine. It was just after another of the undeclared Sino-Japanese wars and many of the forts and buildings around Canton and other cities bore the marks of their shelling."

Commenting further on Japanese unscrupulousness, Mrs. Gung said that she had letters from friends at different times. One wrote telling of the concentrated bombing of the big university in Nanking and its dormatories where helpless civilians cowered for shelter. Another description came from Hong Kong after the strafing of some of the inland cities when millions of homeless and frightened people fled to the concession seeking help. Only 2,000 could be cared for and there was no accommodation in the already overcrowded city. As the war has spread, the horrors have increased accordingly.

Need Medical Care

"At the time of my visit medicine for the whole of China was not nearly adequate, nor is it now, but it has made wonderful strides under the capable and sympathetic direction of Madam Chiang Kai-Shek and the Generalissimo. Had the war not intervened, I feel that China would be well on the way to being a firmly established modern state under General Chiang's direction."

Commenting on the number of different dialects to be found in China, she explained that hers was Cantonese and that she was quite unable to speak Mandarin, an equally important dialect. The strange thing is though that the written language throughout China is the same, no matter what part of the country it may be, but the spoken language differs widely. This has not helped in the matter of unity, since a man from the north may not be able to converse with a man from the south.

"I see a great future for China and I know that she will eventually take the lead in an offensive that will completely crush the invaders. Then with a united front that has been lacking for many years, China will once more take her rightful place among the world nations."

Small Child Narrowly Misses Death

When seven-year-old Wayne Stevenson, 243 Stewart street, rode a tricycle down a laneway into Stewart street, near Stock's Bread plant, Wednesday, the machine collided with the right front fender of a passing automobile and the boy was knocked off. Fortunately he escaped with a bruise above his right ankle.

The car involved in the accident was being driven south on Stewart street by Lance Corp. Ernest Castle, a Peterborough soldier who is a member of a Camp Borden unit. When the tricycle suddenly appeared on the road, Castle slammed on his brakes and swerved his machine to the left in an effort to avoid an accident, but his efforts failed to prevent a collision.

Six More Join Local Regiment

Six additional recruits were sworn in at the Armouries on Tuesday night for the Prince of Wales Rangers, 2nd Battalion Reserve, and they are as follows: Vernon Howe, 479 Sherbrooke street; Charles H. A. Seal Monaghan Road; Arnold J. Noftall, 188 Dalhousie street; Norman G. Field, 211 Rink street; George M. Howell, 501 Bolivar street; and Douglas Johnston, R.R. 2, Peterborough.

Smart drill uniforms consisting of jackets and slacks are being issued up to ten p.m. each night this week in order to have the regiment equipped in time for the Garrison Drumhead service on Sunday morning.

Transfer of Captain D. J. McLellan, Reserve of Officers M.D. 3 has been approved in the rank of Lieutenant. He will be acting quartermaster.

Chona Club Names Officers In Cobourg

COBOURG, June 25.—(ENS). — The Chona Club of the Ontario Hospital held its annual meeting here and elected the following officers:

Hon. president, Miss Irene Shaw, nurses' superintendent president, Miss M. Hoey; vice-president, Miss H. Hutchinson; secretary, Miss E. Greene; treasurer, Miss P. McDonell; press representative, Miss K. Murphy; buying committee, Miss K. Deruchie, Miss E. Covert and Miss L. Stafford; nominating committee for next term, Mrs D. Walker, Miss B. Kelly and Miss P. McDonell. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by Mrs. D. Walker. Miss B. Kelly gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. D. Walker gave the Navy League report.

Odds at the Front

CAIRO, June 25 — (CP-Reuters). — A South African soldier racing through heavy fire in Libya with a message for forces in the front lines, was heard quoting odds on his chances of getting through. "Six to four, six to four, even, even, 10 to one, 20 to one—I've made it," panted the peacetime bookmaker's clerk.

NOT HEAD OF HOUSE

One northend resident found this week that he was not the head of the house. He had failed to sign the sugar ration card and was not home when the volunteer came along to pick it up. His wife signed as householder and then several hours later she discovered that in filling out the card she had omitted his name altogether and hence he was not to get any sugar ration card.

Plans Complete For Carnival Starting Friday

Every cent of the proceeds taken into at the annual Rotary Carnival to be held at Riverside Park Friday and Saturday nights will be devoted to most worthy causes. It is announced that 65 per cent. of the total amount taken in will be used for Rotary war service efforts and the balance for the club's Crippled Children's Fund, which has provided new hope and a new chance in life for many youngsters handicapped by physical defects.

For over 20 years the Rotary Carnival has been an annual event, and on every occasion it has had the spontaneous support of the people of Peterborough, who realize the worthiness of the work carried on by the organization and appreciate the fact that the total receipts have always been used in social service and community movements.

This year's carnival will introduce some new games and features and should provide plenty of entertainment and amusement for the big crowds who will be in attendance tomorrow and Saturday nights.

Two prizes will be drawn for Friday night at 11.15 o'clock. The first will be a $300 Victory Bond and the second a $50 War Saving Certificate. In addition, there will be a bonus of a $25 Certificate if the holder of the winning ticket presents it within five minutes of the draw.

Saturday night will be climaxed by the draw for the $1,000 Victory Bond at 11.15 o'clock.

Still Spry at 100

YARMOUTH, N. S., June 25 — (CP). — Mrs. Mande Pothier, of Nearby St. Anne du Russeu, celebrated her 100th birthday Tuesday. Her health is good and she maintains a lively interest in community and world events.

Scared to Death

SHERBROOKE, N. S., June 25. — (CP).—A young deer was literally "scared to death" here recently. The deer was struck by a car driven by Rex Redmond, and first it was believed the animal was killed in the collision, but an examination revealed it suffered no apparent injury, and it was believed to have died from fright.

Courageous Girl Saves Child From Cross Dog

The courage and presence of mind shown by a twelve year old girl in battling with a vicious dog that had attacked a two year old boy and rescuing the boy by clamping a rug over the dog's head until she could get the child into a place of safety has aroused the admiration of the police and Humane Society officials who investigated the case.

They believe the action of the girl, Joan Collins, Elm street, should be officially recognized.

The little boy, Garry Drury, son of George Drury, 533 Elm street, was playing on the lawn of the Collins home the other day when Joan Collins when the dog, a coalie said by police to be owned by H. T. Hickey, 633 Gilmour street, came along. Joan noticed the dog snarling at the boy and picked him up and carried him into the house. The dog followed, pushed the door open and attacked the boy, knocking him down and biting at his head. Joan ordered the animal away and when he kept on attacking the little fellow, she tried to seize the dog by the collar and pull him off. The collie viciously snapped at her and went on worrying the child.

Injuries Treated.

Then the girl remembered a talk she had with her mother as to a goodway of subduing a vicious dog. Picking up a rug off the floor she quickly clapped it over the dog's head and he released his hold on the Drury child. Before he could rid himself of the rug, Joan picked up the boy and rushed into another room and slammed the door shut.

Help arrived and the boy was taken to the Standard Medical Clinic for treatment. It was discovered that the dog's teeth had inflicted a deep gash on the right side of the child's head and torn his ear. Authorities believe that if the girl had not acted so promptly and so bravely the vicious animal might have killed his victim.

The dog is being kept under observation for fourteen days.

St. John's, Emily Holds Festival

EAST EMILY, June 25—(ENS).—The members of St. John's Anglican Church held a very successful garden party at the church on Wednesday evening in the form of a strawberry social. There was a very large crowd present to partake of a bountiful supper.

The program consisted of a play entitled "The Million Dollar Butler" presented by a group of young people from Oakwood.

Rev. Mr. Pooley acted as chairman. The refreshment booth did a good business and was practically sold out. The proceeds were well over the one hundred dollar mark.

Church Picnic

The annual picnic of Bethel United Sunday School was held on Tuesday afternoon. The crowd wasn't as large as usual but all enjoyed a good time, and especially the younger folks who played ball and run in the various races. A number of the older men enjoyed a good game of horseshoes.

Induction Ceremony At Omemee Church

OMEMEE, June 25 — (ENS). — A large congregation numbering about 250, attended the induction service for Rev. F. W. Pooley, B.A., L.Th., at Christ Anglican Church, Omemee, on Sunday. The officiating clergyman was Bishop Beverly, Suffragan Bishop of Toronto, assisted by Archdeacon William Simpson and Canon F. Battersby.

Bishop Beverly delivered an inspiring message, taking as his text, "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength."

Bishop Beverly also had charge of the Confirmation sxervice when 16 persons were confirmed, namely, Mrs. Ella Ruth Mrs. Howard Bent, Mildred Carew, Jean Rowan, Ruth Smith, Ronald Sarsons, Jack Daley, Ruth Lantz, Norma Skuce, Helen Brown, Donald Franks Elva Boate, Olive McCall, Lillian Franks, Hilda Davis, and Elvira Magee.

Women's Institute.

The Women's Institute held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Northey in Lindsay on Friday evening, with 14 members and 6 visitors present. The president Mrs. McPherson, opened the meeting, and the roll call was answered by giving the name of a favorite actor or actress. A letter on Achievement Day (to be held in Lindsay on June 27) was read also a letter of thanks from Florrie Sloan for fruit. The treasurer reported proceeds from the W.I. convention were $11.20. A motion was passed that bills in connection with the convention be paid. The delegates who were at the W.I. convention gave splendid reports.

Mrs. Wood was appointed to take charge of making money for the Red Cross for July. Mrs. Cornwall read an item from the scrapbook. This was followed by a trio by Mr. and Mrs. Northey and Mrs. Laidley. Readings were given by Mrs. Cornwall, Mrs. Wood and Mrs. McPherson. Miss Leola Northey was present and gave an interesting account of her work while stationed at Kingston. She has joined the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Magee in the afternoon, the roll call to be answered by Hints for the Sick Room.

Belmont Lake News

Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers spent the first few days of the week visiting friends in North Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Baccus have returned to "Dunworkin" for the summer. Friends hope the sun will do much to restore Mr. Baccus' health.

The Thompson family, Toronto, have opened their cottage and had as their guests over the week-end Mrs. Thompson's sister from England. Also a niece and friend recently returned from Hong Kong.

Over twenty cars from Pentecostal Church, Havelock, carried Christian folk to the shores of the lake Sunday afternoon. During the singing of hymns the pastor baptized fourteen converts. The music was splendid and many cottagers were inspired as the music echoed across the water.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Pace, Lanark, are spending a few at their cottage.

Week-end guests at Twin Oaks were Miss A. Donley and Miss F. Rahmel and Mr. and Mrs. Morton, Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter and son of Toronto recently spent a few days at their cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Meade, Islington, accompanied them.

The teacher and pupils of Victoria School Wednesday afternoon enjoyed a picnic at the end of the road. Boating and swimming as well as organized games were well supervised by Mrs. Small. Campers were invited to join in the supper and one man claims he never enjoyed a meal more than that picnic supper.

Due to gas rationing motor boats are few this year but many row boats are daily seen and fishermen are coming with road and and some fine fish have already been landed.

J. Rogers from Peterborough visited at the Log Cabin on Sunday.

Mr. Bannon, Havelock, is erecting a new cottage along Chase's shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrie, Peterborough recently opened their cottage.

Several of Rogers' cottages were occupied over the week-end by Toronto folk.

It Stung The Japs Hard

Rev. J. V. McNeely Preaches At Keene

KEENE, June 26—(ENS). — The anniversary of Keene United Church was held on Sunday when a former minister Rev. J. V. McNeely of Oshawa, was the guest preacher. The sermons, entitled "Building the Church of Christ" and "The White Stone of Victory,' were inspiring and interesting. The choir, under the leadersip of Miss M. Bryce and with the assistance of L.-Cpl. Donald Murray at the organ, rendered a splendid program of anthems, duets and solos. The titles of the music were "His Name shall be Praised," "Hast Thou Not Known"; duet "The King of Love My Shepherd Is," sung by Betty Brown and Delbert Coward; "The Lord is in His Holy Temple", "Lead, Kindly Light"; duet, "Day is Dying in the West," was sung by Miss M. Bryce and Milton Anderson. The sermons and music were much appreciated by the large congregations which attended, this historic congregation celebrating its 109th anniversary. It was a re-union of former members and adherents who came from far and near. The floral decorations were beautifully arranged and the offerings morning and evening well responded to.

Mrs. Isaac Snell of Toronto visited Rev. R. M. and Mrs. Patterson last week.

Supper guests at the parsonage on Thursday were Chancellor and Mrs. Walter T. Brown of Victoria University, Toronto, and John Bailey of East Emily.

Mrs. Harry Deyell spent two days visiting with Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Woodcock in Toronto last week.

James Dickson and son of Montreal are spending their vacation with friends in the village.

B.C. Shipyard Strike

VANCOUVER, June 25—(CP).—Four hundred pipe fitters at Burrard Dry Dock Company's north yard today joined more than 600 machinists and blacksmiths in downing tools, while machinists who yesterday staged a work stoppage in the Burrard Company's south shore yard went back to work again.

At the North Van Ship Repairs, third yard affected by the work stoppage, an estimated 350 machinists and blacksmith remained off the job. D. M. Service, manager, said there was no indication there that pipe fitters would join the others.

Fiery, Itching Toes and Feet

Here is a clean, stainless antiseptic oil now dispensed by chemists at trifling cost, that will do more to help you get rid of your trouble than anything you've ever used.

Its action is so powerfully penetrating that the itching is quickly stopped; and in a short time you are rid of that bothersome, fiery eczema. The same is true of Barber's Itch, Salt Rheum, Itching Toes and Feet—others irritating unsightly skin troubles.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil in the original bottle at McDermid & Jury or any modern drug store. It is safe to use—and failure in any of the ailments noted above is rare indeed.—(Advt.)

Choir Havelock Church Honors Members

HAVELOCK, June 25—(ENS). — The United Church choir held a double feature in the church basement on Friday evening to honor two of their members, namely, Miss Eileen Brisbin, bride-elect of early July, also the choir leader for the past year, Mrs. Harry Watson. The event took the form of a supper, served from long tables, which were charmingly decorated with pink streamers, pink candles in silver holders, pink peonies and a 3-storied imitation wedding cake. Rev. J. W. Wilkinson acted as chairman for the program and an address was read to Miss Brisbin by Miss Reta Southward, and Miss Laurabelle Wing presented her with a lovely carved walnut coffee table.

Miss Brisbin made a suitable reply. Rev. J. W. Wilkinson read the address to the choir leader, Mrs. H. Watson, and Mrs. R. Campney made the presentation.

Mrs. Watson expressed her appreciation in a few brief remarks.

Two Societies Meet

On Thursday afternoon a joint meeting of the Women's Missionary Society and Ladies' Aid of Knox Presbyterian Church was held in the church basement with an attendance of 25 ladies. During the afternoon two quilts were quilted. These will be sent in the missionary bale.

A delicious supper was served, the proceeds of which were very gratifying and will go towards the allocation. After supper a short devotional service and a few items of business concluded the meeting.

Donald Lloyd Committed On Two Counts

Donald Lloyd, Lakefield car salesman, was committed for trial on two charges of false pretences after the preliminary hearings in police court Wednesday afternoon and on a third charge of the same type Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., reserved judgment until Monday.

When the afternoon session opened the crown proceeded to complete its evidence in the charge against Lloyd of having obtained $535 from the Consumers' Finance, Limited, by false pretences, the indictment alleging that the false pretences were that the accused had claimed to have an agreement with James R. Thompson, Lakefield, Ont., for the purchase of an automobile.

Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., called Harry T. Hill, clerk and tax collector of Lakefield. He swore that the name of James R. Thompson did not appear on the Lakefield assessment role, either as an owner or tenant or in the assessor's field books as staying at any address in Lakefield.

"Do you know a John R. Thompson in Lakefield?" "I never heard of him."

To Mr. Carley witness said that there was a floating population in Lakefield and there possibly were people there he did not know.

Reeve Charles Tanner of Lakefield who said that he had lived in the municipality for 63 years said that he had never known a John R. Thompson as living in Lakefield or its vicinity.

In answer to a question from defence counsel Reeve Tanner said that there could be people living in Lakefield whom he did not know.

Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C. finished the case for the crown by introducing as an exhibit a letter from Motor Vehicles Registrar Bickell, enclosing an automobile license.

In answer to the usual warning Lloyd told the court that he did not want to make any statement and that he did not propose to call any evidence.

Magistrate Langley then committed the accused for trial.

The Second Charge

The second charge against Lloyd was that of obtaining $500 from Consumers' Finance under false pretences on the stength of an agreement with Harry Spiker of Lakefield for the purchase of a car, which the crown claimed was false.

George H. Smith, former manager of the Peterborough Branch of Consumers' Finance identified an conditional sales agreement signed by Donald Lloyd and Harry Spiker, Lakefield, for the purchase of a 1940 Mercury sedan bearing the license number 22 S 87. He said that on the strength of that agreement Lloyd had obtained $500 either in cash or contra account.

Charles Henry Spiker of Nassau was called by the crown and told Mr. McElderry that he was usually called Charles and was never known as Harry. He said that he had not signed an agreement produced nor had he purchased a Mercury sedan from Lloyd. He had bought a car from Lloyd last year, he stated.

"You have an unusual name," said Crown Attorney McElderry. "Do you know of any other Spiker in this part of the country?" "None nearer than Midland or Hamilton" was the reply.

James L. Robinson, Reaboro farmer, said that he was the owner of a Model T Ford coach and that on January 23, 1942, he had secured a license for that machine. It bore the number 22 S 87 he testified and produced the license for inspection.

This concluded the crown's evidence and Mr. Carley argued there should be a dismissal as there had been no evidence to show that there was no such person as Harry Spiker. "A man is called who says that he is Charles Henry Spiker and has never been called Harry Spiker and that is all," remarked defense counsel.

"You could have called the Lakefield officials who are still here," remarked Magistrate Langley to the Crown Attorney. "However the accused will be committed for trial."

Sister-in-Law Called

Principal witness in the third charge against Lloyd of obtaining $445 under false pretences from Consumers' Finance, Limited on the strength of an agreement with Mrs. Alice Harvey of Apsley to purchase a car was Mrs. Harvey, a sister-in-law of the accused.

George H. Smith gave evidence that Lloyd had received $445 in cash or contra account after a conditional sales agreement signed by Mrs. Harvey had been produced by Lloyd.

To Mr. Carley witness admitted that when Lloyd had brought the Harvey agreement in the accused had asked him to hold it up for a few days to make sure that the deal went through.

"And did you hold it up?" "No."

"You put it through the next day?" "That is correct."

Says She Signed

Mrs. Alice Harvey testified that she was a sister-in-law of the accused and that her husband was overseas. Shown the conditional sales agreement Mrs. Harvey said that she had signed it at the request of Lloyd.

"He asked me to sign it so that he could get a loan of money," said Mrs. Harvey, adding that she did not knowing whether anything was written on the document or not when she signed it.

There had never been any mention of her buying a car nor had she bought one, Mrs. Harvey declared.

Some time afterward she said she received a notice from Consumers' Finance that payments were due on the purchase of a car. She said that Lloyd had told her that he would take care of that and he had given her a receipt for the car mentioned in the agreement. She had never had the car in her possession, she said.

Mrs. Harvey said that Lloyd had called at her home in Chandos on Tuesday night of this week but did not have a chance to talk with her because her uncle did not want him there. Some person who said he was Donald Lloyd had called her twice on the telephone Wednesday morning, she said, but she could not identify the voice as that of Lloyd.

To Mr. Carley witness said that the purchase of a car by her had never been mentioned at any time by Lloyd.

Her evidence concluded the crown's case and Magistrate Langley, declaring that he did not think there was much chance of a conviction on the evidence reserved judgment. "She admits that she signed an agreement that authorized him to do just what he did, raise money," commented the Magistrate in announcing his intention of reserving judgment until Monday.

As Crack Italian Cruiser Sank Under H.M.A.S. Sydney's Guns

Some of the finest naval pictures of the war have just been released by the Admiralty and show the sinking of Il Duce's crack cruiser Bartolomeo by the Australian cruiser Sydney, which later was itself sunk while engaging the enemy. The Bartolomeo was sighted and tried to make a run for it, but was hit, slowed up and smashed by the guns of the Sydney. The Sydney is shown closing in for the "kill," while shells fall on and around the doomed Italian warship.

Grove Cadets End Camp, Hold Toronto Parade

TORONTO, June 25.—The Lakefield Preparatory School Naval Cadet Corps arrived here last evening after having spent two weeks at the Queen Elizabeth Sea Cadet Camp at Beausoliel Island, Georgian Bay. The corps, composed of eleven officers and midshipmen and 52 Cadets was the first to occupy the new camp of the Navy League. All members of the corps and their instructors were enthusiastic about the new centre of summer training for Sea Cadets.

They detrained at the C.N.R. Strachan Avenue crossing, where a considerable number of parents were waiting, and under the command of Cadet Lieut.-Commander P. Carr-Harris of Kingston and headed by the bugle band from the R.C.N.V.R., marched to H.M.C.S. York in the Exhibition Grounds. Here they marched past, the salute being taken by Commander A. C. Turner, senior naval officer of the local district, and then had their supper in the men's galley. The corps dispersed for their homes later in the evening.

During the camp the boys ranging from 12 to 16 years, were instructed in seamanship, knots and splices by Chief Petty Officer George Lee, D.S.M., and in navigation and astronomy by Dr. Edwin Smith, R.N.R. (retired).

St. Paul's Congregation Holds Excursion To Wallace Point

The annual congregation and Sunday School picnic of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was held down the river to Wallace Point on Wednesday afternoon. Two hundred and seventy-five adults and children boarded the Stoney Lake at the George Street Wharf and enjoyed a most delightful sail to the Point, where close to 200 got off and took part in a sports program; the remainder, mostly adults, went on down the river for another hour and one-half sail.

All met at the Point for supper, where sandwiches were supplied by the Ladies' Aid and from the picnic baskets, brought along, came cakes, pies, tarts and cookies.

Members of the Men's Association assisted in running off the races and these were followed by several softball games.

TORONTO, June 25 — (CP). — Democracy will emerge from the present war a nobler and greater thing, Tom D. Young, president of Rotary International in the British Isles, told more than 8,000 delegates gathered her to-day at the 33rd annual convention of Rotary International.

Grasshopper, Owl Save Pilot Lost In Jungle

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, June 25—(AP).—A fighter pilot forced down after a battle with a Japanese bomber, came out of the crocodile-infested swamps of Northern Australia today to tell of a three-day ordeal which drove him to eat grasshoppers and raw owl meat.

He is a 27-year-old lieutenant, married and a former printer apprentice on the Columbia, S.C., Record. His name was not released.

The pilot said he climbed out of his damaged plane uninjured.

For three days the pilot beat his way through matted roots, vines and grass head-tall, able to travel only three or four miles from dawn to sundown.

"All the time I had no food," he continued. "But suddenly I remembered the boys had told me about eating lily roots. There were lillies in the stream. They are nice eating, too.

Just Like Crabmeat

"Once I toppled over in long grass and lay too exhausted to move. My eyes lighted on a long grasshopper.

"'Hell,' I said, 'I'm going to eat you too.'

"I tore off the head and tail and ate the legs and the rest of it. Not so bad. It tasted like crabmeat."

Later he killed an owl.

"I ate that owl's legs raw, planning to save the rest," he said. "Then I saw a crocodile and heard a plane.

"Still clutching the dismembered owl in one hand, I tottered to the beach. In a matter of seconds the plane flew a few feet overhead. A canteen and a big can of food flopped at my feet.

'I threw the owl to the crocodile and dropped to the ground, crying like a baby. But not long. I tore into the food can with a knife like a maniac.

'Hours later a plane landed near the beach and an Australian pilot helped me aboard."

Japs Allow Supplies

LONDON, June 24.—(CP).—Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons to-day that the Japanese have agreed, on a reciprocal basis, tha supplies for prisoners of war may be shipped on vessels to be used in the proposed exchange of officials, BBC reported.

New Ideas Loom For Post War Press World

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 25—(CP).—Post-war newspapers will be cleansed of outworn ideas, ready for still more aggressive championship of the general good, J. A. McNeil, general manager of The Canadian Press, told members of the Canadian Women's Press Club yesterday in a forum on the future of Canadian newspapers.

Already they support or accept new economic concepts and social reforms which press and public would have fought in the past.

Mr. McNeil said Canadian papers are in good condition to face increasing taxation, rising costs and lessened revenues, and none was unlikely to survive. However, rationing of newsprint, decreased staffs and reduced advertising would dictate a streamlining that would eliminate non-essentials and dictate smaller newspapers.

He hoped to see more attention paid to women's war work and less space devoted to society news and women's activities of a non-useful nature.

Mr. McNeil spoke of the celebration of the 25th anniversary of The Canadian Press in September, saying that in a quarter century the organization had made phenomenal improvement in three classes of news coverage: interchange of Canadian news, vital in unifying Canada; non-partisan political reporting; and news from the United Kingdom, the Empire and the world at large.

No country of Canada's population—or even five times its population—received a news service to compare in scope, excellent, accuracy and impartiality with that of The Canadian Press.

NOTE: Egg Sauce: One tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon butter or cooking oil, 1 cup milk (or 1 cup fresh stock when to be used on fish), ¼ teaspon salt, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, 1 whole or 2 yolks. Beat the egg or yolks, dilute with 1 table-spoon of hot sauce made from first 5 ingredients, then beat this into remainder of the sauce. If the egg white is beaten separately, the sauce will be foamy. If only the yolk or yolks are used a good yellow sauce results.

Port Hope Man Wed In City

Bridal party of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Culpitt, whose marriage was solemnized in Immaculate Conception Church. Reading from LEFT to RIGHT: Groomsman, Mr. John McCoy; the groom, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Culpitt of Port Hope; the bride, formerly Miss Doris Leonard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Leonard; bridesmaid, Miss Peggy Leonard, sister of the bride. (Cripps' Studio Photo)

Miss Dorothy Lockhart, bride of Saturday, was a guest of honor at a red and white kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. J. Watson.

Dr. K. J. R. Wightman and Mrs. Wightman, of Toronto, are visiting Dr. Wightman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Wightman, Geraldine avenue.

Starting tomorrow the boys' and girls' department of the Public Library will be open from two until five o'clock p.m. until further notice, instead of from two until six p.m.

Friday is the first night of the four when sugar rationing cards will be addressed at the Collegiate. If there are any not addressed yours may be among them; and if you haven't got a ration card you can't get sugar. Have you registered yet?

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Collins were married at Bridgenorth United Church, not at Sacred Heart as was stated yesterday under the wedding picture.

Miss Mildred Brown, Miss Isabel Weddell and Miss Elizabeth Stewart, all of the Collegiate Staff, are in Toronto, where they are taking a special course in defense training.

The many friends of Muriel Genge, McDonnel street, will be sorry to hear that she has undergone an operation at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Personals and Social News

Mr. and Mrs. R. Stabler, 258 McDonnel street, are quietly celebrating their 18th wedding anniversary.

Friends of Mrs. George Thomas will be glad to know that she has returned to her home at 521 Albert street from Nicholls Hospital.

Donation to War Victims

The draw sponsored by the Dr. Barnardo Club was held Wednesday evening at Brock Street Summer Gardens. Proceedings were supervised by the club secretary, J. L. Beane. Mr. F. G. Mann drew the three winning tickets as follows: first, Gerald Condon, 603 Stewart street, ticket number 513, won the afghan; second, L. Ridyard, 103 Gladstone avenue, ticket number 186, man's dress shirt and tie; third, J. Williams, 51 Ware street, ticket number 473, hand-embroidered pillow-cases. After the draw, Mr. Mann was presented with $9.30 by J. L. Beane as the Dr. Barnard Club's donation to the B.W.V.F.

Former Local Man Ordained

A service of ordination was held in Woodbine Heights Baptist Church, Toronto, recently, at which George H. Tranter, pastor of the above church for the past 18 months, was ordained. Rev. G. K. Tyler of Woodstock and formerly of Park Street Baptist Church, Peterborough, preached the ordination sermon. Dr. C. H. Schutt, secretary of the Baptist Home Mission Board, gave the ordination prayer. Dr. F. L. Orchard gave the candidate the hand of fellowship. Rev. Charles G. Stone gave the charge to the candidate and Dr. D. H. Bingham, secretary of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, gave the charge to the church. The service was presided over by Rev. H. E. Wintemute, who also was Moderator of the Council. A purse was presented during the service by the president of the B.Y.P.U., a gift from the church, and a bouquet of roses to Mrs. Tranter. Both Mr. and Mrs. Tranter are former residents of Peterborough.

Muriel Theobald Honored

The office staff of Swift Canadian Company, Ltd., Toronto, met on Friday, June 19, and presented an automatic, electric, double toaster to Miss Muriel Theobald, whose marriage to Mr. William Alexander Stephens of the staff of the Collingwood Collegiate takes place June 27.

Mr. N. E. Landon spoke on behalf of the employees and conveyed their best wishes along with their regret at losing a member of the staff, who wasso co-operative and efficient.

There were over sixty present.

Mark Street W.M.S. Meets

Mark Street United Church W.M.S. held its June meeting on Wednesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. E. W. Rowland, in the chair for the business meeting. The meeting opened with a readig by the president, "Our Missionary Message For To-day." Mrs. W. Pomeroy, supply convener, reported that a bale valued at $18.10 had been packed and shipped. Mrs. B. Lillico was in charge of the devotional period, which opened with a reading by her, "Ministry of Prayer." Mrs. W. Pomeroy read the scripture, and a poem, "Back to The Fold." Mrs. E. Dinner and Mrs. J. C. Larmer led in prayer. Mr. Rowland brought an inspiring message of encouragement, "Victory Through Faith." Mrs. Max Pomeroy rendered a solo, "Some Day I'll Understand." The meeting closed with a hymn and the Benediction.

Weaver-McLean

The marriage of Rosamund (Buddy) McLean, eldest daughter of Mr. Harold McLean, to Ward J. Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Weaver, took place on Saturday at the Bethany Tabernacle, Rev. Mr. McArthur officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an embroidered marquisette gown with a shoulder length veil caught with orange blossoms and wore a sunburst of pearls which had belonged to her mother. She carried Bettertime roses. Mrs. J. Wolstenholme, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor in a street length frock of blue. The bridesmaid was Miss Violet Weaver, sister of the groom, who wore pink. Each carried Briarcliffe roses. Mr. Donald Johns was best man and Mrs. V. McMillan was organist. Miss Hewie sang. The ushers were Mr. J. Wolstenholme and a brother of the groom.

Choir Holds Picnic

Murray Street Baptist Church choir held on Tuesday their annual picnic. Owing to the rain they met in the church dining hall.

After enjoying a pot luck supper, of which Mrs. Walter McColl and her committee were in charge, the jolly crowd spent the evening in music, songs and laughter. As the clock struck ten, all joined in singing 'God Save The King."

Presbytery Executive

A meeting of the executive of Peterborough Presbyterial Women's Missionary Society was held Tuesday afternoon, in St. St. Andrew's ladies' parlor, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris presiding. After devotional exercises, led by Mrs. W. H. Morton, the reports of the various secretaries were given covering the work of the past six months. Arrangements were made for the fall rallies to be held the third week in October.

TO YOUR MOTHER-IN-LAW

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE flowered turban above was an invention for Mother's Day, but it seems a pity to have such a lovely creation bloom only on the second Sunday in May. For bloom the little hat does, made as it is of fresh blossoms right out of the florists' vases.

We promote it today as a very nice sartorial tribute to the myriad matrons of this country who will become mothers-in-law sure as fate in this marrying month of June, 1942. What could be more appropriate for a lady whose most important hostess job of her entire life...the wedding of her daughter...than a fragrant bonnet-bouquet? For that matter, what's wrong with the groom's mother wearing it to the nuptials? It is one of the flower "arrangements" which can be duplicated all over the country by wired arrangement and a very pretty conceit, too.

A turban which tilts over the eye, and which is made of of fragrant stock flowers and daisies is new in millinery annals. A fluff of veiling on the hat is repeated on the harmonizing corsage.

Ione Galvin Wed In Bridgenorth

The wedding took place on Saturday in Bridgenorth United Church parsonage of Laura Ione Galvin, eldest daughter of Mrs. Albert Hughes of Fenelon Falls and the late Ammon Galvin, to Raymond Arthur Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Collins of Peterborough. Rev. Trumpour of Bridgenorth performed the ceremony.

The bride looked lovely in a gown of white sheer trimmed with lace, with long full sleeves and a floor length silk net veil falling from a white halo. She carried a bouquet of Bettertime roses and baby's breath. Miss Josephine Galvin attended her wearing a gown of turquoise net with a cap of Garden Hill roses. Her bouquet was Gard Hill roses. Her bouquet was Garden Hill Collins attended his brother.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Empress Hotel, Peterborough, where the bride's mother received the guests in a gown of dusty rose with white accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother who also received wore a gown of navy, with white accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Later the bride and groom left by motor for a trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls. On their return they will live at 104 Aylmer street.

Murray Street Holds Annual Picnic

The annual picnic of the Murray Street Baptist Sunday school was held Wednesday, June 24, at the Nicholls Oval, with a large attendance especially of the younger children, to enjoy the supper prepared under the supervision of Mrs. A. W. Wray, superintendent of the Primary department. The booth was in charge of Jack Wray and Kenneth Gillespie, and the sports program in charge of Dr. Graham, C. Browne, H. Tranter, P. W. Johnson, A. W. Wray and W. G. Shiner provided the entertainment for the rest of the evening.

The prizes for the races consisted of tickets good for 10 cents and 5 cents at the booth, the saving by this method, $10, being donated to the War Services committee of the church from the Sunday School funds.

The winners of the races:

Girls under 6—Barbara Yelland, Elizabeth Lowry. Girls under 6—Roberta Hayward, Bee Tudhope. Boys under 6—D. Baptie, W. Tranter. Girls 6 to 8—Marylin Jones, Ruth Drury. ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I have been studying your column in the newspaper for some time. I like it and feel it's a need for our community. Would you be so kind as to send me a diet or variety of meals that a diabetic patient could use. I am sure I am not the only one that would appreciate that as there are hundreds of people that are under the doctor's care and all he gives them is a slip of paper with the things they ca neat but how to prepare and serve them is another thing. I'll appreciate a response from you and thank you so much. Yours truly, Claire Campean.

ANSWER: I am always glad to be reminded to give the diabetics more attention.

It has occurred to me that the publicity nutrition is receiving during this war will reduce the incidence of diabetes substantially, for overeating is a fundamental cause of diabetes but especially overeating of sugar and starches. The Government nutrition people are stressing the use of the protective foods—dairy products, meat, fruits and vegetable—almost all of which diabetics are allowed.

But what you want is special help and I know exactly the right book for you. "A Diabetic's Own Cook Book" by Stella H. Lyons, published by Alfred A. Knopf of New York. I do not know the cost of the book, but it is worth its weight in gold to a diabetic. If you have trouble getting it, write to me again and I will have our local librarian help us.

QUESTION: I saw a picture in a magazine advertisement of a tomato jelly salad made into layers with a filling of cottage cheese between the layers. It looked very attractive—would you be so kind as to print the way to make a salad that looks like this? I always read your column and think the recipes are easy to follow.

Thanking you in anticipation, I remain, Molly McA.

ANSWER: I am glad to hear from you again Molly and remember you for your letter asking for surefire method of roasting beef. I hope our reply helped you and that your husband liked the results.

Layered Tomato Jelly and Cottage Cheese Salad

Three cups stewed tomatoes, fresh or canned, ¼ cup chopped onion, ½ cup chopped celery, 1 bay leaf, 1 clove, 1 teaspoon sugar, salt, 1½ tablespoons gelatine, ½ cup cold water, lettuce, mayonnaise, cottage cheese. Cook the tomatoes with the seasonings for 10 minutes. Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes, then add to the boiled tomatoes and stir until dissolved, and strain. Pour half the tomato mixture into a moistened layer cake tin, and the remainder in another moistened layer cake tin. When it is set (having stood in refrigerator about 3 or 4 hours) turn one sheet out on a large round plate on which is could be served and spread with cottage cheese. Cover with other layer of tomato jelly. Garnish with sliced hard cooked eggs, cress and pass plenty of mayonnaise.

This salad is a nice main course to serve at a ladies' luncheon when dainty chicken or other meat sandwiches could be passed to eat with it or such delicacies as little cheese tea biscuits.

We hope you like this recipe and that you will write whenever you need help Molly.

YOU'D NEVER BELIEVE SHE IS 48 ....

She's one of the peppiest, happiest-spirited women you ever saw. At the time when most women think life is passing them by—she's right in the midst of things—always ready to go places and do things ... as popular with the men as girls half her age. To look at her you would never believe she was a day over 38.

How does she do it? She gives the credit to Dr. Williams Pink Pills ... for well she knows how important it is to have plenty of rich, red blood during those years when so many women are "pulled down" in health by bodily changes.

If you feel "always tired", if you look pale and dragged out, if you are suffering from a feeling of nervous exhaustion, are jittery and irritable, you may be paying the price of poor blood make-up. Don't wait—start Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They contain an easily assimilable form of iron—fortified with a generous amount of Vitamin B_1—and are wonderfully effective in helping to build the rich, red blood so necessary to vigor and energy. Frosty Drinks in Tall Glasses For Hot Summer Days

By MARY MOORE.

When I make, serve and drink Iced Coffee, I feel a little bit like the sophisticate I am not.

Does Iced Coffee do that to you? If not, I know how to make it so that it will.

The beverages we are giving you stress the vitamin-retaining angle as usual (except for that iced coffee dissipation) and you will note our lemon syrup this year has a new wrinkle.

Lemon syrup is such a good addition to almost any fruit punch that a cook with a well-planned food program will keep a jar of it on hand all during the hot weather.

Emem's Lemon Syrup.

One cup corn syrup, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups water, grated yellow rind from six lemons. Boil together 10 minutes and strain. When cool add the juice from the 6 lemons and keep cool.

Pour about 3 ounces (1-3 glass) of this syrup into glass and fill with cold water and cubes of ice.

One or two tablespoons of this syrup is good over hot Cottage Pudding.

Iced Coffee.

Make a pot of very strong coffee, and while hot, pour over ice cubes, adding about 2 teaspoons berry sugar to each glass. Fill glasses about 2-3 full of crushed ice, and strain the coffee into the glasses, with 2 tablespoons cream to each glass. If whipped cream is served with iced coffee, it should be added last and not be flavored.

On my desk is a letter from an anxious mother who says she cannot afford the milk her children need. I have written to her suggesting adjustments in her budget, but all you readers should be more aware of the value of skim milk.

Skim milk is 2-3 the price of whole milk in most cities and the only thing it lacks that whole milk has is fat.

Its minerals, especially calcium, are very high and its protein and vitamin content are equal to whole milk.

That is why I am giving plenty of space to a chocolate syrup to be used with skim milk. It is economical; it is nourishing, without being fattening; it is ready; it is delicious.

Emem's Home-made Chiclate Milk. Chocolate Syrup.

Two cups corn syrup, 1 tablespoon butter 6 tablespoons good quality cocoa, 1-3 cup water, ¾ cup evaporated milk, 1 teaspoon true vanilla, ¼ teaspoon salt. Stir together over low heat the cocoa water, evaporated milk and salt until it simmers and thickens very slightly. Then add remaining ingredients and beat with rotary beater until perfectly smooth. Cool. Cover. Keep cold.

When ready to use, stir ¼ cup of this syrup into ¾ cup skim milk for each serving. Serve in tall glasses with touch of whipped cream for special occasions. This is a good pick-me-up snack for children when they come in thirsty after school. When served warm, it is a soothing, bedtime drink, too.

Maple Eggnog.

One egg, 1 tablespoon powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons maple syrup, 1 cup cold milk. Separate the white from the yolk of the egg. Add salt to the white and beat until stiff, adding gradually the sugar syrup, well-beaten egg yolk, and lastly the milk. If you prefer you may beat the yolk and the white of the egg together. Pour into a tall glass and serve. This proportion will make 1 tall glass of eggnog.

Economical Lemon Drink for Large Crowd.

Juice of 4 lemons, grated rind of 2 lemons, 1 oz. citric acid, ½ oz. tartaric acid, 2½ lbs. granulated sugar. Dissolve acids in 1 quart of Warm water, add sugar. When cold add juice and rind of lemons. Put in bottles about 2 tablespoons to a tumbler of water.

Fruit Tea Punch.

Add to 1 cup of sugar syrup ½ cup of canned raspberry juice, juice of 1 orange, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ can of grated pineapple, ¼ cup maraschino cherries, ½ cup hot Orange Pekoe tea. Let stand an hour. Strain, and add 1 cup of charged water, 1 bottle of dry ginger ale and cracked ice or ice-cubes. Garnish with thin slices of orange. Makes about 1½ quarts.

Of Interest to Women

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, June 26

AFFAIRS MOVE at high tempo and under excessively high pressure under this day's planetary stimulus. All this strain and stress may not be in pathways of success and achievement unless rigorous restraints and sound principles and judgment be brought to bear upon suddenly arising and profound problems. Erratic and morbid reactions to tenacious and adverse situations should be vanquished for clear thinking and wise techniques, especially where public, or community, affairs enter.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which all matters may reach high goals of activity, with successful issues depending upon the moderation, good judgment and sound tactics brought to bear upon suddenly presented circumstances, which might make for delays, obstacles and frustrations. With discreet and vigilant handling of affairs especially with the public, when traveling or in handling papers of importance some worthwhile benefits may be realized. Guard against loss.

A child born on this day should have much practical constructive ability and may reach high stations in public or community affairs providing it govern itself by restraint.

ALL THINGS CONSIDERED MARRIAGE REALLY PAYS

It Does Not Slow Men Down, But Speeds Them Up

A man asks: "Is marriage a sound proposition? Can men and women who by nature are incompatible live together successfully? Are men bettered by the slowing-down effect of marriage? Does it enhance their chance of success in life to be weighted down by matrimonial fetters?

"I feel that marriage is something that takes far more than it gives. Do you see any relief in the distant future for the present-day marriage, which in my opinion, is such a failure?"

Well, no one will contend that marriage is a "glory ticket," as our colored friends say, that gives one admission to an earthly Paradise; but, such as it is, it is the best solution that civilization has been able to devise for the relationship of the sexes. Even the happiest marriages are full of trials and tribulations, while the unhappy ones are a foretaste of purgatory. But even at that statistics show that only one marriage out of six in this country, which is the most divorce-minded in the world, actually goes on the rocks, and that makes it at least as safe a venture as speculating in stocks, or going into any sort of business.

Although there are plenty of disgruntled husbands and wives to serve as awful warnings against the danger of matrimony, the fact that the wedding bells continue to ring merrily on shows either that people are incurable optimists about the holy estate, or else they realize that even if marriage does not come up to all their expecations of bliss, it is better than the lonesomeness of being old maids or old bachelors. So they take a chance on it.

Whether a man and woman who are by nature different in thoughts and habits and points of view can live together successfully depends upon what you mean by success. If you mean they are never to disagree on any subject, no. Only love-sick adolescents dream of two souls with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one. No couple are such rubber stamps of each other as that.

But if you mean, can a husband and wife be broad enough and intelligent enough to respect each other's individuality and concede each other the right of their own opinions, and find each other all the more interesting companions because of their unlikeness? then the answer is, yes. There are thousands of such husbands and wives who in fifty years of marriage have not talked out and find amusement and interest in each other's little "ways."

That marriage does not slow men down, but, on the contrary, speeds them up you can prove by a casual glance among your acquaintances. It is the exceptional man who settles down to the real business of life until he gets married. As long as men are single most of them just play about with their careers. They are easy marks for their parasitic friends and relatives. They spend what they make and play with their ambitions.

It is only after the average man gets married that he really puts his heart into his work and develops whatever abilities he may have. Many a man achieves the impossible because he wanted to shine in his wife's eyes. Many a man would be content with a moderate income himself slaves until he makes a fortune because he wanted to decorate his wife with jewels. Wives are not always a handicap. Oftener they are a goad in their husbands' sides, or they inspire their husbands to climb to success.

Finally, to offest the disadvantages of marriage, there are by-products which make it a paying investment. There is the home and all it connotes of comfort. Insurance statistics tell us that married men who have wives to look after their health live longer than bachelors do. And there are the children who are a man's earthly immortality, who keep his interest in life alive and give him something to work and strive for.

So, taking it by and large, I think that marriage pays, even when it fails, as all earthly expectations fail, of realizing our hearts' desire. (The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Millbrook

Miss Jessie Clarke of Weyburn, Sask., who has spent the past month with Mrs. S. E. and Miss Mary Eakins, and with Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Clarke at Havelock, left for home on Thursday, Mrs. Eakins and Mary accompanying her as far as Toronto. Miss Clarke intended remaining over Sunday with her uncle, Dr. Adam Clarke, Winnipeg, and Mrs. Eakins and Mary returned home on Saturday, with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Armstrong, whose guests they were in Toronto. Miss Jessie Clarke was born and brought up at Millbrook, and friends here will be interested to know that her sister, Miss Laura Clarke, B.A., is now principal of the Collegiate Institute at Weyburn, where there are ten teachers on the staff.

Mr. J. Edgar Burnham of St. Petersburg, Florida, arrived from the South on Friday, and is with his daughter, Mrs. A. C. Darling, Toronto, at his summer home, Chemong Park, until September.

LAC Reg Edmunds has been holidaying with his mother, Mrs. Ross Edmunds for the current two weeks, preparatory to being moved to another point to continue his training for a pilot in the R.C.A.F.

Miss Shirley Buckingham, B.A., of the Hawkesbury High School staff and formerly of Millbrook, spent the week-end in the village, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Thorndyke. Miss Duncannson, formerly principal of the local Continuation School, is also on the staff at Hawkesbury, where there is an English, and also a French, High School.

LAC Reginald McKnight, who is training at Manning Pool, Toronto, was home for the week-end with his wife and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McKnight.

It's A-1 with the ARMY!

Remember, when you were a kid, how swell it tasted to have a liberal helping of Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk spread on a slice of bread? Yes, that's the way the boys in khaki will use it. They'll eat it like candy.

And Eagle Brand is good for them ... gives them the nourishment of extra-creamy milk and what's more, it's a real energy food.

For busy housewives, Eagle Brand is the secret of making the grandest Salad Dressings, Cookies, Cake Frostings, and all kinds of delicious Desserts—quickly, easily, economically. Look for the folder of Magic Recipes on top of every can.

turned and looked back at her before he sat down. Their gaze met and held until Judith pulled her eyes away.

"Oh," she breathed to herself angrily. "He knows I don't hate him and he's trying to make me admit it. Well, I can be just as stubborn as Tom Burke."

She picked up her purse to repair her make-up.

"You are a fast eater, young lady." She looked up quickly to see the heavy-set man pushing by her chair. "Or maybe you were not hungry."

"I can eat when there is no flying to be done," she replied pleasantly.

"Or a young man to flirt with?" he grinned knowingly.

"He won't flirt with me," she remarked and pouted her lips. She spoke loudly and her voice reached Tom Burke. He turned and scowled at them both, playing his role well. "See what I mean?"

The large man nodded with an understanding wink and sat down.

The other passengers took their places, and in a moment the voice of the hostess came to Judith's ears from outside. There was curious concern in the tone.

"Changing co-pilots? What happened to Bill?"

Judith did not hear the answer but she turned to see the two flyers come through the door and make their way to the control room up front. As they passed her an uneasy feeling swept over her like a warning.

Home Study May Be Step to Cartooning Career

On His Way To The Big Money

"Go right in, Mr. Jones!"

A lucky fellow, the cartoonist who has arrived, for these days more funny pictures are used than ever before.

Home study may show how much talent you have for this well-paying profession. Charts explain cartoon techniques, how to build up a funny face.

You start with a simple oval, then draw horizontal guide lines, as shown in the sketch above, to help you place the features.

Moving these guide lines up or down changes the character of the face completely! The higher the eyebrow line, the more stupid your man looks. The higher the mouth, the tougher is his chin!

You get really comical facial expressions when you experiment with different shapes for eyes, nose and mouth. A man in a daze? Crosses for eyes! A sappy smile? Draw it up the side of his face!

You learn to draw the figure much the same way, starting with a "matchstick man."

Our 24-page instruction book tells how to cartoon the face and figure, how to picture action. Gives pointers on selling comic strips, gag cartoons, caricatures, advertising and movie cartoons.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of SIMPLE CARTOONING SELF-TAUGHT to Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of instruction book.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHEN TO OPEN TRUMP

THERE ARE two standard situations in which the lead of a trump is pointed to as probably the most logical defensive opening. One of these everybody knows—the cross-ruff kind of bidding during which both the declarer and his partner showed a side suit in addition to the one finally chosen as trumps. The other is that in which the declarer has shown two suits, and the dummy indicated probable shortness in one of them, which he can help set up by ruffing. Sometimes both situations are more or less combined.

East: ♠ 7; ♥ 10 8 4; ♦ A 10 9 7 4 2; ♣ K 9 4

South: ♠ Q 10 6 5 3; ♥ Q 7 3; ♦ K J; ♣ 10 7 3

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♠	2♦	Dbl
2 NT	Dbl	3♣	Pass
Pass	3♥	Pass	4♥

Close your eyes, put yourself in the position of North and let somebody read that bidding to you, without ever looking at any of the hands. Can't you tell that West has either a singleton or blank in diamonds, plus at least a couple of clubs with an honor and at least ten major suit cards? Also that East has great length in diamonds, at least three hearts, probably about three clubs and not over one or two spades? Can't you visualize West ruffing his spades in dummy, whether he ruffs dummy's diamonds or not?

North was unable to make such a deduction. Hoping for a ruff himself, he led the spade J, and really started the declarer on his plan, having made the lead which would have been called if allowed. That was won by the A, then a spade ruffed by North's heart J, a club returned to the A, a third spade led and ruffed by North's A, another club returned to the K, diamond A called for a discard of the spade 8, diamond 2 ruffed, spade 9 ruffed by the heart 4, the heart 10 sent through, the 8 overtaken by the 9, the Q dropped by the K, heart 6 and spade K cashed, making five-odd.

Now you try to make the contract and overtrick if North leads the heart A and then the J, as the bidding indicates he should. That defense cooks your goose.

What principle of winning bidding is illustrated by this hand, as against the unsound bidding which many fair players may furnish on it?

MARMORA

Bishop J. Lyons Dedicates Roll Of Honor

MARMORA, June 25 —(ENS). — St. Pauls Anglican Church, Marmora, was filled to overflowing on Snuday morning for a memorable service which marked the official visit of Right Rev. J. Lyons, D.D., Lord Bishop of Ontario, to the parish.

The dedication of a roll of honor to the 27 men of the congregation who have gone on active service occasioned the attendance of over 40 men of the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment under Major N. Broad, with the bugle band and a good representation of members of Marmora Branch No. 237 Canadian Legion.

At the appointed place in the service, the church wardens, H. R. Pearce and J. Cochran, advanced towards the honor roll, which Lt.-Col. A. V. Yates, M.C., was called upon to unveil, and the congregation stood for the short form of dedication, which was taken by the Bishop. At its close Comrade G. Brooks sounded the Reveille.

The service in which familiar hymns of a martial strain were sung, was conducted by the rector, Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell. The special Psalm chosen was the 46th. The lesson, Matthew 5, 1-16, was read by W. J. Cottrell. An appropriate and striking address was delivered by the Bishop on Hebrews 11, 8: 'He went out, not knowing whither he went."

The offertory was for the missionary apportionment of the parish.

Aid for Chinese.

The creditable amount of $93.60 was raised in the village for the Chinese War Relief Fund on Saturday by 12 girls who worked under the supervision of Principal A. W. Fulton of Marmora High School and Principal E. C. Prentice of Marmora Public School.

As a kindly gesture Lem Lung and Lem Jong of the Glossy Cafe served a delicious lunch to the canvassers at the end of the days labors.

Bank Is Closing Branch In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, June 24. — (ESS).—Response to Council's communication to the head office of the Bank of Commerce expressing regre at the announcement that the local branch was to be closed on June 30 came on Tuesday in the form of the chief inspetor, J. A. MacPhail, Toronto, who met with the council at a special meeting on Tuesday Declaring that he had come to Campbellford at the "special request of the general manager to explain the underlying reasons for their decision," the inspector gave a general picture of some of the difficulties of present day banking. Nor were members of council surprised by his statement that there was nothing they could do to alter the bank's decision. Said Mr. MacPhail, "If we had complete freedom of choice we would rather stay here than withdraw, nowever I feel we are leaving you in good hands (the Bank of Montreal).

Increased Costs.

The underlying reasons for closing out the branch, along with others that are closed from time to time, were the increased cost of doing business resulting from taxation (Federal corporation taxes), salary increases (resulting from increased living costs), and the difficutly of maintaining a staff.

Enlarging on this latter point Inspector McPhail declared that of 5,200 employees on their pay roll in 1939 there had been, up to the present time over 1,200 enlistments. He added that it took three girls to do the work of two men. Other reasons he gave were lower money rates, changing methods of doing business and less dependance on bank loans. Replying to the suggestion of a councillor that one branch was in his opinion inadequate for a town of this size (2,900) Mr. MacPhail said there was but one bank for every 3,300 people in the city of Toronto, and he added that recent branches had been withdrawn from both Burlington and Grimsby, leaving those towns wth only one bank. 'Where two or three branches made money ten years ago they cannot do it at present," he said. At the conclusion of the meeting Mayor Long expressed his thanks on behalf of council to Mr. MacPhail for the bank's gesture in sending him to meet with them.

Describes How Syntona Herbal Medicine Brought Relief From Acid Indigestion, Gas, Nausea and Backache. Felt Nervous and Rundown.

MRS. ELEANOR SMITH

Hundreds of former sufferers from stomach disorders, gas and indigestion, getting up nights, nervousness, sleeplessness and rheumatic pains are delighted at the way Syntona goes to the root of their troubles and soon has them feeling like different persons. Here, for example is the splendid experience of Mrs. Eleanor Smith, Toronto:

"More than half my lifetime I was a victim of a weak, nervous stomach, and about three years ago, following a serious infection. I became nervous and rundown and my stomach got so bad that almost every morsel of food I ate would sour and cause gas, bloating and nausea. I was subject to dizzy spells, constipation, and the gas would press up into my chest and make me short of breath. I developed rheumatic pains all through my back, limbs and joints. I had tried so many things with little results that it seemed there was no help for me. I kept reading about how Syntona was successful in so many similar cases here and finally I got a bottle. The first bottle helped me so much that I decided to take a full treatment, and now I can say my faith in Syntona was more than justified. I can now eat well without all that misery afterwards, and the rheumatic pains have left me. My nerves are relaxed and I sleep better. I haven't had a dizzy spell lately and in every way I feel better than I did for many years previously. I will always be thankful for what Syntona has done for me."

Let this pure Herbal Compound help you as it has so many other grateful men and women. Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. —(Advt.)

New Tax May Cut Dividends As Profits Hit

OTTAWA, June 25 — (CP).—Increased taxes, aimed directly at companies which have shown heavy profit increases in the war period, were announced by Finance Minister Ilsley in his 1942 budget last night.

Points in the Government's new approach to the excess profits tax are:

1. Increase in the present 75 per cent rate to 100 per cent.
2. A compulsory saving plan without interest.
3. Limitation of profits retained to 70 per cent of pre-war standard profits.
4. Payments of excess profits taxes by monthly instalments.
5. Introduction of a new basis of taxation providing a minimum of 40 per cent.
6. No increase in the rate of taxation of profits generally.

Announcing the increase Mr. Ilsley said bluntly: "The time has come when we can and should make the excess profits tax more severe."

The new scale, he told the house, might mean reductions in current dividends by some companies whose profits had increased substantially in recent years, but such a result was not considered too heavy a burden on the companies and their shareholders in critical times.

Describing complicated changes in the method of computing the tax, Mr. Ilsley said the plan adopted would "increase the effective rate of tax very substantially on business whose profits have increased significantly over pre-war levels."

Never Under 40 Per Cent.

Under the new method of computing the tax, Finance Department officials explained. the rate of taxation will never be less than 40 per cent. The corporation income tax remains at 18 per cent, a flat rate of 12 per cent is applied to profits and at least a 10 per cent rate to the balance.

The compulsory saving plan provides for refunding after the war of 20 per cent of the excess profits taken over the range where the 100 per cent excess profit rate is effective. This amounts, officials said, to 20 per cent of all profits more than one and one-sixth standard pre-war profits.

In a sample case a company with profits 200 per cent of standard pre-war profits now retains 103 per cent of the pre-war figure. Under the new plan, which becomes effective on July 1, it will only be allowed to retain 70 per cent but will subsequently get a refund of 16 per cent.

Explaining the basis of the Government's excess profits policy Mr. Ilsley said that expansion of business was slowing down with even war plants nearing their capacity and the necessity for laying away working capital was reduced. In addition the payment of high dividends would affect the Government's wage stabilization plan.

R.C.A.F. IN 1,200-BOMBER KNOCKOUT FOR BREMEN

LONDON, June 26 (CP Cable) — Great fires were set by British and Canadian airmen last night in the big German port city of Bremen, principal target of a devastating assault which possibly was the largest in the history of aerial warfare. A Peterborough boy, PO. Lloyd Parnall, was among one of the attacking crews and took part in a rescue effort on the way home.

Indications were that the number of planes participating exceeded the flights of 1,130 and 1,036 bombers which laid Cologne and Essen respectively, in ruins May 30 and June 1.

An Air Ministry communique told of one bomber force of "more than 1,000" which had Bremen as its main target and reported intensive attacks on air fields in the low countries by "a second force of bombers and fighters."

This second force was believed to have numbered in the hundreds.

It was understood approximately 1,000 Canadian airmen took part in the raid—about the same number as participated in the four-figure bombings of Cologne and Essen.

Canucks Have a Big Role

There were four squadrons of R.C.A.F. planes in the air, including an intruder squadron attacking air fields, and many other Canadians flew as crew members of R.A.F. craft.

Fifty-two planes are missing, the highest one-night loss experienced by the R.A.F., but informed sources said this was less than five per cent of those involved.

Three of the Canadian squadrons returned without a scratch.

Today the "day shift" swung into operation, "R.A.F. fighter craft being reported active over the Channel area.

In addition to the R.C.A.F. squadrons engaged, headquarters said there were many Canadians in the R.A.F. crews over Bremen.

In spite of heavy anti-aircraft defence two Canadian bomber squadrons returned without a single scar on their aircraft while a Canadian Intruder squadron flying speedy Bostons reported "no incident" for its part in the big raids.

Planes from all branches of the service roared out in the sky-filling armada, a statement said.

The Air Ministry in its communique declared Bremen was strewn with large fires.

Like the massive blows aimed at Cologne and Essen, the Bremen raid was aimed at a vital arsenal supply war tools to Hitler.

By centring on Bremen, the R.A.F. was adhering to a policy of making "priority targets" of U-boats, specially U-boats under construction. In the period since the Essen-Cologne raids smaller squadrons — presumably of several hundred planes—four times have smashed at Emden, a U-boat base 70 miles northwest of Bremen.

It was the second time this month that Bremen was singled out for the R.A.F.'s fire bath.

Plenty of Vital Targets

Besides being Germany's second largest port, with a population of almost 500,000, Bremen offered targets in abundance—along with shipbuilding yards and one of Germany's biggest submarine construction works, it has docks, railways, steel works, oily refineries and the Focke-Wulf factory and airdrome where the Nazis get fighters and great, long-range bombers.

The Air Ministry communique said:—

"Last night very large forces of our aircraft drawn from all the home operational commands of the R.A.F. were in operation.

"The bombing force consisted of more than 1,000 aircraft and its main objective was Bremen, the enemy's second largest port and one of the principal centres of his submarine production.

"Large fires were seen but a considerable amount of heavy cloud

Big American Bombers Blast Tobruk, RAF Paste Supplies

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, June 26 (AP)—The main armored force of Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel had driven at least 100 miles into Egypt to confront the British 8th Army today with a challenge to decisive battle.

The latest word from the desert was that the Germans and Italians, advancing despite bitter resistance of British covering units, had not yet run into the principal British force, which is expected to make its stand somewhere before Matruh, 130 miles within Egypt.

The R.A.F. and the United States Army Air Force, now an integral cog in the aerial counter-offensive with which the British command hopes to curb Rommel's rush, struck last night at the harbor of Tobruk which only a few days ago was the archor of British positions in Libya.

Four-motored Consolidated Liberators, such as smashed at Bengasi on Monday and Wednesday nights, turned out with a strong comrade force of British Wellingtons to blast at Tobruk harbor while

Ace U.S. General To Spur 2nd Front Move

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 16 (AP) — Quick creation of a unified command to weld British, Canadian and United States forces into a co-ordinated fighting team for a blow against the European continent was predicted today by qualified quarters.

To these observers, the arrival of Maj.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as commander in the European theatre of operations for American forces, meant one thing:—

The stage of preliminary planning has passed to a phase of active preparation for using the powerful armies assembled in Britain.

Some said the new commander's name was a significant symbol, for "Eisenhauer" in German means "iron beater."

Speculation on the possible makeup of a unified command for the armies in Britain was absent partly because the reverse in North Africa has brought a call for careful re-examination of qualifications.

Writing in the Daily Herald, Gen. Sir Hubert Gough, commander of the 5th Army in France in 1918, said, "A large proportion of the generals serving in the War Office and at home have hardly seen a shot fired in this war, with the possible exception of some 10 days before Dunkirk."

Fired for Minor Errors.

He accused senior officers of firing junior generals who showed promise because of minor errors or because of "standing up boldly for their considered opinions."

Two generals of great promise, Sir Allan Cunningham and Robert H. Haining, 'are now walking the streets of London for one or the other of these faults," Sir Hubert wrote.

(Gen. Cunnignham was relieved of the command in North Africa and replaced by Lt.-General Neil Ritchie after the last British Libyan offensive failed to go as well as expected.

(Gen. Haining has been Intendant-General in the Middle East.)

Critics concede that formation of a single fighting force of the United Nations units presents substantial difficulties which can be solved only by a unified command.

One of the most obvious difficulties is the relation of air operations and ground fighting. Some

800 Czechs Slain To Satisfy Hun

LONDON, June 26 (CP) — Reports reaching Czech government sources through neutral countries indicated today that victims in the continuous Nazi slayings since the killing of Reinhard Heydrich, Gestapo chief for Bohemia-Moravia, total at least 800.

Czech sources estimated that at least that number have been slain in Bohemia-Moravia including those killed in the wiping out of the villages of Lidice and Lezaky, but "we are convinced there are many more which have not been announced."

Reuters heard the Budapest radio announce today that 18 more Czechs had been shot in Prague and Bruenn (Brno), the victims including judges, lawyers, factory managers, University professors and school teachers of both sexes.

Among the 93 was Joseph Edward Srom former Czech diplomat.

Czech sources said the newpaper Neuertag, received in a neutral country, listed 78 Czechs condemned to death between May 16 and June 12 for "favoring the enemy to the extent of high treason." The paper made it clear that none of these sentences was connected with Heydrich's death.

The latest major "reprisal" by the Germans was the obliteration of the farming village of Lezaky, population 100, about 70 miles southeast of Prague, announced yesterday. All adult males were reported slain and women and children presumably were carried away to concentration camps and state schools.

May's Output 1,500 Tanks, 4,000 Planes

Little Aid or Comfort For Axis There States Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt announced to-day that in May the United States turned out nearly 4,000 planes and more than 1,500 tanks.

Releasing official war production figures for the first time since Pearl Harbor, the President asserted in a statement that the United States also turned out nearly 2,000 artillery and anti-tank guns in May, and these were exclusive of anti-aircraft guns and those to be mounted on tanks.

The May output of machine guns exceeded 50,000 weapons of all types, including infantry, aircraft and anti-aircraft. If sub-machine guns are added on, the total passes 100,000.

Mr. Roosevelt released these figures because, he said, they are going to give the Axis just the opposite of "aid and comfort."

"We are well on our way," he declared, "towards achieving the rate of production which will bring us to our goals."

The last announced objectives of the war production program, told of in the President's annual message to Congress last January, were 185,000 planes in 1942 and 1943, 12,000 tanks, 55,000 anti-aircraft guns.

The President, in citing the May figures, warned against over confidence.

No Overconfidence

He said:

"While these figures give you some idea of our production accomplishments, this is no time for the American people to get overconfident. We can't rest on our oars. We need more and more, and we will make more and more.

"And we must also remember that there are plenty of serious production problems ahead — particularly some serious shortages in raw materials, which are receiving the closest consideration of the Government and industry."

Announcement of the production figures coincided with continuing Anglo-American war strategy conferences in which the White House said Russian officials and experts had been playing a significant part.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said the Russians had figured in the parleys from the beginning and still did.

The Russian ambassador, Maxim Litvinoff, President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and State Secretary Cordell Hull have held "ex-

King Optimistic Of Outlook, Back In Ottawa

OTTAWA, June 26 — (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King returned today from his conferences with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in Washington, and expressed renewed confidence in the power of the United Nations to win the war.

"What setbacks we are having now are significant mainly in that they make the difference whether victory will come sooner or later," he said.

"There is no question about us facing a critical situation," said Mr. King, "but we have faced critical situations before in this war when we were not in the position we are in now.

"Never since the war started has the strength of the United Nations been so powerful and well organized as at the present time."

While the situation was bad on one front it has eased on others, and the whole picture of the war should be studied at the same time to arrive at any conclusions.

Mr. King spent yesterday in conference with President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill, and saw high officers of the other United Nations powers, as well as attending a special meeting of the Pacific Council.

No Details For Public

All his deliberations in Washington were so secret, the Prime Minister said, that it would be impossible to give the House of Commons any more information than has appeared in the press. He expected to make a brief statement on his visit to Washington when the house met this afternoon.

Mr. King left Ottawa Wednesday morning, his departure kept secret on instructions of United States government officials, to accept an invitation from Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill to join them at Thursday conferences.

He arrived back in Ottawa at noon today and went at once to a meeting of the cabinet war committee.

The conference were of great importance, Mr. King said, and it was a valuable experience for him to have the opportunity of personal talks with the two leads of the United Nations effort.

Sheer Weight Gains Hun Ground

Hundreds of Tanks Fail to Break Hole at Kharkov

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, June 26. — (AP). — Against powerful Red army resistance, the German offensive in the Ukraine developed today into a reinforced, major drive to the East with the Russians being forced back slowly by sheer weight of troops and tanks past Kupyansk and the Oskol River.

Dispatches from the front said that after abandoning Kupyansk, 60 miles southeast of Kharkov, the Russians repulsed a series of fierce assaults in which the Germans tried with tanks and planes to force a wedge into the defence line.

The Russians said that by falling back slowly they had been able to maintain a straight, unbroken front against the fury of the new onslaught.

"The Germans intensified their attacks," Tass reported, "and despite tremendous losses are pressing eastward.

"Our units slowly retire, offering strong resistance to the enemy."

Using Hundreds of Tanks.

In its account of the withdrawal from Kupyansk where fighting was described as particularly heavy, the news agency said:

"The Fascist command concentrated considerable forces here, including several hundred tanks and a large number of aircraft, and attacked almost incessantly.

"Air combats were in progress continuously. Enemy tanks repeatedly attempted to pierce our defences and to strike at our troops from the rear.

"Our troops repulsed the attacks and checked the enemy onslaught. Then the German command began to rush up reserves. Fresh infantry units, tanks and air units were hurled into action. This enabled the enemy further to increase his numerical superiority....

"Our units were compelled to retreat. A pitched battle developed at the approaches to Kupyansk and then in the town itself. Fighting was prolonged and exceptionally heavy. Despite the enemy's considerable superiority, our troops selflessly defended the town and the approaches to it and clung for a long time to every defence line."

Fighting flamed overnight in both the Kharkov and Sevastopol region.

The push upon the inner defences of Sevastopol was pictured here as still unavailing, despite sacrifice of

Budget Forcing Canada Back To Plain Living

By The Canadian Press

Back to the days of plain living, more evenings at home instead of in theatres or night clubs, less smoking, drinking and travelling, more economies in cooking and sewing, fewer new clothes and games of golf—that was the resolution made by Canadians in key cities today as they devised ways to economize under Finance Minister Ilsley's austerity budget.

Faced with a heavy and steeply-graduated income tax, involving a compulsory savings feature, and taxes on scores of personal necessities, representative people told The Canadian Press how they planned to make both ends meet in the lean, hard days ahead.

Many Haligonians still reeled under the shock of the budget proposals and their reaction was summed up by the remark of Dr. T. B. Acker: "Hell, I haven't finished reading about them yet."

At Montreal, Robert Pollock, a business man, saw a ray of hope, explaining: "Do not try to keep up with the Joneses—and let's rejoice that the Joneses will from now on have to keep 'down' with us—the whole thing will make for a happier, saner and healthier world to live in."

In Ottawa, where the austerity note was sounded Tuesday night, a few people said the blow came so suddenly that they didn't know what they would do.

Canuck Ship Torpedoed Off W. Coast

Mate Thought Missile Was a Shark, Wreck Towed to Port

OTTAWA, June 26.—(CP).— The Royal Canadian Navy announced to-day that a Canadian-built merchant ship has been brought safely to a west coast Canadian port after a "determined attack" by a Japanese submarine.

There was no loss of life.

The navy's brief statement gave no details of the attack for security reasons. For the same reason, there was no announcement of the place of attack except to say it was "off Canada's west coast.

Date of the attack which caused some damage to the ship also was not given.

Withholding of information of "undoubted importance" to the enemy's intelligency has to be "customary,' navy spokesmen said. This procedure had 'particular force' in the case of attacks in which a ship was able to make port.

The submarine attack on this Canadian-built merchantman was the first official report of submarine activity against shipping off the west coast, although several attacks on shipping have occurred in United States Pacigic waters.

Indication that submarines were known to be operating off British Columbia coast was given by Defence Minister Ralston after the recent

Picture Matruh The 'Last Ditch'

LONDON, June 26 (CP) — The swift Axis advance into Egypt, coupled with a new German drive pointed at Russia's Caucasus, is likely to make the next week one of the most critical of the war for the allies, military experts declared today.

These quarters estimated that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel could throw approximately 100,000 men into an attempt to smash the British defence line before Matruh, on which the fate of Egypt and the entire Allied position in the Middle East may depend.

The gravity of the situation in Egypt was emphasized by a former member of the War Cabinet, who said in an interview:—

"If Egypt goes our control of the Middle East and our chances of aiding Russia through Persia go with it. A defeat in Egypt would open the way for Axis control of Africa, Europe and Asia through possession of the Eastern hemisphere's main crossroads."

An informed source in Cairo was quoted in London as saying the British position at Matruh represented a "last-ditch" stand.

"There is practically nothing else between this position and Alexandria and Cairo," he said grimly.

Military circles expected Rommel would waste no time in attacking, for his hopes of success hinge on a quick blow before the 8th army can be re-grouped and re-equipped.

Rommel Stretching His Luck in New Stab

Forces Weary Troops On 200 Mile Blitz—Water, Supplies Constantly Pounded

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The fate of Egypt, and the broader interlocking issue of control of the Middle East, is being written by now in the hot sands of the desert before the British coastal stronghold of Matruh which guards the approach to the naval base of Alexandria and the Suez Canal.

Nazi Marshal Rommel, racing eastward against time in an effort to trap the British 8th Army before it has a chance to reorganize, made contact with the British covering forces 30 miles west of Matruh, presaging a quick joining of the main battle. It should soon be known whether Gen. Ritchie has had sufficient time to realign his weary forces after their retreat and to move into his defensive line the reinforcements which are reportedly arriving.

It is a momentous hour. Prime Minister Churchill is quoted as having said in Washington that British forces would hold and that there was no danger of losing Egypt and Suez. One takes the liberty of assuming that the Prime Minister didn't mean literally that the danger didn't exist, but that he expected it to be overcome.

Certainly Gen. Ritchie's position at the fortified and well-services base of Matruh is far better than it would have been had he tried to make a stand at the Egyptian border. Rommel, on the other hand, suffers the disadvantage of greatly extended and highly vulnerable communications, which must give him much concern especially as regards the supply of drinking water.

Rommel again has dared greatly in his tactics. The major portion of his army undoubtedly was fagged out from long and steady fighting in the Libyan furnace. His mechancial equipment needed overhauling. Yet, in order to deprive his enemy of time for recovery, he took after the 8th army at full speed.

Exhibiting one of his outstanding characteristics, Rommel has chosen the short cut. That route lay along or in the vicinity of the military highway which skirts the Mediterranean, with the endless sands of the desert on the south. In taking this line, Rommel exposed himself to heavy air attacks and to possible shelling by British warships.

Rommel's alternative would have been to make a long and arduous trek southeastwards into the desert and then swing northward again towards the sea.

Much depends on those long communications of Rommel's. Someway he must keep them open as he goes into this crucial battle. Here is where the opposing air forces presumably will enter the picture in a big way. Already warplanes have been blasting at Bengasi, chief German port for supplies on the military highway, and they also must be bombing Nazi supply lines.

Must Prove Gas Need Over A

1st U.S. Issue to be 48 Coupons of 4 Gals. Each

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—Instructions for the new gasoline rationing program in the Eastern United States, disclosing officially that the basic unit would be four gallons, were issued by the office of price administration today.

The unit is subject to change "in accordance with any change in the East's petroleum supply situation," the O.P.A. said in releasing a 13-page booklet on the coupon plan which starts July 22 in 17 States and the District of Columbia.

Only the basic, minimum-value "A" cards will be issued at first. Each will contain 48 coupons, designed to provide 2,880 miles of driving for a year, on the basis of 15 miles to the gallon.

To get "B" or "C" books providing for supplemental rations motorists must apply to local ration boards, and there show, the "A" book will not meet their occupational driving needs.

States Uneasy Over Egypt

See Hitler Going All Out Inside Next Few Days

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP) — Military experts here, taking a grave view of the Allied situation in North Africa, said today the war in Europe is entering a potentially-decisive phase with Germany at the point of making her long-awaited all-out drive against Russia.

The next few days, one authority said, should show whether the battle on the Russian front has in fact already begun or whether those are preliminary actions-in-force for the main campaign which will then certainly be undertaken by the Germans with little delay.

Germany, it is generally believed here, will try for a series of successes so smashing that by next fall or winter she will be able to follow up with either an attempt at invading Britain or a negotiated peace with her foes in Europe.

The result of either course, if successful, will be to deprive the United States and the Allies of both invaluable allies and effective bases from which to strike back in Europe in 1943.

COMPULSORY MEASURES IN PRODUCTION FORECAST BY MINISTER

Hint Forced Labor In War Work

Mitchell Says Plants Frantically Seeking Workers

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, June 26 —(CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell forsees the possibility of new measures of "compulsion" to maintain the supply of labor for war industries and early provisions for compulsory registration of women for war work.

He said this in the House of Commons yesterday and added some of the heavy industries were seeking "frantically" for men.

Mr. Mitchell said he sometimes wondered "if we have not tried to do too much for a country the size of ours" and warned that Canada had only "touched the fringe" of sacrifices necessary to win the war.

Mr. Mitchell was the 11th minister to speak in the conscription debate which began two weeks ago. Ten members in all spoke yesterday.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King's bill 80 which would remove the last barrier to unlimited conscription by order-in-council received support from the majority of Thursday's speakers but for varying reasons.

Mr. Mitchell did not reply when, at the conclusion of his speech he was asked by Conservative House Leader Hanson just how he stood on conscription. He said he would state his stand when the need for conscription arose.

Five Favor Bill

Dr. H. A. Bruce (Con. Toronto-Parkdale) and Norman Lockhart (Con. Lincoln) said they would vote for the bill but would continue to press for immediate conscription.

Arthur Slaght (Lib. Parry Sound) supported the bill and approved conscription as a means of providing manpower when and if the voluntary system failed.

Dr. J. R. Hurtubise (Lib. Nipissing) and Dr. J. P. Howden (Lib. St. Boniface) announced their intention of voting for the bill but the former said he was against conscription and the latter expressed "sympathy" for the French-Canadian opponents of the bill.

Herve Brunelle (Lib. Champlain) W. R. McDonald (Lib. Pontiac) and J. P. Mullins (Lib. Richmone-Wolfe) spoke strongly against conscription and declared they would vote against the Government on it.

T. Farquhar (Lib. Algoma East) spoke against conscription, but did not say definitely how he would vote.

Air Minister Power is the first scheduled speaker when the debate resumes to-day.

Little Wealth Missed.

Mr. Mitchell, addressing his opening remarks to the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation group, said: "The conscription of wealth is now an inescapable reality. I do not think there is much more to conscript—wealth is down the drain.

"I would make this short statement, however. I do believe that in the post-war period we shall have this country so organized that we shall be in a position to abolish want."

The time had come when war industries were crying out for men and action would have to be taken

Russian fliers parried Nazi aerial thrust and hammered at armored formations. The Information Bureau said 51 planes of squadrons seeking to blast a path for Von Bock's ground forces were shot down or damaged in a single sector.

Twenty-five tanks and 16 planes were declared destroyed by the coastal artillery of Sevastopol, the Crimean naval base which still flies the Soviet flag after seven months of siege and three weeks of battering that has ripped through its outer fortifications and ruined the bluk of its buildings.

Thousands More Canadians Fill U.K. Camps

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, June 26 (CP Cable)—Army camps in southern England already bulging with Canadian soldiers made room for thousands more today as another contingent of troops from the Dominion unloaded kitbags for a temporary stay in this island.

"How long will we be here?" was the first question almost every soldier asked new acquaintances. For all are confident it will be only a matter of months now before they will be packing their kits again for another trip—to the continent.

Artillerymen and members of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps comprised the bulk of the army contingent which made a speedy, uneventful Atlantic crossing under the escort of United States warships. But the camps made room, too, for soldiers of the Ordnance Corps, infantrymen and reinforcements for the armored, medical and forestry formations.

Airmen and Canadian civilian firemen arrived with the troops, the former group going to reception centres cheered by the promise they would not have long to wait before going into action. The firemen, here to help fires in Britain's "target towns," stopped off in London whence they will be sent to training centres before being posted to the blitzed cities they will help guard.

Looking To Invasion Day.

This contingent of troops landed in a more serious frame of mind than most of its predecessors, but its members were keen for action, hoping for the day when the Canadian army will form part of the continental invasion force.

With the Canadians came British Honduras technicians and members of the Royal Netherlands army

Fair weather and an escort of United States warships got the convoy across the Atlantic in good time and good condition. The crossing was so peaceful that none of the passengers reported hearing even the explosion of a depth charge.

Deprived of news of their voyage all members of the force were anxious to know about the battle of Libya. They expressed hope the fall of Tobruk would not delay the opening of a second front in Europe.

"France is the place we want to go, and soon," one gunner said, expresses the wish of all the men.

Wise Fellow Asks Ration Card Collector "What Are You Getting Out Of This?

There were interesting experiences related this morning as collectors in the sugar rationing drive swapped stories over cups of coffee in the downtown section, and all were enthusiastic over the fact that the job had been done so quickly and thoroughly.

One collector remarked that he felt like telling a garrulous gentleman to take his own card in, and perhaps it would have been a justifiable course of action. "What are you getting out of this?" asked the householder. "I am getting nothing at all, except sore feet," replied the collector, who like everyone else was working as a volunteer without payment of any kind in this community venture. "Aw, you can't tell me you are not getting your slice," replied the wise fellow, and the collector took the cards and moved off, before he reached the point of handing this fifth columnist what he should have received, namely a paste on the nose.

Another collector said he went to a house where there were eleven children and five boarders, and the dog had just been poisoned, and all the kids were crying.

"Never a dull moment," was the comment of another collector as he walked into a home where there were ten children, and the mother was trying to find room on the card for all the names, while several of the children craned their necks to watch the operation.

A well known George street merchant, who has a lot of friends out on highway 28, is ready to sue somebody this morning. Somehow people got the idea it was his job to collect the cards in the rural section along highway 28, which was not right. He had two phone calls between one and two this morning, and another at four from an indignant housewife who didn't even know what time of the night it was.

Still another collector came across a home where there were 19 boarders. The woman had apparently come to Peterborough and rented a big house, then advertised for boarders. The house is conveniently located in the factory district, and she has every spot filled. This house would have the same status as a restaurant in the sugar rationing scheme.

the Wellingtons concentrated on land targets.

British and South African bombers and fighter-bombers, operating between desert dusk and darkness yesterday, repeatedly assaulted Axis forces advancing toward Matruh from the Bir Abu Misheifa area, 80 miles to Matruh's southwest, and along the coastal route to the west of Matruh, Mediterranean anchor of Britain's present positions.

The R.A.F.'s communique contained the first British announcement that Axis forces were at Sidi Barrani, Egypt, 80 miles west of Matruh.

Rake Axis at Barrani

"Our fighters made numerous sweeps over forward battle areas, ground strafing enemy transport columns and landing grounds and enemy aircraft on airdromes at Sidi Barrani," the communique said, indicating that Sidi Barrani had been turned into a forward air base of the enemy.

"Enemy air activity was on a small scale," the R.A.F. said but reported bombing raids last night on British positions east, that is on the Suez side, of Matruh.

In Allied air operations only four planes were missing.

Supported by mobile infantry, the Axis heavy armor is rumbling along a wide natural avenue about midway between the sea and a desert plateau which rises 25 to 30 miles inland.

Smaller enemy forces were operating along the coast.

Farther south, some were reported to have reached the western rim of the Qattara depression about 90 miles inside Egypt but were dealt with by British armored patrols.

There was scant reason to believe they would attempt to cross the depression, which is a vast stretch of soft sand below sea level.

While the swiftness of the Axis advance made it virtually certain that the main bodies of the two forces soon would be locked in decisive battle, United Nations sources said there was every reason to believe the enemy would be held.

Rommel, throwing everything he possesses into the advance, is operating on a shoestring fully as much as the British forces area. Thus far he has manipulated his string more skilfully, but as he progresses his problems become more difficult in many respects while those of the British become simpler.

It Wasn't a Shark

A WEST COAST CANADIAN PORT, June 26—(CP).—The third mate of a Canadian-built merchantman attacked by a submarine off the west coast saw the torpedo coming but "thought it was a shark and when he discovered his mistake it was too late." the British crewmen, all of whom survived the action, related here.

The submarine shelled the vessel as well as torpedoing it, the crew said when brought here aboard a Canadian ship which picked them up after a night in open boats, but two 17-year-old seamen slept through the attack and heard about it from the captain, who went back to the settling ship to rouse them when their absence was noted.

The attack, the second on an Allied ship off the west coast in June, was disclosed officially today at Ottawa. In this case the ship was salvaged and no one injured, but the earlier attack sank a United States merchantman off Neah Bay, Wash., and resulted in the death of a crewman from exposure.

Goes Back After Two Boys

Ordered to abandon ship, the crew circled in lifeboats for 45 minutes, then returned while the captain, described by one of the crew as "the bravest man I ever sailed with," returned to wake the two youngsters who were sleeping soundly in an after comparment.

Shortly after this a star shell broke over the scene, followed 20 minutes later by another shell.

"Daybreak came and luckily the sea wasn't rough," the crew said.

"Several hours later a Canadian ship arrived and took us aboard. A line was put aboard the good old tub and later two tugs came along to help. Before they did, however, two of our boys went aboard again and put up the good old Red Ensign. It's there yet."

The rescue ship got a mascot as a reward for the rescue—a kitten which the crew took with them when they left the ship. It went to the rescue crew "as a memento and token of our appreciation."

All the men said they were anxious to get back to sea.

"We're not a bit worried," one remarked philosophically. "If you're marked, you're marked and that's all there is to it. We got off without a penny or a spare bit of clothing, but we're not down-hearted."

The seamen all hail from Liverpool and are in their teens and twenties. Several of them have survived other torpedoings.

Great Job Done By Collectors Of Ration Cards

An amazing mammoth venture in team work and organization sky-rocketed Peterborough's reputation for getting big jobs done in a hurry on Thursday night. Thirty-two team captains directing groups of ten and fifteen men collected more than 11,000 sugar ration cards in the short space of four hours, and at ten o'clock last night only 195 cards were missing.

W. E. Foley, Wartime Prices and Trade Board representative described the effort this morning as "one of the finest pieces of team-work and community effort ever shown any place." Continuing he said: "When it comes to getting a big job done in a hurry, we have to hand it to the business men of this town, and the fellows from the shops, stores and offices who are ready to pitch in and help out. They certainly did a wonderful job, and they not only collected the cards, but stayed in the office until midnight sorting them out alphabetically. There was a nice spirit prevailing throughout the whole job," he said.

Mr. Foley paid special tribute to G. A. Gillespie, general chairman, and to W. C. Hughes, who was the sparkplug in the smooth running machine, that put the sugar card collecting over the top. The men were drawn from all walks of life, and the basis of organization was that employed during the Red Cross drive and the War Savings survey.

The rural residents will mail their cards in, but in the city proper the job was to collect the cards. Starting at six in the evening the collectors went to work in the districts allotted to them, and many were cleaned up at 7:30. At 10 o'clock on Thursday evening, there were 195 cards out, that is, they could not be collected because the people were not home. However, at ten o'clock this morning there were only 60 homes that had not turned in cards. This means now that the householders who were missed must bring their cards in to the Wartime prices and Trade Board office on Hunter Street at once. It is possible, too, that the collectors may have missed a house or two but at any rate, everyone knows what must be done if they are to obtain sugar ration books by July 1.

Axis Presses Forward, 30 Miles Off

Bolster Supply Line With Captured Tanks and Trucks

CAIRO, June 26 — (AP). — British Headquarters announced to-day that leading elements of Axis forces were 30 miles west of Matruh, after advancing approximately 100 miles into Egypt.

British covering forces are engaging the advancing enemy troops, the communique said, but the latter have not yet engaged the main body of the British 8th Army, which was reported drawn up before Matruh for a decisive stand.

The main Axis column is moving along the coast, in line with the railway which runs eastward from Matruh to Alexandria, 160 miles airline away.

At least two lighter columns were reported driving eastward along parallel lines further inland.

The swiftness of the Axis advance impeded only by light rear-guard action, made it virtually certain the main bodies of the two opposing forces soon would be locked in a decisive battle on the outcome of which the whole situation in the Middle East may well depend.

That Long Supply Line.

British authorities apparently are pinning their hopes of victory largely on the geographical advantages of their defence line and on the possibility that Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel's lines of communication, now extended far across the desert may not be equal to the occasion.

Dispatches from the front indicated the 8th Army still is a formidable fight force and that it will be able to give a good account of itself.

Against this force Rommel was reported throwing into action every ounce of striking power at his disposal. This includes the German 21st and 15th armored divisions, the Italian Ariete ("Battering Ram") mechanized division and a supporting mass of motorized infantry.

He was reported to be filling up the gaps which were knocked in his equipment during the fighting in Libya by pressing into service recently-captured British and American-built tanks and trucks.

Wearing New Colors

In his haste to strike swiftly and give British commanders no chance to reorganize their forces, Rommel did not even take time to revamp this equipment, merely daubing swastikas on the sides of captured tanks before sending them into action.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

Speaker Urges Women Stop Worrying

PORT HOPE, June 26—(ENS).—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Association of the United Church was held on Thursday afternoon with Group 6 in charge.

Miss Phyllis Goheen sang, "In The Garden of Tomorrow," accompanied by Mrs. G. Garnett.

Mrs. Moore then introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. N. S. McKechnie, who gave a most interesting and instructive address on "What Is Worth While?" taken from a small book written by Dr. Aines Robertson.

Mrs. McKechnie opened her address by saying: "These are such busy days and we are doing so many more things than we thought it possible to do. Life is harder than we thought and we must ask ourselves, What is worth while? We have only one life to live, we want to do our best, but how can we accomplish the most with the energies and powers at our command." What is vital? was the first question discussed, and what is essential? These must be answered by the individual herself, who was advised by the speaker to drop pretence and live as she really is, to drop worry which is an infirmity with no virtue in it. The speaker explained it is not the lack of ability that worries people, it is the lack of sense. The audience was advised to make the most of her present opportunities and take courage to overcome what difficulties confront her.

Main Features

Mrs. McKechnie listed the worthwhile things in life, first "the wise use of time," stressing that time spent doing for others is time well spent. Work was listed second, every person is given her work to do with body, mind, heart and soul under God's direction.

Thirdly to grasp present happiness, not to go through life blindly thinking that in some fair tomorrow they would find happiness. Friendship, the speaker explained, was not faultless but one of the sweetest gifts of life to have real, true friends. Love, sorrow and faith were the other worth while things with which to fill these busy days.

Miss Jessie Hawkins and Miss Pauline Price gave a piano duet, "Fairy Queen," after which Mrs. Douglas took the chair for the business session.

The treasurer's report was given with a balance of $562.45 to date, compared with $600.36 at the same date in 1941. It was reported that the collection donated to take the place of the annual strawberry festival amounted to $151.15.

Referring to the Libyan reversal and the shipping situation in his presidential address at the York Diocesan Conference, he said the Government should take the people into its confidence.

New "Dry Ice" Rifle

Ray Monner, LEFT, 33-year-old Denver inventor, and his associate, Earl E. Paul, are shown with Monner's new "Dry Ice" rifle which has been made available to the U.S. Government. This gun may be fired 2,000 times on a single magazine of carbon dioxide, which in crushed form exerts a constant pressure of about 1,170 pounds per square inch. This, he says, can, with modifications, match the firing power of any gun using powder ammunition. This cost is estimated at 20 per cent. of that of an orthodox gun, because solid carbon dioxide (dry ice) can be manufactured at considerably less expense than powder.

Coldwell Would Cancel Titles

OTTAWA, June 26 — (CP). — M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. House Leader, Thursday urged the House of Commons to consider a move to cancel all hereditary titles held by Canadians domiciled in Canada.

He said it should not be possible to pass on titles "which are meaningless in this country."

Mr. Coldwell made his suggestion when the House resumed consideration of State Secretary McLarty's resolution calling for the setting up of a house committee to inquire into the expediency of altering the attitude of the Government and Parliament toward honors and awards.

Dr. H. A. Bruce (Con. Toronto Parkdale) objected to time of the House being taken up by the discussion when the Government Bill to permit conscription for overseas awaited action.

The House approved a motion to have the resolution referred to a special committee for consideration.

Rascals Defeat Grill Team 6-5

PORT HOPE, June 26 (ENS) — Manager Sid Wakely's Grills scored 6 runs in three innings when they defeated the Rascals 6 to 5 in the baseball game of Thursday night at King's field.

W. Foote homered in the 6th to put the Grill in the lead and Pointer retired the Rascals in order in the 7th. Pointer showed some of his former self in this game, striking out 10, and allowing 9 hits, three by John Keeler, including two doubles. Blow also singled twice. Wes. Friar played a steady game at third and drove in two runs in the fourth. The big sticker for the Nite-Cops was L. Wakely with three, including one double.

President Thomas Dawley announced the Beavers and Rascals had agreed to play their postponed game on Friday night, June 26th.

Summary:

Rascals	0 1 2 1 1 0 0	5	9	3
Grill	0 0 0 2 3 1 x	6	8	0

Batteries — Rascals: Blow and Huffman; Grill: Pointer and Rowcliffe.

3 base hit, Dawley; 2 base hits, Keeler 2, L. Wakely, Pointer, Friar; home run, W. Foote; struck out by Pointer 10, Blow 2; hit by pitcher, by Blow, W. Foote, Hagerman; left on bases Rascals 6 Grill 9.

Lineups—

Rascals—Ashby ss, Huffman c, Bennet cf, Dawley rf, Blow p, Wagar 2b, Keeler 3b, Bailey lf, Bongard 1b.

Grill—W. Foote ss, F. Foote 2b, L. Wakely 1b, Rowcliffe c, Rafter cf, Pointer p, Hagerman lf, Friar 3b, Cancilla rf.

A New Coach

Coaching the Beavers is Mr. Jack Kelly while Mr. Fred Cook is tutoring the pitchers. Mr. Cook, who is now residing at the Queen's Hotel, pitched with the New York Giants in 1913, having started out with the San Antone, Texas, team in 1904. He also pitched for the Cleveland Indians and Columbus Ohio's. Mr. Cook in his final years of ball playing pitched for the Toronto Ball Club.

White Protests Quebec Rescue

OTTAWA, June 26—(CP). — A House of Commons member from Ontario last night vigorously denied any wish to be "rescued" by a member from Quebec who had voiced criticism of a speech made by the Ontario member.

H. E. Brunelle (Lib., Champlain) had termed "shameful" a speech made Wednesday by Captain G. S. White (Con., Hastings-Peterborough) in the conscription debate.

"But I must come to the rescue of the honorable member," said Mr. Brunelle.

Captain White: "I protest. Heaven's above, I don't want to be rescued by the honorable gentleman. I am capable of taking care of myself."

Mr. Bruelle: "I say again I must come to the rescue of the honorable gentleman—"

Captain White: "I do not want you to rescue me."

Mr. Brunelle: "Whether he likes it or not."

Mr. Brunelle said that in Captain White's address of Wednesday, in which Captain White said the rest of Canada was tired of the domination by Quebec, the Ontario member had not interpreted correctly the manpower plebiscite vote in his riding when he said people in his part of Ontario had always been 100 per cent. in favor of a total war effort.

Mr. Brunelle said the plebiscite returns showed that in Hastings-Peterborough there had been 5,764 "Yes" votes and 1,357 "No" votes.

5,606 Cheese Sold On Board In Two Weeks In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, June 26. — (ENS)—Thirty-three factories offered cheese for sale at the semi-monthly meeting of the Campbellford Cheese Board last night and the offerings were divided among seven buyers all of whom paid the top price 19⅝c for white. Though a total of 5,606 cheese were listed only 2,826 of these represented those for the current week. The balance 2,780 will be shipped out to buyers who will automatically get the same factories next week. The current week's sales were divided as follows: A. J. Meyers for Flavells Ltd., Lindsay, 385; V. Spencer, Belleville Cheddar Cheese bought 432 cases; W. S. Stiles for P. W. McLagan & Co., 402; H. B. Wood for Oliver & Dorion, Montreal, 398; W. D. Bell, A. A. Ayer & Co. Ltd., 400; P. J. Murphy for Hodgson & Rosson, Montreal, 404; W. H. Bailey, for Lovell & Christmas, 405.

Offerings of cheese, all white, were as follows, with July 2 figure in brackets: Avonbank 80, (100); Beaver 102, (105); Brae 31 (34); Crow Bay 92, (92); Cedar Creek 138, (124); Empire 93, (93); Hoard's 78, (120); Ideal 125, (125); I.X.L. 27, (21); Kimberley 68, (70); Menie 114, (116); Percy (Warkworth), 77, (77); Prince of Wales 60, (60); Rylstone 132, (130); Stanwood 30, (26); Trent Bridge 110, (110); Trent Valey 91, (100); Woodlands 90, (93); Maple Leaf 125, (124); Bobcaygeon 88, (85); Burnley 110, (126); Daisy D 95, (95); Killarney 82, (82); Ormonde 93, (90); Pine Grove 66, (66); Selwyn 50, (50); Silverwoods 80, (75); Warsaw 76, (77); Warminster 51, (50); Young's Point 30, (30); Oakdale 45, (24); Dunsford 102, (35); Port Perry Creameries 195, (175).

Children's Choir Aid Band Concert

COBOURG, June 26.—Children's choirs of 90 voices from the west end and central public schools contributed to the excellent program presented last night at the weekly Kilties Band concert. Joe Goldring conducted the band, and Mrs. L. Bingham was in charge of the chorals. The children were heard in "O Canada," "The Fairies" from Midsummer Night's Dream by Mendelssohn, festival chorus in two parts, "The White Cliffs of Dover" and "There'll Always be an England." Ellen Vag took the solo parts in the festival chorus. Jack Campbell sang the toast to England in the final number.

Mary Webb, medallist in the recent Northumberland County Music Festival, presented a piano solo, "The Curious Story" by Stephen Heller and the Allego of Beethoven. Betty Clarke and Stanley Edgell were heard in a vocal duet, "The Wind" and "Oh, No John." Betty France, gold medallist in violin at the county festival played two solos, "Romance" and an encore. Mrs. Lenore Greer was accompanist.

Driver Gets 15 Days Stealing Gas

COBOURG, June 26 — (ENS). — Harold Spear, Hamilton Township resident, was sentenced to fifteen days in jail yesterday when he appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter on a charge of theft of gas. He was charged with stealing the gas from Charles Baker of Hamilton Township.

Baker told the court that he and Spear worked together on the Hees estate in Hamilton Township. He stated that he kept his car in the drive shed and one day early in June he came into the garage and discovered Spear pouring gas from a dipper into his (Spear's) gas tank. Spear had a length of rubber hose in one hand, the witness testified. Going to his own car, Baker related, he found the door of the car open, the seat cover off and the cap off his gas tank.

Provincial Constable David Adair testified that on June 9 he interviewed Spear and found that his ration book which was an A1 category had all the coupons removed except those which could be used after July 1.

Spear did not testify.

Cheese Box Shortage Shows Improvement

CAMPBELLFORD, June 26 (ENS)—Concern over the question of cheese boxes has diminished since the early part of the season judging by the reaction of salesmen to a question from Hector Arnold, president of the Campbellford Cheese Board on Thursday evening. Only two of the more than thirty factories represented at the meeting announced any actual shortage. One of these was Robert McCulloch, president of the I.X.L. factory, who said his Company did not have enough boxes on hand "to ship all we would like to this week." President Ernest Davidson of Avonbank told the gathering that his factory had but a week's supply on hand. Alex. Elliott relieved the minds of other salesmen with the information that approximately 500 boxes a day were being turned out over in Norwood.

Following their usual practice of supporting the Belleville Cheese Show members authorized the payment of five cents a box to the show on all cheese sold over the board on June 18th.

Poultry Meets Resort Calls

TORONTO, June 26 — (CP). — The dressed poultry market remained steady, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports. Receipts of springers, broilers and fowl show a decided increase, with quality improving.

Broilers are moving well.

The local demand is normal but summer resort contracts are taking care of this kind of poultry, shipments going forward as needed.

Fowl are plentiful and clearing fairly well.

More spring chicken are in evidence. In fact there is some slight surplus which is being packed for storage. The weight of arrivals are from 3 to 4 lbs., too many being of the lower weight which does not move very freely, the trade needing heavier birds.

There is a good movement of frozen chicken locally and out-of-town.

Turkeys are also moving better, some small shipments going forward to Newfoundland.

Quotations are unchanged.

Dealers are quoting producers and country shippers:

Spring chicken 25c to 26c lb.

Broilers: Grade A milkfed 25c to 26c; Grade B milkfed 24c to 25c; Grade A 25c; Grade B 23c.

Fowl: Grade A, 5 lbs. and up 22c to 23c, 4 to 5 lbs. 21c to 22c; 3 to 4 lbs. 20c; Grade B, 5 lbs. and up 20c to 21c; 4 to 5 lbs. 19 cto 20c; 3 to 4 lbs. 18c.

Old roosters: 16-17 cents.

Prefers To Lose Battles To Churchill

SYDNEY, June 26 — (AAP). — William M. Hughes, a leader of the United Australia Party and Prime Minister in the last war yesterday said he would prefer the loss of battles than the loss of Prime Minister Churchill.

"He's brought us as far as we have gone," Mr. Hughes said in discussing parliamentary criticism in London of the Prime Minister.

"He has ranged the United States on our side. He is responsible for the alliance with Russia. He chooses the best available men and cannot be blamed for tactical errors. In the last war when we lost every battle except the last one the sins of the generals were not visited upon the Government.

"The Generals in Libya were apparently beaten because Rommel is better. But Britons are stubborn fighters. The call now is to stand firm."

Curdled Blood And George Drew

Before the present excitement involving Colonel George Drew dies down there is certain to be a great deal of acrimonious discussion, accompanied by attempts to discredit the Government and set up Colonel Drew as a martyr. As a matter of fact, the incident which has led to a charge being laid against him by the Government is not so important as it seems. When the investigation of the Hong Kong expedition was set up Colonel Drew was chosen to serve as Opposition counsel in the matter, and his appointment was confirmed by the Royal Commissioner, Sir Lyman Duff. After the Royal Commissioner had made his report to the Governor-General and it had been presented to Parliament by the Prime Minister, Colonel Drew, in a public address, denounced the composition of the Hong Kong force as "a cruel betrayal of public duty"; he also said that "the present system of raising men has failed and failed miserably," and he said that "blood-curdling facts" had been witheld from the Royal Commissioner's report. This is strong talk, but Colonel Drew is a colorful speaker, and has been known before this to say more than he means. And, like most members of Opposition parties, be they Liberal, Conservative or C.C.F., his blood curdles very easily.

Now we are confronted with the spectacle of this popular public figure summoned on a charge of having uttered statements which may be prejudicial to recruiting. And of course anyone who believes that the Hong Kong expedition was a stupid bungle and that it was whitewashed by a corrupt Commission will be reluctant to enlist. But does anyone believe these things? We know the circumstances under which it was necessary to dispatch the Hong Kong expedition and we know how many partially trained men were in that expedition. We know that there are carelessness in the quartermaster's department. But we have been told by a Royal Commissioner who is also the highest legal authority in this country that the Hong Kong expedition was neither ill-conceived nor badly managed. The truth may wear a very different aspect for a Chief Justice, and for a practical politician anxious to impress himself upon the public. We do not believe for an instant that Colonel Drew was insincere in his statements, for he has shown himself to be an honorable man on many occasions, but we think that his view of the situation was warped by his prejudices. A Chief Justice is not obliged to harbor any prejudices.

Whoever has been responsible for the summons issued to Colonel Drew, we think that it has been a mistake. Colonel Drew has a high reputation and enjoys the trust of a great part of this country's population, both Conservative and Liberal. He was surely well within his rights in criticising the Hong Kong report, and if he said too much he was not the first, and will not be the last, Parliamentarian to do so. He has done much for recruiting in this country and we think that he deserves better treatment than this, which can be made to look unpleasantly like a repressive move directed at a political opponent.

Conscripted Wealth

Every cloud, we have been assured, has a silver lining, and we must assume that the Budget, with its hundred per cent. tax on excess profits, shows in this respect at least a silver lining for those who have advocated the conscription of wealth. Unless they advocate actual confiscation of monetary assets, which would soon bring our economy tumbling about our ears, it is hard to see how conscription of wealth can go any farther. The Government now takes every penny from a business which is not needed to keep it reasonably solvent.

It is proper, however, to say that wealth has been conscripted, rather than confiscated, for a part of the excess profits tax is returnable after the war. A man who is conscripted does not become the lifelong slave of the state; as soon as possible he is returned to civil life and, in the old phrase, 'becomes his own man again.' So it is with the conscripted money, which will return to civil life—a little pale and wan, perhaps—after the war is over. It will be very welcome. Most businesses are going to need it badly.

The word 'wealth' is capable of many interpretations. When most of us think of wealthy men we think of men whose incomes far exceed our own. But it is possible to regard as wealth any part of a man's income which he spends on luxuries, and in wartime governments are apt to regard as wealth any part of a man's income which he can give up without actually becoming a charge on the state. Under our new Budget a married, childless man whose income is $2,500 yearly is deemed to possess wealth to the extent of $651, and that is precisely the amount which the state takes from him. After the war they will give him back $250.

On the $1,849 which is left him he must support himself and his wife, and take care of any expenses which he may incur. Obviously he is not going to do any riotous spending on this amount. He must save money, too. The fact that the Government is going to give him $250 two years after the war is not going to help him if he becomes ill and has a $50 doctor's bill now. Doctors cannot live on air. The citizen with the $2,500 income is going to have to do some interesting financing in order to make ends meet. So, we may say, is the citizen whose income is $100,000, who will be allowed to keep $21,013 to support himself and his wife. If anyone doubts this, we suggest that he does not know what he is talking about. To occupy a $100,000 position on $21,013 is a problem for a financial wizard.

We are disturbed when we think of the way in which the new Budget is going to reduce the purchase of War Savings Certificates and Victory Bonds. We should buy as many as we can, but what are we going to use for money? Presumably Mr. Ilsley has thought this through, but our slower intellect is still bogged in the problem.

Two Sons Die

All of Canada will sympathize with Lieutenant-General McNaughton, who has lost his son Ian, an airman. And admirers of the verse of John Masefield, the Poet Laureate, will be sorry to hear that his son, Lewis Crommelin Masefield, has been killed in action. Many sons will be lost before this war is done, and many hearts will grieve for them, but few of those hearts will be able to speak of their grief.

It is thus that the poet may serve the warrior. Poets suffer our griefs and know the secrets of our hearts, and they speak for us in the words which we can never find. From the incoherent and formless mass of our sorrows they refine a gold which is pure and true and which remains when we are dust, to show succeeding ages that we too suffered and that there is nothing new under the sun. To be a general and a father in time of war is a bitter task. But to be a father and a poet is to hold in one's hand a trumpet the notes of which will ring through the ages, waking echoes in every heart which grieves, but cannot speak.

Spender and Egypt

From THE WINNIPEG FREE PRESS

A CULTURED old man died amid the lanes of Kent in England on Sunday. He was Mr. J. Alfred Spender, the most persuasively brilliant editor of the period of Liberal orthodoxy in British politics within this century. He brought the classical finish of Balliol to journalism. It made him welcome when Campbell-Bannerman offered generous terms to the Boers after the war in South Africa, and later on offered a shoulder to be leaned on with confidence by Asquith.

In the company of statesmen, he was a counsellor. A master of government, he was never in a government. But as a student of imperial politics who gave much to the social polity of Britain today, he saw things and judged events with the liberalism that guided Campbell-Bannerman in dealing with South Africa. He was picked by one of the consuls of imperialism to take a place on a mission whose findings have borne fruit within the last few days in this war.

ALFRED MILNER — the famous pro-consul who brought about unified command under Marshal Foch in the last war—seemed appropriately chosen to head the mission to recommend a constitution for Egypt just after the last war. But the imperial statesmen who put their faith in Milner keeping a tight hold on Egypt were confused by his report on the Egyptian situation. It was, they found, liberal to a fault. It bore the imprint of a liberality of mind recalling what liberality had done for the Commonwealth in South Africa. It saw into the future.

In these last few years, while battle has raged to control Egypt and the eastern Mediterranean, it almost seems as though the influence exerted by the unassuming Alfred Spender had induced Milner, too, to see what was to come, and to move the Egyptians into the right avenue of approach.

The Milner report came like a bolt out of the riotings and killings in 1919 that threatened to drive the British out of Egypt for ever. The symptom making itself most plain to the Milner mission was that the time had come when what was known as the Cromer regime in Egypt must cease. The Egyptians were yearning, and were induced by Britain's enemies to yearn, for a political freedom that amounted to total independence. Similar impetus can be seen propelling many small nations, other than the vast Indian empire, today.

The Egyptians clamored they had been promised self-government. That promise had come to them curiously. For the first two years of the last war the Palestinian campaigns were waged from bases within Egypt. So declarations emanating from the military carried weight with the Egyptians and other nations in the Middle East. One of these declarations coming from the military authorities in Palestine toward the end of November, 1918, said that the purpose of the British victory was the enfranchisement of the peoples. This statement was drafted by Lord Robert Cecil, but before being published had never been seen by or heard of by Mr. Lloyd George or Lord Balfour.

The singularity of the promulgation of that declaration did not mollify the fury of the disorders and agitation facing the Milner mission when it got to Egypt near the end of 1919. Besides having Viscount Milner for leader, the mission consisted of Sir Rennell Rodd, General J. G. Maxwell, Sir Owen Thomas, M.P., Sir C. J. B. Hurst, and Mr. Spender. Its findings gave much asked for by Egypt, but left a chance for Britain to effect an alliance that would let it somewhat control and protect Egypt against foreign attack. The British forces were to be taken out of Egypt, except some to guard the Suez; extra-territorial courts were to be abolished; and a system of government amounting practically to autonomous rule was recommended.

IF THOSE terms, much influenced by the liberalizing philosophy of Spender, had not been agreed on, the fate of Egypt in this war would have been settled three years ago, and with it fate of the Commonwealth could have been adversely decided under the circumstances of 1940.

Spender was the biographer of Campbell-Bannerman and of Oxford and Asquith. He was an apostle of "The America of Today," a title he gave one of his many books. In the quietude of thought in later years he may have seemed outdated, but stormy, unreasoning times may only have brought inconsistency with the political philosophy that guided him through a full, brilliant life of exposition.

Unconsidered Trifles

At a local first-aid class, the question of fainting came up. The instructor explained to the class that the cause of fainting was primarily a fault of circulation and that it could be prevented by getting the head lower than the heart.

"For instance," he said, "if you feel faint, and don't want to call attention to it, just lean down and tie your shoe-lace over again."

A woman in the front raised her hand.

"What sort of knot is used?" she asked.

One day he turned his attention to a habit among the elder women of pipe-smoking.

"I can't do with preachers when they stop preaching and start meddling," she said.

British Retreat No Rout

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

THE disaster in the Middle East formed a sombre backdrop for the Roosevelt-Churchill reassurances to Congressional leaders as to war trends.

The Prime Minister's reported insistence that Egypt, and presumably British domination of the Eastern Mediterranean, is in no immediate danger must be accepted with reservations, lacking the factual data on which it was based. That data constitutes jealously guarded military information in so far as it portrays British tactical or strategic dispositions and resources in Egypt, or United Nation counter-moves.

However, Mr. Churchill's confidence as to Egypt's security, despite a further swift advance of fifty miles or more by Axis forces across the Libyan border, is distinctly heartening. It indicates that General Sir Claude Auchlinleck, commander-in-chief of Egypt, has effected an orderly withdrawal from Libyan-Egyptian border positions and that his armies have not again been encircled.

Once the British defense line in Eastern Libya broke to expose Tobruk to the successful mass assault by Rommel's forces, General Auchinleck was forced to choose a line on which to make a stand-and-fight defense of Egypt, Alexandria and the Suez Canal. The speed with which border strong points were evacuated and retreat on a wide sector was accomplished indicates it was planned well in advance, possibly even before Tobruk fell.

The British Command gained several important advantages by such a withdrawal. Not the least of them is time to reorganize the battered 8th Army and to bring up men and equipment. It takes prompt advantage also of shortening British and lengthening Axis supply lines as well as of a shortening front in preparation for a crucial and decisive clash.

It also invites the immediate active help of Egypt's 150,000 British-schooled troops now that their country has been invaded. Those troops are inured by heritage and training to desert warfare. They could prove of vital value.

There are intimations from Cairo that the main British defense front is displayed from Matrub due south to the Quattara depression, a line less than fifty miles long. The depression is a vast region of swamps, marshes and soft sand. It forbids formidable mechanized turning movements from the south, as the Mediterranean forbids them from the north. British defense could be concentrated in depth on so narrow a position, although it still is not clear that so deep a retirement has been made.

Even so, the withdrawal has greatly increased the peril of the Alexandria naval base. It now is menaced by air from Axis fields in Libya, from Crete and from Axis-held islands in the Aegean. The Matruh-Quattara depression front is less than 200 miles away.

Appointment of an army tank veteran, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, already at his post in London, to command of an American theatre of operations in Europe hints again at early second-front moves. That they can develop soon enough or on a scale to affect the situation in Egypt seems doubtful. Some other Anglo-American move must also be hatching to limit or remove the threat to Alexandria.

Washington Spotlight

By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 26 —(CP)—Washington thrives on political bickering even in the midst of war.

The latest man of controversy is Leon Henderson, short, paunchy, cigar-smoking director of the office of price administration who has never been known to back away from a fight since he arrived in Washington in the wild and woolly days of the N.R.A.

A group of Senators and Congressmen have banded to clip Henderson's wings, or even to get him fired, because he pleads guilty to the most heinous of crimes in the eyes of politicians—he won't play ball with them in appointments or even consult them before putting someone on the public pay roll.

A few days ago a Democratic Senator started to berate Henderson for appointing a Republican as price administration director in his state. Henderson took it for several minutes, then reached for a telephone across his desk.

Without lifting the phone from its rest, Henderson said he would resign before he would see the price control machinery permeated with political appointments.

In a rage, the Senator retorted that Henderson deserved to be fired from his job.

"If you feel that way," Henderson declared, lifting the telephone to his ear, "I'll call the President right away and make an appointment for you to go and tell him I ought to be fired."

The offer was not accepted. The telephone went back on the hook.

TALK LANDS A JOB

FEW men ever have taken a big job in Washington with better advance notices than Elmer Davis, newspaperman and radio commentator, the new director of the office of war information whose job it will be to organize the publicity of the American war effort on the basis of factual news. On all sides Davis has been welcomed as the right man in the right spot.

It now appears that Davis unwittingly talked himself into the job. On one of his regular broadcasts several weeks ago, he lashed out at "the whole government publicity situation which has everybody in the news business almost in despair, with half-a-dozen different agencies following different lines and sometimes telling different stories."

The broadcast came to White House attention and resulted in Davis becoming a candidate for a job he didn't seek and didn't particularly want but which, when it was offered to him by President Roosevelt, he considered he must accept.

HALL-BEDROOM HEADACHE

IN THE midst of revelations about the scarcity of housing in Ottawa, as a result of the influx of war workers, Washington is going ahead with a vast program to provide shelter for thousands of its newest residents, many of whom are doubling up in hall-bedrooms and paying outrageous rents to grasping landlords.

A plan was approved a few days ago for the construction of 12,291 dormitory units in various parts of the district if Congress will come through with the money and if the necessary priorities can be arranged for the building materials. Some will be reserved for negroes.

LADY FROM MOSCOW

IF THERE is one diplomat in Washington who has made tremendous strides in the last six months, it is Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian Ambassador. He has gained a reputation as a shrewd and long-headed statesman. His English-born wife, Ivy, has been of inestimable value to him.

She probably is the most influential woman in the Washington diplomatic set, this woman from London by way of Moscow. There is no diplomatic nonsense about her, no Oxford accent, no pretense. She gives a straight answer to a fair question and altogether is winning many friends and influencing many people for her adopted country.

CAPITAL TRIVIA

MANY government employees now ride bicycles to work but none of the higher-ups have started....British officers stationed in Washington, particularly of the Royal Air Force, have generally adopted the American Army custom of dispensing with tunics in summer but Canadian officers, for some strange reason, continue to look uncomfortable, all buttoned up in tight-fitting tunics in Washington's sweltering climate....The United States Navy is not enthusiastic about a Women's Auxiliary Corps and it is doubtful if one will be formed.

Mrs. Smythe was making final arrangements for an elaborate reception.

"Nora," she said to her veteran maid, "for the first half-hour I want you to stand at the drawing room door and call the guests' names as they arrive."

Nora's face lit up.

"Thank you, ma'am," she replied, "I've been wanting to do that to some of your friends for the last twenty years."

A Bible Message For Today

But unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ. Wherefore he saith, When he ascended up on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men...

And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ: till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ.—Eph. iv, 7, 8, 11-13.

When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory.... Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds; and have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him.—Col. iii, 4, 9, 10.

Most Important Words

Ivor Armstrong Richards, eminent critic, semantologist and co-father of basic English, calls his latest book "How to Read a Page," a title that cocks a waggish eye at Mortimer Adler. The simple reader will perhaps first consult Mr. Richards' list of "most important words." These "cover the ideas we can least avoid using." They number 103, more than beginners can be expected to swallow at once, But there is an honor list "of the most important of the most important": make, get, give, love, have, seem, be, do, see, mind, thought, idea, knowledge, reason, purpose, work.

To the semantic searcher, even all our most important words are "ambiguous." Yet "death" is most important, nor is it chargeable with ambiguity. It would seem to be one of the words we can least avoid using, but Mr. Richards avoids using it in his catalogue. And who can avoid using constantly the words that express family relations? Aren't people constantly talking about their food, health, home, country, government, friends? None of these is included among the 103 importants. Everybody needs and uses the words necessary in his calling. Don't we all continually wish, want, hope? So the plain man may think, doubtless because he hasn't learned to read some pages of Mr. Richards' book, learned and acute, but to the novice cryptic.—New York Times.

Coastal Convoys

Announcement that the United States Navy has adopted the convoy system for shipments along the Atlantic Coast is more significant than it appears on the surface. It may, in fact, mark a great conversion, and there is a good chance that it will prove the greatest single factor in beating the Nazi submarine campaign in American waters.

The convoy system remains the most effective means of protecting merchantmen against U-boat attack. It has its disadvantages, of course, the greatest of which is the fact that it slows down shipping. Up until now, the United States has insisted on speed, even at the sacrifices of safety. It has refused to adopt convoys for coastal shipping, which is a partial explanation of why the submarines have been reaping a rich harvest in the coastwise trade, as contrasted to a disappointing showing in the North Atlantic trans-oceanic routes. Admission that the convoys are now to operate on the north-south route suggests that the school of thought advocating safety has finally won out.—Windsor Daily Star

W. R. Givens Declares Quebec Spoilt Child Of Confederation

By W. R. GIVENS

We have had some astonishing developments at Ottawa during the last few weeks growing out of the overseas conscription debate in the House of Commons—developments that far overshadow in their ultimate significance even the issue of conscription and that should make us all stop, look and listen and then stop and listen again. As for conscription itself it will profit us little to discuss or debate it here, as it is apparent that the issue is already determined for us and we can do nothing about it at the moment. The Government, clearly, has decided that there is no immediate need for conscription for overseas service. And since the power both of determination and of action lies with the Government we can only accept its decision gracefully and express the hope that the decision is fully warranted by the facts, just as we must accept the further assurance of immediate action if and when overseas conscription shall become necessary. Until then, whether the majority of Canadians like it or not, they must possess their souls in patience "trusting in God but keeping their powder dry."

Yet while this is so there is nothing to prevent the people of Canada from giving heed to the astounding position that the Province of Quebec, through its accredited leaders, has taken in respect not alone of conscription but of the world war—the more astounding when we remember that if it were not for Quebec, which is completely out of step with the other Provinces, there would be no issue, inasmuch as all these other Provinces have signified by their Plebiscite votes their willingness and readiness for conscription.

No Unfriendly Spirit

At the outset, it should he be pointed out that anything hereafter said is uttered in no unfriendly spirit to Quebec or its people, for the writer has many friends in Quebec and is not unmindful of the warning that we must say nothing to offend our French-Canadian citizens, though it is difficult to understand why, if Quebec can talk freely, others should be expected to remain mute. However, that argument aside, the fact is, that instead of being unfriendly what follows should be construed rather as flattering to the French-Canadians, for it will consist merely of a few paragraphs culled from the speech on the floor of the House of Commons made by one of their outstanding political leaders, Hon. Mr. St. Laurent, the newly appointed Minister of Justice of Canada, re-echoed by his compatriots in somewhat different words. To repeat his remarks, therefore, cannot surely be construed other than as friendly and as a tribute to him and his followers. It will, however, not be misconstrued if attention be called to the fact that since Hon. Mr. St. Laurent is minister of justice of all Canada his remarks have been regarded, beyond the borders of Canada, as representative of the people of the Dominion as a whole and thus have led to the erroneous impression that the Dominion is only half-heartedly in the war to save the world from Darkness and Destruction. Apparently Mr. St. Laurent never thought of that.

Now let us see what Mr. St. Laurent actually said on the subject of the war and of overseas conscription. Well, for one thing, he said: "Quebec is not prepared to accept conscription for what it still looks upon as a war for Britain and France"... but "only if it were absolutely necessary for their own salvation." And, again, "French speaking Canadians have no sentimental attachment for the Government of the British Isles or for British Imperialism." And yet again: "Our loyalty cannot be expected to be one of traditional affection and sentiment." And still again: "We have not been assimilated" and "one hundred and seventy-five years of British connection has conclusively shown that we are not going to be assimilated." And others of his followers have said much the same words, while Premier Godbout, in his Monday night speech, joined in the glad refrain.

The Quebec Attitude

Behold, then, the Quebec attitude as represented by its chief spokesman and others. They are not assimilated and they do not intend to be assimilated — clear evidence that unity in Canada (which we are pleaded with to preserve by not unduly pressing the conscription issue) is now little more than a hissing and a byword. For, quite plainly, this non-assimilation declaration signifies that Quebec is in the Dominion, but not of the Dominion, —a unit and presumably sufficient unto itself. Simmered down, this means that the Quebec point of view appears to be that service at home far removed from the battle front is sufficient for French-Canadians, permitting them to toast their shins at their own firesides, safe, serene and secure, while the people of the other Provinces who favor overseas conscription are fighting at the front, holding to it, as they do, that the Quebec attitude is not the patriotic attitude and certainly is incalculably less valuable to the Cause than sacrifice on the battle-front, in the air and on the high seas, with all that this kind of sacrifice implies in "blood, sweat and tears."

But that is not all that the St. Laurent words signify: They signify not only that Quebec is an out-and-out Isolationist, but that it has no Mother Country—neither France, nor England—not France, from whence came their forebears with their soft, musical language, their gracious presence, their chivalry, their deeply religious spirit and their love of home and family; not England, who has protected them these many years and to whose magnanimity they owe as just and generous a peace as history has ever recorded, securing to them their language, their religion, the right of assembly, free institutions and free speech—all those things that have enabled them to develop and to grow into a proud and prosperous people. And now we see them unconcerned, wholly unconcerned, as to the fate of the land that gave their ancestors being and to the land that gave them unbounded liberty and freedom. Inconceivable! Inexplicable! Unnatural even!

A Look Backwards

To understand how all this has come to pass, it will be necessary to go back to the beginning of Confederation in order that we may appreciate why to-day we have on our hands this problem of Quebec which is truth is not a Quebec problem at all but an all-Canada problem; why not Quebec but all Canada is to be blamed for the present deplorable condition of affairs. The explanation is simple. It is that Quebec is the spoilt Child of Confederation and that from the very beginning our political leaders, Liberal, Conservative and what have you—not one Party but all Parties, though strongly Liberal in recent years — have sought to grapple Quebec and its people to their tender, yearning hearts with hooks of political steel, realizing the potency of a more or less solid Quebec vote. Thus it is that for years the simple habitants of Quebec have been cajoled molly-coddled and exploited by the politicians of the day who have maintained a Rock-a-bye baby attitude toward them, with not a little soothing syrup added for good measure.

An Isolationist Province.

Worse still, the coddling politicians have made no effort to educate or develop the people of Quebes along National or Imperial lines but, content with their votes have unconcernedly watched them drift into insularity. The result is that now, with a war in progress that threatens to engulf the world, the people of Quebec have become out-and-out isloationists. Nurtured in such shallow soil it is perhaps not surprising that they feel that their responsibility in the present crisis does not carry overseas. Here, clearly, is a complete failure to realize that this is more than a Canadian war, more than a war of Continents, but is a war that encompasses all the earth, involving peoples and nations throughout the wide, wide world Apparently there is an utter lack of realization that if Hitler and his vile associates should win this war the civilized world would crumble and the now complacent people of Quebec, with their "solid bloc" would be among the doomed. To this pass—to this shocking indifference to world warfare —have the people of Quebec been brought first by the skullduggery of our politicians and later by the failure of these same politicians to educate the French Canadians to their world responsibilities and to broaden their outlook beyond the confines of their own Province which they have now come to regard largely as a country of their own.

The Effect on the United States.

There is, finally, one phase of the matter that the people of Quebec must surely come in time to see, or failing, regret it ever afterward. Today Canada is fighting side by side in this Allied cause with our great neighbor to the south of us, recently rudely awakened from its isolationism by the tragedy of Pearl Harbor and becoming overnight a united people. But Canada is more than an Ally. She is the connecting link between the United States and Great Britain, the interpreter of one to the other where such interpretation is necessary. To perform that function to the full Canada must be a united nation, not, as now, a divided one, with a minority Province apparently forgetting that in a Democracy majority rule must prevail and the tail be not per-

Income Tax Savings Deductions Apply Only To Refundable Portion

OTTAWA, June 26—(CP).—Deductions from income tax on account of contractual savings arrangements provided in the new budget apply only to that portion of the income tax which is refundable after the war.

The deductions may be claimed on account of premiums paid on both straight life and endowment policies but, as now framed, the budget resolution does not provide for deductions of premiums paid on accident and sickness insurance policies.

Although not expressly stated in the resolution, an official said it is likely a taxpayer will be able to deduct from his taxes premiums paid by him on insurance policies and anuities for his wife and dependent children, as well as his own premiums.

The deduction allowable for medical expenses when they exceed five per cent of the taxpayer's income is to be allowed for payments made to "any qualified medical practitioner, dentist or nurse, registered under any dominion or provincial legislation or regulation, or public or provincially licensed private hospital."

The resolution make no mention of the cost of medicines or drugs purchased with or without doctor's prescription. As payments made to a dentist are covered, it is assumed the deduction allowable may include the cost of false teeth.

SOLDIERS WALLOP ROYALS 21 TO 13 IN WIDE OPEN SOFTBALL GAME

Soldiers Score 14 Runs In First Inning

After several weeks of airtight ball the City Softball League came up with a picnic brand game Thursday night at Riverside Park when Soldiers walloped Royals in a weird contest in which runs were a dime a dozen The boys from the camp won 21 to 13 and there may be a couple of small polls in the north that have not yet reported.

Altogether the teams piled up 34 runs, made 25 hits, committed 11 errors and drew 17 bases on balls and the statistics will give you a rough outline of the nature of the proceedings.

The game figured to be a close even battle and when Royals opened up in the first inning with three runs a lot of the experts opined that might be about enough to win for them.

But the experts hadn't seen anything yet. Back came the Soldiers in the last half of the opening frame and they batted around exactly twice before Royals could get the side out. When the storm had subsided a careful check showed that the Military Training Centre had pushed over 14 runs, on a total of nine hits, four bases on balls, one error and a couple of plays that misfired because the fielder neglected to take the sure out at first. Anderson, McIlveen, Mortimer, Sero, Fleming and Herrick each crossed the plate twice in that one frame and Kilfoyle and McKerrigan registered once. McIlveen and Herrick kicked in with two hits each in the big-scoring inning.

That Big Inning

Bill Fraser started on the mound for Royals but it was evident early that it was not his night. He had trouble getting the ball over, walking three of the first four batters and when he did get one in the Soldiers teed off. Giardino threw to the plate too late to get one runner and George Hawks fielded a grounder and then made no play and those two breaks did not help to pull the wavering pitcher out of trouble. The result was that after the Soldiers had scored five runs and there was still nobody out Lionel Holmes went to the rescue, but the onslaught continued until fourteen runs were in.

After that terrific barrage Holmes made a good job of checking the winners for the balance of the game, holding them to five hits and only three earned runs during the rest of the pastime. His slow ball seemed to bother the Soldier hitters a lot and outside of the sixth when Sero homered to deep centre with two on he got by nicely.

Ken Fleming was on the rubber for the winners and it was not his best effort of the season either. He was touched up for eleven hits and issued ten bases on balls and with his team mates bobbing up with six errors Royals ran up a score on their own account large enough to win an ordinary ball game in hollow fashion. To the credit of the Royals who had a number of regulars missing it can be said that they battled to the end in spite of that terrible start and outscored their opponents for the balance of the game.

Some Lively Hitting

Nick Sero with a homer and three singles led the Soldier assault and Tony McIlveen came through with a double and two singles, Maurice Giardino was the batting powerhouse for the losers with a triple, double and two singles and he drove in five runs.

After that big first inning Soldiers scored one in the second on a walk to McIlveen, Sero's single to centre and an error. Royals got two in the third when Parnell and Murphy walked and both scored on Giardino's double to left.

The losers came back with three in the third when L. Holmes and McNabb were both safe on errors and went home on Hawks' triple to centre and Hawks registered while Parnell was being tossed out. Soldiers got two in their half, McKerrigan single to start with and after the next two went down Gatfield dropped Mortimer's fly to left, McKerrigan scoring and Mortimer went in on a low throw by Eddie Murphy.

Royals picked up two in the first of the sixth on hits by Hawks and Giardino and three walks. Soldiers replied with four in their half on a walk to McKerrigan, a single by Henderson and an error, a fly to centre field with McKerrigan scoring after the catch and then a homer by Sero chasing Anderson and McIlveen in ahead of him.

Royals got the last three runs of the game in the seventh on errors by Sero and McKerrigan and singles by Parnell, Murphy and Gatfield.

Soldiers: Anderson, 3b; McIlveen, lf; Mortimer, cf; Sero, ss; Fleming, p; Kilfolyle rf; Herrick, 1b; Barnes, c; McKerrigan, 2b.

Keeping In Shape

Jimmy Smith, who has maintained a discreet silence in regards to his impromptu bout with Billy Conn, his son-in-law, is shown keeping in trim with his son, Jimmy Smith, Jr. If you recall Billy and Smith, Sr., had it out one day and as a result Conn's bout with Joe Louis this summer was knocked into a cocked hat when Billy injured one of his maulers.

Wally Stanowski, Langelle Enlist

TORONTO, June 26. — Wally Stanowski and Pete Langelle of the Stanley Cup champion Toronto Leafs, enlisted with the R.C.A.F. at Winnipeg yesterday. They will begin an R.C.A.F. vocational aero-engine mechanics' course in August.

Stanowski and Langelle are the second and third Leafs to select the air force for service. Several weeks back Johnny McCreedy, Leaf right-winger, enlisted with the R.C.A.F. here. Don and Nick Metz are with an army unit in Regina.

Bill Juzda, stocky New York Rangers' defenceman, also enlisted with the R.C.A.F. in Winnipeg yesterday. He joined as a student-pilot.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Remember the mixed tournament this evening at 7.30 o'clock. Phone your name in early and be on time

Just what effect the results of last night's games have on the schedule of Group No. 2, at this moment, we do not know, but off hand we believe the president's rink is out in front. This may or may not be correct, but to-night we'll look up the records and then have definite information.

If one can figure out this lawn bowling game, we wish they would please step forward and let's have the information. We can't figure it out We don't know where to begin.

Look at Roy Hutchinson's rink, went along swell, toppled over everything in sight, and then bang. Away goes everything.

Jim McDonald's drink went the same way. Howard Clegg is also in the same rut. Look how Bob French is slowly but surely forcing his way up towards the front.

The Levine rink, the Sedgewick rink, they're all coming along nicely, and then stop and look at some of us who have suddenly come to life and from now on intend to make the passage rough for each and all. Yes, if you can figure this game out, 'come up and see me sometime' and we'll get together on it.

Have you got your rink lined up for the Dominion Day tournament? See H. Clegg, F. Dearborn or B. Chesler at once.

About the busiest man around the greens, as we saw it, was the secretary-treasurer. He had quite a roll the last time we saw him.

In the ladies' section it looks now as if Mrs. J. Kingsbury's rink is out in front with six wins and one loss, but again we will check the records to make sure.

There is no doubt about it, that this year's schedule looks to be about as evenly matched as it could be. In all sections there are four or five rinks that are making a real bid for group honors. One night's play, one nights results, yes and even one badly played bowl may alter the whole situation.

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP) — The big problem for the Major League All-Star Managers will be how to keep from starting too many Yankees and Dodgers . . . Joe McCarthy ought to make out all right—he's had plenty of practice—but Leo Durocher has Wyatt, Owen, Herman, Reese, Vaughan Reiser and Medwick from his own club. Scarboro' Holds Trophy On Adams Birdie

TORONTO, June 26.—"Sonny" Adams dropped a long put for a birdie three at the first hole to give Scarboro' a playoff decision over Summit and the East End club's third straight victory in the George S. Lyon Memorial Trophy team tournament yesterday afternoon at Rosedale Golf Club.

Scarboro's and Summit four-man teams were deadlocked at the conclusion of the 18-hole competition. A two-man team playoff was decided on, with Adams and Phil Farley representing Scarboro', Mel Currer and Gordon Duncan appearing for Summit. Currer, Duncan and Farley had par fours at the extra hole. Adams' birdie gave Scarboro' the honors.

Jim Twiss of Mississauga was the scoring leader of the tournament field with a 73, one over par. Phil Farley, Scarboro' and George Boeckh, York Downs, were tied with 74's.

Representing Summit in the team event were Tommy Winter, Bill Duckworth, Gordon Duncan and Mel Currer. Linked with Farley and Adams on the Scarboro' title team were R. Robinson and C. J. Lloyd.

Scarboro' and Summit teams, with four-player totals of 304, outshot the rest of the field by eight strokes. Sixteen clubs were represented. Rosedale finished with 312 and Mississauga with 313.

Scoring of the top teams:

Scarboro'—Phil Farley 74, J. G. (Sonny) Adams 76, Bobby Robinson 75, C. F. Lloyd 79; total 304.

Summit—Mel Currer 76, Gord. Duncan 77, Bill Duckworth 75, Tom Winter 76; total 304.

Rosedale—Bert Winnet 76, R. M. Gray 75, V. C. Holdroyd 82, Norm Lucas 79; total 312.

Mississauga—Jim Twiss 73, W. D. Taylor 75, Chuck Hamilton 82, W. Hamilton 83; total 313.

Other team scores:

Islington 321, Royal York 322, Weston 332, Cedar Brae 336, York Downs 338, Glem Mawr 340, Humber Valley 341, Cliffside 342, Oakdale 349, Woodbine 351, Lambton 353, Clarkson 358.

Travellers Plan Bowling Tournament

The Commercial Travellers' Association annual bowling tournament and get-together will take place on Friday, July 24, and will again be held on the greens of the Boulevard Club, Toronto. The committee in charge expect a full entry list of 64 rinks, and it is very important that all entries be sent in immediately. The first draw will be the rubber at 9 a.m. and there will be a number of very nice prizes. The tournament is open to all members of the association, all ex-members and all salesmanagers employing members.

A bridge and tea has been arranged for the ladies and all bowlers are cordially invited to bring their ladies along. The day will end as usual with a bang-up banquet.

Must Continue All-out War Effort.

How long the present condition in Canada is to be tolerated remains to be seen but certainly it will not be indefinitely. In the meantime, until we finally see where we are at and until the fiction be overcome that a minority is to be permitted to determine an all-Canadian policy, Canadians, no matter what their political faith, must not make the mistake of withdrawing their support from the war efforts of the Governemtn ,despite the attitude of Quebec. Let us be wise in our own generation, admit frankly, as many notable military experts have admitted, that, by and large, Canada's contribution to the war has been a magnificent one and resolve that no petty poltical or other consideration shall be allowed to interfere with a continuance of the good work. Indeed, the more Quebec disappoints us the greater must be the efforts elsewhere. We owe it not alone to gallant sons and daughters now overseas and in training here, but, as well, to our selves, that we Keep the Faith.

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

Juveniles have flashy new uniforms for use in tonight's City Softball League game at Riverside Park with Luckies and the youngsters are hoping that with the new sweaters will come a break in the luck and that they will be able to bust into that win column at which they have been pointing all season, knocking on the door in three or four closely-fought contests. Luckies, at present holding down second spot in the league race, want a win to climb to within half a game of the leading Plazas and incidentally they also need one to keep in front of the up and coming Soldiers who have won three games in a row and are breathing on the back of their necks. The race is so close that a victory for Juveniles in tonight's tussle would put the Military Training Centre team up in second place and leave Luckies and Royals tied up for third position. Luckies expect to have Mowry, former Royal catcher with them tonight and they will probably have Bill Lewis on the firing line. Juveniles will use Bob Crowe with Fred Garvey doing the receiving and the game will get under way at 7 o'clock and will be out in nice time for the patrons to take in the Rotary Carnival.

Westclox broke their jinx the other night and crashed into the win column at the expense of Electrics. Tonight they tackle Generals in a Girls' League game at the Ashburnham Bowl and the Clockmakers are confident that now they have broken the ice and shaken off their losing streak they can make things plenty tough for Mike O'Brien's undefeated General tonight. The latter have won four straight and the Westclox girls say it is high time the victory parade of Generals was cut short. Marg Watson is slated to do the pitching for Westclox with Isobel Bullock behind the bat while it looks like Marilyn McCarthy's turn to fog them in for Generals but Pilot O'Brien has a habit of crossing everybody up in his pitching selections. He may do so again tonight. Both clubs expect to field their strongest teams and with the old rivalry between C.G.E. and Westclox still very much to the fore the argument should be lively all the way.

Soldiers and Royals staged a game in the City Loop last night that resembled the old argument between the Bartenders and the Barbers in the ancient picnic days. Runs didn't mean a thing, hits burst all over the sward, seventeen players got free transportation and errors were on the free list. Soldiers who are on the crest of a winning streak took the decision by a 21-13 score, busting the game open wider than the Liquor Control Act by getting 14 runs in the first inning. Eighteen of the winners batted in that one frame and it looked like the fire department would have to be called to put the side out. After that Royals who had a patched up team owing to the absence of Smith, Scriver, Akers and Mowry outscored the Soldiers for the rest of the engagement but never seriously threatened to wipe out that big first inning deficit. The hitting of Sero for the winners and Maurice Giardino for Royals was a feature. Both of them batted in a flock of runs for their respective teams, Sero homering with two on while Giardino drove in two runs on both his first two appearances at the plate, slashing out a triple with two on and then coming through with a double with a pair of ducks on the pond. Altogether each drove in five runs. The City League teams have been playing airtight ball and last night's game was just one of those things.

Mister Cooper Again

When they start looking for the pitcher of the year perhaps the spotlight may be shifted from Ernie Bonham of the Yanks to Mort Cooper of the St. Louis Cards. At any event the pitching end of the Cooper brothers' battery is having himself quite a season. He turned in a two-hit effort to shutout the Boston Braves 4 to 0 yesterday and that was his tenth victory of the year. He has only been beaten three times and is certainly well on his way to become a 20-game winner on the season's play. Another gentleman in the National League who is doing quite nicely in the matter of victories is Bill Lee of the Chicago Cubs who tossed a five-hitter yesterday to boost his win total to nine as the Chicago outfit triumphed over the Phillies 7 to 1. Johnny Podgayny who has been able to snag only three triumphs to match his seven losses was the Philadelphia gunner.

* * * * * *

New York Yanks did not play yesterday but they gained half a game anyway when their nearest opposition, the Boston Red Sox, were beaten 7 to 3 by the Detroit Tigers. The Sox were doing all right until the Bengals exploded a six-run rally in the eighth and the ball game went aglimmering. It was a loss for Tex Hughson who has been going great guns lately while Hal White was the winning hurler. Ned Harris and Jim Bloodworth helped him out with homers, the latter's ninth circuit clout of the year. Cleveland won 5 to 1 over the A's. Portly and left-handed Al Smith whose last effort was a one-hit shutout of the Yanks held Athletics to five hits and the Indians won with rookie Oris Hockett getting his fifth homer of the season. In the other American League played yesterday Ross of the Chicago White Sox blanked the Senators 2 to 0. It was a pitcher's duel with Hudson. The latter only allowed five hits as against six nicked off Ross's service but lost the decision just the same.

Dodgers Win Again

Brooklyn Dodgers remain eight games in front of the National League parade and there does not seem to be any club in the loop that is likely to seriously threaten them. Even Ray Starr, Cincinnati ace, who has been mowing his opposition down in great style failed to check the progress of the powerful bums last night and they drove him to cover by scoring four runs after two were out in the third inning. The veteran Johnny Allen went the route for the Dodgers, pitching a neat five-hitter and earning a 4 to 0 shutout over the Reds. Pete Reiser, Joe Medwick and Dolf Camilli batted in the four runs. Incidentally there are three of the Dodgers who seem certain to be chosen for the National-American League all-star game scheduled to be played at the Polo Grounds on July 6.

Toronto Maple Leafs won a spectacular victory over Rochester Red Wins last nigght and if they could promise a couple of games a week like that the Stadium attendance would be hitting new highs. Going into the last half of the ninth the Toronto gang were down 4 to 2. They were still down by the same figure after two were out in the inning. And then just as the fans were looking for the nearest exit, Eddie Leip who makes no pretence to being a power hitter picked that moment to slam out his first homer of the season, driving the ball over the left field wall, scoring a runner ahead of him to tie up the game. The Leafs won out in the tenth when Fernandes slammed out a long triple to score Frank Coleman with the winning marker. Toronto used three pitchers to turn the trick.

By BLANCHE ROBERTS

THE STORY: Judith Kingsly and Tom Burke, employes of an airplane factory, are en route to the factory's west coach branch—Judith to investigate a "leak" in the organization, Tom to take the plans of a new bomber. Tom and Judith are in love, but have quarreled. Aboard an airliner Judith sees two men watching Tom suspiciously. At a stop for supper she tells him to watch out for them. As they are about to take off again, Judith hears the hostess say they are changing co-pilots.

CHAPTER III

Judith noticed most of the passengers were nodding in sleep except Tom, the foreigner and the large man in front of her. Everything was peaceful, with nothing to substantiate her fears.

The hostess walked through, stopped at each seat to make sure her charges were comfortable and then returned to her place. Judith sighed and closed her eyes. Leaning back against the seat, she relaxed for the first time since they changed co-pilots.

Then suddenly the plane rocked and her spine grew rigid with fright. Everybody on the ship came awake instantly. Someone screamed. The hostess came running through the aisle.

"Fasten your safety belts, please," she urged, her voice calm. She hurried to the front of the plane, but when she tried to turn the handle of the control room door it was locked. She turned to face the frightened passengers, but just as she opened her mouth to speak, the plane leveled into smooth flying again.

However, Judith, a seasoned air traveler, sensed the ship was headed downward. By the look on the girl's face, she realized the hostess guessed the same thing.

Then a man exclaimed: "Why we're landing."

"I believe so," smiled the girl in the uniform, trying to ease the tension. "Please be calm. I am sure everything is all right. Forced landings are not uncommon."

Judith chanced a glance at Burke. He was sitting erect, his right hand hidden beneath his coat. The foreigner, too, was waiting expectantly. She shifted her gaze quickly to the man in front of her, and as she did so, he stood up. Her heart rose in her throat.

"You heard the lady," he roared gruffly. "Take it easy. Just a forced landing." He backed toward the control room, ignoring the pleas of the hostess to return to his seat. When he stood with his back against the closed door, he drew a gun. There were gasps of terror. A woman screamed and wilted in her seat but no one made a move to help her.

Judith sat very still and waited.

"Nobody will get hurt if you do as you're told," the large man said. His eyes scanned the cabin for any signs of rebellion.

As the plane wheels hit the earth, Judith opened her purse and her cold fingers closed about the little gun she always carried when she traveled. Until now she had never used it.

The big liner rolled to a bumpy stop and the door to the control room opened. The co-pilot stepped out. His eyes darted over the people.

"Good work, Heavy," he said to the man with the gun. He strode down the aisle and disappeared through the door.

Judith's eyes were fastened on the foreigner. He was the one she feared most, but so far he had made no move. He sat very straight in his seat, his eyes fixed on Tom. An electrified excitement that she had never felt before enveloped Judith.

She saw a light flare from the outside at a distance and draw nearer. While she watched it approach, she wondered how she could get off the plane and follow it if the men only took Tom with them.

The hostess started to move but the gunman's voice stopped her.

"Get back there to my seat and sit down." She complied without a murmur. A man sitting up front whined irritably.

Judith drew on her courage and said brightly, "This is very exciting."

Heavy, the man behind the gun, grinned at her while the passengers turned and glared. When Tom Burke looked at her, there was a light of understanding in his glance.

The co-pilot put his head in at the door.

"All right, Karl."

Instantly, the foreigner came alive and stood up, an ugly gun in his hand covering Burke from the back.

"Come along," he ordered curtly, nudging Tom with the point of the pistol.

Burke stood up. As he moved down the narrow aisle he bumped Judith's seat. A packet of papers slid quickly and noiselessly from his right sleeve and dropped beside her.

Swiftly she shifted her arm to cover the bundle and Burke walked on to the door with the foreigner behind him.

Little prickles stung at Judith's skin as she realized she had the plans of the bomber in her possession.

Heavy waved his gun and moved down toward the outside door.

"Don't anybody move," he warned, pausing at the door. "I ain't minding to pull this trigger. And don't get off this plane until morning if you value your health."

In another moment, he dropped to the ground and slammed the door. A car roared off.

The hostess was the first to come alive. She jumped up, ran to the pilot's compartment and pulled back the door. There was a horrified gasp from her as she dropped to her knees. Two men rushed up behind her.

One of them said, "Here—let me in. I'm a doctor."

The door closed after them. But almost immediately it opened again and the hostess came out.

"The pilot has been hurt. We are trying to use the radio. I am afraid we will have to make the best of the situation. I'll try to make you comfortable."

But for the moment, Judith was far from comfortable. Her calmness had deserted her now. She kept thinking of the papers her fingers grasped in the seat beside her. When the spies discovered the plans were missing, they would return and make a thorough search for Tom's accomplice.

She stuffed the papers into her purse and stood up. She made her way to the cabin up front and edged in.

"How long before he will come around?" she asked the doctor.

He shook his head slowly. "Can't say. It looks like a bad concussion. He was hit over the head—a nasty blow."

"They may come back," said Judith, and for the first time in her life her voice trembled with fright. The plans made her purse bulge, and reminded her constantly of the real danger she wasf acing.

The man spoke again.

"I wonder what those fellows wanted? What they were after?" Judith pretended not to hear. "I think I'll go outside and have a look. I really don't believe anyone is around now."

"I'm coming with you," Judith told him and followed quickly. Others, seeing their intentions, came too.

"You'll have to jump for it," said the man with a grin. He leaped to the ground and reached to help her down. "My name is Harry Hornsby."

The stars twinkled overhead, but there was no moon. Someone playing a flashlight over the ground discovered the car tracks on the hard sand, winding in and out among the sage brush. Judith followed the tire marks with no definite purpose in mind.

Then in the distance, a light suddenly appeared. Her heart stood still but she did not cry out. In a moment one of the others saw the glow and exclaimed:

"They're coming back! Get back to the plane everyone. Don't give them an excuse to shoot."

When Judith did not follow, Hornsby turned back for her. She pulled away from his hand.

"I'm not coming," she stated firmly.

"Not—" he began.

"No. I can't. Please return with the others and just forget where you saw me last. I will be much safer that way. Please!"

At first Hornsby refused to leave her, but she insisted frantically, on the verge of desperate tears. He turned and hurried back to the ship, almost running.

For a second Judith stood undecided. Then she found a large bunch of sage near the wheel tracks and crouched behind it. She waited, her heart beating rapidly.

COOPER BLANKS BRAVES, RUNS SCORELESS INNINGS STRING TO 32

Leafs Edge Past Wings 5-4 In Ten Innings

By The Associated Press

George Staller of Baltimore Orioles is staging a successful comeback after most observers had believed his short but brilliant career was at an end when he suffered a broken leg in September, 1940.

He was voted the International League's outstanding rookie while performing for Montreal Royals in 1940. Brooklyn Dodgers brought Staller up for a trial but his leg injury prevented him from giving a good account of himself and he was sent back to the Royals.

Baltimore acquired Staller and a few other players for Catcher Dixie Howell and has not regretted the transaction. His batting average is not impressive but he has a dozen home runs to his credit with many of them coming at important moments such as his 12th last night.

Bobby Coombs of Jersey City Giants had a 1-0 lead going into the ninth when, with two out, Staller hit a home run to tie the score. A moment later Sherry Robertson won the ball game for Baltimore, 2-1, with another four-master.

The Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the Rochester Red Wings, 5-4, in 10 innings. The Wings had a 4-2 lead, when with two out in the ninth inning, Eddie Leip hit his first home run of the season with one on to send the game into extra innings. Jim Russell opened the 10th for Toronto by walking, Frank Colman forced Russell but Ed Fernandes blasted a triple to score Colman with the winning run. Jimmy Ripple put the Little Cardinals in front with a circuit smash in the sixth.

Dick Conger, who pitched the 10th for Toronto, was the winning pitcher while Ed Wissman who traveled the distance for Rochester was the losing hurler.

The league-leading Newark Bears nosed out Syracuse Chiefs 4-3 in the only other game played. Tommy Byrne was wild, walking seven but he allowed on five hits in turning in his ninth conquest of the season for the Bears.

The Bears won the game in the ninth when with the bases loaded, Gen Corbett belted a long fly which scored Byrne from third, who began the frame with a single.

Ex-Heavy Champs Get Together

Is there an ex-heavyweight champion in the house? There sure is, two of them. At the LEFT, Jack Dempsey of the U.S. coastguard, and RIGHT, James J. Jeffries, snapped at Ogden, Utah, during an army day boxing program. Dempsey recently was sworn in as a coastguard officer. Jeffries came to Ogden from Burbank, Cal., for the occasion. Jeffries held the heavy title from 1899 to 1905 and Dempsey from 1919 to 1926.

Brilliant 2-Hit Relief Show Nets $28,500

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

The success story of the year in baseball concerns Morton Cecil Cooper of St. Louis Cardinals, who is most likely to be the National League's starting pitcher in the All-Star game in New York, July 6.

Cooper won his 10th victory and sixth shutout yesterday, 4-0, with a stunning two-hit performance against Boston Braves in an Army-Navy Relief game that raised more than $28,500 from 25,000 fans at Boston.

It was only the third victory in the last nine games for St. Louis and Cooper won all three with shutouts—stretching a skein of 32 consecutive scoreless innings.

One of the most remarkable aspects of the big right-handers success is that in four previous seasons in the National League he obtained just five shutouts and did not administer a single whitewashing last year when he won 13 games and lost nine.

Apparently the arm operation he had early last season changed him from a good pitcher to a great one. He had several bone chips removed from his right elbow and most pitchers who have had similar operations have taken a year or more to regain their old form. but Cooper was out of action only about a month.

When he returned to the mound he quit relying so much on his fast ball and started pitching to hitters' weaknesses. The result has been his fine work this Summer, when he has been beaten only three times and on each occasion by one run.

Sixteen in a Row

Yesterday he retired the first 16 batters in order and afterward permitted just two singles and one walk.

Brooklyn Dodgers bashed Cincinnati Reds 4-0 in a twilight game by rallying for five successive hits after two were out in the third inning.

Big Bill Lee also pitched five-hit ball as Chicago Cubs cuffed the Phils 7-1 to sweep their three-game series at Philadelphia. The Cubs clinched the game in the third with five runs off John Podgainy on two hits, four walks and a hit batsman.

In the American League Chicago White Sox shut out Washington Senators for the second straight game 2-0 in a spectacular hurling duel between Lee (Buck) Ross and Sid Hudson. The Washington righthander allowed just five hits, one less than his teammates made off Ross, but Chicago wasted only one hit.

Ross himself doubled with two out in the third and scored on a single by Wally Moses and two singles and a fly added the other marker in the fourth.

Lefty Al Smith of Cleveland Indians achieved his fourth straight triumph with a five-hit pitching job that stopped Philadelphia Athletics 4-1. The Tribe made good use of seven hits of Roger Wolff, one a homer by Oris Hockett.

Detroit downed Boston Red Sox 7-3, with a six-run rally in the eighth inning sparked by Jim Bloodworth's two-run homer.

Hogan Billed At Mississauga

TORONTO, June 26 — (CP). — Ben Hogan, 29-year-old Texan who won the recent Hale America National Open golf championship at Chicago, will head the greatest United States professional delegation in the history of the Canadian Open here at Mississauga, August 6 to 8.

Bob Gray of Scarboro and Gord Brydson of Mississauga, Canadian representatives in the Hale America, today brought back word Hogan would play in the Canadian Open.

They said others who plan to play are Harry Cooper, Jim Demaret, Jug McSpaden, Horton Smith, Lawson Little, Ralph Guldahl, Mike Turnesa, Jim Ferrier, and others.

Dodgers Yield Seven For All Stars

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 26—(AP). — The National League announced a strong All-Star squad today with seven of the Brooklyn Dodgers in the cast.

The selections of the eight managers of the senior circuit included some surprises—such as the choice of Catcher Walker Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals and Rookie Outfielder Willard Marshall of the New York Giants while passing up Infielders Stan Hack of the Chicago Cubs and Billy Judges of the Giants—but the strength of the squad could not be questioned.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers, who will lead this year's National League array by virtue of winning last year's pennant, will have all of his own regulars in the fold except First Baseman Dolph Camilli and Outfielder Dixie Walker.

Camilli, last year's most valuable player and leading home run slugger, has been far below par in batting this season, although still among the home run leaders. The first baseman chosen were big John Mize of the Giants, and Frank McCormick of the Cincinnati Reds.

Durocher could start Whitlow Wyatt on the mound, Mickey Owen catching, Billy Herman at second, Peewee Reese at short, Arky Vaughan on third, and Joe Medwick and Pete Reiser in the outfield—all Dodgers.

Starr Overlooked

The mound staff will be dominated by Cincinnati with Paul Derringer, Bucky Walters and Johnny Vander Meer all named, but there may be some eyebrows lifted at the selection of Derringer, with three victories and four defeats, while ignoring Rookie Starr of the same team, who has won 10 while losing only three.

Three of the players—Ott, Medwick and Herman—have been on every All-Star squad since 1934, missing only the inaugural game at Chicago in 1933. Seven others on the team for the first time—the Coopers, Brown, Melton, Marshall, Reese and Litwhiler.

Durocher chose Manager Bill McKechnie of Cincinnati and Manager Frank Frisch of Pittsburg for his coaches, and later will name a batting practise pitcher and catcher and a trainer.

The complete squad in the order chosen by the league:

Pitchers — Morton Cooper, St. Louis; Whitlow Wyatt, Brooklyn; Claude Passeau, Chicago; John Vander Meer, Paul Derringer and William Walters, Cincinnati; Clifford Melton, New York.

Catchers—Arnold Owen, Brooklyn; Walker Cooper, St. Louis; Ernest Lombardi, Boston.

Outfielders—Harold Reiser and Joe Medwick, Brooklyn; Enos Slaughter, St. Louis; Melvin Ott, New York; Terry Moore, St. Louis; Danny Litwhiler, Philadelphia; Willard Marshall, New York.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By ROBERT CLARKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, June 26. — (CP) — There's at least one parliamentarian who takes his horse racing pretty seriously, as indicated by something that happened the other night in our capital. It was the night that Finance Minister Ilsley brought down his budget, to be exact. But let Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick tell it.

Says Westwick: "Budget highlight for this department was a phone call last night from a gent who said he was at the House of Commons and was speaking for a member of parliament...The call was around the time Mr. Ilsley was reading what in sport parlance might be termed the 'riot act'...The information requested was the winners of the 'fourth at Dufferin' and the 'eighth at Aqueduct'...Judging from the grunt at the other end of the line when the information was given both horses lost."

Vancouver's Ken Lindsay plans to enlist in the navy this summer... The coast belter, who'll be 21 in August and who would likely get his army call sometime in September figures on returning to Vancouver after the war...Lindsay socked enough of the old do-re-mi to buy himself a waterfront summer home at Deep Cove, near Vancouver... And now he's rounding up some of his tradesmen pals to do some of the painting and carpentry work to put the place in shape.

The Expert Says:

Walter (Hamilton Spectator) McMullen: "Race followers who are air minded will have an opportunity to play a hunch at the coming meeting of the Hamilton Jockey Club, for two of the best horses quartered here are Air Sure, belonging to Major Connie Smythe, and Air Current, the property of the Madison Stable. Neither has been seen in action on the Canadian circuit this season."

Incidentally

The rassiers go big for hearts as a card game to pass away their idle hours...Rassling Promoter Eddie Quinn in Montreal is one of the better heart players...His office nook in the Montreal Forum is crowded with heart players many a day....And speaking of the mat squirmers, brings to mind the fact that Bill (Winnipeg Tribune) Frayne had to come east on his holidays to believe those pictures the sports pages run of the "Angel," nee Maurice Tillet...One look at Monsieur Tillet in the ring and Frayne almost swooned...When Frayne had recovered he staggered to a telegraph office and wired the boys back in the Tribune sports department that it's true what they say about the Angel.

Donald Lloyd Is Given Year By Judge Smoke

Amending the charge to the theft by conversion of one automobile from Industrial Acceptance Limited, instead of three as alleged in the original indictment Judge S. L. Smoke in the county judge's criminal court Thursday afternoon found Donald Lloyd, Lakefield, car salesman, guilty of the offence and sentenced him to one year in the Ontario Reformatory.

In giving judgment His Honor said that no evidence had been adduced in respect to one of the three cars and that the evidence showed that the sale of a second had taken place before the transfer of the assets of Consumers' Finance, Limited to Industrial Acceptance and therefore the latter had no interest at that time.

After Lloyd had been convicted Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., moved for sentence.

T. J. Carley, K.C. told the court in behalf of the accused that Lloyd was a married man with several children and pointed out that the case meant the ruination of the business of the accused.

"Under the section under which this charge was laid," said defence counsel "it is just the same as if he had stolen an automobile from the street. It is a case of theft and the minimum penalty is a year's imprisonment. Under the circumstances and in view of the negligent methods of the finance companies as revealed here a charge might well have been laid under another section."

"I might mention that he has had no previous record," Crown Attorney McElderry announced.

"I am not going to add to your punishment by lecturing you," His Honor said to Lloyd in imposing sentence. "Apparently there were other cars that have not been accounted for. I hope that this experience will ultimately be of benefit to you."

No Defence Called

Evidence in the case was heard on Monday. It was confined to the testimony of the crown witnesses, the defence calling no evidence and at the conclusion of the presentation of the crown's case and argument by counsel, His Honor Judge Smoke announced that he would reserve judgment until Thursday afternoon.

In beginning his judgment yesterday His Honor remarked that no evidence had been adduced with reference to the theft of the Ford motor car mentioned in the indictment and that therefore the charge should be amended by striking out the reference to that particular car.

Reviewing the transactions between Lloyd and Consumers' Finance Limited in respect to the other two cars Judge Smoke said that the evidence was clear that both these machines had been disposed of by the accused, one around April 2, 1942 and the other on or about April 29, 1942. His Honor pointed out that in regard to the 1938 Chevrolet mentioned the purchaser had stated that he had bought it about April 2, and that the date of the transfer of the assets from Consumers' Finance to Industrial Acceptance was April 4. Industrial Acceptance had no interest in any of the assets of Consumers' Finance before that date and thereby could not be deprived of any of them. Accordingly there was no evidence upon which a find of guilty could be made in respect to that particular car and it was only necessary to deal with the third car mentioned in the charge.

The Defence Arguments

"Defence counsel has introduced some interesting and intricate defences," said His Honor. "Among others that Industrial Acceptance had no interest in the chattel mortgage, that the mortgage was void, that the accused had been authorized and encouraged to sell all the motor cars in his possession covered by chattel mortgages and that there had been no illegal taking."

"True no assignment has been executed of the chattel mortgage", said Judge Smoke, "but in my opinion Exhibit 5 is sufficient to indicate that on the 4th day of April, 1942, Industrial Acceptance, become the owner of all the assets included in and accruing from the chattel mortgage". His Honor found that the chattel mortgage was valid and said that the evidence indicated quite clearly that there was an intention to convert this motor car and to deprive the Industrial Acceptance Corporation either as the owner, or as a person having a special interest, of its use, and that the conversion was done fraudulently.

Finds No Color of Right

"The only other question" said His Honor "is whether the accused had any right or color of right to convert this car".

"It is admitted by officers of the two companies that they were urging him to sell all the motor cars on which they held chattel mortgages but that was for the purpose of clearing up the loans."

His Honor said that he was unable to find that the accused had not some right to sell but the offence was not the selling. The gist of the whole offence was that he fraudulently and without color of right converted the car to his own use and committed the old crime of embezzlement."

"The accused did not have it definitely determined in his mind that he had any right to dispose of the car in the manner in which he did and thus converted it to his own use", said Judge Smoke. "In order to acquite on the plea of color of right the court must be able to determine that he did have definitely in his mind the idea that he had the right to convert."

"From the fact that this car was converted for less than the chattel mortgage, and that it was taken to Toronto to be disposed of it appears to me that there is no question but that the accused converted this motor car to his own use with intent to deprive Industrial Acceptance Limited of the use thereof".

Then announcing that he proposed to amend the charge by striking out the reference to the other two cars, His Honor read the amended charge.

"I find the accused guilty in accordance with the charge as so amended", he announced in concluding his judgment.

made accurate observation of results very difficult.

"To disorganize the enemy defences many airfields in the Low Countries were subjected to intensive harassing attacks by a second force of bombers and fighters.

"In the course of these intruder operations and in the many combats which took place between our bombers and enemy fighters some enemy aircraft were damaged or destroyed.

"From the night's operations a total of 52 aircraft of all commands is missing."

Nightfighters Thick

Bremen was said to have been defended fiercely by night fighter planes and anti-aircraft fire against this, the 95th and heaviest, air bombardment of the city as the R.A.F. went back with a vengeance to its big-scale offensive after bad weather had kept its huge bombers at home two nights.

The Canadian share in the latest smash was given to newspapermen from intelligence reports, the R.C.A.F. stations themselves being closed to reporters to give the boys a "break" after the big raid.

In addition to successfully bombing the targets, members of the all-Canadian "Moose" squadron under Wing-Cmdr. John (Moose) Fulton of Kamloops, B.C., bagged a Nazi fighter which attempted to intercept the Canadian on their return journey.

This is the second such "kill" in two weeks for a gunner of this squadron which has a moose head as its insignia. It was credited to Sgt. Don Morrison, 20-year-old Sherbrooke, Que., rear-gunner returning from his 26th operational flight in a Wellington bomber skippered by Sqdn. Ldr. D. L. Wolfe of Regina.

It was Morrison's first chance to use his guns on an enemy plane and the entire crew saw the flaming ME-110 dive into the sea.

"I saw it when it was about 150 yards from our rear," related Morrison. "As it came in on our port side he fired a burst and turned away. Then the skipper swerved and the fighter was a beautiful target as it went over my turret. I let him have it right in the belly. His port engine caught fire, then his wing.

"I actually saw ripples made by the aircraft when it sank."

Others of this crew were FO. John McCormack of Estevan, Sask., and Flt. Sgt. R. Goodwin of Niagara Falls, Ont.

"The Moose" himself was attacked three times while en route home but managed to elude Nazi fighters, and, said his gunner, PO. Jock Campbell, "Jerry did not even get a chance to take a pot at us."

Clouds Hide Fireworks

Fulton reported several large fires burning but visibility was not good enough to distinguish clearly. His crew included Flt. Sgt. J. O'Brien of Quebec and Flt. Lt. Bob O'Callaghan of Calgary.

Sqdn. Ldr. Joseph St. Pierre of Montreal, soon to command a new French-Canadian squadron, carried a huge bomb to his target and saw a terrific explosion flash.

Flying in St. Pierre's formation were Flt. Sgt. Guy Rainville, Quebec, completing his 34th operational flight; PO. Bert Jost, Timmins, Ont.; PO. Les Wainwright, Toronto; PO. Jerry Bell, Victoria; Flt. Sgts. W. M. Weeks, Medicine Hat, Alta.; Jack Wiggins, Winnipeg; E. S. Alexander Montreal; M. B. Steeves, Adgetts Landing, N.B.; Lorne Fleming, Montreal; R. J. Hubbard, Truax, Sask.; and Sgt. P. S. Purphy, Halifax.

A Wellington captained by Sgt. B. Pearson of Toronto spotted a dinghy in the North Sea while returning home and reported its position to rescue headquarters.

PO. Barney Cowell of Edmonton, dispatched the message. Other crew members were PO Lloyd Parnell, Peterborough, Ont.; Sgt. Frank Williams, Saskatoon; Flt. Sgt. Leonard Maxim, Niagara Falls, Ont., all of whom said they were unable to distinguish the number of dinghy occupants though they dropped as low as 300 feet.

Axis Presses

British forces have taken their stand is approximately 60 miles east of Sidi Barrani beyond which the Axis forces pushed on Wednesday.

Matruh is the western terminus of a railway which extends along the coast to Alexandria, approximately 160 miles to the east by airline.

British forces thus are favored by possession of an excellent and relatively short supply line.

Rommel's nearest supply port, on the other hand, is battered Tobruk, from which ammunition, gasoline, food and water for his fighting forces must be trucked across some 200 miles of desert. It is questionable, moreover, how much heavy equipment can be landed at Tobruk because of destruction of port facilities—which means that a large portion of his vital supplies must be hauled overland from Bengasi another 260 miles farther west.

British, South African and United States fliers have been reported pounding Bengasi steadily in an effort to smash this vital base.

Military quarters said the first 48 hours of fighting before Matruh probably would prove whether Rommel's supply organization was equal to the strain.

particularly in the heavy industries where women cannot replace men, to ensure that they get them.

"The conclusion is inescapable that we cannot reach the military, industrial and agricultural goal which we must attain to ensure victory without steadily increasing the measure of Government control....

"Every unemployed male worker is now required to register for work and to keep that registration active so long as he remains unemployed.

"This will soon be made compulsory for women also." Registration by women now is voluntary.

He described the operations of the selective service plan and said this had reached "the beginning of genuine control and direction of manpower."

The national selective service officer would have before him at all times the local demand for and the supply of labor.

Steps would continue to be taken to maintain the supply of manpower for agriculture production, the minister said.

"As the labor supply situation tightens I shall be prepared to recommend, and I know the Canadian people would wish me to recommend whatever measures of increased direction, compulsion and control prove necessary to meet further requirements....

"Many 'shalts' and 'shalt nots' are going out from the department daily but I trust that it may be said of the Minister of Labor and of the Government that no step that we take will endanger the liberties that have been handed down to us.

"I hope that at the conclusion of the war we shall speedily return to that way of life where the utmost amount of freedom is possible for the people of this country."

It had been said o him, that he was a conscriptionist.

"Be that as it may I hope that it can never be said that I am not a realist," Mr. Mitchell said, adding:

"I want to say in conclusion, that when in my view conscription for overseas service is essential to the safety of the state and the preservation of our way of life I will express my opinion in no uncertain terms."

"But which way?" asked Mr. Hanson.

The minister did not reply.

Br. Bruce said of the French-Canadians that they were as loyal as any Canadians. "If they are placed in a false position to-day it is due entirely to the perverse education they have received at the hands of the politicians."

Province Misld.

He claimed that French Canadians had been "misled for political party considerations by Prime Minister Mackenzie King and some of his colleagues."

It was a fact he said, that 1,000,000 French-Canadian people of Quebec origin living in the New England States had responded to the national selective draft as readily as others.

"Our French-Canadian compatriots would do the same under the leadership of a Roosevelt or a Churchill."

Dr. Bruce said the plebiscite was, in the minds of those who voted, a clear-cut indication on conscription.

The result was that "in one part of Canada the carefully-nurtured bogey of conscription has borne full and devastating fruit while throughout the nation as a whole a substantial majority of the people have told this Parliament through its Government to introduce full-out conscroption and have done with this hypocrisy."

Mr. Slaght said he would support the Bill and he felt he could not do otherwise "in order that the answer given by the people in the plebiscite may receive the effect for which they overwhelmingly voted it should have."

He referred to the "absolute isolationists" who would not send Canadians overseas under any circumstances, and declared that was "the old Duplessis doctrine which we fought to a standstill two years ago."

Truce On Suggestions

"Let us have a truce to all these suggestions that the boys should not be sent outside of Canada to fight for Canada and whip Germany and win the war."

To those who would have immediate unlimited conscription Mr. Slaght quoted figures and reports to indicate that the 1917 conscription was a failure as compared with volunteer enlistments at the time compulsion was in force.

Dr. Hurtubise said he would support the measure because he had faith in the judgment of the prime minister but he would have preferred a measure which would enable parliament to decide definitely on the straight question of unlimited conscription. He did not believe conscription was necessary or of value to the war effort.

It was well known, said Dr. Hurtubise, that if a French Canadian was properly approached he would give 100 per cent co-operation but he had not been properly approached on the conscription question.

Cattle Climb 25 Lambs Ease Hogs Hold Own

TORONTO, June 26 — (CP). — Cattle prices were 25 to 50 cents higher for the week on the Livestock Market here. Veal calves were steady. Lambs dropped 50 cents cwt. Hogs were unchanged, while sows were 50 cents higher.

Most of the cattle offered were off pastures. Weighty steers sold at a top of $13.50 with most sales between $12.50 and $13.25. Butcher steers ranged from $11.50 to $13.25 with a few at $13.50. Heifers were $11 to $12.75, with a few at $13.

Butcher cows sold mostly at $9 to $11 with canners downward to $5.50. Bulls were $9 to $11.25 according to quality. Fed calves closed at $13 to $14 cwt. The supply included 700 Western stockers and stock calves. Stockers were active on Monday at $9 to $12 cwt. with stock calves up to $13. Trade dragged a little after Monday, with a few lots unsold at the close. Milkers and springers sold at $115 to $130 each.

Veal calves were unchanged at $14 to $14.50 for choice with occasional tops at $15. Common vealers sold downward to $8. The bulk of sales was between $12 and $14.50.

Hogs sold generally at $15.60 dressed with sows closing at $12 dressed. Feeders sold at $11.50 liveweight with a deduction of $2 per head.

Lambs opened 50 cents to $1 lower at $16 to $16.50 for choice but sold for the balance of the week at a general $16.50. Culls were $13 to $14 cwt. The average lamb weight was 78 lbs.

Sheep were steady at $7 to $8 cwt. for good, light ewes, with heavies at $6 to $7 and culls at $4 to $5.50 cwt.

Gas Rationing Hitting Quebec Resorts

Reports from tourists visiting this district from New York State, and from local people who have been in Quebec province recently, indicate that the Quebec resort owners are due for a tough season.

Gasoline rationing in New York State and in the New England States, from where Quebec draws at least 70 per cent. of her American tourists business is cut to three gallons per car owner each week. This means that it is difficult for tourists to reach the border. On the other hand gasoline rationing in Ohio and Pennsylvania, where the Kawarthas get the bulk of their tarde, is non existent, as there is plenty of gasoline refined in that particular locality.

Tourists heading into Ontario and the Kawarthas, can fill their gasoline tanks just before they cross the border, then get a ration book entitling them to 20 gallons of gasoline and they are all set for vacation, free from transportation worries.

One larget resort near Montreal is booked solid for the month of July but all the clients are from Montreal, and the owner told a Peterborough man, that to date he had received just one enquiry from New York State.

The gasoline rationing in Massachusetts and Maine is so rigidly enforced that resort people say the losses in revenue to the two States will exceed half a billion dollars. In Quebec the resorts may draw heavily from the population centres, as gas rationing there may curtail travelling longer distances, but it is doubtful if the trade can compare in any way with the volume of business which in normal times flowed annually northward into the land of the habitant.

One American who is familiar with Quebec forecast that many mortgages would be taken over this year, because a great many resort owners depended almost entirely on the summer American trade for their livelihood.

HE KEEPS HIS JOB Though TURNED 70

House Painter Who Takes His Kruschen Every Day

How many painters can continue to work when they are over 70? Here is one who can—and he still does some of the most trying jobs in his trade. How does he do it? He tells us in this letter:—

"I have been in the habit of taking a pinch of Kruschen Salts in every cup of tea I have had for a great number of years. I may state that I am turned 70 years of age. I am a house painter by trade and still at work. I can work off any ladder, no matter what height, or in cradles which are hung outside high buildings. I have been asked many times how I carry my age so well, as I only look about 50. Well, I tell them all that I take Kruschen Salts regularly every day."—J.S.A.

Kruschen is a combination of numerous mineral salts which assist in stimulating your liver, kidneys and digestive tract to healthy, regular activity. They ensure internal cleanliness, and so help to keep the blood-stream free from impurities.

Kruschen is a British product, obtainable at all drug stores, 25c and 75c.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

RISING STILL

Bank clearings for the week ending June 25 are still doing nicely. The total amount cleared for past week was $860,348, a difference of $126,430 over the corresponding week last year.

BIG PICKEREL

An American, Edward Exler, 483 Homewood avenue, S.E., Warren, Ohio, nabbed a pickerel off Hiawatha on Thursday evening, that weighed an even seven pounds, and was 26 inches long. The visitor was staying at George Robertson's resort.

STAFF CHANGE

J. (Shorty) Roberts, assistant to the accountant at the Bank of Montreal will be transferred to the St. Thomas branch of this bank on August 1. He played hockey with local teams, and was active as a curler and a golfer, playing golf at the Kawartha Club. He has been here 2½ years. Mr. Robert's place on the staff will be taken by P. A. G. Smith of Tweed.

ARMY WEEK WINDOW

Neill's Shoe Store has apparently beaten most local stores to the gun, with a smart arrangement in both windows flanking the main entrance. The windows are dressed to stress Army Week, and the display includes a sand-bagged gun emplacement, rifles, German helmets, flags, bunting and posters, and it make a striking and pleasing picture.

A SUPER EGG

Doing her bit for the war is a hen on the farm of H. M. Alstine of Port Hope. Recently the bird laid an egg which measured eight and three quarters by six and three quarters inches and weighed four and a half ounces. The shell was normal in shape and the egg, except for the size, looked like the average hen's egg. It was laid by a special breed of hen which Mr. Van Alstine is developing.

LOST

Another Examiner delivery girl has run into trouble. She lost $2 worth of war savings stamps while delivering in the south end and thinks she lost them somewhere near or on Lansdowne street. These kiddies have to put up the money themselves for what they lose, so if anyone finds them they are requested to phone the Examiner.

A LITTLE MISTAKE

Embarassing moments are apt to occur when people are a little careless. Thursday evening about half an hour after all the stores were closed, the manager of one office received a rush phone call, while he was in the middle of eating his supper, that someone wanted to get a parcel immediately, as it was urgent. This man tore down town and met the customer only to find that it was a mistake she had the wrong office.

A NEW SERGEANT

Eduard Morin, of Lindsay, who went overseas about two years ago with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, has recently been promoted to sergeant and sent to British Columbia to act as an instructor for the King's Own Rifles.

THAT'S A LOT

Young Jamie Collins, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Collis, 739 Water street, really did a little concentrated searching, Wednesday, for he came home after a trip to Nicholls Oval with 70 four-leaf clover, which he is pressing and guarding very carefully.

SAVING GASOLINE

A new field for ingenuity exists today and it calls for properly lashing of a bicycle to the bumper of an automobile. During the last few days several cars of tourists have passed through Peterborough, and invariably a bicycle is to be seen tied on somewhere. On Thursday a car from Toronto passed through, heading into the Kawarthas, and there was a bicycle lashed to the front and another to the rear.

SIGNS OF TIMES

Traffic must have been heavy on Thursday at noon, and perhaps everyone was in a hurry to get dinner. At any rate two bicyclists travelling at right angles to each other met in collision at George and Hunter. Nobody bothered to see which one had beat the stop-light, they just picked themselves up, muttered a few non-too-choice things under their breaths and took off again.

Men Are Needed To Help In Hay Fields

No person is going to come around and tell anyone else that they have to go out and spend a half day, pitching hay on the farm, but the fact remains, this is something that every city worker might give some consideration to.

The best plan according to Frank Paterson, Department of Agriculture representative is for the people in the city who have farm friends to make their own arrangements about giving the farmers some assistance. Payment can be arranged as they see fit. Many will work for nothing, others would like a couple of bags of potatoes next fall, or a quarter of pork, or eggs. Several schemes can be worked out, but the main thing is that this hay crop must be saved.

The weather of the last two days has been ideal for hay curing and ripening, and it has also been perfect for haying operations. The hay crop is good, and it is of vital importance to everyone that it be gotten safely into the barns. If this hay is not salvaged some person, somewhere in the not too distant future will go hungry.

While humans do not eat hay, nevertheless the hay feeds the cows, beef cattle, and sheep, and horses. We have a high cattle population, which must be maintained and even with this great cattle population, there is not sufficient beef to meet domestic and foreign requirements. There is a shortage of wool, and mutton and veal is none too plentiful. The horses must be fed, so that they may do the work on the farms. Transportation facilities are being taxed to the utmost, handling war products and therefore it is difficult to have feed shipped from the west.

If there are any bankers, clerks, factory workers, laborers or others who can spend half a day, or a day or a week on a farm, and do not know of any farmer they can help, they are invited to get in touch with Frank Paterson at the Department of Agriculture office on Hunter street or with G. A. Gillespie.

Plug Steadily Along

It is important too, that city people not used to hard manual labor, should take care not to over-exert themselves should they start pitching hay. They can do a good job, by just plugging steadily along, and the wise farmer will allow the city fellow to build the load, while the farmer pitches on. City fellows without experience can operate horse rakes, hay slings, build loads, and throw back in the mow. They can water stock, feed horses, cows and pigs, and even take a turn at milking the cows. They would be well-advised to purchase a sun helmet before they venture into the fields, and if they want a good tan, a hay field is the place to get one.

Nine More Men Enlist For Active Service

Nine men from the city and district have donned the uniform of the Canadian Active Forces for service anywhere in the world, and every day more new recruits apply at the Armouries for information on the various branches of the service.

The recruiting officer also lists several men whose medical category is too low for active service, but not low enough to warrant rejection. These men are given a temporary category, and are in the unhappy position of being neither in the army nor out of it. They must just go their respective ways and wait for developments.

Active Service

Bernard Watters, R.R. 1 Kendell, to Kingston; James Edward Peters, 112 Hurley street, City, to Kingston. George Owen Terry, 148 Scio street, Rochester, N.Y., Kingston. Clifford Elwood Stinson, 332 Reid street, City, to Ottawa; Stanley Roy Hager, Roseneath, Vet. Guard of Canada, to Ottawa. Joseph Monteith, R.R. 1, Douro, to Kingston; William Stanley Dummond, Peterborough, to Kingston; Victor Randolph McFadden, Apsley, to Kingston; Claude Francis Torney, 573 Walnut street, to Kingston.

Category Too Low

Rejections

Gordon Lewis Young, 91 Princess street; Hubert William Wesley Palmer, 306 Brock street.

John Davidson Veteran Teacher Passes

John Davidson, M.A., LL.D., who is well known around the Peterborough district by the hundreds of boys who sat under him in High School, died at his home 634 Gilmour Street, after a lingering illness, on Thursday, at the age of 88.

Pupils who studied with him, such as Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, who attended his school when he was the principal of Oakwood High School, near Lindsay, say that he was a wizard at mathematics and Latin. Mr. Davidson was principal of the Norwood High School for close on to 15 years and left around 1908 or 1909. From Norwood he proceeded to Sudbury where he was principal of the Sudbury Collegiate Institute. After serving there for some years, he came back to Peterborough and retired.

Mr. Davidson was born in Embro, Ontario, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Davidson. He was a graduate of Victoria College, and taught for nearly fifty-five years. He was beloved by all his pupils, even though he had a name as a strict disciplinarian. A man of great physical stature, he was a very keen athlete and could hold his own anywhere. After his return to Peterborough he did a good deal of coaching.

The funeral service will take place on Saturday from the Comstock Funeral Home, 305 Water Street, at 1:30 p.m. Canon W. P. Robertson will conduct the service tnd interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

Rotary Carnival Opens Tonight

With perfect weather assured, the Peterborough Rotary Club is looking for a record crowd at the opening night of the annual carnival to be held tonight at Riverside Park.

Everything is in readiness. The booths are up and decorated and will be fully manned. There will be plenty of games and entertainment with a merry-go-round and other rides, and the thousands of visitors who are expected will find lots of opportunities for a good night's fun.

And it's all in a good cause for 65 per cent of the proceeds go to the Rotary Club's war work and 35 per cent to the crippled children activity of the organization which must go on in war as well as in the piping days of peace.

The climax tonight will come at 11 o'clock when Mayor Hamilton will draw out two numbers and one lucky person will be the richer by the possession of a $300 Victory Bond and another of a $50 war saving certificate.

Saturday night at the same hour the drawing will take place for the capital prize, a $1,000 Victory Bond.

Crimping Emden

London, June 26 (CP Cable)

THE Air Ministry News Service said today that damage caused to the German port fo Emden in frequent raids had been "greatly extended' by the raid Monday night in which Canadian crews took a part.

It said that reconnaissance flights showed the important north port—terminus of the iron ore route from Scandanavia and site of submarine-building yards—had been "heavily damaged."

Fires were still burning yesterday in the main railway station while sheds were wrecked, docks and warehouses destroyed and a large area of the town devastated, the service said.

Police Nip Speed Artists

Two young motorists picked the wrong time when they decided to have a trial of speed on George street north. Provincial Traffic Officer A. McClure happened along and as a result the two drivers, Roy Watson and Gerald Lewis, both of 183 Mark street, were charged under the Wartime Regulations with driving on a city street faster than 30 miles an hour.

Both entered a written plea of guilty to the charge and this morning were fined $15 and $2.50 costs each by Magistrate R. B. Baxter.

Provincial Officer McClure was on hand, too, when Don Laton and John Franks failed to stop before entering Highway 7 from the Chemong Road and as a consequence each of them on a written plea of guilty was fined $5 and $2.50 costs this morning.

Shore Horthe, King George Hotel, was fined $10 and costs for allowing his car to be driven by a person who did not have a driver's permit or chauffeur's license.

G. E. Bickell entered a plea of guilty to a charge of failing to turn out far enough to the left when overtaking another vehicle on the highway and was fined $3 and $2.50 costs.

Jackson Park Closed To Cars

Those who have been accustomed to enjoy the beauties of Jackson Park by driving through will be disappointed at not being permitted to do so this year.

An additional three hundred children will come into the Park from the Wartime Housing colony and it was felt that the risk of injury from cars was too great. Wartime Housing has made a grant to the Trust to help in providing some of conveniences in park. Most people drive through the Park carefully, but it just takes one careless driver to do a lot of harm, and in this case, the Nicholls Park Trust believes prevention to be the only remedy.

Parking of cars will be permitted inside the Monaghan Road entrance for those who want to picnic or use the swimming pools but the remainder of the drives will be closed to traffic.

Many of the people occupying these Wartime houses have been accustomed to having larger playgrounds for their children than the premises they now occupy affords, so it becomes more or less of a patriotic duty for all to forego for the time being what they have enjoyed through the years.

Warning Letter Is Sent To Men Missing Parades

Seriouness of recent events which point to an ever increasing danger of invasion has made it imperative that all members of the 2nd Battalion Prince of Wales Rangers attend parades according to the laws of the unit.

This fact is emphasized in a letter which went forward by registered mail on Thursday to every member of the regiment who for some reason or other has not been attending parades. While it is admitted that pressure of wartime occupations, and other equally pertinent reasons may make it impossible for a reserve army member to attend drill, nevertheless each man must obtain permisison to absent himself, and should he fail to do this he may face charges under the Milita Act.

The Commanding Officer of the unit has been eminently fair in his attitude to the problem, in that he has already sent letters to each member requesting his attendance at parades, and he has also in many cases given verbal warnings to the offenders. Now instead of resorting to the Militia Act as is within his power, he has written a personal letter to each member who has been absent, pointing out the urgent need for immediate action.

Lt. Col. M. H. Park, and his officers have also worked out a program whereby reserve army soldiers engaged in war work and unable to attend evening parades may train between the hours of three and five o'clock on Tuesdays and Thursdays. This arrangement will fit admirably into the daily routine of many men, who are member of the Regiment, but who because they work at night cannot get out to train.

The following is the text of the letter:

"This letter comes to you as a final reminder of your obligation to attend all parades of the Second Battalion, Prince of Wales Rangers. Recent events in connection with the war have served to impress the fact that the Reserve Army must become efficient as a fighting force if it is to fulfil the role which it has today.

"The Second Battalion, as a unit in the Reserve Army, cannot do its part unless all members attend parades. In peace time a certain amount of latitude has always been given to members of the volnuteer forces in regard to attending parades, but this is WAR, and there can be no half-way measures.

"During the last few months you have had verbal and written warnings from your Company Commander, reminding you of the obligation you entered into when you signed your attestation card, and took the declaration and oath of allegiance. As Commanding Officer of the Second Battalian I consider the situation serious enough to require this personal appeal to you as a properly sworn-in member of the unit, and as a patriotic Canadian citizen, to do your duty.

"I must remind you that, in case you feel that you can safely ignore this warning, you force me to invoke the powers of the Militia Act as set forth in the following section:

115. Every officer and man of the Militia who, without lawful excuse, neglects or refuses to attend any parade or drill or training at the place and hour appointed therefor, or who refuses or neglects to obey any lawful order at or concerning such parade, drill or training, shall incur a penalty, if an officer, of ten dollars, and if a man, of five dollars for each offence.

2. Every day's absence shall be held to be a separate offience, R.S., C. 41, S 120.

"You are being posted at once from the Regimental Reserve to a company, and you will draw equipment from battalion stores and report to the company to which you have been posted.

"Arrangements have been made to hold parades from 1500 hours to 1700 hours on Tuesday or Thursday for those whose civilian occupation prevents them from parading in the evening."

M. H. PARK, Lieut.-Colonel,
Officer Commanding 2nd (Res.) Battalion Prince of Wales Rangers (M.G.).

Petawawa Camp Listens To CHEX

Ten soldiers from the Peterborough district stationed with the Canadian Dental Corps at Petawawa are regular listeners to radio station CHEX, and have written in asking that a request number be played in honor of L/Cpl. George Erskine.

Those signing the letter are Ptes. E. Schell, Peterborough; R. B. Stephens, Norwood; R. A. Rogers, Norwood; Cpl. V. C. Holland, Pte. M. McGee, Pte. E. Donoghue, Pte. B. McMullen, Cpl E. Davis, all of Peterborough; Pte. D. Westnutt, Bowmanville, and Pte. H. Rogers, Kingston.

Soldiers Hear Salvation Army Band

A splendid musical program was presented in the Salvation Army Canteen at the local Training Centre on Thursday evening by the Peterborough Salvation Army Temple Band under the leadership of bandmaster Gerald Routly. A number of stirring Salvation Army marches and familiar military marches were played in excellent style by the Band. The playing of some old Southern Airs was a very pleasing part of the program.

A splendid gesture on the Band's part was when all the soldiers present in the canteen received free soft drinks "on the band."

A rousing three cheers was given to the band by the soldiers present, led by Adj. R. Bamsey.

OBITUARY

BABY DONALD BRUCE DAFOE

HAVELOCK, June 26—(ENS). — The death occurred in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on Wednesday evening of Donald Bruce, baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dafoe, Havelock, aged three months and two days.

The child had been delicate since birth, and had recently been given a blood transfusion, but pneumonia developed Sunday, from which it failed to recover.

The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon from the home of an aunt, Mrs. John Mack, and was conducted by Rev. J. W. Wilkinson.

Besides the sorrowing parents are left one sister, Shirley aged 7, and two brothers, Grenville 5 and Jack 3. Many lovely floral tributes adorned the little white casket, and internment was made in Maple Grove Cemetery.

Jackson-Walker

COBOURG, June 26.—(ENS). — The marriage took place in St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church at four p.m. Wednesday of Gladys Marie, daughter of Mrs. Nellie Walker of Cobourg, to Robert David Jackson of Cobourg, son of Mrs. M. E. Jackson of Belfast, Ireland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Gerard Maher. Mrs. Mary Crowe presided at the organ and Miss Julia Bulger was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. George Walker, wore a white chiffon gown with embroidered bodice over white silk and carried pink roses and white peonies. She was attended by Miss Ivey Fletcher as bridesmaid, who wore a floor-length dress of pink chiffon with lace yoke and carried roses and peonies. Miss Betty Walker, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor and wore a floor-length dress of Copen. blue chiffon and carried roses and peonies. Mr. William Walker was best man and Mr. Rex Fleming was usher.

After the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride where Mrs. Walker received in a rose crepe street-length dress with navy accessories. Later the newly-wedded couple left on a honeymoon to Toronto and western points, the bride wearing a light blue crepe suit with navy accessories. On their return they will reside in Cobourg.

For Saturday, June 27

According to the lunar transits the general state of affairs on this day may be difficult to engineer into prolific grooves or any sort of gratifying accomplishment. There may be many basic elements for disappointment, pitfalls, confusion and defeat, unless more than ordinary discretion and wariness be centered on all the affairs, both private and public.

Those whose birthday it is may need to summon all their discretion, vigilance and prudence in order to sidestep, a multiplicity of dangers, defeats, loss, treacheries and chaotic conditions. This is especially so with all writings, communications and travel.

A child born on this day may have need of rigid training in prudence and principle, since it may be naturally inclined to settle its affairs by expediency rather than straightforward principles.

McManus-Bell Vows Taken At Sacred Heart

The marriage took place in Sacred Heart church on Tuesday of Isabell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bell, Warsaw, to Michael David, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McManus of Douro. Rev. Father Greenan officiated and the wedding music was played by Mr. John Armstrong.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. R. Clements, the bride was beautiful in a gown of white net and lace over satin, with long fitted sleeves and a long train. Her shoulder length veil hung from a net halo trimmed with flowers and she carried a bouquet of red roses. She was attended by Miss Vera Patterson, her cousin, as bridesmaid. Miss Patterson wore a gown of orchid flowered marquisette over taffeta and a pink picture hat and carried pink roses. Mrs. Leonard Meade, as matron-of-honor, wore a similar gown in blue with a small halo hat and a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Patrick McManus was his brother's best man and the ushers were Mr. Leonard Meade and Mr. Wilfred Kennedy.

After the ceremony a reception was held in Hooper's Palm Room, where the bride's mother received wearing a gown of printed silk with a black hat and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a gown of blue sheer with white accessories and a corsage of roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls. For travelling the bride wore turquoise dress and jacket with beige accessoies. On their return they will live on Murray street.

Regina Shannon Weds John Collins

The marriage was solemnized on Thursday, in St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, with Rev. Father Gillogly officiating, of Regina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Shannon of Buffalo, to John J. Collins, son of Mrs. William Collins and the late Mr. Collins. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Daniel J. Crough.

The bride given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white sheer, with short puffed sleeves and net ruching about the square neckline and on the long skirt. The three-quarter length veil fell from a wreath of flowers and she wore white lace gloves and carried a white prayer book from which fell white streamers tied with flowers. She was attended by her sister Miss Mary Shannon, who wore a similar gown of blue with roses in her hair. The best man was Mr. Joe Sullivan of Ennismore, and Mr. Jack Shannon, brother of the bride, was an usher. On Thursday evening a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, after which the couple left on a wedding trip. On their return they will live in Peterborough, on Rogers Street.

Women's Clubs Aid Rationing

At the time of going to press, the following list of organizations whose members are assisting in the issuing of sugar ration cards is available: Y.W.C.A., I. O. D. E. chapters, Women Teachers' Guild, Junior Welfare League, Nicholls' Hospital Women's Auxiliary, Civic War Council, University Women's Club, Red Cross executive, Hadassah Society, Business and Professional Women's Club, Nicholls Hospital Alumnae Association, members of St. John's Ambulance Association courses, 4th Anti-Tank Auxiliary, S. G. and D. Auxiliary, Navy Auxiliary, Women's Christian Temperance Union, The Eastern Star, Rebeccas, Air Force Auxiliary, King's Daughters, St. Peter's Catholic Women's League, Sacred Heart Catholic Women's League, Kingsway Workers, Immaculate Conception Catholic Women's League.

In addition, many women who are not members of a listed organization are helping in this Government-decreed job, so that it has become one big community effort in Peterborough. The thanks of the C.W.V.S., who were asked to look after the issuing of sugar ration cards in Peterborough is extended to all women who are making this possible.

Victory Clothes Save Materials, 'Remain Stylish

Canadian women from now on are going to save thousands of yards and tons of materials of cotton, rayon and wool that are so essential to the war effort. The new clothing restrictions which apply to women's clothing, snip off hems, cut down on pleats, remove pockets, discard voluminous sleeves, and no longer allow cloth over cloth.

But women will hardly notice the changes. Can you tell the difference between the two sports' jackets on the left? The Victory model has two pockets without flaps, the peacetime model three pockets with flaps; the Victory model is two inches shorter, and the width of the skirt is considerably reduced. The saving? One hundred of the old models will make 117 VICTORY outfits.

If a woman can afford an outfit like the one in the CENTRE, ten chances to one she already has a utility coat. There will be no more coats like this for the duration. The material to make 100 of these ensembles will make 200 dresses, without coat.

Skirts with excessive sweeps and sleeves that are voluminous are out. Photo on the RIGHT shows the peacetime version of a housecoat contrasted with a Victory model. Saving per garment is two yards. The cloth used to make 100 of the peacetime model will make 150 of the VICTORY type.

PRETTY BLACKBIRD

By PRUNELLA WOOD.

A demure bodice with a parade of self buttons and cap sleeves styled over pads tops a skirt of soft fullness and a front tied sash bow. Hat and rayon gloves are baby blue. Marechal Ney roses trim the hat.

THE LITTLE BLACK DRESS beloved by every woman who takes even a casual interest in clothes is a mid-summer must. Theoretically, it's daft to bind oneself in sable hue for a raging heat wave, but somehow we like it and we cultivate the whim.

If you have the least possible amount of ornamentation on your basic black daytime frock, its variety can be endless through accessory changes. This means also that your accessories may be for daytime or wartime evening, or chosen to walk the middle distance between the two so that don't dress dinners can be costumed at luncheon time, so to speak.

Church Year Meets At All Saints'

The June meeting of the Church Women's Year was held in the parish hall of All Saints' Church on Thursday with 92 members in attendance. The meeting opened with a hymn, after which the president led in prayer.

The scripture lesson, taken from St. John, was read by Mrs. F. W. Burnham. The president then welcomed the ladies present and expressed the hope that the last six months of the Church Year would be as successful as the first.

The months then brought the money collected to the front and all stood for the singing of the Doxology and the National Anthem. Mrs. Jones reported that 201 knitted articles had been handed in to date for the Navy League. Mrs. Pakenham (nee Edith Boddy) favored the meeting with a solo, accompanied by Mrs. W. Logan. The treasurer reported that a gratifying sum had been realized.

Rev. W. A. Filer, the rector, introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Norman Buckley. Before beginning her address, Mrs. Buckley thanked the ladies for their splendid contributions of gifts to the Red Shield. Mrs. Buckley gave an inspiring address on the subject, "Religion in the Home," stressing the fact that it was up to the mothers to plant the first seeds of religion in the minds of their children and to pray with them as well as for them.

Mrs. J. M. McCulloch moved a vote of thanks to the speaker, the soloist, and her accompanists. Another hymn was sung and the rector closed the meeting with prayer. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Burnham and her assistants.

Farewell Party Is Given To Teacher

YOUNG'S POINT, June 25. — (ENS).—Miss Margaret Martin, who has been principal of the Young's Point School for two years, was entertained by Mrs. E. Johnston in a farewell party Wednesday. Miss Martin is leaving to take another position or attend college.

The guest of honor was presented with a personal gift, and also won the prize for the evening, after which the hostess served lunch.

Those present were: Miss M. Martin, Miss O. Neill, Mrs. [illegible] Young, Mrs. R. Nicholson, Mrs. C. Pelton, Mrs. D. Darling, Mrs. P. Stenner, and Mrs. L. Wilson.

City Oddfellows Sponsor Aid For War Victims

Going back in the memory of some of the oldest residents of the city, Decoration Day has always been annually held under the auspices of the two lodges of Oddfellows (Otonabee and Peterborough) in this city, and to them goes the credit for originating this lovely day of remembrance as far as this city and district is concerned.

The day chosen for this event this year is Sunday next, June 28, and will follow the usual course, when the Oddfellows will parade to Little Lake Cemetery, where an address will be given by Rev. H. J. Mahoney, and music supplied by the Salvation Army Band.

Consistent with all good things that make for the finer and better things of life, at this gathering an appeal to help the sufferers from air raids over Britain, through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, will be made by former Mayor, G. A. Macdonald, himself a prominent Oddfellow, and this appeal will be ably backed by the Oddfellows themselves, in which the public at large is asked to take a part in this hallowed spot, so that out of the nobler sentiments which govern their gathering there to pay tribute to those who have passed on, may also come some good to those of our brethren across the seas who have stood the brunt of the battle on which our very liberty of worship, thought and speech depends.

Once again, readers are reminded that those wishing to decorate the last resting places of loved ones may secure flower holders for that purpose at very small cost from M. Isaac Harrison at the greenhouse at the Cemetery, with the full knowledge that here again, 100 per cent of their money will go to assist the victims of air raids over Britain.

The predominate part in today's list of receipts for the fund is taken by children, with Baillieboro School once again being heard from with a donation of $4, which was collected since January from their pennies saved in a box kept in the school for that purpose. Readers will recall that on one previous occasion their savings for this same purpose was lost in a fire which the school suffered some time back.

On Thursday, this column reported a donation from the Home and School Association at King Edward School, and today from the pupils of Grade 5 in the same school comes a donation of $3 per Miss C. Adams, the teacher, a fine way for the children to be associated together in the closing days of this school year in doing some good for others.

One personal donation under the name of "Norfolk" which has already appeared on former occasions in the lists for the fund is also noted today, coming from one whose early days were spent close to the historic city of Norwich, so recently devastated by the enemy.

Previously acknowledged	$43,089.00
Baillieboro School per Jean Rutherford	4.00
Norfolk	1.00
Grade 5, King Edward School, Miss C. Adams, teacher	3.00

You'll never be satisfied with anything else once you see RINSO WHITENESS

WHEN you see clothes which have been washed with Rinso you quickly appreciate the difference : : : Rinso not only washes whiter, it gives the whitest wash! In fact you'll say the only real standard of whiteness is Rinso whiteness.

Colors wash best in Rinso, too. Week after week you'll see that they come up bright and fresh as daisies. Rinso actually helps all the clothes to wear longer. Its rich suds float away dirt, make it unnecessary to rub or scrub.

Whatever your previous washing experience has been you have only to use Rinso once and you will never again be satisfied with anything else for your wash.

Order some Rinso for this coming washday. Get the GIANT package at your store for extra economy.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

BOREDOM SEEN RESPONSIBLE FOR MAJORITY OF DIVORCES. Couples Should Find What They Have in Common Before Marrying.

Dear Miss Dix,—I am a young woman an office worker, and I have been going with a man. I thought I was madly in love with him, but recently I have spent some time with my Uncle and Aunt and watching them live together has changed my whole idea of marriage. Both are fine people, so far as principles go, but my Uncle is a big, silent, slow man. Never has an idea of his own, no initiative, no pep; my Aunt is exactly the opposite. he is very attractive. Has a fine job in an office. On her toes every minute. Grand housekeeper. Good at everything.

My Uncle and Aunt have nothing in common, yet never argue or quarrel, but I think my Aunt must be bored to death with him. They married when they were very young.

Now, if I marry this man I have been in love with, it will be a repetition of what I have described above. What shall I do? E.M.

ANSWER: Get down on your knees and thank your Guardian Angel that you have been saved from making the mistake of marrying a man with whom you have nothing in common and of whom you would be deadly tired before the honeymoon had set.

When we think of unhappy marriages, we think of their failure being caused by some great fault in either the husband or the wife; that she is a nagger, or a henpecker, or a shrew, or a poor housekeeper, or wasteful and extravagant; or he is a philanderer or a drunkard, or a gambler, or a lazy loafer. But, in reality, what wrecks marriages oftener than a vice is just uncongeniality.

Boredom is at the bottom of nine-tenths of the divorces. It is only after husbands and wives get so fed up with each other and so tired of their dull company and so weary of listening to their stupid conversation they can stand it no longer that they start out to hunt up someone who is entertaining and amusing and with whom they can share their thoughts and interests.

How to Avoid Tragedy.

I have often thought how many domestic tragedies could be avoided if young people, who are thinking of getting married would really try to find out before they take the fatal step just what they have in common, instead of waiting to find out after marriage that neither one is interested in a single thing that the other one is, and that they dont even speak the same language.

But they don't. We all know dozens of couples in which bookish men are married to wives who never read even a sixth best seller. Outdoor men who love games who have wives who are allergic to golf. Chatty women who are married to men who never speak. Affectionate women who are married to men who are as unemotional as a store dummy.

Such marriages are really more unhappy than those in which a woman is married to a drunkard, or a man to a virago, because there is no way out. Neither one has committed an actionable offence against the other. A man can't get a divorce from his wife because she doesn't share his passion for apple pie. A woman can't go to Reno and collect alimony from her husband because he doesn't like to dance and she does. All they can do is to endure their misery.

So be glad you found out in time that you couldn't stand a lifetime of the society of a dull husband.

ADVISED NOT TO ELOPE.

Dear Dorothy Dix; I am a sophomore in college and so is my boy friend. We want to get married as he will have to go to war sometime next year. but our parents want us to wait. My father especially objects because he wants me to continue school and graduate, but I am not getting the full benefit of my education as my interests lie in John and our plans. So we are thinking about eloping. In fact, we have practically decided on it, but I would sort of like a wedding. I have always counted on having one.

I would be perfectly happy to elope, only I hate to hurt my father. What do you think I should do There is no objection on either side to our marrying, only our parents want us to put it off for the present. M.T.

ANSWER: I strongly urge you to listen to your parents. But if you are bent and determined on marrying anyhow, do it honestly and frankly aboveboard. Don't elope. Your parents have been so good and kind to you, you certainly owe them the small return of not sneaking away behind their backs and being married in some hole-and-corner way without their knowing what you are doing.

Don't give up that pretty, dignified wedding that you have been planning ever since you were 12 years old. Think about how lovely you will look in that white satin dress, with the misty veil and the orange blossoms, as you walk slowly up the aisle to give everybody a good eyeful, preceded by your bridesmaids as gay and pretty as butterflies. It will be your great moment that you will remember as long as you live and tell your great-grandchildren about.

And do you know that statistics show that the marriages are solemnized in church, while all of one's little world looks on, and where a man and woman swear their vows of fidelity before God's altar, last longer and have a better chance of hapiness than when a couple get married by a Justice of the Peace in a dingy offfce with perhaps a char woman for the only witness?

So don't elope. If Johnny is worth having, he is worth waiting for. And if you love him you need not be afraid that your love won't stand a little separation.

SOLVED MOTHER-IN-LAW PROBLEM.

Dear Miss Dix: I have settled the mother-in-law question by giving my husband an overdose of his mother's society. I think she intended to live with us, but I forestalled this by inviting her for a long visit, and when my husband was at home I simply stuffed her down his throat. I kept her talking to him of evenings until he groaned with boredom over hearing about the time he had the whooping-cough when he was a child. I would stay at home and make him take her on long rides. If he started on an errand, I told him to take his mother along so she could get a little air.

He never got time for a word with me when Mother wasn't around. I rubbed in his duty to his mother so hard that he got fed up with it and rebelled. And I guess she got enough of him, too, because when she went back home she stayed there. Now my mother-in-law is a truly wonderful person and I love her, but if she was an angel from heaven I would still sabotage her if she tried to live with us. How'd I do? Mrs. L. A.

ANSWER: Wonderully. I pass on your tip to other wives looking for a painless cure for mother-in-law trouble.

This Is Everybody's War

By MOLLY BROWN

It is said that a large number of people, mostly women, read nothing but the society section of the newspaper Now, however flattering that may be to the society reporter, it is not a good thing for anybody. The day is long past when a woman's legitimate interests were limited to the comings and goings of their neighbours and what Sally Smith wore to be married in. Moreover, the society pages are concerned chiefly with news of purely local interest and people whose interests never stray beyond their own community cannot be counted on to have intelligent opinions, even about local affairs, because they have no basis for comparison. In this day and age affairs of the world concern the world.

This matter of limited reading is carried still farther my many people, who confine their reading to fiction in its lightest forms, often limiting their choice to a single type of light fiction. We all know people who read nothing but western stories. Light novels certainly have an important place in literature, but the human mind that feeds entirely on such a diet will be as feeble an undernourished as the body of a child fed exclusively on whipped cream. Even if a reader never strays beyond the field of fiction, there is much to be learned, much pleasure to be gained, by a discriminating mind, from the finest fiction, old or new.

It will probably be a glad day for the world in general when paper rationing banishes (we hope!) pulp magazines of the 'True Confessions, and 'True Detective' type. Their unreal, and monotonously similar plots, their lurid treatment of even more lurid subject matter, and their mentally paralyzing poverty of vocabularly have probably done more to undermine democracy than all the Axis agents in the world.

Not nearly enough women have registered yet to address sugar ration cards. The number for Friday has not risen much above 200 for any time of the day and 400 women will be required each morning, afternoon and evening that the work goes on. The C.W.V.S. under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. G. Wharry, is organizing the work and they are anxious to do it as quickly and as efficiently as possible. This war is your war, and you must help fight it. If addressing ration books is the only way you can help, then for goodness sake, do it, and remember, if you don't get a ration book by July 1 and you didn't help address them you have only yourself to blame.

HOW TO KEEP RAYONS FREE FROM RUNS

1. Buy carefully and be sure you get your right size and length.

2. Easy does it—put on your rayons as carefully as those silk ones you used to have.

3. Avoid cake soap rubbing: don't twist : : : harsh handling weakens delicate threads, encourages runs.

4. Dip stockings in lukewarm Lux every night when you take them off. This saves their elasticity : : : helps them fit better.

5. Gently squeeze out moisture without wringing, then roll in a turkish towel. Hang over a rod away from heat and sun. Don't use clothespins.

6. Dry a whole day at least, after dipping before you wear them again: Rayons are strongest when perfectly dry.

YOUR glamorous new rayons or bembergs need gentle care. Be sure you dip them in Lux every night. Gentle Lux whisks away harmful perspiration which rots delicate threads. Lux cuts down embarrassing, costly runs.

WARNING!

If it is not already on its way to Rationing Headquarters you should

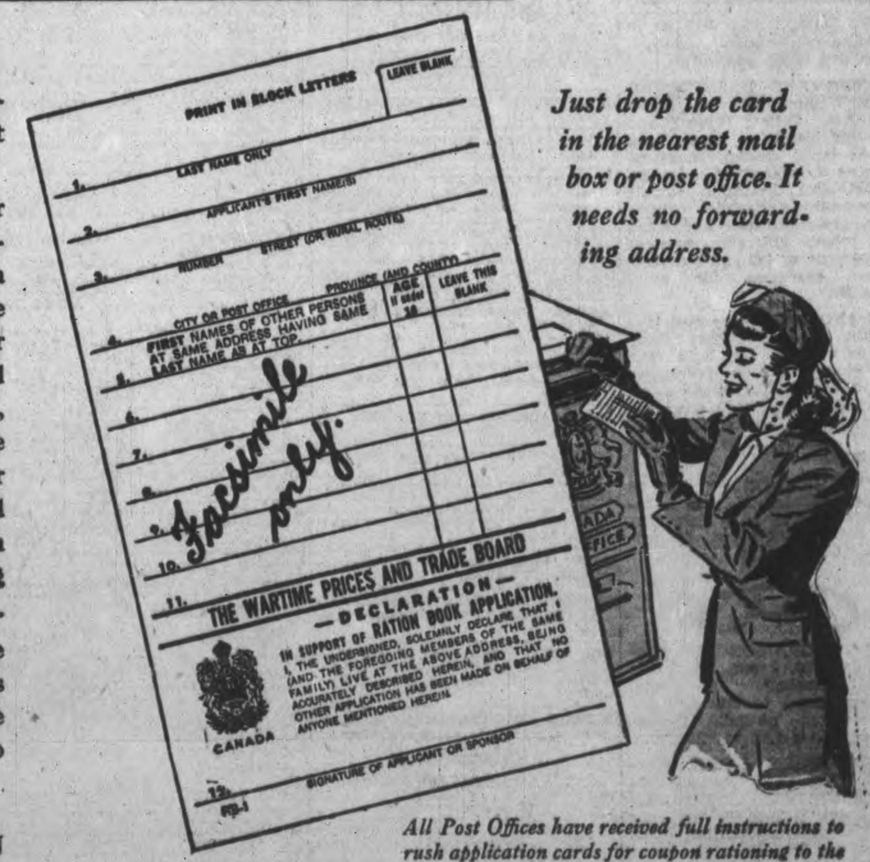
MAIL YOUR APPLICATION CARD FOR COUPON RATIONING AT ONCE!

After July 1st no one will be able to purchase sugar for regular domestic use without turning in a ration coupon.

Application cards for coupon rationing for sugar have now been mailed to every household in Canada. In cities where there is a letter carrier service, these cards should have been picked up yesterday by a volunteer representative of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. But, in an undertaking so vast, some homes may have been missed, or some cards may have gone astray. So, no matter where you live, whether it is in areas served by letter carrier or not, if your application card is not already on its way to Rationing Headquarters, you should wait no longer.

After filling in the card, according to the instructions on the pamphlet which was delivered with it, just drop the card in the nearest mail box or post office. It needs no forwarding address.

IF YOU HAVE NOT RECEIVED AN APPLICATION CARD you should get one at the nearest Post Office at once.



Just drop the card in the nearest mail box or post office. It needs no forwarding address.

All Post Offices have received full instructions to rush application cards for coupon rationing to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board Office, where they will get immediate attention and the coupon ration cards mailed right back to you.

The ration cards being issued for use July 1st are for sugar only, and good for 10 weeks. At the end of that period a coupon ration book good for 6 months will be issued. Under the new system of coupon rationing, you are allowed the same amount of sugar as at present—½ lb. per person per week. The same provision as at present for additional quantities for preserving and jam and jelly making will be continued. Special voucher forms for this purpose are being supplied all retailers.

IN MEMORIAM

YOUNG.—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. G. F. Young, who passed away a year ago today, June 26, 1941.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past,
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.

—Ever remembered by her Daughters and Son.

MAY—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. George May, who passed away six years ago today, June 26, 1936.

The world may change from year to year
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one I loved
From memory pass away.

NOTICE

IN THE MATTER OF THE MUNICIPAL ACT AND IN THE MATTER OF A PROPOSED BY-LAW OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH FOR THE STOPPING UP AND CLOSING OF CERTAIN ALLOWANCES FOR HIGHWAY AND SELLING OR LEASING THE SAME.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, Pursuant to Section 498 of The Municipal Act, that the Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough proposes to consider and if deemed advisable to pass at its Regular Meeting to be held at the Council Chamber, in the City Hall, in the City of Peterborough, on MONDAY, THE 6TH DAY OF JULY, 1942, at 7:30 o'clock p.m., a By-law to Stop Up and Close ALL AND SINGULAR those certain Parcels or Tracts of Land and Premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, and the Province of Ontario, and being composed of:

FIRST: Part of Albert Street according to Registered Plan Number Thirty of the said City and part of Park Street, which said Parcel is further described as follows, that is to say: COMMENCING at a point within the said Park Street distant 1 foot 8½ inches easterly from and at right angles to the westerly limit of the said Street and 1 foot southerly from and at right angles to the easterly production of the northerly limit of the said Albert Street, which said point marks the south-easterly angle of that part of the said Park and Albert Streets which was closed by By-law Number 4133 of the said City, and conveyed to the Canadian General Electric Company Limited, by Registered Deed Number 35833 of the said City, THENCE westerly in a straight line along the southerly limit of the said last mentioned Parcel a distance of 752 feet 3½ inches to a point 1 foot 9 inches southerly from and at right angles to the said northerly limit of Albert Street; THENCE southerly at right angles to the said northerly limit of Albert Street 7 feet 1 inch; THENCE north 70 degrees, 46 minutes east astronomically 752 feet 4½ inches to a point within the limit of the said Park Street 1 foot 8½ inches easterly from the westerly limit thereof and 5 feet southerly and at right angles to the easterly production of the said northerly limit of Albert Street; THENCE northerly parallel with the said westerly limit of Park Street 4 feet to the place of beginning, which is shown coloured red on plan of survey prepared by J. W. Pierce, O.L.S., and dated 16th May, 1942; SECOND: That part of Albert Street and of Lots Numbers Forty-two and Thirty-one according to Registered Plan Number Thirty of the said City shown coloured in red on the said plan of survey of J. W. Pierce, O.L.S., dated 16th May, 1942, which said Parcel is further described as follows, that is to say: COMMENCING at a point in the westerly limit of the said Lot Number Thirty-one distant 8 feet 8 inches southerly from the north-westerly angle thereof, which said point marks the south-westerly angle of that part of the said Lots Numbers Thirty-one and Forty-two and of Albert Street which was closed by By-law Number 4133 of the said City and conveyed to the Canadian General Electric Company Limited by Registered Deed Number 35833 of the said City; THENCE north 70 degrees, 31 minutes east astronomically along the southerly limit of the said last mentioned Parcel 1,047 feet 11½ inches to a point in the northern limit of the said Albert Street distant 1,047 feet 8½ inches easterly from the said north-westerly angle of Lot Thirty-one; THENCE easterly along the said limit of Albert Street 28 feet 11½ inches; THENCE southerly at right angles to the said limit 1 foot 6 inches; THENCE easterly in a straight line a distance of 6 feet 3 inches to a point distant 1 foot 9 inches southerly from and at right angles to the said northerly limit of Albert Street; THENCE southerly at right angles to the said northerly limit of Albert Street a distance of 7 feet 2 inches; THENCE south 70 degrees 46 minutes west astronomically 1,077 feet ½ inch to a point in the westerly limit of the said Lot Number Thirty-one distant 12 feet 8 inches southerly from the north-westerly angle thereof; THENCE northerly along the said limit 4 feet to the place of beginning; THIRD: Part of Hilliard Street in the said City, which said Parcel is more particularly described as follows: COMMENCING at the intersection of the south-westerly limit of Hilliard Street with the westerly limit of Water Street; THENCE north 35 degrees, 29 minutes west along the said south-westerly limit of Hilliard Street 206 feet 10 inches to its intersection with the easterly limit of George Street in the said City; THENCE northerly along the production of the said limit 12 feet; THENCE easterly at right angles to the said limit to a point distant 17 feet north-easterly from and at right angles to the said limit of Hilliard Street; THENCE south 35 degrees, 46 minutes west to a point in the production of the said westerly limit of Water Street distant 18 feet north-easterly from and at right angles to the said south-westerly limit of Hilliard Street; THENCE southerly along the said production of the said westerly limit of Water Street 20 feet 8 inches to the place of beginning, and to Sell or Lease the First and Second Parcels above described to the Canadian General Electric Company Limited, and to Sell or Lease all or part of the Road Allowance in the Third Parcel above described to Archibald Brault, John and Mabel Shaw, Laura Taylor and Joseph Gaskell.

AND TAKE FURTHER NOTICE, That before passing the said By-law at its Meeting to be held at the time and place above-mentioned the Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough shall then and there hear in person or by his counsel, solicitor or agent any person who claims that his Land will or might be prejudicially affected by the said By-law and who applies to be heard.

DATED at Peterborough, this 4th Day of June, A.D. 1942.

Reserve Judgment In Plumbing Case

Magistrate R. B. Baxter reserved judgment this morning in a charge against Gordon J. Bigelow under the city plumbing by-law, of failing to have a smoke test made of the plumbing installed in his apartment house in the old Lundy house on Burnham Street.

A similar charge was dismissed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on the ground that the prosecution had failed to prove that the plumbing work was actually completed.

At that time Magistrate Langley, before dismissing the case for that reason, asked counsel to consent to re-opening the case to allow evidence of the completion of the work being put in so that a decision might be given on the main point at issue, instead of on the failure to get in all the evidence.

City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, K.C., was willing but the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who appeared for Bigelow, declined to do so, and the case was accordingly dismissed, Mr. Huycke intimating that another charge would be laid.

Evidence given was on the same lines as before except that the prosecution called witnesses to show that the plumbing work in the Bigelow apartment building had been completed.

Mr. Gordon did not call any evidence, and in his argument contended that the charge should have been laid within six months of the completion of the work.

City Solicitor Huycke contended that the statute of limitations did not apply and that Bigelow was guilty of a continuing offence.

Magistrate Baxter announced that he would reserve judgment and give a written decision in two weeks.

Exercise Ends Bulges That Give an Old Look

Middle Age Starts at Middle

That discouraging matronly bulge at the waist! You push it in, girdle it in, but out it pops—unless you exercise it away!

Middle age begins at the middle. Abdominal muscles may get slack as early as 25, and when they do, it means a thickening waist, drooping shoulders, a forward head and then—a "dowager's hump." You'll be looking old while still young.

So harden your abdominal muscles, be slim-waisted, erect, young! This exercise gets happy results if you do it faithfully every day:

1. Lie on back, arms at sides, knees bent, feet flat on mat.

2. Lift hips upward and pull in abdominal muscles hard, at the same time raising arms overhead.

3. Return to position. Repeat five times and rest; another five times and rest.

Or is your special problem fatty hips or heavy legs or a drooping bust?

Our 32-page booklet has exercises to remedy those figure faults, too. Tells how to correct poor posture, faults of shoulders, bust, arms, waistline. Gives exercises to relieve foot troubles, constipation, nervous tension, also a daily routine for the entire body.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps for your copy of BEST EXERCISES FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY to Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

BIAS FAVORING MAJORS

IT IS UNWISE, in most cases, to favor one phase of activity as against another. There are a few prejudices, however, which are completely sound. To have a strong bias in favor of striving for a major suit contract instead of a minor is winning bridge, since it requires you one less trick to make game. It can be overdone, of course, but unless you possess such a bias to some extent, you will lose ultimately by the lack of it.

North: ♠ 10 7 5 ♥ K 9 6 5 4 ♦ None ♣ 10 9 8 7 3

West: ♠ A 9 4 3 ♥ J 8 2 ♦ K J 6 2 ♣ K 6

East: ♠ K Q 8 6 2 ♥ Q 10 ♦ Q 5 4 3 ♣ Q 4

South: ♠ J ♥ A 7 3 ♦ A 10 9 8 7 ♣ A J 5 2

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

	West	North	East	South
1.	Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
	Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣
	Pass	3 ♣	Pass	3 ♥
	Pass	4 ♥
2.	Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
	Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣
	Pass	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥
	Pass	4 ♥

There were two ways of reaching a heart game in the duplicate where this hand was dealt. In every case the contract was made, with the loss of one trick in each suit except diamonds, following the lead of a spade.

Perhaps the best bidding of the deal is that given at Table 1, where South showed three-card support for the major suit with his call of hearts after bidding clubs over North's first response.

Maybe North's preference for majors was a little too great at Table 2, when he made a minimum rebid because he didn't think he was quite strong enough for 3-Hearts. His hand had really become quite good after hearing South's club call, and he might have been pardoned if he had bid one higher.

The really bad bidding was done at several tables, where South bid clubs on his second turn, North raised them and then South either bid 4-Clubs or jumped to 5-Clubs without ever showing neutral support for hearts. Game cannot be made in the minor, but is cold in the major.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A Q J 9 ♥ None ♦ K Q J 3 2 ♣ K Q 8 5

West: ♠ K 10 6 3 ♥ Q 10 7 6 ♦ A 10 9 ♣ J 3

East: ♠ 5 4 ♥ A K J 8 5 4 2 ♦ 6 5 ♣ A 7

South: ♠ 8 7 2 ♥ 9 3 ♦ 8 7 4 ♣ 10 9 6 4 2

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

After North doubles and South leads the heart 9, how should East play this deal for 4-Hearts redoubled?

LONDON, June 25 —(CP Cable)— The News Chronicle, commenting on its financial columns on the details of Canada's budget, brought down in the House of Commons Tuesday night, said today the Dominion has "handled her problems both of physical production and of economic and financial policy with a decisive efficiency that we have some reason for envying."

Only London morning newspaper to comment on the budget, the newspaper noted the extent of Canada's proposed expenditure and said "some idea of the real burden.... can be given by stating that it exceeds the 1937 budget of the United Kingdom with its 45,000,000 population."

Garden Party In Havelock

HAVELOCK, June 26—(ENS). — Despite showery weather throughout the afternoon a huge crowd turned out on Wednesday evening to patronize the Havelock-Belmont Red Cross garden party held on the beautiful and spacious lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith. A well-planned and carefully-organized parade left the Town Hall at 7:30 and marched around the business section of the village before going to the grounds. T. P. Lancaster, Red Cros president, and Reeve Seeney had their car patriotically decorated and led the parade, followed by D. Plunkett with the bagpipes and T. Sarginson with the drum. Then came a Red Cross nurse and following were three groups of ladies dressed in white uniforms, each carrying suitable Red Cross banners with streamers of red, white and blue, and small boys in Air Force suits carrying V for Victory flags and Union Jacks.

Members on the program in costume came next and finally came a large number of willing workers of the branch and the school children. A bountiful strawberry supper was served to all throughout the evening.

An interesting program was given consisting of the following items: Duet, "Soldiers' Farewell," by Misses Margaret Anderson and Dora Ketchen, dressed in costume of a soldier and his wife; an accordion solo by Jacqueline Puffer; the Quinn twins sang 'Johnny Doughboy," with Mrs. C. Couch at the piano; Miss Margaret Johnson sang a solo, "In the Garden of To-morrow," accompanied by Mrs. P. Colquhoun at the piano; J. Hudson of Windsor gave a trumpet solo "Someone else is Taking my Place'; Mr. Taylor sang a popular Scottish song; Rev. J. W. and Mrs. Wilkinson sang a duet, "Highland Lassie"; a male chorus, consisting of H. Roche, F. Rogers, J. Watson, B. McBurney, J. Taylor, and B. Haryett sang "Soldiers of the King"; the Preneveau Band played "Don't Sit Under the Apple-tree," which consisted of Mrs. W. Anderson at the piano, Randall Ellis and Jesse Anderson violins, Arthur Anderson banjo, Mr. Hudson trumpet, and Mr. Taylor with a washboard. Rev. Mr. Wilkinson led in a few minutes of hearty community singing. A very jolly time was had for a couple of hours at the bingo booth for the many lovely prizes which were donated by the business men.

Pot-Luck Dinner Held In Aid Of Red Cross

CAVAN, June 26—(ENS).—Mrs. Tom Douglas held a pot-luck dinner at her home on Tuesday in aid of the Red Cross. There were 25 present and a very pleasant afternoon was spent. The proceeds from the dinner amounted to $5.

Miss Fern Goodson, B.A., of Toronto, and Cooksville is visiting her friend, Miss Marie Douglas.

Miss Joan Ayling, Reg.N.; Miss Helen Sale, Reg.N.; Miss Mary Armstrong, Reg.N., and Miss Betty Cook, all of Peterborough, spent Wednesday with Miss Dorothy Armstrong.

Mrs. Lavergne Fallis, Mr. W. Tinney, Mrs. David Fallis, and Mr. Harold Fallis attended Ebenezer garden party on Monday evening.

Tag Day Is Held Chinese Relief

HAVELOCK, June 26—(ENS). — The High School girls in Havelock held a most successful tag day on Saturday for the Chinese War Relief. R. W. Goheen, High School principal, organized the taggers for a systematic canvass of the village. The girls each carried taggers' boxes which were gaily decorated with Chinese characters. The taggers were Robena Rice Betty Clarke, Margaret Anderson, Dora Ketchen, Mary Page, Cleo Copp, Ruth Wilkinson, Ruth Peters, Betty Holdcroft, Helen Price, Helen Clarke, Marilyn Hutchison, Marjorie Brennan. They collected $44.00 for this worthy cause.

Fish by Horse

Depth Charge

This dramatic scene was snapped from aboard a U.S. navy boat during convoy escort duty in the Atlantic. A terrific explosion sends water spouting as a depth bomb is dropped overboard when suspicious object in water was thought to be a sub periscope. This action occurred after a collier in the convoy had struck a mine and capsized before sinking. Working on the theory that a U-boat might be lurking near by, the navy took no chances.

Fawn Scampers Home When Turned Loose

APSLEY, June 26—(ENS). — One little fawn has happily rejoined the family group due to the kindly instincts of some of the folks up near Apsley, who satisfied themselves with a few snaps of it and then turned it loose.

On Monday evening a party composed of Mr. and Mrs. McColl, Mrs. Charles Smith and Irving Nesbitt was going down Jack's Lake when a fawn was sighted swimming along in the water. The party caught it without much trouble and took it to the Landing, and held on to it until Irving Nesbitt came back from Apsley with his camera.

After getting their snaps, the four took the animal back to the spot where they had picked it up, and their last view of it showed the fawn swimming toward an island where its mother had evidently left it. A few days previously, two mother deer with two fawns had been seen on the same island.

Personals.

Victor McFadden left yesterday to join the King's forces.

Pte. Frank Tanner of Halifax is home on leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jackson are at their cottage at Jack's Lake for the summer.

Week-end visitors included: Miss L. Ashenhurst of Warsaw and Mrs. Stanley Windsor and Miss Audrey Windsor of Oshawa, with Mrs. Jas. Downing; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Edwards of Peterborough, with Mrs. F. Young; Miss M. Grant, with Miss M. Reesor.

Miss Muriel McColl has returned home from a visit to Colborne.

Mrs. A. Harris is home after visiting her daughters, Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Earl Trotter in Toronto. Mrs. Trotter's friends are glad to hear she is recovering from an appendix operation.

Mrs. Well. Lean and Mrs. Russell Hales motored to Peterborough yesterday.

Young Homemakers Entertain Mothers

WARSAW, June p6 — (ENS). — The Junior Homemakers' Club held their final meeting of the Supper Club project in the form of a luncheon, entertaining their mothers and members of the Women's Institute.

Mrs. H. G. Digweed, leader of the club, was hostess, and received about forty guests, assisted by the club president, Ivah Little.

Tables were set on the lawn, and beautifully decorated with roses and small flags. The senior girls prepared the menu and did the sewing.

A vote of appreciation was extended the leader and club members for their hospitality by Mrs. Snelgrove and the very pleasant afternoon was closed by a singsong.

Personals

Mrs. V. B. Coleman, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Coleman, Port Hope, were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. David Miller.

Mrs. Burrell Payne and infant daughter, Norwood, have returned after spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Payne.

Mrs. Luther Payne is in Baltimore, a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Ray Hogg, and attended the christening of her granddaughter on Sunday.

Mrs. E. D. Snelgrove is spending a few days in Camborne.

Miss Doreen Hawthorne has returned to her home in Lakefield after spending the week with her sister, Mrs. Donald Davis.

Pte. Allen Sharpe, Kingston, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sharpe.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Archer, Miss Doris Archer and Miss Lila Burgess, Fenelon Falls, attended the shower on Wednesday night for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clifford.

Mr. Hector Munroe, Toronto, spent the week-end with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Munroe, and with them attended the graduation exercises at the Royal Military College at Kingston. Cadet Donald Sinclair, nephew of Mrs. Munroe, was a graduate.

For Their Lost Pals

London, June 26 (CP)

SURVIVORS of H.M.S. Edinburgh, sunk while escorting a Russia-bound convoy, held an auction in a snow-covered field in northern Russia to raise money for the wives and children of their lost mates.

The seamen outbid one another for articles they had managed to save from the sinking warship and had pooled.

A pack of cigarets sold for the equivalent of $9. A petty officer paid $9 for a match to light a cigaret for which he had also given up $9. One seaman gave $4.50 to see the shirt-buyer don the garment then and there in the cold. A third paid $4.50 to put his chilly hand on the shirt-buyer's exposed back.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. Of Marmora Hold Their June Meeting And Pack Two Bales

MARMORA, June 26.—(ENS).— The June meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. J. Pack. There was a fair attendance The president, Mrs. W. P. Fletcher, conducted the business period, after reading a beautiful poem to open the meeting.

A short paper was read on temperance by Mrs. D. B. Sanderson. Mrs. F. E. Trennum invited the Society to meet at her home in September. No meetings will be held during July and August.

Mrs. Pack was in charge of the program, the topic being "The Bales Go A-Travelling." Five members took part, reading interesting letters and incidents, relating to receiving bales by poor or far-off communities. One letter told of the receipt of one bale, sent by Marmora W.M.S. last year to Newfoundland, another at the Indian mission.

Mrs. Fletcher conducted the worship period, after which the offering was received.

The members then packed two good-sized bales with clothing and quilts and these will be forwarded at once to the supply secretary. The bales were valued at about $71. The meeting closed with prayer by Dr. Fletcher.

'ALLIES POISING STROKE TO SAVE REDS'-W.C., F.D.R.

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt declared in a joint statement today that "coming operations" of the United Nations "will divert German strength from the attack on Russia."

"While exact plans, for obvious reasons, can not be disclosed," said the joint statement released simultaneously in Washington and London, "it can be said that the coming operations, which were discussed in detail at our Washington conference between ourselves and our respective military advisers, will divert German strength from the attack on Russia."

The statement also said it was hope that as a result of other steps "planned" at the week of Roosevelt-Churchill conferences concluded Thursday, "the respective navies will further reduce the toll of merchant shipping."

Plans All Laid.

Withholding the time and other details of what may come now, the statement declared the United Nations, as a result of the conferences, "have never been in such hearty and detailed agreement on plans for winning the war as they are today."

The two leaders applauded Russia's gallant resistance to the "main attack" being made by Germany, and rejoiced in the "magnificent resistance" of the Chinese Army.

They added that detailed discussions were held with military advisers of the United Nations on the "methods to be adopted against Japan and the relief of China."

Calling attention to the fact that the two war leaders had met twice before—before and after the United States entered the war — the joint statement declared there was no doubt in the minds of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr Churchill that the "overall picture is more favorable than it was either in August or December of last year,' the occasions of their two previous conferences, the first in the Atlantic on board warships and the second at the White House.

At the same time it was declared that assault groups there had dwindled from regiments or divisions to companies and battalions, an evidence of the strain of the campaign upon Axis manpower.

(The German high command claimed last night that Nazi and Rumanian troops had captured Izyum, a railroad town on the west bank of the Donets River 70 miles south-east of Kharkov, after bitter street fighting. German control of the whole triangular area between Kharkov, Izyum and newly-occupied Kypyanks was implied.)

Large Nazi reserves of tanks and infantry were said to have been thrown into the conflict against the reinforced Russians.

"As the result of fierce battles, populated places are continually changing hands," the Soviet Information Bureau said. "We are inflicting heavy losses."

Admit Tough Defences.

(A Berlin broadcast said the Red Army defences are strong and intricate, this being coupled with a claim that the high command considered the attacks "aimed at shortening the front line a full success.")

Soviet land and sea forces in the 23rd day of a battle to save Sevastopol and its Crimean naval base from the assault divisions of Gen. Fritz Erich von Mannstein have "repelled several enemy attacks."

The Russians said six of 14 Nazi bombers which approached Moscow were shot down on Thursday night without a Soviet loss "and the others turned tail."

The Free French news agency in London reported several Nazi troop ships were sunk and harbor installations were fired in an attack by more than 100 Soviet bombers on a Finnish port near embattled Leningrad.

Red Counters Stop Hun In Ukraine

Sevastopol Slaughter Sees Nazi Gains Cut to Few Yards

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, June 27.—(AP).—The Red army has checked the new German offensive in the Ukraine, repulsing enemy attacks east of Kupyansk and at one point counter-attacking, while the German gains on the Sevastopol front is measured in yards after the bloodiest kind of fighting Soviet military dispatches said today.

Severe losses were inflicted on the Germans who were forced into retreat by the Russian counterdrive at Kupyansk on the Os... River, 60 miles southeast of Kharkov, the report said.

At Sevastopol, the Red fleet navy base in the Crimea, the Germans were estimated to have hurled 50 trainloads of bombs, shells and mines into an effort to breach the defences, but their gains were said to have netted them only a few dozen yards in two sectors.

The Nazis have hurled more than 50 trainloads of bombs, shells and mines upon Sevastopol, said Pravda, but still its defences hold.

50,000 Toll At Sevastopol

The paper estimated the German losses in the assaults at 200 tanks, hundreds of aircraft and more than 50,000 men killed and wounded.

As a rule the engagements about the beleaguered fortress begin with long-range artillery fire and end up in hand-to-hand combat which sometimes raged for hours in the trenches, said Pravda's correspondent. In 10 days one unit beat off about 50 such attacks.

"The heroism of the Sevastopol garrison, its unwavering staunchness and devotion to duty stand out with utter clarity," he declared.

On the Kharkov front the battles were said to be of "exceptionally fierce character."

Massed air attacks by the Germans are being matched by mighty Russian counter-attacks with tanks.

In one sector, 31 air battles were fought in a single day and 51 German planes were destroyed, said Russian reports.

A Sevastopol report to Pravda, the Communist party organ, said the Germans continued to move up reserves and "the presence of several new infantry regiments evidently transferred from another front has been noted in the last few days."

Ready for Army Week

TORONTO, June 27 — (CP). — Military District No. 2, embracing communities from Sault Ste. Marie to Niagara Falls, is ready for Army Week which opens throughout Canada to-morrow.

Observance throughout the district will range from week-long celebrations in Toronto, St. Catharines, Hamilton and Brantford among other centres, a three-day demonstration in Huntsville and the Muskoka district to concentrated efforts on July 1, Dominion Day, in smaller centres.

Canada To Honor Her Soldiers

Canadians will honor next week the men in the army, and Peterborough is commencing the week on Sunday with a garrison drumhead service at Riverside Park at 9.45 a.m. Pte. J. W. Norris, ABOVE, of Toronto, is typical of the men who are being honored. Pte. Norris is at the Training Centre receiving the basic course. He saw three years' service in India, but came to Canada in 1926.

Sub Gets Quick Trip To Davey Jones As It Pops Up Beside U.S. Freighter

A FLORIDA PORT, June 27.—(AP).—An alert navy gun crew of a United States cargo ship hit and almost certainly sank an Axis submarine off the coast of Cuba, Capt. John Ellison of Upper Darby, Pa., master of the vessel, said today.

Capt. Ellison said the raider was taken by surprise and did not have time to fire torpedoes or get its deck guns into action. Its machine gun went into action an[d] [ab]out 30 bulless struck the ship without doing any damage.

The American ship's engines were not running, so the submarine apparently had not been warned of its presence by listening devices and was caught by surprise as it came to the surface, Capt. Ellison said.

Edwin Smith, 19, of Fayette, Miss., gun crew lookout, sighted the raider as it broke water some 400 years from the ship. He gave the alarm for the gun outfit and within a minute the men were at their stations and firing.

Ordnance Chief Sifton Resigns

OTTAWA, June 27—(CP).—Victor Sifton, newspaper publisher and distinguished First Great War veteran, steps out of his post as Master-General of the Ordnance next Wednesday after a year and a half at the head of one of the most important branches in Canada's military organization.

The 45-year-old holder of the Distinguished Service Order relinquishes the job of bossing the army's supply branch to Brig. J. V. Young, 50, his former deputy. Brig. Young, also a First Great War veteran and native of Hamilton, Ont., becomes Acting Master-General of Ordnance.

Mr. Sifton, Defence Minister Ralston said in a statement last night announcing the shift, will return to the newspaper world where, in 1928, he started his career as a publisher.

Col. Ralston said he accepted Mr. Sifton's request to be reelased of his duties with "very sincere regret" because he had rendered Canada

Getting Closer

LONDON, June 27.—(CP). — A D.N.B. announcement, heard here today, said Walter Goering, 21-year-old nephew of Marshal Hermann Goering, had been killed in an air battle with the R.A.F. on the western front.

Goering was a lieutenant in a German fighter squadron, the broadcast said.

Hun Slash Back At Norwich After Bremen

LONDON, June 27. — (CP). — (CP).—British fighter aircraft swept over occupied territory and attacked enemy shipping and railway objectives last night, the Air Ministry saiad to-day, but most of the big bombers stayed at home.

Some bombers were sent out to lay mines in enemy waters, but there were no reports of raids such as the previous night's R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. 1,000-plane attack against Bremen where fires raged for hours.

One British fighter is missing from last night's operations.

The Air Ministry said three enemy aircraft were destroyed by British bombers duing the attack on Bremen. One of these, it was disclosed, was picked off by Sgt. Don Morrison, 20 year old rear gunner from Sherbrooke, Que.

In apparent retaliation for the Bremen raid, German bombers attacked the East Anglian city of Norwich briefly last night and left fires in residential and shopping areas the Air Ministry said.

"Some casualties wee caused, including a small number of people killed," the Air Ministry said. "Three enemy aircraft were destroyed."

Several large fires were started by the Nazi raiders, some of which dived almost to housetop level in defiance of heavy anti-aircraft fire and British night fighters.

Many private homes and business establishments were damaged and the wing of a hospital was burned out.

Authoritative sources indicated the R.A.F. had not engaged in any large scale offensive activity overnight.

Escape in Style

JOLIET, Ill., June 27—(AP). — Conrad Petti, 33, a trusty at Joliet Penitentiary, escaped the prison in style—in the automobile of Assistant Warden Frank Hill. Petti drove Mrs. Hill downtown and was instructed to wait until she had finished shopping. But when Mrs. Hill completed her buying trip, her prisoner-chauffeur was missing. He was serving a year to life on a robbery sentence.

Axis Troops Massing On 5-Mile Front 15 Mi. Off Matruh

CAIRO, June 27 (AP) — British headquarters reported today that Axis forces of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had moved up to within 15 miles of Matruh, about 115 miles into Egypt from the Libyan frontier.

The position of Axis armored divisions indicated a 15-mile advance along the coast toward Matruh, restricted only by light parrying action of British mobile forces.

"There was no major engagement yesterday," a communique said. "Our covering forces were in contact with the enemy's forward troops throughout the day."

The advance of Rommel's armored and motorized troops concentrated along a five-mile front, was slow by comparison with his earlier drives of from 40 to 60 miles a day, indicating he might be awaiting the arrival of fresh supplies before starting an all-out attack.

Hammering of major Libyan bases by British and United States Army Air Force bombers and strafing of German-Italian columns hindered the advance of food, water, oil and munitions necessary to maintain the invading field army.

Moreover it was announced in Alexandria, less than 200 miles behind the defence lines of Lt.-Gen. Neil Ritchie's 8th Army, that speedy American-built motor torpedo boats had arrived to augment the British Fleet.

Capable of a speed of more than 45 knots, the craft are already credited with sinking three Axis vessels off Libya and removing several hundred British soldiers and sailors from Tobruk under heavy bombardment just before that port fell last Sunday.

British warships are standing by for orders to steam out and engage coastal formations from the sea.

The main Axis force is made up of three armored divisions supported by motorized infantry and the initiative is clearly still in their hands.

Military observers said they had three possible courses:—

1. A frontal attack on Matruh, a fortified port linked to Alexandria by rail as well as sea supply lines.
2. An attempt to negotiate the hill-rimmed salt and sand marshes of the vast Qattara depression, farther inland.
3. To swing south toward the Nile by way of the Siwa oasis.

British authorities ruled out none of these possibilities, but said that —on the basis of the present dispositions—the first appeared to be most likely.

Makeshift Bolts Foil Canuck Escape In Eire

RATHDRUM County Wicklow, Eire, June 27—(CP). — The story of a rough-and-tumble attempted mass escape by Canadian and English airmen from Curragh Internment Camp now can be told. It is a story of bumps, bruises, and cuts; of barbed wire, ladders and wire-cutters.

The scramble and dash through the darkness of a cold night not long ago came to grief because of one thing — "ersatz" bolts in the ladder joints. When the ladders collapsed, the guards rushed in.

Names of those who participated in the break have never been made public. But among the Canadians known to be at the camp are Flt.-Lieut. Grant Fleming, Calgary; PO. R. G. (Bob) Keeper, Montreal; FO. Jack Calder, Goderich a hamlet in Ontario Province; and Sgt. Pilot Paul Webster, Vancouver. Sub-Lieut. Bruce Girdlestone, a New Zealander in the Fleet Air Arm, is also interned. All had made acquaintances outside the camp while on special honor leave.

All Have A Hand

Stories from the camp of the attempted break say that officers and non-commissioned men alike had a part. There was marked ingenuity in their plans. Through some means they obtained small pieces of wood to be fastened together into 16-foot ladders. Lacking steel bolts, they used anything that could be found and appeared serviceable.

At their zero hour the airmen slipped safely from their quarters into the darkness. They gathered at an agreed upon place and crept toward the first barbed wire fence. Some went to work with wire-cutting tools while others set up the ladders. They got through and over safely.

The next fence proved their undoing. The swaying ladders snapped when the bolts gave way and the men were dashed into the barbed wire or were sent tumbling to the ground.

As they scrambled to their feet the guards rushed up. In the scuf-

U.S. Air Units In Britain Shaping Bases

1st Hint of Readiness To Drop Bombs On German Cities

LONDON, June 27 — (CP). — It was reliably disclosed to-day that United States Army Air Force units are in the British Isles laying the groundwork for American participation in the mass R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. raids on Germany.

Nothing has yet been said to indicate that aircraft have arrived to equip the units for actual operations.

Precedent indicates that the first public announcement of United States participation in the European air warfare will be by the blast of bombs on Germany.

The first official hint of the air crews' presence in Britain was given on Thursday in a statement by Maj.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, American Commander for the European war theatre that pilots were arriving "in rapidly increasing numbers."

Well-informed air observers had known for weeks that air crews were taking shape at a base somewhere in the British Isles, but security reasons prevented disclosure. The nature and extent of the preparations are secret.

It has been stated, however, that United States forces will operate independently of the R.A.F., although collaborating with it in a long-range bombing plan.

Maldon Swings Independent

LONDON, June 27—(CP Cable)—Tom Driberg, Independent, today won the Maldon Parliamentary by-election with a plurality of nearly 6,000 votes over R. J. Hunt, the Government candidate.

Mr. Driberg is a widely-known columnist in The Daily Express who writes under the name of William Hickey. He received 12,219 votes to 6,226 for Mr. Hunt, who ran as a Conservative. Borlase Matthews, Independent, polled 1,476.

The vacancy was caused by the death of Col. Sir Edward Ruggles-Brise, Conservative. The total vote was small in comparison with that cast in the last general election, in 1935, when Sir Edward polled 17,072 vote to 9,264 for W. F. Toynbee, Labor, and 5,880 for Miss H. Buckmaster.

Maldon represented the fourth defeat for a Government candidate in a recent group of seven by-elections. The others were at Grantham, Wallasey and Rugby.

There are still seven by-elections, including one at Spennymore where the Labor member, Joseph Batey, announced his retirement due to ill health.

May Call Commandos to Clear Aleutians

Japs At Kiska Menace Any Allied Aid Or Supply Line To Western Russia

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 27—(CP)—The continued Japanese occupation of the wind-swept, desolate and fog-bound outer Aleutian Islands may be a preface to a protracted struggle for these barren but strategic Pacific outposts, in the opinion of military experts here.

The Japanese, some time between June 3 and 7, landed at Attu and Kiska Islands, about the time of the hit-and-run raids on Dutch Harbor. It is probable only a few hundred men were landed on the islands but since then they have been unable to find out exactly what is going on.

It is possible that air power, operating from the nearest American base, Dutch Harbor on Unalaska Island, on the extreme eastern tip of the Chian, may be able to dislodge the Japanese from their foothold but the foggy weather in the North Pacific at this time of the year may prevent success from the air.

It may eventually take a task force to win back the islands, a combined operation necessitating a counter-landing because the Japanese evidently are strengthening their positions there and attempting to develop Kiska Harbor into some sort of a fortified base.

The Japanese landed on the rocky islands without opposition and as long as they remain there they constitute a serious menace to the United Nations in the North Pacific, a menace to Russia as well as to North America and potential menace to shipping and convoy routes.

It is believed here that the rocky, forlorn islands could not be turned into bases for long-range aircraft without protracted effort because of the difficulty of building long runways but enough level ground might be found for short runways for land-based fighters.

Kiska harbor is an excellent deep-water refuge, despite the fog that enshrouds it so many weeks of the year. It could easily be used by the Japanese as a base for seaplanes, submarines and small commerce raiders.

The longer the Japanese are permitted to stay in the outer Aleutians, the more difficult it will be to dislodge them because the industry, resourcefulness and careful preparation of their forces have been demonstrated many times in various parts of the Pacific. As long as they stay there they remain a threat to the inner Aleutians, particularly the base of Dutch Harbor and serve to check-mate any offensive operations against Japan from that general area.

It is quite probable that the long-range explanation of the Japanese occupation has as much to do with Russia as it has with North America. By occupying the islands the Jap-

Queen A Hit With Yanks

'Swell Girl,' Says Troops Staging Show For Royalty

WITH THE U.S. FORCES IN NORTHERN IRELAND, June 27—(AP).—United States troops seemed pretty well agreed today that Queen Elizabeth is "a swell girl" after putting on a show for the King and Queen which drew congratulations from the King because of its "impressive efficiency."

Demonstrating everything from bridge-building to doughnut-making, the soldiers staged a mock battle for the royal visitors on their three-day trip to Northern Ireland. Their Majesties rode in jeeps and tanks, and examined guns, gas masks and field kitchens.

The performance of the Americans led one member of Their Majesties entourage to remark: "It was the best show put on during the war and the King seems happier than I have ever seen him."

When it was over the King asked Maj.-Gen Russell Hartle, Commander of American forces in Northern Ireland, to convey to the troops his "hearty congratulations on the impressive efficiency" with which the demonstration and operations were performed.

Coming Week Critical Test

May See Hitler Forced to Suddenly Shift Plans

By DE WITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

One can't quarrel with the prediction by London military experts that the next week bids fair to be one of the most critical of the war for the Allies, though personally I should go further and say that it also will be one of the most fateful for the Axis.

Another week won't see the end of the great battles which now are swelling, but the speeding events of the immediate future are likely to silhouette the climax of Hitler's attempt to dominate the world. The Nazi Fuehrer right now either is building himself a pyramid of triumph, or he is digging his own grave which about the time the first snows sweep the Russian Steppes will be ready and waiting for the Allies to push him in. He may still play Hamlet for a bit after that, but his number will be up.

But it isimportant to note that while we can see the meaning of this historic moment, there is no assurance that the present offensives will continue to be channels through which our destiny will flow. The Allies must be prepared for a lightning change of tactics by Hitlers if things don't go well with his scheme of clamping a great pair of pincers on Egypt from the East and from the West.

MILLION FRENCH RESIDENTS EVACUATED FROM COASTAL REGIONS

Adolf's Aides Would Nab All Of France

500,000 Italian Troops Said at Border In Fear of 2nd Front

LONDON June 27 (CP)—German military leaders are urging Hitler to occupy all France to meet the growing threat of an Allied attempt to establish a second front in Western Europe, an unusually well-informed foreign source declared today.

At the same time the Independent French news agency at Beirut reported that 500,000 Italian soldiers are concentrated in Northern Italy ready to move into France to reinforce the German army of occupation.

Intimation that the Nazis might be preparing to take over the third of conquered France which still is unoccupied was said to have come through "trustworthy underground channels"—the same channels which recently reported the Germans were moving heavy guns from the Maginot and Siegfried lines to the French west coast.

The source credited with relaying this information also said he had been informed more than 1,000,000 French residents have been evacuated from the coastal areas in connection with the German defence preparations.

May Recall Blaskowitz

The same source said there is a possibility Hitler might recall Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz—hero of the Polish campaign who has been in virtual retirement since reportedly disagreeing with the Fuehrer over the invasion of Russia—to assist in reorganizing the defences of Western Europe.

In line with this reorganization Hitler is said to have replaced 26 German Divisional Commanders within the last three or four weeks in a drastic shakeup.

The source warned, however, that all these reported developments should not be considered a sign of weakness on the part of the Germans.

"They should be taken for the pesent for just what they are—evidence of German preparedness which the Allies must be equipped to overcome if and when they invade," he said.

Power And Leduc Place Canada Before Quebec

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, June 27.—(CP).—Two Quebec members of the House of Commons were on record to-day as supporting the conscription-enabling amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act—with full knowledge that the majority in their constituencies appear to oppose conscription.

Air Minister Power, veteran of 25 years' constant membership, and Dr. Rudolphe Leduc (Lib. Wright) expressed their support of the government bill to amend the N.R.M A. in the Commons yesterday afternoon. Both said at once they were inviting defeat at the hands of their electors.

Maj. Power, a veteran of the First Great War who has represented Quebec South since 1917 said in his 15-minute speech that he holds the same views as his electors against coercion and compulsion.

But the people as a whole had indicated a desire for action "of which this legislation is possibly the least expression," and "following the ordinary democratic process and being a Canadian before I am a Quebecker, I propose to vote for this bill."

He was referring to the plebiscite of April 27 when the people, asked if they favored releasing the government from past no-conscription pledges, voted in the affirmative.

Both Major Power's riding and that of Dr Leduc voted against releasing the Government.

No Hesitation in Choice.

Dr. Leduc said his choice was between serving his country and gaining re-election and he had no hesitation in choosing to serve his country.

The debate was on second reading of Bill 80 with which Prime Minister Mackenzie King seeks to repeal Section 3 of the Mobilization Act restricting use of men called up under the Act to service in Canada.

It was the end of the second full week of debate on second reading of the Bill and reports to-day were that the vote might be reached early next week.

Clothes Made To Aid Free French

PORT HOPE, June 27 (ENS)—A fine display of sewing and knitting was given in the gymnasium of the Port Hope High School on Friday afternoon by the teachers and students, with tea being served by the conveners of the Red Cross Tea Rooms, Mrs. F. W. Diamond and Mrs. M. G. Hancock.

This display was a real credit to the teachers and students, and included 37 sweaters for girls of various ages with matching plaid and checked skirts. These were displayed on very realistic heads, painted by the art students. Matching socks and mitts were included with these outfits. All knitted articles were supervised by Miss Hagerman and al skirts and sewing by Miss Hammond.

Five complete layettes and extra artices were displayed in pink, blue and white on life size baby dolls. This department of the display had been made under the supervision of Miss K. Staples and Miss E. Foy. For a background this display had five crib quilts in pastel shade which had been donated by a group of St. John's church ladies who are known as the Merry Workers and who Mrs. Ryan had supervised.

A display for the Free French, including ten pair of socks and one scarf, donated by the French Club and decorated by the Free French flag attracted much attention.

A miscellaneous display of various donations was very interesting, included in this was a deerskin seaman's vest, children's sleepers, and three afghans.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Wotherspoon, Mrs. G. L. Brackenbury and Mrs. Foote from a table centred with summer flowers. Large baskets of delphinium, peonies and roses decorated the gymnasium. The girls of the High School, who had done the sewing and knitting and made this display possible, served the guests at small tables centred with rose buds.

Almost $30.00 was realized at this display and tea, the proceeds of which will be entirely turned over to the Red Cross for war work.

500 Technicians Claimed Idle

LONDON, June 27—(CP). — The Daily Herald said today that 500 American technicians, members of Britain's Civilian Technical Sorps, are idle in a coast town because little or no work has been provided for them.

Most of the Americans are radio and television experts. A thousand such techniciasn came here originally, the Daily Herold said, adding that half of them already have returned home either because they lacked work or because they were dissatisfied with their jobs.

The men were enrolled under an Air Ministry scheme. They wear R.A.F. uniforms and draw $25 a week and get food and lodgings.

The first shot from the merchantman was a near miss. The second, fired at about 200 feet, pointblank range, struck the submarine at the water lines, just forward of the conning tower, as the craft seemed to be crash-diving.

At this shot "there was a muffled explosion, and the submarine turned over sideways as it went down," Hansen said.

The gun crew got in a third shot before the undersea craft disappeared, and this was seen to ricochet, one seaman observed.

HEALTH CHATS

By D. B. AVISON, M.D., D.P.H., Medical Officer of Health

Mumps

Our mumps epidemic is over! It has been one of the largest on record with about 1,168 cases reported which means that about one in ever 23 of our population had this disease in this epidemic. There are certain lessons which it has to teach us, some of which I feel worthwhile discussing.

No Age Immunity

Most of us are inclined to think of mumps as a disease of school children and while the present epidemic bears this out with 81% of the cases being in the school age group, it shows that 6% were in pre-school children and 8% were in adults over 20 years of age. The youngest was four months old and oldest was 60. Apparently you can't be either too young or too old.

Cost

There are two ways of computing cost; one being in terms of money, and one being in time lost. Taking the second first and discounting pre-school children, we find that this epidemic cost in time lost from school or work, at 16 days each, 18,688 days or the equivalent of one person being away from work for over 51 years! We can't accurately know the cost in money, but if we will roughly estimate the value of time for adults and school children to be worth $2 per day, then we could say that the minimal cash cost was $37,376! And this does not include any hospital or doctors' fees. From these two angles, therefore, Mumps is a very serious and expensive disease.

What Value Isolation

When a disease costs a city so much in time lost from work we naturally ask ourselves, "why doesn't the Health Department do something about it?" or "of what value is what the Health Department does?"

The answer to the first question is that the Health Department isolates every known case for 16 days. The second question is a poser that many of us including the Health Department is asking, for despite the 16 days isolation, we had nearly 1,200 cases which means that about everyone who was susceptible succumbed. It is obvious that isolation did not in any way limit the spread of Mumps in this epidemic and I doubt if it has in any city epidemic. There is a third question that might be asked, "would control be not more effective if all susceptible contacts were quarantined?" A few days ago this was practised and found to be valueless once an epidemic had got started.

Of course there is another reason for isolation of a patient other than control of the spread of Mumps, and that is to protect the patient from developing complications that are not only very painful but that may result in sterility. These complications are almost entirely limited to those over 15 years of age, and we might easly ask ourselves if this is the concern of the Health Department? Perhaps the responsibility for this should be left to the patient and the attending physician.

The above discussion will naturally leave my readers with the impression that your M.O.H. himself doubts the value of isolation in Mumps and I am frank to confess that I have my doubts, doubts shared by many public health doctors. It is our desire to do nothing that is not only of no value but which uselessly causes economic hardship. If these doubts come to be shared by a majority of public health officers and a majority of the public then we will see changes made in our regulations. In the meantime we must obey the laws that have been enacted with the intention to provide protection.

One comfort we have: Peterborough should now be relatively free of Mumps for some years.

Obituary

BERNICE MADDEN.

One of the saddest funerals that has been held in the city of Peterborough for a long time was that of Miss Bernice Madden, which took place from te J. J. Duffus Funeral Parlors to the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 9.00 o'clock yesterday morning. Here High Mass of Requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by Reverend Charles Begley, who also preached the sermon and expressed in feeling terms, his sympathy to her bereaved mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Madden, and her brother, John.

Just seven months ago, her sister, Margeurite passed away, and only a few years ago her father, Alphonse Madden and her older sister, Marie

The sympathy of the community was expressed by the large number of people from all over this district who assisted at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

Friends from out of town who were present were Messrs. Edward and William Flynn of Marmora and Messrs. Edward and Reuben Warren, also of Marmora.

Casket bearers were Edward and Reuben Warren, Vincent Flynn, John Conway, Gerald Garvey and Fred Johnston.

Burial services at St. Peter's cemetery were conducted by Right Reverend Monsignor O'Sullivan.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 27. — Campbellford's Army Week celebration began to take shape when at a special meeting of the general committee the chairman, Mayor F. F. Long outlined details of the program For July 1 which will feature the week's events. He told the committee that he had been advised from Kingston that approximately 40 troops would be sent here to take part in the parade and in addition to this a concert troop of 15 would assist with the program scheduled to be staged in front of the grand stand at the agricultural grounds Only change in the program as originally scheduled was caused by the announcement that the Midland Regiment Band is scheduled to appear in Lindsay on July 5th This caused the committee to shift the date for its drum head service. which is being arranged by the local Ministerial Association, from July 5th to June 28th. Also assured by the military authorities is a supply of window display material and a number of thunder flashes and flame flashes to be used in connection with the parade. These, according to the Mayor, will be turned over to the committee by Lieut.-Co. A. H. Bounsall.

Cyclists Are Using C.P.R. Footbridge

Complaints have been received at the city hall and by the police department of cyclists riding their bicycles over the C.P.R. footbridge. Several citizens claimed that they have had narrow escape from being knocked down by bicycles. Riding on the footbridge is the same offence as riding on any other sidewalk and cyclists who persist in this habit will find themselves lined up in front of the magistrate, the police warn. A police checkup is being made of the situation and all offenders will be prosecuted.

Cobourg Club Reviews Service Work

COBOURG, June 27.—(ENS). — Considerable reduction in the expenses of the crippled children's committee of Cobourg Rotary Club was affected during the 1941-42 term just completed, stated the annual report of Dr W. Wade, chairman of the crippled children's committee of the club, presented at the luncheon meeting yesterday. The reduction was due mainly to the complete absence of renewed infantile paralysis cases which meant that expensive leg irons did not have to be purchased.

Costs Reduced.

"There were, for the first time no renewals of the expensive leg irons in poliomyelitis cases, and no extensive surgical work on infantile paralysis cases requiring heavy hospital expenses," reported Dr Wade. He stated that the decrease in expenditures is gratifying in view of the fact that heavy demands are being made by wartime organizations.

"It is the policy of this committee during time of war to investigate each case in detail and where it is necessary, we will not fail to assist in every possible way to bring health and happiness to crippled and underprivileged children," stated the convener.

During 1941-42, one case of eye trouble resulted in 22 days of hospitalization at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, Dr. Wade stated Two cases of blood diseases were also admitted to the same hospital. One returned home cured and the other died in hospital.

One case of foot trouble received eight days of treatment in Hospital for Sick Children, and two operations for removal of tonsils and adenoids were completed at Cobourg General Hospital, under the auspices of the Rotary committee

A case of hernia resulted in hospitalization in Toronto for 27 days following an operation there. Two poliomyelitis victims were supplied with boots, metatarsal pads, lifts and flanges, and eight pairs of special boots and shoes with lifts and wedges were supplied to various children. Sixteen cases were taken to the surgical or orthopedic outdoor clinics of the Hospital for Sick Children for follow-up treatment and observation for various lower limb deformities.

Expect New Cases.

"There are no cases under treatment at the present time," said Dr. Wade "Many cases will present themselves for renewals of various types of appliances and shoes from time to time. Many new cases will be brought to the attention of the committee as they are discovered and reported by doctors, church organizations, teachers and inspectors of schools and welfare workers."

Renewing briefly the history of the committee of which he is convener, Dr. Wade recalled that it is now four and a half years since the last clinic was held, in the fall of 1937, after the polimyelitic epidemic, when in the neighborhood of 125 children were examined, and have since that time been cared for by the club.

"It is felt that there will be need for a clinic to be held this year, as we have a good group of workers investigating for us, during the war years, and as soon as any case is brought to our attention, we lost no time in taking charge," said Dr. Wade.

Other Reports.

Secretary Frank Blackwell gave a report on the club's general activities during the past year. He said that two new members had been secured, Frank Lapp and Ken. Pritchard, and noted the removal to Oshawa of Ford Lindsay, a valued member, who was secretary at the time of his departure.

Treasurer W. J. Maize gave a report of the financial side of the club's activities.

Reuben Freeman, carnival committee convener, stated that last year the club took in $690.38, and had a balance of $571.71 after paying off the auxiliary charitable organizations which had participated. He noted that the proceeds of the carnival this summer will be for war work exclusively, with the Air Cadet movement to receive special attention.

John Ewart was thanked by President Patterson for his efforts during the year in arranging programs

Flying Across Churchill Back On Job

Returns to Storm Press Demanding Action, Fresh Ideas

LONDON, June 27.—(CP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill came back to England today from his historic conferences with President Roosevelt and stepped from a trans-Atlantic plane into the most serious political crisis of his career.

He returned to a country troubled by the setback in North Africa and the imminent Axis smash at Egypt. The long-held British stronghold at Tobruk fell while the Prime Minister was discussing war strategy with President Roosevelt and the capture of some 25,000 British troops there brought strong criticism of his conduct of the war.

Facing him in the House of Commons is an insurgent motion for a vote of "no confidence" in his direction of the war.

Political observers believe the Prime Minister will win a vote of confidence—as he has before—with some 20 votes cast against him and a number abstaining from the vote.

Observers agreed that Mr. Churchill, with the strategy mapped in Washington fresh in his mind, would respond to his critics in a fighting mood, but they also agreed his opposition has never been more outspoken.

The London Times attacked Britain's war direction today and called for a combined general staff in an editorial declaring there had been "too many symptoms . . . of reluctance to subordinate personal predilections or established interests to the urgent need of bringing fresh blood and fresh ideas into the conduct of the war."

Want Radical Changes

"Things are seriously wrong," the Times said, "The House of Commons accurately reflects public opinion both in demanding radical changes and in placing on the shoulders of the government . . . the responsibility of deciding what those changes should be."

Although the Prime Minister's early return has been expected, his reappearance so soon after the an-

Race Tightens In P.H. League

PORT HOPE, June 27—(ENS).—The twice-postponed ball game of the Rascals and Beavers took place on Friday night and was one of the snappiest games of the season. The Rascals closed the gap between first and second place by defeating the Beavers 5 to 3.

Keeler's single in the first inning scored the Rascals' first two runs and it took them until the sixth to score the other three. Errors by Kelly and hits by Bailey and Bongard sewed up the game.

The Beavers tallied twice in the third inning on hits by Davidson and Edwardson (which was a triple) and a walk to Woods. The other lone tally was scored in the seventh. Hoy, batting for Kelly, reached first on Keelers' error, and scored on Woods' double to right field.

The summary is as follows:

Line-up:

Rascals.—Ashby ss, Huffman c, Bennett cf, Dawley p, Wagar rf, Bailey lf, Bongard 1b, Elliott 2b.

Beavers—Rowden cf, Davidson c and rf, Mann rf and c, Edwardson 1b, Hewson lf, Kelly ss, Williams 3b, Woods p. Hoy batted for Kelly in the 7th.

ATTEND THE SERVICES IN YOUR CHURCH TO-MORROW

Christ Appeared to Disciples On Evening of Ressurrection

By REV. E. R. JAMES.

Jesus showed unto them His hands and His side.—St. John 20, 20.

It is the Lord's first appearance on the evening of His resurrection to the Apostles in that Upper Room. Why did He show unto them His hands and His side? The pierced hands and side told them that "He was the same Jesus" they had known in the flesh. But a deeper meaning lay behind it. After the descent of the Holy Ghost their mental eyes were opened to the wonderful truth that God Himself had died on the Cross.

As devoutly trained Jews they had a mental image of Jehovah as being far above everything—so far away that He could not be touched with the feelings of our infirmities. It was impossible for Him to understand nature and feelings of man. It was a new revelation to God that He could and would touch human nature.

It is an uplifting thought how slowly, gradually, patiently God revealed Himself to man according as he was able to bear it. Let us glance at some of the steps in that revelation.

More than four thousand years ago Moses cried, "Lord, I beseech Thee, shew me Thy glory." That highly educated man, trained in an unmerciful age, receives the startling revelation, "I will make all My goodness to pass before thee." The outstanding characteristic of that goodness is God's mercy. A completely new ideal for a people whose heart was seared in the furnace of bitter bondage. It was enough for them and their children during the centuries of their national childhood. They were not able to bear more.

Centuries pass. A young man of good family, highly educated and a statesman, is sitting in the Temple praying and meditating. With his fine intellect he sees that the political future is very dark. Then comes a new revelation of God's character. "In the year that King Uzziah died I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne high and lifted up." The seraph hymn is startling in its revelation. "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lord of Hosts." The prophet's eyes are opened to see the contrast between himself and his God. 'Woe is me, for I am a man of unclean lips, for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of Hosts." He sees the need of inward cleaning. His soul is flooded with the new thought that holiness means not only separation but moral purity. It is a new, and ever new ideal till He, Who is greater than the Prophet Isaiah, cries: "The pure in heart shall see God."

Much time passes and the scene is laid in the land of Babylon the land of exile. A new revelation comes to a young man, a Priest of the Jewish Church. Ezekiel is bearing upon his soul the burden of exile and separation from the land of his fathers. Is there any hope for revival for his people in that far off land? He has a vision of a battlefield of dry bones, very dry. "Can these bones live?" is the Divine question. "Lord, Thou knowest," is the humble reply. God breathed upon them and they stood upon their feet, an exceeding great army. It is a heartening and uplifting revelation that God can give life to the spiritually dead. Centuries later One stands in the Holy Land and criets: "I am the Lie."

In the fulness of time God once more reveals Himself. God is born of the Virgin Mary by the operation of the Holy Ghost. He is a real human Babe, Boy and Man. His Body and Brain were those of a common man; His Personality is the Personality of God. "He was born in poverty and died in disgrace and thought it worth while," as Miss Dorothy Sayers reminds us. Jesus Christ lived by faith. He put His entire trust in God. He chose the highest way of life, perfect obedience to the Father's will. It meant the pain and agony of the Cross. He died because He trusted in God and God raised Him from the dead and He ever liveth.

He appears in that Upper Room and shows His Apostles the signs of His suffering. You could never imagine God to be like that but He is—a suffering Mod-Man. It is the fulfillment of that ancient Scripture: "God made man in His own image."

"But to our wounds only God's wounds can speak,
And not a god has wounds, but Thou alone."

Alcohol Facts Are Studied By Sunday Schools of Land

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 28 is Proverbs 21:17; 23:32; Isaiah 5: 20-23; Hosea 4:11; Joel 3:2, 3; Ephesians 5:18, the Golden Text being Proverbs 1:10, "If sinners entice thee, Consent thee not.")

"HE THAT loveth pleasure shall be a poor man: he that loveth wine and oil shall not be rich." So said the Jewish Proverb, written about 1,000 B.C., nearly 3,000 years ago. It is just as true today as it was then in what we call ancient times. Wine and oil, used at rich men's banquets, were expensive then, and they are not cheap today. If men and women spend much money on them they will not have enough for the necessary things of life—homes, food and clothes. And if alcholic liquors are drunk to excess, not only are the drinkers poorer in pocket, but they are poorer in body and spirit. Excessive drinking of such things never made a man better, either in body or soul. It will make his body deteriorate, and if indulged in for any great length of time, it may cause his death. And his spirit will suffer. During indulgence he may do all sorts of things he would not dream of doing while sober. And after it he will be anything but happy. He will feel guilty, depressed — mentally and physically unfit.

"At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder," we read. The danger of a snake or serpent is in the poison it injects into a human body. That is just what alcohol does. It poisons the body. When a man goes to a hospital facing an operation he is asked if he is a drinking man. If he says he is his chances of getting better are much less than those of the man who is not a drinker. Hard drinking may bring on a form of insanity called "delirium tremens," when the sufferer's hands and tongue shake, and he will have fearful hallucinations.

Woe to the Conceited

"Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight!

"Woe unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and men of strength to mingle strong drink:

"Which justify the wicked for reward, and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him!"

Self conceit was characteristic of many people in Isaiah's time, and it was also true of the priests, Pharisees and scribes in Jesus' time. He rebuked them many times for their cocksuredness and hypocrisy. They were so sure that they "knew it all," as we say today, that they would not listen to His voice when He tried to lead them in the right path, but opposed Him in every way, and at last caused His death.

We all know someone who is conceited, aways bragging about how good he is. Such people seldom have any foundation for the self-confidence, and seldom make good in life.

Men may be strong in body and character—"men of strength"—but if they "mingle strong drinks," as Isaiah says, they grow weak, not only in body, but in morality. They may grow so "poor in spirit" that they may fall so low as to steal from their employers or take bribes, trying to make good the money they have spent for liquor and other excesses, and land in prison, disgracing themselves and their families—for the innocent always suffer with the guilty.

Finally, in writing to the Ephesians, St. Paul asked them to "be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit." No person who is an habitual drunkard can truly be a Christian. He may be the finest of men when he is sober. But when he is under the infuence of liquor he will not know what he is doing. His baser feelings will be uppermost, and how can he be Christlike—a follower of the Master?

Those who try to live like Christ, earnestly day by day, being kind, gentle to all about them, loving, generous honest, need have no regrets and no fears for their future. Whatever comes to them they take—rejoicing in the good, bearing courageously the ill. They are the type of people who make good friends and neighbors, desirable citizens of any community; examples for the young. In them the Spirit of God reigns. Their lives grow ever more abundantly satisfying. They are the truly happy.

Picnic Held At Gilmour

GILMOUR, June 27 (ENS).—The school children of S.S. No. 2, their teacher, Miss M. Harding, parents and friends gathered on Mr. George Tindle's shore for their annual school picnic. All the children enjoyed a swim, and then rain started and they went back to the school where games were conducted by Miss Harding.

While the ladies were preparing the lunch the school was called to order and Isobel Moncrief read an address to Miss Harding and Emiline Kerr presented her with a beautiful individual silver pickle dish and candle holders to match. Miss Harding although taken completely by surprise thanked the pupils very much.

Salute to Russia

The Salute to Russia that has been given in massed meetings in Toronto and other Canadian cities recently is one of the most significant features of this war period. Toronto has the name of being a conservative city, and yet Dorothy Thompson's eloquent speech, and that of Mr. Brockington's were applauded to the echo. We question if even a tribute to the United States would have received greater support.

We all appreciate the valiant fight which the Russian people have made against the cruel invader. There are deeper reasons, however, for this enthusiasm for Russia. She is a land of mystery, and to some extent of gloom. Her great novelists have shown us in their writings somewhat of the agony of the Russian soul. Russian music is mainly sorrowful. She is somewhat akin in this to the Celtic nations, but whilst they have their joyous moods in poetry and song Russia seems to be bereft of this element.

There are great questions that arise about Russia of which the following are a few:

What led up to the Russian revolution?

Has Russia definitely rejected the Christian religion?

What is the explanation of the unexampled Russian unity of today?

Have Christian people in Canada any duty to Russia save as faithful allies?

A Salute to Russia will be the theme on Sunday night in St. Andrew's Church. The Russian National Anthem will be sung.

Rev. W. O. Nugent Is Named Moderator of Presbytery

The June meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, was held this week in St. Andrew's Church, Colborne, with the moderator, Rev. D. K. Perrie of Hastings, presiding. Others present included Rev. George Rowland, clerk of the Presbytery, and James Thompson of Port Hope; Rev. W. O. Nugent and Rev. D. A. McKenzie of Cobourg; Rev. Horace Kaye and W. W. Rose of Colborne; Rev. Ernest W. Smyth and Henry Carlaw of Warkworth; Rev. W. G. Blake and Mr. Joseph Sexsmith of Bowmanville; Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart and James Dutton of Peterborough; Rev. J. O. Ralston and Mr. John McGregor of Campbellville; Rev. L. M. Sharpe and Mr. J. M. Simpson of Lakefield; and Mr. Ernest Armstrong of Fraserville.

Commencing at 10 a.m., a long docket of business cocupied the court until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, with and hour and a half off for lunch, which was provided by the ladies of the Colborne congregation, and daintily served in the hall of the church.

A few of the principle items of business included the election of a new moderator, which resulted in the appointment of Rev. W. O. Nugent; a call from the congregations of Millbrook and Centreville in favor of Rev. Walter Paisley; reports from the commissioners who attended the recent Assembly in Montreal; the appointment of a Commission to deal with a matter affecting the Colborne, Brighton and Lakeport charge; the discussion of an arrangements for the adjustments of boundaries between the Lindsay and Peterborough Presbyteries; report by Mr. Nugent on S. School and Y.P. work in the Presbytery; appointment of Rev. W. E. Campbell as stated supply for a year at Keene, Westwood and Warsaw; report by Mr. Kaye for the committee on church life and work; and report of the budget committee by Mr Smyth.

It was decided to hold the next stated meeting of the Presbytery in St. Andrew's Church, Cobourg, on the second Tuesday in September.

Bible Teaching in School

Public School teachers as well as ministers will be interested in knowing that this year under the auspices of the Ontario Religious Education Council, there is to be a course given on "Bible Teaching in the Public Schools."

This is only one of several courses being offered at the Leadership Camp at Glen Mohr near Beaverton, on August 8 to 17.

The course is going to be undetr the direction of a minister and an experienced Public School teacher—Rev. Stanley L. Osborne, who has had experience in teaching the Bible in both graded and ungraded schools, and H. Griffin, superintendent of Public Schools in the Township of York.

Rev. E. R. McLean, 299 Queen Street West, Toronto, will be Dean of the school, and Rev. E. A. Thomson general secretary of the Board of Sabbath Schools of the Presbyterian Church, will be the director.

Alcohol Facts Versus Drinking Propaganda ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Proverbs 21:17; 23:32; Isaiah 5:20-23; Hosea 4:11; Joel 3:2, 3; Ephesians 5:18.

"He that loveth pleasure shall be a poor man; he that loveth wine and oil shall not be rich," says Proverbs 21:17.

"At the last it (strong drink) biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder," says Proverbs 23:32.

"Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning, that they may follow strong drink . . . till wine inflame them."

Joel complains, "They have cast lots for my people, and have sold a girl for wine." (GOLDEN TEXT—Prov. 1:10)

Germany's Home Front

Wishful thinking about Germany's internal affairs is not in order at present; having suffered severe reverses in Libya we must not lay the flattering unction to our souls that Germany is nearing a breakup on her home front. Nevertheless, an examination of such information as we have about Germany's internal affairs during the last six months is decidedly interesting. Germany fears nothing more than another 1918, and the increased hold of the Nazi party upon all German affairs is apparently designed to prevent such a debacle. Whether or not it will be successful only time can tell.

We have been deeply shocked by German butchery in Lidice and all of Czechoslovakia, by the slaughter of Jews at Vilna, and by the killing of scores of hostages throughout Europe. But butchery within Germany has also been proceeding on a grand scale. It was on December 11 last that Hitler, speaking in the Reichstag, threatened death for anyone who did harm to the home front, and since that time repressive measures have been increased. From that time forward death was the penalty for blackout crimes and any acts of violence, and for spreading news gleaned from foreign broadcasts. On March 27 the death penalty was invoked against black-market operators and industrialists who made false returns about their plant requirements. At this time also, the lapse of time between the passing of sentence and the fall of the axe became a matter of a few days. Judges also were empowered to disregard ordinary processes of law and ordinary penalties when dealing with offenders against the state. But in his speech of April 26 Hitler complained that death sentences were too few, and took upon himself a tyrant's power to dismiss judges, civil servants, and army officials without enquiry, and to pass sentence of death upon any citizen without trial. This severity certainly looks as though the Nazis were afraid of a break in national morale, and are seeking to bolster that morale by instituting a reign of terror. History contains no record of a reign of terror raising the morale of a country, but the Nazis are a law unto themselves.

In spite of these severe acts of repression there are signs that the Nazis doubt their own power to hold the nation together. Goebbels has warned the people not to worry soldiers at the front with letters telling of hardships at home, and on the air and in the press his men provide counter-arguments to the broadcasts of the BBC, thereby proving that these are still widely heard in Germany. On April 30 the Gestapo official paper Schuarzes Korps gave its whole front page to a diatribe against the class-feeling of 'small people' (meaning shopkeepers and artisans) who circulated stories designed to ridicule or discredit the Nazis, and clung to the ideals which they had acquired during the last century. These people have also been accused of kindness to prisoners of war and to Jews, and kindness is a dangerous quality in Germany.

There have been frank admissions in German papers that the labor situation is unpleasing to the Party, not only because there is a shortage of skilled labor but because slow-down tactics, malingering and even sabotage are frequent. These troubles have driven the Party to admission that communist elements are still operating within the Reich. On April 18 the Berlin Angriff made it known that the Labor Ministry had given elementary medical training to 3,000 workers, in order that they might be able to tell when their comrades were really ill and when they were shamming.

But the greatest horror or defeat in 1918 was inflation, and there is nothing which the German people dread more than a repetition of that period of privation, made farcical by the basketfuls of currency which had to be exchanged for the most trifling objects. Hitler has promised Germany that it shall never know inflation under him, but already he has broken his promise. The fantastic cost of the war cannot be met by the devices of taxation, fixed wages and borrowing, and Hitler has been driven to create money out of nothing. According to Jacov Segal, a Russian economist, there are now 24 billion marks circulating in Germany which are worth no more than their price as waste paper; this is roughly the amount of useless money which was in circulation in 1918. The black market flourishes and Germans have adopted a system of barter, swapping one rare commodity for another.

We need not expect Germany to collapse because of these things. Only the unmistakeable evidence of defeat will break her. But perhaps, with her home front in such straits, a run of luck for the United Nations might do the trick. Luck, as everyone knows, is notoriously something which men, and nations, make for themselves.

Playing Holidays

Yesterday saw the deliverance of the children from the burdens and weariness of school for the summer holidays. How long and how eagerly they waited for that Friday! It was fitting that they should be given their freedom on a Friday; it seems, somehow, to round out the school year in an especially satisfactory and seemly manner. Do you not remember how, when you were in school, the days moved by in a stately procession, each with its own character and place in your esteem? Monday, of course, was a vile and miserable day, when the week stretched out in endless prospect of arithmetic and grammar. Tuesday was little better, but by Wednesday you were reconciled to school. Thursday was a good day; Thursday meant that the week was over the hump and in most classes there was mild excitement and a tendency to throw spitballs. But Friday—ah, Friday was a king of days when even the teacher was in a melting mood and might be diverted from the lesson to interesting reminiscence. And yesterday was certainly the greatest Friday of the year.

To a child the two months of the summer holidays appear to stretch to infinity. September and return to school does not even exist as a bad dream. What adult can ever recapture that feeling that a boundless Elysium extends before him?

Of course, September will come, and the schools will yawn again. It is right that this should be so. As Shakespeare wisely says:

If all the year were playing holidays,
To sport would be as tedious as to work.

We know this, but the children do not know it. Let us not spoil their enjoymen, therefore, with reminders of the wrath to come. Let us not grumble at them that they are lucky to be young and without responsibility; of course, they are, and we should allow them to make the most of their luck. Their wars and taxes and budgets will come soon enough. Let us not darken their days with reminders of the wretched plight of the children of Europe. Let us, in fact, do nothing to spoil their fun merely because we envy them.

There are few days of life which are free of care. These are worrying days, and stern moralists will insist that children should bear their share of the burden. We cannot agree. If the children can do nothing to help with the war (and as yet no one has put forward any scheme by which they may do so), let them enjoy their playing holidays while they may, and let us be glad that they are still able to do so.

Have You Ever Visited Islandia ?

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

A BOOK reviewer is usually able to tell whether a book has merit by the time he has finished the first chapter. A man who has real ability as a writer, shows that ability in everything he writes, and the mark is unmistakeable. That is why I have been impatient of several of the books reviewed recently in this column; they have been the work of mediocre minds which would have been better employed doing some work more suited to their limited abilities. And that is why I am going to recommend today's book to you without reservation. It is the work of a writer of unusual ability and it is certainly one of the most original and entertaining books to appear in the past three years. It is called "Islandia" and it is the work of Austin Tappan Wright.

Unless the law is your profession it is unlikely that you have ever heard of Austin Tappan Wright. He died in 1931, and before that time he was Professor of Corporation Law at the University of California. During his lifetime no one knew that he was a writer, but after his death his wife discovered among his possessions a manuscript running to several thousand pages. She laboriously typed it out and then asked Leonard Bacon, the American critic and poet, to give his opinion of it. Bacon had at one time been a colleague of her husband's on the faculty of the University. He was enthusiastic about the book, and cut and arranged it for the press. The result is "Islandia."

WHAT is "Islandia"? It is a country of Wright's imagination, situated on the southern tip of the Karain Continent and facing toward Antarctica. Do not be alarmed. Islandia is no tiresome Graustark, no mythical kingdom full of distressed princesses and distressing heroes. By the time you have read the book Islandia will be more real to you than Canada. For Canada you know through a limited personal experience, but Islandia you will know completely.

Many writers have dealt with imaginary countries. Plato chose one as the situation for his Perfect State; Sir Thomas More invented one for his Utopia; Swift invented several in order that they might be visited by Lemuel Gulliver, that greatest of explorers; Samuel Butler invented Erewhon as a land in which all that was wrong in England was set right; Cabell invented Poictesme as a scene for his strange and satiric stories. But in some respects Wright has gone farther than any of these. He has no political axe to grind, like Plato, More and Butler, and he has no satire weighing on his breast like Swift and Cabell. In his childhood he invented Islandia, as so many children invent imaginary lands, but he never allowed it to escape him. Instead he developed Islandia until it was more real to him than his own United States, and when he died he left not only the manuscript from which this book has been made, but also a 400-page volume of the history, geography, wars, politics and culture of his imagined country, with a bibliography of imaginary books on these subjects appended to it.

WRIGHT appears to have been a man of letters of remarkable abilities who, for some unknown reason, chose to become a lawyer. In this astonishing book the lawyer's cold and analytical apparatus of thought, and the lawyer's professional caution, are all used to impose form and order upon the products of a brilliant and flashing imagination. Wright chose to put his genius in a legal straight-jacket, and the result is that his fancies have an air of veracity about them scarcely equalled by that prince of liars, Defoe, in his "Journal of the Plague Year." "Islandia" is an insidious book; it is not a book which may be read quickly, and as you peruse its pages it will lull you into a sense of false security which may, in the end, convince you that what you are reading is a record of fact.

The hero of "Islandia" is John Lang, a young American who meets an Islandian named Dorn at Harvard. They become friends and Lang learns a little of the Islandian language and acquaints himself with the literature of that country. Later, when he finds that the U.S. means to send a consul to Islandia he applies for the post and gets it. His adventures in Islandia are varied and fascinating. It is a pastoral country, hitherto closed to trade with the outer world, but France, Britain, the U.S. and Germany are all anxious to "develop" it and "open it up," for their own advantage. In Islandia there are two factions; one of these is in favor of expansion and foreign trade and the other, or conservative party, feels that this can only bring unhappiness and destruction to the country. In spite of his official position Lang finds himself siding with the conservatives. He learns to admire the Islandians, and their system of limited aristocracy, their code of courtesy, and their devotion to the soil. The stiff young American even learns to love like them, and enjoys three affairs before he marries his dull American fiancee.

THIS is a book which will live, although it will probably appeal to a small public. Its criticism of twentieth century progress is too acute and too true to permit the book to perish. And Islandia is too great a creation to be forgotten by anyone who has once explored it. If you have time for only one book at present, make it "Islandia." You cannot be disappointed in it.

A man was known for his inability to think of anything to say to women. His friends were amazed when, the morning after meeting a strange girl at a dance, it was announced that he had become engaged. One inquired how it had happened.

"Well," said the tongue-tied one. "I danced with her three times and couldn't think of anything else to say.

CRIMEA DOESN'T SEEM TO PAY, EITHER!

Rail Key Hard Loss To Reds

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

WHILE Britain's badly mauled 8th Army and its reinforcements rally in Egypt for a "last-ditch" defense of Alexandria, as London puts it, Nazi legions in the Ukraine have bored an ominous hole in Russian communication system east-southeast of Kharkov.

Nazi capture of Kupyansk, important rail junction sixty miles east and a little south of Kharkov, is admitted by the Soviet High Command.

The thrust gives a clue to the strategy of the German attack, even though it may be only a preliminary operation rather than the beginning of an all-out offensive in Russia.

RAIL LINK GONE

Kupyansk junction was a connecting rail link of Marshal Timoshenko's north-south communications. Triple rail systems coming down from the north merge into a single line at that point to link up with the lower Donets basin rail network. The line by-passes on the west a huge sweep of virtual badlands in which no railroad of consequence or major highway is shown on recent Russian maps.

The next north-south railroad lies east of that wide stretch of rough country which is nearly 200 miles long and averages perhaps seventy-five miles wide. Loss of Kupyansk has cut the western route, forcing the Russian general to depend on the railroad east of the rough country for effective communications contact between the northern wing of his armies about Kharkov and the southern elements reaching to the Sea of Azov.

NO BREAK-THROUGH

Just how wide a wedge the Nazis have driven in the Kupyansk area is not indicated. Moscow insists there has been no break-through, that the Russian front is still secure. It seems obvious, however, that the German drive at Kupyansk was aimed at cutting Russian forces apart southeast of Kharkov in preparation for a rolling-up operation southward aimed ultimately at rounding the Rostov corner into the Caucasus.

Even in dry weather, which likely prevails at present in the Southern Ukraine, German mechanized thrusts have almost always been along railroad and road systems. The wide stretch of all but roadless rough country east of Kupyansk does not lend itself to that type of warfare. Kupyansk does not offer the Nazis a jump-off either northwestward behind the Russian front investing Kharkov, or southeastward. However, it seems indicated that the greatest Nazi change to exploit capture of Kupyansk would be southward in a swift encirclement sweep.

The Berlin radio's assertion that the Nazis have captured Izyum, forty miles southwest of Kupyansk, is an indication that such a movement already is developing.

Loss of that rail route west of the badlands stretch must increase Russian difficulties in shifting reserves from the north to meet such a German operation. If that is the Nazi intention it almost certainly will be coupled also with eastward German thrusts perhaps all along the line to signal that Hitler's promised great offensive is at last in full swing.

Capital Closeups

By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, June 27 (CP)—Odds and ends from Parliament Hill:—

Speaker Glen is usually pretty collected when he's in the chair but he colored nicely the other night....He complanied about Dr. J. P. Howden (Lib. St. Boniface) reading his speech and the doctor came right back at him...."I would remind your honor," he said, "that I have spent many years in this House with yourself and there were occasions when it was desirable apparently for your honor also to use a written text."....Mr. Speaker acknowledged the accuracy of the retort but said he intended to enforce the rule of the House.

Postmaster General Mulock was talking about what would happen if Germany won the war and moved into Canada...."She would send those of our people whom she did not want up to the north country or to some other part of the world," he said, and Pensions Minister Mackenzie, a good British Columbian, interjected: "New Brunswick"....It was a little dig at Conservative House Leader Hanson, member for Fredericton, who had suggested jocularly the Nazis might "purge" Col. Mulock.

THE tax experts in the finance department have a top-notch batting average....Finance Minister Ilsley's financial white paper noted that in April, 1941, his officials estimated total 1941-42 revenues would be $1,437,150,000 and they actually were $1,481,285,000....The error — just three per cent despite the uncertainty of war conditions.

State Secretary McLarty was congratulating Finance Minister Ilsley on his budget speech and commented it was sometimes contended there isn't nowadays the same magnificent eloquence heard in speeches of many years ago...."That reminds me," he said, "of the apropos remark Punch made about the (London) Times. When someone wrote and said the Times was not as it used to be, Punch replied: 'Yes, but it never was.'"

You can bet your bottom dollar there won't be luxuries in the Ilsley household....The Finance Minister strictly practices what he preaches....When he advises the average Canadian against wasting money he backs it up by taking his own advice at home.

One of the men on the Senate door figured he'd got the ideal solution for his budget worries...."I'll just tell 'em to keep my cheque," he says...."Let them worry about my money."

J. ALPHEE POIRIER (Lib. Bonaventure) is a descendant of Canada's early, early settlers. ....In 1635 his material ancestor, Alexandre Bourque, came to Port Royal in Acadia from France....His paternal ancestor arrived in Prince Edward Island just a few years later.

Ernest Bertrand (Lib. Montreal-Laurier) described Toronto as the musical centre of Canada—"the place where good music is very well received whether written by a German, Italian, Englishman, Frenchman or any other good composer, including Russian composers who are very much in demand these days"...."What about the honorable member for New Westminister?" asked Gordon Graydon (Con. Peel), thinking of Tom Reid's bagpipes...."Well," said Mr. Bertrand, "I suppose they would be very popular in Toronto. They are even popular in Montreal."

Style note: By reducing the number of buttons on men's suits the Wartime Prices and Trade Board provides 25,000 pounds more cheese for Britain....Lots of buttons are made of casein, a milk product....And the saving on thread which used to be used to sew buttons on sleeves alone is estimated at 7,000,000 yards.

Miscellaneous intelligence: The leader of the opposition holds a statutory post just like a cabinet minister, gets the same salary and automobile allowance and has a staff paid by the Crown.

Decorations For Canadians

Under Secretary of State McLarty a committee is to work out some plan or system of decorations for Canadians in the armed services.

If the Government of Canada didn't have a false idea of democracy, plus perhaps an inverted class consciousness, this country would revert to its old system of titles; not hereditary titles, but honors and distinctions for Canadians who, either in war or peace, performed signal service for their fellow-men and humanity.

As it is, any system that will provide decoratinos or medals for military service and leave civilian service unrecognized is bound to have its drawbacks; runs the risk of setting up or emphasizing a separate group or class. All the good or worth-while service in this war is not being performed, and will not be performed, by soldiers, sailors and airmen; some of the greatest of it is and will be provided by civilians.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that the scope and powers of the McLarty committee will be broadened to include recommendations of recognition for high service by civilians. In England they have a decoration—it carries no title—known as the Order of Merit, which is given only rarely and for the most distinguished service. Why cannot we have some sort of similar order in Canada?—Ottawa Journal.

A Bible Message For Today

And the people spake against God, and against Moses, Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? for there is no bread, neither is there any water; and our soul loatheth this light bread. And the Lord sent fiery serpents among the people, and they bit the people; and much people of Israel died.

Therefore the people came to Moses, and said, We have sinned, for we have spoken against the Lord, and against thee, pray unto the Lord, that he take away the serpents from us. And Moses prayed for the people. And the Lord said unto Moses, Make thee a fiery serpent, and set it upon a pole: and it shall come to pass, that every one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it, shall live. And Moses made a serpent of brass, and put it upon a pole, and it came to pass, that if a serpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the serpent of brass, he lived.—Num. xxi, 5-9.

Letter To Editor

SEVEN-DAY WEEK

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—As a rule, I am opposed to strikes as a means of settling labor disputes, but I hold up both hands in support of the shipyards in British Columbia against a seven-day week. Past history and more recent experience in the first Great War proved that a seven-day week reduced instead of increasing production. The Power that created us knew of our need for one day's rest in seven. We are fighting organized evil and propose to do so by committing the evil of violating the commandment of God by working on the Sabbath. I have refrained from public comment hoping that the clergy would speak, but have not. If they believe what they profess, why are they silent on this momentous issue?

A. S. THOMPSON, M.D.

Havelock, June 26.

Unique War

This is not a war such as the last, nor a war like any other that the world's story has known; this is world revolution, a convulsion of civilization, with the thing at stake man's very survival. To argue in terms of mere money standards under such circumstances is surely to betray madness.

And for sanity's sake, let no one attack this budget on the class-conscious, unworthy ground that it doesn't "conscript wealth," or that it involves inequalities. For this budget does conscript wealth (in many, many cases, it will be a tax on capital); and no one is permitted to make money because of the war; and there will be precious few inequalities in this country this coming year—and perhaps fewer next year.

The simple truth is that, for weal or for woe, we are all now in the same storm-tossed boat, with no favored few. Together we sink or survive, so whatever we do let's not make survival harder by stirring up divisions or hatreds.—Ottawa Journal.

Landmark Missing

Brantford has a terrific scandal. The plaque which marked the spot where old Chief Joe Brant forded the Grand river has disappeared in the mists of antiquity, and only a boulder remains, just a big piece of rock. Moreover, where the chief got his feet wet first there is a big dump of old bricks. Brant's Ford thus comes in to undeserved contumely.—St. Catharines Standard.

Two Half Holidays Are Asked Of Business In Harvest Season

MILLBROOK, June 27 (ENS) — Reeve W. E. Ball has called a public meeting for Monday, June 29, in the town hall at 8 p.m., in response to the request from a government official in the village this week asking that two half holidays be observed each week during harvest to free men who would then go out and assist the farmers. It is hoped the business men, municipal council, and other citizens will show their interest, in view of the serious shortage of help on the farms, by being present.

Pay Debentures

The local branch of the Hydro Commission, at its June meeting, found itself in a position to pay off two more of the debentures issued when the plant was purchased by the municipality, and still have on hand a sufficient balance to meet any emergency which might arise making a fairly stiff demand on a repair fund.

Aylmer Lefroy, who has spent the winter and spring months in Toronto, returned this week and has opened the Wood homestead for the summer season. Miss Margaret Wood, and Mrs. Lefroy expect to return here within a comparatively short time.

Mrs. C. McGee, whose husband is now in the R.C.A.F., and has been moved to a point in Western Canada, has given up their apartment in Toronto, and is at present with her mother, Mrs. E. H. Barnes.

Miss Margaret Foster, of Port Hope, and formerly of Millbrook, has been the guest of Miss Mary Dawson this week.

Litte Dorothy Dawson, the baby daughter of Mrs. B. B. Dawson, was bitten by a dog this week, while at play with Helen Wright, baby daughter of Dr. J. W. and Mrs. Wright, and received injuries in her face. Apparently the two tiny girls, who are accustomed to playing with the dog in question, did something which angered him, or he became rougher in play than has been his wont. Prompt attention was given by Dr. Wright and no ill results are expected to follow. The dog is being kept under observation.

In the recent financial campaign for funds for the Red Cross Millbrook and Cavan subscribed a total of $2,403.21 paid in cash, and $111.50 in pledges; the amount asked of this territory was $3,000.00. More money is, however, likely to come in and it is hoped the total will be moved forward nearer the mark set by headquarters as the allotment here.

5,037 Teachers Have Graduated Since 1909 From Local Normal

The Peterborough Normal School recently finished its 34th term after setting a record this year, when, with nearly every other normal school in Ontario showing a decrease in attendance, Peterborough showed an increase of 16 per cent.

The Peterborough Normal was built in 1907 and actually went into operation in September, 1908. It was one of four schools built at the instigation of the Department of Education. The occasion for building the schools was the closing of the county model schools which were used to give training for three or four months and then issue a third class certificate. But even then the model school was not lost entirely. Because of the lack of qualified teachers some of the model teaching was kept up at the Normal School and as late as 1917 it was carried on in North Bay.

159 in First Class

The new school opened here on September 15, 1908, with an attendance of 159. Since that time there have been 5,037 pupils graduate, under the only two principals the school has had, Duncan Walker and Dr. J. A. Bannister. The first staff consisted of Duncan Walker, principal, who taught Mathematics and History; Dr. H. G. Park, Science of Education and English; G. A. Cornish, Science; S. J. Keys, School Management and English; Miss E. M. Setinoff, Domestic Science; Miss J. McCrae, Art; Miss Helen Davies, Music; Miss I. Coventry, Physical Drill; A. N. Scarrow, Manual Training, and J. A. McKone, Writing.

Not Many Boys

The seven Norman schools in Ontario today are stationed in Toronto, Hamilton, North Bay, London, Stratford, and two in Ottawa, one an English-French school. In all of these schools the standards, regulations and examinations are the same. There are always more girls than boys training and this, in Dr. Bannister's opinion, is because there are more openings for men in the business and manufacturing world, and teachers 'salaries do not offer sufficient inducement. In the year 1941-1942 there were 14 boys of the attendance of 82 pupils attending the Normal. In the year 1940 there were 19 boys out of a total attendance of 82. Many of the boys have gone into the Royal Canadian Air Force as soon as they have graduated.

The attendance here started off at 159 in 1908, and ended this term with 92, but it has varied a good deal since the first year. In 1911 there were 110 students, in 1912, the attendance dropped to 79, in 1931 there were 205. The peak was reached in the year 1933, when there were 286 students. The reason for this unusual attendance, was that the both courses were being taught.

When asked if the one-year course was as efficient as the old, Dr. Bannister said, No, but that it was equally as good as the first year under the old system. Now instead of returning for their second year of study, teachers take university work and summer courses and go much higher than the old style teacher did by obtaining their degree. Now there is only the first class certificate issued.

Residents

The placing of graduates is not a matter of where they trained but rather one of residence, although at least 55 per cent of the total number of teachers in this district are graduates of this Normal School.

The largest percentage of students in attendance are from the country and all students after a year of training develop tremendously in pose and every other respect. Peterborough was chosen because it was central for the district which extends east as far as Kingston and west as far as Oshawa.

A number of graduates have been exceedingly successful in their work and just a few of them are as follows: L. W. Copp, public school inspector; A. Deyell, on the staff of the Normal School at North Bay; Wishart Campbell, singer; Colin Lees, inspector at Lindsay; Tom Allen, B.A., M.A., who won scholarships at Oxford University, and Max Parnall, B.A., M.A., who also was winner of several scholarships.

Startling changes have taken place in the last five years with the introduction of the new program of studies in the public schools and the modification of the Normal School program to correspnd with that change. Thirteen rooms are in use during the year: five regular class rooms, two manual training rooms, a gymnasium, a laboratory, an art room, a home economics room and the library and also a science lecture room.

Two Principals

The two principals, the late Duncan Walker, who served faithfully for 21 years, and Dr. J. A. Bannister, who has put in 13 years here, have both done a fine job. Mr. Walker was first an inspector and then principal, and in 1929 he was appointed head of professional training and inspector of Normal Schools. Dr. Bannister was an inspector, and then spent nine years in North Bay as principal of the Normal School there. In 1929 he took over Mr. Walker's post and he is beloved by all those who work under him.

The present staff consists of Dr. J. A. Bannister, who teaches English; Dr. A. J. Madill, Science; M. A. Park, Social Studies and Science of Education; Miss Constance Wager, Art; Miss Olga Johnston, Home Economics; W. L. Stricker, Manual Training; Q. S. McKinney, Music and Physical Training; Miss E. M. Moore, Librarian; and Miss B. Latimer, Secretary. Miss Johnston is a graduate of the school.

Normal School Entrance requires nine Upper School subjects picked from a selected list, and work is the watchword. In the past four years they have been trying a very interesting and successful experiment in the "enterprise method." This is the use of social studies projects on a basis for instruction in manual training and art in order to improve craftsmanship.

No Happiness in the Home When Mother Is Sick

The tired, worn out mother cannot make a happy home if she is sick and worried by the never ending household duties.

She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, downhearted and discouraged, can't rest at night, and gets up in the morning feeling as tired as when she went to bed.

Women suffering in this way may find in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills a remedy with which to help recuperate their health, build up the run down system, and assist them back to health—happiness again.

Price 50c a box, 65 pills, at all drug counters.

1st Hitching Permit

Boston, June 27 (AP)

BOSTON granted its first hitching post permit in its 300-year history yesterday and simultaneously plans were made for horse troughs at centrally located gasoline stations.

The hitching post — no permit was required in the old days—went to Hotel Lenox. After once refusing the hotel, the board of street commissioners commented:

"Changing times, changing conditions, and the revival of hacks and carriages on Boston streets have now made the hotel's proposal feasible and acceptable."

Three Lakefield Societies Rally

LAKEFIELD, June 27—(ENS).—Mrs. O. E. Kingdon was hostess on Wednesday afternoon at a tea held to raise funds for the Women's Association of Regent Street United Church. Tea was served on the spacious verandah overlooking the Otonabee River by Mrs. Kingdon, assisted by Mrs. Melville Kingdon. Among those present were Mesdames George Kelly, J. McKerchar, John Murphy, D. H. Webster, A. V. Hill, J. Hendren, F. Darling, George Spence O. Calberry, and Miss Nellie Webster.

Mrs. T. W. Chaplin gave an interesting address to the members of the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at their final meeting of the season held on Tuesday evening. Mrs. J. M. Simpson, president of the W.M.S. presided for the session. The program consisted of a duet, "Just the Whisper of Jesus' Name" by Miss Jean Clark and Mrs. A. Boyce; solo, "Cast Thy Bread upon the Waters," by Miss Jean Clark; prayer by Rev. L. M. Sharpe. A strawberry social was held at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. Douglas Davis was hostess to the members of the Missionary and Service Club for their June meeting on Tuesday evening. Mrs. J. R. Hull was in charge of the devotional period, with Scripture reading by Mrs. E. Rosborough, meditation by Mrs. C. Butcher prayer by Mrs. W. W. Leonard. On account of the gas rationing it was decided not to accept the kind invitation extended to the club by Mrs. Wallace Hendren of Minden to hold their July picnic at her home. During the business part of the meeting it was decided to discontinue the workdays at the work rooms during July and August, but each member is requested to take a share of the knitting quota and to make quilt tops at home. A corn or weiner roast is being planned for early September. Mrs. Butcher and Mrs. Russell Little read several stories from the book "Come Wind, Come Weather," by Daphne Du Maurier. A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Davis, assisted by Mrs. S. Millage and Mrs. George Graham.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Madill of Kapuskasing are spending the vacation with Walter Madill.

Mrs. B. Tipsic of Salem, Ohio, is with her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. Blewett.

Miss Merle Crawford of Toronto is holidaying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Crawford.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Nixon have gone to their cottage on Georgian Bay for the summer.

Mrs. N. McManus is visiting her father, Andrew Redpath.

Brother Stephen Coughlin of Holy Rosary Scholasticate, Ottawa, is spending a vacation with his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. Coughlin.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Murduff on the death of their infant son Donald Ross Murduff, on Monday. The baby, who was only 24 days old, died apparently from suffocation when it pulled a cover over its face. The funeral took place from his parent's residence on Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. W. B. Walker officiated. Interment was at Lakefield Cemetery

CAMPBELLFORD

Salvage Results Show Decline

CAMPBELLFORD, June 27 (ENS)—The second salvage collection staged by members of Seymour East Women's Institute was held too soon after their initial campaign to have comparable results. According to the president, Mrs. Jesse Locke, residents of that section of the township responded with a large assortment of boxes, papers, rags, tires and rubber.

Complete Quilt

Twenty-five ladies attended the regular meeting of the Seymour West group of St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid, which was held at the home of Mrs. Art Russell on Wednesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Fred McCulloch, presided. One quilt was completed.

A Ticklish Job In Sydney Harbor

The trick was to raise this sunken Japanese submarine from the harbor bed at Sydney, without discharging the torpedoes which were still intact and dangerous in her submarine tubes. A giant crane did the job quickly and efficiently. The submarine was sunk during a Jap attack on Sydney harbor. It was sunk by the port defences.

SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR

By BLANCHE ROBERTS

THE STORY: Judith Kingsly and Tom Burke are employees of an airplane factory. At the height of a lovers' quarrel they are both sent to the firm's west coast factory—Judith to investigate a "leak" in the organization, Tom to take plans of a new bomber. Above the desert on an airliner, two men draw guns as the co-pilot lands the plane. They slug the pilot and take Tom to a waiting car. Tom slips Judith the plans. She leaves the plane, hides in the darkness as the men come back.

CHAPTER IV

THE car brushed the sage bush behind which Judith huddled, and stopped a few feet beyond her. Three men got out and ran to the plane. She crept to the car and peered in cautiously. It was empty. Without a second's hesitation, she opened the door and got in. She felt around in the dark for the switch. The engine started immediately and, shoving it into gear, she pulled the car around just as she heard someone yell from within the airliner.

She hadn't known an automobile could gather so much speed in second gear. She followed the tracks across the desert. For fully 200 yards the trail ran perfectly straight. She shut off the lights as a gun cracked behind her. Dirt and gravel flew up and sprayed the car with dust. Other shots followed quickly but went wild. When she judged she had gone the length of the trail, she turned the lights back on, just in time to keep from missing the tracks she was following.

Tense with excitement, she hunched over the steering wheel, driving swiftly and almost recklessly. She had no idea where she was going or what she would find when she got there.

A faint light burned in the distance and she slowed the car. As she drew nearer, a shack took shape and from its window came the light she had seen. She stopped the car some yards from the house and got out, the small gun gripped tightly in her right hand. Trembling a little, she moved silently forward to look in at the window. She felt sure she would find Tom Burke held a captive inside.

By standing on her toes and craning her neck, Judith could see in. Burke was tied hand and foot, sitting on a box that faced the window. Moving to the other side of the opening, she could see there was only one man guarding the prisoner, the co-pilot. The two were just sitting there.

Judith let her face be framed in the window, hoping Tom would see her. He did. But only a slight flicker of his dark eyes gave hint to her presence. He turned his head and spoke to the pilot and she knew it was to keep the man's attention so he would not discover her.

She crept to the door, the gun ready for action, her heart hammering against her ribs. On the threshold, she poised for action.

"Put up your hands!" she told the pilot firmly. There was not a tremor in her voice though her knees shook violently and threatened to give way.

The man whirled, reaching upward with his arms as he did so. They stored at each other.

"There's a knife in my coat pocket," Tom told her. 'Cut me loose."

SHE advanced across the floor of the small room, her gaze never leaving the man whose hands were extended in the air above his head. There was no mistaking the coldness and daring in his eyes and Judith did not once underestimate him as she reached for the knife. She knew if the man made a move her finger would squeeze the trigger.

She worked hard at the ropes with the knife in her left hand and as the last thread was cut from around Tom's wrists, her eyes flickered from the man across the room. There was a quick movement and Burke made a dive for the pilot, his feet still tied together.

"Beat it," yelled Tom between blows, as he rolled over and over on the floor with his adversary. "Get away from here."

But Judith hesitated, watching for a chance to use her gun.

Tom spoke once more.

"Get to San Diego," he ordered hoarsely, "Go on, Judy!"

She left and ran quickly to the car. She did not look back but drove furiously down the road, hoping it would lead her toward her destination. She would not let herself think of Tom fighting back there in the cabin with that man. If the plans had not been in her possession, she would have stayed. But she not only had a duty to her company, she now had one to her government.

Before long, she struck a highway, and breathed a little easier. Speed was the thing she needed and the car seemed to have plenty of it.

"I wonder how much gas this car has in it?" she asked herself and switched on the dash light. A feeling of horror enveloped her—the tank was nearly empty. But as if in answer to her prayers, her headlights picked out a small station by the side of the road. It was closed, but she refused to be dismayed.

She pulled the big car into the drived and honked. She kept on honking until she woke the man who was sleeping in the rear of his station. He came out, rubbing his eyes and grumbling loudly.

"I ain't open," he announced.

"I'm sorry to disturb you but I have to have some gas," Judith told him earnestly and his eyes widened at the sight of a pretty young woman. "You will just have to open up and sell me some."

"Why sure," he agreed, his mood changing instantly. "Always glad to oblige a lady. How many?" he asked as he unlocked the pump.

"Fill it up," she instructed, "and please hurry."

As she sat there, two cars whizzed by and each time her heart came into her throat, for fear they might be her pursuers. The man put the cap on the tank and she handed him a ten-dollar bill. He went in after the change and while he was gone a car drove in behind her and stopped.

A man said: "Why—that's Dike's car now."

That was all Judith needed to hear to make her shift into gear and drive off without her change. Driving a stolen car was bad enough. But when some men recognized it and were probably a part of the spy ring she was running from, it was high time to move on, and fast!

In a moment, she saw the headlights of the other car swing onto the highway. After that, she never looked up from the road in front of her as the speedometer hovered over and above the 90 mark. She quickly passed the two cars in front of her.

The eastern sky turned pink as daybreak neared and Judith reached some foothills. She slowed enough to lift her eyes to the rear view mirror. Nothing was behind her—not a car in sight. She let out a long, weary sigh and relaxed her aching back against the car cushion. She was exhausted. Her eyes burned from the strain of the night's wild drive. She was thankful for the light of day.

"I've got to get rid of this car," she thought. "Maybe I could hitch-hike the rest of the way."

She approached the outer edge of a small town where everything seemed still asleep. She turned down a deserted street and parked the car. Crawling out stiffly, she did a few stretching exercises and was soon limber enough to walk back to the highway. She walked through town to the opposite side and sat down in a protected spot to rest.

She waited for a ride, letting

LAKEFIELD

Bernice Carveth Guest Of Honor

LAKEFIELD, June 27— (ENS).—Miss Bernice Carveth, whose marriage to Jack Harrison takes place on Saturday was the guest of honor at a shower held at the home of Miss Margaret Sanderson on Tuesday evening. Mrs. John Murphy read an address to which Miss Carveth replied in a few words expressing her appreciation for her friends' thoughtfulness and the gifts. Miss Hilda Northey and Miss Bernice later presented the bride-to-be with a lovely wall mirror, and Eleanor and John Deck presented a shower of kitchenware.

Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Allen Gill, Mrs. Lloyd Crapp and Misses Minnie Charlton, Hilda Northey, Eva Higgins, Bernice and Hazel Slater. Mrs. O. Kingdon entertained the girls by reading their tea cups. Those in charge of the shower along with Miss Margaret Sanderson were Mrs. John Murphy and Mrs. Elmer Northey.

Other affairs held in Miss Carveth's honor included a personal shower held at the home of Miss Marion Keown, 93 Spadina Road, Toronto; Mrs. S. Touchburn entertained at two tables of bridge in Miss Carveth's honor early in June; Miss Edith Marshall and Miss Ethel Mills gave a shower at the home of her aunt, Mrs. James Spencer, Stewart Street, Peterborough, on Monday evening, when she was the recipient of a shower of ivory and red kitchen utensils. Miss Olive Bell and her mother, Mrs. Bell, held an afternoon tea. Among those present were Mrs. Ross Harrison, Mrs. A. E. Carveth, Mrs. Bruce Heard, Mrs. C. Bell, Mrs. Henry Sharpe, and Misses Shirley Magee, B. Harrison, Fern Armstrong W. Armstrong, Margaret Milburn, E. Clark, Eleanor Rosborough, I. Rosborough, E. Post, Dorothy Tully, M. Golden, Gwen Colburn, Ferne and Pearl Mullen.

Buttons Come Under Curbs

OTTAWA, June 27 — (CP). — An order restricting shapes sizes and colors of buttons manufactured for use in certain civilian apparel was announced to-day by J. A. McLaren, Administrator of Textile Snudries for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

It affects buttons for men's suits, overcoats, and trousers, women's coats and suits, negligees, sport and work shirts, pyjamas, and underwear. Sizes for women's coat and suit buttons are limited to 30 36, 45 and 55 ligne; for men's suit and overcoat buttons the prescribed sizes are 24, 30, 34, 36, 40, 45 and 50 ligne, and no new shapes or patterns are to be made.

All two-hole pant buttons are to be eliminated and 22-ligne trouser buttons used as a substitute.

Burned Bridge Kills 2 On Train

LOS ANGELES, June 27 — (AP).—A passenger train reported to be bearing 42 United States Army Air Corps Cadets plunged through a bridge on the Santa Fe Railroad near Parker, Ariz., on the California State Line late last night and rail officials here said preliminary reports were that the bridge had been wrecked by fire.

Preliminary reports said the engineer and fireman were killed, and an undetermined number of passengers injured. The dead were announced here as Engineer E. J. Murray of Parker and Fireman D. L. Bentz of Needles, Calif., although later reports from Parker made it doubtful whether Bentz had been killed or badly injured.

The Santa Fe office here said the locomotive and first two cars of the three car train went through the low bridge and into a wash. The bridge is on the desert 350 miles south-east of here and communications were difficult.

The train was west-bound between Phoenix, Ariz., and Cadiz, Calif. It connects with the west-bound Santa Fe Scout at Parker for the run into Los Angeles.

HIGH COST OF A.R.P.

LONDON—(CP).—Cost of maintenance and upkeep of Britain's Air Raid Precaution services for the year ended March 31 has been estimated at the equivalent of $380,000,000.

Insurance Is Necessary

Every four minutes, on an average, fire attacks some dwelling in Canada and the United States, year in and year out.

It costs, on an average, less than 1 cent a day for each $1,000 of fire insurance on dwelling house property.

JUVENILES COME FROM BEHIND TO DEFEAT LUCKIES BY 9-7 SCORE

Dodds' Win Tops A.A.U. Meet

Track and field fans are still talking about the surprise victory of Gilbert Dodds, Boston divinity student and former Ashland, O., college star, in the 1,500-metre championship at the National A.A.U. track and field meet in New York. Dodds whipped a star-studded field, including Leroy Weed of Southern California, shown finishing second, and Les MacMitchell, the New York U. mile king, who finished third.

Sacred Heart Trims Knights

Sacred Heart stepped up their wins last night to five in eight starts by overpowering the hard-fighting K. of C. Club 16-14. They took the lead early, but it looked bad for them when the losers counted up eleven runs in their half of the third inning. The south-end club soon chalked up a pair of fours in the fifth and sixth frames to cinch matters.

Anthony, pitching for the K. of C, allowed thirteen hits, walked six, and fanned one. Reynolds, doing the same chores, was nicked for thirteen hits too, walked four and struck out two.

Rev. Fr. Houlihan was a big factor for the winners at bat, slamming out one of his homers with the bases loaded and singled once besides in four trips. Courneya followed with a double and triple in five. Reynolds had two one-baggers in two and Bailey accounted for a single and double in four. Sheehan took honors for the losers, having four singles in five trips. Riley came next with a double and triple in four, then Wolff with a pair of deuces in four trips and Mongraw with a pair of singles in five.

Johnson, in left field, made a swell catch, nabbing off Tracey's long fly along the foul line. He had to cover a lot of territory. The other feature of the night was Rev. Father Houlihan's homer with the bases full.

Sacred Heart: Courneya, Reynolds, Hughes, Bailey, Rev. Fr. Houlihan Sullivan, A. Guerin, Johnston, Bud Guerin, Sullivan.

Knights: Tracey, Sheehan, Riley, Wolfe, Mongraw, Anthony, Galvin, Masterson, Baldwin.

Talk Goes Lighter

LONDON—(CP).— Hansard, official report of parliamentary debates, is wearing austerity dress. The familiar cover of stiff blue paper has been doffed this war, saving an estimated more than six tons of paper a year.

A charming new hotel has risen where the old one stood . . . but its woodland setting, its sweeping beaches, its home-like hospitality remain unchanged.

You'll find a warmed salt water open-air pool — a new 18-hole putting green — "habitant" lounges — gaily decorated, restful rooms overlooking the river.

Soldiers Take Second Place In League Race

It's happened. Juveniles who have been giving everybody in the City Softball Loop a battle finally broke into the win column by coming from far behind in a league fixture at Riverside Park Friday night and taking the Luckies into camp 9 runs to 7. The loss shot Soldiers up into second slot in the league standing and dropped Luckies down to a third place tie with the Royals.

Juveniles scored the first run in the third but Manager Griffin's athletes came back with four in the fourth and added three more in the sixth. The result was that when the youngsters went to bat in the last of the seventh they were down 7 to 1, but they staged a rally then, climaxed by Bill Jones' triple with two on bases, to chase over six runs and tie the score, and in the eighth Reg. Leether's long double to left sent two counters over to give the kids their first win of the season.

The victory was scored at the expense of Bill Lewis, Luckies' leading pitcher. He was wild, walking seven men, but he held the winners to three scattered hits until the seventh when they broke loose with a five-hit attack and came back in the eighth with four more blows to put the game away.

Bob Crowe pitched the first six innings for the Juveniles and Royals bunched hits on him in two frames to score their seven runs. Strangely enough it was a Washington base hit—that is a bounder that takes an unexpectedly high hop—that bobbed up in each of those two innings that made the seven runs possible. Bev. Gray took over the pitching burden in the seventh and blanked the Luckies for the balance of the game. He had folk on sacks each inning but prevented the losers from coming through with a hit when it would have meant a run.

Joe Stewart carried off the fielding honors. The Luckies' centre-fielder galloped far into short left centre to make a shoe string catch and double a runner off first with a bullet throw, and in the same innings ran into right centre to make another stellar grab. Bill Greatrix and Jack Carpenter made some nice catches in the outfield for the winners and the Juveniles came through with two fast double plays, the second twin killing ending the game.

Mowry, former Royal catcher, was behind the bat for the Luckies and led their hitting with a triple and had three hits and Moorhead came through with a homer with a team mate on the bases. Reg Leether had a double and two singles for the Juveniles.

Juveniles broke into the scoring with a run in the third. With two out Fred Garvey walked, went to third on two wild pitches and scored when Jameson dropped Leether's fly back of first.

Luckies went ahead in the first of the fourth. With one away McCormick singled to centre. A. Caccavella flied to Leether for the second out. Lewis bounded a double over Leether's head, sending McCormick to third and he registered on a passed ball. Stewart singed through short, scoring Lewis. Moorhead walked. Mowry slammed a long triple to deep centre, to send Stewart and Moorhead across after which M. Caccavella retired the side with a fly to Greatrix.

In the sixth with one away another Lewis bounder hopped over Leether's head for a single. Stewart flied to centre for the second out but Moorhead rifled a homer between Greatrix and Carpenter to send two more runs in. Mowry singled past third and advanced on a wild pitch. Caccavella walked. Jameson singled through short and Mowry scored but Caccavella was out at the plate on an accurate throw by Bill Greatrix.

The Big Inning

Then came the big seventh for the Juveniles. Carpenter started it by drawing a pass. Cross, batting for White, singled on a slow roller past the box and Crowe beat out a perfect bunt to fill the bases. Garvey ripped a single through short to score Carpenter. Leether also singled scoring Cross and when Mowry lost the throw home and pulled an Ernie Lombardi by falling Crowe also registered. Gray flied to Stewart. Jones however slammed a long triple to deep centre, scoring Garvey and Leether, and when the throw to third got away from Watson the batter completed the circuit to tie up the score. Greatrix popped to M. Caccavella and Detlor lifted a fly that Mowry gathered in.

Luckies had a chance in the first half of the eighth when Mowry singled and M. Caccavella walked with two out, and both moved up on a wild pitch but Jameson lifted a fly to Carpenter in centre.

Juveniles won out in their half. Carpenter opened with a single through short and advanced on a wild pitch. Cross struck out. Crowe bunted safely. On an attempted steal Carpenter was out at the plate. Garvey however singled through short and when Leether boomed a long double over McCormick's head in left Crowe and Garvey crossed the plate to give Juveniles a two run lead.

The losers had a chance in the final frame to tie it up. Watson drew a pass and after McCormick had popped to Jones, Caccavella singled. Lewis rolled to Leether who tossed him out at first and when Watson tried to score Detlor's quick throw to Garvey caught him at the plate for the final out.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

A battle of left-handers looms up for Monday night in the City Softball League when Soldiers and Luckies meet at Riverside Park in a game that should be one of the best of the season. Undoubtedly the Soldiers will call upon Ken Fleming to toss them in and just as surely Luckies will select Bill Lewis to do the firing in their behalf. Second place is at stake. Soldiers hold the position now by half a game as the result of the defeat of Luckies by the Juveniles last night but Manager Griffin's team can climb back into the second slot by a win over the team from the Military Training Centre Monday night. It should be a stern struggle. Although they were unexpectedly beaten last night Luckies can now field the strongest club they have had all season. The addition of Moorhead and Mowry has given them a lot of power. Soldiers have won three games in a row and they are hot right now with Sero, McIlveen, Mortimer and other players coming through consistently with hits that were missing in some of the earlier games played by the military team. Monday night's clash looks like a good start for a week that promises to furnish a lot of classy softball.

The Girls' League campaign continues to be a procession so far as Mike O'Brien's C.G.E. Generals are concerned. They have won five games in a row and in none of the five were they in any great danger of losing. Generals control the pitching market and in addition they have plenty of power up there at the plate. Four different pitchers, Marily McCarthy, May Wade, Norma Strickland and Bea McDowell have all turned in winning efforts. It was the last named player's turn last night and she came through without any trouble keeping the Westclox hits scattered and refusing to permit anything that looked like a big inning. Generals, sparked by homers by Phyllis Bigelow, Elinor Craig and E. Perdue won by 15 to 6. They were in front from the first inning and made every post a winning one. The battle in the girls' loop is undoubtedly for second place.

Most softball fans were delighted with the win scored by Juveniles over Luckies last night. They didn't have anything against Manager Fred Griffin's club but the youngsters have played so many close games and been outlucked so frequently that the cusaomers were tickled to see them come through with a win. It was a fighting victory, too, for the kids were six runs down when they went to bat in the seventh inning. Then they pulled a Frank Merriwell finish by crashing through Bill Lewis' service for six runs to tie the whole thing up and then come back in the eighth frame to push over two more counters and take the decision. Long distance wallops by Bill Jones and Reg Leether, coming at the right time, played a big part in the win of the youngsters. Incidentally now that they have tasted the sweets of victory the Juveniles are going to be tougher than ever from now in. They have dug up a pretty capable hurler in the person of Bev Gray to help Bob Crowe in the artillery department and they had another big kid named Jones warming up last night who showed Spitfire speed. He may get a chance to show his wares in the near future.

One For Double X

For the first time since the annual all-star contest was organized the name of Jimmy Foxx did not appear in the lineup of the American League selects. So old Double X, wearing the uniform of the Chicago Cubs showed what he thought of it by stepping up to the plate in the last inning of yesterday's game with the Boston Braves, with the score tied and a team-mate on the sacks and driving the ball out of the park for the first National League homer of his long career. The wallop won the ball game for the Cubs 6 to 4. Fleming and Schmitz did the throwing for Chicago with the latter getting the win and Early and Errickson were on the losing end. Paul Waner who has been getting the head lines for poling out his 3,000th major league hit smashed his first circuit clout of the season for the Braves and Max West also helped himself to his tenth four-master of the campaign. New York Giants triumphed over Pittsburg 4 to 2 in a light-hitting affair with Melton picking up his ninth win of the year. Sewell was the losing pitcher. * * * * * *

Brooklyn and Cincinnati had a battle royal before the Dodgers finally won the argument 5 to 4 in ten innings. It represented the seventh straight win for old Larry French who went in as second fireman and picked off the win. French has yet to be beaten this season. Kirby Higbe and Elmer Riddle were the starting choices but both were under the showers long before the battle ended. Shoun, third of the Reds' pitchers to work was credited with the loss. Dolph Camilli had his eleventh home run of the season and another feature was the fact that Joe Medwick's consecutive hitting streak terminated after the Dodger outfielder had hit safely at least once in 27 consecutive games. The only afternoon game in the American League was won by the Detroit Tigers who got steady pitching from Al Benton to take the Philadelphia A's with Knott pitching, into camp to the tune of 3 to 1.

A Softball Double-Header

There will be a treat for softball fans on the evening of Dominion Day and all the proceeds will go to the fund for providing cigarettes for soldiers overseas. A double-header has been arranged for Riverside Park as special attraction in connection with Army Week. The opening game will be an exhibition game between the Military Training Centre's City League club and a team representing the 4th Battery. The Artillerymen are reported to have a real team lined up and they hope to take a fall out of the Military Training Centre squad who will have their regular City League lineup in action. The military game will get under way at 5.30 o'clock sharp and it will be followed at 7 o'clock with a City League battle between Royals and Juveniles, a replay of the tie between the two clubs early in the season. The youngsters have broken into the win column at last and they hope to fight their way up into a playoff position. They will be battling Royals every foot of the way in the Dominion Day fixture. It is hoped that the double-header will raise a substantial sum to provide smokes for Canadians in the armed forces overseas.

Joe Rochetta of the St. Peter's team broke a toe in Thursday night's Catholic League game while sliding into third base. It was his second injury of the season as he broke a finger early in the campaign. Another recent casualty was Denny of the Sacred Heart club who was injured in a collision with another player. The league is arranging to stage two benefit games to assist the two victims and a definite announcement as to the dates will be made shortly. League headquarters also gives out the information that the Barons have reluctantly decided to drop out of the race and the loop will now carry on as a four-club organization, playing Mondays and Thursdays with Friday night reserved for postponed fixtures. Cubs, Sacred Heart and Knights of Columbus have strengthened with players from the disbanded Barons and the league should be better balanced as a result.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Mystery about the National League All-Star lineup is how Ray Starr of the Cincinnati Reds was missed....The 36-year-old rookie looks like one of the pitchers of the year....Juveniles wore their smart new sweaters last night and the change in regalia certainly brought them luck, although it didn't look like it until they went to bat in the seventh inning and tied up the score with a six-run barrage.... This City Softball loop race is getting tighter all the time....There are no setups for anybody in the league this year as Luckies discovered last night ....Joe Stewart is covering miles in centre field for Luckies and coming up with circus catches to rob batters of sure hits. The youngsters who patrol left and centre for Juveniles, Bill Greatrix and Jack Carpenter also are proving great ball hawks....The outfielders have come into their own since the games were transferred into the big park and they have room to go and get them....Southend churches have cleaned up the Church Softball League. Generals Whip Westclox For Fifth Win

The rest of the clubs in the Girls' Softball League have not yet discovered a way to stop those Generals. Mike O'Brien's team won their fifth straight game, without a loss this season, at the Bowl Friday night when they triumphed over their old rivals, Westclox, 15 to 6.

Generals scored eight runs in the first two frames and the result was never in doubt after that. They crossed the plate in all but two innings and were at no time seriously threatened by the Clockmakers although the latter kept trying until the end.

Bea McDowell pitched her first game of the season for Generals and the Millbrook girl had an easy task. Westclox were never able to set up a big inning, in fact did not get more than one run in a frame all the way through.

Marg Watson and Isobel Bullock divided up the pitching duties for the losers, the latter slowing up the Generals attack in the latter stages.

Generals came through with 21 hits with Elinor Craig, Phyllis Bigelow and E. Perdue all hitting for the circuit. Isobel Bullock led the losers at the plate slamming out a homer and two singles in four times up. V. Patterson also had three hits for Westclox.

V. Patterson shone in the field with a couple of nice running catches and A. Armstrong in centre field may a fine play in nailing a drive by Bea McDowell, Phyllis Bigelow, Generals' first base player dashed out into short right to pull off a circus catch.

Westclox opened the scoring with a run in the opening inning but Generals came back in their half with four. V. Patterson homered with one on for two of them and hits by Elinor Craig and Bea McDowell and an error accounted for the other pair. Elinor Craig's homer in the second was the big factor in other quartette of Generals runs and after that it was just a case of playing out the string.

It was a nice crowd that turned out last evening to enjoy the week-end tournament. In fact it was the biggest attendance yet. The bowling conditions were ideal, and it was all over before 11 o'clock and that's something that is greatly appreciated by all. The winning skips were J. McDonald, B. Chesler and G. Coleman, Sr.

On Dominion Day, Wednesday, July 1st, the ladies are holding a local tournament at 2 p.m. It will be a draw from the board, and the fee is set at 25c per player. All the lady members are invited. Have you been asked to play on a rink for the holiday tournament? If not, contact F. Dearborn, B. Chesler or H. Clegg.

It will be a nice night to bowl, so slip out to the greens and play in the mixed. 7.30 o'clock is the hour.

Kirkwood, Byrd Tie Smith Lead In Mahoning

GIRARD, O., June 27—(AP). — Setting a blistering pace, Joe Kirkwood, the Australian trick shot artist now playing from Abington, Pa., and Sam Byrd, former New York Yankee outfielder, yesterday tied Horton Smith with four-below-par 64's for leadership of the $5,000 Mahoning Valley open golf tournament.

Smith, early leader with 33-31, first was tied with Kirkwood with similar scores. Then Byrd moved in with a 33-31 to make it a three-way deadlock.

Kirkwood, who confesses his most difficult shot is a straight one, drove them hard down the fairway in the opening session of the three-day, 72-hole medal play event.

With indications that the pace may be stepped up when Ben Hogan gets hot after , 35-32—67 Friday, Craig Wood's record of 264, set in the Metropolitan open two years ago, appeared in jeopardy. Thirteen players bettered par 34-34—68 and 21 were 70 or under.

Jack Miskell, youthful Youngstown pro, had 32-33—65, to tie Lloyd Mangrum, Monterey Park, for second. Jimmy Thomson, long-hitting Californian, defending Champion Clayton Heafner of Durham, N.C.; Dutch Harrison, Harrisburg, Pa., and Rod Munday, Toledo, had 66's.

Billy Burke, Cleveland, had six one-put greens on the first nine and finished 31-36—67, tieing Al Smith, Martinsville, Va., Hogan and Herman Keiser, Akron, for the next spot with 67's.

Lawson Little provided the early fireworks with a hole in one on the 215-yard No. 4—toughest par three on the course—but had 34-35—69, to finish even with Cy Laffoon, the Oklahoman; Jack Thompson, Youngstown; Ray Hill, Hershey, Pa.; Johnny Revolta, former PGA king from Evanston, Ill., and Sam Parks of Pittsburg.

Leafs Lace Birds In 7-1 Tilt; Rubeling Hero

By The Associated Press

If first impressions are lasting, there will be some more grey hairs on the heads of seven International League managers now that Emerson Roser, husky righthander, has joined Newark Bears of the International League.

Making his second start since coming from Kansas City Blues of the American Association, Roser hurled a five hit 3-0 verdict over Syracuse Chiefs last night.

The triumph was Roser's second against one defeat. He previously received credit for a victory in a relief role against Rochester Red Wings.

The second-place Montreal Royals dropped four games behind the Bears while losing to Buffalo Bisons 4-2. Andy (High) Sierra turned in his eighth conquest of the campaign by scattering seven Royal hits, while his mates made the most of the eight they received from Spencer Smith to bring to an end a three-game Montreal winning streak.

Buffalo clinched the game with a two-run, sixth-inning rally with Sierra driving in one of the scored with a single. Jim Outlaw and Mike Rocco led the Bison assault with two hits each.

Al Rubeling led an 11-hit attack against Rochester Red Wings with four for four, including a home run as Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the Birds, 7-1.

Bill Beckman of the Leafs allowed only six hits but one was a home run by Warren Robinson in the eighth inning to rob him of a shutout. In addition to his homer, Rubeling had two doubles and a single.

The Leafs scored five of their runs off of Ira Hutchinson, who gave up nine hits in his seven-inning stay on the mound. Lou Sakas was touched for the final two Toronto tallies.

The Jersey City doubleheader at Baltimore was postponed.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, June 27 — (AP). — Twilight baseball isn't popular with the players, but it may be one answer to the questions the club owners are asking....If they can continue to draw the kind of crowds they've been getting recently, it will make up for a lot of week-day afternoons when they have to include the ushers to make the crowd big enough to count....At least there's one lesson they should be learning from these and the relief games—that the customers have to be coaxed, and sometimes bludgeoned, to get them out in profitable numbers....Bobby Feller is slated for a sea duty right after the Service All-Star game in Cleveland.

Harrington Raising Adventure

Hago Harrington, old-time hockey star who coaches Boston Olympics, was driving through Boston when the recent air-raid test was held... A feminine warden halted his car and while they waited for the "all clear," she remarked: "I have a whole oven full of cakes, and this raid had to happen. I don't know what I'll do"

Rising gallantly to the occasion, Hago replied: "Lady, give me that arm band and you run home and save those cakes"...And that's how they managed it.

Westerners See Canada's Best

By MARSHAL BATEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, June 27.—(CP)—Racing fans and some western owners were about ready to concede Ten to Ace victory in the $5,000 added Canadian Derby to be run here July 1 after they learned Harry Giddings "wonder horse" from Oakville, Ont., had fully recovered from "shipping fever," suffered 10 days ago.

The Ace breezed five furlongs in the fast time of 1:01 3-5 on a slow track in his only workout this week. "He looks okay and is doing all right," Giddings remarked.

Turfmen were quick to say that the Ace, winner of the $8,000 added King's Plate over a mile and one eighth at Toronto in May, was not allowed to "go all out" in the conditioner. Clockers got the lightly built chestnut colt at 12 3-5 for the first furlong, 24 1-5 for the second, 36 1-5 for the third, and 48½ for a half mile.

Seven top western three-year-olds are expected to oppose the Ace in the mile and a quarter Classic but in the words of R. J. Speers of Winnipeg, one of the Dominion's leading breeders, they are up against "the best horse ever bred in Canada."

Speers, breeder of three of the likely starters — Fighting Finn, Brooms Sentry and Witch's Taxi—said he doesn't think there is a western bred that will stand up to the son of Stand Pat out of Royalite.

Waiting Big Day

The Ace will not go into racing competition before the Derby. The only chance to see him in action will be Sunday when Giddings gives him his second workout.

Some experts believe Amsterson, son of Amsterdam, and Brooms Sentry, by Brooms, will have a chance on a heavy track. Broom's Sentry won the $1,000 Alberta Derby last month at Calgary in mud.

Many fancy Fighting Finn as a western hope. The Finn won three and placed once in five starts this season and as a two-year-old won three events for an earnings of $1,370 to lead the eligibles.

Definite starters will not be known until the eve of the Derby. Owners of 38 thoroughbreds bred in Canada have paid all subscription fees.

8 Wins, 10 Starts; Sox Soak New York 4-2

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer.

It may not be a tipoff on the World Series, the final outcome of the pennant races, or even the coming all-star game, but Brooklyn Dodgers have replaced New York Yankees as the runaway team of the major leagues.

Overlooked by many fans in the excitement of all-star picking time, the transition of recent days has left the Dodgers with a National League lead three games longer than that of the Yankees in the American loop.

When the Dodgers opened their current home stand on June 15, they were leading by only 5½ games The Yanks took the road at the same time, boasting a 9½ game lead.

But things have changed since then. The Dodgers stretched their margin to 9½ games, their longest of the year yesterday by clipping Cincinnati Reds 5-4 in 10 innings for their eighth victory in 10 starts since their return to Ebbets Field.

And in a night game at Chicago, the Yankees bowed to the White Sox for the first time since last August 25 as Hard-luck Edgar Smith, who was the last Chicago pitcher to stop the bombers, hurled his way to a 4-2 decision, his second of the season against 11 defeats.

That unexpected reversal, coupled with the Boston Red Sox triumph over Cleveland, chopped another full game off the Yankee lead, leaving the world champs only 6½ games ahead of the rollicking Red Sox. It was the seventh loss for the Yanks in their 11 games on this trip.

Benton, Melton Right On.

Al Benton of the Detroit Tigers and Cliff Melton of the New York Giants turned in sparkling performances to justify their all-star nominations.

Benton tossed a six-hitter at the Philadelphia Athletics as Pinky Higgins chipped in with two doubles to lead the Tigers to a 3-1 victory, the fifth for Benton against a like number of defeats.

Dick Newsome also gave up only a half-dozen blows in hurling the Red Sox to their 3-2 triumph over the Indians in a night game, and four of them went to Les Fleming.

The St. Louis Browns halted a four-game losing streak by rapping Buck Newsom and the Washington Senators, 8-5, in a night game as Chet Laabs and Harlond Clift drove in three runs apiece.

Melton notched his ninth win compared with five losses by holding the Pittsburg Pirates to a half-dozen safeties and contributed further to the 4-2 Giant victory by bagging two of his team's six hits. Five Buc errors helped the New Yorkers.

Jimmy Foxx clouted his first home run since switching to the National League, a two-run blast with two out in the ninth inning to give the Chicago Cubs a 6-4 decision over the Boston Braves. Home runs by Max West and Paul Waner kept the Braves in the game.

The St. Louis Cardinals' night contest with the tail-end Philadelphia Phils was postponed.

Whirly Looming Cinch Today

NEW YORK, June 27—(AP). — The Army, the Navy, and Whirlaway last night appeared to be sure winners for to-day's racing at Aqueduct but Market Wise won't come to the party.

Whirly and eight other horses were named to start in the $30,000-added Brooklyn Handicap, headlining the "Floor Show" for war relief at the Brooklyn racing plant. But Market Wise, who whipped Whirlaway in the Suburban Handicap three weeks ago, was not entered.

It was the second time in two weeks that Lou Tufano's rags-to-riches galloper had passed an opportunity to meet Whirlaway. After being entered in the Carter Handicap, he was withdrawn and Trainer George Carroll said his horse was ailing with a cough.

With Market Wise absent, the chief threat to Whirly appears to be Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention, who chased the Kentucky cannonball to a mile-and-an-eighth track record earlier this week before bowing out by the width of a lip. But since the Brooklyn's run is an eighth of a mile longer, and Attention is not famous for his ability over a mile this one looks like a shoo-in for Warren Wright's express, despite the fact he's packing 129 pounds to 122 for Mrs. Corning's speedster.

There will be a $23,900 pay-cheque ready for the winner in this fifty-fourth running of the Brooklyn. If Whirly picks it up, he'll skyrocket his earnings over the $400,000 mark and pull himself just $23,900 away from Seabiscuit's all-time winnings.

Except for Whirlaway and Attention, there isn't much in the field of nine. Mrs. Payne Whitney entered a three-horse team consisting of The Rhymer, who won the Widener Handicap last winter Corydon, who grabbed the Sussex at Delaware last week, and Swing and Sway. Then there are A. J. Sackett's Tola Rose, hooked up with Attention as Trainer Maxie Hirsch's entry, and John Clark's Waller, Tom Howell's Olympus, and Harry M. Warner's Paperboy.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By ROBERT CLARKE,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, June 27 — (CP). — Football talk is brewing once again along the Montreal boulevards. And Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll hears that Coach Bill Hughes of Montreal's Big Four team will be replaced by a newcomer from out of town, in an effort to bring an end to those disastrous seasons the team has been having. A grid executive tells Carroll that there'll be a couple of snazzy new backfield men (not including Red Storey) in Montreal toggery this season. These new ball toters are said to be already located in the city.

Wing Commander Pitt Clayton, who recently returned to Canada after winning the Distinguished Flying Cross and bar overseas, got quite a kick out of the way horse races are run in England, according to Stu (Vancouver Province) Keate. Pitt was telling the boys all about it at a baseball luncheon in Vancouver. It was at Epsom and after placing his bet Clayton drifted up into the stands. Suddenly, he heard someone say, "They're off." But let Clayton take it from there.

Said Clayton: "I turned around and looked. I couldn't see anything. Finally by dint of considerable straining I saw a few heads bobbing along atop a hedge and I guess that they must have been the beetles. Of course, the blighters have to do everything different over there. The bleedin' horses couldn't run anti-clockwise. No, sir. They were running clockwise. Just the opposite to us."

Incidentally

Lou Wyman, one half of Maxie Berger's managerial combination, has left with Berger for Calgary, where the Montreal scrapper will take on Al Lust....Wyman says it's to be recognized as a title bout by the Western Boxing Federation, although not sanctioned as such by the Dominion body....Asked howcome, Lou said that the Western group was giving its approval to the scrap as a title bout because the "fight game is dead in the East."

Jockey Merrill Packer rode three triples in successive days at Montreal's Blue Bonnets track...Pete Morin, Canadiens' left winger, still hasn't recovered from an injury suffered when knocked to the ice by John Mariucci of the Hawks last winter....He suffers occasional paralysis in the left hand....Lou (Halifax Chronicle) Zwerling says that the Victoria swimming flash, Gordie Lawrence, is rumored due for a shift from Halifax to some place where he'll be able to get in top shape for the Canadian swim championships at Ste. Adele, Que.

The equipment in this vehicle makes it almost a field dressing station. Special attention has been paid to ease-of-riding and the comfort of seriously injured patients.

Included in equipment are a standard army stretcher and a special rubber-tired stretcher-cot-bed. There is also medical equipment, including oxygen apparatus of a special kind, and intravenous equipment, which is housed in a dust-tight cabinet.

Full width and low floor give easy access at the rear of this vehicle.

Smith-Tinker Nuptials At George Street Church

The marriage of Lenore Isobel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tinker, to Stewart Kitchener Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Smith of Hastings, Ontario, was solemnized today in George Street United Church, with Rev. H. L. Roberts officiating. Blue delphiniums, pink peonies and ferns were used to decorate the church. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Charles Renaud, and during the signing of the register Miss Jean Sarginson sang "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in a floor-length white gown with a torso length silk jersey bodice with three-quarter sleeves and a V neckline, and a long bouffant skirt of net. Her finger-tip veil of white silk net fell from a halo of orange blossoms and she wore a necklace of pearls. Her bouquet was rapture roses and blue cornflowers.

Miss Marjorie Tinker was maid of honor to her sister, wearing a gown of powder blue with silk jersey bodice and full net skirt. Miss Catharine Joyes and Miss Helen Wellman were bridesmaids, Miss Joyes in petal pink net over taffeta and Miss Wellman in turquoise over taffeta. The bridesmaids' frocks were made with basque bodices and full skirts and they wore matching flowers in their hair and carried bouquets of delphiniums and pink snapdragon.

Mr. Cleve Smith, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Balfour Duder and Mr. B. H. Pammett.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the bride's home, where her mother received wearing a gown of rose beige with brown accessories and a corsage of talisman roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore midnight blue with black accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Afterwards the bride and groom left for a trip to Western Ontario. For travelling Mrs. Smith chose a sky blue silk jersey dress with white accessories. On their return they will live at 357 Rogers street.

Children Hold Beautiful Twilight Music Hour

The junior pupils of Mount St. Joseph gave a twilight music hour on Friday evening for their parents and friends. The brief program of songs, recitations, orchestral and instrumental numbers was performed by very young pupils, with one exception, and the numbers were executed with a careful precision that spoke well for the teaching received. The informal arrangement of the platform gave the whole the effect of one of those family evenings of music that were so common before the days of radio, and the pupils performed with the same unaffected grace that they might have used in their own homes.

All the numbers chosen were short and simple, suited to children's talents, and the recitations were free from that exaggerated elocutionary style that is all too common among children who recite. The vocal numbers were no display of brilliant technique, but were charmingly simple, suited in subject matter and tune to the abilities of very young pupils. Three numbers by the little orchestra, composed of Mrs. B. Selby, Merle Dauncey, Alastair Fettes and James Dauncey, with Vincent Torpey at the piano, were very well done. The violin solos, carefully played, with a fine sense of rhythm on the part of the pupils, were surprisingly good for such young pupils.

Miss Marion Best, A.T.C.M., accompanied capably throughout, except when Vincent Torpey accompanied one of the violin solos, and the orchestra. The program was announced by Miss Caroline McCabe.

The program was as follows: Three numbers by the orchestra, "God Save the King," "Robin's Message" and "Gliding Along"; and amusing recitation, "Gollywog's Cakewalk," by Vincent Torpey; a pretty song, "The Little Doves," by four boys, J. Dauncey, A. Fettes, P. Gagner and V. Torpey; a violin solo, "Old Folks at Home," J. Dauncey; a song, "I'd Like to be a Mailman," by Alastair Fettes; a violin solo, "Menuet," by Merle Dauncey; a charming chorus by A. Blodgett, F. McCormick, A. Ralph, S. Blodgett, A. Shaughnessy, G. Ralph, B. McCormick, C. Hanrahan, M. Fitzgerald. In this a canary in a cage occupied the cage and seemed quite unaffected by his novel surroundings, twittering all the time. A recitation, "Domestic Song," in which a little girl listens to the music of ordinary sounds and movements about the house, was charmingly given by A. Shaughnessy; another recitation, "Tuning Up," followed by a violin solo, in which a little boy tells how he makes the fiddle he loves ready to sing, and then plays, was given by Alastair Fettes.

A brother and sister, M. and V. Torpey, gave a recitation and song, the boy telling the narrative and then accompanying his little sister in the song. The number was called "Naming the Flowers." There followed two violin duets, "Barcarolle," and "Dainty Princess," by Mrs. B. Selby and Merle Dauncey; a piano solo, "Ferris Wheel," was very well played by Vincent Torpey; Merle Dauncey played a charming violin solo, "Rustic Dance." J. Dauncey gave an amusing recitation, "Taking the Doughnuts," in which he showed a decided talent in this direction. Mrs. B. Selby, accompanied by Miss Margaret Doyle, played a beautiful violin solo, "Romany Caprice," and the program closed with a song by the whole class, "Good-Bye to Music," in which the children say that the summer days call them out to play, but they will be back to their music again in the fall.

The children's department on the stage was natural and charming and their careful performance and enjoyment of their music does credit to their teachers, who teach them how to enjoy their music, which sometimes is more important than knowing how to play it.

Dancing Pupils Show Talents In Pretty Recital

Dancing pupils of Marion Perry-Laird, assisted by Mrs. K. Welsh and Miss Gwendolyn Peake, gave a dancing recital in the Collegiate Auditorium on Friday evening before an euthusiastic audience. The program consisted of tap dances, toe dances, ballets, recitations and songs. The "Old Fashioned Bouquet Ballet," with the children in their soft pastels-shade period costumes, made a pretty sight on the stage. One of the outstanding numbers, which called forth an encore, was a comedy number by the chorus, featuring Doreen Hogge, a young lady who shows definite talent as a comedienne, as well as a dancer.

Another rather charming number was a toe ballet by a mixed class of girls. A Spanish dance by Doreen Hogge and Kenneth Simmons was also much enjoyed by the audience. Tiny little Helen Zakas won the hearts of the audience at once, with her charming toe and tap dances.

Those taking solo parts in the program were Ray Turnbull, Marcelle Doogan, Raymond Brown, Doreen Hogge, Kenneth Simmons, Dorothy Kitchen, Helen Zakas, Joan Fletcher, Joy Foster, Gayle Loosli, Dorothy Thompson, Doreen Jewell, Betty Harrison, Rosemarie McCall, Maureen Fletcher, Audrey Doogan, Ruth Connolly, Mrs. K. Welsh, Douglas Laird, Fay Blackwell, Marlene Foster, Helen Duncan, and Dorothy Watson, Kay Agnew, Earle Gillespie.

Vocal solos by Mrs. K. Welsh and Miss Gwendolyn Peake added a pleasant note of variety to the program and Kay Agnew also assisted with a recitation. Miss Helen Delahaye was pianist and did a fine job.

Stewart-Jackson Ceremony Held In Garden

The garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jackson on Cameron street, was the scene of a pretty wedding today, when their daughter, Mary Isabelle became the bride of Cpl. Alexander Stewart, son of Mr. H. J. Stewart and the late Mrs. Stewart of Perth Ontario. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a long gown of white lace over satin, with a draped bodice and a full skirt falling in a train and long sleeves. Her veil of white embroidered net was caught to her head with a halo of white lace and she carried a bouquet of white roses and pink and mauve sweet peas. Mrs. George Chambers, sister of the bride, attended her as matron of honor, wearing a gown of dusty rose taffeta with fitted bodice and a long full skirt falling into a slight train. She wore a little cap of matching flowers and carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and sweetpeas. Cpl. Clare Connelly attended the groom.

A reception was held after the ceremony, the bride's mother wearing a gown of blue figured crepe with a wide-brimmed white straw hat and a corsage of pin roses. Afterwards Cpl. and Mrs. Stewart left on a short trip. For travelling the bride chose a beige redingote dress with matching accessories. On their return they will live at 212 Brock street.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, June 28

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds portent of several conflicting or adverse conditions, although favoring those who manifest diligence, perseverance and a proper realization of their duties and obligations. With such traits faithfully demonstrated there is some promise of securing the approbation and tokens of esteem from elders, superiors and those in influential positions.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may best be assured of a fortunate and progressive year by strict attention to duty and obligations, as well as through exercise of industry, application and earnest purpose of sound principles.

A child born on this day may have support from elders and superiors in helping it to overcome defeat and obstacles if it will be thrifty and prudent.

For Monday, June 29

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for outstanding benefits, good fortune and personal favors of an enduring and worthwhile security. This may arise either from elderly relatives, young persons, or old organizations appreciative of merit, integrity and lofty ambitions. Outstanding good luck may await.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of expansive financial status, firm friendships from elders and young folks, as well as sound organization, in recognition or worth, sound ambitions, and lofty purpose as well as personal ability and nobility of conduct Such rewards may come with surprise.

A child born on this day should have a successful, productive and happy life, with full recognition of its high character and purpose.

VOL. LXXXV, No. 150 — PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1942

TO GRADUATE

Paul O'Sullivan of Campbellford, now training with the Royal Canadian Air Force will graduate at Aylmer next Friday. He is a nephew of Rt. Rev. Monsignor O'Sullivan, pastor at the Immaculate Conception Church in Peterborough.

THEY WANT HOUSES

S. Longhurst, administrator of Wartime Housing in this city reports that all houses now completed in the Parkhill subdivision have been spoken for and will be filled by July 1. There are more than fifty applications on file for more houses, which as yet have not been started.

PLAN DINNER

Legal committee of the City Council has instructed the chairman, Alderman Adam Sands, to ascertain if it is convenient for the officers of Military Trainig Centre 32 to attend a dinner at the Kawartha Club on Friday, July 3. If this is possible, the chairman has authority to arrange for the dinner. This is part of the City Council's contribution to Army Week, and would be the first since the camp was established here that the entire officer personnel have been entertained at dinner.

A NICE GESTURE

Bob Hotrum, the one man committee for the local Buckshee Fund reports today that the Centre Theatre has offered to assist the fund materially. A special show will be held on Tuesday, July 30, at midnight, and the entire proceeds will be turned over to Hotrum to buy cigarettes for the boys overseas. The offer came as a contribution to the Army Week program.

A NEW ARRANGEMENT

Due to the fact that sugar ration application cards which should have been sent to Peterborough for addressing have arrived in Belleville and will be done there, there will be no workers required to address cards at the Collegiate Saturday evening, Monday morning or Monday evening. Ladies who have registered to work on Tuesday should watch the paper on Monday for further instructions.

BEWILDERING THING

A few men and women walked out the rear entrance of a local hotel on Friday night and one of the group leaned up against a large automobile. Immediately the car horn started to honk. When the man stepped away it stopped. The fellow looked for the driver, but the car was empty, and it is likely the man would have taken the pledge right there, had not one of the girls been familiar with the device. It was a "stop thief" horn which started to sound as soon as contact was made with the car.

HERE TO HELP.

After taking a special course in Toronto, Miss Ruth Hardy, Toronto, has been loaned to assist W. E. Foley and Mrs. J. Wharry, in Peterborough, with the transcription of sugar ration cards by the volunteer women recorders.

BAND CONCERT.

By permission of Lt.-Col. M. H. Park. V.D., the Band of the Rangers will give a varied program of music in King Edward Park on Sunday night, commencing at 8.30 The program will consist of war time melodies and popular numbers.

POSTERS AVAILABLE

W. C. Hughes of Grafton's announced today that posters for store windows for Army Week are available at his store. Clerks have covered the city pretty well with these posters, but if by error some person was missed, there is still a good supply of the large and small size posters.

ARMY WEEK

Army week is being started off right by the Salvation Army. Sunday evening various members of the armed forces are taking part in the service, and the troops and their friends are invited to remain afterward for refreshments to be served by the Salvation Army members.

RECORD SWEET CLOVER.

Sayward Switzer, a farmer residing in East Emily, reported to The Examiner that in a hay field he has sweet clover standing six feet eight inches high, while in the same field there is timothy standing four feet. Both are from last year's seeding and this is the first crop.

BROKE HER WRIST

Mrs. Elizabeth Fairey, wife of Alfred Fairey, caretaker of the Murray Street Baptist Church sustained a fracture of her right wrist and injury to her right side when she fell on the sidewalk on George street in front of the Swartz Furniture store Friday.

A GOOD TIME

Even the animals had a good time at the carnival last night. One fine-looking dog stepped out of the grounds Friday evening carrying a bun with a hotdog in it, in his mouth, and looking neither to the right nor to the left he trotted over to a secluded corner and disposed of said hotdog in a hurry.

SOLDIER TO SING.

Pte. Rudolph Abrahams of Jamaica, who is at present in training at the Peterborough Training Centre, is scheduled to sing in George Street United Church on Sunday morning and in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening. Pte. Abrahams is one of the most outstanding baritones to be heard in Peterborough in some years.

ARRESTED IN MONAGHAN

Arrested this morning by Constable Bruce Menzies on Frederick street, North Monaghan, after complaints had been received from a number of women in the neighborhood, Gwynne Courtney faced a general charge of vagrancy in police court and was also charged with using insulting language. He pleaded guilty to the first charge and eventually not guilty to the second and asked for bail. "There will be no bail," returned Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. "You have already pleaded guilty to one charge and you will be remanded until Monday morning when I'll hear some evidence and dispose of the case.

Otonabee School Makes $64 For War Victims

The entire proceeds for this day's report for the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund goes to the credit of the younger folk of the city and district. Of this by far the greater portion comes from the Coldspring's pupils of S.S. 16, Otonabee, where the teacher is Gordon Hunt. A week ago, under the direction of the music supervisor, Homer Ouelette, and their teacher, they presented a varied program of musical numbers consisting of choruses, duets and folk dances, much to the credit of their intructors and the enjoyment of the parents and friends in attendance. The event was also made the occasion for the draw to be made for two prizes, which the children had been selling tickets for some time previous. The first was an afghan which the children had made themselves, and this was won by Mrs. L. Thomas, R.R. No. 6, Peterborough, the total raised from this amounted to $41.45.

The second draw was for a beautiful Victory Quilt, made and donated by the Coldsprings members of the Red Cross Society, and the winner of this proved to be Mrs. M. Foy, R.R. No. 11, Peterborough, with the proceeds from this amounting to $23.00, to make a total of $64.45 which is credited in today's list in their name for the fund.

Assisting in the program were Mrs. Ada Kitney, Misses Jean McIlwaine and Velma Scott, and Messrs. Jack Collison, Jack Hamlin, Jack and Harold Belfry, with refreshments being served at the close by the ladies.

This makes one of the finer efforts to be turned in by children of of the district for the fund, and they and their mentors are to be congratulated on the results which attended their work.

For the second time in eight days a donation to the fund comes from the pupils of Queen Alexandra school, when the Junior Red Cross of Grade 5 per George Ingham and Jack Pollock sent in $1.65.

The boys and girls at School Section 8, Emily add a further $3.11 to the day's returns, and the little tots of Room 12 Grade 1 at Central do their bit by giving 48 cents to help the people of Britain. One nice personal donation of $5 is also listed from one of the junior residents of the city.

From Gordon Minty of the Y.M. C.A. has come an offer to form a swimming club to hold a daily meeting from 9.30 to 10.30 a.m. to teach children of both sexes from 8 to 12 years of age, the art of swimming at $1.50 each, forming a club for that purpose, with Mr. Minty giving his services in this cause, with 100 per cent of the fees coming to this fund to help the people of Britain. It is suggested that some one preferably a lady who is interested and would give the time, would act as secretary for registration purposes for this group, which aims at making the children self dependent in the water, and also helping the fund along. Anyone who would care to assist in this, please get in touch with the secretary of the fund, or Gordon Minty in person.

Wounded In Raid On Bremen

Pilot Officer Murray Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Thomas of Birdsdall, was wounded during the big raid on Bremen on Thursday night, according to word received by his parents. Murray was the youngest airman in Canada to receive his wings, obtaining them last fall when he was only 18. He is shown here being presented with his wings by Deputy Minister for Air H. Gordon.

Issues Of World Of Tomorrow Divided Into Two Great Problems

War is not an end in itself, but a means toward a greater society, and although winning the war is of the utmost importance, people should not allow themselves to lose sight of the objectives, or when the great end comes, once again as in the last war, the answer will not be known, Dr. Lorna Cotton Thomas told Kiwanians in a rousing address, Friday.

"We must face up to the grave responsibilities of the social and economic problems of today," Dr. Cotton said. "In this complex world of ours we no longer have the privilege of doing one thing at a time, but must carry on thinking of two things, the continuance of the war effort and the problems that must be faced after the war is over, and that is a difficult thing to do. Many people have a talent for doing one thing well. For example, somebody may be exceedingly efficient in organizing salvage and someone else may be a student, but neither could carry out the other's job. Both are needed and are essential, one no more so than the other. Although you hear people scoff at those who are thinking in terms of after the war, the war will have been in vain if we have not prepared to face the post-war world. Many are trying intelligently to build public opinion here in Canada, as it has been and is being done in the United States, England and New Zealand."

The speaker told Kiwanians that the issues of the world of tomorrow are divided into two great problems, ethical and moral, which are reciprocal and economic. In the economic sphere, in the past there has been a lack of work for a great many young men, whose great question was "where is the money coming from?" Now these same young men are fighting for their country and are being fed, clothed and paid $1.30 a day and there is no longer any question of where the money is coming from. But they all speak with equal determination that there will be no more riding the rods when this is over, and that is underneath the fundamental reason why they are fighting.

Great Moral Issue

"The great moral issue is that of human life. The greatest national resource in any country is human life. It is irreplaceable. In past we have wasted and ignored it. We have to build a society that utilizes manpower, and we must guarantee wages and work for the men who come back. Men fought for freedom in the last war, and when they came back they had to beg for soup. This time there are also the home front supporters who must be cared for and production has been tripled since the start of the war. Then there are the young people who are in school and who will be graduating when this change is made and there will be no jobs for them. What are we going to do about all of them? she asked.

"There are two sides to the problem, Dr. Cotton explained. "We need a higher spiritual and moral foundation than we have today, and had yesterday, and a different economic system, achieved not be revolution, but intelligent evolution. Adjustments must be made to meet changing conditions."

It was explained that the economic field was divided into two definite parts: the primary needs, those of food, clothing and shelter, and the bare things that sustain life; and the secondary needs, cultural, books, music, pictures and luxuries. She spoke heatedly of the world of tomorrow, saying that there must be no competition or profit made on the primary needs of life.

"I firmly believe that the principles evolved in the Atlantic Charter by President Roosevelt embody freedom from want, and I am glad to see that that is one of the objectives of this war. Liberty is only a word and meaningless when a man is faced with want. If democracy is to have meaning it's got to free the great mass of people from want. Luxuries are unimportant if people are all fed.

A Better World

"How can we build a better world that is based on the Sermon of the Mount? Welfare is bound together. No one succeeds while another is starving for success. We must do international things first. The League of Nations must be rebuilt on the same principles as before. Lesser men, ourselves included, betrayed its creator's idea. We must see that the government of the future has collective security for all.

"There should be an international police force," she declared, "to see that commands are carried out. When Manchuria was invaded, if Britain and the United States had stepped in there would be a different story now. But both countries had interests in Japan. We must handle markets, primitive peoples, and population problems very carefully. If we don't they will be handled violently in another twenty years."

Dr. Cotton believes that in regard to the national situation the present policy of planned economy is essential to modern life. Public control of finance is a great step, and if we have that we can put boys to work. Available credits have been used to finance the war, and they must be used in peace similarly.

She described the farmer as the forgotten man, sandwiched between the monopolistic interests which get them both coming and going. The solution is co-operative ownership, such as was established in Sweden after the last war. The farmer is the key man in producing the primary necessities of life.

"I have never approved of the absolute system such as they have in Russia, and I certainly don't think that government control is good for Canada. Never at any time have I advocated complete socialism. But public works at government instigation, such as more hospitalization and adequate homes could provide enough work if properly planned for a good many years to come. We must think for a great democracy, for we must know how to live as well as die for it."

Charles Saunders moved a hearty vote of thanks on behalf of the members of the Kiwanis Club.

ARMY WEEK PROGRAM

The Peterborough Rotary Club will have an Army Week program at its weekly luncheon Monday. Lieut. J. S. Johnson of the local Military Training Centre will be the speaker and 20 soldiers from the camp will be in attendance. Pte. R. V. Abraham will sing a number of songs.

Accident Mars Engineer's Last Train Run

PORT HOPE, June 27 (ENS) — What might have been a serious accident occurred at 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon, when a light engine shunting on the Peterborough line of the C.N.R. struck a car driven by Mr. J. A. Rittwage, of Williams street, Cobourg.

Mr. Rittwage, who was accompanied by his wife at the time of the accident, was coming up Robertson street, going west when the light engine struck the right hand side of the car and trailed the car and its occupants forty feet. Mrs. Rittwage was cut about the arms and legs by flying glass but after medical attention was able to go home, while Mr. Rittwage was unhurt.

The engineer, Mr. Betts, was on his last run before being superannuated.

Rotary Carnival Has Big Night

A spending crowd, equalling that of other top years crowded the grounds below the Hunter street bridge on Friday evening patronizing the annual Rotary Carnival, and members of the club are optimistic that receipts this year will set a new high.

The draw prize of a $300 Victory Bond went to I. G. Carter, 300 Frederick avenue, Peterborough, but he missed an extra $25 by not being on the grounds. Second prize of a $50 bond went to M. V. Downey, 493 Annette street, Toronto. This evening, the major prize of the carnival, $1,000 bond will be drawn for, and tickets are selling like hot cakes today, according to the Rotary members.

Every booth on the ground was given liberal patronage, and the children kept the rides going all evening. Many soldiers from the Military Training Centre, along with three members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps assisted in the bingo booth, the arrangements having been made by Captain Doug. Loomis, of the Training Centre staff.

English Evacuee Makes Quilted Pillow

PORT HOPE, June 27.—(ENS)—home of Mrs. Arthur Linn, 362 Williams street was the scene of a successful afternoon tea on Friday afternoon when the Patriotic Club held a display of their work.

A special feature of this tea was a beautifully quilted gold satin cushion which was worked and donated by Mrs. Lynn's sister, Miss Grace Walford, who has recently come from England and whose home has been bombed. There were 202 tickets sold on this cushion and the lucky winner was Miss C. Pennington. $19.10 was made on this cushion.

The display included an afghan, 12 pair socks which the members are sending their friends on active service, 9 skirts and sweaters for little girls with matching hair bows and hankies, six gingham dresses, and a nice display of baby clothes.

These articles will be divided between the I.O.D.E. and the Red Cross while the money is to be sent to the British War Victims fund.

The table was prettily decorated with blue bells, peonies and daisies, with red, white and blue candles and flags. The red, white and blue color scheme was even carried out in most patriotic serviettes.

The total proceeds of this tea were $31.95.

IN MEMORIAM

COURSEY.—In loving memory of Billie Coursey, who passed away June 27, 1937.

He was only a little rosebud,
A sweet little flower from birth.
God took him home to heaven
Before he was soiled on earth.

—Ever remembered by Daddy and brother Jackie.

COURSEY.—In loving memory of Billie Coursey, who passed away June 27, 1937.

Nothing can ever take away the love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.

—Fondly remembered—Aunt Rene and Uncle Pat Calladine, and Aunt Marg, New London, Conn.

COURSEY—In memory of Billie Coursey, who died June 27, 1937.

In our heart your memory lingers fond and true,
There is not a day we do not think of you.
We don't know the pain you bore,
We did not see you die,
We only know you left us and did did not say good-bye.

—Ever remembered—Aunt Beryl and Husband, Rochester, N.Y., Grandpa and Uncle Pat Coursey.

MATHEWS.—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Herbert Mathews, who passed away one year ago, June 29.

What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife
And clasp each other's hand once more
In heaven, that happy life.

—Ever remembered by Husband and Family.

DOROTHY DIX

FINANCIAL PROBLEM CAUSES MANY DOMESTIC BATTLES.

Men Should Teach Their Wives the Art of Handling Money.

Undoubtedly the financial problem causes more domestic fights and estranges more husbands and wives than any one thing in the world. No matter how long a man is married, he never gets inured to how much it costs to support a family. He always feels that if Maria was half the wife she should be she woud be able to conjure good meals out of the air and have children that would grow their own feathers. And he would be more than human if he didn't secretly resent seeing the money that he toils for so hard go to beauty parlors and specialty shops and for having little Mary's teeth straightened and Johnny's adenoids out, instead of for the fishing trips he would enjoy so much.

Friend wife, on her part, thinks her husband a grouch and a tightwad when he grumbles over the bills and begrudges her a new coat when, goodness knows, she wore her old one all last winter. Does he expect clothes to last for ever, or for her to go around as though she were in a nudist camp? And is she responsible for pork chops having gone up as though they had sprouted wings? Heavens. If girls only knew how husbands act about money they would stick to their jobs instead of getting married.

More particularly is the allowance question a sore one with millions of wives. They bitterly resent the fact that their husbands support them, as the technical phrase goes, they never allot them a single dollar of the family income as their right, for their own individual benefit. It gets on the nerves of th woman who pinch-hits for half a dozen servants and secretaries and hostesses to have to work for her board and clothes.

The wife never has any money of her own to spend as she pleases. She has to go like a beggar to her husband for even the price of a soft drink. All of which is a source of constant humiliation and riles her by its injustice and explains why so many wives bear with Christian fortitude the deaths of their "good" husbands. They dry their tears on their husbands' insurance policies.

Many Distrust Wives.

Now naturally there are two sides to the domestic financial question, and especially to the allowance question, and a very intelligent man explains why many husbands find it impossible to let their wives tote the family pocketbook. He says it is because most wives regard the household allowance as just extra spending money and they blow it in on foolishness instead of paying the bills with it.

Anyway, that was this man's experience. He says that his wife went on a perfect orgy in beauty shops, and that she was like a blessing direct from heaven to the high-priced milliners and dressmakers, and that there was simply nothing she didn't lavish on the children while she had the money in her purse. Then, when the first of the month rolled around, Husband had to pay all the living-expense bills as per usual.

"I'd like to give my wife a lump sum the first of every month and turn the burden of running the family finances over to her," said this man "but I can't do it. She would break Henry Ford inside of a year. She has a buying mania. Money burns in her hand until it is spent, so I have to dole out the dollars to her to keep out of the poor house. A lot of my friends have the same sort of wives."

Certainly it is a weakness in any man to permit his wife to enslave him by her extravagance, and it is cowardice for him to let her ruin him by throwing away the money that he makes, but, to a certain extent, men who can't trust their wives to handle a few dollars are responsible for their own misfortune.

Few Try to Teach Thrift.

For they have never taken the trouble to try to teach them how to use money wisely and well. How many bridegrooms ever sit down and help their wives budget their incomes, and impress it on Sweetum's mind that if she spends the market money on kiss-proof lipstick and an adorable bunch of chiffon flowers, they will not eat that week? And how many husbands ever make their wives feel that their prosperity depends just as much upon how the wife disburses the money as it does upon the husband's ability to make it? Not one in a thousand.

After all, not many women have not sufficient intelligence to put two and two together. Nor are they fools about money. Witness the number of competent business women who are holding down good jobs. Take note of the fact that the average woman can get 20 per cent more out of a dollar when it comes to buying things than the average man can and you will see that wives can be turned into financial assets instead of liabilities if only their husbands deal fairly with them on the money proposition and teach them the art of judicious spending.

Special Investigation

several cars go by unaccosted Finally she spotted a big truck coming down the road. She stood up and moved to the side of the pavement, lifting her thumb as she had seen hitch-hikers do. She could not keep the amused little grin from her face. The truck slowed, stopped. A burly fellow leaned over and opened the cab door.

"Hop in sister," he invited, grinning.

Ladies Are Busy Addressing Cards

Adressing of the sugar rationing cards progressed rapidly on Friday, but on Friday evening a number of cards had not come in. Nearly all the women who had registered to help turned up at the Collegiate at the appointed time and many brought friends with them to help with the work. There were 113 there Friday morning, 209 in the afternoon, and well over 300 in the evening. Owing to the fact that a number of out-of-town cards were not delivered work broke off early Saturday evening.

The Saturday evening, Monday morning and Monday evening sessions have been cancelled, because cards which should have been sent to Peterborough have gone instead to Belleville and are being done there. Writers are still wanted for Saturday afternoon and Monday afternoon. Ladies who have registered to work on Tuesday should watch Monday's paper for further instructions.

In spite of the fact that a number of application cards were incorrectly filled out, and will have to be checked, the work is progressing quickly and will probably be finished well within the appointed time.

With Peterborough Red Cross Branch

AN URGENT CALL FOR HELP.

During the past few months this column has been used to bring to you, its readers, the story of Red Cross work as it is carried on in Peterborough. To-day we come asking your assistance. This war has reached a critical point and we in Canada who are so fortunate in every way, escaping violence, terror and want, are now called upon to send of our abundance to those unhappy ones actively engaged in war.

There is great need of supplies to be sent to Russia, our Ally, things med, hospital surgeons' gowns sewn, med, hospital surgeons' gowns sewn. Those who listened to Dorothy Thompson's speech in Toronto must feel the urgency of "keeping the Russians fighting" if for no other reason than to keep our country free from threat of invasion.

Our local branch constantly receives requests or goods to be made up quickly as they are urgently needed in various countries. A shipment of supplies for Newfoundland has just been packed and sent away. Clothing for the needy civilian population of Great Britain makes up a large part of the work done here.

So we appeal to the women of Peterborough, knowing they will respond as they always have. Give of your time and your ability.

Every afternoon, Monday to Friday, from 2 to 5 oclock, and Tuesday and Thursday evenings the work rooms at the Library are open. There is work waiting to be done. Will you not come and help?

Lively, New Games Mean End of Stuffy Evenings

Clever Card Game Makes Hit

Yours is a popular house when you know lively games, can keep the fun going for a twosome—or foursome—or more! No stuffy evenings then—wondering what to do.

Friends drop in? Out comes the card deck and you plunge merrily into the exciting game "Remember."

Each player is given one card and the remainder are spread face down on a table. The object of the game is to get as many pairs as you can, drawing one card at a time.

But here's the trick you need to win! When a player draws a card which won't make a pair he must return it to the table—first showing everybody what it is. And you must REMEMBER where he put the card so you can grab it when you need it to make a pair. A trick that keeps everybody hopping!

Fun, too, for "at home" evenings are stunts like "Rising Wrists." Perform a little voodoo on a guest and against his will his wrists start rising, like slowly flapping wings!

Know the stunts and games that make you a popular hostess. Our brand-new 32-page booklet is chockful of good card games, puzzlers, nonsense, games of action and skill, games on paper, for two or more people.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of GAMES and STUNTS FOR TWO OR MORE to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plain your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

STRIP THE HAND FIRST

YOU ARE never going to make a keen opponent lead your tenace suit to you if you make the situation transparent to him and leave him something else to lead which will not harm his side. Your only way to compel him to co-operate is to strip the hand down so that there is nothing he can do except something you desire. That means one of two things. Either you strip his hand so he has nothing else left, or else you strip your own hand and dummy so that, if he does not lead your tenace suit, he will have to lead one which gives you a ruff in one hand and a discard opposite it.

Not wishing to put any of his partner's side suit cards under the hammer, South led a trump. East took [illegible] round of them, too, and then set about the building of a lead-throwing end-play. It turned out that the humble-looking club J in dummy was a vitally important card, as it enabled him to compel North to win a crucial trick which otherwise could have been taken by South.

Following perfect technique, East led a diamond to the third trick and let North win it. The latter returned his diamond K, which went to the A, and a third diamond then was ruffed by East. Next the club A was laid down and then the 7 led to the J. If South had been able to win this, he could have returned a spade through dummy, and the contract would have been beaten. But North had to take it with his K or Q, and was in the lead.

If North now returned a minor suit card, East could discard a spade on it, while ruffing in the dummy. The only alternative was a spade, but that would also limit North to one trick in the suit, setting up the K. Thus the contract was assured. If East, however, had fed that club J to North before ruffing out the third diamond, North could have saved himself by coming back with a diamond.

Russia Jars Japs Lays Sinking To Their U-Boat

MOSCOW, June 27—(AP).—Soviet Russia pinned responsibility today for the sinking of the Soviet merchantman Angarstroi on a Japanese submarine, puncturing Tokyo's claim the act was a provocation by the United States.

Since the 4,761-ton merchantman was torpedoed May 1 only 32 miles off the Japanese coast, Japan has blamed a United States submarine, contending the United States evidently hoped to fan the ancient enmity between Russia and Japan.

"This version does not coincide with the facts," declared the Soviet radio.

It said survivors, who had reached Harbin on the way home, reported that two Japanese submarines came to the surface immediately after the vessel went down and stayed with its crewmen until another Soviet ship landed them at Dairen, in Japanese-leased territory in Manchuria.

"It appears that the Angarstroi was sunk by a Japanese submarine" the Russian announcer said after relating the circumstances, including the fact the ship previously had been halted by Japanese warships and escorted to a Japanese port for inspection.

On Her Way Home

The Angarstroi was homeward-bound when she was torpedoed, following a course prescribed by the Japanese.

Until now Moscow had been silent, like the United States, on Japan's assertions which began soon after the sinking with the charge that it was an American effort "to create friction between the Soviet Union and Japan." The most recent repetition was last Monday, when Domei broadcast the comment of Japanese Foreign Office authorities that:

"The torpedoing....by a United States submarine...was obviously timed for provoking trouble..."

"They described the incident as a desperate attempt to estrange the Soviet Union and Japan," Domei said.

On the other hand, Japan may have been making a desperate attempt to hide the truth from her powerful neighbor. Although they are at peace between themselves, they are fighting on opposite sides of the global war.

Three Jap Isle Bases Shot Up

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, June 27 — (AP). — Three Allied air attacks upon island invasion bases, in which fires set at Rabaul were reported visible 60 miles at sea, and a new Japanese thrust at Port Moresby broke a five-day lull in South-western Pacific fighting yesterday.

Rabaul, chief port of New Britain, and Dili Timor, were singled out for night raids which left barracks and other buildings shattered and blazing.

Japanese troop quarters and supply points at Salamaua, New Guinea, weer reported successfully attacked with bombs and machine-guns by daylight and in all of this activity Gen. Douglas MacArthur's airmen lost not a plane.

A large force of Zero fighters was engaged by interceptors over Port Moresby, the advanced Allied base on New Guinea, the communique reported.

"Our fighters apparently seriously damaged five Japanese fighters," it said. "Four of our planes were hit by machine-gun fire. None was seriously damaged. All returned safely."

Since last Saturday, both sides had limited their aerial activity to scouting flights.

A PEER and a Member of Parliament, speaking in different cities, reached the same conclusion.

That if Germany's North African commander Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had started out as a private in the British Army as he did in the German he now might possibly have worked up to the rank of sergeant.

Lord Strabolgi, Labor peer, made the assertion in Oxford; Alfred Edwards, Labor M.P., said it in Leeds.

Paraphrasing the Duke of Wellington, Mr. Edwards added that the battle of Libya "was lost on the playing fields of Eton."

HAVELOCK

School Board Names Official

HAVELOCK, June 27 — (ENS).—The June meeting of the Board of Education was held in the school room on Tuesday evening, with Chairman Smith presiding and Trustees Roche, Miller, Plunkett, Green, Sarginson, Anderson and Young present. R. W. Goheen advised that he had been successful in securing Miss Marjorie Doubt, Hanover, as the assistant teacher, at a salary of $1,300. The finance committee decided to give Miss O'Neil a raise of $100 for next term.

The report of the Public School stated that about half of the Entrance Class had been recommended, and that the best pupil in his class was going to compete for the county prize.

The following accounts were ordered paid on motion of Trustees Plunkett and Green: — Hubble Hardware, $15.43; teachers' and caretaker's salary, $945.22; H. Matheson, war saving certificates, $28; National defence tax, $35.

On motion of Trustees Miller and Anderson, the auditors' report was adopted after the auditor had advised a slight reduction in national defence tax on four salaries and an increase in tax on the salaries that had been raised.

John Leash reported he had ordered a carload of coal, which is to be delivered at Christmas. The property will meet and decide on any repairing and painting on the outside or inside of school and report same and the cost thereof, at the next regular meeting.

On motion of Trustees Young and Plunkett, Mrs. Dorothy McMillan was appointed secretary-treasurer at a salary of $75, duties to commence July 1. A very hearty vote of thanks and appreciation for past duties performed was extended to the retiring secretary, Edward Fennell, with a bonus of $25, on motion of Trustees Miller and Plunkett. The secretary was advised to secure a bond for Mrs. McMillan, on motion of Trustees Miller and Green.

Inspector Copp advised the board they would receive a special agriculture grant on garden seeds and equipment. Mr. Brown is to be hired to care for the school garden for July and August as complaints have been received about all garden vegetables having been stolen other years. On motion of Trustees Green and Young, a new Union Jack, large size, is to be purchased for the school and hoisted on all special occasions. The matter pertaining to the caretaker was laid over till next regular meeting, on July 20.

Survivor's Problem

Pulled from the sea by a U.S. naval craft after a collier was sunk by a floating mine, this survivor wipes the heavy oil from his face with a towel supplied by one of his rescuers. At the extreme LEFT, looking on is Capt. Eric Nyborg, skipper of the ill-fated vessel, who received leg injuries. The collier was in convoy off east coast of the United States when it went down. Forty-four men were rescued and three are reported missing.

Nazi Prisoner Back In Camp

KINGSTON, Ont., June 27 — (CP). — Heinz Domnick, 18-year-old German prisoner of war, who escaped from Fort Henry prisoner of war camp on Wednesday afternoon, has been recaptured and returned to the camp, the Camp Commandant announced Friday.

The young Nazi had evidently stolen some clothes after he escaped and was wearing them when captured by Constable Robert Nesbitt of the Kingston City Police.

Constable Nesbitt, who was on night duty, picked up the young Nazi, who was walking along the walk close to Queen's University heating plant.

Domnick did not put up any resistance when he was taken in charge by Constable Nesbitt.

When arrested he was wearing a pair of blue overalls, a coat and a cap. The wanted man was turned over to the military authorities.

A second visit to the Queen's heating plant resulted in the police recovering a raincoat and some other articles which had evidently been stolen by the young Nazi after he made his getaway.

Lt.-Col. Douglas Graham officer in command of the camp guard, said he had no statement to make, other than to say Domnick was back at the camp.

Power And Leduc

The Government's intention is to open debate on the budget next Tuesday, whether the conscription debate is ended or not. Conservative House Leader Hanson will be the opening speaker in the budget debate.

Basing their judgment on reports from the Whips on the number of speakers anxious to take part in both debates, some observers prophesied that both the budget and conscription would be out of the way in another week.

Major Power and Dr Leduc were the only Quebec members to speak in the conscription debate yesterday.

Must Accept Obligation.

W. H. Moore (Lib. Ontario) said he agreed with the Bill but not with some of its advocates who asserted conscription was unlikely to come. He devoted much of his speech to French-Canadians declaring that they could not expect to enjoy freedom and rights as a separate culture within a state unless they were prepared to accept the obligations placed upon the citizens of that state.

He quoted Justice Minister St. Laurent's conscription speech in which Mr. St. Laurent said that 'though some would volunteer to fight for the United Kingdom, people here would not feel that it was a national duty for Canadians, as such to do so."

'Perilous doctrine to come from a minister of the Crown," he exclaimed. "It is a strange doctrine in view of what has happened over Europe.

"I thought I knew Quebec, but now I have to call it a province of complexities."

He criticized claims of former Transport Minister Cardin that it was not natural to the blood of the French-Canadian to desire to fight for Britain. French-Canadians were predominantly of the Norman race "and his blood is the same as mine."

Capt. George Black (Con., Yukon) a former Speaker of the House of Commons and a veteran of the First Great War, supported the bill but said he feared conscription could be introduced now only at the cost of disunity and trouble. It should have been simultaneous with the declaration of war, he contended.

Dr. M. E. McGarry (Lib., Inverness-Richmond) supported the bill, said he did not favor conscription, but added that his electors would accept unlimited conscription if it became necessary.

Dr. H. R. Fleming (Lib., Humboldt) did not say how he would vote, but he spoke against conscription and criticized speeches of those ministers who, he said, seemed to believe conscription was a proper result of the plebiscite.

The House also heard from the Prime Minister, who returned to Ottawa yesterday after meetings in Washington, with Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt. Mr. King said that while the United Nations were stronger and better organized than they had been at any time since the war started, there could be no doubt that the situation now was one of the most critical free peoples had faced.

Flying Across

nouncement of his meeting with Congressional leaders and the Pacific War Council in Washington Thursday was surprising.

Replying Thursday to a question in Commons as to whether the Prime Minister would return in time to deal with the "no confidence" motion introduced by Sir John Wardlaw-Milne and 18 other members, Sir Stafford Cripps, House leader, said merely he hoped that would be possible.

The debate is scheduled for the second and third days of the next series of sittings. Criticism which followed the Libyan setback has overshadowed speculation on a European second front offensive which was aroused when Mr. Churchill's trip to the United States was announced here June 19.

W. Averill Harriman United States lend-lease adminstrator in London, accompanied the Prime Minister on the homeward trip. Other members of the party were not mentioned in the brief government announcement of the Prime Minister's arrival.

Mr. Churchill, it was learned, travelled in a flying boat of the British Overseas Airways both to and from the United States on his most recent trip. The commander of the ship was Capt. J. C. Kelly Rogers, who commanded the plane which brought the Prime Minister home on his previous visit.

Tokyo Bombing Bitter Shock

ANKARA, June 27 — (AP). — An eye-witness to the United States air attack on Tokyo last April 18, who was in a Tokyo street when the raid occurred, said to-day the Japanese were thrown into panic and depressed by the feeble defence.

The story was told by a national of a neutral country who has just arrived here. His name was not disclosed.

"The daylight raid," he said, "was a complete surprise and shook the people's confidence as the government had boasted that American planes would never be seen over the capital.

"Tokyo's close-packed, highly-inflammable buildings were spared as the planes went on to bomb targets between the capital and Yokohama and other important industrial centres."

He said foreigners were not permitted outside of Tokyo to inspect the damage which, he said, apparently was heavy.

Hospital Addition Is Ready At Centre

Additional hospital accommodation at the Peterborough Military Hospital located at the Military Training Centre here has recently been completed, and preparations are under way for the official opening in the near future.

Since the opening of the Centre nearly two years ago the hospital could accommodate 22 patients. Some weeks ago two additional wings were erected and accommodation has now been provided for 50 patients.

The hospital is under the supervision of Captain Hitesman, of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, and is kept spotlessly clean at all times.

The health of the troops in the past 20 months has been excellent and few serious cases of illness have been reported. Proof of this is found in that of the more than 9,000 men who have passed through the Centre since it opened there has been one death which followed a surgical operation.

Old Havelock School Honors Miss Brisbin

HAVELOCK, June 27 — (ENS). —The pupils of Old Havelock school presented their teacher, Miss Eileen Brisbin, on Thursday with a suitable address and a lovely linen table cloth, and a pair of candle holders with flag decorations.

Miss Brisbin has taught in this school for the past two years and is a bride-elect of July. The parents and pupils left later by truck for a picnic at McCutcheon's beach, where races, games, swimming and refreshments were much enjoyed by all.

23 Write Exams.

The Entrance examinations started to-day with 23 pupils writing their departmental exams. However, only 9 are Havelock students, all the others coming in from the surrounding schools in Belmont Principal R. W. Goheen and assisants, D. C. Drinkwater and Miss O'Neil are presiding.

Personals.

Squint At Beer Gets Five Fliers Rescued

By ALLAN NICKELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 27—(CP) — The landlord on a small town inn on the east coast held a pint of beer to the light to see if it was clear. As he raised his eyes he noticed a speck on the sea, told a lifeboat crew, and five exhausted Polish airmen were rescued.

That's one story behind Air Ministry announcements such as "six of our aircraft are missing, but the crews of three are safe." They usually mean those airmen came down in the sea and were rescued.

In most cases airmen shot down over water owe their lives to the Air-Sea Rescue Service whose planes patrol from the crack of dawn to the last glimmer of light at night, and to the rescue launches directed to the scene by the aircraft. The story is told in "Air-Sea Rescue," a booklet just published by the Air Ministry.

Pigeons, too, play a mighty part. For example:

For two days the crew of a Beaufort drifted about on their rubber dinghy after being brought down. They had just about given up hope of being rescued.

A broken radio prevented them sending an SOS before crashing and the pigeon they carried aboard the plane flew away before a message could be attached to her leg. Then—

A civilian pigeon-fancier reported to Coastal Command the return of one of his birds, wet and oil-drenched. The bird's code number showed it to be attached to the missing Beaufort. The pigeon's flying speed gave experts an idea of where she flew from and—the airmen were picked up by a Royal Navy launch.

Now, when an airman "hits the drink" it is estimated he has 100 to 1 chance against a drowning because of all the scientific contrivances at his disposal. Those necessities consist of lifebelt, dinghy, emergency ration pack, fresh water, first-aid equipment, a yellow flag complete with pole, and a chemical substance used to color the sea about the dinghy a yellowish-green which shows up from the air.

Orders From a Nazi

AN EAST COAST UNITED STATES PORT, June 27—(AP). — The captain of a German submarine which torpedoed a medium-sized Norwegian vessel off the southeast United States coast June 10 warned the crew of the sinking ship:

"The next time you better stay at home. It will be better for you and better for us."

This admonition was disclosed by the 32-year-old skipper of the Norwegian craft, Capt. Arne Olsen, as the navy officially announced today the sinking—the 310th in the Western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor.

$50 A Month

Ottawa, June 27 (CP)

A SUGGESTION that the minimum rate of pay for Canadian soldiers be increased to $50 a month was made in the House of Commons today by Arthur Slaght (Lib. Parry Sound), and was applauded by members in all parties.

He commented on the recent United States Senate action fixing a $50 monthly minimum for American soldiers and added: "We ought to put the same legislation on our statute books at once."

"I believe we can afford it and that we ought to afford it."

If this could not be done, the difference between the present minimum rate of pay and $50 should accumulate and be paid the soldier at the end of the war.

Lakefield Club Makes 2 Quilts

LAKEFIELD, June 27—(ENS).—Nine members of the Beaver Club, with the aid of one visitor, made two quilts Wednesday in a drive at the home of Mrs. H. D. Coones.

The group, meeting at 10 in the morning, got in two hours' work before a pot luck lunch featured by a special strawberry and cream treat served by Mrs. Coones. Each lady brought her own sugar.

During the business session in the afternoon members answered the roll call, with suggestions for another bazaar, during which proposals were put forward for an earlier start in requests for donations. It was noted that many who were asked for articles last time gave all they promised and more, and it was proposed the members further this idea by sacrificing more themselves.

The next session will be at Beaver Lodge Farm on Wednesday, July 8.

Orange Church Parade

Sunday evening, members of the two Lakefield Orange lodges held their annual church parade, ladies of Northern Lights, No. 831, and L.O.L. No. 122 being led in the march from the lodge quarters to the cenotaph by the Salvation Army Boys' Band of Peterborough.

Here a two minutes silence was observed, and Worthy Mistress Sister Ethel Gill and W.M. Bro. Albert Bullock placed a wreath in honor of the fallen.

Service at the Regent Street United Church was featured by an address by the Rev. George Kelly on the subject of "Obligations."

Mrs. Dora McMillan sang a beautiful solo during several fine presentations by a large choir. Among visitors were brethren from Peterborough, Wesley and Millbrook lodges.

The Rev. Reg. Howden and Mrs. Howden returned to Barrie, Tuesday, after spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Higgins.

Cattle Robber Gets 6 Mos. In Tweed Court

TWEED, June 27 (ENS)—Magistrate J. L. Lloyd of Northbrook, sentenced Frank Smith, alias Sovay at Flinton, to serve not less than six months in the Ontario Reformatory, for the theft of cattle belonging to J. Allore of the Township of Hungerford.

The cattle were pastured in Kaladar township and Smith was accused of killing at least one of the animals and selling the beef to a lumber camp.

K. S. Ham acted for the Crown and J. M. Simpson, K.C., appeared for Smith.

Roland Kellar of Elm Tree suffered a fractured leg when a horse fell on him near his home on Thursday night. It is understood that Kellar became caught in the lines and in some manner he was thrown beneath the animal when it fell. The accident occurred after dark and since Kellar was all alone, he had to drag himself as best he could some distance to the barn. He managed to attract the attention of members of his family, following which a local physician was summoned. The latter, after attending him, ordered Kellar's removal to Belleville Hospital.

Mr. F. L. Trudeau, who resides on Minnie avenue, found a baby-carriage wheel firmly imbedded in the stump of a maple tree. Mr. Trudeau was cutting down the tree in front of his residence when he found the wheel with eight inches of wood surrounding it. The tree itself was twenty-eight inches in diameter.

ARMY WEEK

IN ALL CANADA

ARMY WEEK PROGRAM

MONDAY, JUNE 29—SOLDIERS' DAY

Gifts and parcels will be sent to soldiers on active service. Special entertainments will be given for troops; cheery letters will be sent to the men in the armed forces, and service clubs will be hosts to troops.

TUESDAY, JUNE 30—CIVILIAN DAY

Civilians will become better acquainted with the soldiers; tribute will be paid to the next of kin of men in the army; housewives, hotels and restaurants will prepare meals from army diet sheets.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 1—UNITED SERVICES DAY

Parades of all armed forces supported by Canadian Legion, Cadets and Auxiliary Forces; Military demonstrations at home and visits to the United States.

THURSDAY, JULY 2—DISTRICT DAY

Programs arranged to stress the work of the army in Military District No. 3 and particularly the part Peterborough and Peterborough County plays in the district.

FRIDAY, JULY 3—RESERVE ARMY DAY

Because of the important part the Reserve Army plays in the army, members of these units will wear their military uniforms throughout the day. The units will be "at home" to their civilian friends.

HONOUR OUR FIGHTING MEN

SATURDAY, JULY 4—UNITED NATIONS' DAY.

Set aside for the purpose of paying tribute to our Allies, detachments of United States forces will visit Canada and be entertained. Allied nationals will parade and competitive sports programs arranged. Dances at which the visitors will be guests will be held.

SUNDAY, JULY 5—DAY OF PRAYER

All churches will dedicate their services to prayer for the men in the armed forces and for the successful conclusion. Camps, barracks and training centres will be open to the public and church parades will be held.

The pick of our manhood is now training here or is on active service on far distant fronts. We must, every one of us, back them to the limit of our resources—because they with the weapons which we make for them stand with stout hearts and unflinching spirits between us and our enemies. For this bravery and fine sense of duty all Peterborough honours and pays tribute to our fighting boys at home and overseas. Not just for Army Week—but always.

Honour Our Fighting Men In All The Services

TRAINING CENTRE TO PLAY PROMINENT PART IN ARMY WEEK CARD

Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps Band To Assist In Program During First Four Days Of Week

Troops in training at the Military Training Centre here will be utilized every day next week at various points in the city to focus attention on the army in connection with "Army Week."

An interesting program has been drawn up by the civilian committee in making their plans had the cooperation of Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D., officer commanding the Training Centre as well as that of Lt.-Col. M. H. Park, officer commanding the Prince of Wales Rangers (2nd Bn. R.F.) and Lt.-Col. D. Lawrie, officer commanding the 4th Battery C.F.A. (R.F.).

The program for the week as outlined by the military and civil committees is given below.

SUNDAY, JUNE 28:

Drumhead service at Riverside Park commencing at 9:45. The entire garrison including the personnel of the Training Centre, the Prince of Wales Rangers and 4th Battery will take part in the service. All three military units will parade to the park as a garrison under the command of Lt.-Col. Keeler. The troops from the Training Centre will be accompanied by the band of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps (A.F.) from Kingston. Accompanying the garrison to the service will be members of the Canadian Legion. Captain Rev. Dr. George S. Easton, of Peterborough, will be the speaker at the service and will be assisted by Captain Rev. A. Laverty, who this week was appointed Protestant chaplain at the Centre. The service will be completed at 10:30 thus allowing the citizens to attend the morning service in the various churches in the city.

MONDAY, JUNE 29:

"Freedom Day." The Peterborough Rotary Club will entertain 20 soldiers from the training centre at their luncheon at the Empress Hotel at 12:15. Commencing at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon soldiers of No. 1 company will carry out their regular training at three different points in the city. Two platoons will train on Market Square, two platoons will train on Simcoe street east from George street to Water street which will be roped off for the occasion and still another platoon will carry out training on the west side of George street opposite the plant of Canada Packers.

TUESDAY, JUNE 30:

"Civilian Day." Members of No. 2 company will carry out training during the afternoon in the same areas as mentioned for No. 1 company on Monday. The training of the recruit is different each day and spectators will see a different demonstration from that presented on Monday.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 1:

"Dominion Day." The personnel of the Training Centre accompanied by the band of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps will leave the Centre at 9.30 a.m. and proceed via Aylmer street to the armouries where a garrison parade will be formed consisting of the Canadian Legion, members of the 33rd Reserve Company, Veterans Home Guard of Canada, the personnel of the Training Centre, war equipment manufactured at the C.G.E. including anti-aircraft guns and searchlights, the Prince of Wales Rangers (2nd Bn. R.F.) and the 4th Field Battery, C.F.A. (R.F.). Accompanying the parade will be three bands, the Ordnance Corps band, the Prince of Wales Rangers band and the band of the Salvation Army This will be no doubt one of the largest military parades ever seen in Peterborough with more than 1,600 men taking part. The parade will be under the command of Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D., and will move off from the junction of George and McDonnel streets sharp at 10.30 a.m. The parade will proceed south on George street with the Reserve Force units and members of the Veterans' Home Guard and Canadian Legion leaving the parade at the junction of George and King streets and proceeding to the armouries by Aylmer street. The troops from the Training Centre will proceed to the Centre.

THURSDAY, JULY 2

"Reserve Army Day" Troops from the Training Centre will again train at the three various points mentioned in the program for Monday and Tuesday. Members of No. 3 company will carry out the training for the day.

FRIDAY, JULY 3

"Sports Day." The afternoon will be devoted to military sports at the Training Centre commencing at one o'clock sharp, and the public are invited to be the guests of the officer commanding the Centre for the afternoon. Championship softball and volleyball games between the three companies and headquarters will be played at the Centre to determine the champions of the camp. In addition the champion horseshoe pitcher will be decided and in addition there will be an interesting program of track and field events including 100-yard, 220 and 440-yard dash, broad jump, standing broad jump and running high jump. At three o'clock the visitors will be entertained to tea in one of the men's mess halls when sandwiches and tea will be served until four o'clock. At 4:30 there will be a demonstration of army fire-fighting equipment. A building has been erected and will be soaked with highly inflammable material then set alight and the demonstration will show the public how quickly the fire can be brought under control with the fire-fighting equipment stationed in each army camp. The Peterborough Kiwanis Club will entertain 20 soldiers from the Centre at their noon luncheon at the Empress Hotel and will hear an army speaker.

SATURDAY, JULY 4

During the morning the three training companies of the Centre will be on a 10-mile route march and will parade through George street at various times during the forenoon, thus winding up the local celebration of "Army Week." No. 1 company will be seen on George street at 10 o'clock, No. 2 company will parade through George street at 10:30, and No. 3 company will parade through the main thoroughfare at 11 o'clock.

SOLDIERS ON RADIO

In addition to the above program, soldiers from he Training Centre will be heard over CHEX, the Peterborough radio station for half an hour each night during the week, excepting Thursday which has been given over to the two Reserve Force units. The programs will feature old-time music, modern music, vocal numbers, and instrumental specialties. A number of officers and non-commissioned officers will be interviewed on each program in connection with their specialized training.

Doing Big Job

Lt.-Col Eric O. Keeler, M.C., E.D., is officer commanding, Military Training Centre No. 32, Exhibition Park, Peterborough. Rated as one of the most efficient officers in Canada, the record and layout of his camp has time and again brought praise from top ranking Canadian officers. Col. Keeler and men of the Centre are playing a prominent part in Army Week activities in Peterborough.

They Were Trainees Months Ago, Many Are Overseas Now

Months ago these husky young fellows reported for compulsory military training at the Exhibition Grounds, but since that time many of them have offered themselves for active service in the various branches of the armed forces and are now serving in various parts of the world. Captain Dick Stewart of Otonabee is shown in the foreground. He is now stationed at Brandon, Man., taking a special course.

Dependents' Allowance Board Tries To Relieve Anxieties

The financial anxieties of members of Canada's fighting forces are relieved by the operations of the Dependents' Allowance Board. The board consists of seven persons. All with the interests of the dependents and the service man at heart. Two are officers secured from the army; one is a French Canadian. Two officers of the Royal Canadian Air Force; one naval officer, a member of the Treasury branch, and a chairman designated by the Minister of National Defence.

The allowances of all three arms of the service are administered by the Board with the exception of marriage allowances for wives and children of members of the navy. They are taken care of by the Superintendent of Naval Pay Accounting.

When an application for allowance is made it goes to the Readers' or Reviewers' section. The documents of the applicant and the report of the investigator is examined. Those for wives and children are checked to make sure that the necessary papers are in order. Marriage and birth certificates are examined. These cases are not investigated unless there is some irregularity, for instance, a child born bfore the date of marriage. If all is as it should be, the dependents are paid at the end of the month. When complications arise, the man's assigned pay is released, but the allowance withheld until the situation has clarified.

Submitted For Decision

A summary of the file is made, and it is passed on to a senior reviewer and then submitted to two Board members for a final decision. There is nothing routine about it, and each case is given individual attention by several people. Each case is weighed on its particular merits and the best possible solution is arrived at.

From the investigation section, 560 requests for investigation are sent out each week. An average of 900 reports are received. First investigations are arranged for by the local Dependents' Allowance Board Representative and the unit Paymaster, but second investigation are requested by the Board. Second investigation are instigated when unsatisfactory conditions are brought to the attention of the Board, or when a change of the circumstances of the home is made. Another type of investigation, on the other hand, may be a routine checkup on the welfare of a motherless child.

The Board has between 350,000 and 375,000 files of soldiers who have dependents, or have made claim for dependents.

The chairman of the board is Mr. R. O. G. Bennett, veteran of the Great War with four years' service with the Canadian Corps behind him. Under his direction the board functions to the mutual benefit of soldier and dependent.

Guardianship Cases

One of the most intimate and interesting phases of the work being done by the board comes under the jurisdiction of the Family Welfare Section. It is this section that looks after guardianship cases.

For one of many reasons, it may be advisable or desirable to have the funds paid to a dependent of a soldier administered by authorities. Perhaps the wife of a soldier has been in the habit of leaving financial arrangements to her husband, and is unable to manage her money without him. It is cases like this that the Family Welfare section takes over.

Whatever the reason for the need of the attention, the Board appoints some agency such as the Children's Aid. Sometimes a person is appointed. In any event, the funds are handled only until the recipient has been educated, so to speak, and then they are directed to her as usual.

Some idea of the importance of the work of the Board may be had when it is realized that since the beginning of the war the amount paid to dependents of soldiers in dependents' allowance and assigned pay, up to March 31 was $252,203,227.95.

Citizens Urged To Fly Flags

With larger business concers and industries throughout Peterborough planning to lead the way decorating for Army Week, this city will be a blaze of color to honor the Canadian soldier.

Not only are business concerns asked to participate in this city-wide manifestation of pride in the Canadian soldier, but private citizens are urged to decorate their homes too. This is particularly true of homes that have members on active service with the armed forces.

The official service emblem indicated by a maple leaf—in khaki for the army, air force blue for the R.C.A.F., and navy blue for the naval services—each relative on active service, will soon be available for purchase in all stores. Show the world you're proud of your boys in the army, navy and air force... show the flag, even if you simply hang it out the window.

Citizens To See Soldiers Training

Citizens of Peterborough who visit the various places mentioned in the "Army Week" program for training uptown next week will see a program of varied training.

No special features will be put on by any of the three companies as instructions have been issued from National Defence Headquarters that it will be "business as usual" for the army. Thus the civilian population will see regular training as would be carried out at the Training Centre.

The training for the three companies next week in the downtown areas will include physical training, Bren gun instruction, gas respirator drill and first aid.

The soldiers themselves are looking forward to carrying out the training in the uptown areas and feel that should the spectators include men who are fit to serve in either the active or the reserve army they will be doing their share in adding recruits to serve the Dominion in this, her great hour of greatest need.

Tradition Of Years In Trooping The Colors

Trooping the Colors, a ritual performed in Canada by His Grenadier Guards, Montreal, and the Governor-General's Foot Guards, Ottawa, has several explanations for its origin. One is that it was developed by the first Duke of Cumberland, a son of George III, to test the sobriety of his officers.

Tradition has it that the Duke, who was Colonel of a Guard's Regiment, was disturbed when he attended early morning parade one day to find many of officers still suffering from the conviviality of the previous night. He is therefore supposed to have planned the movement, which makes officers and non-commissioned officers march slowly to their posts in a straight line.

RANGERS FOURTH LOCAL UNIT TO MOBILIZE FOR ACTIVE SERVICE

Now Training In B.C. Near War Front

Prince of Wales Rangers, 1st Battalion, now on active service, tracing its origin back 105 years to the days when Peterborough was a child community in swaddling clothes, has a record for service to Canada and the Empire that rates with the finest in the Dominion.

Added to this colorful background of pioneer loyalty is coupled the modern day achievment of tremendous enlistment in all branches of the armed forces, a condition that developed owing to the late mobilization of this Peterborough infantry regiment. That has been the story down through the years, always the same, no lagging, no complacency, always the desire to serve where needed, and as a result men from Peterborough and particularly since World War 2 darkened the world horizon, have flocked to the colors in a heart warming manner.

Century Old

Back in 1837-38, according to existing records, men from Douro, Dummer, Otonabee and Asphodel became part of a composite battalion known as the "Queen's Own." The militia developed steadily until 1865-66 when 3 officers and 50 men left to take part in repelling the Fenian raids. The 57th Battalion was organized as a city unit on May 25, 1880 under command of Lt. Col. J. Z. Rogers. Officers and men of this regiment served in the Boer War, in South Africa.

The Great War of 1914-18 provided the regiment with opportunities for active service. The first contingent left Peterborough in August, 1914, for Valcartier camp and eventually formed a company of the 2nd Battalion, under the command of Major G. Bennett. This officer with numerous other Peterborough men left their mark at Langemark, Belgium, during the 2nd Battle of Ypres.

Draft after draft was recruited through the ranks of the regiment such units as the 21st, 39th, 59th and 80th Battalions received their quota for overseas service.

In 1915 Peterborough had honor of raising its own infantry battalion for overseas service, and the 93rd Battalion was raised with Lt. Col. T. J. Johnston in command; this officer had previously commanded the 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons.

Drafts to other units followed and finally the 247th Battalion was raised in this area under command of Lt. Col. C. H. Ackerman, who had left with the 1st contingent in 1914 and after being seriously wounded at Festubert, Belgium, had returned to Canada for further service.

Name Changed

Reorganization of the regiment followed the war and in August, 1920, changed the designation of the unit to the Peterborough Rangers, 9th Infantry Brigade, and allowed the regiment to perpetuate the 2nd Battalion C.E.F. and carry its battle honors on the colors. The 2nd and 3rd reserve battalions respectively perpetuated the 93rd and 247th Battalions.

Training of the various units continued until 1936 when further reorganization took place, and the amalgamation brought into existence the Prince of Wales Rangers (M.G.) Peterborough Regiment.

Great Organizer

Lt. Col. Dewart lost no time in getting the new units down to training, and in January of 1937 several officers and N.C.O.'s took a special course, graduating with high marks. Regiment parades were well attended and there was a noticeable definite improvement in the efficiency of the unit. During the summer and fall of 1937 training continued, and a highlight of the year was the visit of the Hon. Ian McKenzie, then Minister of National Defence.

In May, 1938, the unit provided a guard of honor for the late Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, and in July many attended the summer camp at Connaught Ranges near Ottawa. On September 11, Lt. Col. Dewart took over the command of the 9th Infantry Brigade with the rank of Colonel, and he was succeeded as commanding officer of the Rangers, by Lt. Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, M.C.

A vigorous training program was carried out during the winter and summer of 1939 and on Sunday, May 21, 1939, 270 members all ranks entrained for Kingston for street lining up duty during the visit of the King and Queen.

Training was stepped up when war broke out in September, 1939, and when certain units were given the call to mobilize for the first division, there was disappointment at the Armouries because the Rangers had been passed by. As the war progressed with all its fury, enlistment in the Rangers climbed, and at the same time two officers, Lts. Davidson and Sorby were transferred to the H. and P. E. Regiment. About 100 N.C.O.'s and men went with the two officers. At this time many members of the regiment were enlisting with other artive service units across Ontario.

On June 13, 1940, the Commanding Officer instead of being ordered to mobilize the regiment was authorized to mobilize headquarters and headquarters company from this regiment for the Stormont, Dundas Glengarry Highlanders.

Seventy other ranks of the units, including the cream of the highly trained N.C.O.'s were mobilized with this overseas regiment, and it was but a short time until the Highlanders were up to full war strength, while only a mere skeleton of the Rangers was left.

Permanent Staff

On July 13, 1940, Col. Dewart resigned command of the 9th Infantry Brigade and again assumed command of the regiment, and another slate of officers was recommended to military headquarters. At this time militia units were allowed to mobilize up to full war establishment and for this reason the units were to be allowed a permanent staff to be known as the administrative and training staff. The following staff was then appointed, Col. J. A. Dewart, officer commanding; Major G. R. E. Melton, adjutant; Capt. Doug Loomis, quartermaster; R. S. M. T. Griffin, assistant instructor; R. Q. M. S. Chate, ass't instructor; C.S.M. Burrows, ass't instructor. Sgt. Harold Robson was named orderly sergeant and Pte. K. V. Brown was named orderly room clerk.

Recruiting to war establishment was completed on August 15, 1940, which was the date set for voluntary enlistment in to the N. P. A. M. In the meantime, a modified form of conscription had been introduced which entailed compulsory training for 30 days for all men over 21 years of age.

A two week's camp at the Exhibition Ground from August 26 to September 8 and 550 men all ranks attended camp. Since then however inroads on the ranks and the officer personnel has been tremendous and the units has contriuted a steady stream of well trained men to active service units. However enlistments in this reserve unit has been high, and a new crop of smart, well educated young officers and non-commissioned officers have been training diligently during the winter, summer and autumn of 1941, and during the winter just passing away parades have been held regularly twice a week with rigorous training in all branches of the new curriculum of army drill.

The call to mobilization finds the regiment in a happy position with a top ranking group of officers, N.C.O.'s and many men of military age who are anxious to get into it.

Recruiting proceeded at a fast pace despite the fact that so many men had already moved on to active service, but unfortunately the regiment was moved before it could reach its full war establishment. 260 officers and men left Peterborough on May 16 for Camp Niagara. At this point more than 550 trainees were moved in to secure their basic training, and to train with the Rangers. Undoubtedly a large number of these men will be absorbed into the Rangers as active service recruits. On Friday, June 19, the Regiment were moved again, this time a little nearer the fighting front, as threat to Western Canada from Japanese invasion grew. They are now stationed in a military camp on Canada's west coast.

Led Highlanders

Lt.-Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, M.C., former manager of the Dominion Bank in Peterborough, organized and took the S. D. and G. Highlanders from Peterborough to England. He is now serving overseas.

Rangers O.C.

Lt.-Col. Maurice H. Park, V.D., World War veteran, is now officer commanding the Prince of Wales Rangers, 2nd Battalion (Reserve). His son recently obtained his commission at Brockville in the Canadian Army.

Gifts From Folk At Home Bring Cheer To Men Serving In Other Lands

There is nothing so warming to the heart of a soldier as a gift from home.

Keeping the contents of parcels interesting and varied is a problem that many a relative and friend has wracked his brains over. To assist parcel senders in Canada, officers commanding overseas units have compiled a list of food and sundry articles which soldiers want.

Among the list of sundries are such things as writing paper, razor blades, toothpaste or powder, shaving cream, combs, lighters and, of course, cigarettes and tobacco. It is prohibited to send matches, lighter fluid or other highly inflammable substances through the mails.

The long list of foods includes those things dear to the heart of every Canadian boy. Maple syrup, honey, fruit cake, cocoa, cheese, nuts, peanut butter, pickles and relishes, and biscuits are only a few of the items on the list.

Army Week is the best time to show the boys already overseas that they haven't been forgotten. A special effort should be made by individual citizens and service organizations to get thousands of parcels over to England to Canadian Troops.

Here is a list compiled by an officer who has returned from overseas. His experience has been broadened by the fact that three sons are in the service as well.

1. Cigarettes
2. More cigarettes
3. Toilet Soap (this is rationed in England.)
4. Shaving Soap
5. Chocolates and candies (there are practically unobtainable in England. The firmer kinds, such as chocolate bars, travel much better than the fancy kinds. Be sure not to pack the chocolates alongside the soap or they will be spoiled.
6. Razor blades (the kind that fit his razor. If you don't know what kind of razor he uses, send him a new razor with blades to fit.)
7. Canned goods—soups, fruits, chicken, fancy meats etc. (Don't send him bully beef, he gets enough of that already! And don't send glass container—they are almost certain to break in transit.)
8. Canned milk, especially the sweetened kinds. (Troops in England get milk powder and a can or two of the condensed kind will make a welcome change for your soldier.)
9. Toilet paper. (The harsh kind issued to the troops is disliked by many of the boys.)
10. Socks, scarves, sweaters, etc. (These will be more welcome in the winter than at the present time. Choose the right color khaki for the Army, blue for the Air Force, etc.)
11. Handkerchiefs.
12. Cigarette Lighters. (Don't try to send matches. If you do you may cause a fire in a ship and so imperil sailors lives, as well as destroy your own parcel.)
13. Send him NEWS. News, about yourself and your neighbors, what sister Mary is doing, and how little brother is coming on at school. He wants to hear about his home and his own people and he wants it in your hand writing. And when the mail arrives, but he doesn't want the Corporal to say, "Nothing for you this time Buddy," so write him at least once a week.
14. Address your parcel neatly and legibly and use the correct address. Many parcels are delayed in delivery because of difficulty in deciphering the address.

JUNE 29 TO JULY 5

WE PAY TRIBUTE TO THE MEN IN THE FIGHTING FORCES AND WILL SUPPORT THEM TILL THE BATTLE IS WON

Peterborough citizens know the type of men who form Canada's Army. They know, respect and admire the men of the 4th Anti-Tank Battery, the S. D. & G. Highlanders, 3rd Field Park Company of Engineers, Prince of Wales Rangers — all being Peterborough units now on Active Service—because these are our own men.

Our men are like their comrades who make up the Canadian Army. Knowing them so intimately we can appreciate that under General McNaughton's leadership they will strike a tremendous blow against Hitler when the opportunity arrives.

Such gallant men deserve our every support because they are our strong shield against the Nazis and oppression. Let us join in honoring them during Army Week.

TO THE CITIZENS OF PETERBOROUGH—

WHEREAS, Sunday, June 28th, to Sunday, July 5th, has been designated as the week in which citizens of Peterborough, in company with all Canada, will pay special honor and tribute to the members of the Canadian Army, the individual days being as follows:

Army Church Day (Sunday, June 28); Soldiers' Day (Monday, June 29); Civilian Day (Tuesday, June 30); United Services Day (Wednesday, July 1); District Day (Thursday, July 2); Reserve Army Day (Friday, July 3); United Nations Day (Saturday, July 4); and Day of Prayer (Sunday, July 5).

THEREFORE, I CALL UPON all Citizens to support Army Week; to have their homes and places of business decorated as attractively as possible with flags and bunting; to extend their hospitality in every possible way to members of the Army; to pay particular tribute and deference to the next of kin; especially on the day marked for this purpose; to attend as many as possible of the important functions arranged for Army Week.

9,000 MEN HAVE PASSED THROUGH TRAINING CENTRE, 20 MONTHS

Present Time Strength Exceeds 1,000 Officers And Men Training For Active Service

With the inauguration of "Army Week" in Peterborough on Sunday, the Peterborough Military Training Centre, officially known as Canadian Army Basic Training Centre No. 32, will have completed 20 months of operation.

During that time more than 9,000 men have passed through, and today finds many of them in other branches of the armed forces and also in many parts of the world. Officially the Training Centre came into being on September 4, 1940, at Petawawa Military Camp. The present commanding officer, Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D., was appointed at that time and for the following four weeks other officers and non-commissioned officers were appointed as administrative and training personnel.

The personnel arrived in Peterborough on October 2, 1940, and found the various buildings at Exhibition Park still far from being completed. However, within a week from the date the buildings were far enough advanced that the first group of men called in for the 30-day training period were received, and placed in quarters.

For the following four months the camp was used for the 30-day training plan and during that time more than 3,000 men were given instruction. At the completion of the first four months, the training staff proceeded to Cornwall for a special course of instruction in preparation for the change in policy by the Department of National Defense. The course lasted six weeks and the staff returned from Cornwall late in the month of March.

New Training Plan Starts

The four-month plan under the National Resources Mobilization Act was then announced and the first group of 750 men arrived at the Training Centre early in April. The staff had undergone considerable change in the meantime through a number of the officers who had arrived in Peterborough with the unit in October having gone overseas and others had been selected for various positions at the Officers' Training Centre at Brockville which was then in the process of organization under Col. R. G. Whitelaw.

Following the arrival of the first group of men for the months training in April, a policy of bringing in a certain number of men each month and of sending a similar number to the various advanced training centres. The name basic training centre signifies that soldiers of every branch of the army are given their first training in centres across Canada similar to the one operated here.

Recruits Go Active

With the inauguration of the four months' plan the Department of National Defense also instituted the policy of having so many (Reserve) recruits and a similar number of Active force recruits take their training together. A "reserve" recruit is one which is called under the National Resources Mobilization Act while an "active" recruit is one who volunteers to serve with the active army.

The Peterborough Training Centre has had an excellent record in securing "reserve" recruits for the active army and in June 1941 the entire personnel of the Centre volunteered for active service in any part of the world. This included more than 300 "reserve recruits who were being trained at that time. In the intervening months the Centre has had a record of turning out more than 95 per cent of all "reserve" recruits received as active force men at the completion of their two months' basic training. At the present time no "reserve" recruits are received the entire strength of the Centre being members of the Active Army.

For some months past the Centre has been operating at capacity and the strength at the present time exceeds 1,000 officers and men. The men are retained for two months and at the end of that time are despatched to the advanced training centres of the arm of the service for which they are best fitted.

Undergo Examination

Every recruit reaching the Centre is given both a written and oral intelligence test by an officer known as an assistant army examiner, a member of the personnel selection branch of the army. This officer and his staff are specialists in their line and are given special training for this work. According to the score of both examinations, the soldier is allotted to the branch of the service where he can render the most valuable service and for which he is best fitted.

Before leaving for the advanced training centres the recruits are given a thorough examination in the various subjects taught in the eight-week period and failure to pass in any one of these subjects results in the man being held for a further period of training.

Each day of the two months with Saturday and Sundays excepted has eight training periods. The syllabus is so arranged that the subject taught is changed every 40 minutes, thus preventing monotony and the interest of the recruit is more easily held. At the end of each period a "break" or rest of five minutes is given for relation.

Officers Also Trained

Not only is the centre a training ground for recruits but it is also on a smaller scale a training centre for junior officers. After an officer has passed the course at the Officers' Training Centre at either Brockville or Gordon Head, B.C., he is sent to an advanced training centre that specializes in the particular arm of the service to which the officer has been posted.

Officers posted to infantry units are given a further course of two months at the advanced infantry training centres located at Camp Borden, and are then sent to the various basic training centres for their first experience with men. They remain at the basic centres for two months and are then given one further month at the advanced centres before proceeding to their units wherever located.

Thus the officer personnel insofar as junior officers is concerned also changes at the end of a two months period. Of the more than 30 officers who arrived here in October 1940 when the Centre opened only nine are now stationed here. In the passing months officers from every province in Canada have served at the centre and have then proceeded to their units to which they were posted on completion of the course at Brockville. The nine original officers who are still at the Centre are: Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D., officer commanding; Major C. L. Wallbridge; Major L. I. Johnson; Major W. A. Mark; Major J. J. Keir; Captain A. A. Mutton; Captain E. S. Atkinson; Lieut. J. G. Wiser, and Lieut. W. A. Bowerman.

High Ranking Officers Inspect Training Centre At Ex. Park

Mealtime Bugle's Call Sweeter Than A Fiddle

"Come to the cook-house door, boys, come to the cook-house door."

That popular bugle-call brings the lads of Canada's modern army running. It is a ringing summons to one of the best tables set by any army, a spread that is certainly away superior to anything their fathers had in the last war.

If you were to cast an envious glance over the shoulders of the boys one of these bright summer mornings you would find them lacing into a breakfast something like this:

Grapefruit juice, rolled wheat, fresh milk, fried eggs, grilled bacon, fried bread, bread and butter, honey, coffee or cocoa.

This menu, taken at random from a weekly diet sheet issued by the messing and catering branch of the Quartermaster General's Branch, illustrates the splendid kind of foundation put under the man in khaki before he begins the day.

With appetites whetted by the brisk training exercises of the morning, the husky lads of our army sit down at noon to dinner. A glimpse of a menu shows why it is called dinner, not luncheon; mulligatawny soup, fried salmon steaks, potatoes in cheese sauce, buttered carrots, bread and butter prune pie tea or milk.

Typical Supper Menu.

Following afternoon manoeuvres, the friendly bugles call the men in to a supper of which this is typical: beef broth with rice, cold ham, potato salad, cabbage, onion and turnip salad, raisin tea biscuits, cheese, apple roll with butterscotch sauce tea or iced cocoa.

Behind all this artistry is the scientific watchfulness of the trained dietitian who sees that meals are properly balanced in proteins, minerals, vitamins and other elements vital to health.

The army lads are cheerfully blind to all these scientific angles. They simply know that these meals stick to their ribs. The scales tell the story. Despite the hard physical training recruits often gain more than 10 pounds in their first few weeks with the armed forces.

Lieut.-Col Ralph Webb, head of the messing and catering branch, is concerned not only with the development of diet sheets and the purchase of the great quantities of foodstuffs. He is determined that the cooking shall be the best. "The contents of swill can," say his instructions, 'are the criterion of good or bad cooking.'

The men are invited to eat all they need, but there are stern injunctions against the wastage that follows the rejection of unpalatable cooking.

Substitutions in the diet sheets, which might be attempted merely because one dish is easer to prepare than another, are not permitted. The diets, which change daily, can, however be altered with the permission of the officer commanding when for instance specified items are not available in a particular locality.

Colonel Ralston Cites Three Ways To Help The Army

What can Canadians, particularly veterans, do to help the development of the Canadian Army Defence Minister Ralston outlines three specific ways in which the average citizen can help.

"First you can help with the cadets. You can actively encourage and inspire the boys to get into cadet corps in the schools and to learn the fundamentals of soldiering. It will save precious time later if they get the spirit and training of the Army now.

"Secondly, you can help with the active arm. You are doing it now in connection with the auxiliary services. But you and you alone can pass on to the fighting men of today some idea of what the brotherhood of arms means. We forget that there are many of the men in the fighting forces today who weren't born when the last war ended, and a great majority of them probably weren't more than four or five years old on Armistice Day. Vimy to them is only what they read in their history books or hear old soldiers reminisce. It is men like you who can tell them what it means to be 'buddies.' There is many a man and you know it, who went over the top because he wanted to be 'with the boys' and wouldn't let them down. That's why you're still sticking together after twenty-five years have gone past. Your interest and encouragement means everything to these lads.

"Thirdly, you can help with the Reserve Army. Turn out with the Reserve Army. Limber up the creaky joints. Give them the benefit of your own knowledge and your own experience and your backing. Help to form from the citizenry of this country a home guard that will be fit and ready to do its part along with the active army, if ever the need comes."

Army Week...

JUNE 29 TO JULY 5

A Good Opportunity To See The Army At Work – And To Show Your Appreciation For The Canadian Army

Each day of Army Week has been set aside for some specific purpose. Monday is "Soldiers' Day"; Tuesday, "Civilian Day"; Dominion Day will be celebrated by parades and special military demonstrations. The 2nd, 3rd and 4th will be equally devoted to enabling Canadians to learn at first hand various phases of Army activities.

It is our sincere hope that every citizen of Peterborough gets whole-heartedly behind Army Week to really show our pride and appreciation of their service and sacrifice for we Canadians.

PETERBOROUGH'S ARTILLERY UNITS DISTRICT'S BEST BATTERIES

Long Record Of Gallant Service Been Achieved By Artillery Units With Headquarters In City

The early history af artillery in Peterborough is hidden in the mists of yesteryear. Oldtime citizens, a few of them, can recall as children when training was carried out in the old drill shed in Ashburnham, many years before the village was joined to the town of Peterborough.

Moustached gunners trained more than half a century ago in the days of boardwalks, dusty roads, horses and buggies, saloons and all the robust reminders of the 80's and 90's. But exact records of artillery locally appear to have been buried with those gallant gunners of long ago.

Capt. Jim Snyder of this city is still recalled as one of the original artillery officers back in 1890, being second-in-command to Col. MacLean in the Durham Field Battery.

This city was represented in the 14th Field Battery headquarters at Port Hope, in 1900. Three Batteries formed the old 10th Brigade, the 14th here, the 5th at Kingston and the 8th at Gananoque. They were equipped with 9-pounders, muzzle-loading and horse-drawn guns, six to a Battery. They attended annual training camp for years on the Indian Reserve at Deseronto, later holding camps at Cobourg, Barriefield and Petawawa.

Port Hope Officer

In 1902 the Brigade was equipped with the Mark II 12-pounder, breech-loading guns, and Brigade headquarters was established at Kingston under Lt. Col. Neil F. MacNaughton, who was previously garrison artillery commander at Cobourg and also a commandant of the Bisley rifle team from Canada. Col. MacLean of Port Hope was the original officer commanding the 14th Battery with Capt. Richard Kearns of Bethany second-in-command and Lieuts. Ormond Bradburn and W. C. Ackerman of this city, along with a different R.M.C. officer each year, on the strength. The 14th, in three sections, went to camp usually with approximately 125 all ranks and about 100 horses.

When the late King George V as Prince of Wales visited Toronto, the local Battery took part in the mammoth ceremony in the Exhibition Ground. Over 12,000 troops were present, the 14th unit mounting at 5 a.m. and not getting off their mounts till 4 p.m. The horses, borrowed or rented from farmers around Millbrook and Bethany were not used to the noise and hubbub and the city artillerymen had a hard time to keep their seats.

When Col. MacNaughton was appointed Brigadier, Col. (Dr.) T. W. H. Young was named officer commanding the 14th, with headquarters moved here. Col. Mulholland later was O.C. of the unit. At Deseronto in 1901 and 1902, the Peterborough crew won all shooting competitions, and always maintained a high mark.

Many went from here independently in the South African War, which recalls the famous celebration later. The "do" was staged after the "Relief of Mafeking," the town going wild in a manner hitherto unknown around these parts. There was a huge parade, bands, fireworks, firewater, noise and the rest. The artillerymen wishing to take part, requested a grant from the Council to buy blank ammunition. It was refused. But these worthies scratched their heads, dug in their pockets and went to work.

A Wet Barrage

They purchased from the Peterborough Hardware Store a good quantity of blasting powder, and made up charges in table-salt bags. Then they dragged out of the old wooden drill shed, practically where the present Armoury stands, an antique brass cannon one captured in the Russian War about 1860. "It would stretch but not burst, being brass," one oldtimer recalls.

One charge didn't make sufficient noise to be heard clear downtown so they began ramming home two charges at a time. To increase concussion, the sergeant in charge of the firing squad got the happy idea of wadding powder in with large chunks of sod and finally also with liberal doses of wet bread. Well, the infantry was marching proudly and blaringly back to the drill shed when the last company more or less got in line with the big charge coming up. The gun went off, eight infantrymen were knocked off their feet and came up covered with mud and wet bread, and most of the windows on the south side of Murray street opposite Central Park were blown out.

The Council disclaimed responsibility for the window breakage, and it is thought that the police to this date are making sporadic attempts to identify and apprehend the members of the gun crew responsible. But not very hard.

Capt. W. C. Ackerman, an original member of the 14th Battery, was adjutant of the Brigade for three or four years in the early 1900's under Co. MacNaughton. In 1903, the 14th—headquarters then in Cobourg—won at Petawawa the Governor General's Cup, the Lansdowne Cup, Oswald Cup, Montizambert Cup and Gzowski Cup in Dominion Gun Crew competition. The local gun unit became the 24th Field Battery in 1907. In 1911 Col. MacNaughton took a picked unit of 55 men from several Eastern Ontario Batteries to England to compete in British Empire Gun Crew competition and these gunners practically swept the laurels. Sgt. Major Stansilaws (Buff) Guerin was the only member of the 24th to make the trip. The firing was done at Salisbury Plains, Lydd and Isle of Wight.

Yearly training continued in succeeding years, with interest intensifying the last few years before the World War, now known as World War 1, broke out in 1914.

Mobilized as 4th Battery

Early in the war the 7th Battery from St. Catharines and the 9th Battery from Toronto recruited a large number of local men, many from the 24th Battery and proceeded overseas. The 24th Battery mobilized and went overseas as the 4th Battery, 1st Brigade, and this same unit has carried on in Peterborough ever since. The 26th Battery was provided by the Peterborough unit with enough artillerymen to form the right section. The Belmont Battery was recruited here also and proceeded overseas. Many units from Canada on reaching England were broken up and served with other units.

The 4th Battery was the first artillery unit to place guns in the front line trenches, members of those gun crews now resting in France—but they accomplished their objective. Artillerymen as a whole from this city and district wrote a glorious page of achievement in the war of 1914-1918.

Re-organized After War

At the conclusion of World War 1, the artillery in Peterborough, had not been organized and there seemed to be a dearth of artillery officers. A number of the boys approached Lieut. D. J. Lawrie with the idea of re-organizing a battery in Peterborough. He in turn got in touch with Headquarters and as a result, Major-General E. W. B. Morrison, visited Peterborough and the present 4th Field Battery, R.C.A. was organized with Major E. D. Huycke of Toronto being the first commanding officer, and Lieut. D. J. Lawrie second-in-command. The Battery trained at local headquarters during the winter of 1919-1920 and in July of 1920 went into camp at the Exhibition grounds with a strength of some 125 men and 75 horses. This was the only local camp the Battery has attended since the last war as from 1920 on, all training was held at the artillery camp at Petawawa, where actual firing could be held. The 4th Field Battery attended this annual camp at Petawawa every year until the outbreak of the present war.

Captain Lawrie assumed command of the Battery in 1923 and was in command for five years when he passed the command on to the late Major J. W. Stevenson, Major Lawrie taking over command of the 4th Field. Brigade, R.C.A., Major Stevenson held command until his death in July, 1939, when the command was assumed by Major J. A. Harstone, M.C.

When the present King and Queen visited Canada, the 4th Field Battery took part in the Coronation ceremony at Kingston, along with other military units.

Always showing a high standard of efficiency at the annual training camps in Petawawa, the Battery in 1933 won the Montizambert Cup in Dominion competition, and Gzowski Cup in Ontario gun competition. The same cups were again won by this unit in 1935 with an additional cup for officers' efficiency.

4th Anti-Tank Battery

Major Harstone remained in command and mobilized and took overseas the 4th Field Battery, as the 4th Anti-Tank Battery in May, 1940. The unit trained first at the Armouries, then shifted to Lindsay, and later obtained advanced training at Camp Debert in Nova Scotia. The 4th Anti-Tank Battery was the first unit mobilized in Peterborough for active service in World War 2, and as stated by the Inspector-General for Canada, Major-General T. V. Anderson, C.M.G., D.S.O., was the smartest and best trained unit he had inspected. This artillery unit is now serving in England.

In July 1940 the reserve battery for the 4th Field Battery was organized under command of Lt. Col. D. J. Lawrie and is now functioning as one of the units of the reserve army. The Battery is under the command of Capt. W. H. Ackhurst, Lt. Col. D. J. Lawrie having assumed command of the 43rd (Res) Field Regiment, R.C.A., in December, 1941. The 4th Battery attended camp at Petawawa in September of 1940, at Connaught Ranges Camp in July, 1941, and will proceed to Connaught Camp on July 19 of this year for its annual training. The strength of the Battery is 10 officers and 194 other ranks.

Commands Brigade

Col D. J. Lawrie, officer commanding the 4th Brigade, R.C.A., and veteran of World War I., has expressed his satisfaction at the way the 4th Field Battery, R. C. A. (Reserve), is enlisting men for home defence.

Headed Unit

Major John A. Hartstone, M.C., former sheriff of Peterborough County, was officer commanding the 4th anti-tank unit mobilized at Peterborough. An artillery unit that ranks with the best trained in the Dominion. He is now serving overseas.

Army Rations Best In World

The day of "bully beef" and "hard tack" (ship biscuits) as far as Canada's army is concerned is past. The rations served to the troops today have no equal in any other army in the world. Attention is paid so that the diet includes proteins, minerals, carbohydrates and all the vitamins known to the dietitian's manual.

Few people have any idea of the amount of food necessary to feed the soldiers in training at Exhibition Park for one day. The following table might be of interest, showing the amounts of the various food products necessary to feed approximately 1,000 men their three daily meals: Bacon, 115 pounds; beef, 750 pounds; pork, when served instead of beef, 750 pounds; bread, 400 loaves daily; eggs, 160 dozen per day; potatoes, 15 bushels.

The food is cooked and served by a staff of 16 expert cooks under the supervision of Lieut. W. A. Bowerman, and is served right to the minute set every day. At the conclusion of each meal every dish used by the men is sterilized while the kitchens at the local training centre have been considered a model for other military camps throughout the country.

Battledress For General

When Lieut. Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of the Canadian General Staff, visits a training camp there are no frills. He asks for no special parades, which interrupt training. Officers and men receive him in their working clothes—battle dress.

SCIENCE GIVES PUNCH FOR CANADA'S ARMY FOR BLITZ WARFARE

National Research Council Turns Its Laborers Over To Aid Canada's War Effort

OTTAWA, June 27. —In every sphere of its developments, the Canadian Army has benefitted through activities of the National Research Council.

Its president, Lieutenant-General A. G. L. McNaughton, renowned soldier-scientist, is commander of the 1st Canadian Army, heading the force of Canadians overseas who, as he appropriately describes them, form the spearhead of the "dagger, pointed at the heart of Berlin."

The National Research Council has been officially designated as the research station of the Royal Canadian Navy, the army, and the air force, and is shown as a "civil establishment' in the records of the Department of National Defence. This appointment of the council as the research establishment of the Department of National Defence merely formalizes a relationship that has been worked out on a purely co-operative basis.

Concentrates on War.

Since the beginning of the war practically all members of the staff of the National Research laboratories have been engaged on war problems, most of which were either suggested by, or o fdirect interest to the fighting services. Specifications for materials normally bought in Great Britain have had to be revised to conform with Canadian practice. All kinds of supplies have had to be tested to determine whether they are acceptable according to required military standards.

Apparatus has been developed and constructed for work in ballistics on an increasing scale. Measuring equipment for ammunition proof and gun proof has been developed and is in continuous service at proving grounds.

An important war service was rendered by promoting the development in Canada of optical glass manufacture for the production of precise optical parts for military equipment. Preliminary work included detailed planning of melting furnaces and ancillary equipment for making glass. The project is now being carried forward in production by a government-owned company.

Gas Protection.

The Chemical Warfare Establishmentof the Department of National Defence was unitiated by technical officers of the National Research Council in co-operation with the military authorities.

Recently much attention has been given to rubber conservation problems and to the study of synthetic rubber processes. Commercial production of fuse-powder charcoal was carried on until recently by the National Research Council; manufacturing has now been turned over to a commercial concern. Research on the fundamental problems involved in the operation is being continued by the council.

War Textiles.

Activities in the textile laboratory have been largely in connection with acceptance test work and specification. Special problems included an investigation of methods to reduce weatheirng of canvas duck, a study of thermal transmission of blankets, colour analysis of certain types of textile products and work on respirator.

A large amount of work is being carried out on the development of suitable types of anti-gas impermeable-type fabrics and on the maintenance of suitable standards of quality in material of the type which is being manufactured in Canada.

Inspections have been made and advice given as to the suitability of a variety of leathers for different military purposes. Examination has been made of numerous dressings and waterproofin gcompounds for leathers. Tensile strength tests on leathers, and wear-resistance tests, chiefly on composition-sole materials were carried out for the Department of National Defence. Used militia boots were examined for the cause of cracking in the vamps. Research on the deterioration of shoe uppers has been continued.

Anti-Aircraft Production.

Components of certain anti-aircraft protection devices were constructed. Transparent sheet resins for military purpoces have been tested against specification, vulcanized fibre identification discs and other objects have been examined, and general consideration has been given to the substitution of plastics for metals in a number of articles and parts related to war materials.

Preservative coatings for use on military vehicles and other equipment for war purposes have been developed. A surprising variety of finishes is required in this field and many of the materials are comparatively new to Canadian industry. The laboratories have cooperated with Government authorities and manufactureres to facilitate the supply of these highly specialized coatings. Gas-detector paints, luminous paints, finishes for rifle barrels, camouflage paints and other special paints have been developed.

Mention should be made of the establishment of an explosives laboratory to carry out testing required under the Explosive Act and to conduct research on explosive and related compounds.

Medical Research.

In the field of medical research an active committee of the Council has made great progress. Typical subjects selected for investigation by subcommittees are problems in fatigue, vision, hearing and related subjects which are of common interest to all the services. Wound-infection studies have included work in the new field of chemotherapy.

Other work deals with treatment of shock, development and provision of blood substitutes for transfusion purposes, treatment of burns and other war injuries, and dietary studies with special reference to the maintenance of the health and efficiency of service personnel.

Mobility And Striking Power Are Keynoted In Canadian Units

This is a motorcycle section of a carrier platoon. The soldiers are Sgt. P. V. Fitzpatrick of Cordova Mines, Pte. R. Rehill, Omemee, and Pte. C. F. Potts, Trenton, carrying Tommygun in side-carrier somewhere in Britain. Note the crash helmets and the rifles slung across the shoulders.

Army Officers Must First Start In Ranks

The young recruit of to-day's army has not only a chance to learn a valuable trade for the day when he returns to civil life, he has every opportunity of finishing the war with high rank. It is now a regulation of the Canadian active forces that a candidate for a commission must first serve in the ranks.

This is not altogether new; it is merely continuing a 1914-18 innovation which proved itself invaluable under the stress and attrition of action.

Promotion from the ranks was a radical departure from army custom adopted as an emergency measure in 1915. But it proved so sound it was continued when the acute shortage of subalterns was relieved. After the second Battle of Ypres it was apparent that the attrition was to be most serious in the ranks of the junior commanders. Inadequate reserves for reinforcements in England were quickly exhausted.

Commissioned in Field.

The result was that many commissions were granted in the field the unit commanders' recommendation being accepted as sufficient qualification. To be non-commissioned to-day and commissioned tomorrow was an experience of soldiers in every 1st Division battalion in 1915.

The plan worked, even without special training, for two reasons. One was that the Canadians had a high percentage of men in the ranks with the requisite educational background. The second reason was that the prolonged deadlock made first-hand knowledge of trench warfare one of the most valuable assets a new officer could possess. Later in the war, scores of Canadian non-commissioned officers and men were commissioned to the British Army, whose provision for new officers was also inadequate.

The proof of the system became clearly evident during the long series of offensive operations in which the Canadian Corps was prominent between August 1918 and the Armistice.

Became Good Officers

The drain was heavy and continuous, especially amongst the all-important junior leaders. It never outplaced the supply of new officers with experience under service conditions. In addition, there were several officers who had begun their long period of active service in the ranks who had now become commanders or seconds-in-command of battalions. Even for the skeptics it was convincing poor of the high calibre of officer material to be found in the ranks.

The system is paying dividends, in this war. Several of the present Canadian Army divisional commanders are products of it. Major-General R. G. Pearkes, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., who commands the 1st Canadian Division left Canada in 1915 as a lance-corporal with

Since the beginning of the war more than 250,000 vehicles have been produced in Canada and shipped abroad for service in every campaign in which Empire forces have participated. Their efficiency and durability have been proved in the field. The Canadian Raybestos Co. Ltd is proud of the fact that we have supplied practically all of the frictional brake equipment for these vehicles.
We are doing our utmost to see that the Canadian Army does not lock mobile equipment and we know that given the proper equipment the CANADIAN ARMY will prove itself the equal, if not superior to any fighting forces in the world.

WPTB IMPORTANT AUXILIARY FOR TOTAL WAR

Military Needs Always Dictate Diversion Of Army Supplies

By MARY HATHEWAY.

Although the activities of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board are confined to the field of civilian trade they play a well-defined part in the nation's broad war plan. They are in fact shaping Canada's wartime economy.

This war is different from all previous wars in the demands it makes upon us. We have learned the bitter lesson of Dunkirk when our troops, lying on the beaches, attempted to fight off dive bombers with rifles. We have learned to think in terms of planes and tanks and guns. We have got appeasement very thoroughly out of our systems and are streamlining every effort and straining every nerve toward victory.

It is a victory that will be won, as we all know now not by the Services alone, but by armed forces, armed with equipment which shall overmatch the equipment of the enemy, equipment which shall have been provided by civilian sacrifice.

So we are thinking of victory in terms of metal and rubber and oil of parachute silk and wool for uniforms, of convoys and ships to escort them. Because in time of peace all our productive capacity was geared to civilian consumption and because there is a limit to possible plant and labor expansion it has been urgently necessary to turn our factories from making civilian goods to making war goods.

Because every possible ship is needed on the fighting line and as few as possible must be diverted to convoy merchant ships, it has been necessary to re-examine our need for imports.

War Production First.

The most far-reaching measure may be the most simple. Canada's decision to put war production first and civilian production second was made in a quiet way. The public said, "Of course," and has endorsed that "of course" at every point since.

Supplies have been diverted; volume of civilian business has been cut; profits have been pared or have vanished altogether; the man in the street has given up his pleasure driving and the woman in the home has given up her new refrigerator, sugar and tea and coffee and gasoline have been rationed, and civilians are still saying, "Of course,' and can be depended upon to go on saying it to the end, no matter how long or how hard the way.

The loyal resolve of an aroused people, to become practically effective must have its humdrum mechanics, however. An the Wartime Prices and Trade Board is the machine, not uninspired in itself, which aids and directs civilian sacrifice.

Co-operates With Army.

In co-operation with officials of the armed services and of the Department of Munitions and Supply, officials of the Board study the nation's war needs. It is the duty of the Department of Munitions and Supply to carry out the first part of Canada's priority decision and ensure that war production meets the requirements of the fighting forces. It is the duty of the "Price Board" to carry out the second part of the decision to tell civilians what they must do to ensure that raw materials will be available in adequate quantities to fulfill these war requirements.

Thus the supply diivsion of the Board studies the total supply situation of all raw materials essential to civilian life, learns from Munitions and Supply the quantities which must be diverted to war purposes and, in co-operation with industry, grapples with the problem of stretching the remainder over civilian needs.

Events at sea have curtailed imports and the program of adjustment to meet this situation has been guided and shaped by the Board. On the face of it, this effort is a service to the civil population. But on the other side of the coin shows more ships freed for fighting. They may convoy the Army or support the Army in its world-wide fight.

Simplification.

The infinitely detailed and painstaking program of simplification upon which Canadian manufacturers are embarked is an activity of the Price Board. True, it is an effort to make available supplies go as far as possible. But it frees tremendous yardages and tonnages for war purposes. The much-publicized Order for cuffless trousers was only one of hundreds of simplification orders each imposing on the public a small and eagerly accepted sacrifice but all in the aggregate, giving material help in clothing and equipping the troops.

The Board's earliest and most obvious activities, however, have been in the field of price rather than supply and the series of price orders that have been issued have unquestionably retarded and indeed almost entirely checked the inflation which, earlier, threatened to drag the national economy into another inflationary spiral; with its inevitable aftermath of depression and unemployment.

That this is being averted contributes to the progress of the nation. But in two special ways, one monetary and one human, it makes a special contribution.

Stationary Market.

The Department of Munitions and Supply, in bidding for supplies, has not had to bid on a rising market but on an almost stationary one. Civilian prices are under the ceiling imposed by the Board. Military prices are not. Therefore, military prices cannot me bid up by rising competitive civilian bids.

Last but not least an army is not, even in this age, a machine. It is a group of men marching away from home. If each man goes happy and secure it is a better army than if each man goes worried and uncertain. With the Board's rent control machinery watching the rent; the Board's food administration controlling food prices; the Board's coal administration ensuring, despite transportation difficulties, that there will be coal in the bin next winter; the Board's consumer credit branch saving the public from itself in the matter of instalment buying; and the whole Board in all its branches fighting inflation and ensuring a huge consumer demand and plenty of jobs after the war, the soldier leaves home with fewer worries on his mind and a better heart for fighting.

There is perhaps no yardstick for measuring this contribution of the Board to the Army's efficiency, but it may well be a considerable one.

He'll appreciate more than anything else—a

A Well Trained Crew Can Do Damage With This Weapon

Pte. R. W. Wilson, Napanee, with mortar, and Pte. A. Smith, of Cobourg, both serving with the Hastings Prince Edward Regiment overseas, are shown preparing to fire a mortar. This weapon is very destructive and as part of the infantry ordinance can become most effective with a trained gun crew. It is used to smash barbed wire entanglements, and blast gun positions.

Supply Of Raw Materials Assured For Army By Proper Control

Canada's Army is assured of a plentiful supply of essential raw materials produced in this country through the application of export controls.

Perhaps one of the most fundamental of all the controls which have been inaugurated since the commencement of the war is that of export control. Without a complete and thorough control of exports from Canada the enormous requirements of materials needed to build up a modern mechanized army could not have been met. Consequently, control over Canada's exports was one of the first steps taken to place Canada on a war footing.

The administration of export control, coming under the jurisdiction of the Minister of Trade and Commerce, has resulted in as complete a reversal of the activities of that department as perhaps has occurred in any other department of Government. The Department of Trade and commerce in peace time has been outstandingly successful in the promotion of Canadian trade abroad, so that at the commencement of the war Canada stood amongst the first five countries of the world in the volume of her export trade.

The activity of the department was devoted, through its far-reaching organization of Trade Commissioners abroad and supporting organization in Ottawa, to increasing the flow of Canadian goods into world markets. In war time, the Department of Trade and Commerce, through export control, stands as a guardian of Canada's resources, which are increasingly needed by Canada's army for the equipment of its soldiers and for the provision of the vast mechanized armament and auxiliary transport on which the modern army depends.

For instance, the whole Canadian steel industry, which exported large tonnages before the war, is today not nearly large enough to meet the demands of the army for ships, tanks, guns, shells, etc. Export control does not, therefore, allow any of this material to leave Canada, except for purposes closely connected with the war.

Nickel and platinum are two vital war materials, of which Canada has the major part of the world's supply. These materials are now conserved within the country for the essential needs of the army, and control over their export is more rigidly maintained. They are two materials of which the Axis powers are extremely short, and their uncontrolled export could easily result in their reaching the hands of the enemy through neutral countries.

On the list of Canadian products and raw materials which cannot be exported, except by special permit, there are about one thousand items, of metals, chemicals, and manufactured goods, such as textiles, electrical apparatus, machinery, rubber manufactures, lumber, etc. This indicates the broad range of materials required by a modern army for its equipment maintenance and operation in the field of battle.

But You Can Support The Boys In Uniform!

We Salute the boys in our Armed Forces, and honour them. We take pride in the fine spirit and resourcefulness of our men. We think of them all the time—but ARMY WEEK, June 29 to July 5, gives us an opportunity of actually showing our appreciation for what they are doing for Canada.

ARMY WEEK also gives civilians a fine opportunity to see how the Army operates and how the boys live.

And, this is important—send parcels and letters regularly to the boys away from home. They are appreciated more than we know.

CANADIAN ARMY IS DOMINION'S BIGGEST INVESTMENT TODAY

Nation's Greatest Protection Is Afforded By Foot-Soldiers Who Must Take, Hold Territory

The Army is this Dominion's biggest investment—and its greatest insurance—for upon the Army falls the ultimate duty of winning the war by occupying and holding the enemy's territory.

While the Navy, Army and Air Force work together in breaking down enemy resistance and the Senior and Junior Services play invaluable roles in conquest, upon the khaki-clad warriors, the "Gentleman in Battle Dress" there is also imposed the all-important duty of finishing the job.

Wars are won in the enemy's country—not on the home front—and for that reason Canada has had to plan for an Army that outnumbers, in personnel, the Navy by 20 to one and the Air Force by five to one.

Without the other two Services the Army in this War could not act except on the defensive. Without the Army the Navy and Air Force could not complete an offensive.

By tradition in the British Empire the Navy is the Senior Service and that tradition is carried on in Canada, although as an historical fact the Canadian Army is older than the Canadian Navy.

It is founded upon the Canadian Militia which has a history dating back to early Colonial days and today it follows that early pattern of being a force of trained citizenry rather than professional soldiers. Although it is the Permanent Force — a body of so-called professional soldiers—which forms the nucleus of the Canadian Army.

In the Great War of 1914-1919 Canadian volunteers proved themselves worthy of their appointment as the spearhead of attack; and by their valor, resourcefulness and fighting spirit created traditions that today shine as beacons lighting the way for a new generation.

The Foundation

Two main branches form the Canadian Army of today — Active and Reserve. Of these the former divides again into the Active Army overseas and the Active Army employed on coast defence. The Reserve army is composed of volunteers below military age or Active Army physical standards and men between 35 and 50 who have been organized principally into Brigade Groups to t ain for home defence.

Of the three branches, the Active Army overseas — and this includes for the purposes of this article the volunteers for active service anywhere now training in Canada — is of course the most important. Its history stems from the Canadian Militia and the Canadian Expeditionary Force of the 1914-1918 War.

When the C.E.F. was demobilized, at the close of the Great War, the Militia was organized on the basis of eleven divisions and other necessary troops. This organization was staffed with the exception of a very small force of permanent soldiers, by volunteers who gave their time and frequently their money to maintain a military nucleus in Canada and this was maintained until 1936.

In that year the militia was organized in accordance with a plan developed by the present Commander of the Canadian Army, Lt.-General A. G. L. McNaughton, who was then Chief of the General Staff.

The basis of the plan was to provide a force which could form two Army Corps of Three Divisions each and an independent cavalry Division as well as troops for Coast Defence. It involved the conversion of approximately 30 infantry battalions and several cavalry regiments into artillery, tank, engineer and other units.

Three years after this reorganization was put to the test.

The Active Army

On September 1st, 1939, although it had an establishment of 90,000, the Canadian Militia actually numbered only about 50,000 with a Permanent Force to train and administer it numbering less than 4,500. From this fount of partially trained officers and men the pre-war plan of the General Staff called for immediate mobilization of a Corps of two divisions and coastal defence garrisons. A careful selection had already been made of Militia units from coast to coast so that the Corps would be fully representative of all Canada.

By evening of this "Mobilization Day" officers and men, called by telegram, were on their way to report for duty. They came from farms, forests, factories, fisheries, from mines and machine-shops, from stores and steel-mills, from bakeries and bunkhouses. They put away tennis racks and golf clubs, fishing rods and shot-guns. They exchanged taxi-cab for tanks, typewriters for armoured cars, limousines for motorcycles.

These exchanges of peaceful vocations and avocations for the stern arts of war were made in theory rather than practice for Canada, which had long ago re-forged the swords of 1914-1919 into ploughshares, was not prepared for war.

There were not at first enough uniforms to clothe the Active Army. There were not enough rifles. There were not enough field guns. There were not enough trucks. There were no tanks. There was no modern armament. There was no modern equipment. There were not enough men!

Not enough men? How can we say that when we know that the days of 1914 were re-enacted? When we know that harassed Militia officers were at their wits end to enlist the thousands of eager volunteers?

There were not enough men because today it is no longer a question of raising a citizen's army by teaching men to march and shoot and use the bayonet. This war is a war of machines and cold science and skilled training and specialization such as was conceivable only to students of the trend of war or minds such as H. G. Wells.

Canadians were willing and ready. But they weren't able. So they had to be taught. They had to be taught the fundamentals of soldiering. They had to be taught specialized trades. They had to be taught to combine soldiering and trades training as they were molded into units and formations.

And while the recruiting and training and mobilization was proceeding along the lines laid down by the General Staff there was much other work to be done — urgent work necessitated by the sudden transition from peace to war, by the sudden change of civilins into soldiers. Provision had to be made for the housing, feeding, training and equipping of what was then known as the Canadian Active Service Force; for its reinforcement, for manning the coast defences, for the training of officers. There had to be provision, with the aid of other departments of the government, for the manufacture and supply of arms and munitions, mechanized equipment, special vehicles.

That this was done is already history. How it was done is a tribute to Canadian industry, to Canadian adaptability, to Canadian patriotism.

The Army Overseas

Overseas today we have in the Canadian Army overseas and at home, six infantry divisions, two armoured divisions, two Army Tank Brigades and the necessary ancillary units known as Army and Corps Troops under the command of Lieut.-General A. G. L. McNaughton.

Canada's overseas forces have the Division as their basis of organization. A self-contained organization formed of all arms and supporting Services the Division can operate as a single entity or can be broken into Brigade Groups each to act independently.

The Divisions consist of infantry, divisional artillery with field guns, anti-tank and anti-aircraft guns; divisional engineers; divisional signals; Army Service Corps; Medical Services; Ordnance Services; Postal, Provost, Field Hygiene, Dental, Salvage, Mobile Bath and other services.

In addition to the Divisions constituting the Canadian Army are what are known as Corps and Army Troops. These units, which number at least half the strength of the divisions, are centralized under Corps control for reasons of efficiency and economy. They serve many purposes and include Field, Medium, Light Anti-Aircraft and Anti-Tank Artillery and medium machine-gun battalions — all are used to augment the offensive and defensive powers of the divisions. Other units in this category are Engineer battalions, road construction companies, tunnelling companies; Troop Carrying Companies of the R.C.A.S.C., to provide transport for the infantry and increase its mobility and range from 15 to 150 miles a day; other supply services; larger Ordnance repair facilities; more Medical Services and, of course, the Army Tank Brigade which is considered to be the equal and possibly the superior of any comparable formation in the world.

Base Units

To provide units of the Canadian Corps with reinforcements, operate an extensive training school with several branches, general hospitals, workshops, pay offices, and a printing and stationery office, a great base organization exists.

Under this organization are the Base Units, holding units for every unit, arm and service in the Corps. In these units reinforcements from Canada complete their training and fit themselves for active service with the units to which they are destined to go.

These Base Units are under the control of Canadian Military Headquarters in London situated near the War Office for ease of consultation. C.M.Q.H. also serves as a link between National Defence Headquarters in Ottawa and the Canadian Army overseas.

The Home Forces

Not too much may be said about members of the Active Army on duty in Canada. They are employed in a large number of fortresses and defences on both coasts; in Divisions and Brigades strategically located in Eastern and Western areas as well as other parts of the Dominion. In addition there are a considerable number of infantry battalions maintaining ceaseless vigil along our shores. Coastal Defences include Coastal Artillery, Anti-Aircraft Artillery, Searchlight Batteries, Signal, Engineer and Maintenance units.

For administration and command the Dominion of Canada is divided into 11 Military Districts and two Commands known, respectively, as the Atlantic and Pacific Commands. These latter are headed by General Officers Commanding in Chief whose duty is the Defence of their costal areas.

The 11 Military Districts are charged with the administration of troops in their areas, the raising of new units as required and the training of units and reinforcements.

Army Training

As every Canadian knows, training of reinforcements is going on all over Canada at a chain of Basic and Advanced Training Centres. To tell how many of those centres there are or where they are located would be to take a chance on giving information to the enemy. Neither is it advisable to put in black and white the number of reinforcements these centres are producing—the numbers, however, are reassurring and no volunteer need fear that there is not sufficient training accommodation.

At the Basic Training Centre the new soldier receives training in the fundamentals of soldiering. He learns to become a part of an integrated unit without which training he would be merely an individual in uniform instead of part of an Army.

When he has learned the military fundamentals the new soldier is transferred to an Advanced Training Centre—he has passed his "Entrance" and becomes a High School student. Here he learns the work of his own arm or service, Artillery, Engineers, Signals, Ordnance, Tanks, Machine-gun.

He has been helped in his selection of a branch of the service by the recently constituted Personnel Selection Directorate which is charged with the highly responsible duty of seeing that "round pegs" are not put into "square holes."

The next steps are transfer to a holding company in Canada, the thrill of a trans-atlantic voyage in war time to a Base Unit in the British Isles and further training until he is called upon to take his place in the Canadian Army.

Training in Canada and overseas aims to fit the erstwhile civilian to take his place in an ultra-modern, highly mechanized army destined to face an enemy whose use of mechanized warfare has placed him astride Europe and much of Asia.

Such training far surpass any training programme of the last war for the very reason that this war calls for qualities and qualifications not demanded in the conflict of 1914-19. Today men in most arms and services must be a combination of soldiers and skilled tradesmen. Some must know how to operate and fight a large number of mechanical weapons or vehicles. Others must know how to fit, recover and repair those weapons or vehicles. All must know how to defend themselves by attacking enemy formations that threaten their vehicles or supply depots, if the tide of the battle changes suddenly. That is why today every soldier, regardless of his army or service, is thoroughly grounded in the use of several weapons before he goes to more specialized training.

The emphasis in all training is upon the development of initiative and resourcefulness in each individual soldier. Modernwarfare frequently narrows down to the point where a non-commissioner officer and the seven men of his section may find themselves in a position where action on their part might be the turning point of an engagement. To foster the ability to do the right thing at the right time, a Battle Drill Training School—confused by many as synonymous with Commando Training—has been established in the Pacific Command.

Canadians, by virtue of the familiarity of most of them with life in the open, lend themselves well to

This Week In Radio

CANADIANS this week do honor to their Army, and for this special week one of the largest and most sustained demonstrations during peacetime or war in the history of the Dominion will take place. For this radio is going to play a most prominent part, for Army Week is in response to a demand by Canadians who want to express their pride in their Army. Some of the national programs are:

"On Guard for Thee," Sunday, June 28, at 10.15 p.m. EDT, from Toronto, is the story of the Canadian army's training and preparedness, when Col. Ralston and Lt.-Gen. McNaughton will speak . . . A program arranged and recorded by the CBC Overseas Unit will be heard on Monday at 10.15 p.m. EDT . . . The Canadian Grenadier Guards Band will play a special program in honor of Army Week on Wednesday at 8.30 p.m. EDT . . . "Canada Marches," Wednesday, July 1, at 10.15 p.m. EDT, from Toronto, is another "special." This Dominion Day program in the series devoted to Canada's fighting regiments will be the eighth, and because it falls in Army Week, will be directed to thoughts of the past as well as the present . . . "Facing West," Friday, at 10.15 p.m. EDT, from Vancouver, will give all of Canada an eye-witness account of the preparations being made for the defence of the Canadian west coast . . . "Salute to the United Nations," Saturday, at 8.30 p.m. EDT, also from Vancouver, will feature the national songs of all the United Nations . . . Stag Party, Saturday, at 10.30 p.m. EDT, will be broadcast before an audience with members of the United States Army as well as Canadian soldiers occupying the front rows for this special edition of the popular west coast fun session.

"THE VICTORY PARADE," the replacement show for the Jack Benny program, will highlight Burns and Allen and Paul Whiteman's orchestra on Sunday at 7, CBL.

FRED ALLEN is going on his summer vacation, and to wind up his program on Sunday he will have as guest, Judy Canova.

LUM AND ABNER, the famous radio team of Arkansas storekeepers, move to a new time on WJZ on Monday. On that day and thereafter, Lum and Abner will be heard at 10.00 p.m.

TO MAKE WAY for a new dramatic serial, entitled "Lonely Women," which will be heard every afternoon at 2.15 over WEAF, four of the daytime serials change time, effective June 29. The change of time is as follows: "Lone Journey," WEAF, 10.45 a.m.; "Road of Life," WEAF, 11.00 a.m.; "Mary Marlin," CBL, 3.00 p.m., and "Against the Storm," CBL, 3.45 p.m.

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN, the former silent screen idol is to star in the cast of "Those We Love," the summer replacement of Eddie Cantor's "Time to Smile" program. This will be heard Wednesdays at 9.00 p.m. over WEAF.

ON DOMINION DAY, July 1, a special service dedicated to Canada will be broadcast by the BBC from Westminster Abbey in London. The sermon will be preached by His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury. The Dominion Day service will be heard as a delayed broadcast in Canada over CBL at 2.00 p.m.

ARMY MUST TAKE HOLD OF ENEMY'S LANDS BEFORE WAR IS WON

Canada's Greatest Investment In Modern Warfare Is Her Army And Its Equipment

the exercise of initiative and ingenuity. Equally, because of the familiarity with the average Canadian boy with automobiles, radio, gasoline farm machinery, and the plants of modern technical schools, they take to mechanized warfare with enthusiasm.

The Arms and Services

Just how is the Canadian army constituted? When our soldiers have completed their basic and advanced training to what branch of the forces do they go? Who decides for what unit a man is best fitted.

These questions are best answered by a short description of the component parts of a modern army.

But first let us fix in our minds what is meant by "arm", what is meant by "service". The "arms", according to a paper recently issued by the General Staff, "are those branches of the force which carry out the tactical plans of the commander—in other words, though not quite accurately as the next paragraph will show, the fighting units.

"The 'services'", says the same authority, "support the arms and look after the men who do the fighting, both as human beings who require food clothing and medical care and as fighting men who require arms and ammunition, and whose vehicles must be kept in first class working order, so that they may not be handicapped in their task of engaging and destroying the enemy." Despite the broad classification of "arms" as fighting men it is significant to note that such services as the Army Service Corps and Ordnance Corps have both been designated as combatant soldiers. As has been shown, soldiers of both these services are fully trained fighting men before they assume their special duties.

Armoured Corps

There are five arms and three main services. Let us take the arms one by one, listing them first as: Armoured Corps Artillery, Engineers, Signals, and Infantry.

Signalized by their black berets worn at a jaunty angle are the men of the Armoured Corps. Lithe and young they typify the mobility and dash of their mechanized horses. For in many respects the Armoured Corps men are the cavalry of modern warfare.

For flashing sabres and pennon-g't lances they substitutes the angry cannon of the tanks, the spitting machine guns of the armoured car. But their advance is as terrifying to an enem as ever the thunder of hooves and the snorting of excited horses. Their offensive power is, of course, many times that of a cavalry charge and, because they attack from mobile fortresses, the safety of the men is greater than was ever before achieved in war.

Men of a very high type are required for the Armoured Corps, men capable of withstanding the hardships of long m..."s over rough country, men capable of training as highly skilled drivers, radio operators and mechanics.

Fighting tanks and armoured cars for reconnaissance are the vehicles that have replaced the cavalry chargers as tractors have replaced horses in the artillery so that war, as Lieut.-General McNaughton envisions it, may be fought with guns and machines to the greatest possible extent

Royal Canadian Artillery

Once the dashing, glamorous arm drawn into action by snorting, beautiful horses, the artillery today is a completely mechanized, precision-trained medium for the destruction of enemy, resistance by means of long-range, accurate fire-power. It possesses mobility, speed and accuracy such as was never dreamed of by the gallant gunners even of the Great War and much of its deadly effectiveness is due to technical research and improvement during the years of peace by Lieut.-General A. G. L. McNaughton, now Commander in Chief of the Canadian Army, during the two decades of breathing space between 1919 and 1930.

This technical research still goes on and the artillery of the Canadian Corps now uses, in addition to the types of guns usually associated with the arm that has been called, "the right of the line and the pride of the British Army." Anti-Tank and Anti - Aircraft guns against these highly developed modern weapons.

A well-trained gun-crew is an excellent example of the way in which modern army training brings out the quality of leadership inherent in Canadians—every member of the crew is capable of performing the duties of each of his other teammates.

Royal Canadian Engineers

To "Sappers," as engineers are known in the army, fall a number of duties that call for highly specialized training. They form the arm responsible for construction and destruction. Construction of bridges and defence works for our own troops and destruction of enemy defences, bridges, roads to hamper the enemy.

Each unit of the army is responsible for its own defences, but can call upon the engineers for advice and technical assistance. Members of the Royal Canadian Engineers are recruited largely from such specialists as miners, drillers and powder men—who are invaluable for such work as tunnelling, bridging and demolition—engineers, carpenters, masons and construction men.

As demonstrated at Tobruk and elsewhere in the Libyan campaign, the engineers often perform invaluable and dangerous work in preparation for the final assault by armoured corps and infantrymen.

Canadian Corps of Signals

Communication, one of the most vital services in peace time, is an imperative necessity in war. In a campaign of highspeed mobility in which commanders must rapidly fling from one place to another units of armoured and troop-carrying vehicles capable of 50 miles an hour, hordes of tanks which travel at 30 miles an hour and more, artillery drawn by tractors that can keep pace with the fastest vehicles against an equally mobile enemy rapid communication must be available.

Every available means of communication is employed by the signallers to maintain constant touch with all units and formations all the way from national defence headquarters through Canadian military headquarters, corps, divisions and brigade to units.

By radio telegraph and telephone, line telegraph and telephone—even the teletype—the Signals establish and maintain channels of communication in the field. Mobile wireless trucks, cable-laying cars that string wires at high speed are just two of the many modern gadgets with which they are equipped.

The Infantry

When it comes to the "mopping up," the occupation of territory, the actual winning of battles, it is the infantryman who does the final job. Infantry is the arm which comes to closest grips with the enemy. Infantrymen, with, in addition to their rifles and bayonets, such weapons as light and heavy machine guns, anti-tank rifles, two and three-inch mortars, hand grenades and rifle grenades — to mention some of their weapons — can hold ground that has been taken by tanks.

Infantrymen do their fighting on foot, but lose nothing of mobility since they may be transported close to the scene of action in army trucks. The infantry of the armoured divisions is, of course, completely mechanized so that it can maintain the speed and mobility of the rest of the division.

Today's infantry soldier when he has completed his basic, advanced and battle training is as well educated in the art of war as was an officer in the Great War. He is skilled in attack and prepared for and equal to any situation that may develop.

The Army Service Corps

In broad, general terms the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps may be likened to a big chain store system, complete with storage warehouses, jobbers' warehouses and delivery fleets. It deals in food, fuel, forage, clothing and transportation both of its products and the consumers to whom it deliver the goods.

Napoleon, amongst others, is credited with the dictum that "An Army marches on its stomach." It was the Army Service Corps that made such a statement factual. In those days, particularly on the occasion of the march to Moscow, the food and supply service had to rely to a great extent upon local sources of supply. Today, despite the many advantages provided by modern transportation facilities, Service Corps men are taught how to obtain food and fuel locally and make long studies of the methods of testing quality, estimating quantity and manner of storing every type of supply the army needs from fresh eggs to mortar ammunition.

They are fighting soldiers, too, these men who keep the army fed, fueled and armed. Many a time in desert warfare supply columns have had to fight their way through enemy country to reach a rendezvous.

The Royal Canadian Army Service Corps is also responsible for transporting infantry and engineers by its troop carrying companies. Its drivers must be first class drivers-mechanics for they drive ambulances for the wounded and must be able to make running repairs on the road.

Many walks of life in the civilian economy prepare men for the army service corps—garages, but and truck companies, warehouses and department stores providing excellent examples. From these industries men require very little special training once they have passed through the Basic and Advanced training centres.

Canadian Ordnance Corps

It is not easy in confined space to give a real picture of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps. This important service, without which none of the arms or services could function, obtains from civilian sources as well as arsenals the weaopns, vehicles which are looked after by the R.C.A.S.C., is undertaken by this greatly expanded service.

To handle the repair and maintenance of guns of all types, tanks, armoured cars, scout cars, jeeps, tank carriers, automobiles, motorcycles, signals equipment, artillery tractors, searchlights and a host of other machines the Ordnance Corps enlists and trains artificers electricians, fitters, carpenters, metalworkers, mechanics, painters, tinsmiths—in fact men trained in more than 100 trades.

An illustration of the expansion of the Ordnance Corps is supplied by these comparisons: One Armoured Division develops 394,237 horse power which is equivalent to the electrical power used in the city of Toronto — the mechanical power available to 12,000 men equals the electrical power available to the near-million residents of Greater Toronto. In the last war 12,000 soldiers had 3,300 horse power, about the electrical energy used in such towns as Gananoque or Lindsay.

Canadian Army Medical Corps

The health of the troops, from two points of view, is the concern of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps. Its primary function is to keep the Army fit to fight and begins with the enlistment of the recruit.

Before a recruit is attested he is carefully examined by a medical board and unless he is fit is not permitted to join the army. Thus at the outset the health of the Army is protected by making available only men who will be able to stand the rigours of campaigning.

Once the soldier is in uniform his health receives more care than even the most enlightened community provides in civilian life. Sanitation and hygiene of camps, barracks and field encampments are under the care and supervision of the R.C.A.M.C. Attached to every battalion or equivalent unit in the other arms and services there is a Medical Officer.

To care for sickness during the training period there are hospitals of varying size each fully staffed with Medical Officers, Nursing Sisters and other R.C.A.M.C. personnel. An interesting illustration of the care of the Army's health is afforded by the statement that every Nursing Sister is a registered graduate nurse. There are no nurses in training attached to military hospitals.

For the evacuation and care of the wounded the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps maintains and operates various necessary organizations all designed to repair the damage of war in the most efficient manner. A chain of collecting stations at which medical attention is given to the wounded extends from the Regimental Aid Post through Casualty Clearing Stations and Field Ambulances to Hospitals which may be of 1200 bed strength.

Through this chain men with wounds of varying degree of seriousness are treated, the lighter casualties returning to their units with the least loss of time and the more serious one making their way farther from danger for longer periods of treatment and convalescence.

The Canadian Dental Corps

Vital to the care of the army's health is the care of the men's teeth and to provide this care there exists the Canadian Dental Corps.

This organization, like that of the Medical Corps, has a dual purpose—preventive and recuperative. Also like the Medical Corps it recruits its officers from civilian professional ranks and is staffed by some of the outstanding men in the profession of dentistry.

My means of dental clinics in district depots and other centres needed care is given to the teeth of every soldier. Even the smaller posts are looked after by mobile dental units, compact surgeries on wheels equipped with everything a dentist needs, that travel about as required.

From the recuperative angle the work of the Dental Corps ties in very closely with that of the Medical Corps and great work, combined with that of plastic surgeons, is done by officers of the Corps in facial injury cases.

Other Services

Many other services of varying natures, spiritual and physical, minister to the Canadian Army. These include the Chaplain Services, Educational Services, Postal Corps, Auxiliary Services, Corps of Military Staff Clerks, Royal Canadian Army Pay Corps and the Provost Corps.

On the spiritual side the Chaplain Service, under the Adjutant-General, is divided into two branches; Protestant, which covers all denominations except Roman Catholics; and Roman Catholic. Each unit has a chaplain attached to it. He is a spiritual adviser in the truest sense, and although he is an Honorary Captain and wears the badges of his rank, mingles freely with all soldiers.

Working closely with the chaplains are the Organization Supervisors of the Auxiliary Services. These men, volunteers who work as civilians in Canada but are uniformed overseas, work in a number of ways to provide healthful entertainment, sport, recreation and educational opportunities for Canada's soldiers.

Duties of the other uniformed services referred to are indicated pretty well by the names of their Corps.

Your Canadian Army

The Canadian Army is not an army in the old sense—regiments of professional soldiers—it is an army of Canadians of varying degrees of age who have temporarily thrown down the tools of civilian life to undertake the greatest duty of all, the protection of home and fireside, the liberation of mankind and the destruction of the evil forces loosed upon the world by the axis powers.

Its soldiers are the boys who yesterday robbed your orchard, overturned your out-houses on Hallowe'en, rang your doorbell, broke your windows when the baseball season opened, brought homeless dogs in on your clean floors, proudly brought home prizes from school, ran to your comfort when the going was too hard, brought tears to your eyes when in some unexplainable way they made you proud of them.

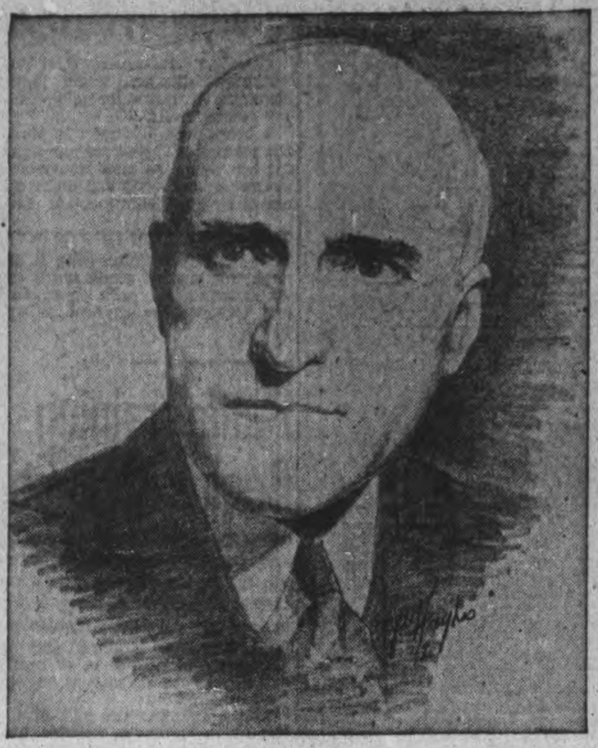
They are the men of tomorrow faced with the job of making this old world tick again after their self-imposed job of saving it from destruction is done.

Your Canadian Army is not only an army, it is Canada on the march. It is Canada preparing to smash a hydra-headed monster that threatens the existence of the world. It is Canada turning the brains and brawn of youth to the high purpose of fighting the battle for freedom. It is Canada carrying on the torch flung to it from falling hands on Flanders Fields.

It is the product of Canada's schools—public, high and technical; of Universities; of Canada's forests, farms, factories, foundries and fisheries. Its racial origins are as many as the racial origins welded together to form this great Dominion.

It is Canada.

Minister Formally Opens Army Week



Army Week will be formally launched in a national program over the Canadian Broadcasting System Sunday evening from 10:15 to 11:00 p.m., when messages will be received from Defence Minister Ralston, Lieut.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Commander of the first Canadian Army, and Lieut.-Gen. K. Stuart, Chief of the General Staff. Defence Minister Ralston is shown above in an unusually fine pencil portrait by Lt. Jack Hughes of Peterborough.

Soldier's Diet Well Filled With Proteins

Tradition says that an army lives on bully beef and hard tack, but Canadian soldiers are training on diets that include the proper amount of proteins, minerals carbohydrates and all the vitamins in a dietitian's alphabet.

The army mess kitchen has been modernized along with every other part of the service, and a glance at a regular army sheet shows that no soldier misses "maw's apple pie" for long after he has been eating army meals.

A day chosen at random from the diet shows that a soldier starts off with a whacking big breakfast that includes the following:

Grapefruit Juice
Cracked Wheat Fresh Milk
Gridle Cakes Bacon
Corn Syrup Toast Butter
Coffee Cocoa.

After a hard morning's training Johnny Canuck relaxes over a lunch that would be a credit to Toronto's Royal York Hotel. Here's the menu:

Clear Onion Soup
Swiss Steak
Potatoes boiled in jackets
Buttered Carrots
Bread and Butter
Rice and Raisin Pudding
Tea or Milk.

When the day's work is completed, there's an evening meal ready that is guaranteed to restore lost energy and pep. It would whet the appetite of even the most fatigued recruit. Here it is straight from another army diet sheet:

Cream of Carrot Soup
Cold Roast Pork Potato Salad
Plain Muffins
Blanc Mange Doughnuts
Tea Iced Cocoa Fresh Apple.

The Army's concern with foods doesn't stop with the planning of balanced diets. Once a diet sheet is made up and signed by the commanding officer of a unit, it must not be changed by the cook without the officer's approval.

At meal times, an orderly officer visits the messes and asks the men if they have any complaints to make regarding the food. If they have, the complaints are dealt with to the satisfaction of the men. But as one commanding officer has remarked, "Complaints are few and far between because the men are being fed the finest foods available."

Men taking special training, such as commandos are fed special foods containing vitamins that will help them see at night, give them plenty stamina and endurance for long route marches and tough assault courses.

ARMY FIRST FORCE TO MOVE TO DEFENCE OF CANADA IN 1939

Guard Ceremony At Centre Is Being Planned

During "Army Week' what is know as a "quarter-guard" will be mounted at the entrance to the Training Centre. The guard will be changed each day at four o'clock in the afternoon.

In connection with the changing of the guard the band of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps (A.F.) of Kingston will be available for the ceremony on the first four days of the week.

The public are invited to attend the inspection of the guard which will be carried out each day at the time mentioned above and the changing of the various sentries.

The guard to be mounted will be drawn from the various companies and members of the guard are soldiers who have completed less than two months' training. Always a colorful ceremony, this will be the first quarter-guard to be mounted here and the public will find the ceremony interesting as well as educational.

Canadians Doing Grand Job Financing Army

Generations of Canadians yet to reach manhood will look back with pride on the way Canadians of today are solving the colossal task of helping to finance the astronomical dollar needs of war, to see that every branch of Canada's fighting forces gets the best that Canadians at home can give.

In connection with the observation of Army Week in Canada it may prove interesting to many people to have a short review of the activities of the Department of Finance in relation to the prosecution of the war.

These activities may be divided into two categories: the first being the raising of money necessary to pay, feed and clothe the men and women in the Canadian Armed Forces, and to provide them with the necessary mechanized items of war that will make and keep them among the best equipped armies in the world; and the second being those general economic measures that have been adopted to ensure the full use of Canada's resources and man-power in the war effort.

$997,000,000 For Army

In the fiscal year ending March 31, 1943, the Dominion will require approximately three and one half billion dollars for war and current purposes. The War Appropriation Act for this fiscal year provides two billion dollars for Canada's direct war expenditures of which $997,000,000 is accounted for by the Army alone. In addition, Canada is assisting Great Britain by the outright gift of one billion dollars for the purchase of munitions of war and foodstuffs in Canada. The remainder is required for general expenses of the Government.

The magnitude of this expenditure is shown by the fact that in the last fiscal year before the outbreak of war total Government expenditure was less than one-sixth of the amount required this year. The Government is spending nearly ten million dollars a day, of which nearly nine million is for war.

Naturally, in an article of this length, it is not possible to show in great detail the varied means that have been adopted and followed to accomplish these objectives. It is interesting, however, to examine certain measures that have been introduced, under the direction of the Minister of Finance so that the efforts on the home or economic front would be of the greatest assistance to the fighting services.

Following the outbreak of the war the Government established the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to ensure that the prices and supplies of certain goods and services would be available to the consuming public. The powers of this Board were greatly widened last year with the setting up of an "over-all price-ceiling." At that time the cost of living in Canada was nearly 14 per cent higher than at the outbreak of war. To arrest this trend, which if allowed to continue would have disrupted the economic life of the country, the Government placed the prices of all goods and services under a price ceiling and stabilized wages at the then prevailing levels, with provision for adjustment by means of a "cost of living bonus" in the event that cost of living increased. That this plan has been successful is evidenced by the fact that the cost of living is now approximately the same as when the plan was introduced over six months ago. Since the entry of the United States into the war, that friendly neighbor has seen the wisdom of adopting a similar measure.

Foreign Exchange Board

Another important economic measure introduced at the outbreak of the war was the setting up of the Foreign Exchange Control Board. Canada in peacetime has a deficit in her balance of payments with the United States, but that deficit has been met by the conversion of her surplus in sterling into United States dollars in New York. Since the outbreak of war it has not been possible to convert this surplus sterling into dollars. Canada therefore had to face a sterling shortage of United States dollars. It is obvious that Canada requires United States dollars for her purchases of essential materials for munitions of war. The measures adopted to conserve our supply of United States dollars may be summarized in brief as follows: the export of capital from Canada was prohibited; all foreign exchange from private holders was acquired by the Board; a ten per cent tax was imposed on all imports from countries outside the sterling area; importation was prohibited of a number of products from non-sterling countries; certain articles which occasion substantial imports of parts and materials from hard currency countries were heavily taxed, while expansion of exports to the United States were encouraged by tax adjustments.

Direct Measures

The foregoing might be called the preventive measures that tend to keep our normal everyday domestic problems on a reasonably even balance, but now let us take the various direct measures that have been taken to finance the war as far as practicable on a "pay-as-you-go" policy, which is the policy of the Government.

In the last full fiscal year before the outbreak of war, the Dominion's total tax receipts amounted to $436,000,000. In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1942, tax receipts totalled $1,361,000,000. Thus it is seen that our tax revenues have increased over threefold. It has been estimated that five times as many people pay income tax now as did before the war and the amount collected is five times that collected before the war. The Dominion has introduced a heavy excess profits tax, and, in addition, has imposed gasoline and amusement taxes and succession duties for the first time.

Because it is obviously not possible to raise all the money to pay for the war by taxation, it has been necessary to raise money by borrowing. Since the outbreak of war Canadians have rallied with patriotic pride to loan to their country over $2,600,000,000 in War and Victory Loans, War Savings Certificates and Non-Interest Bearing Certificates.

In the last Victory Loan issued in February and March of this year over 1,600,000 individual subscribers purchased bonds to the extent of nearly one billion dollars. Every War Saving Certificate purchased is a direct help to those actively fighting for Canada.

In order to co-ordinate the various means of borrowing, the Government has established the National War Finance Committee. This Committee is charged with the responsibility of setting up a nation-wide organization for the selling of bonds and War Savings Certificates. It is of the greatest importance to Canada's war effort that all surplus purchasing power be directed to the prosecution of the war either through taxation or in the form of loans to the Government instead of being employed in creating a demand for civilian goods which use up materials and man-power that can otherwise be devoted to war needs.

Look Out Adolf, Here He Comes

Symbolizing the offensive spirit of the Canadian soldier this drawing by Grant Macdonald, Toronto artist, shows an infantryman with a Sten carbine at the firing position. The new Sten sub-machine gun, now being manufactured in Canada, can be fired from the shoulder or the hip and is well adapted for use by shock troops and paratroops.

Money Well Spent To Outfit Canadian Soldier

Canadian taxpayers shell out $49.37 to clothe each soldier in the Canadian Army, not including walking out uniforms.

A break down of that sum shows the money well spent for our fighting men wear the most comfortable clothes of any army and enjoy the use of a varied assortment of utensils and necessaries indispensable to Army life.

The public will be inspecting the camp life of soldiers, including the uniforms they wear, during Army Week, June 29 to July 5. The battle dress our soldiers wear as they go through field tactics will have cost the onlooking public $6.24 for the trousers and $6.18 for the blouse. Boots are worth $4.81 a pair, each soldier has two pairs, and the anklets 77 cents. The field service cap every soldier wears costs a mere 82 cents.

During winter our men are definitely frost-proof. A warm Melton cap with ear flaps keeps off head colds. It's cost is only $1.20. Biting winds can blow in vain against the soft, thick cloth of the famous great-coat. The price of dressing a soldier in one is $17.22 the most expensive item in his wardrobe. For a total of $4.93 a soldier's winter outfit is completed with a woollen undershirt and drawers, khaki muffler, woollen gloves and overshoes.

From the heavy, warm winter outfit the soldier changes over to the light, cool drill of summer. His jacket, complete with shining brass buttons, costs $3.05. His shorts $1.32. Underwear, puttees and sun helmet come to a total of $2.55 and the Canadian soldier is ready for duty in the hottest climate.

The threat of gas warfare has necessitated the design of special military clothing. An anti-gas cape which protects the soldier's body against a gas attack costs $5.27. His respirator, most common anti-gas equipment, sets the taxpayer back $6.52. Even the anti-gas wallet has been designed for each soldier at a cost of only 33 cents each.

The cost of all the uniforms and equipment of every soldier reaches a fine, fat figure, but it will seem a cheap price to pay for the victory and peace which our soldiers will win for us on the continent of Europe.

Battle Training Begins At Home

The Canadian Army's reinforcing and complex training system in this war has been devloped from an entirely new aspect. Nothing is left undone to ensure the Canadian recruit being so trained and so equipped that he will be as nearly battle-ready as possible when he goes overseas.

In the last war the bulk of the training was given in England. The 1st Canadian Division which arrived in England in December 1939, got the majority of its training overseas this time also. But Canadian troops now receive much more than elementary training at home.

As the individual completes his four or more months of basic, weapon and specialist training, sub-unit and unit training by company and battalion are proceeded with. If time permits before proceeding overseas, brigade manoeuvres and large-scale operations form part of the syllabus.

The objective which the Department of National Defence has in view is to so train and equip formations in Canada that, from the day they arrive overseas, they will be fit to do battle alongside other formations of the Canadian Corps.

Divisions which stay at home will be no less battle-worthy for they will be led and instructed by officers "who have been there."

I'll never forget that day when he came into the room and in that shy, offhand way of his told me
"Mom, I've joined the Army."
He looked so young and afraid.
Not afraid for himself
but afraid for me.
Afraid that his pride walked hob-nailed on my heart.
But I was his mother.
I knew what thoughts he lived with and how his eyes shone when a band went by.
I saw him grow quiet
when he heard that Singapore had gone.
I was his mother and I knew that one day soon
He'd come to me and say
"Mom—I've joined..."

And that first leave he wore his uniform and stood so tall
and looked so fine...
I hoped the torment of my heart
didn't show.
He was a boy
but now he was a man, fiercely proud of the uniform he wore, excitedly telling us
of his regiment,
the honours it had won,
what fine pals he'd made.
There was in his manliness
a strength and comfort.
And I thought,
God bless him and if it is His will keep him safe from harm, but whatever comes keep him always loyal, true and brave.
True to himself,
true to the cause he fights for,
true to the uniform he wears.

8th ARMY QUITS MATRUH LINES SHIFT PERILOUSLY

CAIRO, June 29 (AP)—Continuous and heavy fighting raged on today in a wild melee of men and machines over an ever-broadening battlefield around and southeast of Matruh, British bastion 175 miles west of Alexandria.

(Both Berlin and Rome claimed the capture of Matruh together with 6,000 British troops and there was little doubt in London that the port had been abandoned by the 8th Army.)

The desert struggle has been in progress without a break since Saturday afternoon, when an Axis armored force from the west, taking advantage of the glare of the sun in the defenders' eyes, struck at positions southwest of Matruh.

Field Marshall Erwin Rommel loosed the full fury of his Axis legions against the British forces at 5 p.m. Saturday—his favorite hour for launching attacks to the east.

The battle then developed into fast-moving fights between tanks and mobile artillery, the latter being shifted from position to position to strike at opposing tanks. Mobile infantry has been used mainly to occupy points after rounding up prisoners.

Heavy Fighting By Moonlight

A full moon permitted the fight to continue through Saturday night and last night with scarcely any waning in intensity. The great Egyptian moon, shining on the glistening sands, makes it bright enough to read a newspaper but produces curious shadow effects which pose problems for gunners and tank crews.

Today's dawn found the battle for Egypt, now in its third day, moving deeper toward the valley of the Nile with one big battle swirling into the desert southeast of Matruh, British headquarters here announced.

British and United States bombers, blasting hard and often at the advancing Axis forces, ranged over the enemy columns all week-end, setting afire numerous fuel tanks between Salum, near the Libyan border, and Matruh.

The R.A.F. also bombed moving Axis transport and tanks, and R.A.F. fighters provided a protective cover for the British Army over the battle area. R.A.F. headquarters here said eight British craft were lost Saturday and Sunday.

General headquarters said details of the fast-developing ground action were not immediately available, thus leaving the general situation in doubt.

Mobile and armored forces of both sides were reported engaged in the bitter fighting, which was raging to the southwest as well as the southeast of Matruh, where Rommel apparently was trying to turn the British flank.

British headquarters said yesterday Axis armored forces actually had by-passed defence positions west of Matruh, but declared they were met by shock troops who were believed here to have the thrust in hand.

Artillery was playing an important role in the bitter struggle, with tanks and mobile batteries engaged in almost point-blank duels. Tank-versus-tank combats were held to a minimum.

Main Hun Blitz On At Kursk

Smash East To Sever Red Front

Aim at Don Crossings And Stalingrad With Full Might

LONDON, June 29 —(CP)— "The main German offensive", in Soviet Russia has opened with the attack launched yesterday in the Kursk area, a military commentator said today.

The full weight of the German attacks is being felt in the Kharkov and Kursk areas as Gen. Fedor Von Bock strikes eastward toward crossings of the Don river and Stalingrad, he said.

Aimed to Cut Fronts

MOSCOW, June 29—(AP)—Probing the long, resilient Russian line for a weakness, the Germans were smashing out from Kursk, about 280 miles south of Moscow, today in a new drive presumably aimed at cutting the vital railway connecting the southern and central fronts.

The new offensive - the fourth started by the Germans this spring —came as the battered and weary Soviet defenders of Sevastopol fought off a succession of Axis blows at the Black Sea fortress, now under attack for the 25th day. Other Red Army units were counter-attacking fiercely in the Kharkov region and winning back some lost ground, front dispatches said.

Today's mid-day Soviet communique gave no details of the fighting east of Kursk, saying merely that during the night "in the Kursk and Sevastopol directions our troops engaged the enemy in battle."

A supplement to the communique said the Germans had opened 25 field hospitals at Simferopol, northeast of Sevastopol in the Crimea, to handle the large number of wounded from Sevastopol.

Head For Rail Junction

The new blow in the Kursk sector came Sunday and the Russians said only the Germans "had gone over to the offensive" there. The drive was pointed at Voronezh, 120 miles to the east, an important railway centre 300 miles south of Moscow and about 500 miles north of Rostov, the gate to the Caucasus now held by the Russians.

The Russian winter offensive failed to dislodge the Germans from Kursk and the Russian line in this region runs roughly north and south to the east of Kharkov, Kursk and Orel.

A German break-through east of Kursk would not only threaten vital Russian forces in the Kharkov sector into reach of an encirclement movement from the north.

Dispatches from the Kharkov front said last week's German drive

Suspect Pair Of Kinmount Minden Fires

Admit Breaking Into Donald Store; Held for Car Theft

TORONTO, June 29 — (CP). — Two Toronto men who, police say, admit breaking and entering the post-office and general store at Donald in the Haliburton district in May, are to be questioned in connection with the two fires that swept through the villages of Kinmount and Minden in April and May.

The men were arrested in Toronto Saturday. The men were charged with the theft of two outomobiles and license markers.

They are also wanted, Toronto police say, for shopbreaking at Donald, where the combined post-office and general store was robbed May 19.

A nightwatchman in a chemical plan nearby heard the noise and the men escaped. Investigation revealed that the store had been drenched with either gasoline or coal oil, but had not been "set off", police stated. Following this break-in police have been searching for the car that was outside the store when the watchman took the number.

Try Cafe Owner For Aiding Nazi

DETROIT, June 29 — (AP). — Charged with treason, Max Stephan, 49-year-old German-born Detroit restaurateur, went on trial to-day in Federal Court. Selection of a jury was expected to be completed late this afternoon.

Stephan, a naturalized citizen is accused of aiding Lieut. Peter Krug, German air force flier, who escaped last April 18 from a prison camp near Bowmanville, Ont.

One of a score of witnesses against Stephan will be Krug, who the Government charges was wined and dined by the restaurateur when he came to Detroit.

U.S. District Attorney John C. Lehr said the Government would attempt to prove that Stephan's allegiance was with the enemy and that he gave them aid and comfort in assisting Krug.

Lehr pointed out that no person can be convicted of treason unless a confession is made in open court or two witnesses testify to the same overt act. Stephan is charged with 13 overt acts of treason related to Krug's flight which ended in his capture by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in San Antonio, Texas.

Punishment for treason ranges from a fine of $1,00 to death, upon from a fine of $1,000 to death, upon conviction. Lehr said the treason indictment is the first growing out of the United States' entrance into the war. There were three such indictments during the First Great War, but no convictions.

18,000 Japs Die With 10 Ships In Midway Tilt

By EUGENE BURNS
Associated Press Staff Writer

PEARL HARBOR, T.H., June 29 (AP).—Defeat of the Japanese invasion fleet off Midway Island was even worse than first reported.

The United States navy, waiting until it had rounded up all the reports and checked them, flatly wrote off as Japanese losses: The Aircraft Carrier Akaig, 16,900 tons; the Aircraft Carrier Kaga, 26,900 tons; the Aircraft Carrier Soryu, 10,050 tons; the Aircraft Carrier Kirqu, 10,050 tons; two heavy cruisers, probably the 8,500 ton Mogam' and the 8,500 ton Mikuma; three destroyers and a cargo or transport vessel.

That added up at least 10 ships sunk in the big sea-air battle earlier this month off Midway. The definite report of four carriers sunk contrasted with tentative reports June 10 of 'two and possibly three. The same reports listed only one other Jap ship as definitely sunk, a destroyer.

A Different Story.

The loss of 10 likewise was in sharp contract with Japanese admissions that only one ship, a carrier, went down.

The navy, summarizing the losses in a communique issued yesterday, said that a fourth destroyer probably was sunk and that considerable damage was wrought on two or three battleships, three or four other heavy cruisers, a light cruiser and four transport or cargo vessels, another transport or cargo ship was listed as probably sunk.

That meant: 10 ships known sunk, two believed sunk and between 10 and 12 damaged.

The carrier losses included the destruction of 275 Japanese planes and their crews.

On the other side of the ledger American losses were listed as one destroyer sunk and damage to an aircraft carrier.

Unofficial estimates placed the probable Japanese death list as 18,000 or more, divided as follows:

Carriers 6,000 lives; battleships, 2,000 heavy cruisers 4,000; light cruisers 1,00; destroyers 1,600; transports 4,000.

Million Jews Slain

LONDON, June 29 —(CP)—The British section of the World Jewish Congress estimated today that more than 1,000,000 Jews have been killed or have died as the result of ill treatment in countries dominated by Germany.

Officials said that 700,000 Jews had lost their lives in Poland and Lithuania and 125,000 in Rumania, while additional deaths had been reported in other Nazis-controlled areas.

Two Killed As Car Scrapes Bus

2 Critically Injured; Bus Loaded With RCAF Men

HAMILTON, Ont., June 29—(CP) —Two persons were killed and two other were critically injured and others less seriously injured early today when a passenger car sideswiped a bus filled with Royal Air Force personnel three miles south of Mount Hope.

Leslie Donaldson, 17, of Cayuga died shortly after admittance to Hamilton Hospital, and Miss Audrey Whaley, 16, of Caledonia, died while being taken to hospital. The two victims were in the front seat. Passengers in the rear seat were: Betty Sawyer, 15, of Caledonia. Ivan Kelly of Blanford, and Donald Whaley, 19, of Caledonia. Miss Sawyer and Ivan Kelly were said to be in critical condition.

LAC. Albert William McCracken of Hagersville was treated at the hospital but discharged with minor injuries attended. Two members of the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F., Francis Willion and Blenche E. Ouelette, were also given medical treatment at the hospital. They were passengers in the bus.

Thirteen-year-old Donna Smith, of Mount Hope, suffered a fractured jaw, fractured collar bone and other injuries in the same accident. She was a passenger in the light car, and was taken to hospital for treatment.

Churchill Flies Plane Part Way

LONDON, June 29 — (CP). — Prime Minister Churchill was reported on Saturday night by the BBC to have flown his plane part of the way across the Atlantic when he returned from his conferences with President Roosevelt.

The BBC quoted Capt. J. C. Kelly Rogers, skipper of the British overseas flying boat which brought the Prime Minister home, as saying: "Just before dinner yesterday (Friday) Mr. Churchill took over the controls for some time, as on his previous trip.

The Prime Minister was greeted by an enthusiastic crowd when he stepped from his train in London.

"Welcome home Winston," the people yelled, waving hats and walking sticks.

Rogers, captain of the first Imperial Airways plane to fly commercially between Britain, Canada and the United States in 1939, said the flight was "completely without incident."

A Call On Wake

WASHINGTON, June 29. —(AP).—The United States Navy announced today that United States bombers attacked Japanese - occupied Wake Island in the Pacific last Saturday, damaging the enemy's air field and various short installations.

Britain, Canada Rolling Out 2nd Front Gun

LONDON, June 29.—(CP).—Britain is producing a £2 sub-machine gun to arm saboteurs and patriots expected to help the Allies open a second front in Europe, was disclosed today.

The weapon, which looks like a dime-store version of the Tommy gun, can shoot nine-millimetre German, Italian and French ammunition and has been tested in commando raids on the French coast.

The gun is regarded as highly useful for shock troops and home guards, but its cheapness, military experts point out, makes it an ideal weapon for big-scale distribution to saboteurs.

Fitted with a magazine holding 34 rounds, the gun can fire more than 500 rounds a minute, is effective up to 200 yards and has a useful life of more than 5,000 rounds.

Eight magazines go with each gun and when loaded they weigh only eight pounds. The guns will be easy to stow in occupied countries by parachute or by smuggling.

The gun is called the "Sten," a word used to conceal its designers real names. One royal ordnance factory is producing them at the rate of three a minute.

Long Branch Job

TORONTO, June 29.—(CP).—The Sten sub-machinegun, a light and easily handled weapon, is being manufactured by Small Arms Ltd., at Long Branch, Ont.

The gun weighs between seven and eight pounds and is of all-metal construction. Even the stock is made of steel. It can be built for about one-fifth of the cost of a Thompson machinegun.

The Sten can be fired from shoulder or hip and is intended for fighting at close quarters.

Aussies Have It Too

CANBERRA, June 29.—(AP).—An improved Sten sub - machinegun, known as the Austen, is being manufactured in Australia, Army Minister Francis Forde said today.

The gun, he added, is highly satisfactory and uses nine millimetre ammunition, the same as the Owens gun which now is in mass production and is being issued to troops. This ammunition is being made in Australia.

Took A Chance, Loses

WASHINGTON, June 29. —(AP).—The Navy Department announced today that a small Norwegian and small Yugoslavian merchant vessel had been sunk in the Atlantic Ocean off the northern coast of South America.

Survivors of the Norwegian vessel were picked up by the Yugoslavian ship, which itself was torpedoed. Survivors from the former vessel have been landed at a gulf coast port, while those from the Yugoslavian ship are reported to have landed at a Caribbean port outside the United States.

Aussie Warship Lost Saving Malta Convoy

MELBOURNE, June 29— (AAP). —The new 1,695-ton Australian destroyer Nestor was sunk in the Mediterranean during the fierce naval and air battle on June 15, it was announced to-day.

Three lives were lost; one man was injured. The crew totalled 200.

Navy Minister Makin, in making the announcement, said the Nestor was lost while acting as a convoy escort.

The Nestor, one of a number of modern destroyers made available by Britain to Australia for manning and inclusion on the list of Australian ships, was under an Australian commanding officer, Cmdr. Alvord Rosenthal, D.S.O. and was manned by officers and men of the Royal Australian Navy.

King George in Canada

MONTREAL, June 29.—(CP).—King George of Greece was officially welcomed at Montreal to-day when he signed city's golden book at the City Hall amidst rousing cheers from civic employees, members of the executive council and Mayor Adhemar Reynault.

The event was the beginning of a heavy days program for the visiting monarch who will attend a civic tea at the Chalet on top of Mount Royal in the afternoon, and appear as guest of honor at a banquet sponsored by the Greek community in the evening.

Student Drowns

ST. THOMAS, Ont., June 29.—(CP)—Robert Mulligan, 18, a student at the St. Thomas Collegiate Institute, was drowned in Lake of Bays off Bigwin Inn Sunday night while canoeing, according to word received by hsi mother, Mrs. James Mulligan here. No other particulars have been received.

Closer Guard For All Hydro Plants

Conant Orders Check Following Saboteur Roundup

TORONTO, June 29 (CP)—Hon. Gordon D. Conant, Attorney-General, announced today that an immediate survey of the adequacy of forces guarding all Ontario Hydro plants will be made as a result of the disclosure in the United States that Nazi saboteurs planned to blow up one of the Niagara Hydro-Electric plants.

"We are considering the whole question of protection at all plants and we will take such further steps as the present situation may indicate as necessary to adequately protect all hydro properties," he said.

The province has supplied guards at some plants since the beginning of the war and the Ontario Hydro erected fences and other protective devices, the attorney-genreal said.

Hydro plants at Niagara are under the direct control of military authorities.

Wants A.A. Battery

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 29 (CP)—Mayor George R. Inglis today is commenting on the arrest of the eight saboteurs in the United States with plans to destroy the power plants here, said he would request civil and military authorities to establish anti-aircraft battery headquarters here for defence and training purposes.

Plane Flies Hour Pilot In Coma

ANN ARBOR, Mich., June 29 (AP) —An airplane with an unconscious girl pilot inside circled the Ann Arbor City Airport crazily for an hour last night while spectators below watched.

Joan Tesh, 19, Ann Arbor, employee of the Willow Run Bomber plant, fainted while in the air.

With the rubber and elevator fixed so it would go in approximately level circles, the plane continued to fly. Robert Young, airport instructor, in another ship saw that Miss Tesh was unconscious at the controls.

For almost 60 minutes the plane continued its wild perambulations. Then the girl revived.

Two efforts at landing were unsuccessful, and as she was about to try a third her gasoline supply ran out. She glided the plane to a stop in a field striking a fence.

Miss Tesh stepped out of the cabin, uninjured, and fainted again. She was treated for shock. The plane was damaged only slightly.

Gibraltar Raided

GIBRALTAR, June 30—(CP).—Three Axis planes attacked Gibraltar early today. They dropped a few bombs, during heavy anti-aircraft fire, which caused no damage. There were no casualties reported.

Ten More Put to Death

BERLIN (from German broadcasts), June 29.—(AP).—A German cour martial sentenced 10 more persons to death in Prague and nine in Bruenn Sunday on charges of approving the assassination of Reinhard Heydrich, or advocating support for Heydrich's killers, the German radio reported.

Among those sentenced in Prague were the mayor and councillor of a city in Eastern Bohemia.

No Supplies to Bengasi for Two Weeks

Rommel, Now Endangering Alexandria, Forced To Run Arms Up 500 Miles

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Things apparently weren't going well in the battle for Egypt as this great engagement, upon which so much of Allied hope depends, moves into its third day of fierce fighting.

Both Berlin and Rome claimed that Axis forces had occupied Matruh, the coastal stronghold to which the British right wing was anchored. Simultaneously a London military commentator said there was some reason for thinking the British troops had withdrawn from the Matruh area.

There was no official confirmation of the Matruh claim, but should it prove to be true it would mean the British situation had become exceedingly grave.

It would make precarious the position of the naval, air and military base of Alexandria, 160 miles away. And should Alexandria succumb it would be a catastrophe.

British headquarters in Cairo announced that the conflict penetrated deeper into this strategic zone. Word that the battle had spread to the southeast of Matruh made it clear that Rommel is trying to turn the British southern flank and that he might be making progress. The British line stretched from Matruh a bit southwestward for some 20 miles across the desert, carrying out his flanking movement.

There is danger Hitler may choose this critical moment to employ his airforce either to strengthen Rommel's striking power or to try a lightning invasion of Syria. Thus far the winged might on Crete and on the neighboring Greek mainland has remained quiet.

The Greek Government stated in London that the Nazis have moved thousands of troops by air into Crete this month and also have considerably increased their air force. Crete certainly is the breeding ground of trouble for the Allies in the Middle East.

We are told that the British 8th Army has been receiving land reinforcements in Egypt to deal with Rommel's offensive. One hopes that these troops didn't come from Syria, since the weakening of the Allied defence in that country would be an invitation to Hitler to strike there.

There is some satisfaction in the fact that Rommel's supply problem become more difficult as he advances. His line of communications is thinly drawn along the coastal highway that runs back across Libya to his sources. He is 500 miles from his principal base at Bengasi, and if his supplies there should become exhausted he probably would have to reach back more than 500 miles more to the big Axis base at Tripoli.

62 Greeks Shot In Crete

Play Role in Sabotage as Hun Mass Paratroops

LONDON, June 29—(CP).— A spokesman of the Greek Government said today that 62 Greeks had been shot in Crete on charges of sabotage by the Germans, who are reported putting thousands of air-borne troops on the island and building many airdromes.

The shootings occurred at Candia, he said, and among those put to death were the mayor, the editor of the local newspaper, a bank director and a school teacher.

"The Germans have been taking the male populations of whole villages for forced labor on new airfields," the spokesman said, "and 19 of those who were shot were workmen who used the opportunity to sabotage the German air effort.

He said "thousands of air-borne troops" had been moved into Crete this month and that the Nazi air force had been "considerably increased" there.

Where male populations flee villages to avoid labor conscription, the spokesman added, women and children are taken as hostages. From one village alone, he said, 125 women and children have been put in concentration camps.

Leopold Refuses To Play

Snubs Demand He Endorse Nazi Regime

LONDON, June 29 — (AP). — Fearing an uprising in the event of an Allied invasion of the Continent, the German government has been attempting to set up new and stable governments in the Netherlands and Belgium, but has been rebuffed by King Leopold of the Belgians and by Netherlands leaders, Belgian Government sources said to-day.

Through Foreign Minister Ribbentrop, the Nazis proposed that "in the interest of Belgium,' King Leopold endorse Rexist Leader Leon Degrelle as head of a new government or, if he were not acceptable, some other person, it was said.

"Our information is that the King persisted in the attitude that he is a prisoner of war, and declined to discuss or have anything to do with the proposition," this source said. The Germans promised, he said, that any regime approved by Leopold would have a "large measure of self-government."

He said a similar proposal was made to Dutch leaders who have opposed the Nazis in the Netherlands. When Ribbentrop was rebuffed by Leopold the gestapo began to compile a list of persons "suspected of Allied leanings" to be arrested the moment the Allies land on the Continent the Belgian Government source said.

NAZI SPIES LANDED FROM SUBMARINES CAUGHT IN UNITED STATES

8 Saboteurs Equipped For 2 Years

Out to Slow Plane Production, Carried $190,000

NEW YORK, June 29—(AP)—Seizure of "several contacts and associates" of the band of eight Nazi spy-saboteurs landed by U-boats on the United States east coast was announced last night by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which promised more arrests within a few days.

New developments in the startling case of the eight German agents submarine-borne to Long Island and Florida beaches with explosives intended to wreck vital American industries included the discovery of an additional cache of $20,000, increasing the total of "pay-off money" carried by the saboteurs to $170,000.

Neither the number nor the names of the persons arrested as aides of the invading saboteurs were disclosed by Earl Connolley, assistant to J. Edgar Hoover, F.B.I. director, in announcing the new roundup 24 hours after Hoover had revealed the capture of the agents bent on a two-year campaign of destruction against the American war effort.

Some arrests of the suspected accomplices were made in Chicago, and some here. Those here were believed to have been made from among a group of German people living on Long Island not far from the deserted beach at Amagansett, where the first group of four Nazi terrorists landed June 13.

Hoover gave the names of those in this group as George John Dasch, 39, leader; Ernest Peter Burger, 36, who in 1931 was a private in the Michigan National Guard, Heinrich Harm Heinck, 35, and Robert Quirin, 34.

Used Rubber Boats

They came ashore in a rubber boat with their store of money and explosives, tgoether with lists of key railroad centres, bridges and war plants which Hoover said they planned to blow up. They also were equipped with forged selective service and social security cards, Hoover said.

Similarly equipped was the group of four which landed at Ponte Vedra Beach near Jacksonville, Fla., June 17, Hoover said, listing these as Edward John Kerling, 33, group leader; Herbert Hapt, 22; Werner Thiel, 35, and Herman Neubauer, 32.

The plans called for destruction of three plants of the Aluminum Company of America and indicated the mission's main attack was to be against the light-metal industry which would have delayed America's through Kupyansk, 60 miles southeast of Kharkov, had been blunted and the Russian troops had taken the offensive, throwing tanks, planes and even an armored train in the battle. The Germans were retreating in some areas, the reports said.

Of the four major spring thrusts initiated by the Germans only the occupation of the Kerch Peninsula has been successfully concluded. Sevastopol still is fighting back and a succession of German drives on the Kharkov front has been dulled and diverted. Progress of the push from Kursk still is uncertain.

Kursk Province, just north of the Ukraine, is devoted largely to agriculture and is crossed by many rivers and valleys. The city of Kursk was captured by the Germans last November. It was an important Russian railway centre and a number of munitions factories were located there. Before the war Kursk had a population of about 100,000.

Consumer'sCase Dark In States

WASHINGTON, June 29 (CP)—Congress received a report from Donald Nelson today that plane, tank and ship objectives will be met but that the outlook for the consumer "is very bad."

The chairman of the War Production Board made those statements in reviewing work of the W.P.B. before a House of Representatives appropriations subcommittee.

He told the subcommittee that President Roosevelt's goal of 18,000,000 tons of shipping would be met. He said he was "certain we will meet the tank objective."

The government currently is setting up facilities to meet the quota of 125,000 planes next year, he said.

Saying "the outlook for the consumer is very bad," Nelson said the country would have enough food and clothnig and would be "incomparably better off" than England or Germany.

But, he added, it may not be possible to have all kinds of shoes a person might want; new homes can not be built, and there may be insufficient rubber for other than essential auto driving.

No Supplies

One of the most cheering dispatches of the week-end was an Associated Press report from Alexandria that during the past fortnight not a single Axis supply ship had been able to reach Bengasi owing to intense British submarine activity. Meanwhile British and American bombers have been blasting at Rommel's lifeline.

2 Men Killed In Plant Blast

OTTAWA, June 29.—(CP)—Two men were killed today when a small explosion occurred at the Cherrier plant north of Montrela, the Department of Munitions and Supply announced.

The dead:

R. Belair, 25, married, of 5677 St., Montreal; J. Vigneault, 28, single of 5569 Seventh Ave., Rosemount, Quebec.

Cause of the blast which occurred in the detonator proof yard at the plant, was unknown. Aside from the two who were killed, none of the plant's personnel was hurt, and the plant is virtually undamaged, aside from one small shed.

Berlin Charges Barbarous Acts To Brazil

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), June 29 — (AP). — Foreign Minister Aswaldo Aranha of Brazil was held responsible to-day for alleged "barbarous actions against Germans" in Brazil in a statement issued by the German government.

The statement spoke of "riotous behavior against Germans and their property" in Brazil, and said that if the government "doesn't take steps without delay to end their grievances the Reich government will take counter measures."

Just Ignoring It.

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 29 — (AP). — A Foreign Ministry informant said to-day it was doubtful that Brazil would take the trouble to reply to a German threat of counter-measures against anti-German manifestations in this country.

Any steps taken by Brazil, this source said, have been taken in the interest of self-defence. He added that so far as Axis diplomats were concerned they had been treated with the greatest respect except "in a few cases where diplomatic agents were openly serving Axis espionage."

Brazil broke off diplomatic relations with the Axis early this year.

Salvation Army Honors Soldiers

Honouring the brave soldiers of the Army the evening service at the Salvation Army Temple on Simcoe street was dedicated to them.

Adjt. Norman Buckley was in charge of the service, with representatives of the armed forces taking a prominent part. Among the congregation that filled the lower auditoriumm were seen many soldier boys.

Adjt. Milton Pilfrey, in charge of the Salvation Army canteen operations in Newmarket, opened the impressive service in prayer.

Corporal Norman Carr of the local Taining Centre, brought the Scriputure lesson for the evening. Leading Aircraftsman Gordon Kennedy, who prior to his enlistment was a member of the Temple Band, gave a glowing testimony to what Jesus Christ means to him in his new spere of life.

A sweetly sung solo, 'Unto the Hill,' was rendered by Pte. Beatrice Curtis of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, accompanied at the piano by Songster Mrs. R. G. Routly.

Guest speaker for the evening was Adjt. Reginald Bamsey, who is in charge of the Salvation Army canteen at Training Centre in the Exhibition Park.

The service closed with special prayer for the men and women of the Army, Navy and Air Force by Mrs. Adjt. Norman Buckley and the singing of the National Anthem.

Following the service the soldiers and friends assembled in the junior Sunday school hall for an enjoyable singsong led by Adjt. Norman Buckley and refreshments served by the Women Comrades of the Temple.

Autos Kill Four In E. Canada's Weekend Toll

By The Canadian Press

Automobile accidents caused four of the seven violent deaths in Eastern Canada during the week-end, while one man died of injuries suffered in a fall, a youth was accidentally shot and a Hamilton youth drowned when a canoe capsized. A member of the Royal Canadian Air Force from St. Hubert, Que., was killed when his training plane crashed into a like near Newport, Vermont.

The sole drowning victim was 18-year-old Murray Pappin of Hamilton, who lost his life in Hamilton Bay Saturday when a canoe capsized. Two companions swam to shore.

Thomas V. Hill, 54, of Toronto died Saturday after falling down cellar stairs.

Injured in a collision between a car and truck two miles west of here, Mrs. Peter Sears, 36, of Toronto died in hospital Saturday night.

Joseph Rheume, 34, of Crabtree Milles near Joliette, Que., died in hospital Sunday of injuries suffered Friday when his car struck a pole after running off the road. He was on his way to make a claim on a fire insurance policy covering his home, which burned down Thursday.

Fourteen-year-old Leo Boudreau of Berachois near Moncton, N.B., was killed Saturday when struck by a truck near his home.

Run over by a city water truck, Caroline Salinsky of Montreal died in hispital Saturday.

Gilles Lefebvre, 13, Bouchette, Que., died in Maniwaki hospital Saturday night from a bullet wound in his head. The youth is said to have suffered the wound when he tapped his rifle on the ground to dislodge a bee he had stuffed in the barrel.

Outboard Motor Taken Off Boat

A Viking outboard motor was stolen from a boat belonging to Mrs. Graham May, Fiji Isand, Stoney Lake, early Sunday morning.

Provincial Constable Price Morris who is investigating the case believes that the theft of the motor may have been in the nature of a drunken prank and that the machine may have been left somewhere around the lake.

For some time during Saturday night a motor boat apparently containing a party who had been imbibing not wisely but too well had been running around in the neighborhood of Fiji Island and it is thought that the members of this outfit were responsible for the theft of the motor. The boat with the noisy party on board was heard to stop close to the island and the next morning the motor was missing from the stern of Mrs. May's boat.

Nazis Using New Sub Gunlock

LONDON, June 29—(CP).—The News-Chronicle quoted a member of the crew of a British ship today as saying that a submarine which destroyed his vessel was equipped with a special gunlock from which gunners wearing strange helmets covering both face and head, emerged ready to fire immediately.

Ordinarily gunners must scramble out of the conning tower to man a submarine's deck guns after it comes to the surface.

The News-Chronicle's naval commentator said that submarine gunlocks are not new, but in the case of all previously known types gunners must get to their posts through the conning tower.

The same seaman told the News-Chronicle that the small of the submarine's exhaust fumes indicated it was using a new type of fuel.

Hold Band Concert

COBOURG, June 29 — (ENS).—Ideal weather conditions favored the sacred concert which was presented in the park last night by Cobourg Kilties' Band and guest artists. The collection was for war charities. During the evening a movie, "The Blitz of Britain," was shown. The devotional service was in charge of Rev. W. P. Woodger of Trinity United Church, and the address was by Rev. R. L. Seaborn of St. Peters Anglican Church. The musical program was as ofllows:

"O Canada," by the band; march "Our Director," band; Humoresque, a musical switch, by the band; choral numbers by the Presbyterian Church choir of St. Paul's, Port Hope, under the direction of Mrs. Lenore Greer; cornet solo, "Lassie o' Mine," by Fred Hempstead; vocal solo, Betty Bruce; characteristic intermezzo, "In a Monastery Garden," by the band; and a violin solo by Rev. S. D. France.

Not Much Left Now, 2 Canuck Squadrons In Saturday Pasting

LONDON, June 29.—(CP).—The German submarine base at St. Nazaire on the occupied French coast was attacked sharply last night by R.A.F. raiders in a follow-up to the devastating Saturday night assault on the port of Bremen, where many of the undersea raiders are constructed.

British fighter planes also blasted German airfields and railway objectives in northern France during the night, the Air Ministry said. Loss of one plane was announced.

The Saturday night assault on Bremen was the second raid on that city in three nights, and was reported to have left the port—Germany's second largest—a mass of charred ruins. Two Canadian squadrons took part in this attack.

Two other Canadians, flying Hurricane bombers, attacked an escorted merchant ship last night, leaving it stationary and heeling over. They were Po. J. R. Sterne of Edmonton and Flt. Sgt.. D. C. Montgomery of Temiskaming, Que.

It was announced that Weston-Super-Mare drew the heaviest German attack during the night and that there were a number of casualties.

Not Much There Now

"There can't be much left of Bremen now," military quarters declared as they scanned reports filed yesterday by British and Canadian airmen who set new fires blazing in the city in a mass attack Saturday night., squel to Thursday night's 1,000-plane assault.

Eleven planes—nine bombers and two fighters—were lost in the Saturday night raid, the 96th aimed at Bremen since the start of the war.

Official quarters indicated the devastation in Bremen was comparable to that previously wrought by the R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. in mighty assaults upon Cologne and Essen and it appeared that Prime Minister Churchill's pledge to blast Germany city by city with overwhelming power was being fulfilled swiftly.

In retaliation the Germans bombed the British southwest coast last night for the second successive night, striking sharply at one town for 40 minutes, but the government

Cobourg Mayor Unveils Two Honor Rolls

ALDERVILLE, June 29.—(ENS) —The afternoon preceding Army Week was marked by a special service in Alderville United church, when two honor rolls were unveiled by His Worship Mayor J. Burnett of Cobourg, a veteran of the last war. The honor rolls, one in memory of those men, 35 in number, from the Reserve who served during the last war, ten paying the supreme sacrifice and the second roll with thirty names enrolled, these having volunteered for overseas service in the present war.

Mayor Burnett brought greetings from the town of Cobourg and from the provincial command of the Canadian Legion. "How appropriate it is," he said, "that this service should be held on the eve of army week, not only to honor veterans of the last war, and in loving memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice, and whose memory I charge you to ever keep green, but to honor also those who enlisted for service in this war. These men who even in a measure are braver, in that they know full well the meaning of war and the sacrifices to be made. The response to the call for recruits is one of which any community might well be proud, said His Worship.

The service was in charge of H Lander, of Camborne, layman serving at Alderville under Rev. E. H. Unstead of Roseneath.

Rev. Capt. Fairfull, chaplain in the last war, delivered the address. The dominating thought of which was, that despite present day reverses, and the hard road the Free Nations of the world have to travel to-day despite the dark days that lie ahead, ultimate victory would be achieved. He spoke of the Germany and its people, as he knew them, a God fearing people, before Hitler came into the picture to educate the youth in hate and ruthlessness, to train them that might is right. Capt. Fairful defined the difference between the Free Nations' war of defense and Hitler's war of hate, drawing the conclusion that eventually the war for freedom must be victorious, as, quoting from Moses, 'I am an old man, yet never have I seen the righteous perish or His seed begging bread." While he was assure of ultimate victory, Capt. Fairful admonished that in addition to ships and guns and tanks, to ever be mindful that God is in the picture at all times, and that the lowly Carpenter whose followers were fishermen, set in motion the freedom of the world today and 'He shall have dominion from sea to sea and from the rivers to the ends of the earth.'

Camborne choir was in attendance. An anthem, 'How Beautiful O Canada,' was sung by a full choir, and a duet, 'O Canada,' was sung by the Misses Davey.

Following the service at the church a short service was held at the Cenotaph, when Lieut. Atkinson, representing the garrison at Cobourg, placed two wreaths of poppies, maple leaves and evergreen from the Province of Ontario. The Last Post was sounded and the flags were lowered. Two minutes of silence were observed and the benediction was pronounced by Capt. Fairful.

A group of Cobourg branch Canadian Legion members with President James Rollins was in attendance.

Chief Norman Marsden moved a vote of thanks to all assisting at the service.

The names appearing on the present day honor roll are: Arthur Beaver, Alvin Beaver, Edward Beaver, Ivan Beaver, William Bigwin, George Blaker Lawson Chase William Chubb, Stewart Comego, Gerald Gray, Alvin Hagar, Amos Marsden, Thomas Marsden, Everett Simpson, Reginald Smoke, Roy Smoke, James Smoke, John Sunday, Wilfrid Sunday, Sr., Wilfrid Sunday Jr., Cecil Tobico and Arthur Wheeler.

Mother Entertains At Trosseau Tea

PORT HOPE, June 29.—(ENS)—Mrs. Charles Doney entertained for her daughter, Miss Margaret Doney previous to her marriage on Saturday to Mr. E. M. Creighton at a trousseau tea.

Mrs. G. Perks of Toronto, sister of the bride, received and Miss Margaret Doney at the family residence, Brown street.

Tea was poured at a beautifully decorated table by Mrs. G. V. Strong and Mrs. Roy Doney. Others assisting at this tea were Mrs. Norman Strong, Little Anne Doney and the Misses Ruth Allison, Marion Houghton, Mildred Curtis, Mildred Morpe, Alma Butler, Addie Doney, Doris Doney, Phylis Bowen.

ThousandPeople Attend Special Service

CAMPBELLFORD, June 29. — (ENS). — Army Week got off to a good start in this town on Sunday afternoon when nearly 150 troops, led by the 2nd Midland Regiment Band, marched through the streets to a drumhead service held on the Public School grounds. It was the largest parade and the most impressive service of this character held since the outbreak of war. Close to one thousand persons flanked the sidewalks and sat in the shade of trees around the border of the lawn for the service, which was held in honor of the soldiers who are serving in the Allied Armies, prisoners of war, and in memory of those who have paid the supreme sacrifice.

Arranged by the local Ministerial Association, the service began at 3:30 in the afternoon after the parade, which was led by the band under Bandmaster E. C. Dolman, reached the grounds. In addition to nearly forty members of the Canadian Legion all wearing their blue berets and medals, nearly all of B Company of the 2nd Midland Regiment, under Major Johnston, took part, with platoons from Warkworth, Norwood, and Havelock being well represented with about thirty men apiece. A contingent from St. John's Boys' Brigade brought up the rear of the parade.

Rev. W. J. T. Hicks took charge for the opening of the service, and following him Mayor F. F. Long spoke briefly explaining the purpose of Army Week. His tribute to the Army, "This war will not be won till the Army marches into Berlin," brought cheers from the crowd.

Rev. J. O. Ralston, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and a chaplain in World War I., was the speaker of the afternoon, giving a splendid address in which he drew the gathering's attention to the formidable foe, "enemies that are ruthless, relentless, tyrannical, and possessed of the spirit of the devil himself," ranged against them. Their plan to subjugate the rest of the world was no myth since they had already given evidence of what they intend to do by what they are doing in Poland, France, and the Low Countries. Paying special tribute to the Army, Mr. Ralston directed attention to the fact that its background was inexorably committed to the British Army, which ranks second only to the Navy in Britain. Whatever acomplishments have been made by the British Empire have been largely due to the Army. He emphasized the importance of thinking of Britain as one with Canada and not as an Ally. To the soldiers in front of him he said: "Upon you rests a tremendous responsibility as citizens of Canada and of the Empire....Believe in the oneness of Canada and that we all are Canadians, citizens of the Empire regardless of what province we come from."

Other members of the Ministerial Association who assisted with the service were Rev. G. N. Maxwell, Captain Alexander Turnbull, and Rev. H. Bryant.

Emmett Creighton Marries P.H. Girl

PORT HOPE, June 29.—(ENS)—The marriage took place at St. Peter's Rectory in Toronto, on June 27, 1942, of Margaret Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Doney, Port Hope, to Emmett Martin Creighton, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Creighton, Peterborough.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white with finger-tip length veil of tulle and carried white roses.

The bridesmaid was Miss Doris Doney, sister of the bride, who wore a powder blue sheer gown with matching hat. The best man was Mr. Robert Creighton, and the usher Mr. Jerry Creighton.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Diana Sweets, 188 Bloor street west, where the bride's mother received wearing a gown of rose crepe with matching large felt hat and wore a corsage of sweet peas. The groom's mother, who also received wore powder blue with navy redingote, matching accessories and a corsage of sweet peas.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Quebec City, the bride, for travelling, wore a beige costume with large matching hat and accessories. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Creighton will reside in Toronto.

Cobourg Briefs

Two vessels were in Cobourg harbor on Sunday. The Grenville, lighthouse tender, and the gasoline tanker, Petrolite. The latter ship had a load of gasoline for local storage depots. Car ferry Ontario No. 1 on its trip from Rochester yesterday brought 424 excursionists.

Two United States visitors were stranded yesterday in Cobourg when they ran out of gasoline. Both were anxious to get back to their city as they were employed in defence industries. Although their Canadian gas ration book had almost everything in the way of information it did not include the vital fact, to them, that gasoline could not be purchased in Canada on Sunday.

Hot weather brought hundreds of motorists to Cobourg yesterday to take advantage of cool Victoria Park and the inviting beach. Many came on bicycles.

Three sailors wearing U.S. navy uniforms took a busman's holiday yesterday by coming across on the car ferry with the many excursionists who took advantage of ideal weather to make the trip across.

Police arrested a youth at the docks yesterday on a complaint of a member of the crew of one of the car ferries, that the youth stole a watch and tried to throw it overboard when he saw that he was going to be caught. Two of the crew managed to get hold of the young man before accomplishing purpose.

Army Week

This is Army Week, when the people of this Dominion will accept the hospitality of the Canadian Army, and will do all that they can to show their appreciation of the men of that Army. We are to have opportunities to see men engaged in all phases of their training; we shall see the new and powerful weapons which they use; we shall be able to judge for ourselves the extent to which they have been mechanized.

Let us not forget, however, that the word 'hospitality' comes from a Latin word which means both 'host' and 'guest', and although we may accept the entertainment which is extended to us by the Army, we should do all that we can to return it adequately and more than adequately. Whenever possible let us invite soldiers to our homes and do what we can to give them a good time. The Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs have given a lead in this respect; they are each entertaining twenty men from the local camp at their luncheon meetings this week. We should not leave all of this work to them. May we suggest, however, that it might show a lack of tact to invite a soldier to dinner on Tuesday and serve him with the identical meal which he would receive in camp? Ask him some other day and feed him something which you are certain he would not get in camp.

Today is "Freedom Day" and tomorrow is "Civilians' Day"; just why we should have a day in Army Week at all is a mystery, but as we have one let us be sure that it is a success. Wednesday is, of course, Dominion Day, and there will be a splendid parade in the morning. Thursday is "Reserve Army Day", and the men of the Reserve Army will wear their uniforms and arm-bands at their work. On Friday the local Training Centre will entertain the public at tea, and Saturday, "United Nations' Day," will be marked by more parades.

Let us do all that we can to make Army Week a success. If you have flags and decorations, hang them out. If you have a window which you can decorate suitably, take the opportunity to do so. Above all things, write to the soldiers you know and send them parcels. Listen to the local broadcasts of Army talent; its range and excellence will possibly surprise you. Army Week is our chance to show our esteem for the boys in khaki; let us make the most of it.

Sevastopol's Warlike History

The name Sevastopol means The August City, and before its destruction during the Crimean War it was considered one of the loveliest towns in Russia. Even after that disaster it was rebuilt on a noble design, embracing its great harbor which could comfortably accommodate all the fleets of Europe. Now Sevastopol is a smoking ruin, its buildings in rubble and its chestnut trees mere blackened stumps.

The Sevastopol region is drenched in blood—the blood of long centuries of fighting. There was a Greek colony there in the fifth century before Christ, which eventually became a tributary of Rome. The peninsula between the bay of the city and the Black Sea was known as the Heracleotic Chersonese and the town itself was called Chersonesus. The battles between the Greek holders of the colony and the Slavs and the Mongols persisted for centuries—indeed until the sixteenth century. The village was conquered by the Russians in 1783, and they made it their chief seaport on the Black Sea and gave it the name of Sevastopol. In 1854 it withstood a seige of eleven months' duration, while the British, French and Turks bombarded it.

It is difficult not to believe that some spirit of the past hangs over such places, steeling them for a kind of fighting unthinkable in more peaceful regions. Not a century has passed in twenty-five hundred years during which the area round Sevastopol has not dripped with blood. Nearby, on the southern side of the peninsula, lies Balaklava, scene of the wasteful, wicked, stupid charge of the Light Brigade.

With such a history can anyone be surprised that Sevastopol has made one more great stand, and has cost her attacker hundreds and thousands of his men? Age-old valor has won her the right to be called the August City.

Wonders of Genealogy

Mr. Conklin Mann, editor of the New York Genealogical Society's Record, has declared Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt to be eighth cousins, once removed. Both are descended from John Cooke, who went to America on the Mayflower; one of Cooke's daughters became an ancestress of Mr.Roosevelt and another became an ancestress of Mr. Churchill's mother. But as Mr. Roosevelt is one generation older than Mr. Churchill, they are eighth cousins, once removed.

Oh, the wonder of it! Could we all but persuade Mr. Mann to investigate our family trees, what strange and bright-hued creatures might we not discover there! For our own part, we are certain that we have some remarkable eighth cousins somewhere. Genealogy is like chess; there are many moves which we may make to arrive at our objective, which is to stand directly before the king. Too often, however, we are swept ignominiously off the board into the box with the pawns, and not even a knight to comfort us.

A Form of Protection

Since the new Budget has been made public many men of business have been engaged in thinking of ways in which they can meet the new taxes while keeping their affairs on a firm basis. Their problem is not one of the moment, but of the next five or ten years. It is not enough for a business to survive the war; it must also survive the first hard years of peace, and we predict that more businesses will be casualties of depression than of taxes. Those businesses which are hardest hit by the imposts on luxuries are the ones which must keep themselves before the public, or their products may be forgotten. We found this well expressed in a letter which appeared recently in the London Times, setting forth the opinion of an English firm: it said:

> "Four hundred of our people are away on war services, and must be provided for when they return. Our power to maintain them when the war is over is dependent on the preservation of our goodwill. Therefore we must continue to advertise, even in wartime, not wastefully but to that reasonable extent which will protect our workers and the public."

This is good sense. Business has a duty toward its employees and toward the public which cannot be slighted, and any form of retrenchment which allows the public to forget the existence of a business is lacking in foresight. When once the public has forgotten a product or a business it requires a mighty effort to bring it back to mind.

Black Outlook For France

Everyone knows that Pierre Laval is Hitler's creature and that he hopes for rich rewards from his master when the New Order is finally established in Europe. But until last week Laval still kept up a pretence of concern for France; it was when he declared his desire for an Axis victory that the situation became clear to even the dullest of his supporters. Laval has made the whole of the French system of production available to the Nazis, and he has agreed to send 350,000 of his countrymen to work in Germany. He also made an attempt to secure the release of some French prisoners of war, but this move was obviously intended to appease his people, and he did not press the point. Hitler has given him an assurance that some prisoners will be returned, and assurances from Hitler are, to say the least, ambiguous.

Laval is now the undisputed leader of France. Petain has said of him, "We shook hands when he came in and now we walk together hand in hand. He agrees with me and I agree with him. He is responsible for the policies of the government." A pretty picture of amity! The aged fascist and the rogue are now hand in glove! But Petain, for all his reactionary ideas, appears to have loved France; Laval does not care a button for France, and the French people know it. Laval may be top-dog at Vichy, but there are reports that resistance to the Nazis in France has increased appreciably since he returned to power.

Laval's attitude creates a problem for Canada. We have a representative at Vichy, and we have been assured that there are good reasons for his remaining there. Apparently these reasons are not of the sort which can be made public, but we should like some further assurance that they are genuinely good reasons. Our position in keeping a representative in Vichy when Laval has declared his desire for an Axis victory publicly is an anomalous one, and it should be made clear, or as clear as possible, why we persist in this course.

Ottawa is going to permit stockingless girls to work in Government offices. We foresee a headline, "Startling Revelations at Nation's Capital."

Farming News and Views

By
HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

I LOOKED over parts of Middlesex and Elgin counties from the 19th to the 23rd of June. Haying was in full blast, that is between showers, and there will be a good deal of damp hay go into barns. Slaked lime is good to dry up hay with too much moisture and I started one man using it. A little calcium on the hay is a good thing to feed and while salt is useful to scatter over damp clover, lime is rather better from every point of view.

I learned of one three acre field of sugar beets, near London, being plowed down from lack of help to thin them. There was an added difficulty in this field as the weeds had grown rapidly and offered very troublesome conditions tackling it. It is very difficult to get help for hoeing and many farmers have had to re-plan their farming operations.

Taking off the present hay crop is a serious piece of work for farmers who have no help. Something can be done about harvesting as a combine may greatly lighten the work, but it is different with hay. With catchy weather, a very heavy crop, and not enough labor saving machinery, the hay crop will be a difficult one to save. Many farmers had more pasture than they needed, under growing conditions in April, May and June, and so have undertaken to cut an extra field for hay and it is almost overwhelming them.

I was on the farm of Hon. M. F. Hepburn on the 22nd and found Mitch going full steam ahead. He always endeavors to keep up with his work, but it is not easy this year. He had three hay loaders at work this day and they were surely making hay while the sun shone. Mitch's farm never looked better in spite of the difficult weather. Two fields of fall wheat give the greatest promise of a heavy yield of any I have seen this year. This crop is headed and well filled, and not only are the heads long but they are filled to the last top kernels which assures a heavy yield.

There were fourteen registered Clydesdale mares at work on that day and these horses are surely "earning their board and keep."

It was a great show of white legs and faces, and they were all big draughty animals in good fit and fine fettle. Drawing a load of hay with a hay loader attached, was merely exercise for these horses. Some of these mares weigh over 1,900 lbs., have good middles and feet and legs properly placed for moving loads. They were a braw lot of beasts and were doing their work with a will.

Thirty-five acres of onions give the best promise of a crop that this marsh land has ever shown at this time of year. There are about 35 acres of potatoes on Mitch's marsh this year.

Something over 150 cows are in milk and 50 pigs go to market every month from this going concern. In these few notes it is only possible to mention a few things about the Premier's farming operations, but they surely are in full swing at the present time.

Toward the end of May the British Government was able to lift the restrictions on the consumption of liquid milk. This was made possible by the dairy farmers producing more milk this spring than they did last year. There has been a great many complaints made about the prices for milk, the supply of feeding stuffs, and the handling of this product, but in spite of it all the dairy farmers have gone ahead with at least one object in view, that of increasing the supply in order not to let the nation down in respect to this most vital of all foods.

The British Minister of Agriculture has made a further demand upon the farmers to plow up land in grass. This he says has been considered necessary owing to a change in Allied war strategy. What that change is he naturally does not say but it seems to call for an increased acreage of grain, and there is some speculation as to whether it means the invasion of Europe. In Wiltshire alone an extra 30,000 acres of plowed land is asked for and at the same time this county is requested to make 52 million gallons of milk the target to be aimed at as one year's production.

Useful work horses are selling for high prices but in England there are a great many ponies and aged saddle horses both of which are kept simply because they were family pets, or have been on the place for many years. The grass these non-essential horses are consuming has become quite an important matter as it is reckoned in gallons of milk which it might produce. The Ministry of Agriculture has, therefore, made an appeal to the owners of such animals to have them destroyed in some painless manner, the result of which would be of assistance to the war effort.

An effort, and quite a successful one, is being made in England to increase the production of milk in a number of the commercial herds by milking the cows three times a day instead of twice. This is an easier practice where cows are milked by machines, and it will definitely increase the supply of milk without increasing to any material extent the feed of the cows. There will probably be an effort made to have the practice of milking three times a day introduced into many more of the larger yielding herds.

Much English land has been greatly improved, since the war began, by a very liberal application of lime and also of salt. The lime has sweetened the soil where it had inefficient drainage for some time and the salt seems to have improved its fertility out of all proportion to what was expected. Sodium chloride is more highly regarded today for its usefulness as a fertilizer than ever before.

Corn looks quite hopeless in many places and it is not advanced nearly as much as it should be well on in June. The heavy hay crop will make up for this loss in some cases, and a good deal of wet hay has gone into silos that will not be needed for corn. Where corn is grown for husking this is not a promising season, and these farmers have a quite difficult situation to face. Last year was a most encouraging one for corn growers and doubtless encouraged a larger acreage for this year with the result that those who till the soil are finding, as they often do, that it is a dangerous practice, in this province, to try to make a killing in any one crop. Cows, pigs and sheep will, for the most part, prove to be the best basis for Ontario agriculture, always keeping in mind that to be a good breeder of livestock a man must first become a good farmer of the land and thus be able to grow good crops to feed his beasts.

I THINK WE'RE BEING FOLLOWED

General Picture Brighter

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

THOUGH Hitler's summer offensive in the East apparently has not been loosed, preliminary Axis thrusts in Egypt and the Ukraine already have produced a twin crisis for his British and Russian opponents.

Both jaws of a vast Axis pincer movement eastward have gnawed their way forward dangerously, at an uncounted cost in life and battle wreckage.

In Egypt, the British forces have mustered for a last-ditch stand perilously close to their vital Alexandria naval base. In Southern Russia an ominous dent has been made in Marshal Timoshenko's communication services east of Kharkov.

Yet in Washington a confident note is sounded. And in the joint statement by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt there is the promise of coming operations which will divert German strength from the attack on Russia.

Cheering, too, is the resumption of Britani's aerial pounding of Germany and reliable reports that United States air units are laying the groundwork for American participation in such mass raids.

JOINT OPERATIONS

The creation of an American zone of operations in Europe suggests that joint Anglo-American second-front moves are a near possibility. Naturally no hint of their nature or scope is available beyond the certainty that American Army air power soon will join the British airmen against German targets.

Touring westward to appraise the war picture across the Pacific at this time of crisis in Europe and the Middle East, reports from the Chinese-Japanese front are a little more encouraging. There are some indications that the Japanese invaders are losing momentum in China and still far from a knockout-blow at foes who defied them single-handed for nearly five years. American air power is beginning to even the odds somewhat for the Chinese.

The Japanese campaign elsewhere in the Pacific has been in a lull since the Midway battle. From Australia Allied air power is ranging far to batter at Nipponese advance bases, keeping the enemy largely on the defensive. Whether the Japanese toehold in the Aleutian Islands can be exploited remains to be seen.

Perhaps the most surprising development of the Oriental war sector, however, is a delayed Moscow announcement that it was a Japanese submarine which sank a Russian ship in Japanese waters. In light of the unstable Tokyo-Moscow peace pact, there is a challenging quality about the timing as well as the phrasing of that Russian charge which gives it great potential significance.

TEST JAPAN'S PURPOSE

Chinese sources have insisted for weeks that Japan is preparing to strike at Russia in the east to aid Hitler. It is from Moscow, not Tokyo, that a move filled with implications of an impending clash come first—that, too, at a time when the Russian front in the west is under terrific and increasing German pressure.

It seems possible that a seven-week Russian delay in blaming the sinking on Japan had more to do with awaiting other developments than with lack of accurate knowledge that it was a Japanese submarine. It is also possible that Moscow now is testing by means of that announcement Japan's purpose or ability to move to Hitler's aid by an attempt to invade Siberia.

The recent visit of Foreign Commissar Molotoff to London and Washington cannot be overlooked in studying the Moscow move. The crises evident for Britain in Egypt and indicated for the Russians on the Kharkov and Sevastopol fronts had not been developed. Yet Molotoff probably learned, even then, of some of the factors which later prompted Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt to say "the over-all picture is more favorable to victory" than it was a year ago or in last December. Moscow has taken a sharper tone toward Tokyo for some reason.

Conscription of Wealth

THE OTTAWA JOURNAL

In discussing the subject of conscription the Journal has occasionally suggested that the principle of conscription of wealth is already accepted by this country; and that the best way in which to use it is by income tax. The new budget just announced on Parliament Hill is an illustration of the practical application. The budget is an announcement of seizure of new proportions of private income in this country, the proportions increasing very rapidly as the income figure grows. For instance, taking the case of a single person without dependents, an income of $1,000 will pay $92 tax, or just over nine per cent.; an income of $10,000 will pay $3,312, or 43 per cent.; income of $100,000 will pay $80,337, or over 80 per cent.; and similarly with intermediate figures. If the war keeps on, this sort of conscription will become more complete, beyond doubt.

Those who have been proclaiming that conscription of man power should be dependent on conscription of wealth should not feel very badly now about what wealth is getting away with.

Conscription is compulsory action to obtain for war use either men or money. It does not take all the men—just the young and physically efficient men. It leaves the rest to carry on the national business. Similarly, we fancy that it would not be well for conscription of wealth to take all the money. It is well to leave some to carry on business.

From the people who have what may be called surplus incomes come very important contributions, we think very necessary contributions, to the national business and the national welfare. Their surpluses go to initiate new business enterprises; go to push existing ones; go to develop manufacturing and prospecting; go to support scientific research; go to help educational and charitable institutions, public "drives" and community chests; and even go to employ in private service many persons who might find it difficult to make a living if no such private employ was available. To destroy all that altogether would hardly be wise. Government seizure and operation of all private business and industries, a condition which would be a more or less necessary component of total conscription of private means, might fill in some of the desirabilities we have listed—but we have our doubts about such a new order of things being good for any of us, rich or poor. The Communists and the Socialists think so; but really, judging by their lack of personal success in private life, or in private achievement of any kind, few of those who have communist or socialistic proclivities deserve to attain the confidence of the rest of us as to their ability to run the whole human show wisely.

Unconsidered Trifles

Many English railway station nameboards have been removed. It is suggested that some of the longer Welch ones should be left to delay possible parachutists even further.

A Scotsman had won twenty-two shillings at bridge. His opponent ran through his pockets, but could find only a pound, which he handed over with the remark that he was afraid he was a couple of shillings short.

"Pooh!" said the Scotsman, "never mind about the two shillings, I'll just tak' yer wristwatch."

The temperance lecturer had warmed to his subject.

"Who has the most money to spend?" he thundered. "The publican. Who runs around in a fine car? The publican. Who has fine fur coats? The publican's wife. And who pays for all these? You, my friends, you."

A short time later a man and a woman stopped the lecturer in the street and thanked him for his advice.

The lecturer looked gratified.

"I am indeed glad," he said, "that you have given up the evils of drink."

"Oh, no, we haven't done that," was the smiling reply. "We've bought a pub!"

A Bible Message For Today

And all the congregation of the children of Israel journeyed from the wilderness of Sin, after their journeys, according to the commandment of the Lord, and pitched in Rephidim: and there was no water for the people to drink. Wherefore the people did chide with Moses, and said, Give us water that we may drink. And Moses said unto them, Why chide ye with me? wherefore do ye chide the Lord .....

And the Lord said unto Moses, Go on before the people, and take with thee of the elders of Israel; and thy rod, wherewith thou smotest the river, take in thine hand, and go. Behold, I will stand before thee there upon the rock in Horeb; and thou shalt smite the rock, and there shall come water out of it, that the people may drink. And Moses did so in the sight of the elders of Israel.—Ex. xviii, 1, 2, 5, 6.

Rommel and the Beast

The German General Rommel, who is now threatening Egypt, seems to be one of those soldier's soldiers who win respect even from their enemies. If the men responsible for the handling of Russia's unconquerable millions is left out of the picture Erwin Rommel is the first military genius who has appeared in this war. He leads tank battles before lunch, air battles after lunch, and in the evening, like an umpire in a sham battle, explains to prisoners why they lost. One is told (though this may be one of Herr Goebbels' clever tricks) that he is an individualist who even dares make light of orders from the holy of holies in Berlin. His face reveals a possible sense of humor. No doubt Herr Goebbels would be pleased if we were led to think of him as one of those honest old German soldiers, simple, essentially kindhearted, and nonpolitical, who might be asked to take over if the Nazis ever needed a respectable front behind which to whine for mercy. A Rommel could be useful in Hitler's bag of tricks.

But we had better not concentrate our thoughts on this colorful military personality. Whether Rommel fights fair or foul, his every advance expands the area within which the Nazis' sneaks, thieves and butchers are free to operate. In his train march all the foul camp followers of Berlin. Behind his tanks freedom and decency die; good men and women are doomed to prison, torture and death; hunger and disease flourish; civilization terminates. His fine talents, like so many German talents, are devoted exclusively to smearing this earth with the mark of the beast.—New York Times.

When Sport Helps War

Because of the seriousness of the war there is often adverse comment heard about sporting events; some claiming that professional sport at least should be discontinued for the duration, and others even seeing little value in amateur contests. Wherever Lieutenant Mickey Cochrane's Great Lakes, Ill., Naval Training Station baseball team has played, U.S. Navy enlistments have been boosted from 15 to 60 per cent. That is an example of sport helping the war effort greatly, recruits being obtained who might otherwise wait to be called in the draft or not enlist at all. In that way the former Detroit Tiger manager's diamond nine has justified its existence many times over.—St. Thomas Times Journal.

"By Jove, Mac, you've holed in one!"

"Aweel, it saves wear and tear on the wee ball."

Direct Hit

This striking picture, which comes from England, shows an enemy ship after she had received a direct hit from an air bomb. Pieces of cargo fly into the air and litter the water, flames burst from the engine room, and the entire centre section of the vessel seems to have disintegrated under the direct hit amidships.

Plans Are Complete For Parade On Dominion Day

CAMPBELLFORD, June 29 (ENS) Final arrangements for this town's Army Week celebration took shape at a special meeting of the General Committee held Friday evening, when members heard reports from various chairmen and completed details of the program. Charles Davidson reported for the program committee that arrangements to hold the special program at the Fair Grounds had been changed to take place on the terraces at the Public School grounds. Mr. Davidson offered the use of the skating arena if it should happen to rain. Thirty dollars was appropriated for prizes in parade. Prizes will be for the best decorated vehicles (car or truck); best boy's bicycle and best girl's bicycle and for a clown.

According to the vice-president of the Red Cross which is in charge of providing dinner for visiting troops at noon on July 1, complete arrangements had already been made to feed one hundred.

W.M.S. Social

St. Johns W.M.S. held their closing meeting of the season in the form of a social at the home of Mrs. H. T. Free of Seymour West on Thursday afternoon. Nearly 40 members attended the affair during which the president, Mrs. E. C. Roberts, presided for the general business which included the presentation of routine reports and a devotional period. Most of the ladies took either sewing or knitting on which they worked diligently throughout the afternoon. The group will not meet again until September.

Visit Hoard's W.A.

Zion Women's Association were guests of the Hoard's W.A. for a joint meeting held at Mrs. John Rannie's on Thursday afternoon. Fifteen members of the visiting group were welcomed by the hostess by Mrs. Rannie and following this Mrs. J. R. Bick offered a prayer. Chief business concerned arrangements for the Army Week celebration in Campbellford, and the members of both groups revealed they would visit the town on July 1.

Meets Once a Month.

The Junior I.O.D.E., Trent Valley Branch, will meet only once a month during July and August, it was decided at their meeting held on Thursday evening. This will not however diminish the amount of work being done by members who have developed an extensive sewing and knitting program for the summer. Misses Leitha Davidson and Helen Cochrane are in charge of supplies and wood may be obtained from either of them. Miss Betty Adamson invited members to hold their next meeting at her home.

Results of the quilt draw conducted by the branch were announced and Mrs. E. Collins was declared the winner after Miss Eleanor Ferris selected the winning ticket. Proceeds from this draw were $32.00 which will be used to purchase war supplies. The secretary read a letter from I.O.D.E. headquarters, expressing thanks for the bale recently shipped to Toronto and containing in addition to 36 baby garments, 14 sweaters, 9 pairs of socks, 5 scarves, 1 pair of gloves.

Honor Minister.

Rylstone's Women's Association honored Rev. R. W. Young and Mrs. Young at a meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn on Thursday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Young, who has been the pastor of the Rylstone, Stanwood, and Springbrook Churches for the past year recently announced his removal to a pastorate in the vicinity of his home in Windsor, and the members of the W.A. took advantage of their regular meeting to make a presentation to the couple. The address was given by Miss Vera Stewart and the presentation of a silver rose bowl and table reflector was made by Buddy McKeown and Marie Meiklejohn on behalf of the Rylstone congregation. Rev. Mr. Young who will preach his farewell services at all three churches this Sunday, responded appropriately, thanking members for their many kindnesses to both he and Mrs. Young during the past year and a half, and urged them to give the same co-operation to his successor.

The W.A. president, Mrs. S. Meiklejohn, presided for the meeting, and during the afternoon two quilts were completed by the thirty ladies who were present. At the close refreshments were served by th hostess, who was assisted by Misses Vera Stewart, Marie Meiklejohn Esther Meiklejohn, Mrs. Arthur Reid, Mrs. Carl Reid, and Mrs. James Barnett.

"MONEY" IN A WILL

LONDON—(CP).—Decision that the word "money" in a will did not include investments, unless otherwise stated, was given by the Master of the Rolls. The rule, laid down in 1825, was a 'blot on jurisprudence," court said.

Sank Six Ships

The Jolly Roger snapping gaily in the breeze above this U.S. submarine has six excellent reasons for its broad joint-to-joint grin. Each one of the torpedo insignia upon the flag represents an enemy vessel sent to th. bottom. This particular craft was under command of Lieut.-Commander William L. Wright, Corpus Christi, Texas, who, with his crew, was cited for meritorious conduct during action in the southwestern Pacific area.

Distribute Smokes By Service Pool

Formation of an Auxiliary Services pool in Britain to act as a distribution centre for cigarettes to the members of the three armed forces is being set up to eradicate a condition now existing. It seems that there has been an ample supply of cigarettes going to the soldiers, sailors and airmen, but they are not being evenly distributed, that is many receive more than they can use while others get scarcely any.

The idea in forming this distribution pool is not to interfere in any way with parcels addressed direct to soldiers from their friends and relatives in Canada, but to give proper direction to supplies of cigarettes from charitable organizations engaged in raising monies to purchase smokes for the boys overseas.

Heretofore Canadian War Charity Funds have shipped their cigarettes to specific units or individuals in addition to the pool set up earlier in the war, and this has resulted in uneven distribution. Bulk shipment of cigarettes now must be addressed to this cigarette pool which is operating under the Directorate of Auxiliary Services. Parcels should be addressed to the Assistant Director of Auxiliary Services, C.M.H.Q. 17 Cockspur Street, London S.W.1 England.

SMALLEST NAVY

LONDON—(CP). — Costa Rica, Central American republic which declared war on the Axis last December, has the smallest "navy" in the world, an old, 22-ton converted yacht acquired in 1941 and listed in Jane's Fighting Ships for 1941.

UNDERWOOD TYPEWRITERS & SERVICE — YEARS OF NEW-MACHINE PERFORMANCE

Bewdley School Honors Teacher

BEWDLEY, June 29—(ENS).—St. Anne's Sunday School was favored with ideal weather Thursday afternoon for their picnic, which was held in Sidey's field back of the village. Thirty-five children and 25 adults attended and made the occasion a very great success.

The races were run off by the Sunday School superintendent, Robert Hancock, and the rector, Rev. T. Crosthwaite. Lovely prizes were given the winners and consolations to the smaller non-winners

A result of the races was: Under 4 years—1, Sheila Gordon; 2, Leighton Benson. Boys 7 and under—Sonny Ducette and Normie Sidey. Girls 7 and under—Doris Gordon, Lillian Winn. Boys, 10 and under Kenneth Falls, Garth Manley. Girls 10 and under—Shirley Harris, Patty Lou Bingham. Boys 12 and under der—Garth Manley, Kenneth Falls. Girls 12 and under—Verna Falls, June Stinson. Boys 14 and under—Ross Gordon, Murray Sidey. Girls 14 and under—Kathleen Falls, Leona Strong. Mixed race, 14 and under—Ross Gordon. Ladies' race—Mrs. Merwyn Benson, Mrs. Armston. Men's race—Mr. Armston.

The ladies of the Red Cross, after their weekly afternoon quilting, joined the Sunday School for the picnic, helping to provide the bountiful supper.

The children were generously provided with chocolate milk, oranges and other goodies. Mrs. Elmer Sidey boiled water for tea for the adults.

Personals

Mrs. Chamberlain and Mrs. George Watkins and June of Canton attended the Red Cross meeting, also the Sunday School picnic Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Armston of Toronto are spending their honeymoon at Bewdley in one of Hancock's cabins.

Mrs. K. Honeywell spent an afternoon this week with her parents at Baltimore.

Mrs. Harvey, Cobourg, was a guest of her daughter, Mrs. G. V. Ducette, Thursday afternoon.

June Stinson, Mary Graham and Murray Sidey are writing their Entrance Examination at Baillieboro Thursday and Friday.

The hour of Sunday School at St. Anne's has been changed for the summer and will be at 11 a.m.

Honor Teacher

Thursday evening the children of Bewdley School, their parents and friends met at the school house. An interesting set of pictures of Canadian instruction were shown. Similar pictures were shown once each month for the past two months at the school in the afternoon and at Rice Lake Inn in the evening.

A highlight of the evening was the presentation to the teacher Miss Marjorie Douglas of Port Hope, who is leaving Bewdley School after two years of duties here.

The children with Miss Douglas were called to the front, where Shirley Halligan read an appropriate address. Arleigh McAllister made the presentation of a golden colored blanket, and Joyce Buttar, a bouquet.

Miss Douglas, although much surprised made a gracious reply. Lunch was served later. Miss Douglas has been engaged to teach at Dale School for the coming term.

13 Die in Blast

LONDON, June 29—(CP).—Thirteen men were killed today in an explosion at Murton Colliery in Durham County.

Colliery officials said the blast was caused by the ignition of gas fumes, the traditional enemy of mine workers.

All the bodies were recovered.

ORLEY DEGRAW LEADS FIELD OF 29 GOLFERS WITH A NET OF 70

Stan Whiddon And Ruth McKee In Mixed Two-Ball Foursome

A Scotch mixed two-ball foursome was the order of the day at Kawartha this past Sunday. The best of a likely crop of golfers was Stan Whiddon and Miss R. McKee with a gross total of eighty-seven which is good golf in any man's league. H. Wilgar and Mrs. Al. Clark tied with Joe Watson and Mrs. H. R. Scott for first low net of seventy-five.

In the second flight Kawartha's president, Ed. Riley, with the capable assistance of Mrs. J. Deyell, won top honors with a gross of one hundred and two. Gray Copping and Mrs. George Solmes proved they were as good as the best in the first flight with a net total of seventy-five.

Results for the day:

	Han.	Gross	Net
First Flight—Handicaps 1 to 24
Dave Price and Mrs. Vern Selkirk	19	102	83
Charlie Low and Mrs. Ken Smylie	15	91	76
Ken Smylie and Mrs. Ed. Riley	26	108	88
Arnold Deyell and Mrs. Bud Weese	26	110	84
Hap. Wilgar and Mrs. Al. Clark	20	95	75
Joe Watson and Mrs. H. R. Scott	16	91	75
B. Jopling and Mrs. Lionel Brown	21	106	85
Stan. Whiddon and Miss R. McKee	16	87	71
Second Flight—Handicaps 25 and up
Bud Weese and Mrs. Lex. Robson	27	105	78
Ed. Riley and Mrs. Arnold Deyell	28	102	74
Ken Currie and Mrs. Joe Watson	27	113	86
Grey Copping and Mrs. George Solmes	30	105	75
Vern. Selkirk and Mrs. Barnsley	29	121	92

Not many players were willing to tackle the wild of Kawartha's back nine holes in the ball sweep on Saturday, but Lionel Browne led the way to win a priority on some of Lex. Robson's stock with a net of seventy-eight. Hap. Wilgar and Harley Weir were the other winners, both with a net of eighty-one. Results follow:

	Gross	Han.	Net
Hap. Wilgar	99	18	81
T. J. Miller	95	8	86
J. Watson	94	12	82
H. J. Weir	95	14	81
L. Browne	97	19	78
E. G. Asker	100	13	87

Sunday morning had a little more to offer in the way of better scores in the nine-hole ball sweep. We find Tommy Miller out of the woods at least to lead the way with a lovely thirty-five net. Next came W. Gibbons and Charlie Low, with totals of thirty-six and thirty-seven and a half. Results for Sunday morning:

J. L. Remington	49	8½	40½
T. J. Miller	40	5	35
Stan. Whiddon	41	3	38
Charlie Low	41	3½	37½
Joe Watson	44	6	38
Hap. Wilgar	48	9	39
W. Gibbons	51	15	36

Riggs Defeats Frank Kovacs

NEW YORK, June 29—(AP).—Frank Kovacs, the Oakland, Calif., tennis comedian, was at his theatrical best Sunday in the semi-finals of the United States professional championships, but while he was getting the laughs, Bobby Riggs was picking up enough points to gain the final round 6-4, 3-6, 8-6, 6-2.

Moving ahead along with Riggs was Don Budge, Kovacs' fellow townsman, who opened the show for 6,000 galleryites at the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills by defeating Wayne Sabin of Reno, Nev., 6-2, 7-5, 6-3.

Kovacs divided his time between joking with the ball boys, squabbling with the officials, and clowning with the fans. Occasionally, he managed to slip in a little tennis, but not enough to overcome an annoyed Riggs, who was at the top of his game.

The finals will be held next Saturday.

In the doubles division, Kovacs and Bruce Barnes of Austin, Texas, scored a 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 victory over Robert Harman of Long Beach, N.Y., and John Nogrady of Wilmington, Del., to reach the final round. Next Saturday they will face Budge and Riggs who defeated Sabin and Berkeley Bell of New York, 5-7, 6-3, 6-2, 10-8.

Kovacs, slated to report to the Oakland Draft Board next Wednesday, received permission Sunday to remain in New York until next Saturday.

NEW YORK, June 29 — (AP).—Thomas Kay, who writes from Washington, suggests launching a campaign to have all baseball clubs and college teams kick in their home plates for scrap rubber....He figures wood or stone could be substituted....Most clubs could whittle out a nice ivory plate from the over-supply found in the players' dome.....Here's reason 2,001 why you lost your $2.00....At the Fairmount hoss track the other day, even the camera was wrong. The hoss whose nose was nearest to the wire finished second....The judges called it right, however. They looked closely and saw that a strong wind had curved the wire about an inch away from the leading nag.

If pro hockey goes on next winter, as everyone expects, Eddie Shore may have a bright future as a golfer. He went to the semi-finals of the recent Springfield, Mass., Country Club tournament before losing to Holly Mandly, one of New England's top divot diggers.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Second place will be at stake when Luckies and Soldiers tie into each other at Riverside Park tonight and with so much hinging on the result the battle should be one of the most thrilling of the season. The two teams are well balanced, with good pitching and considerable power at the plate. Soldiers started out by losing three of their first four games but since then they have won three in a row and have been looking stronger each time out. Fleming has been throwing nice ball for them, getting good support in the field and the Soldiers have been making runs for him, too, so that the pressure has not been on. Luckies also have a strong squad. With Mowry and Moorhead, both powerful hitters, added to the lineup in the last week they are considerably more potent on attack than when they eked out a one-run win over the boys from the camp the last time the two outfits met. Tonight's battle will get started at 7 o'clock and the probable batteries will be Fleming and Barnes for the Soldiers and Lewis and Mowry for Luckies.

With Generals running away with first place in the Girls' Softball League, the real battle right now is for second and it is a wide-open affair as the other three teams in the loop look to be very evenly-matched. Tonight Brintons and Westclox will meet at the Bowl and it should be a tidy argument all the way. Last time the two clubs met Brintons surprised last year's champs by coming from behind with a late innings rally to carry off the laurels and the Carpet team will be out there fighting tonight to prove that first victory was no fluke. On the other hand the Westclockers are not used to be occupying a lowly position in the league race and they hope to start their climb toward better things by coming home in front tonight at the expense of Brintons. It looks like a close tilt, with the breaks probably deciding the winners. Either Marg Watson or Isabel Bullock will be on the mound for Westclox with Leila Hughes scheduled to do the throwing for Brintons.

The Yanks Are Slipping

The New York Yanks who had the American League pennant all wrapped up three weeks ago, may yet find a fight on their hands to grab off this year's title. The Men of Manhattan have been slipping very badly and while they still have a lead of 5½ games their margin over the Boston Red Sox has been more than cut in two in three weeks campaigning. Over the week-end the Yanks gave definite proof of their slump by dropping two out of three games to the Chicago White Sox, winning Saturday, but dropping both ends of a Sunday double-header. White Sox won the opening game of the four-game series Friday. When a team loses three out of four to a club that had previously been beaten nine times in a row there is something decidedly wrong and that seems to be the case so far as the Yanks are concerned. Chandler was the winning pitcher in the Saturday game but Sunday old Ted Lyons stopped the New Yorkers, outpitching Red Ruffing in the first game as the White Sox won 6 to 2. The Yanks' ace, Ernie Bonham was just a cousin to the Sox in the second game which the Chicago club took by a city block, with Humphries the winning pitcher.

* * * * * *

As a net result of the week-end doings the Boston Red Sox who cleaned up the series with Cleveland 3 games to 1 gained a game on the Yanks. Boston after winning Friday took the Indians into camp Saturday 6 to 3 with Chase getting his second win of the season and made it three in a row by taking the first game Sunday when Lefty Judd turned in a seven-hitter and the Sox won 8 to 3, at the expenses of Jim Bagby. Cleveland just managed to eke out a 3 to 2 win in the second half of the twin bill with Kennedy the winning pitcher and Charlie Wagner the loser. Detroit and the A's had a long game Saturday before the Tigers finally won 6 to 5 in 13 innings. Ontario's two gifts to the Athletics, Phil Marchildon and Dick Fowler did the pitching on the losing side with the loss finally going to the latter.

* * * * * *

The week-end features in the National League were the fiften-inning battle between the Phillies and St. Louis Cards, won by the former 2 to 1 and the Brooklyn-Cincinnati series which saw the Reds take two out of three from the Dodgers. Tommy Hughes went the whole distance to win that marathon from the Cards, holding them to one run and ten hits. Beazley and Krist worked for the losers and the latter was marked up with the defeat. The Reds won Saturday's game against Brooklyn in sensational style when young Ray Lamanno went in as a pinch-hitter for the Reds with Brooklyn leading 1 to 0 and two out in the ninth and walloped a homer with two on to win 3 to 1. VanderMeer was the winning Red picther and the homer cost Curt Davis his third loss of the year. In the first game Sunday Paul Derringer came up with a five-hitter, outpitching Whit Wyatt and the Reds took the tilt 6 to 3. Leo Durocher also took the count for throwing a towel at an umpire. The Bums broken even on the day when they won a tight argument in the second game 2 to 1. Larry French finished the game for the winners and got credit for his eighth straight win, without a loss this season. The veteran Bucky Walters held Brooklyn to five hits but his good effort was wasted.

The Catholic Softball League has added another single round to its schedule to fill in the gap left by the withdrawal of the Barons and the loop will now have a quadruple schedule. Incidentally the column slipped the other day in saying that the games would be played on Mondays and Thursdays. The paragraph should have read Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week, with Friday left open for postponed games. The playoff setup has been arranged. It has been decided that the top three teams will be eligible for the playoffs but the forth team in the final standing will be out. The second and third clubs will play a best two-of-three series for the right to meet the team finishing first in the final round which will be a best three-of-five affair. All the games played by the Barons have been disregarded in the present standing of the league. All games are billed to start at 7 o'clock and clubs are warned to be on hand ready to begin at that hour. There should be no player shortage now with the teams strengthened by former Baron players. Incidentally managers are asked to submit the names of these players signed this week and if they have no certificates to consult league secretary John Driscoll.

The newly organized Industrial Softball League has sceured another recruit in a team from the Inductional Motors department of the Canadian General. The latest addition to the Industrial loop will play their first game tonight at 7 o'clock when they meet Canadian Watercraft at the Dominion Woollens Field. Other games scheduled for this week are Raybestos vs. Outboard Marines, Thursday night at the Woollens Field and Woollens vs. Brintons at the Brinton Field on Friday night. In a game Friday night that went nine innings by mutual consent Brintons defeated the Rays 24 to 23. It had been intended to call the game at the end of the seventh but both wanted to go on until the ninth and strangely enough both scored nine runs in the two extra frames. The battery for Brintons was Lynch, Phillips and Williams and for Raybestos, Routley and Miller.

His troubles as manager have not prevented him from taking his usual cut up there at the plate....Les Fleming, sensational rookie first baseman of the Indians has climbed up to third place in baseball's big six hitters....Toronto Leafs broke even with Buffalo Bisons yesterday.

Golf Club Holds Largest Sweep Of Year

The warm day was responsible for the largest turnout to date in the mens sweepstakes, held at the Peterborough Golf Club Saturday. With an entry of 29 no one tabled a net score bettering 69, which is par figures for the course. Alley De Graw came very close to it, leading the field with a net 70.

With the grounds getting dryer each day and playing conditions improving rapidly. the boys should start reeling off net scores much closer to par by next week-end or the handicap list certainly will be revised. Prize winners were:

Low net handicap, 10 and under, O. DeGraw 80-10-70.

Low net handicap, 11 to 15—D. McIntyre, 87-15—72.

Low net handicap, 16 to 20— F. Jobbitt 92-20—72.

Low net handicap 21 to 25—T. Rodger, 92-21—71.

Low net handicap 22 and over—J Jobe 106-32—74.

Next Saturday, July 4th, the Peterborough Golf Club men's section will be hosts to the Kawartha Golf Club, when the first game for the Dobbin-Glover trophy will be held. Last year the Kawartha club won the cup and members of the local northern club are out to even the score. This event is a no-handicap affair and is match play. No stymies with one point for each nine and a point for the eighteen.

Also Wednesday, July 1 it is the intention to run a sweep throughout the day and whether you play morning or afternoon make your entry to Bill Spittall or his assistant and please see that your game is recorded on the board on completion of play. Plays are asked to enter these events as this is the only means of revenue your Match and Handicap committe have.

The scores:

Whirlaway Adds $23,650 To His Winnings

NEW YORK, June 29—(AP).—Whirlaway stretched out his six-foot tail and won the Brooklyn Handicap Saturday so easily he looked as if he can overhaul Seabiscuit's all-time money-winning record any time the cash is laid on the line for him.

Turning loose his famous kick down Aqueduct's straightaway in tune with "here comes Whirlaway" cry from the stands, he galloped home by nearly two lengths to pick up $23,650 and become the second horse in racing history to go over the $400,000 mark in earnings.

This skyrocketed his bankroll to $404,486, just $33,244 short of the Biscuit's $437,730. It also put him in a spot to pick up the difference in the Butler Handicap at Empire July 4, and the Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk, July 15, on the schedule Owner Warren Wright and Trainer Ben Jones have lined up for him.

Excellent Time

He carried top weight of 128 pounds Saturday, spotting the seven others in the field anywhere from six to seventeen, and still whizzed the mile and a quarter in two minutes, 2 2-5 seconds. The time lopped three-fifths of a second off the record for the Brooklyn, and came within one second of the track's record on footing that was not completely fast.

Mrs. Payne Whitney's Swing and Sway was second with Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention third.

His performance was the headline act of a war relief program which saw William Zeigler Jr's Breezing Home with the $5,875 Great American Stakes by a neck and Doublrab, from the barn of Mrs. Tilyou Christopher of Miami, take the United States Army and Navy Handicap in the track record time of 1:10 2-5 for six furlongs, although weighted with 125 pounds.

The Arm yand Navy Relief Funds and the United Service organizations collected $100,000 from the program. The "chalk players" in the crowd of 22,054 got $2.90 back from each $2 win ticket they bought on Whirly, who had the benefit of some of the best riding he's ever received, from Georgie Woolf of Cardston, Alta.

In winning under Woolf, Whirlaway also exploded a myth. Ever since Whirlaway became famous, in the Kentucky Derby a year ago under the handling of Eddie Arcaro, after showing a lot of ways of running earlier in the year, the Kentucky Italian made him what he is.

But in his two most recent outings, Woolf has been on him. Before winning the Brooklyn Saturday, Woolf was aboard Whirly when he smashed Aqueduct's track record for a mile and an eighth.

And these two outings came shortly after Arcaro had given Whirlaway anything but a brilliant ride in the Suburban when he bowed to Market Wise.

Slow to Begin

As usual, Whirlaway made his customary leisurely exit from the starting gate and followed the field around the first turn as Swing and Sway and Tom Howell's Olympus cut out the pace. Woolf clucked the "go ahead" as they moved past the three-quarter mile mark, and the Kentucky cannonball shouldered through the field rounding the stretch turn.

A quarter of a mile from him, Woolf flicked him a couple of times with the bat and Whirly caught Swing And Sway and went right on by.

Although he whipped one of his jinxes when Attention was hard put to beat out Mrs. Whitney's The Rhymer for the shot spot, there was one disappointment for Whirlaway in the race. This was the absence of Lou Tufano's Market Wise, which has been ailing since whipping Whirly in the Suburban Handicap.

But the way Woolf kept Whirly within shouting distance of the head end of the pack—he was no more than eight lengths away at any time—it is doubtful if the rags-to-riches runner could have repeated his May 30 victory in this one.

At the finish the field was stretched out nearly a sixteenth of a mile. The Rhymer, winner of last winter's Widener Handicap, was an easy fourth, three lengths in front of movie-man Harry Warner's Paper Boy. A. J. Sackett's Tola Rose was sixth, John Clark's Waller seventh, and Olympus chased the whole bunch.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

From the Atlantic on the East to the Pacific on the West, from the South border line to the far-flung shores of the Arctic, the people of Canada will gather this week to do honor to the men and women of the Army.

To-day and throughout the week the members of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club pay tribute to the men and women of the Army—and we are greatly indebted to our good friend Robert Hendry for his thoughtfulness in passing on to us this timely verse. It was written by John Robert Harris, and we believe it expresses the thoughts of all our members:

OUR HERITAGE.

For such as this
Men lie in Flanders dust
That we might live
To glorify their trust.

For such as this
Men, like the Gods of Time,
Rise to new heights
With deeds and thoughts sublime.

For love of this
Our fathers worked and fought,
Upon these principles
Our heritage was wrought.

For this we live
And thank our God on high;
This is our heritage
For which men fight and die.

For thus we stand
The guardians of the storm;
Our children's hope,
And that of those unborn.

For such as these
We pledge our very all,
That they may live
And love, at Freedom's Call.

Lt. W. Jamieson Wins Canada Challenge Cup

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND — June 29 (CP Cable)—Lieut. W. W. Jamieson, Prince Albert, Sask., won the Canada Cup Challenge Gold trophy in competition with 60 other Canadian army officers Sunday, shooting a net 150 over 36 holes. The cup was donated by Canadian officers who took part in the last war and was won in 1941 by Capt. C. R. (Sandy) Somerville of London, Ont., several times winner of the Canadian Amateur title and 1932 U.S. titleholder.

Jamieson, member of the Regina Rifles Headquarteds group, was aided by a handicap of 12 in each round. Somerville showed little of his championship form, carding a net 79 in the morning. He didn't turn in a card for the second 18 holes.

Capt. Don Carrick of Toronto, with the Royal Canadian Artillery, who beat Somerville for the Canadian title in 1936 took the prize for the best gross, with 165.

The low net for the morning round was 74, carded by Major C. Aberhart of Toronto, nephew of the Alberta premier and attached to a Canadian General Hospital unit. The best afternoon net was 72 by Maj. H. E. Rowlands of Hamilton, Ont., who is with an infantry reinforcement unit.

World Series Rules May Be Changed

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sport W[r]iter

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP). — Don't be surprised if the present [...]mped—world series rules are reva[...] Fall even to permitting the annu[...] classic to wind up on the [...]acific Coast.

Three ideas have been disc[...]ssed in every major league dugo[...] the last few days with swelling the [...] accounts of the Army and Navy [...] lief Societies and of the United S[...] vice organizations as the m[...] jectives.

Under Plan No. 1 the series [...] be extended to nine games [...] the present seven with the se[...] funds benefitting from the [...] contests.

Plan No. 2 has the two penn[...] winners deciding the world title [...] seven tilts before going on a bar[n]storming tour of the country.

Most revolutionary is Plan No. [...] which would have the competin[g] nines play two games in the park of each combatant before opening a road journey of nine games, each contest to have a world series status and count toward the championship.

Under that setup the deciding battle might be played in Toledo, Denver or San Francisco.

In both the latter cases, cities with major league ball clubs would be avoided and the wandering series taken to places having the larger and better minor league plants.

Best Pitchers Of Champions Both Walloped

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

It begins to look as if New York Yankees, expected by many to be naming a starting pitcher for the world series by the fourth of July, won't even be in first place at that stage of the campaign if they don't pull out of their current spin.

Kicked around at three stops out of four on their two-weeks swing to the west, the Yanks hit bottom Sunday when Chicago White Sox mauled them twice, 6-2 and 13-1.

Not only did the sixth-place White Sox sting the champions of the world with their first double defeat of the year, but they did it at the expense of their topnotch pitchers, Red Ruffing and Ernie Bonham.

As a result, the Yankee American League lead shrank to 5½ games and would have dropped to 4½ if Cleveland Indians had not become fed up with the treatment they were receiving from the second-place Boston Red Sox and savaged the final contest of a four-game series.

Outpitched Ruffing

Ted Lyons out-pitched Ruffing in the first game, scattering eight hits, putting his team ahead to stay with a two-run double and drawing even with the Yankee hurler's lifetime record of 251 triumphs.

After pounding Ruffing for 14 hits, the White Sox landed on Bonham for seven blows in the first three innings of the nightcap, driving him off the mound and continuing their assault with six more hits off Norman Branch and Johnny Lindell.

At Cleveland, the Red Sox took the first game 8-3 by scoring all their runs in the fifth inning, but the Indians halted their three-game losing streak in the second when Pinch-hitter Chubby Dean singled the winning run across for a 3-2 decision.

Detroit Tigers also spit a pair with Philadelphia Athletics and missed a chance to climb over the Indians into third place. Hal Newhouser pitched three-hit ball in gaining a 3-2 decision for the Tigers, but [...] man Harris blanked [...] hits in the [...] Senators nosed out St. Louis Browns, 14-13 and 7-6, in a pair of games that saw 13 pitchers bombarded for 60 hits, including 18 doubles, two triples and two home runs. Although his efforts were fruitless, Vern Stephens of the Browns collected four doubles and three singles in 12 times at bat, hitting five-for-five in the nightcap.

Brooklyn Dodgers, leaders of the National League, barely escaped the Yankees fate when Joe Medwick tripled to give them a 2-1 triumph over Cincinnati in the second game after the Reds had bagged the opener, 6-3.

Pirates Get 7 Homers

Seven home runs carried Pittsburg Pirates to a double victory over New York Giants, 8-7 and 9-3. Elbie Fletcher's four-bagger in the ninth inning decided the first game after the Giants had tied the score four times.

Tommy Hughes pitched Philadelphia Phils to a 2-1 victory over St. Louis Cardinals in 15 innings, going all the way and yielding only 10 hits, but the Cards took the second game, 3-1, behind the five-hit pitching of Lon Warneke and stayed nine games behind the Dodgers.

Ernie Koy broke up the first game by singling with the bases loaded against Howard Krist, who succeeded John Beazley after 12 innings and suffered his first defeat since 1940. Krist won 10 games without a loss last year and had added three more to his string this season.

Cubs Are Blanked.

Jim Tobin tossed a three-hitter as Boston Braves blanked Chicago Cubs for the second stranght time. 3-0, but after 21 scoreless innings the Cubs rallied to win the nightcap, 5-1.

Saturday was stockholders' day for the Browns when, whatever they do the rest of the year, they usually come through win a victory. Before a turnout of 3,199 of the clubs owners and friends (and 1,309 paid admissions) tht Browns walloped Washington 8-3, unleashing a 12-hit attack. In other American League games, Roger Cramer doubled in the 13th inning with two out to give Detroit a 6-5 victory over the Athletics, the Yankees topped the White Sox 7-3 and Boston Red Sox won 6-3 over the Indians.

In the National League, Cincinnati beat the Dodgers 3-1, the Giants won 5-2 over the Pirates and Al Javery, with only 48 hours rest, pitched the Braves to a 4-0 victory over the Cubs. St. Louis at Philadelphia was postponed.

WINNIPEG, June 29.—(CP)—Ossie Barton, shortstop for Port Arthur in the Lakehead senior baseball league, claims the unique record of spoiling two no-hit, no-run games this season, one for the opposish, one for his own team.

The other night Barton's single and double were the only two hits made off Pitcher Harley Barringer of the Geat Lakes team as Ports won 2-0 with Johnny Reid scattering six hits. Dist (Port Arthur News-Chronicle Elliot says Barton feels responsible for spoiling Reid's own bid for no-hit fame in an earlier game. Ossie reasons that if he had not moved the wrong way, the lone hit off Reid could have been cut off.

Chiefs, Bears Split Doublheader

By The [Asso]ciated Press
Internat[ional] League observers, until a few weeks ago, had tabbed First Baseman Eddie Shokes of Syracuse Chiefs as "good fielder, no hitter." Since then Manager Jewel Ens of the Chiefs, has been experimenting with Shokes' stance and now he is hitting as he did at Duke University.

Shokes enjoyed a red letter day as the Chiefs divided a double header with Newark Bears Sunday, winning the first game 5-1 and losing the second 6-5. Eddie [...] two home [...] in the opener [...] Ewell Blackwell throttled the league leaders with eight hits to hand up his fourth triumph.

Score Five in Ninth

In the aftermath Syracuse was trailing 4-0 going into the last frame when the Chiefs rallied to score five times and take a one-run lead. Shokes hit his third homer of the day in this inning and Al Lakeman delivered a pinch round-tripper with one aboard. The Indians lost the game, however, when Frank Kelleher hit his 17th four-master of the season with one on in Newark's turn at bat.

After Buffalo Bisons won the initial contest from Toronto Maple Leafs, 9-5, the Leafs came back to triumph behind the five-hit hurling of Nick Strincevich, 5-2. Floyd Giebell matched his first victory in the opener as his mates pounded Jack Hallett and Dick Conger of the Leafs for 12 hits, including round trippers by Mike Rocco and Jimmy Outlaw.

Two Great Battles

Baltimore Orioles and Jersey City Giants hooked up in two brilliant battles with the Orioles drawing first blood, 7-5, and the Giants evening matters by taking the finale 2-1. Baltimore was leading, 1-0, in the second game on Bob Lemon's 14th circuit clout of the season until the Giants scored twice in the last frame.

Keeping in step with the rest of the league, Rochester Red Wings and Montreal Royals split their twin bill with the junior Cards, taking the opener in 11 innings, 8-7, and the Royals the second, 4-3.

In Saturday's games, Rochester went 11 innings to turn back Toronto 11-6 in the first game of a twilight-night doubleheader and was leading 3-0 at the end of the third inning in the late game when the contest was called to permit the Wings to catch a train. Montreal defeated Buffalo 2-0 to win the three-game series by a 2-1 margin. [J]ersey City at Baltimore and Syracuse at Newark were postponed.

Jockey Fatally Hurt

Chicago, June 29.—(AP)

JACK Franklin Frye, 28-year-old jockey from Twin Falls, Idaho, died in hospital Saturday after being thrown from the back of a horse he was exercising at Arlington Park.

Frye, thrown from his mount, Little Gallant, stumbled, caught his foot in the stirrup and was dragged some distance. He was scheduled to be inducted into the United States Army to-day.

Wives May Believe, But Widows Know

MANY wives realize that money saved and invested in a Confederation Life policy is money put by for the protection of themselves and their children. They are prepared, if necessary, to go without certain things rather than sacrifice that financial protection.

But only widows know just what adequate life insurance means and—what is even more important—how tragic it is to be without it.

Confederation Life Policies may be had with Monthly Income Total Disability Benefits.

Floral Beauty Marks Farm Market

Nature's bounty in floral beauty was in market display on the Farmers' Market on Saturday morning, as flowers of every description from the lowly briar rose to the stately delphinium graced tables both out-of-doors and upstairs. With Sunday Decoration Day, the flowers were snapped up by the citizens and by twelve noon, there was scarcely a bloom to be seen.

A beautiful bouquet mixed flowers was available for as low as 25 cents and top prices were 75 cents and one dollar. Bunches of Sweet William sold at 10 and 20 cents, polyanthus roses were five cents each, and delphiniums were two for five cents.

There was a fair amount of strawberries and the price was steady at two boxes for 35 cents. Some sold at 20 cents a box, and W. Myers of Wooler had some nice ones at 15 cents a box.

The staple commodities showed little change in price, butter sold at 37 and 38 cents with not much on hand; eggs ranged from 32 to 40, and the majority sold at 35 cents; broilers were 33 cents a pound, chickens 32 and 33, and hens rang- from 22 to 28 cents.

Herb Doig had a few new potatoes at 40 cents for a six-quart basket, and they went like hot cakes. No old potatoes were offered.

The first home-grown vegetables of the season were on sale, and as usual small bunches of the various vegetables brought good prices. Carrots were five and ten, beets five, onions five, and radishes five. Pod peas were two quarts for a quarter and asparagus showed a downward price trend, selling at 5 cents a bunch. Cauliflower was five cents for a small head, and up to 20 cents for the larger ones.

Wounded From Dutch Harbor

T. K. Hill, a seaman, wounded during the bombing and strafing attack on Dutch Harbor, Alaska, is shown as he was carried from the vessel that brought him to Seattle recently. Wounded soldiers, sailors and civilians, as well as evacuated women and children, were brought safely to Seattle after the ship was subjected to strafing by Jap planes.

Care For Living Finest Memorial One Can Make For Dead Decoration Day Audience Is Told

Warm sunny June weather set the scene at Little Lake cemetery for solemn memorial services of the Peterborough I.O.O.F., Sunday, at which the Rev. H. J. Mahoney told members, and a large crowd of spectators, that the finest memorial that could be made to the dead was to care for the living.

He chose as his text "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in Me," and he divided his address into three parts. The speaker said there dwells within man a primal urge to seek God and find Him, but there are times we think God is remote from our daily lives. Actually He is really very close to us, sometimes more so than we realize. There has always been a deep longing in the hearts of men echoing down through the centuries, and the solution is really easy, that of realizing He is everywhere. God is very nigh unto us in this high serious service of memorial today.

Mr. Mahoney's second point was that the crowning victory of life is the conquest of fear. Fear, such as the insecurity of position or looking into the future, upsets man, and no other factor so saps and weakens a person's outlook. It saps his physical, moral and mental energies. He gave a quotation from one of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's writings that he said expressed his thoughts very aptly, "The consciousness of well being is born from a sense of freedom from release of fear." The terrors of death can be dissipated by the knowledge that there is One who says "let not your heart be troubled,' 'he continued.

Completion of Task

His third point was that death is but a completion of a task. "God never takes anyone until the task is completed," he said.

A poem written by John McGee, an American member of the R.A.F., shortly before he was killed, and Mr. Mahoney particularly requested his audience to absorb the last line of those noble words, "I put out my hand and touched the face of God." Death is as simple as that. "Jesus, when He left His disciple, gave them these words for comfort. 'let not your heart be troubled'" he concluded.

Then a wreath was placed on the Oddfellows' Lot for those who were not from Peterborough, and it was reverenty carried by Stanley Gillespie and Charles Garside, representing the Picton and Millbrook lodges respectively, to the strains of "The Old Rugged Cross," played by the Salvation Army Band.

A plea was made to the Oddfellows G. A. Macdonald, in which he said it was a day of remembrance and should also be a day of reflection. That the thoughts of those present should go to many whose lives are being cut off in the midst of their usefulness, and to those beyond the sea in England who are facing great difficulties.

A pea was made to the Oddfellows and audience present to contribute to the British War Victims' Fund, and after the collection, with the singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" the Oddfellows divided into groups, to decorate some three hundred graves with their bouquets of mixed flowers, whose brilliant-hued coors made an impressive sight.

The Peterborough Lodge No. 156, Otonabee Lodge No. 111 and the Rebeccas made up the I.O.O.F. which paraded down to Little Lake cemetery behind the Salvation Army Band under the leadership of Gerald Routly. This band gave fine service throughout the ceremony as they interspersed the addresses with some of the old hymns well known to everyone.

The whole cemetery was a blazing mass of bloom and color with flowers of every description. As far as the eye could see in every direction blossoms stretched endlessly from the Otonabee River to Little Lake, strengthening the Rev. Mr. Mahoney's exhortation to remember the living.

carried the battle to the enemy, strafing his advance ground forces, blasting at his communication lines and pounding his major supply ports—Bengasi and Tobruk.

Axis bombers were less active in the initial phases of the battle.

The town of Matruh itself, around which the land fighting is raging, is a relatively unimportant settlement with a peace-time population of about 500, situated on the coast some 130 miles east of the Egyptian-Libyan frontier.

To counter the Germans' 88-millimetre cannon, which proved a decisive factor in Libya, British authorities were throwing into action quantities of newly-arrived guns, especially an anti-tank six-pounder.

The battle between the main bodise of the opposing armies was joinde west of Matruh Saturday after the Axis forces had spent two days manoeuvring before the British lines and moving up men and supplies.

That British forces were not playing a purely defensive game was indicated by this line in yesterday's communique:

"Some of our armored forces attacked enemy armored forces west of Matruh."

The British defence positions, protected by a network of minefields and backed by a high hill near the coast, extend inland approximately 40 miles, with the left flank protected by the salt marshes and shifting sands of the Qattara depression.

The F.B.I. did not reveal how the dynamiters were caught. An unofficial report was that a lone unarmed coast guardsmen on foot patrol along Amagansett Beach gave the alarm resulting in their seizure.

This version said the coast guardsman, who had watched the German sub surface and the four agents row ashore, was seized by them and threatened with death, but later released on his acceptance of $270 as "bribe money" to keep silent.

But instead of keeping silent, he rushed to his station and turned in the alarm, the report went.

The government also announced that the famous cathedral at Canterbury had been damaged, along with several other historic buildings, by German bombers which attacked that cradle of the Anglican Church June 1. Much of the residential section of the ancient town was said to have been laid waste.

Although the cathedral escaped a direct hit, damage to the structure was estimated at many thousands of dollars. The modern library and deanery were wrecked and King's School—oldest public school in England—was badly battered.

Authoritative quarters indicated that bad weather over the continent had limited R.A.F. offensive operations last night to "intruder activity" forays against the German-Swedish [illegible] from German as saying meanwhile, of British air assaults on the German North Sea coast were visible everywhere.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

TRAFFIC IS LIGHT

A Peterborough citizen who motored to Cobourg Sunday commented on the few automobiles seen on the highway in contrast with normal conditions on a summer Sunday. On the down trip leaving here about 11 a.m. he said that only 15 cars were noticed between here and Cobourg. On the return between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening 35 cars were noticed.

SO MANY.

With eleven weddings in town on Saturday, the photographers did a rushing business. Things were so crowded with most of them that one party had not left before another had arrived. It kept the people of offices and stores nearby busy dashing out to get a look at the bridal parties.

WANTED, AN OWNER.

A banded pigeon in a slightly disabled condition was found by David Northey on the 14th Concession of Smith on Saturday afternoon. The pigeon bore the number 122-11. Mr. Northey is wondering just where the bird came from.

DOMINION DAY, POST OFFICE

There will be no delivery by letter carrier or rural route courier on Dominion Day. The public lobby of the Post Office will be open from 6:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. The general delivery, registration, postage stamp wickets money order and savings bank will be open from 8 a.m. to 10 to transact all business. The regular evening collection will be made from the street letter boxes. Special delivery service will be as usual and all mails received will be despatched as usual.

TWO CALLS

Firemen answered two calls over the week-end. Saturday, at 10:15 p.m. they received an alarm for a fire at 643 Donegal street, at the home of Bernard Kennedy. A roast in the oven caught fire, presumably from the grease, Chief Gimblett said. Smoke was the only damage. Then around 3 p.m. Sunday the planking across the creek beside the Bell Apartments on Hunter street caught fire from a cigarette butt. The damage here was negligible.

BERRIES RIPE

Reports from the Madoc district indicate that the huckleberries are ripening fast and some have already been picked. They are also reported coming along fine in the Havelock and up near Burleigh.

STEAL FLOWERS FROM GRAVES

Chief Constable Newhall thinks that the meanest folk in the world must have moved into Peterborough recently. At least the police department had received complaints that in several cases where flowers had been placed on graves in Little Lake Cemetery Sunday morning in accordance with the annual Decoration custom, it was found in the afternoon that the floral tributes had been stolen.

NOT A SAFE SPOT

Chemong Park is evidently not the safest place in the neighborhood just now for drinking beer in the open air. A trio of Peterborough youth who pleaded guilty in police court this morning to illegal consumption were each fined $10 and $2.80 costs. There have been four such fines in the last few days.

RIVER ROAD POPULAR

Curtailment of gasoline and a desire to conserve rubber is making city people chose picnic spots closer to home. On Sunday afternoon the River Road from Nassau to Lakefield attracted a host of people, and bathing and picinc parties were in progress throughout the entire afternoon. Many brought the evening meal with them, and ate it out of doors.

THEY LIVE WELL

One city housewive who studied the menu for the army camps, with the idea of introducing a similar menu in her home this week, claims she got a surprise. According to her, the army is getting better food, and a greater variety than the family has been used to.

A BIG MUSKIE

Clinton Short, who lives on the corner of Gilmour street and Monaghan Road, ushered in the maskinonge season with a catch that rates well over the average. He was casting from a boat near Sugar Island in Rice Lake, a short distance from Keene when a 20-pounder took hold, and Short landed the muskie after a brief but hectic battle.

STORES TO CLOSE

In order that employees of the stores in the downtown business section will have a good holiday, the store managers have decided not to keep the stores open on Tuesday evening, thus making it a real holiday for them, giving ample time for more preparations. This announcement was made by Dennis Fitzgerald, president of the Peterborough Business Men's Association.

RECRUITING BRISK

Recruits continue to join the Prince of Wales Rangers, 2nd Battalion, Reserve, at a fast rate, and ten more have been added to the roll as follows:

John Gynane, 118 Aylmer street; William J. M. Armstrong, 21 Cameron street; Walter M. Metcalfe, 868 George street north; Clifford C. Dahms, 218 Sherbrooke street; Howard A. McMann, 448 Mark street; Robert R. Bayliss, 218 King street; James R. Record, 656 Reid street; John H. Eggleton, 40 Lafayette avenue; Carl E. Northey, 166½ Simcoe street; John E. Gaskell, 15 Hilliard street.

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE

Considerable damage was done to two cars in a collison at Brock and Donegal streets on Sunday. Hubert Chown, 607 Weller street was driving east on Brock street and James O'Connor, R.R. 9 Gilmour street, north on Donegal street when the two vehicles came into contact at the intersection. No one was hurt but both cars suffered considerable from the impact.

GETS ANOTHER ADJOURNMENT

Thomas Poulos, Havelock hotel proprietor, charged with keeping liquor for sale, secured another adjournment, this time for two weeks when his case was called in police court this morning. Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., said that he would not oppose the adjournment.

SOME NICE TROUT

J. Harry Campbell, 74 Ware street, landed three nice brook trout over the week-end. The biggest was 16 inches long and weighed 2¼ pounds, the second was 11¾ inches long and tipped the scales at 1¼ pounds and the third measured 9¾ inches and weighed three-quarters of a pound.

BODY RECOVERED.

The body of Roy Beauvais, Toronto, who was drowned in Lake Simcoe on May 24, was recovered on Sunday afternoon. The late Mr. Beauvais was a nephew of Mrs. A. Corbin, 105 Western Avenue, and was well known in this district where he had many relatives and friends.

LADIES ATTENTION

Work on the sugar rationing cards for Tuesday morning and evening has been cancelled and no ladies will be required at the Collegiate for those times. Work will continue as usual on Tuesday afternoon.

JOINS THE NAVY

J. Richardson, prominent C.G.E. soccer player, and well remembered for his clever work at inside right for that club has enlisted with the Canadian Navy and is playing football with the Navy team in Toronto. Richardson has for a number of years been on a farm near Westwood but he was usually in town during the week-ends.

CYCLISTS FINED

Seven bicycle riders who entered written pleas of guilty or appeared in police court this morning to plead guilty were fined $2 and $1 for riding bicycles on city streets after dark without lights. The seven were Jack Dinsdale, Edward Morgan, Audrey Alton, John Joseph Hickey, Gerald Ackford, Lloyd Routley, Kenneth Lee and Robret Doherty.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Donald Lloyd of Lakefield was committeed for trial this morning on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences from Industrial Acceptance, Limited. This was the third of three charges in which the preliminary hearings took place before Magistrate Langley last Wednesday. At that time His Worship announced that he would reserve judgment in the last of the three cases until this morning. Today he announced that he proposed to bail the accused for trial but T. J. Carley, K.C., intimated that no bail would be available, whereupon Magistrate Langley said that Lloyd would be committed for trial.

Percy Sexsmith Locates Runaway Boys

Two young Toronto boys, William West, 339 Winona Drive and Fred Monk 29 Rockdale Avenue, both 12 years old, who disappeared from their homes in the Queen City last Thursday, and who have been the object of a wide search since, were located on George street this morning by Constable Percy Sexsmith. The youngsters tried to convince the officer that they were local residents but they picked a number on Murray street that he knew did not exist and finally admitted that they were the missing Toronto pair.

A brother of West's was here yesterday looking for the two. They had been traced to Uxbridge and eventually to Peterborough, but there were no signs of them from early Sunday morning until Constable Sexsmith spotted them this morning. The boys said they had slept for two nights in automobiles on a local used car lot.

Relatives came for the two this afternoon.

West's Output To Be Tied Up, None From U.K.

LAKEFIELD, June 29.—(ENS).— "Knock the side out of that bin of yours if it won't hold your winter's coal, but get what you will need for the whole season, in July or August," was the tip Norman A. Brand, assistant to the Coal Administrator for Canada, gave The Examiner in an interview yesterday.

From the situation as Mr. Brand painted it, it would appear that a good many pet flower beds and petty annoyances at such disruptions as tire prints and coal man's bootmarks on carefully groomed summer lawns are due for a rude tossing overboard—or be cause for possible reflection in a more chill atmosphere later.

Mr. Braund gave as his reason for the summer purchase of coal the necessity of levelling off the peak in mining and transportation needs to spread it more evenly over the year.

During the summer transportation is much freer than in winter when the demand is heavier and consequently demonstrates the wisdom of early purchase when coal is easily obtainable, as many sizes and classes will be impossible to get for periods in the cold season.

Enlarging on this, the official stated Canada's coal output in 1938 was ten million tons—in 1942 it will be twenty million tons. But, though consumption in 1938 was some twenty million tons, the war has jumped the demand in similar proportion and consequently the 1942 requirements will run from forty to forty- million tons.

Increased use by industry for war work and the forced demand for coal to replace shortage in other fuels—cutting off of natural gas in Niagara areas means an extra 100,000 tons, reduction in fuel oil supply adds a million to a million and a half tons, both outside the extra run caused by the general heavy switch to coal as a result of a large drop in wood cutting—all going a long way towards making up the 40 million figure.

Add to this is a further million and a half tons needed for the armed services in Canada.

Taking on New Customers

Pyramiding the picture is the fact that the Dominion is now supplying the Alaska road needs, Iceland, Greenland, Newfoundland, St. Pierre and Miquelon—the latter five formerly receiving their supplies from Great Britain.

With the boosted demand in the West and a growing labor shortage due largely to enlistments, the mining output there may be tied up for that area of Canada, said Mr. Brand —and it could conceivably be that very little if any Alberta coal will find its way east to Ontario next winter—something that may come as a jar to householders as this fuel has been finding increased favor in the last year or so.

In a recent dispatch the British Ministry of Shipping it was stated that Britain had agreed to supply the necessary ships for the transport of coal from Nova Scotia —but this will mean nothing to Ontario as the Maritimes' output will be confined to the eastern seaboard, Newfoundland, Iceland and Greenland.

No U.K. Coal for Ontario

Ontario will get no British coal this year, said Mr. Brand, with the exception of a small tonnage of special blower grades for some industrial plants. With not over 20 per cent. of British coal imported in 1941 coming in this year, it will all be kept in the Montreal area as it would have to be spread so thinly to cover other sections. Some of this is due to increased output of a new Soo steel plant which got waterborne U.S. coke that was to have gone to Hamilton, which in turn was supplied by the shorter rail-haul coke from Montreal area, amounting to some 100,000 tons.

Asked regarding the possibility of new mines being developed, the coal official revealed study and action was being taken with one new one in the West coming into production shortly, but stated the obtaining of new machinery was a major handicap for the present.

Right now, Mr. Brand stated, there is a plentiful supply of anthracite, but—the householder doesn't have to use his imagination very much to see what it means when referred to Trade Magazine reports that show the anthracite industry running from twenty to twenty-six days behind in their orders right now — when summer rail facilities are good.

Coal prices are pegged too at the basic period figures of last September-October, except where a dealer is handling a new grade, in which case the Coal Administrator sets the price at what it approximately would have been at that time.

Every incentive is being given the citizen to buy early in the next two months in the new plan of credit whereby he may get in supplies up to the value of $250 on his dealer's approval through the banks, at 6.2 interest, loans to be repaid by May, 1943.

Considering the statements in the interview it would seem that Ontarioans may have to depend largely on American coal this winter, and with orders running behind, may have to take grades of coal available at the time their order is reached and which may not at all coincide with their heating plans — hence a repeat reference to Mr. Brand's tip to "knock out the side of that bin and not only get some coal in, but the whole winter's supply—in July and August."

Remember When—

Jack Sharkey, world heavyweight boxing champion, was dethroned by Primo Carnera in the sixth round of a title bout at New York nine years ago tonight. Sharkey pelted the big Italian for five rounds only to sink to the canvas unconscious when Carnera connected with a viscious uppercut in the sixth.

Rev. J. F. Corkery Celebrates His First Mass

Sacred Heart Church was filled to capacity at the 10.30 Mass on Sunday morning, when the Rev. John Francis Corkery, newly-ordained member of the Redemptorist Order celebrated his first solemn high mass. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Denis Corkery, 238 Westcott street, and one of the youngest priests to be ordained into this missionary order.

Rev. Father Corkery was born in Peterborough, and received his primary education at the Sacred Heart School. After two years at St. Peter's he decided on the priesthood as a vocation and spent four years at St. Mary's College at Brockville. Then followed a year at the Redemptorist Novitiate at St. John, New Brunswick, and five years at St. Alphonsus Seminary in Woodstock. He was ordained with five other candidates, and is only 23 years of age. Bishop Kidd of Woodstock conducted the ordination.

Rev. D. Edward, CSSR, was deacon at the mass, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, deacon of honor, and Rev. James Houlihan, subdeacon. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. J. Gallagher, CSSR, who is professor of history at St. Alphonsus Seminary, Woodstock, and a prominent member of the Catholic Historical Association.

Father Gallagher in his address told of the joy that existed in the Corkery family today, because their hopes, dreams and prayers had been realized in the ordination of a member of their family. He described the duties and responsibilities arising out of the ordination to the Holy Priesthood and in conclusion he said, "I congratulate you, dear Mother and Father. Yours is an honor that the world's noblest might well envy."

On Sunday afternoon from three in the afternoon until nine at night, a reception was held at the home of the priest's parents, and more than 400 friends, relatives and neighbors attended to pay tribute to this young man and his family.

Milk For Britain

The Peterborough Milk for Britain Fund received a boost of $95 today through three contributions. The first to come in was $40 received from the School Children of S.S. No. 10, Otonabee, Stewart Hall school, through Shirley Hurchison. These children staged a salvage collection this spring and $40 was netted from this most successful war effort and will supply 400 quarts of milk to the children of Britain, surey a noble effort. Then came $5 from Harold Grafstein, 263 Homewood, who was laid up in the hospital with a fractured leg for a few weeks. The idea occurred to him that he might raise some money for a war charity so when his friends came to visit him they autographed his cast and he made a donation.

The third donation was for $50 and was received from the Ontario Chinese Patriotic Association in Peterborough. Though the need is great in China for all the funds which this Association can raise they believe in also giving aid to their Allies, the Children of Great Britain.

Porker Escapes From Farmers' Market Senator Duffus And Two Boys Give Chase

Senator J. J. Duffus, two small boys and a six-weeks-old pig were the main actors in an excitement packed drama in the heart of the business section on Saturday at noon. Traffic was at its noon-day peak when the fun started, as the little porker escaped from a car, and headed for parts unknown.

The pig went north on Water street, with Senator Duffus in hot pursuit, eager to save the pig before the wheels of some fast travelling motor car hit it. The pig proved too fleet of foot, and too elusive to the member of the Senate, who no doubt was revelling in the chase, and happy with memories of boyhood days on his father's farm down in Otonabee Township.

At this point Senator Duffus went back to get his car, and to head the pig off should it start for the river. Several small boys, however, took up the chase, and the hue and cry of the hunt swept past the Examiner office toward the Hunter street bridge. Zigzagging through the westbound factory traffic from the Westclox and the Quaker Oats, the pig had some narrow escapes, and motorists became jittery as small boys darted all over the road, intent on bringing Mr. Porker down with a flying tackle.

In front of the Quaker Oats, however, a little bit of smart teamwork by Robert Groombridge, Murray street, and Roy Farley, Perry street, bewildered the pig and he was caught. The two boys were returning to the market when Senator Duffus drove up and gave both the youngsters and the miniature package of bacon for Britain a ride to the market. After considerable hunting the owner was found, and much to the dismay of the two youngsters, said "Thank you" and went his way. However, both boys were tipped by the Senator for their work, and a short time later the owner of the pig spotted Robert Groombridge and gave him a quarter.

TRUCK WINDOW SMASHED

Boys throwing stones in the neighborhood of the King George School smashed a window in a truck belonging to A. E. Pammett.

Warsaw Road Crash Demolishes Car

Two persons were injured, several others had a narrow escape and an automobile was almost completely wrecked in a traffic accident on the Warsaw Road, four miles east of Peterborough, Saturday night.

Robert Keatley, Prince street, was driving east and on a turn, he told Provincial Constable Price Morris, who investigated, that his car had been sideswiped by another machine which he claimed did not stop, and then came into contact with a westbound car driven by Jack Leeson. After the crash the Keatley car left the road and turned over into the ditch, completely wrecked. The damage is estimated at $400.

Margaret Carveth, Prince street, passenger in the Keatley automobile, received a bad cut over the eye and bruises on her leg and shook and Elmer Cumming, 228 Carlisle avenue, had cuts on his arm, nose and knee.

Mrs. Cumming and her five-weeks old baby escaped unhurt.

LOANS

$25 FOR $1.76 (TOTAL COST)
$50 FOR $3.58 (TOTAL COST)
$100 FOR $7.10 (TOTAL COST)
when repaid in six monthly instalments

WOULD a cash loan help you? If you have a job, you can borrow at Household Finance without fuss or bother—and at reasonable cost. You may repay your loan in monthly instalments which fit your own pocketbook.

Just this to do

All you do to apply for a Household Finance loan is to tell us how much you need and how you wish to repay.

You may choose the most convenient payment plan from the table below. Suppose you borrow $100 to be repaid at $9.46 a month. Twelve instalments of $9.46 each will repay your loan in full. You may prefer to repay sooner in order to reduce the cost. Six monthly instalments of $17.85 each—a total of $107.10—will also repay a $100 loan. The cost of your loan, in this case, is just $7.10. A $25 loan, repaid in six monthly instalments of $4.46 each costs only $1.76.

You need no endorsers or guarantors to borrow at Household—just the ability to repay in monthly instalments. This spares you the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. And at no time do we question friends or relatives about your credit.

Household Finance loans are usually made on furniture or car. But we consider character and regular income far more important than the value of your security. You can get your loan quickly—usually in 24 hours or even sooner if necessary. If you should get sick or lose your position while paying on your loan, Household will show you every consideration.

Let Household help you

People borrow at Household to pay taxes, insurance, medical, dental, hospital and funeral expenses, school fees, and overdue bills of many kinds. Household service helps men and women, both married and single, to take care of emergency expenses and work their way out of debt.

If you can make good use of a loan, see us at once. We are in business to make loans to folks with money problems. Phone or visit us without obligation.

'Fill That Bin Now'-Coal Head Tips

MAIN STREET TOPICS

TRAFFIC IS LIGHT

A Peterborough citizen who motored to Cobourg Sunday commented on the few automobiles seen on the highway in contrast with normal conditions on a summer Sunday. On the down trip leaving here about 11 a.m. he said that only 15 cars were noticed between here and Cobourg. On the return between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening 35 cars were noticed.

SO MANY.

With eleven weddings in town on Saturday, the photographers did a rushing business. Things were so crowded with most of them that one party had not left before another had arrived. It kept the people of offices and stores nearby busy dashing out to get a look at the bridal parties.

WANTED, AN OWNER.

A banded pigeon in a slightly disabled condition was found by David Northey on the 14th Concession of Smith on Saturday afternoon. The pigeon bore the number 122-11. Mr. Northey is wondering just where the bird came from.

DOMINION DAY, POST OFFICE

There will be no delivery by letter carrier or rural route courier on Dominion Day. The public lobby of the Post Office will be open from 6:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. The general delivery, registration, postage stamp wickets money order and savings bank will be open from 8 a.m. to 10 to transact all business. The regular evening collection will be made from the street letter boxes. Special delivery service will be as usual and all mails rceived will be despatched as usual.

TWO CALLS

Firemen answered two calls over the week-end. Saturday, at 10:15 p.m. they received an alarm for a fire at 643 Donegal street, at the home of Bernard Kennedy. A roast in the oven caught fire, presumably from the grease, Chief Gimblett said. Smoke was the only damage. Then around 3 p.m. Sunday the planking across the creek beside the Bell Apartments on Hunter street caught fire from a cigarette butt. The damage here was negligible.

BERRIES RIPE

Reports from the Madoc district indicate that the huckleberries are ripening fast and some have already been picked. They are also reported coming along fine in the Havelock and up near Burleigh.

STEAL FLOWERS FROM GRAVES

Chief Constable Newhall thinks that the meanest folk in the world must have moved into Peterborough recently. At least the police department had received complaints that in several cases where flowers had been placed on graves in Little Lake Cemetery Sunday morning in accordance with the annual Decoration custom, it was found in the afternoon that the floral tributes had been stolen.

NOT A SAFE SPOT

Chemong Park is evidently not the safest place in the neighborhood just now for drinking beer in the open air. A trio of Peterborough youth who pleaded guilty in police court this morning to illegal consumption were each fined $10 and $2.80 costs. There have been four such fines in the last few days.

RIVER ROAD POPULAR

Curtailment of gasoline and a desire to conserve rubber is making city people chose picnic spots closer to home. On Sunday afternoon the River Road from Nassau to Lakefield attracted a host of people, and bathing and picinc parties were in progress throughout the entire afternoon. Many brought the evening meal with them, and ate it out of doors.

THEY LIVE WELL

One city housewive who studied the menu for the army camps, with the idea of introducing a similar menu in her home this week, claims she got a surprise. According to her, the army is getting better food, and a greater variety than the family has been used to.

A BIG MUSKIE

Clinton Short, who lives on the corner of Gilmour street and Monaghan Road, ushered in the maskinonge season with a catch that rates well over the average. He was casting from a boat near Sugar Island in Rice Lake, a short distance from Keene when a 20-pounder took hold, and Short landed the muskie after a brief but hectic battle.

STORES TO CLOSE

In order that employees of the stores in the downtown business section will have a good holiday, the store managers have decided not to keep the stores open on Tuesday evening, thus making it a real holiday for them, giving ample time for more preparations. This announcement was made by Dennis Fitzgerald, president of the Peterborough Business Men's Association.

RECRUITING BRISK

Recruits continue to join the Prince of Wales Rangers, 2nd Battalion, Reserve, at a fast rate, and ten more have been added to the roll as follows:

John Gynane, 118 Aylmer street; William J. M. Armstrong, 21 Cameron street; Walter M. Metcalfe, 868 George street north; Clifford C. Dahms, 218 Sherbrooke street; Howard A. McMann, 448 Mark street; Robert R. Bayliss, 218 King street; James R. Record, 656 Reid street; John H. Eggleton, 40 Lafayette avenue; Carl E. Northey, 166½ Simcoe street; John E. Gaskell, 15 Hilliard street.

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE

Considerable damage was done to two cars in a collison at Brock and Donegal streets on Sunday. Hubert Chown, 607 Weller street was driving east on Brock street and James O'Connor, R.R. 9 Gilmour street, north on Donegal street when the two vehicles came into contact at the intersection. No one was hurt but both cars suffered considerable from the impact.

GETS ANOTHER ADJOURNMENT

Thomas Poulos, Havelock hotel proprietor, charged with keeping liquor for sale, secured another adjournment, this time for two weeks when his case was called in police court this morning. Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., said that he would not oppose the adjournment.

SOME NICE TROUT

J. Harry Campbell, 74 Ware street, landed three nice brook trout over the week-end. The biggest was 15 inches long and weighed 2¼ pounds, the second was 11¾ inches long and tipped the scales at 1¼ pounds and the third measured 9¾ inches and weighed three-quarters of a pound.

BODY RECOVERED.

The body of Roy Beauvais, Toronto, who was drowned in Lake Simcoe on May 24, was recovered on Sunday afternoon. The late Mr. Beauvais was a nephew of Mrs. A. Corbin, 105 Western Avenue, and was well known in this district where he had many relatives and friends.

LADIES ATTENTION

Work on the sugar rationing cards for Tuesday morning and evening has been cancelled and no ladies will be required at the Collegiate for those times. Work will continue as usual on Tuesday afternoon.

JOINS THE NAVY

J. Richardson, prominent C.G.E. soccer player, and well remembered for his clever work at inside right for that club has enlisted with the Canadian Navy and is playing football with the Navy team in Toronto. Richardson has for a number of years been on a farm near Westwood but he was usually in town during the week-ends.

CYCLISTS FINED

Seven bicycle riders who entered written pleas of guilty or appeared in police court this morning to plead guilty were fined $2 and $1 for riding bicycles on city streets after dark without lights. The seven were Jack Dinsdale, Edward Morgan, Audrey Alton, John Joseph Hickey, Gerald Ackford, Lloyd Routley, Kenneth Lee and Robret Doherty.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Donald Lloyd of Lakefield was committeed for trial this morning on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences from Industrial Acceptance, Limited. This was the third of three charges in which the preliminary hearings took place before Magistrate Langley last Wednesday. At that time His Worship announced that he would reserve judgment in the last of the three cases until this morning. Today he announced that he proposed to bail the accused for trial but T. J. Carley, K.C., intimated that no bail would be available, whereupon Magistrate Langley said that Lloyd would be committed for trial.

Percy Sexsmith Locates Runaway Boys

Two young Toronto boys, William West,, 339 Winona Drive and Fred Monk 29 Rockdale Avenue, both 12 years old, who disappeared from their homes in the Queen City last Thursday, and who have been the object of a wide search since, were located on George street this morning by Constable Percy Sexsmith. The youngsters tried to convince the officer that they were local residents but they picked a number on Murray street that he knew did not exist and finally admitted that they were the missing Toronto pair.

A brother of West's was here yesterday looking for the two. They had been traced to Uxbridge and eventually to Peterborough, but there were no signs of them from early Sunday morning until Constable Sexsmith spotted them this morning. The boys said they had slept for two nights in automobiles on a local used car lot.

Relatives came for the two this afternoon.

West's Output To Be Tied Up, None From U.K.

LAKEFIELD, June 29.—(ENS).—"Knock the side out of that bin of yours if it won't hold your winter's coal, but get what you will need for the whole season, in July or August," was the tip Norman A. Brand, assistant to the Coal Administrator for Canada, gave The Examiner in an interview yesterday.

From the situation as Mr. Brand painted it, it would appear that a good many pet flower beds and petty annoyances at such disruptions as tire prints and coal man's bootmarks on carefully groomed summer lawns are due for a rude tossing overboard—or be cause for possible reflection in a more chill atmosphere later.

Mr. Braund gave as his reason for the summer purchase of coal the necessity of levelling off the peak in mining and transportation needs to spread it more evenly over the year.

During the summer transportation is much freer than in winter when the demand is heavier and consequently demonstrates the wisdom of early purchase when coal is easily obtainable, as many sizes and classes will be impossible to get for periods in the cold season.

Enlarging on this, the official stated Canada's coal output in 1938 was ten million tons—in 1942 it will be twenty million tons. But, though consumption in 1938 was some twenty million tons, the war has jumped the demand in similar proportion and consequently the 1942 requirements will run from forty to forty-... million tons.

Increased use by industry for war work and the forced demand for coal to replace shortage in other fuels—cutting off of natural gas in Niagara areas means an extra 100,000 tons, reduction in fuel oil supply adds a million to a million and a half tons, both outside the extra run caused by the general heavy switch to coal as a result of a large drop in wood cutting—all going a long way towards making up the 40 million figure.

Add to this is a further million and a half tons needed for the armed services in Canada.

Taking on New Customers

Pyramiding the picture is the fact that the Dominion is now supplying the Alaska road needs, Iceland, Greenland, Newfoundland, St.Pierre and Miquelon—the latter five formerly receiving their supplies from Great Britain.

With the boosted demand in the West and a growing labor shortage due largely to enlistments, the mining output there may be tied up for that area of Canada, said Mr. Brand—and it could conceivably be that very little if any Alberta coal will find its way east to Ontario next winter—something that may come as a jar to householders as this fuel has been finding increased favor in the last year or so.

In a recent dispatch the British Ministry of Shipping it was stated that Britain had agreed to supply the necessary ships for the transport of coal from Nova Scotia—but this will mean nothing to Ontario as the Maritimes' output will be confined to the eastern seaboard, Newfoundland, Iceland and Greenland.

No U.K. Coal for Ontario

Ontario will get no British coal this year, said Mr. Brand, with the exception of a small tonnage of special blower grades for some industrial plants. With not over 20 per cent. of British coal imported in 1941 coming in this year, it will all be kept in the Montreal area as it would have to be spread so thinly to cover other sections. Some of this is due to increased output of a new Soo steel plant which got waterborne U.S. coke that was to have gone to Hamilton, which in turn was supplied by the shorter rail-haul coke from Montreal area, amounting to some 100,000 tons.

Asked regarding the possibility of new mines being developed, the coal official revealed study and action was being taken with one new one in the West coming into production shortly, but stated the obtaining of new machinery was a major handicap for the present.

Right now, Mr. Brand stated, there is a plentiful supply of anthracite, but—the householder doesn't have to use his imagination very much to see what it means when referred to Trade Magazine reports that show the anthracite industry running from twenty to twenty-six days behind in their orders right now — when summer rail facilities are good.

Coal prices are pegged too at the basic period figures of last September-October, except where a dealer is handling a new grade, in which case the Coal Administrator sets the price at what it approximately would have been at that time.

Every incentive is being given the citizen to buy early in the next two months in the new plan of credit whereby he may get in supplies up to the value of $250 on his dealer's approval through the banks, at 6.2 interest, loans to be repaid by May, 1943.

Considering the statements in the interview it would seem that Ontarioans may have to depend largely on American coal this winter, and with orders running behind, may have to take grades of coal available at the time their order is reached and which may not at all coincide with their heating plans—hence a repeat reference to Mr. Brand's tip to "knock out the side of that bin and not only get some coal in, but the whole winter's supply—in July and August."

Rev. J. F. Corkery Celebrates His First Mass

Sacred Heart Church was filled to capacity at the 10.30 Mass on Sunday morning, when the Rev. John Francis Corkery, newly-ordained member of the Redemptorist Order celebrated his first solemn high mass. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Denis Corkery, 238 Westcott street, and one of the youngest priests to be ordained into this missionary order.

Rev. Father Corkery was born in Peterborough, and received his primary education at the Sacred Heart School. After two years at St. Peter's he decided on the priesthood as a vocation and spent four years at St. Mary's College at Brockville. Then followed a year at the Redemptorist Novitiate at St. John, New Brunswick, and five years at St. Alphonsus Seminary in Woodstock. He was ordained with five other candidates, and is only 23 years of age. Bishop Kidd of Woodstock conducted the ordination.

Rev. D. Edward, CSSR, was deacon at the mass, Rev. J. J. O'Brien, deacon of honor, and Rev. James Houlihan, subdeacon. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. J. Gallagher, CSSR, who is professor of history at St. Alphonsus Seminary, Woodstock, and a prominent member of the Catholic Historical Association.

Father Gallagher in his address told of the joy that existed in the Corkery family today, because their hopes, dreams and prayers had been realized in the ordination of a member of their family. He described the duties and responsibilities arising out of the ordination to the Holy Priesthood and in conclusion he said, "I congratulate you, dear Mother and Father, Yours is an honor that the world's noblest might well envy."

On Sunday afternoon from three in the afternoon until nine at night, a reception was held at the home of the priest's parents, and more than 400 friends, relatives and neighbors attended to pay tribute to this young man and his family.

Milk For Britain

The Peterborough Milk for Britain Fund received a boost of $95 today through three contributions. The first to come in was $40 received from the School Children of S.S. No. 10, Otonabee, Stewart Hall school, through Shirley Hurchison. These children staged a salvage collection this spring and $40 was netted from this most successful war effort and will supply 400 quarts of milk to the children of Britain, surey a noble effort. Then came $5 from Harold Grafstein, 263 Homewood, who was laid up in the hospital with a fractured leg for a few weeks. The idea occurred to him that he might raise some money for a war charity so when his friends came to visit him they autographed his cast and he made a donation.

The third donation was for $50 and was received from the Ontario Chinese Patriotic Association in Peterborough. Though the need is great in China for all the funds which this Association can raise they believe in also giving aid to their Allies, the Children of Great Britain.

Porker Escapes From Farmers' Market
Senator Duffus And Two Boys Give Chase

Senator J. J. Duffus, two small boys and a six-weeks-old pig were the main actors in an excitement packed drama in the heart of the business section on Saturday at noon. Traffic was at its noon-day peak when the fun started, as the little porker escaped from a car, and headed for parts unknown.

The pig went north on Water street, with Senator Duffus in hot pursuit, eager to save the pig before the wheels of some fast travelling motor car hit it. The pig proved too fleet of foot, and too elusive to the member of the Senate, who no doubt was revelling in the chase, and happy with memories of boyhood days on his father's farm down in Otonabee Township.

At this point Senator Duffus went back to get his car, and to head the pig if should start for the river. Several small boys, however, took up the chase, and the hue and cry of the hunt swept past the Examiner office toward the Hunter street bridge. Zigzagging through the westbound factory traffic from the Westclox and the Quaker Oats, the pig had some narrow escapes, and motorists became jittery as small boys darted all over the road, intent on bringing Mr. Porker down with a flying tackle.

In front of the Quaker Oats, however, a little bit of smart teamwork by Robert Groombridge, Murray street, and Roy Farley, Perry street, bewildered the pig and he was caught. The two boys were returning to the market when Senator Duffus drove up and gave both the youngsters and the miniature package of bacon for Britain a ride to the market. After considerable hunting the owner was found, and much to the dismay of the two youngsters, said "Thank you" and went his way. However, both boys were tipped by the Senator for their work, and a short time later the owner of the pig spotted Robert Groombridge and gave him a quarter.

Warsaw Road Crash Demolishes Car

Two persons were injured, several others had a narrow escape and an automobile was almost completely wrecked in a traffic accident on the Warsaw Road, four miles east of Peterborough, Saturday night.

Robert Keatley, Prince street, was driving east and on a turn, he told Provincial Constable Price Morris, who investigated, that his car had been sideswiped by another machine which he claimed did not stop, and then came into contact with a westbound car driven by Jack Leeson. After the crash the Keatley car left the road and turned over into the ditch, completely wrecked. The damage is estimated at $400.

Margaret Carveth, Prince street, passenger in the Keatley automobile, received a bad cut over the eye and bruises on her leg and shock and Elmer Cumming, 226 Carlisle avenue, had cuts on his arm, nose and knee.

Mrs. Cumming and her five-weeks old baby escaped unhurt.

LOANS

$25 FOR $1.76 (TOTAL COST)
$50 FOR $3.58 (TOTAL COST)
$100 FOR $7.10 (TOTAL COST)
when repaid in six monthly instalments

WOULD a cash loan help you? If you have a job, you can borrow at Household Finance without fuss or bother—and at reasonable cost. You may repay your loan in monthly instalments which fit your own pocketbook.

Just this to do

All you do to apply for a Household Finance loan is to tell us how much you need and how you wish to repay.

You may choose the most convenient payment plan from the table below. Suppose you borrow $100 to be repaid at $9.46 a month. Twelve instalments of $9.46 each will repay your loan in full. You may prefer to repay sooner in order to reduce the cost. Six monthly instalments of $17.85 each—a total of $107.10—will also repay a $100 loan. The cost of your loan, in this case, is just $7.10. A $25 loan, repaid in six monthly instalments of $4.46 each costs only $1.76.

You need no endorsers or guarantors to borrow at Household—just the ability to repay in monthly instalments. This spares you the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. And at no time do we question friends or relatives about your credit.

Household Finance loans are usually made on furniture or car. But we consider character and regular income far more important than the value of your security. You can get your loan quickly—usually in 24 hours or even sooner if necessary. If you should get sick or lose your position while paying on your loan, Household will show you every consideration.

Let Household help you

People borrow at Household to pay taxes, insurance, medical, dental, hospital and funeral expenses, school fees, and overdue bills of many kinds. Household service helps men and women, both married and single, to take care of emergency expenses and work their way out of debt.

If you can make good use of a loan, see us at once. We are in business to make loans to folks with money problems. Phone or visit us without obligation.

Army Week In Peterboro Opens With Parade Of 1,400 Soldiers To Drumhead Service At Riverside

An appeal to every man of military age to enlist in the armed forces of his choice, and to every civilian to work long hours without grumbling about it, was made on Sunday morning by the Rev. Dr. George S. Easton, minister of World War I, as he addressed a drumhead service audience in Riverside Park, marking the start of Army Week.

More than 1,400 soldiers and war veterans formed the parade to present the longest column of soldiers seen in this city for many years, but the unfortunate part of the program was that the soldiers outnumbered the civilians about four to one. The service started at ten o'clock, and there was only a handful of civilians on hand.

700 From Training Centre

Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., E.D., Officer Commanding the Military Training Centre No. 32 (Basic), Exhibition Park, was in charge of the parade, and 700 men all ranks turned out from this big military camp. Of this number 160 under command of Lt. J. S. Johnson, Royal Canadian Regiment, broke off at Burnham street to attend a special service for Roman Catholics held at 9.45 at the Imaculate Conception Church. Following the drumhead serve, Roman Catholic members of the Prince of Wales Rangers paraded to the same church for the 10.30 Mass.

Lt. Col Maurice H. Park, Officer Commanding the Prince of Wales Rangers, 2nd Battalion (Reserve) headed this militia unit of more than 300 men, while Lt. R. A. Phillips was in command of the 4th Field Battery R.C.A. (Reserve) of 70 men and officers. Captain Fred Hills was in command of the 33rd Infantry Reserve Veterans' Guard of Canada, and George Gimblett, president of the Canadian Legion, headed the Veterans.

H/Capt. A. M. Laverty, Protestant Padre at the Training Centre had charge of the Drumhead Service, and conducted the spiritual portion of the program.

The Royal Canadian Corps of Signals Band from Kingston under the direction of Bandmaster Sgt. Major S. T. Cruikshank, provided martial music for the Training Centre contingent as they marched to Riverside Park, and during the service provided a background of music for the hymns. The Prince of Wales Rangers Band led the Reserve units to the Park.

Britain's Great Fight

Dr. Easton based his talk on the magnificent fight being waged by the people of Great Britain, and he pointed to their courage and steadfastness as a model to all the peoples in the United Nations. "I am convinced we are witnessing one of the greatest miracles of history, in the courage and unity of the British people. Before the war there was some doubt as to the possibility of unity in a democracy, Britain today is the answer.

The loyalty of the Britons is intense, but it is not blind. They know what they are fighting for. The people of Britain know that the fate of Britain is at stake. Obedience and sacrifice has become their meat and their drink. These are considered the qualities of a good soldier, but today every civilian must also adopt them as his own way of life. In Britain even the children are considered to be in he front line. They have a spirit that never can be beaten, and they are also conscious of the fact they are fighting to preserve the dearest thing they have: their freedom.

"That spirit of Britain should stir us out of our apathy and indifference. It should inspire to make our daily lives a part of an all-out battle to vanquish Hitler and all he stands for, and it should also encourage us to build for a better world after this holocaust has passed.

Great Co-operation

"Never in all history has there been such co-operation in common cause. Two things are contributing to the courage of the British. First faith in God and the righteousness of their cause; and secondly, in this victory in a war of nerves, their sense of humor is a definite factor. It is their ability to laugh at themselves and at the situations that arise that Hitler has failed to reckon with. There is little hate in England today. There is indignation and a quiet determination that they will see this thing through.

"Thus a great people are showing that they have found their soul, which is in itself a wonderful thing.

"This is the opportune time for me to call on all Canadians who love freedom and justice to find in the people of England, a standard to follow, and we should dedicate ourselves at once to this cause, remembering the words of a great British writer, who said, "If Hitler invades this little island, he will have to kill us all, for we would sooner die free men than be slaves in a Nazi-dominated world.

"Every man of military age must enlist in some branch of the armed forces, and every civilian must work long hours without grumbling. Today in Canada the average work week is from 44 to 48 hours, while in Germany it is between 64 and 72 hours. We, too, must have faith in God, maintain our sense of humor."

Monsignor O'Sullivan at the Church of Immaculate Conception spoke briefly to the men on sacrifice, which he said, was not only the greatest act of religion but also a supreme virtue of the religious life. You are assisting at the greatest act that can be performed on earth, the perpetuation of Calvary, the sacrifice of the Mass. You are not mere spectators but coofferers with the priest. In the mass the priest turns to the people and says "Pray brethren that your sacrifice and mine may be acceptable to God." If this is true of the ordinary congregation it is doubly true of body of soldiers, who Cardinal Mercier called martyrs. You are offering your lives for the sanctity of your homes and the freedom of your country, and are thus more closely associated with Christ than others. Unite therefore, he said, our sacrifice with that of Christ, that the might have merit before God.

The Mass is the greatest source of stength to you in the battle that lies ahead. You may never be called upon to face German cannon, but from the day that you enlist you have another battle to fight which is of supreme importance, the battle to preserve your faith intact and your souls untarnished. To do this in the face of those who are indifferent or hostile to religion requires greater fortitude than is necessary to face the guns of the enemy.

He offered them as a model that doughty warrior St. Paul, who passed through perils in the sea (submarines) perils in the city (bomb raids), perils in the desert (Lybia and Egypt), perils from false brethren (fifth columnists). Like him may you, he concluded, be able to say when the war is over "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith. For the rest there is laid up for me a crown of justice which the Lord, the Just Judge will render to me on that day."

Pupils Of S.S. No. 11, Smith, Honor Two Teachers

FAIRVIEW, June 29—(ENS)— A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis when they opened their home to the parents, children and friends of school section No. 11, Smith in honor of their teacher Miss Alfreda Milligan who has tendered her resignation. Elmer Milburn was chairman for a short program.

June Kennedy read an address to her teacher and little Mary Cockburn presented Miss Milligan with a lovely dresser set in blue Mother of Pearl and gilt.

Miss Milligan in her usual capable manner thanked all for the lovely gift and made a neat little speech.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis who were celebrating their fifteenth wedding anniversary on that day were also pleasantly surprised by their friends when they were asked to come forward and little Jean Patton presented Mrs. Lewis with a lovely bouquet of roses. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing games.

The best wishes of the community go with Miss Milligan who has accepted a position on the teaching staff of the Queen Elizabeth school, Peterborough. Lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bell were host and hostess to 75 people, children, parents and friends of School Section No. 4, in honor of their teacher, Miss Mary Golden who has been teaching in the section for the past three years and a half.

An address was read by Mildred Bulmer and a number of lovely personal gifts were presented to their teacher by Allan Bell and Reggie Fowler. George Lockington was master of ceremonies. Miss Golden, in a splendid little speech expressed sincere appreciation for the lovely gifts. Games and cards were enjoyed by all during the evening.

Miss Golden has accepted a position as teacher of S.S. No. 1, Verulam township and the best of good wishes go with her from the community. Lunch was served.

Special Investigator

By BLANCHE ROBERTS

THE STORY: Judith Kingsly and Tom Burke are employes of an airplane factory. Following a lover's quarrel, they are both sent to the firm's west coast branch—Judith to investigate a "leak" in the organization, Tom to take plans of a new bomber. Two foreigners and the co-pilot land the airliner in which the two are riding and kidnap Tom. He slips Judith the plans. When the kidnapers return to the plane for the plans, Judith steals their car, finds Tom bound in a shack. She cuts him loose, escapes while he battles his captor. Pursued, she leaves the car, thumbs a ride with a truck driver.

THOSE MEN AGAIN

CHAPTER V

THE grinning driver opened the door and Judith climbed up into truck without a second invitation.

"Thanks," she said to him, relieved. "Where are you headed for?"

"San Diego," he answered. "Where do you want to go?"

"To San Diego. May I ride all the way, please?"

"Sure, baby, why not?" He pulled the truck back into the road.

Judith settled back. This was a break, she thought. She'd have been an easy prey to follow, in the bandits' car. This way, there was less chance of them catching up with her. The thought of Tom at their mercy was not a pleasant one, but he was right in telling her to get the plans safely to San Diego first. That was the important thing—their own happiness and welfare must be forgotten for now.

"Can't we go faster?" she implored.

"This is a truck—not a luxury buggy." He laughed loudly at his own joke. "Where're you from?"

"Middle part of the country," she replied. "Got a job waiting for me if I get there in time," she lied. "How far are we from there?" She pulled her cigarets out and offered him one.

"Thanks," he said, and struck a match for them before he answered. "We ought to be in the city tomorrow before noon."

AT noon they stopped at a roadside cafe. Judith was ravenous hungry. She had not eaten since last night when the plane stopped. She ate greedily, her [illegible] bent over the plate. Thus she did not see the two men enter the cafe and sit down at the other end of the lunch counter.

"She can't be far away," said one of the men, and Judith stopped eating, her fork poised in mid-air. The man had spoken with a too-familiar accent.

She peered around at her new-found friend cautiously. Instantly, she recognized Heavy and the foreigner, Karl. Her appetite vanished. She reached in her purse for a pencil and paper, wrote a note and slipped it to the truck driver at her side.

"Get me out of here quietly. Hurry!"

He read it and looked at her sharply. She inclined her head toward the other men, and he saw the fear in her eyes. He quickly put some coins on the counter and stood up, keeping between her and the men until they reached the door. From there Judith threw caution aside and darted for the truck. He took his place under the wheel and off they rolled. Then he eyed her suspiciously.

"Am I helping a criminal to escape?" he demanded bluntly.

"No," she answered readily, not taking offense at his question. "Those are the men I escaped from last night. They must not catch me again. They are dangerous. The blond one is a foreigner. He would kill me, I think."

"I don't like foreigners," he said gruffly.

Judith put her hand out to him. "Shake, Mister."

He was a swell guy, she decided. Lucky for her things had turned out as well as they had. Without his help, she would probably have been caught by now. Suddenly she snapped to attention. She turned to Harry.

"Is there a car back of you?"

He looked into the side mirror. "Yeah—a big black one. Coming fast, too."

"That's it," gasped Judith. She caught Harry's arm and her nails cut into his flesh. "Please don't stop if they tell you to."

"Okay, sister." He grinned. "I'll handle this. And don't worry about them stopping this wagon. We're loaded and rolling."

In a moment, the car caught up with them and pulled up level with the truck. Judith slid down out of sight. One of the men leaned out and yelled.

"Pull over, bud, if you don't want any trouble." Judith recognized Heavy's vvoice.

"Says you!" Harry snarled, jamming his foot on the gas. The truck leaped forward. They were speeding down the road at a terrific speed by now.

Harry glanced in the mirror and saw the car gaining on them. As it drew up level with them again, his jaws set in a stubborn line.

"You asked for it!" yelled Harry out of his window. "Here I come!"

He jerked the truck to the middle of the road. There was a screeching of tires as the speeding car swerved into the ditch and hit the embankment.

Without a backward glance, Harry put the accelerator to the floor and sped on.

"You can come up for air now," he told Judith, with grim satisfaction. "Nobody's going to make me pull over and stop if I don't want to—not while I'm driving this wagon."

AS they rolled on down the highway, Judith realized she must change her course. Harry had be-

OUR SWEET GIRL GRADUATES SHOULD BE SELF-SUPPORTING Men Will Be Scarce When War Is Over; Getting Husband Called Sheer Luck

The schools are sending forth their armies of sweet girl graduates who are about to face their first great battle with life. It is a spectacle that always brings a lump into the throat of the beholder, for these little soldiers are so brave, so gallant, so full of hope and faith, so ill-prepared for the dangers they must meet and so bewildered by them, and we oldsters know that many of them will be maimed and broken in the struggle, many will be slain.

Every year this same human drama is enacted when our girls, as the ironic phrase goes, "finish their education," but never before has it had such significance as it has now when war has changed the status of their sex and when their country is calling upon the womanpower, as well as the manpower, to help save it in its hour of need.

The world which the sweet girl graduate of today enters is a different world from that which her mother knew. No time now for pleasant dalliance, for idle flirtations, for gay parties, for swanky debuts, for playing at a career if you are a trifle highbrowed and very advanced, of which mother tells in speaking of her own girlhood.

Now everything is grim reality. The party is over. There is no make-believe work. It is backbreaking and heart-breaking labor. Girls are not embroidering dollies. They are making precision machines. They are not going buggy riding with their best beaux. They are not screaming at the sight of a mouse. They are daring death without the quiver of an eyelid.

All these altered conditions have brought up strange, new, difficult problems that the modern girl has to solve, for well she knows that life will never be for her what it was for her mother. When Mother was a girl she didn't know whether she wanted to go into business or not. Daughter knows she will have to be self-supporting, or starve.

It never crossed Mother's mind that she wouldn't marry and have a husband to take care of her. Daughter knows that after every war there are not enough men left to go around, and that even if she does get a husband he may be so crippled that she will have to be the breadwinner. Mother made being a woman an alibi for sloppy work. Daughter knows that war took the sex out of work, and that if a woman expects a man's salary she must do a man's labor.

So when the sweet girl graduate of today sits down to try to plan her future, she should do a lot of serious thinking and try to decide on some occupation for which she not only has a natural bent, but that she will be interested in doing the balance of her life. There is no use in her kidding herself into thinking that it doesn't make any difference whether she goes in for stenography because Jane is doing it, or modeling because it must be fun to do nothing but put on expensive gowns, because she won't be doing it for long, anyway, for the chances are that she has enlisted for the duration and the war with hard times is never going to be over for her.

Nor need she deceive herself into the wishful thinking that it is not necessary to make herself proficient in her job because some man will soon come along and marry her and she will stand before a counter instead of behind it. When this war is over there will be millions more women than there are men in the world, and getting a husband will be an act of God, or sheer luck. So every girl should make herself an expert in her line of work in order that she may command a fat pay envelope instead of a thin one.

I hope that when the girl graduate of '42 asks herself "where do I go from here?" she will see that the only road that lead to success is the rocky one of hard work, and that most of the women who travel it are those who do commonplace, everyday things, such as superlative cooking, or tying a bow on a hat that makes every woman want one, or cutting a dress so that it takes twenty pounds off a fat woman, or nursing sick people.

But whatever she does and wherever she goes here's wishing the sweet girl graduate good luck, and, as the Mexicans say, "may God walk with her."

Investigation

come a friend—a good friend— in these few short hours, and as long as she was with him, his life was in danger. The truck would be easy to follow, and her pursuers would show up again, she was sure of that. And this time they would use their guns.

She reached in her purse for a handkerchief, and her fingers touched a small package. The sleeping pills! A plan began to materiaize.

About sundown, Harry pulled into a dumpy looking tourist camp and stopped.

"Well, baby, here's where we spend the night. Not much to look at, but it's clean enough. I'll see about getting you a cabin. I usually sleep in the truck."

When Harry returned with a key and showed her the cabin, she assumed a false cheerfulness.

"If you'll get some groceries from the woman in there, Harry, I'll cook us a nice meal. I'm awfully hungry. Some coffee, and steak and bread," she suggested.

"Say, that'll be swell," he said.

He went back to the store, and returned soon, laden with the groceries. While Judith prepared the meal, he sat watching her with quizzical eyes.

"I just can't figure you out," he said once.

"Don't try to, Harry," she answered. "Everything will be all right now, I'm sure. Thanks to you," she added.

WHEN he went in to wash up, Judith opened her purse quickly and seized the sleeping medicine. Into his coffee she put two doses. "That ought to do the trick," she decided.

"Two spoons or one of sugar, Harry?" she called to him.

"Two spoons, baby," he answered, coming back into the room. "You're sure a swell girl—cooking supper and making it so homelike."

"I'm trying to repay you for your kindness today," she said. "Here—drink your coffee while it's hot and I'll finish frying the steak. I never drink coffee at night. It keeps me awake."

Judith took as long as she could to finish the rest of the meal and put it on the table. When she finally sat down, Harry was stupid and drowsy, yawning with every breath. He mumbled something about taking a short nap and dropped his head onto the table.

She waited a moment, then slipped quietly from her chair. She put on her hat, took two $10 bills from her purse and stuffed them into his shirt pocket where she had seen him put the truck keys.

"Thanks a lot Harry," she whispered, staring at him a moment. "It's goodby now. Tomorrow you can figure me out."

She tiptoed out the door. No one was around the other cabins as she made her way to the back. It was quite dark. She paused behind the last shack in the row as she saw car lights pull into the camp.

A man said: "There's the truck all right. We'll get a cabin next to it."

Judith's heart stood still as she recognized Heavy's voice.

Fire Destroys Roseneath Barn

ROSENEATH, June 29.—(ENS)—A large L shaped barn and straw shed on a farm owned by Mrs. Roy Macklin, half a mile south of Roseneath village was burned to the ground at eleven o'clock this morning, and the cause of the fire is unknown.

The owner is now living in the Peace River District, and the farm is rented by Joe Robbins, Roseneath, who was plowing on the farm three fields away from the building. There was nothing in the barn except some of last year's straw. A driving shed on the farm also burned but a small house escaped the flames. Sparks carried by the wind ignited a woodshed on the property of Miss Charlotte Crowe, and burned half the shed before being brought under control by neighbors who formed a bucket brigade.

The farmers worked fast but they had no chance to save the barn on the Robbins farm. There is no tenant living in the house, and Robbins was unaware of the blaze until it had gained a lot of headway. A neighbor, Mrs. Frank Brown, saw the fire and spread the alarm.

Utilities' Men Aid Farmers

Eight employees of the Peterborough Utilities Commission have volunteered their services to assist in taking off the hay crop in this county, and some of them started work on Saturday. More of the men are on the farms to-day and will be working most of this week.

The majority of these men have had some farm experience, and have been employed digging the trunk water line that is being laid througn the centre of the city. Their basic wage rate is 40 cents an hour, and farmers are paying them this same wage for the time they work at haying operations.

G. A. Gillespie of this city, has charge of this farm commando organization and every city worker who can spare even half a day to work on the farm should get in touch with Mr. Gillespie or witr Frank Paterson, at the Dept. of Agriculture offict.

Mrs. E. R. Thompson Wins $1,000 Bond

Mrs. E. R. Thompson, wife of a Warsaw truck driver and mail carrier, was the winner of the $1,000 Victory Bond drawn for as the capital prize at the annual Rotary carnival Saturday night. She was the holder of ticket No. 12,408 which was the number of the stub drawn from the churn by Mayor James Hamilton at 11.30 o'clock while many hundreds crowded round the stand to await the result of the draw.

Mayor Hamilton was introduced by President-elect Ian F. McRae of the Peterborough Rotary Club and lost no time in deciding the winner. He doffed his coat, rolled up his right shirt sleeve, plunged his arm deep into the church and came up with a coupon. Rotarian Al Lewis, manager of the carnival, read out the name and added that the winning ticket had been sold by E. Thompson, evidently the husband of the winner. He receives $25 for selling the winning pasteboard.

Mrs. Thompson was not in attendance at the carnival and so failed to win the $25 offered as a bonus if the holder of the winning ticket claimed her prize within five minutes.

The draw was a fitting climax to a very successful carnival. Favored by perfect weather for the two nights and with splendid patronage from the citizens the boths and games did plenty of business and the net result of the whole affair should be a substantial sum for the club's war services and for the work on behalf of crippled children.

School Children Repeat Help For War Victims

In all of the past five daily reports for the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, there has appeared donations from one or more of the schools of the city and district, and this report still finds them helping with two of the pubic schools represented taking part in this help for the victims of air raids in Britain.

The pupils of King George School have on a number of occasions either by classes or together as a school given help to the fund, and today they are to be fund with a contribution of $13.49 which they made by collecting paper and other salvage. This amount was brought to fund headquarters by three pupils, Amy Curtis, John Gerow and Joan Evans, each representing a different class in the school which had participated in the work, while a fourth class was not represented due to a misunderstanding about it. To the boys and girls in general of all our public schools, the suggestion is made that they undertake little efforts on behalf of the fund during the holidays, and get the added pleasure that comes from doing good for others during their holiday period.

Queen Elizabeth Public School, situated in the north-end of the city has also given previous help to the fund, and they are also included in today's list with a donation of $5.00 per Mrs. Rome.

In talking of repeat donations, none have done better than the employees of the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. Ltd. who today are represented for the 45th time in the lists for the fund, bringing the total they have given to date to $573, an achievement that will always redound very much to their credit.

One nice personal donation of $10 is listed from one who desires to be known as "A Friend."

Fairview Social Tuesday

The Fairview War Workers was organized in May, 1941, and since that time have been doing really fine work, for in the year that has since elapsed they have raised and given a total of $125.25 to this fund.

For some time they have been selling tickets on two log cabin quilts made by a lady over 85 years of age, and donated to the group by her niece, Miss Agnes Fitzgerald, R.R. No. 4.

The draw for these quilts will be made at a garden party to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Lockington of Nassau this Tuesday, June 30, to which all are welcome, so plan to be there and enjoy a good time.

Previously acknowledged	$48,171.69
Pupils of the King George School per Amy Curtis, John Gerow and Joan Evans	13.49

New Booklet Guide to Commercial Art Field

How To Make Your Talent Pay

Have you a knack for art, a special ambition to learn advertising design?

You may be on the right track, for there's a continuous demand for such work as dramatic posters, smart packaging, booklets.

You may learn much about this commercial art field at home. Study and practise show you how to develop ideas, use principles of design to create an effect.

Perhaps you wish to draw an airplane poster that will give a thrilling effect of speed, action! Then you may base your drawing on oblique lines as in our sketch.

But if you want to show how relaxing air travel can be, you use horizontal lines, restful tones and colors. Or, in picturing the company itself as being dignified and dependable, you'd use vertical lines, strong values.

You enjoy, too, learning how differently the same picture can be drawn with pen, pencil, crayon or brush.

Finally, you learn how to present your sketch to the client! Our new 32-page booklet explains the most important phases of the commercial art field. Describes and illustrates principles of design, techniques. Tells how to sell art work.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps for your copy of ADVERTISING DESIGN SELF-TAUGHT to Examiner Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ANOTHER RISK CREATED

YOU DO not take just one risk, when you make an opening bid, in dealer or second hand position, with a hand which is a bit below the strength which your call will announce. Misleading your partner and causing him to bid too high, or make penalty doubles which are disastrous, is only one danger created by your bid. Another, and sometimes just as important danger, is that if he bids strongly opposite you, it is almost impossible for you to decide what to do yourself.

West had, at Table 1, what he considered a good reason for opening the bidding with a hand which missed by a fraction having the standard minimum strength. If the diamond Q had been the K, the hand would have been of standard minimum strength, considering that it held possibilities of a rebid, by means of the club suit. His reason for opening the deal was that, if he found a fit with his partner in either minor suit, the pair might be able to overbid a bit later on, take a slight sacrifice, and thus keep the opponents from a possible game in the major suits.

When East, however, turned up with a strong hand, West had a tough problem. That 3-Spade bid by his partner on the second round frightened him. After extended thought, he decided that his acceptance of the force and bidding 4-Spades might cause the side to be set a trick, due to his own hand being a bit below par, and so he passed. When the play produced 10 tricks, with the loss of only one in spades and two in diamonds, he was sorry.

Notice how much easier it was at the other table, where West passed on his first turn.

Part Of The Story Of Sebastopol

This picture was made in the early days of the battle of Sebastopol. The Germans had captured a village nearby and held it for four days. When they were driven out by the Red armymen after that period, there were four cemeteries. This is one of them. Notice that some of the dead German soldiers had not yet been buried. There were 1,000 graves altogether . . . and the Battle of Sebastopol still rages.

Submarine Plays Tag With Japanese, Gets Carrier

By WALTER B. CLAUSEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PEARL HARBOR, T.H., June 29—(AP)—The story of a submarine which played a deathly game of hide-and-seek with segments of the Japanese fleet which attempted to invade Midway was disclosed today by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the United States Pacific fleet.

Alternately surfacing and submerging while surviving four depth-charge attacks, the submarine fired its torpedoes at an aircraft carrier previously crippled by American bombers.

"Heavy black smoke enveloped the carrier," read the submarine's log, "and formed a cloud to a height of 1,000 feet like that above the U.S.S. Arizona when she burned at Pearl Harbor last December. Next day there was no trace of the carrier."

The submarine had received word at dawn of June 4 that a large formation of enemy planes was heading for Midway Island. The commander ordered a change of course to intercept the carriers from which the enemy planes had been launched. His watch indicated 8 a.m. as the tops of the enemy masts came in view of the periscope.

Immediately the submarine found herself under a Japanese straffing attack. Submerging, she drew closer to the hostile formation, finding a battleship and three cruiser. The cruiser spotted the periscope. Unharmed by depth charges, the submarine still approached the enemy.

When the attack ceased she rose to periscope depth.

Japs Fire Broadside

The battleship's entire broadside battery blasted at the slim periscope.

The commander of the submarine elected to make his own attack. From long range, he sent a torpedo after the battleship. The huge Japanese warship fled. A cruiser detached from the squadron tore after the submarine. A second depth charge attack thundered. The undersea fighter escaped.

A few minutes later the periscope again was lifted and revealed a Japanese carrier in the distance shifting course furiously. Above her with small black blobs of shell-hung a pall of anti-aircraft smoke fire above that.

The submarine lowered the periscope as the Japanese cruiser started another depth charge attack. The submarine kept advancing.

Came a message that a Japanese carrier had been damaged by bombing. The submarine stalked one of the smoke clouds and found the wounded carrier moving slowly with a pair of cruisers. The carrier was of the Soryu class.

The submarine commander chose to complete the destruction of the carrier. Torpedoes hit their mark even as the cruisers bore down on the submarine with another depth charge attack.

Sunset Service Planned By Circle

MILLBROOK, June 29—(ENS).—Mrs. M. McDowell, and her daughter, Miss Beatrice, were joint hostesses for the June meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle, which met at their home, Main street, on Thursday at 8 p.m. with the president, Mrs. Henry W. Gray, in the chair. The worship theme was "Neighborliness" introduced with "Where cross the crowded ways of life," followed by the story of the Good Samaritan read by Mrs. Cecil Hubbeard.

During the business period it was decided to hold a sunset service for the July meeting, Miss E. L. Hetherington's invitation to have the gathering on the lawn at her home being gratefully accepted. Margaret Smith gave the message on temperance and Mary Dawson took the chapter from the study book, "Life has no ceiling." A social hour was enjoyed at the close.

N.Z. UNITS STOP ROMMEL 140 MI. OFF ALEXANDRIA

CAIRO, June 30 (AP)—Heavy raids by augmented Allied air forces on German-Italian tanks in the Egyptian desert battle area and on battered Tobruk were announced today as British headquarters indicated that the enemy had thrust eastward to the vicinity of Fuka, 140 miles west of Alexandria and 45 miles southeast of Matruh.

New Zealand troops freshly arrived from Syria and Palestine with some tanks have beaten off an assault by 15th German Armored Division around Fuka, 45 miles southeast of Matruh.

The Germans fell back in the face of heavy artillery fire, but their forces generally still are moving eastward in strength toward the British main defences.

(Both the German and Italian communiques claimed Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's men had reached the area east of Fuka.)

British headquarters said large forces of Axis tanks and vehicles were met and forced back Sunday west of Fuka, but added that the enemy again advanced yesterday and that fighting was in progress in the same area.

Fresh New Zealand troops, fighting with the bayonet at close quarters, bolstered the British defence while the strengthened Royal Air Force and United States Air Force dropped bombs steadily on the Axis vehicles and bases. A military observer just back from the front said the situation was somewhat improved.

Pound Axis By Night

An R.A.F. communique said that last night, as on the previous night, fliers heavily raided Axis ground forces west of Matruh, setting numerous fires among armored vehicles, transports and grounded planes; and that a raid on Tobruk set large fires and hit an Axis supply ship amidships.

The Germans raided Alexandria last night for the second time in 24 hours, killing 12 persons and wounding 14. Raid alarm also sounded at Cairo and points in the Nile delta.

Allied battle groups—swift, compact infantry units supported by anti-tank guns and other weapons—clashed with Axis tanks in the desert and a number of the enemy machines were knocked out.

Some Axis armored groups were caught by surprise outside their tanks during the night and wiped out by Britons wielding bayonets and hurling hand grenades. New Zealanders played an important part in these assaults.

An American military observer, just back from the fighting front, said, "while the situation cannot be classed as good after such reverses as have been suffered in the desert, it certainly is not hopeless and looks better now than a few days ago."

"The R.A.F. has kept control of the air and this has had a tremendous effect on the morale of the troops," the observer said.

"In the latest phases of the withdrawal they fell back to new positions assigned to them in the greatest order, taking almost everything with them and leaving nothing to fall into the hands of the enemy.

"They are keen for new battle."

Besides the New Zealanders, it was disclosed, additional Free French troops have joined Britain's ground forces, including fighters from the Foreign Legion, motorized Spahis and Senegalese riflemen.

The repair of disabled tanks, a vital factor at the moment, was being pressed urgently and mechanics were working day and night to get hundreds of slightly damaged fighting machines back into action.

British headquarters said the Axis was forced back Sunday when the Allies met "large forces of enemy tanks and vehicles "west of Fuka, which is 45 miles southeast of Matruh.

Again yesterday the Axis forces

Krug's Tale Pal Shot Labelled Lie

Nazi Tells of Stephan Entertaining Him, At Treason Trial

DETROIT, June 30 — (AP). — Nazi Air Force Lieut. Hans Peter Krug testified in Federal Court here to-day that he escaped from the Bowmanville Ont., prison camp last April in order to "return to duty and inform the German government of conditions in the camp — of the shooting and murder of a comrade officer."

Krug was the first Government witness against Max Stephan, German-born Detroit restaurant proprietor, who is on trial charged with treason because of aid the Government charges he gave Krug when he arrived in Detroit after his escape.

The 21-year-old Nazi flier, captured after a fight over the English Channel, testified in English holding a German-English dictionary in his hand After his testimony on the shooting of the officer, District Attorney John C. Lehr who is prosecuting the case, declared there was absolutely no substantiation of his story.

In his testimony, Krug told of his escape on April 16 from Bowmanville and of meeting Stephan April 18, after paddling across the Detroit River in a stolen rowboat with only a board for an oar. The meeting place, he testified, was the

Gneisenau Out For Rest Of War

LONDON, June 30 (CP)—The 26,000-ton German battleship Gneisenau, which slipped through the English Channel from Brest Feb. 13 despite a heavy British aerial attack, is anchored in the German-occupied Polish port of Gdynia with her three 11-inch gun turrets dismantled, aerial photographs showed today.

About 30 feet of the ship's forecastle deck have been removed and British experts expressed belief that she had suffered such a serious damage that she "may be out for the duration." The air ministry said it would be impossible to make the necessary large-scale repairs on the vessel at Gdynia.

The Gneisenau was bombed repeatedly while she was tied up at Brest from March, 1941, until the day she slipped out of the French port with other units of the German fleet and made the Channel dash. The air ministry said the ship suffered further damage on the flight from Brest.

The ministry statement added that the Gneisenau, first taken to Kiel, probably was hit again during a British raid on Kiel Feb. 25.

The photographs, made in daylight some time after that raid, also showed the German depot ship Monte Olivia or a liner of the same class burned out and moored near the battleship.

How Heroes Die

MOSCOW, June 30.—(AP)—"Fire upon our positions." With this dramatic message to their own artillery a gallant Red army battery, hopelessly surrounded by the Germans on the Sevastopol front, wrote its own heroic epitaph, Russian dispatches said today.

Under murderous assault by German planes, artillery and infantry, the battery held out for three days and died to the last man rather than surrender.

Petain, French Sick Of Hun Pro-British Now

LONDON, June 30 (CP) — Lady Furness, Australian-born widow of a British peer, returned to Britain after living three years under the shadow of German rule on the Riviera in unoccupied France with a vivid account of a subjected people hungry for food—and for revenge. She said that the term "unoccupied" was a farce. The German Commission operating from Nice exercised widespread control.

German families were encouraged to spend their holidays on the Riviera. The Carlton Hotel at Cannes had been taken over by a German Company and was crowded with officers on leave.

"The gambling rooms at Monte Carlo are making more money now than they ever did in peace-time, and the Germans are setting records in high stakes at the tables," said Lady Furness. "The Nazi infuence infiltrates everywhere. It is starving the population.

"The food situation is much more serious than is realized. The people have practically nothing to eat except what they grow themselves. Only the rich live well, on food obtained through the black market, which is worked by Nazi business men who have swarmed over the south of France."

3 Days to Get Out

Lady Furness, who was given three days by the authorities to leave her Villa at Cap Ferrat where she was supplying milk to 20 French families from the farm on her estate, said she attempted to buy an egg and when finally she did come across one the price was $3.75.

She declared that "it is getting worse for the Germans in France every day, and the hatred in the unoccupied zone is growing enormously."

"Now they have seen how the Germans behave, feeling has swung right over behind Britain, and every man and woman is behind us. They express it by refusing to work for the Nazis and by spreading British news put out over the radio."

"There is only one thing that they cannot understand, and that is our view of Petain. They adore him and I have heard that he is completely pro-British. It is said of Petain, that the time of the British action against the French fleet at Oran, he and an American Admiral toasted our success. I think our attitude should be changed."

Two Canuck Squadrons Hit Bremen

Over 300 Bombers Plaster Port 3rd Time in 5 Days

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 30.—(CP Cable.)—Crews of at least two Canadian bomber squadrons paid their third visit to Bremen in five days when they flew through scattered clouds of to-day's early hours to drop incendiaries and high explosives on Germany's still-smoking gateway to the Atlantic.

"It was a very interesting sight," was the comment of Sgt. E G. Peters of Westville, N.S., on his return from the raid in which it is believed some 300 R.C.A.F. and R.A.F. planes were used to hammer submarine centres, railroads and industries.

Sqdn. Ldr. F. W. S. Turner of Ganges, B.C., winner last week of the Distinguished Flying Cross, reported that his aircraft was shot down by flak over the target but he brought it home for the squadron score of 'all aircraft returned safely'

Po. Les Wainwright of Toronto. said he saw lots of fires burning. A fellow townsman, Flt. Sgt. Bert Austen, believed the raid was 'a great success.'

Flt. Sgt. Guy Rainville of Quebec completed his 36th operational trip and said he was looking forward to more.

"I prefer them in this nice weather," Rainville saiad. "Right now it's beau et chaud I do not like ops. in winter."

The Air Ministry in its communique described the attack on German's second seaport and submarine base as heavy.

Ruins Still Smoking

The use of the term "strong force" was taken to indicate that some 300 planes probably were employed in the attack, the 97th of the war on the port which was still smoking from the two previous raids.

Airfields in German-occupied territory also were attacked and fighters "on intruder patrol" attacked railway targets in France and shipping off the French coast.

The air ministry said nine bombers were missing from the night's operations.

Last night Bremen was the main objective of a force of more than 1,000 bombers, the third four-figure raid by the R.A.F. and the R.C.A.F. in less than a month, and Saturday night a smaller forces attacked the 14 Ships In 2 Days?

BERLIN (from German broadcasts), June 30.—(AP)—A special announcement from Hitler's headquarters claimed today that German submarines had sunk 14 merchant ships totalling 98,000 tons in two days in the western Atlantic, the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico. Torpedo hits were reported to have damaged two other vessels.

"Some of the ships sunk," the announcement said, "were heavily laden with aircraft, munitions and other war material bound for Africa." (This claim lacks confirmation.)

Czech TNT Pens Hard On Nazi Freight Traffic

By JAMES T. CARTER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, June 30.— (AP).—Come along with a Czecho-Slovak patriot as he blows up a Nazi freight train with fountain pens.

It's midnight when a motorcyclist speeds up to the leader of a group of Czech saboteurs in the German-occupied lands, and, according to this account received here to-day by the American Friends of Czecho-Slovakia, hands him this message:

"To-morrow at 4.10 am. a freight train leaves station—for the Russian front. See that it does not arrive."

That brief, unsigned order, borne by an unidentified courier, sets the chief saboteur in motion. Racing down the street to an inn, he summons a taxi driver and they roll out to the edge of a wood. The saboteur, a young student stands in a clearing and makes a sound like a hoot owl.

The eerie call is answered.

Then, the account of this particular instance goes on, the student enters an old game warden's cottage and is welcomed by the housewife "with the look of women whose husbands have been dragged off to concentration camps."

From the Cellar Cache.

The housewive takes him to the cellar where, from a shelf behind some barrels, he selects six fountain pens of assorted sizes. He rejoins his driver and goes to another wood near the railway, hiding in the bush along the right-of-way.

"A little after four in the morning," the report says, "a freight train appeared—coal cars and then tank cars. The student took a pen market 'K' from his pocket and threw it on to the small platform

Destroy 200 Nazi Tanks In Two Days

Kill 3,000, Lift Sting From Offensive In Gigantic Battle

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, June 30 — (AP). — Soviet forces on the Kursk front north of Kharkov have cut off German infantry forces which pierced their lines in several sectors and more than 200 Nazi tanks have been smashed in two days, the Army publication Red Star reported to-day in the first detailed account of the massive new battle raging in that area.

The frontline account said that Marshal Temoshenko's defenders closed in quickly behind the wedges driven by the Nazis before supporting tanks could be brought up in this battle which perhaps represents the beginning of Hitler's general offensive up and down the front.

With the enormous tank losses inflicted upon the Germans, Red Star said much of the sting had been drained from the German attack and that Red defenders hurled back subsequent German attacks.

In the two other violently active battle sectors, Sevastopol's war-weary defenders rallied to beat back reinforced German shock troops to the positions from which they launched a 48-hour assault and on the Kharkov front heavy but indecisive fighting still raged.

Sunday Sees The Start

Elaborating its account of the Kursk fighting, Red Star said the Germans began their big push there Sunday with artillery and air assault against Russian front positions after massive Nazi concentrations of infantry, motorized and tank forces had been brought up.

While endless streams of big shells screamed over, German air raider in groups of 20 planes blasted at Soviet fortifications.

Then under an umbrella of more planes the Nazi infantrymen charged through pulverized Russian positions, followed by tanks in waves of 50 to 75 each.

Soviet artillery, anti-tank batteries and sappers heaving hand grenades and bottles of gasoline met the advancing tanks and slowed them down while Red infantrymen closed the breaches torn by Hitler's foot troops.

By 9 a.m., on the first day of the German offensive, the battlefield was cluttered with the burned out and exploded chassis of 53 German tanks, the newspaper account said.

In savage hand-to-hand fighting 3,000 Germans were killed by So-

Alaska Travel To Be Under Strict Control

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—(AP)—Strict military control over all civilian travel to and from Alaska will be established by the United States Army, effective July 11.

A military pass will be required for any civilian entering the Pacific area.

Lt.-Gen. J. L. Dewitt, head of the western defence command, 4th army and Alaska defence command, announced six reasons would be accepted for granting permits: official business of the United States government, definitely-arranged legitimate employment, business reasons, return of bona fide Alaska residents to their homes, close domestic relationship and school interests.

Passes may be obtained through the Alaska travel control, a new agency created by Gen. Dewitt, with offices in the exchange building, Seattle, Wash.

Every applicant will be carefully investigated Gen. Dewitt said. He will be photographed, fingerprinted, and must supply a complete statement of his personal history.

Ottawa Mum

OTTAWA, June 30.—(CP)—Maj.-Gen. J. C. Murchie, vice-chief of the general staff, today declined to comment on reports that United States army authorities planned to establish control over civilian travel to and from Alaska.

Gen. Murchie would not make any statement as to whether Canadian military officials had in mind similar travel restrictions in relation to the Yukon or the British Columbia coast.

"I would rather not say anything about it at all," he said.

EXTRA!

LONDON—(CP).—Quantities of newly-arrived guns, including the new British six-pounder, are helping the defenders of Egypt slow down the advance of Field Marshal Edwin Rommel's Axis legions. The new six-pounder was developed as an answer to the six-pounders used or the German Mark 3 and Mark 4 tank which, in past desert campaigns, outgunned the British forces. It is known to have a faster action than the Nazi six-pounder.

Auchinleck Replaces Gen. Ritchie

Commander in Chief Moves to Field To Save Egypt, East

LONDON, June 30 —(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill announced today that Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, commander in chief of British forces in the Middle East, had taken command of the British 8th Army in North Africa June 25, superseding Lt.-Gen. Neil M. Ritchie.

Gen. Ritchie had commanded the desert army since last Dec. 11 when he took over from Lt.-Gen. Sir Alan Gordon Cunningham.

Mr. Churchill, who spoke on his first appearance in the House of Commons after his return from the United States, was received tumultuously in the Chamber.

The prime minister, who faces a challenge from a group of members of his war leadership, gave the House no accounting of his conference with President Roosevelt and only this brief statement of the shift in command of the 8th Army:

"I do not propose to make any statement today about the momentous battle now being fought in Egypt but I feel the House would wish to

Most Of Aussies Due For War Jobs

By J. E. HOLDSWORTH

CANBERRA, June 30—(CP Cable)—Prime Minister John Curtin today reaffirmed the Government's determination to divert to war production thousands of civilian workers, including 48,000 women, which must be carried out by the end of December.

Mr. Curtin said only the minimum resources requisite for civil order will be retained.

Details of the measures diverting manpower and womanpower into war industries were examined today by production group frosm industry. A number of the proposals submitted came from various industries groups and centred about self-devised plans for releasing men from these industries to war production. Where some industries failed to provide their own plans, arbitrary action may be taken by the Government to obtain the desired result, based on plans prepared by the War Department for the organization of industry.

Australia is going through far greater difficulties than ever before in an effort to find a record number of men and women for fighting services, war production, munition work and defence activities of a semi-civilian nature. Call-ups for army service in the compulsory enrolled Militia which are proceeding simultaneonsly with voluntary enlistments in the A.I.F., R.A.A.F. and navy have reached classes of married men, both with and without children, to the age of 40.

Allies Stretching Out Rommel's Lines

British Nearer Disaster Than Since Days Of France Fight Hard For Time

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The battle for Egypt still swirls inconclusively over several hundred miles of blazing desert sands, but it's well to recognize that the Allies are nearer disaster than at any time since Hitler crushed the Anglo-French-Belgian fighting front beneath the greatest war-machine ever constructed.

Definitely it's not a moment for despair, but it will be a matter of great rejoicing if we win. British reports today indicate that the 8th army has slowed the enemy drive, and believes it can establish a line and hold it. With that encouragement let's hope for the best but be prepared for the worst, as they say. Here's the way the picture looks at the moment:—

The British forces have been carrying out a fighting withdrawal in the face of Marshal Rommel's all-out offensive until their right flank has reached the neighborhood of Fuka on the coast and probably has gone east of that place.

It looks as though they would aim to hold El Daba, a fortified position on the coast, with their line running southward some 40 miles to the great Qattara depression.

Should the defence fail to hold a line from El Daba it might let catastrophe loose against the key naval and air base of Alexandria 100 miles farther east. Cairo and the Suez canal lie just beyond.

The British withdrawal has been partly a case of making a virtue of necessity, but largely it has been strategically calcolated to compel Rommel to lengthen his strained lines of commhnication and at the same time permit the defenders to shorten their battle front and reorganize. The Fuka and El Daba positions are perhaps the most favorable of any along the coast, because the distant to the Quattara Depression narrow sharply here. Equally important, the escarpment of the depression in this region is especially precipitous and several hundred feet high, making an enemy flanking movement most difficult, since it would so to speak have to be carried out on the edge of the precipice.

Among factors working against Britain are these:

The army is weary from its retreat and is having to reorganize in the face of Rommel's hammering. The enemy holds the initiative. He is supreme in tank power which means so much in desert fighting.

If Alexandria's usefulness as a naval and air base hasn't already been largely nhllified temporarily, there is danger that it will be because of the enemy's capture of airfields from which Axis bombers can reach this great port more

Subsidies For Price Ceiling

U.S. Studies Plan to Keep Retailers in Business

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(AP).—A plan for vast federal business subsidies to block a threatened break-through in price ceilings has been recommended to congressional leaders by senior government officials

Informed sources said to-day that Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Agricultural Secretary Claude Wickard had suggested informally a scheme built around government purchase of farm products and other raw materials which would be sold — at a loss—to businesses "squeezed" between frozen wholesale and retail prices.

Thus, it was said, a retailer who could not raise his prices to compensate for higher wholesale charges would continue in business without breaking through price ceilings

One advisor to President Roosevelt said "one guess" was that such a program would cost the government between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000.

Had No Idea Part Canada Was Playing in Raids

By D. E. BURRITT
Canadian Press Saff Writer.

LONDON, June 30 — (CP Cable).—British newsmen to-day learned from Air Vice-Marshal Harold Edwards details of the recent air conference at Ottawa and expressed surprise at the size of the part Canadians are playing in the air war against the Axis.

Seated at the head of a huge conference table, Edwards, commander of the Royal Canadian Air Force in Britain, explained to a score of reporters how Canadian squadrons in the United Kingdom will be expanded 50 per cent over the present set up and that a Canadian bomber group will be formed.

He told also how Canadian fighter stations will be established here at the same time, emphasizing the innovations will be made merely for preservation of Canadian identity and new formations will "in no way change R.A.F. control operations."

Transfer of Canadian in the R.A.F. to Canadian squadrons will be made "through normal postings," Edwards said, adding "provided always that such posting does not interfere with present operations of R.A.F. squadrons."

HEAVY GERMAN LOSSES FORCE RETREAT IN SEVASTOPOL BATTLE

Russians Hold Tanks At Kursk

Heavy Hun Losses Force Retreat At Sea Fortress

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, June 30 — (AP). — Siege-worn defenders of Sevastopol have rallied to beat back reinforced German shock troops to positions from which they instituted a 48-hour assault and Red Army divisions on the Kursk front again blocked Nazi offensive thrusts, the Russians said to-day.

The Battle of Sevastopol had appeared near a bloody climax, for the Soviet Information Bureau announced last night that, at a heavy cost the Germans made fresh gains.

A noon communique, however, reported that, having lost more than 1,500 men in attempts to breach the defences, "the Hitlerites retreated into their initial positions."

Soviet riflemen were reported to have beaten off dozens of attacks by superior forces, wiped out two regiments of German infantry and destroyed 11 tanks.

On the Kursk front north of Kharkov, where Nazi divisions of Field-Marshal Fedor von Bock are striking eastward, "our troops repulsed large enemy tank attacks with success yesterday" and kept up battle contact through the night, the Government Information Bureau said.

(D.N.B. said the fight for Sevastopol "had entered its final stage." Storming of Sapun Heights was claimed to have given German and Rumanian artillerymen emplacements commanding the entire Soviet fortification system east and south-east of Sevastopol.)

More and more German tanks and aircraft have been hurled into the 25-day-old offensive, the Soviet Information Bureau said, and "with heavy losses, the enemy succeeded in advancing somewhat."

Tough Spot At the Port

The situation of the Red Army men, sailors and marines manning the Black Sea fleet base apparently was the most critical since the German and Rumanian forces surged across the Perekop Isthmus to set up siege lines there last Nov. 7.

Soviet dispatches indicated Gen. Fritz von Mannstein was concentrating major assaults on the north-east side of the city.

A Red Army battery, surrounded after three days of artillery, aerial and infantry attacks, was reported to have fought to the last man, summoning a bombardment from other units of its regiment when defeat appeared inevitable.

Krug's Tale

apartment of Mrs. Margaretta Bertelmann, whose address he obtained from a package sent to the prison camp.

A $20 Present.

"I told Max my story," Krug testified. "As we were about to leave, Mrs. Bertelmann got money from a cupboard and gave it to me—$20."

After a snack in Stephan's restaurant, Krug continued, he went on a sigh-seeing trip in downtown Detroit, alone and travelled by street-car. Upon his return, he testified, Stephan gave him a billfold and necktie as birthday presents and then took him on a "pleasure trip."

His clothes neatly pressed and his boots highly polished, Krug, who was flanked by G-men as he entered the court room was called to the stand after Lehr completed his opening statement. Lehr told the jury of six men and six women he would prove that Stephan "breached his duty of allegiance to the United States as a naturalized citizen."

Once in the courtroom, Krug removed his military cap with a flourish, clicked his heels an saluted an astonished bailiff.

Taken before Judge Arthur J. Tuttle, the former Nazi flier, in thick German gutteral said he would not take an oath. As the clerk began to read the oath Kruk shook his head violently.

Judge Tuttle then explained to Krug that he did not have to be sworn, but could merely "affirm" that he would tell the truth. This was done.

At first, Krug, who learned to speak English in the prison camp, was visibly nervous crossing and uncrossing his legs.

Tells No Secrets

Asked by Assistant U.S. Attorney John W. Babcock how long he had been in the German air force Krug replied:

"I cannot tell you since that would be a military secret."

Krug said that he was shot down over England in August, 1940, suffering injury, and was brought to Canada three months later.

After his escape from Bowmanville camp he made his way to Toronto and from there to Detroit.

"While you were in Toronto, didn't you see some officers in the station?" asked Babcock.

"Yes, I met some military police in the road station," he answered.

Two letters were identified by Krug as documents he showed to the military police who directed him to a Catholic priest in Toronto.

One, from the French Line, certified that "Jean Etait," a resident of Strasbourg and a carpenter, had been an employee of the company on the S.S. Normandie. The other was a letter purporting to be from the Postmaster at New York, certifying that "Etait' had registered as an alien. The Government contends the letters were forged.

Priest Provided Ticket

Through the Toronto priest, Krug said he obtain a railroad ticket to Detroit and made his way to Windsor.

While in Detroit, Krug testified, Stephan introduced him to Theodore Donay, German-born importer, who is held on a charge of treason.

"Mr. Donay took some money out of his cash box," the witness continued. "I can't recall if he gave me the money directly or handed it to Stephan. I told Donay it was not necessary. He raised his hand in a generous manner, and said, 'That is all right'."

Krug said Stephan placed him aboard a Chicago-bound bus and paid his fare.

He refused to say where he want or how long he stayed in Chicago, declaring that was "a military secreat." From Chicago, he said, he went to Columbus, O., and thence to New York.

When he saw no chance of leaving the country at New York, Krug said, he headed for Mexico, passing through Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Pa.; Cincinnati, Paducah, Ky., Louisville, Memphis, Nashville and Dallas until he arrived at San Antonio.

Reminded that it was in San Antonio that federal agents apprehended him on a woman hotel proprietor's tip, Krug laughingly remarked:

"Yes," that was unfortunate."

For Wednesday, July 1

The planetary configurations influencing the affairs of this day may give particular impetus to all mental, intellectual, artistic and professional pursuits or avocations. Travel, change, agencies, correspondence, contracts and legal agreements may prove lucrative and all public contracts and works should flourish, especially in the way of social service or humanitarian effort. There may be some disruptive or peculiar romantic experiences. Extravagance may menace.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a productive and active year in all pertaining to travel, writings, agencies, communications, advertising, promotions, or legal enterprises, all of which are under exciting stimuli. Public affiliations and interests of a social or welfare nature also may give personal gratification, but some peculiar, separative or surprising element seems to disturb romantic alliances. Shun extravagance and excesses.

A child born on this day should haxe excellent ability and resourcefulness in all intellectual and professional pursuits, with much public recognition. It will be witty, resourceful and public spirited.

For Thursday, July 2

Notwithstandng surprise, tenacious obstacles and personal animosities this should be a day of signal success, advancement, favors and expanding fortune and opportunity. It is a time for forging ahead above all opposition, limitation and perhaps personal physical depressions or inhibitions, stressful and disheartening there are those in high and low places who may be ready to len dthe helping hand, to give impetus toward the goals of worthy and exalted ambitions and desires. Particular discretion is enjoined in all manner of intimate relationships and aspiations.

Those whose birthday it is may be called upon to cope with strange and stubborn obstacle sto antipathies in both business and intimate relations in order to gain the predicted benefits of excellent good fortune, sound objectives and worthy ambitions, with increased popularity and prestige. These may be assisted in influential and appreciative personages in times of complication and threat. Particular discretion is enjoined in love and family associations.

A child born on this day should have splendid abilities of a nature to assure it place and power, wit, public recognition and good fortune. But despite its generous, friendly and ambitious character it will suffer in its domestic, family or love life.

19,670 Loans Been Approved Under National Housing Act

Recently there has been secured statistics relating to the operation of the National Housing Act which are ample proof that the Act has been a major factor, both from an employment point of view, and by reason of the great extent to which it has assisted in meeting the crisis in connection with war work, brought about a severe shortage of houses in many parts of Canada.

During the period from April 1, 1941, to March 31, 1942, the number of loans approved was 4,309 for a volume of $13,541,415. Under wartime regulations, operations were limited to the construction of single family dwellings with a maximum loan of $4,000. Total loans approved under the Housing Acts to March 31, 1942, numbered 19,670, aggregated $82,161,360 in total volume and provided for the construction of 24,790 family housing units. This is equivalent to the financing of more than $100,000,000 worth of residential property.

Of the 4,309 loans approved during the fiscal year 1941, 20% were for amounts of $2,500 and under; 50% for $3,000 and under, and 72% for $3,500 and under. The average unit loan was $3,142, an increase of 6% over 1940 when the average was $2,960. Virtually all of those loans were made in those vital areas where the influx of workers for war production have occasioned an acute housing shortage.

The rise in building costs is reflected in the $4,000 average for new single family unit appraisals, an increase of almost 8% over 1940. For the average property of $4,000 the site costs $325, extras and legal fees $150, and the house, including contractor's profit, $3,525.

The shortage of essential building materials, especially metallic products, and the uncertainty of obtaining them, is reflected in the decline of National Housing Act appraisals during the past 12 months.

Total Housing Act loans approved to March 31, 1942, divided according to provinces now stands as follows:

Province	Loans	Units	Amount
P.E.I.	18	18	$ 97,834
N.S.	729	729	2,995,800
N.B.	217	241	938,392
Que.	2,322	4,319	15,965,530
Ont.	10,807	13,331	42,841,468
Man.	1,456	1,666	5,812,697
Sask.	84	155	417,197
B.C.	4,037	4,314	13,092,442
	19,670	24,790	82,161,360

Results For The War Period

Statistics for the war period, from Sept 1, 1939 to Dec. 31, 1941 are as follows:

Number of Houses 12,854

This is equivalent to a city of 60,000 population approximately the size of London, Ontario.

Amount of Loans			$ 38,934,304.00
Actual Construction Amount (over)			43,000,000.00
Average Cost per house		$ 3,250
Cost per Lot, 35' x 120', including improvements		325
Cost Equipment—Light fixtures, hardware		100
Cost—Legal and Financing		75
Total Cost or Lending Value		$ 3,750.00
Loan		3,000.00
Lending Institution's Share	$ 2,250
Government's Share	750	3,000.00
Borrower's Equity		750.00	$ 3,750.00

Total cost to the Government to produce 12,854 houses, over 90% of which are located in munition production or defence areas was approximately $9,700,000.00.

Average Borrower's income .... $150.00 per month
Average Borrower's payment, including interest, principal and taxes .... 26.50 per month or approximately 17% of income.

The above figures show the average cost for the Dominion for houses built under the Housing Act during the period September 1st, 1939 to December 31st, 1941. There is yet another side to this picture and a more accurate comparison can be made by giving a breakdown of the minimum cost houses or what is popularly known as the $2,500 house.

Minimum Cost House Average $2,500 House)

Cost of House and Equipment	$ 2,215.00
Cost of Land	225.00
Cost—Legal and Financing	60.00
Total Cost	$ 2,500.00
Loan, 90%	2,250.00
Borrower's Equity, 10%	250.00

Average Borrower's Income .... $ 110 per month

know that one June 25 Gen. Auchinleck decided to assume command of the 8th Army personally in succession to Gen. Ritchie.

"As soon as Gen. Auchinleck informed the government of the decision he had taken he was at once told that it had our approval."

Although that was his only formal statement, Mr. Churchill answered questions.

No Singapore, Malaya Report.

Declining to allow publication of the reports of Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, Commander-in-Chief in India, on the losses of Malaya and Singapore, the Prime Minister said they "clearly would cause a great deal of ill-will throughout the British Empire."

Gen. Ritchie's removal did not alter the ultimate control of Britain's forces in the Mediterranean area since Gen. Auchinleck already was Commander-in-Chief.

British observers expressed belief that Gen Auchinleck was dissatisfied with conduct of the campaign in the field, where Gen. Ritchie was in charge. while he presumably operated from headquarters in the rear.

Gen. Auchinleck, who was Sir Archibald's successor in the Middle East, went to the front last november after another big British offensive had bogged down. It was then that General Ritchie replaced Gen. Cunningham.

Now Gen. Auchinleck goes under similar circumstances. Again reverses set in for Britain's desert fighters after confident reports from North Africa had led the public to believe the campaign was developing favorably.

His successor Mr. Keyes while a young man has had considerable banking experience having served both in New York and Montreal, before going to Toronto.

Obituary

ISAAC FALLIS

BETHANY, June 30.—(ENS). — The very sudden passing of the late Mr Isaac Fallis in his 74th year, has removed a very highly respected resident of this village and a widely known, kindly neighbor and friend, shown by the large cortege attending the funeral on Wednesday. Interment was made in the family plot at St John's, Ida, Anglican cemetery.

Previous to his locating in Bethany about twenty-two years ago, he had farmed on the Fallis Line, and attended the Marsh Trinity church. Last winter Mr Falls contracted influenza and a chill following relapse resulted in a weakened condition. Travelling to Lindsay on Monday, where he was taking vapor treatment, we very suddenly succumbed to a heart attack in the doctor's office.

Funeral service was held at the family residence, Wilson street, with the Rev. Mr. Harding, pastor of the United church, officiating Pallbearers were close neighbors, Frank Bigelow, W. L. Rowan, Louis Staples, James McKinnon, Norman Fallis and Ernest Fallis

He is survived by his widow, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Hammond, one daughter, Mrs. Alvin Armstrong and one son. Wellington Fallis, at home, and one brother, Stewart, of Fallis Line.

Among friends from a distance who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. John Brimmage, their daughter and granddaughter, Detroit. the Misses Howden, Peterborough, Mrs. R. Howden, Cavan, Isaac Hammond, Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs McHugh, Brampton, Miss A. Summerville, Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bigelow, Millbrook, Mr and Mrs. Coombes, Lindsay, Dr Murphy, Lindsay.

Katchewanooka Muskies Biting

LAKEFIELD, June 30—(ENS). — Lake Katchewanooka opened its weedy lairs over the week-end and poured muskies in a veritable run upon the ganghooks of the plug-casting brotherhood — and there were more happy anglers than disappointed members of the clan when baits were laid away on Saturday and Sunday nights.

Mort Riddell, manager of the Bell Telephone branch in Peterborough, with George Pearson as guide, landed a pair of beauties in short order, and hoisted back a number of bass.

Wes Wildman camped in the park went them one better when he pulled in a pair and added a fair-sized pickerel to the catch.

Ron Kemp, Lloyd Allen Frank Pearson, Red Graham, and Fred Wannamaker used the headache stick on one each, while Ted Watson made it a pair.

The Payne team, Carm and Mackie, reported one six-pounder and the mate to it tipping the scales around the five mark. Their side-kick, Walter Walker had one fellow the bait to within four feet of the boat, snatch it with a rush that took him clear out of the water, bait and all, and leaving the bait while in the air—it was only about a six-pounder, so Walter didn't feel so badly. The trio threw back several under-sized youngsters besides a number of bass.

Word drifting in from Burleigh Falls had few of the parties coming in over the week-end without their count. So it would seem that the season is off to an auspicious start in local waters.

The Fuka zone lying between abandoned Matruh and El Daban where the British headquarters may make a stand, apparently had become the centre of the smoking battle scene with other fighting eddying to the area south of Matruh along the line of the Axis' supply route.

15 Divisions Pound Fort

Despite the rally by Sevastopol's garrison, the Germans subsequently made new gains, particularly in the northeast sector of the Crimean fortress.

The situation there plainly was one of mounting gravity since the Germans were reported to have hurled 15 divisions—about 225,000 men—into the battle in a supreme effort for a quick knockout.

"No matter what the outcome of the unequal struggle for the ruins of the city, this is a victory for Soviet arms," Red Star said.

"History will always remember the duel of one lone garrison with 15 German divisions."

Must Not Permit Minority Snag States McLarty

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, June 30.—(CP).—The House of Commons to-day turns fro mthe 14 days' old debate on the government bill to permit conscription for overseas service by order-in-council, and begins study of the budget introduced last week by Finance Minister Ilsley.

Yesterday, State Secretary McLarty told the House that unless the direction of Canada's war strategy is left to the majority the minority would have the right to 'pronounce upon all of us our own sentence of death.'

Among the 100 members who have participated in the debate on the conscription measure were Quebec members who have opposed the proposed amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act to remove the limitation restricting compulsory service to Canada and its territorial waters.

Mr. McLarty said the manpower plebiscite vote had shown the Canadian people were in support of the government bill. Eight provinces had voted 'yes' in the manpower plebiscite. No minority could claim the right to refuse to accept the legally ascertained judgment of the state as to the action to be taken for its own salvation.

Conservative House Leader Hanson will be the first speaker in the budget debate to-day. The budget discussion will have priority until it is completed, with the government hoping it will be disposed of by the end of the week.

Others Taking Part

Those participating in the conscription debate yesterday in addition to Mr. McLarty were W. Earl Rowe (Con. Dufferin-Simcoe), H. B. McKinnon (Lib. Kenora-Rainy River), Manley Edwards (Lib. Calgary West), Emmanuel d'Anjou (Lib. Rimouski), D. G. Ross (Con. Toronto-St. Paul's), George Cruickshank (Lib. Fraser Valley), T. J. O'Neill (Lib. Kamloops), Pierre Gauthier (Lib. Portneuf), Hon. Cyril McMillan (Lib. Queen's), Robert Ryan (Lib. Three Rivers) and

Seventy Percent Taxes Paid At Port Hope

PORT HOPE, June 30 (ENS) — The regular meeting of the Town Council took place on Monday night in the council chambers with a full attendance.

A ratepayer attended this meeting and spoke on behalf of the ratepayers of Bramley street and the oiling of the same, and why some had been taxed for same. This ratepayer was assured that if oil for this purpose was not obtainable her money, which she had paid, would be refunded.

Tax Roll

Councillor W. N. Moore in his report for the Finance committee gave the total tax roll for 1942 as $111,149.62, and the taxes collected were $78,044.57, which was 70% of the total.

In 1941 the total tax roll was $102,018.77.

Arrears in taxes from January, 1942 to June, 1942, were $8,324.27, leaving an outstanding amount at the present date of $18,062.62.

A petition was read from the town employees asking for a raise of 5c per hour, making the rate 45c per hour.

Police Report

Councillor Thompson in his police report gave the following: Arrests 6, arrests for other police 4, summons 3, convictions 7, bicycles stolen 3, bicycles recovered 4, auto accidents 2, injured in auto accidents 2, complaints investigated 59, warnings issued 18, doors unlocked or insecure 12, persons given shelter, lost children found 2, searches 2, sanitary inspection of yards and quarantine 16, artices lost 1, found 1, returned 1. A request was made that the police office be painted and chairs repaired. Police holidays were discussed and supplies arranged.

For Rescue Work

The co-operation of five high powered fishing boats was assured the council to assist in any rescue scheme which might be necessitated by an airplane disaster in Lake Ontario at this point.

The relieving of Chief Murphy of the collection of Dog and Poll Tax was discussed.

The chairman of the police committee gave notice that he would introduce a by-law at the next meeting to relieve the chief of the collection of all minor license fees.

The council authorized the expenditure of $7.50 twice a month for July and August for the rental of an amplifier for the Port Hope Citizen's Band, the concerts to be held on Sunday nights.

A letter was read and discussed from the trainmaster at Lindsay, suggesting that the property at the side of the G.T.R. tracks be taken by the town at a rental of $5.00 and payment of taxes, to be used for a parking space.

A resolution was passed by Councillor Moore that during the months of July and August the meetings of this council shall be held on the following dates only, but always subject to special meetings being held at the call of the chair, July 27th and August 24th.

Sweaters Given

Councillor Moncrief announced that the hockey boys had been given their sweaters without ceremony.

The operating of the town dump was transferred from police committee to the town property committee.

A discussion took place with regard to parking space of the Callacutt Coach and was left in the hands of Councillor Thompson for further investigation and a report from police committee.

The Salvation Army asked for the assurance that they would be exempt from taxation on the old Bank of Montreal building if used only for religious purposes. In connection with request for the Salvation Army, it was decided that this be left over for the present as the council are not sure of their legal procedure to deal with same.

The town council voted $50.00 to assist in sponsoring the banquet which is to beld at a future date for representatives of the different municipalities interested in the Ganeraska flood prevention scheme which is being worked out by the Dominion and Provincial governments as a post-war work scheme.

NOW'S THE TIME TO BUY YOUR COAL!

'Fill that coal bin now!" says the government

"Get all the winter coal you're going to need—and get it NOW," is the urgent request of the government. Protect your family from the serious consequences of the possible shortage next winter!

There is a simple way to buy all the coal you need—to buy for cash and take advantage of low coal cash prices. A special plan now lets you have all the cash you need and repay the cost in small monthly instalments at a very small net charge per ton. For instance, a $100 loan can be repaid for as little as $7.78 per month.

You get four other important advantages by taking prompt advantage of this new plan. 1. Complete privacy in making all arrangements. 2. No co-signers or endorsers required. 3. 15 full months in which to repay. 4. No guarantee of your loan by your coal dealer or any outside source. And the first payment will not be due for thirty days.

Learn all about this budget plan for coal users. Phone or visit Household Finance Corporation of Canada, 177 Charlotte Street, Peterborough. Phone 5841.

Sub-Landed Nazi Saboteurs Captured By F.B.I.

After the 8th and last German saboteur landed by submarine on the east coast had been caught, the F.B.I. revealed an amazing story of the desperate Nazi plan to wreck U.S. war industry. The Nazis, in batches of four, were landed at Narragansett, L.I., and 17 miles south of Jacksonville Beach, Fla. Caches of explosives were also taken. Six of those caught are, TOP, L. to R., George John Dasch, Heinrich Harm Heinch and Richard Quirin. BOTTOM, L. to R., Werner Thiel, Ernest Peter Burger and Hermann Neubauer. Burger was the only naturalized U.S. citizen. He is an ex-member of the Michigan National Guard. The F.B.I. revealed that the huge power plant at Niagara was one of the objectives of the saboteurs.

30 Days Given For Wrecker To Build Fence

COBOURG, June 30.—(ENS). — Final meeting of town council for the summer was held last night. Unless something of importance turns up, council will not convene until next fall. Routine business occupied the attention of council. It was also decided to hold tax sales on seven properties, all vacant lots

The county rate was $20,487.04 it was announced. This is slightly lower than last year.

A letter from Pte. Jack Skitch of Kingston, thanked the council for the writing case received by him

T. Ash of Park Lane, wrote to complain that police had removed a sign he had placed on Division street advertising dew worms for sale. He stated that one of the town council had given him permission last year. There were other signs which had not been removed. The question was referred to the streets committee.

Accounts passed were: Highways and streets, $390.50; public buildings and printing, $9.50; police, $191.66; fire, water and light, $2,815.85; finance and harbour, $155.45; direct relief, $63.40.

Moved by Reeve Dodge, seconded by Councillor Rollings, that small notices be inserted in the local papers advising that all signs to be erected must first receive permission from the town and that those who have erected signs without permission must apply immediately for this permission.

Mayor Burnet reported that the owner of the wrecking lot on Division street had so far failed to erect a fence around it as previously guaranteed council decided to give him 30 days to build the fence or else his permit would be cancelled.

Everything in Order.

Councillor Rollings reported that Constable Houghton had made 27 calls at the Martin Transport on James street and had found no trucks on the sidewalk. Chief Carey also found things in order There had been on previous occasions complaints from householders in that area.

"The nuisance has apparently abated," stated the mayor.

Mayor Burnet commented that a child had been severely cut on Saturday by stepping on broken glass

"It is unthinkable that people should be so careless by throwing glass about. They deserve the most severe penalty," commented the mayor.

Mayor Burnet also announced that the parade on July 1st would move off from the armouries at 2.30 p.m.

Reeve Ray Dodge stated the Public Utilities Commission should be commended for having the water tank painted.

A letter from the superintendent of the C.P.R. advised the council that he couldn't authorize painting of clearances signs on the steel spans. He advised that if signs are to be installed on the bridges the town should submit a detailed plan showing how they would be fastened.—Referred to Streets committee.

Acting on behalf of Thomas Comskey, pupil of St. Michael's school Gideon Demers, his guardan, advised the council that he intended bringing an action for damages. The claim was for a broken arm sustained when he fell over a stump on University avenue.

Reeve Dodge stated that the lack of farm help was serious. It was a question whether much in the way of help could be secured from town. It was possible that when the reserve army came back from camp they might lend their aid on the farms.

Minister Concludes 8-Year Pastorate On Sunday

COLDSPRINGS, June 30—(ENS) —Rev. T. Wesley, who has been pastor of St. Paul's Church for the past eight years preached his farewell sermon on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Wesley are leaving this week for their new charge near Brantford.

The three congregations, Coldsprings, Camborne and Bethel Grove presented Mrs. Wesley with a walnut tea wagon and Mr. Wesley received a purse. On Sunday afternoon, during Sunday School, the children gathered in line and the older ones each laid a spray of bluebells in front of Mr. Wesley. The second oldest children each carried a rose, and the tiny tots presented bouquets of forget-me-nots.

Later the members of the Bible Class, which Mr. Wesley has taught for so long presented him with a zippered travelling case with fittings.

Tourist Parks Filled.

With fine warm weather, tourist parks were filled over the week-end and traffic was quite heavy on the country roads both Saturday and Sunday. All cottages were open and bathing beaches well patronized. Because of gas rationing, many people are rigging up sails for their boats and the entire absence of the noisy outboard motors is quite a relief to residents of tourist villages.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. MacFarland (nee Ruth Fowlie) are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter on Friday (Cherie Elaine).

Miss Helen Harris, nurse-in-training at Ottawa Civic Hospital, is home on three weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cheyne were visitors this past week in Peterborough.

Mrs. Thomas Wallace spent three days in Cobourg with her sister, Mrs. Rowe.

Master Robert Meggs, who has been spending the past two weeks at the Queen Elizabeth Sea Cadets Camp at Honey Harbor and later visited in Toronto, arrived home on Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart and three children of Smith's Falls are spending six weeks at the cottage of Mrs. Papineau.

Mrs. W. McKee Bingham of Cobourg was a guest of Mrs. Meggs on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Greer, Sr., Mrs. Edgar Sorby, and Mrs. Howard Ferguson of Peteborough are occupying Col. Geer's cottage for two months.

PO. D. C. Brooks Receives Commission

Pilot Officer D. C. Brooks, of Port Hope, now serving with the R.C.A.F. on the West Coast is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Brooks, 24 Walton street. He received wings as a sergeant air gunner on April 9, and on the day following was given his commissioned rank, by virtue of his high standing in the class.

PO D. C. Brooks

He trained at Brantford and at the present time has been posted to a west coast training base for a special course.

Fraser Addresses Conservative Rally

GORE'S LANDING, June 30 — (ENS)—Gordon K. Fraser, M.P. of Peterborough was the guest speaker at the annual meeting of Ward 9 Conservative Association of Hamilton township on Saturday evening in the Public Library.

Karl Harris, ward chairman, was in charge of the program. Miss Shirley Drope, of Harwood sang "A May Morning." Mr. Harris introduced Mr. Fraser who gave an interesting talk on the "Proceedings on Parliament Hill, Ottawa."

Mr. Fraser said it was 22 years since he had been in Gore's Landing and in 1924 during a trip through South America, accompanied by Mrs. Fraser, they were travelling through the Andes and met in with two people who had spent their summers at Gore's Landing.

Reviewing the various activities in Parliament, Mr. Fraser spoke of the many committees on which the members spent a great deal of time. He described parliamentary procedure and the bills which came before our representatives for consideration. Agriculture, gas rationing, taxes and the budget were all included in Mr. Fraser's remarks and he answered several questions which were asked him by the audience. Mrs. Fraser accompanied her husband to Gore's Landing.

Karl Harris, who has been ward chairman for five years and ably performed his duties, asked to be relieved of the position, and Hilton Dodge of Plainville was elected chairman of Ward 9.

3 Vichy Suspects

VICHY, June 30—(AP)—German military authorities announced today the arrest of three men, who they alleged, bombed German headquarters at Tours last January 12. The three also were suspected of responsibility for the attempt to assassinate Marcel Deat, collaborationist of the pro-Nazi Nations Popular Party, with a small bomb.

War Refugees Make Grove Their New Home

LAKEFIELD, June 30 — Each year for the past two years, Headmaster G. Winder Smith has turned the beautiful grounds and Lake facilities of Lakefield Preparatory School to the benefit of small English boys in this country, whose lives have been uprooted by war. This year the camp opens with a good number of youngsters from English schools, who at the end of term at Grove School, Lakefield; and other boarding schools in Ontario and in Quebec have no fixed abode. Instance of this is David Wailling, whose father is Commissioner of British Virgin Islands, and who is compelled to remain in Canada due to transportation difficulties.

Through the gracious courtesy of the Governors of Lakefield Preparatory School, a portion of the dormitory accommodation is set aside, and the boys carry on a camp routine, which is difficult to match in the Ontario lake country. As an added attraction small parties journey by boat to Stoney Lake to spend several days at the cottage of a friend of the School. The boys are at camp from three to five weeks and receive a variety of experience in the open and on the Lakes.

From Many Lands

A fine staff has been gathered to instruct and care for the youngsters. Under G. Winder Smith are two members of his school staff, C.P.O. George Lee, R.N., (ret.) and Thomas Crawford B.A. Three counsellors are in close touch with the children's activities: Christopher Kirby, Barrie; Edgar Moore, Peterborough; Robert Hague, St. Catharines.

Miss O. M. Perry, Grove School matron and dietitian, has an expert cook and domestic staff to care for the lads, whose ages run from six to fifteen.

At present a half dozen boys are to be seen on the banks of the Lake on which Grove is situated: Neil MacTaggart, Glasgow, Scotland; Rowan Roy, Virgin Islands; John Tustin and John Church, both of Bedford, England. And on Wednesday a larger group of lads will arrive at the camp, where several English visitors and a number also of Canadian children join the outing. The nine dinghies and several canoes will see much use, as will the School woods known to a host of old Grove boys, many of whom are now serving on the high seas and in the other services in defence of freedom for just such youngsters as these.

ALBERTA IS READY TO FILL YOUR BIN!

Many homes will find themselves without coal next winter unless full use is made of our own Canadian coal resources in the meantime. Coal must be mined and moved into householders' bins during the next two or three months, if sufficient coal is to be available for all our needs when the cold weather comes.

Canada Is Facing A Serious Coal Problem

Military needs are putting a heavy strain on our production and railroad facilities. Transportation of next season's coal must not be left till the few weeks before actual demand arises. The railroads must spread coal hauling right across the summer. Miners must be kept working, and coal moving into and out of dealers' yards. Their yards can only hold so much. Unless householders take delivery, new supplies cannot be brought in.

Looking Forward

Canada celebrated her 50th birthday during a great war and now, when we are engaged in an even greater struggle, she arrives at her 75th anniversary; dare we hope that the centenary celebrations may be enjoyed in peace?

* * *

The first great war cost Canada dearly, but like many painful experiences it brought its measure of wisdom and development. The uncertainty of temper which marked the first fifty years of the Dominion's life was altered, and we became a bar of steel, rough but true; will this second war beat the bar into a blade? Shall we emerge from this struggle self-reliant, unified, supple and ready to take a great place in the world? We shall be able to answer these questions at the centenary; it would be presumptuous to attempt to answer them now.

* * *

Criticism of Canada is easy; understanding of her is hard, even for those of us who live within her borders and make her fate our daily concern. Canada has many enemies, and some of them must be looked for in the ranks of those who profess most interest in her development. There is no easy solution, no single pill which will purge her of all her ills; like other adolescents, time will do her more good than any other medicine. At present the future of many countries older and more stable than our own is being moulded by the hand of circumstance; we cannot as yet see our place in the general pattern.

And yet we know that in this war we are fighting on the only possible side. The issue is clear enough: the world has its choice between barbarism and that stumbling, laborious journey toward universal dignity and decency which we like to call progress. We are on the side of the angels, and although it is still possible for us to lose the war (and there are times when we come perilously near to doing so) our general situation appears to be growing better. Our enemies have the easier task: they fight with the efficiency and single-mindedness which are only possible in a thoroughly evil cause. We, who struggle to keep our heads in the stars and our feet on the ground at the same time, and who try to do things by those slow and clumsy means which are the only way of consulting everybody's good, have made costly and stupid mistakes: nevertheless we are still free men and we are growing stronger all the time.

Canadians are fighting in this war because we know that wherever freedom is attacked in this world we are attacked as surely as if the enemy were fighting on our soil. We are not fighting, as some of our citizens like to pretend, to defend imperialism or to defend capitalism; we are not fighting primarily because of our association with Britain. We are fighting for the future.

* * *

What the future will bring is unknown to us. We hope that it will bring a time when we can draw thousands in taxes in order to better the lot, physical and spiritual, of the people of this country, instead of drawing billions in taxes for war. We hope that it will bring a Canada which is at once richer and less materialistic. We hope that it will bring a Canada which will be able to give to the outside world the only lasting gift which a country can make to mankind—great art. We hope that it will bring a Canada where we are sufficiently sure of ourselves to be able to laugh at ourselves now and again, and where the portentous glumness which we have adopted as an adolescent pose will give place to a more adult smile. We hope, indeed, for many things during the next twenty-five years, and we have enough faith in Canada to be optimistic in our hopes.

Keep Your Eyes Open

It was startling to hear that eight German saboteurs had been landed on the shores of the U.S. from a submarine, although the brilliant action of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in apprehending them and their accomplices stopped them from doing any dirty work. The audacity of this plan shows that we are fighting an enemy of resource and courage, and although we have no doubt of the courage of the United Nations we are still waiting for evidence of their superior resource. This attempted invasion by master-saboteurs, however, is the Nazis tribute to the greatness of American armament production; the Axis knows that if it cannot strike a knock-out blow this year the immensity of American manpower and materials will crush them eventually. The work of the F.B.I. was an important victory on the home front.

We do not know what the situation is in the U.S., but we gather from reading the leading newspapers in that country that there are still many people there who unwittingly make life easier for the saboteur; certainly it is so in Canada. In spite of repeated warnings there is far too much careless talk in this country about munitions factories and movements of troops. Soldiers and workers are apt to say more than they should, either from a very human desire to give themselves importance, or because they think that the little they know is too unimportant to make a difference. But a clever enemy agent, if he spent a day in listening to all that he could hear in such a city as Peterborough, could discover a great deal that he should not know. Once more we urge upon all our readers the necessity for absolute secrecy about any matters of war production or troop movements; Army Week is an excellent time for us all to adopt the American slogan, Zip Your Lip.

To turn briefly to another matter which has interest in this connection, let us all become a little more curious about strangers who appear to have nothing to do. And we should make ourselves familiar with the uniforms which we are likely to see in our district. Last week the Border Police of New York State picked up a Nazi airman who was wearing a German uniform and who had spent several hours on the streets of Montreal in that costume. He had sewn a pair of R.A.F. wings on the breast of his jacket; otherwise he was undisguised. In colour and design the German uniform is sufficiently distinctive to attract attention, but apparently no one who noticed this man thought of taking action. It would have been a simple matter to ask a policeman to question him, or to have engaged him in conversation, but no one did it.

Nobody wants a spy scare in this country, but increased vigilance on the part of the civil population is needed. Do not expect that enemy agents will look like spies in the funny papers or talk like the Katzenjammer Kids. The pictures of the eight Nazis who have been captured in the States show eight perfectly ordinary, if slightly goggle-eyed men; one of them is handsome enough to attract the attention of girls anywhere. Despite what Cicero said, the face is not the image of the soul, and anyone who behaves strangely, or wants to know too much about your work is a legitimate object of suspicion. Keep your eyes open and your mouth shut, and if you notice any strange goings-on, tell the police. You may be mistaken; and then, on the other hand, you may not.

Toward The Heart-Land

The Germans are great pedants, but bad scholars. They seem always prepared to pervert information in order to prove what they want to believe, and they care little for real truth as it appears from facts. The false science of Geopolitics is an example of their ingenuity in this direction.

According to geopolitical thinking, the best way to conquer the world is to conquer first the rich Heart-Land of Central Eurasia; possessed of the wealth of this area, it is supposedly possible for a nation to go on and conquer all the world by the use of sea and air power. The present pincer-movement directed at the Middle East looks very like a preliminary to a move against the Heart-Land, which is at present in the keeping of Russia. More than 3,000 books have been published in Germany on the subject of geopolitics, and there is an institute of that science in Munich, with the notorious Professor Haushofer at its head.

Curious that Haushofer never thought that there might be two Heart-Lands, and that one of them might be in America. Detroit looks very like a Heart-Land to us. How will Haushofer explain it if our Heart-Land proves better than his?

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Japs have been convicted of sinking a Russian merchant vessel in May. If the Rising Sun expects to go on rising it would be well advised to do a little less sinking.

Says Maxim Litvinoff: "We are proud that it has fallen to our lot to smash Hitler's war machine, but we by no means insist on exclusive rights." We can take a hint.

The Man Who Wrote O Canada

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

TOMORROW is the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of our Dominion, and enough has already been said on that subject in the newspapers; but it may not be amiss to think for a while about a man who did much for Canada, for he wrote our national song. He was Calixa Lavallee, and this year is the centenary of his birth.

The British dominions have not been altogether happy in their national songs, for a Britisher abroad or in the colonies is a Britisher still, and is content to go on singing "Rule Britannia" and "Hearts of Oak" till all is blue. But the French in Canada have different ideas and they were the first people here to seek a distinctively Canadian patriotic song. In 1880 the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec asked Calixa Lavallee to write a musical setting of Judge Adolphe Routhier's poem, "O Canada, terre de nos aieux," and the song which we know is the result. As a piece of music it has its merits and its faults. It is a simple development of one phrase, and consequently it is apt to become tiresome if it is heard too often; it has also a Victorian tendency toward sentimentality, and a somewhat square-toed musical pattern. But it has breadth and simplicity, and Routhier's poem is a fine one. Unfortunately there is no first-rate English translation; Judge Weir's version is really an original poem rather than a translation, and the verse translation which exists is not a happy piece of work. It shows wisdom in the Dominion Government that it has never adopted this song as a national anthem; it is unsuitable for many reasons, and it is better that "God Save The King" should serve the purpose of a national hymn throughout the Empire. But "O Canada" is an admirable national song.

THE Lavallee family had been in Canada for at least two centuries when Calixa was born in 1842. He was the son of Augustin, a blacksmith, who was something of a musician himself. At least he advertised that he "repaired musical instruments and firearms." The lad learned to play the piano, violin and cornet when he was still very young, and became interested in the organ when his father associated himself with Joseph Casavant, the founder of the great firm of organ builders.

In 1855, for some reason which is not clear, Calixa was adopted by a lover of music named Leon Derome who lived in Montreal. In that city the boy studied with a blind musician named Paul Letondal, who seems to have gathered up the threads of young Lavalee's disordered musical education and to have given him some notion of what artistry was. But the boy was possessed by that wild and roving disposition which is sometimes called 'artistic temperament,' and when he was fifteen he ran away with a theatrical troupe and ended up in New Orleans. Here a young Frenchmen might find himself at home, and Lavallee soon formed a close association with a Spanish violinist, Olivera, and he toured in South America as accompanist to this artist.

WHEN next we hear of Lavallee he is fighting in the American Civil War on the Northern side; he had acquired a dislike of slavery while in New Orleans. He fought at Bull Run and it is believed that he was wounded at Antietam. He was only 21 when he returned to Montreal and set up as a teacher of music, but he did not stay at this profession long. He was soon away again with a company of negro minstrels, and he wandered far and wide over the U.S. He married a New England girl, and this experience seems to have steadied him for a time; at any rate he returned to Canada in 1870 and taught in Montreal and Quebec. But Lavallee was a roamer; soon he was off to New York, where he became Musical Director of Pyke's Opera House, a noted home of minstrel shows. What attracted this gifted French-Canadian to this peculiarly American form of entertainment must remain a mystery; minstrel shows are rarely remarkable for the interest or complexity of their music. But after two years he was back in Montreal again and the ever-forgiving Derome received him with understanding and financial aid. Indeed, he dispatched Calixa, who was now 32, to Paris, where he studied at the Conservatoire with Marmontel for two years. When he again returned to Montreal it was to become organist at St. James' Cathedral and to do his best to found a Conservatoire on the Parisian model. But Canada was unresponsive, and after a few years of gigantic effort Lavallee quitted this country in disgust and spent the remainder of his life in the States, where he became very well known as an accompanist of touring musicians. He died in Boston in 1891.

IT CANNOT be claimed that Lavallee was a man of genius, but he was a musician far above the average, and if he had been given more encouragement he might have done much for his native land. But Canada was then, as it still is to a large extent, inclined to disregard native talent until it had fled over the border, and Lavallee was too mercurial in temperament to impress favorably the men who might have given the money to found his Conservatoire. Now he is known only by a handful of piano pieces and by "O Canada." He was before his time in his attempt to give Canadian music importance on this continent, but who is to say that our present enviable status in that respect does not stem from his efforts? Certainly tomorrow, when we are certain to hear "O Canada" played, we may spare a thought for the erratic, impatient, but fervidly Canadian Calixa Lavallee.

Unconsidered Trifles

Mrs. Wilop had died, and Dad wanted to put up some sort of memorial to her. A stained-glass window in the local church being suggested, Dad agreed, and left all arrangements in the hands of the minister.

At length the window arrived, and was fitted into position. Dad, in an unusually excited frame of mind, set out to view it.

The minister escorted the old chap into the church and, with a flourish, indicated the window, which depicted an angel.

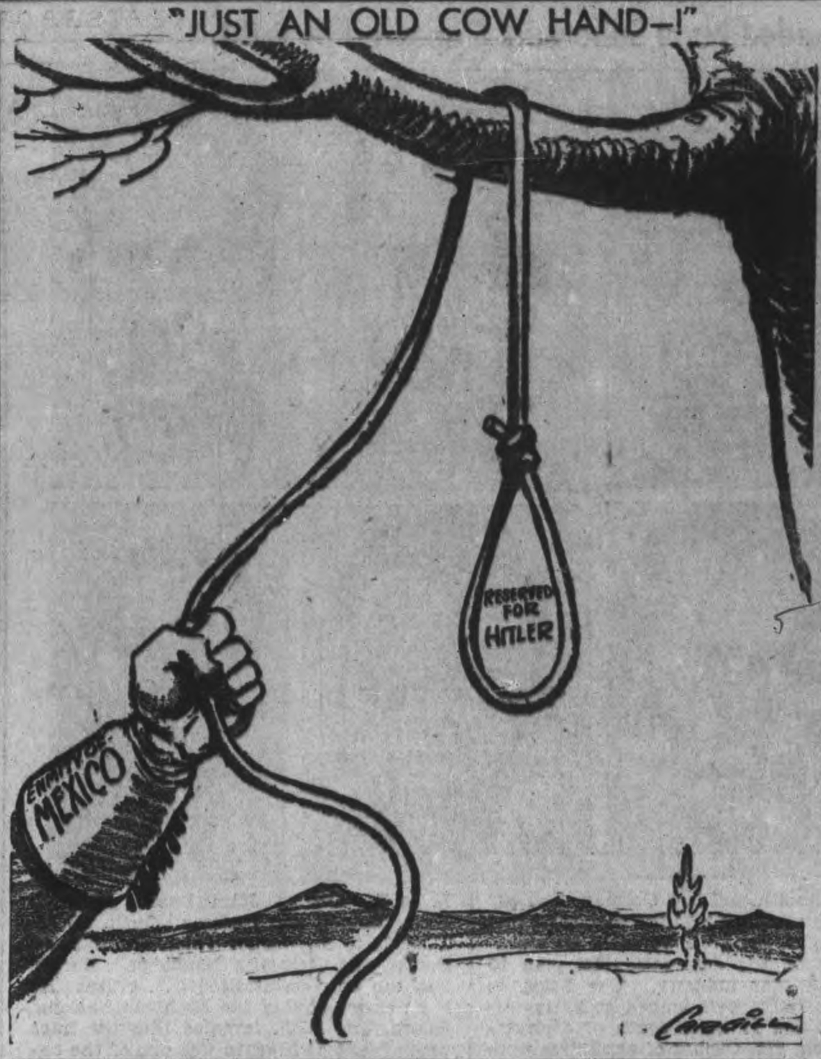
"How do you like it?" said he.

Dad gazed at it thoughtfully.

"No good," he grunted.

"Why, what's your objection?"

"It ain't a bit like the old woman."



Rommel's Speed Ominous

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

BRITAIN'S hard-pressed army in Egypt appeared still on retreat eastward as Prime Minister Churchill, back in London from his conferences with President Roosevelt, prepared to face critics in Parliament.

With the fall of Matruh the Axis desert juggernaut has rolled an ominous step closer to Alexandria. That, too, at a moment when an expanded German offensive in Russia gravely threatens Marshal Timoshenko's lines at a critical point eastward of Kursk. Mr. Churchill expressed calm confidence that Egypt could and would be held before he left Washington; but the basis of that confidence was not revealed. The situation has deteriorated for British forces since he spoke. Nor is there any indication that measures devised in Egypt or in Russia have been yet readied for action.

BIG TURNING POINT

London observers believe the Nazi lunge eastward from Kursk, 140 miles north of Kharkov, signalizes the opening of the main Hitler offensive in Russia. They define the Nazi objectives as an effort to rip Russian armies of the South and Central Fronts apart in preparation for a great southward turning movement aimed at Rostov and the Don crossings into the Caucasus.

Loss of Kupyansk, sixty miles east-southeast of Kharkov, had already seriously impaired Russian north-south communications. The new drive eastward from Kursk menaces Timoshenko's supply lines even more gravely.

Presumably the German attack from Kursk is grooved to the Kursk Railroad to Voronej, 130 miles due east. If it should reach that junction point, it would virtually cut Russian armies in the south from the Moscow region except for round-about and inadequate routes.

Russian danger is far less imminent than that of the British forces in Egypt, however. Unless the Kursk thrust is to be expanded on a wide front both north and south, there seems small prospect of an immediate crisis.

SEEK SHORTER FRONT

In Egypt, the speed and force with which Rommel is driving eastward despite the probable weariness of his troops and the strain of ever lengthening supply lines, harried by British-American bombers, is startling. The implication is that British reinforcements have not yet come up in sufficient force to warrant a stand and that the remnants of the 8th Army are falling back upon them to a shorter front some 100 miles or more from Alexandria.

If the German attack in Russia has now fully developed, it seems clear that rumors of German concentrations in Crete and in the Italian and Greek islands of the Aegean for an air-borne thrust at Cyprus, Syria, or behind the British front in Egypt are due for early testing. Expectation of such a supplemental blow in the Middle East may have led the British Command to give more ground in Egypt in order to contract the defense area.

Too Much Control Not Wanted

KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD

SPEAKING before the Rotary International session in Toronto, Francis Kettaveh, of Beyrouth, Lebanon, expressed the opinion that Government control in private affairs has come to stay, and that the world as it used to be is gone forever. He declared:

"The sooner business men realize this fact, the sooner will they be able to salvage something of the system of free enterprise."

What may be the course of events in the United States or in any other country in the matter of government control we are not, of course, in a position to say. That is the business of each national, but in Canada all kinds of state authority,—restricting and regimenting, not in business alone but in other fields,—is not wanted. It is neither the spirit nor the essence of democracy, and that is the way of life which we are fighting for.

Numerous rules and regulations have been put into effect as a wartime necessity to prevent inflation and the serious disorganization of economic life which would be inevitable under the abnormal conditions of the present. But when the conflict is over and affairs settle back into their peace-era grooves, the public should insist on a return of freedom in ordinary affairs. By no process of argument can it be maintained that what is necessary today should be continued when the war is over. One might as well say that because heavy clothing has to be worn during the rigors of winter, a government should decree that the same apparel must be worn all summer.

Reasonable freedom of action in the ordinary affairs of all of us is what we desire. It permits of enterprise and zeal to accomplish things. Under the system Canada has built itself up into a nation which is now being given credit by outside countries for its big war production achievements. The imposition of irritating controls from governments would, in post war times, be like a brake always bearing down on a wheel.

During the efforts of Canadians to help defeat despotism and tyranny, we are willing to do whatever is necessary in the interests of our safety and which will roll up the greatest power possible against our foe. When that foe is vanquished we should go back again to pre-war liberty of action, thought and speech within, of course, the bounds of ordinary common sense.

Why Latin Prescriptions

Recently we commented on the address of a doctor at the American Medical Convention who advocated that prescriptions should be written in English instead of Latin. We differed from the doctor on the ground that it was better that people do not know what they were taking, and that if they knew the ingredients of a medicine bottle, or tablets, some might indulge in the dangerous habit of self-medication.

We are glad to learn from a local druggist of long experience, E. C. Harvey, another, and probably the primary reason for the writing of prescriptions in Latin.

Latin is the universal language of the physician. A doctor's prescription can, therefore, be read by any druggist in the world. As an illustration of the value of this practice, Mr. Harvey related that some time ago a Russian handed him a prescription which he was able to read at once and supplied to the customer. On another occasion a Turk gave him a prescription written by a Mohammedan doctor and again he was able to meet the customer's requirements. Had these prescriptions been written in Russian and Turkish the druggist would not have been able to do a thing with them, and the customers would have to visit another doctor, who, possibly, might not have prescribed the same medicines which had done them good.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Carol and Michael

Ex-King Carol of Rumania, in Mexico, is now in touch with his son King Michael, and is working propaganda on Michael's behalf. This has been traced to Carol's headquarters.

Carol is responsible for a number of stories recently circulated that Michael has adopted an anti-Axis attitude and is in favor of Rumania quitting the war. Intercepted messages in U.S. show that this policy has been agreed on between father and son.

Object is to whitewash Michael so that the Rumanian Royal family shall not be held responsible after the war for conniving at Axis domination, in the event of the Axis losing.—London Daily Sketch.

A Stalin Prize

Ilya Ehrenburg, distinguished Russian journalist who has been writing magnificent stuff from the Russian battle fronts, has been awarded a Stalin Prize for Literature for 1942. Mr. Ehrenburg was in France during the tragic summer of 1940. He stayed on to watch the Germans march into Paris, and it is his book—"The Fall of France"—that gained for him one of the coveted Stalin prizes together with 100,000 roubles in cash. The Russian writer's book has not yet been translated into English. — Toronto Telegram.

A Bible Message For Today

And it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue and taught: and there was a man whose right hand was withered. And the scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day; that they might find an accusation against him. But he knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up, and stand forth in the midst. And he arose and stood forth.

Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you one thing; is it lawful on the sabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy it? And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he did so: and his hand was restored whole as the other.—Luke vi, 6-10.

Quebec's Chance

This is Quebec's opportunity. If French-Canadians are wholly convinced of the need to destroy the menace presented to the free world by the Axis Powers—and we believe they are—they will come forward voluntarily in such numbers that they can postpone indefinitely, if they see fit, the imposition of conscription, for it is announced that that policy will be kept in cold storage so long as the voluntary system works. If they do not, then of necessity they must bow to the will of the whole nation which has committed itself beyond preadventure to the proposition that our whole national strength must be thrown into this struggle for survival. The national will is that, if the voluntary system fails, recourse must be had to compulsion. It is hard to imagine that, if this condition arises, French Canada will falter in fulfilling its full obligations under the law. Conscription in such circumstances will mean that the obvious equity of the draft is preferred by Canada as a whole to the demands made upon the sense of personal obligation by the voluntary system. Up to now French-Canadian leaders have expressed the view that their people prefer the voluntary system. Let them now prove it by providing voluntary enlistments in proportion to the enlistments already provided by the rest of Canada, a condition which has not yet unfortunately obtained. Preference for the voluntary system must be proved by deeds and not only by words.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Wartime Beer

Lord Arnold has renewed his demand for a drastic cut in beer production. He was disturbed by two ideas. One that the consumption of beer was greater than before the war, and the other that a cut of brewing by one-half would provide enough grain to feed 18,000,000 hens.

To the first point Lord Woolton replied that the extra quantity of beer was produced by the addition of water—a beverage approved by the highest authorities. As to the second point, he challenged Lord Arnold's figure. The grain saved, he said, would feed 7,000,000 hens, not 18,000,000. His comment upon that corrected estimate was not so convincing. These extra millions of hens, he said, would produce "only" one extra egg per person per month. One extra egg a month would be an increase of 33 1-3 per cent on what we are at present entitled to, which, after all, is considerable.

Lord Arnold, who is an extremist on the subject of drink, was not satisfied with the liberal dilution of beer; he wanted it to be all water.—Manchester Guardian.

Bill Lang Lauds Vacation Number

High commendation for this year's Examiner Vacation Edition came today from Canada's outstanding sportsman, fisherman and lecturer, Bill Lang of Toronto.

Mr. Lang, who is well known to Peterborough sportsmen, said the edition is "best published in Canada, and it meets the needs of every type of sportsman." He went on to state that the edition listing accommodation of every description from a cabin camp to palatial summer hotels is bound to have an appeal to every type of tourist. "The big secret of good advertising is not what is in the edition but what people say about it when they read it, and I have talked with many Americans who look forward eagerly every year for this grand publication."

"If every farmer, guide, business man and in short every adult citizen would buy just one copy of this edition and mail it to a friend in the States, he would be making an investment in his own home town, by publicising the district. You people around here just don't realize what a paradise the Kawarthas is. Do you know that in some parts of Illinois state, they ask the fishermen not to take more than 14 sunfish a day. Why you people throw sunfish away. I was amazed at the fine fishing pictures, giving ample proof that there are lots of big ones to be caught."

Likes Contests

Mr. Lang, who addressed 86,000 Americans during 1941 said he was speaking at the Akron City Club and everyone in the place knew that a woman from Ohio had caught a pickerel near Marmora that won a prize in the Morley E. Mackenzie Fishing Contest. He mentioned this to show that fishing contests have a great publicity value, because they make people want to catch champion fish, and people will remember the name of the lakes where the big ones are.

"You can take it from me, I believe the Examiner is doing the finest bit of publicity work in Canada today for the tourist trade with their annual edition and with the Fishing Contest which they sponsor in conjunction with the Lucky Strike Bait Company."

Two Visitors

Added to this generous bit of praise came proof positive that the edition is doing a job even in this lean year. Jack Armitage of the C.D.S. store had two Americans in on Saturday, W. E. Cook, 222 Rhoades avenue, Haddenfield, N.J., and Jos. H. Gaskill, R.D. 1, Hilltop, Beechwood, New Jersey, both of whom were in the district for the first time.

"We received copies of the vacation edition for the first time, and had not intended taking a vacation this year. Reading the edition changed our minds so here we are."

Mr. Armitage stated the Americans seemed to think that the C.D.S. store had sent the editions to them, but more than likely received them from the Examiner who obtained the names from the Ontario Travel Bureau list. Regardless of how they received them, the incident proves the value of the edition even in time of war, when restrictions are curtailling tourist travel, and shows too that the C.D.S. store has added two more staunch friends to its ever growing clientele.

A Bang-Up "V" For Victory

A "V" for Victory—with real meaning is this one of water thrown high into the air by explosion of depth charges as the U.S. coast-guard battles the undersea menace while convoying merchantmen along the Atlantic coast.

PUTS SHOULDER TO WHEEL.

APSLEY — (ENS). — Ruby McColl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McColl, is really doing her bit to help keep things moving. Mr. McColl his been unable to get a man to work in his saw mill, and his daughter now fills that place and keeps a vital industry moving. Incidentally Ruby is only 16 years of age. Like other Canadian girls she is putting her shoulder to the wheel.

With The Boy Scouts

2nd Armour (St. Luke's)

The Pack.—One hundred per cent attendance was enjoyed at the council rock at the last meeting when two new tenderpads were accepted into the world brotherhood of scouts. These new cubs, Grant and Harold Burns, took their cub promise before Akela and were given a rousing welcome on the cub trail. Knot work and games took up the evening with the story of White Seal being told at red flower.

The pack will continue its meetings for the month of July, and every cub possible is requested to attend these meetings.

1st Peterborough (St. John's)

The Pack.—After the opening ceremonies the sixes were dismissed to their respective corners to be recalled to the parade circle where the sixes were reorganized, and some new sixers and seconds appointed to office. Carl Sargent and Dick Schram were promoted to the rank of sixers; Don Searles, Albert Cunningham and Don Robertson to seconds. Carl Sargeant was transferred from the Grays to the White, Don Searles from Black to the Green six, Stuart Wigg from the Brown to the Green, Dick Schram, Larry Cunningham and George Franks from the Red to the Green. During the week the sixers and all first star cubs met at the Skipper's to discuss the new awards and other items of interest for the summer months. At the close of the meeting the following tests were passed: Bobby Craw, Union Jack; Albert Cunningham, Message and National Anthem; Donald Searles, Savings; Dick Schram, Collector; Max Clark, Union Jack, and during the week-end Donald Searles passed his Artist badge.

On Friday next, July 3, the cubs will meet on King George School grounds for a friendly game of softball with the 2nd Armor pack at 6.30 sharp. Any boy having bat and ball is requested to bring them along. The meeting will open in the regular way.

Nearly 450 pounds of Government-approved vegetable seeds were shipped by boy scout troops in Southern Alberta, as their part in the Dominion-wide scout campaign for seeds for British scout "Dig for Victory" gardens.

We have the names of Irish and Scotch scouts who want to correspond with Canadian scouts. These boys are 15 years of age and we would like some of our Peterborough boys to take up this correspondence. Or if you would like to correspond with any scouts overseas just phone 3067 and we will put you on the right path. Do your part by helping to keep in touch with scouting overseas.

4th Peterborough (Sacred Heart)

The Troop.—The patrol leads and seconds spent a week-end camp with the scouter out at the scout grounds. All preparations regarding tentage, menus, etc., were arranged by the P.L.'s themselves. The camp was run on the lines of the training course for patrol leaders. On Sunday morning the boys marched to Lakefield; where they attended divine service. During the afternoon Commissioner and Mrs. J. T. Hornsby visited the camp. George Freeman passed his swimmers' badge and Frank Lucano passed first class swimming. At the last regular meeting Mr. M. E. Johnson, one of the new leaders, took tenderfoot work; Bob Cooke, a former scout, gave signalling instruction; Scouter took several boys in scout's pace with the following boys passing that test: H. Legrow, P. Paquette, and H. Shaughnessy. This week's meeting will be a very important one and all scouts are asked to be on hand.

Scouts are warned for church parade next Sunday morning at 8 o'clock.

We understand that the Mark Street troop went on a week-end camp but no reports have been received to date; that our friend, Lieut. Gordon Clegg is in hospital for a rest cure, we wish him a speedy recovery to good health; that our friend Pete may be leaving us very soon for duration, best of luck, Pete.

Japs Retake Kweiki

CHUNGKING, June 30—(AP).—The Chinese High Command announced to-day that Kweiki on the western leg of the Kiangsi-Chekiang railway had changed hands, the Japanese recapturing it and reducing the Chinese-held portion of the railway to about 50 miles.

The invaders were still checked at Shangjao, the eastern claw of the Japanese advance along the raailway.

The communique also told of a second Chinese set-back in the abandonment of Lishui, one of the principal objectives in Chekiang province, on June 24 after street fighting and heavy casualties on both sides.

CHINESE BIG SLICE

More than one-fifth of the human race is Chinese.

Chinese Pilots Get Advanced Training

Instructor Lieut. R. N. Nichols, of an eastern air base, somewhere in New England, is shown giving Hsu Wen-Shu last-minute instructions before the latter takes a ship aloft. Hundreds of native-born Chinese are being given advanced operational instruction. Many of them have fought over China, but when they go back they will be able to do a better job.

Poverty Party Held In Mt. Julian School

MOUNT JULIAN, June 30—(ENS)—The Poverty party held on Friday evening, in the local school, was a great success. The school children, directed by the musical supervisor, Mrs. George Killborn, presented an excellent program of music and dancing. This was followed by square dancing to music being provided by the Bolton Brothers.

Paper bag lunches and lemonade was served. A hooked rug was raffled with Mrs. Wilson Lyttle holding the lucky ticket. Theodore Wilson won the prize for comic poverty costume.

At the closing of the school term the teacher, Mrs. Arthur Earnshaw, presented eight-year-old Joan Wilson with first prize for good attendance. Although Joan walks, or skis two miles to school she did not miss a school day. Marie Wilson was awarded second prize for next best attendance record.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fowler on Wednesday, June 24th, a son.

COMMANDOS POPULAR

LONDON—(CP).—Though a high physical standard, and much initiative and enterprise are demanded of all volunteers for commandos, so great is the rush for this service that only 25 per cent of the applicants can be accepted at present.

June Meeting Is Held By W.M.S.

WARSAW, June 30— (ENS). — The United Women's Association held its June meeting on Thursday afternoon in the church basement with 21 members and two visitors present, and Mrs. George Weller presiding. Mrs. George Taylor reported on the fixing of the bulletin board and the treasurer reported a balance of $7.97. The flower treasurer had a balance of $7.78. It was decided not to have a meeting in July. The usual lunch at the close of the meeting will still be served, but any article containing sugar will not be allowed. The hostesses were Mrs. John Morgan, Mrs. Harold Payne, and Mrs. David Taylor.

Mission Band Meets.

The Mission Band held its meeting on Saturday afternoon in the Presbyterian Church. The worship service was given in four parts by Carl Snelgrove, Joan Jackson Bernice and Barbara Cuffe. The regular meetings will be abandoned for the holiday months, but one all-day meeting will be held in July and another in August.

After the meeting the children were all taken to the Back Dam by Mrs. Snelgrove for a picnic supper.

SCORING TWO IN NINTH WESTCLOX GIRLS DEFEAT BRINTONS 6 TO 5

Luckies Squeeze Out Win From Soldiers

Luckies apparently forgot this was Army Week for they climbed back into second place in the City League race last night by beating the Soldiers in a free-hitting eleven innings game at Riverside Park by 12 runs to 11.

It was a see-saw battle with both teams taking turns in leading and the result was in doubt until the last man was out.

Ken Fleming went the whole route for the losers and was touched up for 18 hits. Dal Taylor started on the hilltop for Luckies and was relieved by Bill Lewis in the fifth with the bases loaded and nobody out. The Soldiers eventually got four runs in that frame and added two more in the sixth but Lewis levelled away after that and blanked the lads from the Camp for the last last five innings.

There was plenty of long-distance hitting. Nick Sero and Herrick hit homers for the Soldiers and Luckies should have had a pair too but Hawks lost one when a baserunner was called out for leaving the base too soon and his long drive to deep left was wiped out and Joe Stewart robbed himself of one by falling at first base and having to pull up at third.

Stewart led the Luckies' attack with a triple, double and two singles in six trips to the plate while Frank McCormick had a double and three singles and Bill Lewis a double and two singles.

For Soldiers Herrick had a homer and a double and Ken Fleming did the best in his own cause with three singles.

The fielding feature was contributed by Tony McIlveen, left fielder for the Soldiers who went deep to grab a long fly from Joe Stewart, juggling it but finally making sure of the catch.

Luckies Start Scoring

Luckies started the scoring with three in the second. With one out Lewis singled to centre and Jameson was safe when Sero fumbled his slow roller. McCormick singled to centre and went all the way round when Mortimer let the ball roll through, Lewis and Jameson scoring ahead of the batter.

With two out in the Soldier half McCormick dropped Herrick's fly to left and the batter reached second to score on McKerrigan's single to centre.

Luckies came back with one in the third. A. Caccavella got a life when Herrick dropped Sero's throw but was forced by Hawks. Stewart singled to centre sending the runner to third and he scored on Moorhead's tap to Sero who threw home too late.

A walk to Doug Mortimer, a wild pitch and Fleming's hit to the box gave Soldiers a run in their half.

In the fourth for Luckies Patterson doubled to centre with one out and scored on Taylor's single to right. Taylor was forced by A. Caccavella. Hawks hit what would have been an easy homer to deep left centre but Caccavella was called out for leaving the base to soon and the hit was wasted.

Soldiers tied it up in their half. Herrick started with a long homer to deep left. McKerrigan walked, advanced on a wild pitch and registered on Barnes' single to right, the hitter going to second on the throw-in. Jackson fanned and Mortimer flied to McCormick but McIlveen's scratch infield single scored Barnes with the tieing run.

A single by Joe Stewart, Jackson's error on Moorhead's roller and a single to left by Lewis put Luckies ahead 6 to 5 in the fifth but the Soldiers came back with four to take the lead. Fleming opened with a single to right and Kilfolyle and Herrick walked to load the sacks. Lewis came in from right field to take over the pitching and cut loose with a wild pitch scoring Fleming. McKerrigan walked. Barnes and Jackson struck out but Mortimer doubled to left, McCormick failing to make a shoe string catch and Kilfolyle, Herrick and McKerrigan all scored. McIlveen popped to Lewis. That made the score 9 to 6 for the Soldiers.

It was the Luckies' turn for a big inning in the sixth. Patterson was safe on Sero's error. M. Caccavella flied out but A. Caccavella singled and Hawks followed with another. Stewart's long flyout to McIlveen and doubles by Moorhead and Lewis sent four runs across and the ultimate winners were ahead 10 to 9.

Sero tied it up in the Soldier half with a clean homer between left and centre. Fleming grounded out but Kilfolyle was awarded first base on interference by the catcher, went to second on an error and scored on McKerrigan's single to left to put Soldiers in front 11 to 10.

With one out in the eighth Stewart poled a long one to deep left field that should have been a homer but he fell at first and only reached third. Moorhead walked. Lewis boomed a fly to Mortimer and Stewart went home with the equalizer after the catch.

The teams battled on until the eleventh when McCormick doubled to centre, Mortimer just failing to make a running grab. He should have been out going to third but Jackson missed the relay and he was safe. Patterson flied out for the second out but M. Caccavella rolled a single over second to send in the winning run. Soldiers went out in order and that was that.

Yankees Slump Soon To End

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, June 30 — (AP). — President Ed Barrow of the Yankees is extremely cool and collected about the present so-called plight of his ball club, which has had its lead over the American League sliced down to 5½ games and is groaning with its accumulated ailments and injuries.

"Don't think we need to get excited about things yet," said the veteran soothingly. "Were just in a slump right now and I guess we'll get over it. Anyway, we always have. As a matter of fact, we're in a better position now than we were at this time last season.

"Nope, I'm not thinking about buying or trading any players nor will I ask for any help from our farm clubs. We don't operate that way. We'll play it out with what we have, no matter what happens."

Which team, he was asked, did he thing stands the best chance of overhauling the Yanks—Boston Red Sox or Cleveland?

"I've said all along that three clubs had about equal chances of beating us, the Red Sox, the Indians and Detroit. I still think Detroit has a dangerous club. Del Baker has some fine pitchers."

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The standing of No. 1 group remains just about the same as it did before last night's schedule games were played. Nearly all the leading rinks kept up their winning streak and we'll have to wait until the break comes before we can give any further details regarding this group.

The most amusing part of last night's play was the interest shown in a certain game by members of other rinks, who are well up in the running. Time after time we noticed a couple of fellows leave their own game and slip over a couple of greens to see how another rink was doing. Here's the point. They themselves were well up and they were hoping that another rink of high standing would slip a little and by so doing it would brighten their chances. It was interesting and amusing.

The chairman of the greens committee has asked us to make this announcement. Hereafter when any of the ladies wish to play on Monday afternoon or Friday afternoon they are asked to contact the greens committee and make the necessary arrangements.

Mr. M. Lyle, who has been on the sick list for sometime, received a real welcome from the boys last evening. It was his first appearance of the season.

It looks as if the men's tournament for tomorow is going over the top. Up till last night there were 20 entries. We remind the boys that the games start at 1:30 o'clock. Three 12-end games, 2-1-0 system, and playoffs is necessary.

The ladies' tournament is billed for 2 o'clock. Be on time.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The double-header arranged for Dominion Day evening as part of Army Week program and in aid of that most worthy fund organised to send cigarettes to soldiers overseas has apparently caught the interest of the fans, according to current comment. There will be two games and both should be real battles. The 4th Battery team which includes a lot of good softballers including Eddie Starr, Don Crowe, Jim Ellis and Bun Kingdon, will clash with the Military Training Centre team at 5.30 o'clock in an exhibition game that should be a thriller as both outfits are dead anxious to win. The Camp team will comprise the regular City League outfit. At 7 o'clock Juveniles, fresh from their win over Luckies the other night will clash with Royals in a City League game and it should be a real tussle. Royals took a bad lacing the last time out but they are still full of fight and hope to improve their position at the expense of Juveniles. Fraser will likely pitch for Royals while the Juveniles are likely to call upon Bev Gray who did a nice job of relief pitching in Friday night's victory over Luckies.

* * * * * *

Soldiers and Luckies staged an exciting battle in the City Softball League last night. The tussle went eleven innings before Manager Griffin's team managed to push over a run to win 12 to 11 and thus climb back into second place. It was Soldiers' first defeat in four games and might easily have gone the other way. It was one of those arguments in which the lead see-saws back and forth and it kept the crowd on its toes all the way as one team swept in front only to have the other come back and take over the leadership. Luckies were without the services of Mowry behind the bat but they came through wih 18 hits. Incidentally thy trotted out George Hawks, former Royal third-sacker and his addition to the squad will not weaken their championship chances. Until he tired Taylor pitched good ball for the winners and Lewis finished strong in a relief role shutting Soldiers out in the last five innings. Nick Sero had his second homer of the season for the losers and Herrick also kicked in with a circuit clout. There was nobody on in either case. Soldiers' fielding slumped a bit and their defensive lapses beat them.

The two C.G.E. teams, Generals and Electrics will battle in the Girls' Softball League at the Ashburnham Bowl tonight and the former Porcelains are going to make a real bid to knock off their sister team, Mike O'Brien's Generals who have won five straight games. The Electrics feel that if they can get their share of the breaks they can make the league leaders know that they have been in a ball game. Mary Larmer will likly pitch for the Electrics and probably Marilyn McCarthy for the Generals. The game will be staged at 7 o'clock sharp and the girls' loop will have the stage to itself as no men's game is scheduled for tonight. Incidentally the loop had its best game of the season last night when Westclox just did manage to nose out Brintons 6 to 5 in a thriller. Brintons were down 4 to 0 when they went to bat in the first of the ninth and they pushed over five runs to take the lead. Then the Big Bens down 5 to 4 came back to score two runs in the second half of the final inning to take the decision 6 to 5. The game originally scheduled for Friday night between Westclox and Electrics has been changed to Thursday night. Teams and fans are asked to note the switch.

A Big Day At Kawartha

Tomorrow, Dominion Day, will be a big day for the men's section of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club for the important annual President, Vice-President match is scheduled to take place with the tee-off at 10 a.m. sharp. All players are requested to turn out for this game. The course is in good shape and a fine holiday program has been arranged. There will be prizes for low gross and low net scores in both handicap sections and prizes will also be given for hidden hole scores so that everybody has a chance to win. The advice of the committee is to fill up your car with golfers and have them at the first tee at 10 o'clock sharp.

* * * * * *

Incidentally the Kawartha Ladies' Section had a good hidden hole competition last Thursday with a large field of entries. The contest was divided into two sections, one for the eighteen hole players and the other for the nine hole players. The prizes were $5 war saving certificates and the winners were Mrs. Vernon Selkirk in the first section and Mrs. Bud Weese in the second.

The Industrial League had its best game of the season at Dominion Woollens field Monday night when the new entry into the loop C.G.E. Induction Motors managed to come down in front of the Canadian Watercraft team by 5 to 4 in a game marked by steady pitching and good fielding. Gunner Whitehill of baseball fame cavorted in centre field for the winners and turned in a good card. Reynolds who pitched for Induction Motors struck out five and did not give a base on balls, although he was touched for ten hits. Killingbeck, on the rubber for the losers yielded only seven hits but he walked three men. The winners only had one error in the field while four misplays were chalked up against the Watercraft combination. The batteries were Reynolds and Buck for Induction Motors and Killingbeck and McNeeley for the losers. The next game in the loop will be between Outboard Marines and Raybestos at the Woollens field Thursday night.

Surprising changes in the hockey setup for next winter are hinted at by Bill Westwick of the Ottawa Journal and the following paragraph should be of general interest as indicative of the uncertainty of the situation: "The hockey situation as it affects Ottawa is still very obscure, but there are signs of the situation clearing up....The oft-repeated suggestion that Ottawa, Cornwall and perhaps Quebec will be excluded from the Quebec League may prove correct....The Quebec League is holding fire with official announcement of anything like this happening....If that set-up should materialize, Ottawa, for one, will have a counter move which will assure some top notch hockey here....Tommy Gorman's mention in Montreal the other day that U.S. National League franchises may be switched to Canada has been discussed unofficially for many months.... The remark coming from an informed source like T. P. adds the stamp of conviction....Whether Ottawa will figure in a professional set-up is a moot point....The official announcements on that are among those being withheld....But put it in your little red book that here will be plenty of professionals, near professionals and top ranking amateurs in these parts around here next winter....Location of leagues in which to play is the least of the worries here....Get enough top-notch players and you have a league, or else you can run one up in no time at all."

Brooklyn Dodgers increased their lead over the St. Louis Cards to nine and a half games last night by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies 10 to 3, getting six runs in the ninth frame. In the only game in the American loop the Cleveland Indians gained half a game on the Boston Red Sox in the battle for second place by outlasting the Chicago White Sox 11 to 6. It was even-going in the early stages but Al Milnar tightened up as the game went on and blanked the White Sox for the last five innings.

Chill Reception For Tour Of World Series

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—The cause would be a splendid one, but it is doubtful that the 1942 World Series will be taken "on tour" for the benefit of service charities.

The movement to have the two league champions fight things out from coast to coast—possibly playing best eight of fifteen games for the championship—has received a cool reception in some baseball circles, for a variety of reasons.

Mainly, it is contended by these circles that there are no ball parks outside the big leagues with sufficient seating capacity to do much more than pay the cost of transporting and feeding the two pennant-winning clubs. They think the whole thing would be a financial failure.

Secondly, and of equal importance to baseball in general, they feel that any sort of tour or extension of the number of games to be played would take the "edge" right off the World Series and turn it into a "carnival attraction." These were the words employed by one influential official.

"We're in favor of doing everything we possibly can to help the war charities," he said. "But I'm afraid this isn't a good idea. If the fans knew the series were going to last indefinitely and maybe not be decided until the middle of winter out in San Francisco I don't think they would be greatly interested in the opening games here, or wherever they are played.

"That, of course, would ruin our receipts. And then, when the teams go on tour, where could they draw any crowds? Certainly not in other major league cities. And as soon as you go into the minor leagues you run into ball parks of between 10,000 and 15,000 seating capacity. Only Jersey City, Los Angeles and San Francisco can seat 25,000.

Might Turn "Into Farce"

"To clear any real money the two teams would have to draw capacity crowds for every game — at world series prices. I don't think they would be that interested out in Kansas City. Baseball fans are interested mostly in seeing their own clubs play, and they won't pay $4.40 to watch a couple of strange teams play an exhibition.

"Another angle is this. The players would not feel as if it was a real world series, jumping from town to town. They would get tired after about a week and turn the thing into a farce, probably. You can't expect a bunch of athletes to stay at fever heat for weeks on end.

"What, for instance, if we settled the series in the clubs' home parks and then went on tour? Nobody would want to see them then. And what if we made it eight out of fifteen and one team clinched it after ten games, say, in Columbus, Ohio. That would leave five more to be played out in the wide open spaces. Can you picture the fans breaking down the fences at Los Angeles to see the fifteenth contest? Neither can I."

Up to now, there is nothing official about the proposal. That is, officials of the various service charity funds have not asked that the series be extended for their benefit. It is doubtful if they will if they discuss it first with a few baseball men.

Brintons Score All Runs In Last Innings

Westclox and Brintons staged the best game of the season in the Girls' Softball League at the Bowl Monday night the former finally winning by scoring two run in the last half of the ninth to win 6 to 5 after the Brintons had chased five over in the first half of the frame and got in front for the first time.

It was a real battle. For six innings it was a tight pitching argument between Marg. Watson on the hilltop for Westclox and Leila Hughes on the firing line for Brintons and the only run in the six frames was a home run by Eunice Armstrong, third batter in the second half of the first inning. Westclox added to their lead by scoring two in the seventh and adding another in the eighth with the result that when Brintons went to bat in the first of the 9th they were down 4 to 0 and had only secured one hit off the delivery of Marg. Watson. Ethel Basciano opened the inning with a double and M. Miller followed with a single and before the Clockmakers could get the side out the Carpet team had banged out five hits and scored as many runs and were in front 5 to 4.

However the Westclockers were not to be denied. A single by Eunice Armstrong, a double by Marg. Hawthorne and two errors enabled them to push a pair of runs over in the second half of the ninth to take the ball game. It was a thrilling innig all round.

Marg. Watson held the losers to six hits. The Westclockers made 13 off the delivery of Leila Hughes but the latter was effective with runners in scoring position.

The fielding gem was contributed by Marg. Batley, at first base for the losers, who speared a hard-hit drive down the first base line in big league style. Eunice Armstrong hit a homer and two singles to lead the Westclockers at bat while none of the losers had more than one hit.

NEW YORK, June 30 — (AP). — President Ed Barrow of the Yankees is extremely cool and collected about the present so-called plight of his ball club, which has had its lead over the American League sliced down to 5½ games and is groaning with its accumulated ailments and injuries.

"Don't think we need to get excited about things yet," said the veteran soothingly. "Were just in a slump right now and I guess we'll get over it. Anyway, we always have. As a matter of fact, we're in a better position now than we were at this time last season.

"Nope, I'm not thinking about buying or trading any players nor will I ask for any help from our farm clubs. We don't operate that way. We'll play it out with what we have, no matter what happens."

Which team, he was asked, did he thing stands the best chance of overhauling the Yanks—Boston Red Sox or Cleveland?

"I've said all along that three clubs had about equal chances of beating us, the Red Sox, the Indians and Detroit. I still think Detroit has a dangerous club. Del Baker has some fine pitchers."

The standing of No. 1 group remains just about the same as it did before last night's schedule games were played. Nearly all the leading rinks kept up their winning streak and we'll have to wait until the break comes before we can give any further details regarding this group.

The most amusing part of last night's play was the interest shown in a certain game by members of other rinks, who are well up in the running. Time after time we noticed a couple of fellows leave their own game and slip over a couple of greens to see how another rink was doing. Here's the point. They themselves were well up and they were hoping that another rink of high standing would slip a little and by so doing it would brighten their chances. It was interesting and amusing.

The chairman of the greens committee has asked us to make this announcement. Hereafter when any of the ladies wish to play on Monday afternoon or Friday afternoon they are asked to contact the greens committee and make the necessary arrangements.

Mr. M. Lyle, who has been on the sick list for sometime, received a real welcome from the boys last evening. It was his first appearance of the season.

It looks as if the men's tournament for tomorrow is going over the top. Up till last night there were 20 entries. We remind the boys that the games start at 1:30 o'clock. Three 12-end games, 2-1-0 system, and playoffs is necessary.

The ladies' tournament is billed for 2 o'clock. Be on time.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The double-header arranged for Dominion Day evening as part of Army Week program and in aid of that most worthy fund organized to send cigarettes to soldiers overseas has apparently caught the interest of the fans, according to current comment. There will be two games and both should be real battles. The 4th Battery team which includes a lot of good softballers including Eddie Starr, Don Crowe, Jim Ellis and Bun Kingdon, will clash with the Military Training Centre team at 5.30 o'clock in an exhibition game that should be a thriller as both outfits are dead anxious to win. The Camp team will comprise the regular City League outfit. At 7 o'clock Juveniles, fresh from their win over Luckies the other night will clash with Royals in a City League game and it should be a real tussle. Royals took a bad lacing the last time out but they are still full of fight and hope to improve their position at the expense of Juveniles. Fraser will likely pitch for Royals while the Juveniles are likely to call upon Bev Gray who did a nice job of relief pitching in Friday night's victory over Luckies.

* * * * * *

Soldiers and Luckies staged an exciting battle in the City Softball League last night. The tussle went eleven innings before Manager Griffin's team managed to push over a run to win 12 to 11 and thus climb back into second place. It was Soldiers' first defeat in four games and might easily have gone the other way. It was one of those arguments in which the lead see-saws back and forth and it kept the crowd on its toes all the way as one team swept in front only to have the other come back and take over the leadership. Luckies were without the services of Mowry behind the bat but they came through wih 18 hits. Incidentally thy trotted out George Hawks, former Royal third-sacker and his addition to the squad will not weaken their championship chances. Until he tired Taylor pitched good ball for the winners and Lewis finished strong in a relief role shutting Soldiers out in the last five innings. Nick Sero had his second homer of the season for the losers and Herrick also kicked in with a circuit clout. There was nobody on in either case. Soldiers' fielding slumped a bit and their defensive lapses beat them.

The two C.G.E. teams, Generals and Electrics will battle in the Girls' Softball League at the Ashburnham Bowl tonight and the former Porcelains are going to make a real bid to knock off their sister team, Mike O'Brien's Generals who have won five straight games. The Electrics feel that if they can get their share of the breaks they can make the league leaders know that they have been in a ball game. Mary Larmer will likly pitch for the Electrics and probably Marilyn McCarthy for the Generals. The game will be staged at 7 o'clock sharp and the girls' loop will have the stage to itself as no men's game is scheduled for tonight. Incidentally the loop had its best game of the season last night when Westclox just did manage to nose out Brintons 6 to 5 in a thriller. Brintons were down 4 to 0 when they went to bat in the first of the ninth and they pushed over five runs to take the lead. Then the Big Bens down 5 to 4 came back to score two runs in the second half of the final inning to take the decision 6 to 5. The game originally scheduled for Friday night between Westclox and Electrics has been changed to Thursday night. Teams and fans are asked to note the switch.

A Big Day At Kawartha

Tomorrow, Dominion Day, will be a big day for the men's section of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club for the important annual President, Vice-President match is scheduled to take place with the tee-off at 10 a.m. sharp. All players are requested to turn out for this game. The course is in good shape and a fine holiday program has been arranged. There will be prizes for low gross and low net scores in both handicap sections and prizes will also be given for hidden hole scores so that everybody has a chance to win. The advice of the committee is to fill up your car with golfers and have them at the first tee at 10 o'clock sharp.

* * * * * *

Incidentally the Kawartha Ladies' Section had a good hidden hole competition last Thursday with a large field of entries. The contest was divided into two sections, one for the eighteen hole players and the other for the nine hole players. The prizes were $5 war saving certificates and the winners were Mrs. Vernon Selkirk in the first section and Mrs. Bud Weese in the second.

The Industrial League had its best game of the season at Dominion Woollens field Monday night when the new entry into the loop C.G.E. Induction Motors managed to come down in front of the Canadian Watercraft team by 5 to 4 in a game marked by steady pitching and good fielding. Gunner Whitehill of baseball fame cavorted in centre field for the winners and turned in a good card. Reynolds who pitched for Induction Motors struck out five and did not give a base on balls, although he was touched for ten hits. Killingbeck, on the rubber for the losers yielded only seven hits but he walked three men. The winners only had one error in the field while four misplays were chalked up against the Watercraft combination. The batteries were Reynolds and Buck for Induction Motors and Killingbeck and McNeeley for the losers. The next game in the loop will be between Outboard Marines and Raybestos at the Woollens field Thursday night.

Surprising changes in the hockey setup for next winter are hinted at by Bill Westwick of the Ottawa Journal and the following paragraph should be of general interest as indicative of the uncertainty of the situation: "The hockey situation as it affects Ottawa is still very obscure, but there are signs of the situation clearing up....The oft-repeated suggestion that Ottawa, Cornwall and perhaps Quebec will be excluded from the Quebec League may prove correct....The Quebec League is holding fire with official announcement of anything like this happening....If that set-up should materialize, Ottawa, for one, will have a counter move which will assure some top notch hockey here....Tommy Gorman's mention in Montreal the other day that U.S. National League franchises may be switched to Canada has been discussed unofficially for many months..... The remark coming from an informed source like T. P. adds the stamp of conviction....Whether Ottawa will figure in a professional set-up is a moot point....The official announcements on that are among those being withheld....But put it in your little red book that here will be plenty of professionals, near professionals and top ranking amateurs in these parts around here next winter....Location of leagues in which to play is the least of the worries here....Get enough top-notch players and you have a league, or else you can run one up in no time at all."

Brooklyn Dodgers increased their lead over the St. Louis Cards to nine and a half games last night by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies 10 to 3, getting six runs in the ninth frame. In the only game in the American loop the Cleveland Indians gained half a game on the Boston Red Sox in the battle for second place by outlasting the Chicago White Sox 11 to 6. It was even-going in the early stages but Al Milnar tightened up as the game went on and blanked the White Sox for the last five innings.

Chill Reception For Tour Of World Series

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—The cause would be a splendid one, but it is doubtful that the 1942 World Series will be taken "on tour" for the benefit of service charities.

The movement to have the two league champions fight things out from coast to coast—possibly playing best eight of fifteen games for the championship—has received a cool reception in some baseball circles, for a variety of reasons.

Mainly, it is contended by these circles that there are no ball parks outside the big leagues with sufficient seating capacity to do much more than pay the cost of transporting and feeding the two pennant-winning clubs. They think the whole thing would be a financial failure.

Secondly, and of equal importance to baseball in general, they feel that any sort of tour or extension of the number of games to be played would take the "edge" right off the World Series and turn it into a "carnival attraction." These were the words employed by one influential official.

"We're in favor of doing everything we possibly can to help the war charities," he said. "But I'm afraid this isn't a good idea. If the fans knew the series were going to last indefinitely and maybe not be decided until the middle of winter out in San Francisco I don't think they would be greatly interested in the opening games here, or wherever they are played.

"That, of course, would ruin our receipts. And then, when the teams go on tour, where could they draw any crowds? Certainly not in other major league cities. And as soon as you go into the minor leagues you run into ball parks of between 10,000 and 15,000 seating capacity. Only Jersey City, Los Angeles and San Francisco can seat 25,000.

Might Turn "Into Farce"

"To clear any real money the two teams would have to draw capacity crowds for every game — at world series prices. I don't think they would be that interested out in Kansas City. Baseball fans are interested mostly in seeing their own clubs play, and they won't pay $4.40 to watch a couple of strange teams play an exhibition.

"Another angle is this. The players would not feel as if it was a real world series, jumping from town to town. They would get tired after about a week and turn the thing into a farce, probably. You can't expect a bunch of athletes to stay at fever heat for weeks on end.

"What, for instance, if we settled the series in the clubs' home parks and then went on tour? Nobody would want to see them then. And what if we made it eight out of fifteen and one team clinched it after ten games, say, in Columbus, Ohio. That would leave five more to be played out in the wide open spaces. Can you picture the fans breaking down the fences at Los Angeles to see the fifteenth contest? Neither can I."

Up to now, there is nothing official about the proposal. That is, officials of the various service charity funds have not asked that the series be extended for their benefit. It is doubtful if they will if they discuss it first with a few baseball men.

Brintons Score All Runs In Last Innings

Westclox and Brintons staged the best game of the season in the Girls' Softball League at the Bowl Monday night the former finally winning by scoring two run in the last half of the ninth to win 6 to 5 after the Brintons had chased five over in the first half of the frame and got in front for the first time.

It was a real battle. For six innings it was a tight pitching argument between Marg. Watson on the hilltop for Westclox and Leila Hughes on the firing line for Brintons and the only run in the six frames was a home run by Eunice Armstrong, third batter in the second half of the first inning. Westclox added to their lead by scoring two in the seventh and adding another in the eighth with the result that when Brintons went to bat in the first of the 9th they were down 4 to 0 and had only secured one hit off the delivery of Marg. Watson. Ethel Basciano opened the inning with a double and M. Miller followed with a single and before the Clockmakers could get the side out the Carpet team had banged out five hits and scored as many runs and were in front 5 to 4.

However the Westclockers were not to be denied. A single by Eunice Armstrong, a double by Marg. Hawthorne and two errors enabled them to push a pair of runs over in the second half of the ninth to take the ball game. It was a thrilling innig all round.

Marg. Watson held the losers to six hits. The Westclockers made 13 off the delivery of Leila Hughes but the latter was effective with runners in scoring position.

The fielding gem was contributed by Marg. Batley, at first base for the losers, who speared a hard-hit drive down the first base line in big league style. Eunice Armstrong hit a homer and two singles to lead the Westclockers at bat while none of the losers had more than one hit.

"Spearhead of Victory"

AN ARMY EVERY CANADIAN MAY WELL BE PROUD OF

◆ Crouched and poised, with disciplined impatience, waiting to pounce at the enemy, is Canada's great army which will form the spearhead of that decisive offensive just about to be—"a dagger pointed at the heart of Hitler."

That something, that the vastness and ruggedness of this great country imparts to men who have still a strong strain of pioneer blood in their veins, has made possible the mustering of an army unsurpassed for physical fitness, and which in mental mould and moral might is the most magnificent that has ever set forth to defend the freedoms and uphold the honor of this young and virile nation of ours.

We, of Massey-Harris, are naturally proud that many from the various divisions and branches of our far-flung organization are serving in the ranks of this great army. It is gratifying, also, that the thousands in our several plants are permitted to play an important part in providing the machines and munitions so essential to the success of that army in modern mechanized warfare.

And the great Canadian Army which has, as our Minister of National Defence says, "a larger proportion of armored troops than any army in the world," will be a decisive factor in hastening the day of victory.

TIGERS PROPOSE BASEBALL SEASON BE SLASHED TO TWO MONTHS

Leafs Outscore Bisons 2-1; Royals Lose 8-6

By the Associated Press.

Copying their parent New York Yankee Club, which is having its difficulties in the American League, Newark Bears are dropping back and becoming sociable with the remainder of the International Baseball League.

The Bears went out in front by a big margin, shortly after the season got under way, but the lead has been whittled down in recent weeks, and they now lead Montreal Royals by only 3½ games.

And the only reason Montreal isn't within 2½ games of the lead is that Rochester Red Wings went berserk in the final inning of their contest with the Royals last night, hammered out four runs and won 8-6.

The big blow of the late uprising was Gene Lillard's home run with one on. Two of the Royals' four errors sent the other two tallies across the plate in that frame.

A home run by Hank Edwards, with one on, clinched a 6-4 verdict for Baltimore over the Bears. The four-master was one of four hit during the evening. Sherry Robertson deadlocking the count at 4-4 in the eighth with a three-run homer.

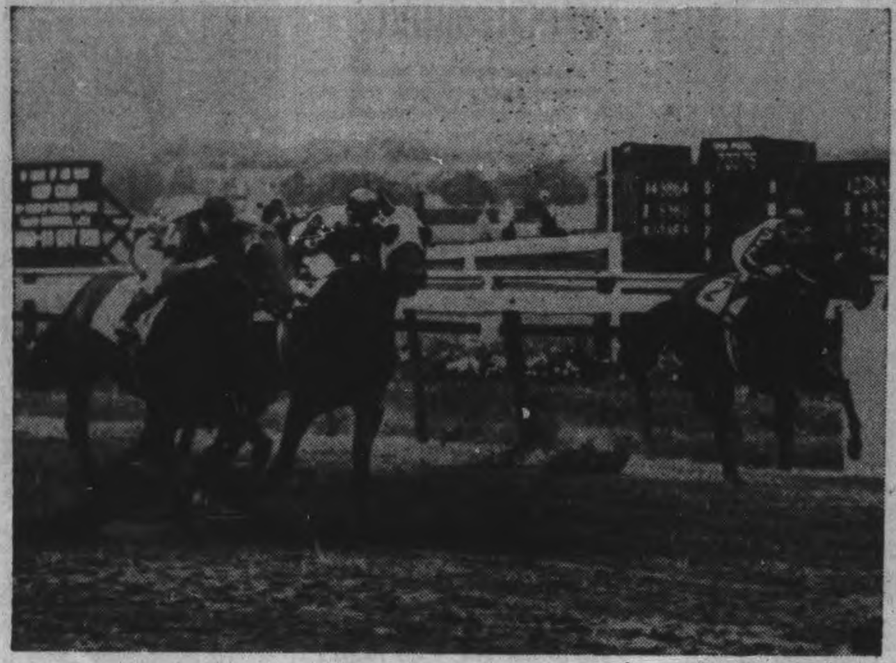
The league's remaining two games were mound duels both decided by one-run margins.

At Buffalo, Tom Pullig of the Bisons and Harry Shuman of Toronto each hurled shutout ball for seven innings, and although the final count was 2-1 in Toronto's favor, neither was around at the finish.

Pullig was touched for a run in the eighth and the deciding tally came off Jack Tising in the ninth. Buffalo rallied in its half of the final, but Joe Bowman relieved Shuman after one runner was across.

Tommy Delacruz, former Jersey City player but now with Syracuse Chiefs, stopped the Little Giants effectively 2-1. He had only one bad inning, the eighth when Jersey City counted on Johnny Rucker's single and Joe Orengo's double.

Whirlaway Sets Track Record In Winning This One



In winning this race at Aqueduct race track, Long Island, N.Y., Whirlaway, Warren Wright's great four-year-old, set a track record of 1.49 2-5 for the mile and an eighth distance. Whirlaway picked up $2,275 to boost his lifetime earnings to $380,836, still needing $50,894 to top Seabiscuit's all-time high money-winning mark. Attention was second and Swing and Sway third in this race. Whirlaway is on the outside here, Attention, centre, and Swing and Sway on the rail.

Race Experts See Fighting Finn Ace's Only Worry

WINNIPEG, June 30.—Fighting Finn is rated by racing experts as the greatest Western challenger in the $5,000 added Canadian Derby this year, but no one, least of all Owner J. N. Pitts of Winnipeg, expects the Finn to beat the mighty Eastern champion, Ten To Ace.

Pitts, who announced yesterday he will start both the Finn and Broom's Sentry in the mile and a quarter classic for Canadian-bred 3-year-olds, said: "We can't beat Ten To Ace, I'll tell you that...but we're going to try."

Pitts said it would be a good show if Harry Giddings' thoroughbred colt from Oakville was out of it.

Impressive Record

Fighting Finn, bred at the Whittier Park Stock Farm here, has the most impressive record of the 36 Western eligibles. As a 2-year-old he won twice at Vancouver and once at Calgary. This season in six races under a mile and a quarter, the Finn won three, was second twice and out of the money once.

L. R. Knifong, of Austin, Tex., said he will start Panbroom, ranked as a "dark horse" by turfmen, but one of the most improved 3-year-olds entered.

"Panbroom has as good a chance as any of the Western breds," Knifong said. "But I don't think any horse will beat the Ace."

Panbroom showed nothing as a juvenile. Coming back from claiming races he chalked up a victory and was third the last two times against fast company .

Strong Finisher

Starting last in a mile event on a slow track Saturday, Panbroom trailed the other six horses into the stretch and then began a drive that gave him third money, being beaten by Fighting Finn and an American horse, Can-Jones, the winner, who is not eligible for the Derby.

Knifong said Panbroom will show better at the longer Derby distance and that a fast track will be in his favor. Another owner, Dan. J. Kennedy of Winnipeg, believes Panbroom "has a chance of pulling a Derby surprise."

Kennedy said his colt, Renton Barry, will not enter because of a bad knee.

Kennedy, like other owners, said he has great respect for Ten To Ace. The son of Stand Pat and winner of the King's Plate at Toronto breezed through six furlongs Saturday in the fastest time recorded on a Winnipeg track for a workout. The time was 1:14.

The Ace won the mile and an eighth Plate on a mud track. Only Western gelding showing well on a heavy strip this season was Amsterson, owned by H. J. Christie of Calgary.

Besides the Pitts entry, Panbroom and Amsterson, other likely entries are Witch's Taxi, outstanding Western 2-year-old last season and owned by J. J. Ross of Vancouver, and Maginot Line from L. H. Appleby's Vancouver stable.

It is also possible Captain Stanley Harrison of Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask., will start his Hard Forrard and J. R. Edwards of Chilliwack, B.C., will run his Valeuah Craig in the Derby.

Would Shelve Southern Training Trip

DETROIT, Jnue 30 — (AP). — The Detroit Tigers came to bat to-day with proposals that the baseball season of yore be reduced by two months, and that the southern spring training program be abandoned.

Offering each as a war measure, General Manager Jack Zeller of the Tigers said he would present his ideas to the annual midsummer meeting of the American League club owners in New York on July 1.

One dovetails into the other Zeller said, with the spring training to be carried on in the park at home during the period which now constitutes the first month of the playing schedule. Under Zeller's plan, the season would finish one month earlier.

Zeller said he proposed elimination of the southern training out of a fear that there might be a housing shortage in the south as far as major leaguers were concerned next year in view of expanding military facilities. Furthermore, he said, there should be no intrusion on the Army.

The Tiger boss mentioned, for example, that the Government was taking over hotels in Miami and Miami Beach, Fla., to house the Air Corps trainees. He expressed doubt the Tigers' own spring base at Lakeland, Fla., would be available in 1943 because the town has become a training centre for American and British pilots.

WINNIPEG, June 30—(CP).—Remember the automobile? Judge Bill (Montreal Gazette) Morrison recalls the day back in 1908 at Blue Bonnets race track when he and his confreres had their eyes glued to the sighting iron as a field pounded down the stretch. Suddenly an excited attendance burst into; the stand and shouted: "Judges, Judges! There are 50 automobiles parked here today. It's a record—never had so many of them new-fangled machines before. Maybe they'll be dashing up with the same news this time next year.

"The young fry probably will elect to complete the season in the West and when you come to think of it they couldn't choose a more promising course," says Herb. "Those half-mile tracks out West—bull rings some people call them—have played their part in development of more good race riders on this continent than perhaps any other group of ovals anywhere. Callura Fades To Dell-Orto

NEW ORLEANS, June 30—(CP)—A badly cut eye from a collision of heads in the sixth round failed to stop Vince Dell-Orto of New York and he went on to win a 10-round decision from Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont., here last night.

The Canadian featherweight champion entered the ring an 8-5 favorite, and for seven rounds his backers were well pleased as he proved fast and aggressive, throwing hooks from all directions to pile up an early lead. But the very speed of Calluras attack worked against him in the late rounds.

Under blazing overhead arc lights, with the temperature humid, Callura's energy began ebbing in the seventh and from then on the Canadian champion, whose weaving, boring-in attack had made him a difficult target, was easier to hit. In the last three rounds Dell-Orto had things largely his own way as he piled up points to win an unanimous decision.

DurocherBanned Three Days But Dodgers Win

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Leo Durocher, chief of the babbling Brooks, earned the nickname of the All-American Out during his sojourn as a player in the American League but he is just plain "Out" as boss of the Dodgers until Thursday.

The Brooklyn mouthpiece, who never says in ten words what he can say as easily in 1,000, has been fined $50 and suspended for three days by President Ford Frick of the National League for his run-in with the umpires Sunday.

But he was within whispering distance at Philadelphia last night as the Brooklyns pasted another half game to their National League lead in one of the day's two major league games.

Seated only 10 feet from the Dodger bench in a private box, he squirmed loudly until his charges came through with a six-run outburst in the ninth inning to quell the Philadelphia Phils before 8,066 Quakerites, 10 to 3.

In that frame the Dodgers batted all the way around to make sure that Ed Head, their rookie hurler, was successful in his fifth attempt to win his sixth game of the season. Joe Medwick, who had slacked his batting pace considerably in the past week, warmed up again with three singles in six attempts.

The triumph lifted the Dodgers nine and a half games ahead of the idle St. Louis Cardinals.

Indians Lace Sox 11-5

Action was every bit as concentrated in the American League where the Cleveland Indians retained third place by shellacking the Chicago White Sox, 11 to 5.

The Indians collected 17 hits off Lee Ross, Joe Haynes and Pete Appleton while A Milnar, touched for nine hits and five runs in the first five frames, hurled perfect ball in the final four frames.

His young battery mate, Jim Hegan, swatted four singles in four tries.

Although the Clevelanders remained in third place by a half game, their triumph may prove costly. Roy (Stormy) Weatherly, their leadoff man and centre fielder, suffered a wrenched knee in a collision with Tom Turner, White Sox catcher, in the eighth and will be out of the lineup three days.

Lakefield Ready If Call Comes For Farm Help

LAKEFIELD, June 30.—(ENS).—'No, we have had no request, nor has there been any demand for general village assistance to farmers of the surrounding countryside, with their harvest,. said Reeve C. S. Tanner, when asked by the Examiner if there had been a call for an additional half holiday in the village for that purpose.

'I have seen in the press reports of the action Millbrook has taken in this matter and it seems to me to be a good idea where the farmers seem to be having trouble getting help. Apparently the need in this section is less acute that farther south. as I have heard very little of farmers seeking extra help, outside the usual call for additional hands with the hay that comes at this time of year.

'One does hear occasionally of farmers remarking they would just as soon have no help as inexperienced helpers However, I think if they were really pressed for help there would be little objection raised to village assistance.

'Discussing the matter Monday with John McKerchar, manager of the Royal Bank, he remarked he would be game to tackle a half day or so a week on the farm in a pinch, and I think this spirit would prevail throughout the village if the demand arose for an extra half day a week to get the harvest in.

'Volunteer citizens might not be as good as farm hand but they would would help get a lot of grain in in an afternoon, put up a pile of ensilage, or cut quite a swath in a weedy turnips field—yet, and not cut out all the turnips either

'The council has not discussed this matter but if the call arises for action you'll find the members ready with full support.'

J. A. Bonnier (Lib. Montreal-St. Henri).

At a question time, Dr. H. A. Bruce (Con. Toronto - Parkdale) asked for a statement on the Government attitude toward Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, and Rene Chaloult, Quebec Legislative Assembly member for Lotbiniere, in view of an editorial in the Toronto Star on the actions brought against both members under defence of Canada regulations. The question was ruled out of order because of the rules against referring to matters before the courts.

Seat Open for Power

Mr. Cruickshank said that his British Columbia seat would be available to Air Minister Power if the Air Minister should lose his Quebec South seat because of Maj. Power's stand on the conscription-enabling bill.

Maj. Power told the House Friday that manpower plebiscite revealed that a majority of his constituents were opposed to his views on conscription for overseas, and if this difference continued they could exercise their right to be represented by someone more in accord with their views.

Mr. McLarty said he was wholeheartedly in support of the bill and considered in the natural and inevitable result of the manpower plebiscite. The moral right had been given to amend the Mobilization Act and the Government could do no more than take the legal right.

The total vote represented an affirmative vote of 64.2 per cent. He believed figures indicated that Canada was doing more per capita than any of the United Nations. The Dominion had expended $4,000,000,000, made a tremendous increase in the manufacture of airplanes, increased naval forces and the output of mechanized units required by the army. But the effect of these achievements was lost in the opinion of the United Nations because of the limitation on where men might serve.

An Enemy Decision?

Canada could not choose where the war would be fought, and the place of battle was a matter for the decision of the enemy. Canada should be free to operate in every part of the world where action seemed necessary for the effective prosecution of the war.

Democratic system of government included respect for the special interests of groups and minorities and the result was a balanced compromise. Canada was fighting for her survival as a nation and the issue was whether the very conditions for the assertion of minority rights should be lost or preserved.

No minority in any situation could claim the right to refuse to accept the legally ascertained judgment of the state as to the measures to be taken for its own salvation.

"Could any province claim to confine its own forces to its own boundaries?" asked Mr. McLarty, "or to Canada?

"And if not to Canada, what limitation can be placed on the decision constitutionally made? What is there in any conception of constitutionalism to give countenance to such a claim?

"Are we to stand on the shore till the enemy lands? Or meet him one mile, two miles, 1,000 or 2,000 on land or sea? It is either that the strategy of preserving our state shall be confided absolutely to the majority or that the minority shall have the right to pronounce upon all of us our own sentence of death."

C.C.F. Co-operation, Too.

Mr. Cruickshank said that if he made his Fraser Valley seat available to Maj. Power he believed the C.C.F. and Conservative Parties would co-operate in seeing that the minister was elected there unanimously.

His riding believed in total war and meant conscription of every kind. Nothing that any member of the House or anyone in Canada could do was enough under present circumstances. He believed in compulsory selective service.

"Is there any greater assistance we can give to the skunk of all skunks; to the runt of all runts, Mussolini; to the punk of all punks, Hirohito than to criticize Canada's war efforts?" he asked.

"....I am a British Columbian and I am a Canadian, but above all I am a Britisher. Being a Britisher is above being a Canadian, being a British Columbian, or being a member of any political party."

Mr. Cruickshank, a veteran of the First Great War, said he was "rather ashamed" of not being in uniform.

"I have not got a son, but if I happened to have a son.....if he did not join the Army of his own accord, by God, I would shoot him myself. That is what I think of the British Empire."

Tricks At Night.

Flt. Sgt. Clarence Higgins of Charlottetown, turned the tables on a Nazi fighter on the way to Bremen A Messerschmitt sighted the Canadian plane silhouetted against the moon, but Higgins, who swung out as the Nazi dived, said: "When he came out of his dive we were chasing him." The Messerschmitt quickly faded into the moonlit sky.

Back home, Higgins found he still was carrying some live incendiaries which had failed to drop, but he landed the plane safely. His crew was made up of Flt. Sgts. John Potter, Nanaimo, B.C.; L. J. Boucher, Grandfalls, N.B., and Sgt. N. W. Morrison Winnipeg.

Shifting cloud and ground haze over the target area made precise observation of damage difficult but returning crews reported new fires started in various sectors.

"I saw one big one over towards the east," saaid Fo. Homer Forbes of Tatagamouche, N.S.

"The trip was not as bad as I thought it would be," said Sgt. Richard Fernyhough of Victoria, B.C., who was making his first flight against the enemy in a plane carrying Sgts. J. R. P. Burke, Montreal, Jack Campbell, The Pas, Man., Flt. Sgts. W. L. Dark, Edmonton and J. L. Page, Quebec.

The Moscow radio announced that Britain and Russia had signed an agreement Saturday providing for delivery of British military supplies to the Soviet Union on a lease-lend basis retroactive to June 22, 1941, the day of the German invasion.

DEBRETT'S OPENS UP

LONDON — (CP). — Exclusive pages of "Debrett's Peerage" will be opened in next edition to holders of the George Cross and names of "common folk" who have won the Emipre's highest civilian award for gallantry will appear with those of peers, baronets and others of ancient lineage.

Hong Kong Men From Centre Well Trained

Rotarians were told Monday that civilians had very little real idea of just what work was being carried on at the basic training centre. Lieut. J. S. Johnson said that untrained men receive such training that at the end of eight weeks the boys are ready to take advanced training in the various branches of the service, and six weeks later are fully trained and ready for overseas. In speaking about the Hong Kong affair he said that the 100 men from this Centre who left with units were well trained.

Lieut. Johnson was well qualified to speak on the subject of soldiering. He has been 27 years a soldier and enlisted at the age of 17. A member of the Imperial Army until March, 1921, he then transferred to the Canadian Army where he has seen service continuously. He has been in the camp at Peterborough for the past 12 months.

Army Is Changed

The army of today is totally different from that of yesterday even to the clothes they wear and the guns they use, the speaker said. There is no room for outmoded methods and everyone has to keep up to date. That is the reason for the basic training centres. It was explained that when war broke out the Canadian Army was next to nothing, and was purely voluntary. Now the Canadian Army is a first class fighting force, the finest in the world.

Every month the Training Centre here supplies the army with trained personnel, and it holds the honor of being the second best in the Dominion.

Has To Learn

"The soldier that comes to us is not a soldier. Most of the men arrive in civilian clothes and know nothing about the work. In the first week of training they begin to adapt themselves as soldiers, though there are a few who try not to fit in, and they are properly dealt with. The boys are given their uniforms as soon as they come and then they are one of the Camp, and they really begin to go through it. Their day starts at 6:30 a.m. and continues until 4:30 or 5:30 p.m."

Compact Unit

Lieut. Johnson said that the Peterborough Centre had full facilities not only for training, but to go into the field and meet the enemy. It is a compact unit, with all the necessary branches, and is self-contained. The camp has all its own services and the whole purpose is to train the soldier to meet the enemy. He said that at the present time the total strength of the camp is about 1050, and every month some leave and some join. There is a continuous influx of new recruits.

The difference between the private soldier and the civilian is that he is responsible to both civil and military authorities. As soon as he joins, a soldier is told that he is also a civilian and that soldiering is secondary to civilian life.

Wide Range of Subjects

"Drilling is not all that is taught at the Training Centre, in fact it is only 10 per cent. There is bayonet fighting, the instruction in the use of several types of guns, and even military law. All this is with a view to Commando training and other fields in advanced training. It is only due to this strict training received at the Centre that a man can be ready for advanced training in eight weeks, and not every place has the same high standard as the camp in this district."

Ready for Service

The speaker said that he wished to make a statement about the 100 soldiers who went from this centre to Hong Kong. "It has been said that the men were not adequately trained, and this is certainly not true of Peterborough. Every man that went from here was fully trained and ready for service."

"Too many people think that the officers are the nobility of the army. This is not so. They are just as strictly disciplined as the private soldier and have been through everything that he has. The officers have to go through the private's routine time and time again. The N.C.O. force, which is permanent in this city is the backbone of the Centre, and they know their training."

Private R. V. Abrahams, who was one of the 20 boys entertained by the Rotarians at dinner, delighted his audience with three expressively-sung songs, "On The Road To Mandalay," "Were You There?" and "The Old Road." His numbers were most enthusiastically received.

When it came time to introduce the guests, the men in uniform were asked to rise and give their name, home town and the branch of service with which they were connected. Then Rotarian Art Cauley extended an invitation to the men and officers to attend the Capitol Theatre Monday afternoon. The men who were entertained had all enlisted for overseas and were sons of men who belonged to service clubs in their own community.

Dr. George S. Easton occupied the chair for the last time as president for the past year.

Acting Governor

In the interval between the departure of Lord Gort and the arrival of the new governor, General Mason MacFarlane, the King appointed Vice-Admiral Sir George F. B. Edward-Collins, K. C. B., K.C.V.D., as acting governor of Gibraltar. The first time in history that a naval officer has held this post.

Soldiers Carry Out Training On City Streets

Shoppers in the downtown section had an opportunity of seeing Canadian Army training on the main streets on Monday and again today, as men from the Training Centre chose public places for their daily training, as part of the Army Week program.

On Simcoe street, betwee George and Water, the roadway was barricaded and used as a training area, and the soldiers went through foot drill, rifle drill, anti-gas drill. On the market another group of soldiers went through foot drill, rifle drill, anti-gas drill. On the market another group of soldiers practised first aid and bayonet practise, and the same syllabus of training was followed by the men down in front of the Canada Packers plant on George street.

Captain F. S. Atkinson was in charge of the company, in place of Major Johnson who is on furlough, and he was assisted by Lieut. Eric Haley.

The men broke off for a rest and a smoke for five minutes out of every three quarters of an hour of drill, and in spite of the extreme heat and the hot pavement, they seemed not to be bothered while the civilians sought shady spots to escape the heat. The men were garbed in cool summer dress with the regulation pith helmets.

And we mean the whitest wash any soap can give! Except for stains, of course, and unusual pieces...your clothes come radiantly white ...and you avoid the risk of using harsh bleaches!

Eliminate Harmful Rubbing

Hard rubbing... the cause of so much wear and tear... is OUT! New Oxydol's livelier "Hustle-Bubble" suds soak the dirt loose in the washer. A quick rub here and there—where necessary —is all. But NOT the hard rubbing that wears clothes threadbare before their time!

And yet, for all its "wartime" efficiency... New Oxydol is even milder now on hands... safe for washable colours... safe for washable rayons!

Use this modern soap. Save your clothes in wartime by doing them the easier, safer OXYDOL way!

GUARANTEED YOUR WHITEST WASH EVER!

Yes, you'll agree, New Oxydol gives you the whitest wash any soap can give or double your money back!

If you don't agree, simply return the package, with name and address to Oxydol, Montreal, and twice the purchase price will be refunded.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

GOOD INCREASE

The bank clearings for the month of June in Peterborough have risen by $688,528 in 1942, with a total of $3,860,424. The amount cleared for the same period in 1941 was $3,171,896.

REPORT AT ONCE

Every citizen in the city should have received his sugar ration card by Thursday night of this week. If anyone has been missed they should apply at once to the office on Hunter street, or the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

A NICE GESTURE

On Monday afternoon when the soldiers from the Training Centre were sweating as they went through their training uptown a soft drink truck drove up, and served the men ice cold drinks. The driver timed himself to reach the men just at the middle of the afternoon when it was hottest, and the boys appreciated it.

UNEXPECTED AID.

The age of chivalry is not yet dead. Monday a little five-year-old girl was staggering home from the store under a basket of vegetables and a peck of potatoes. A man, who was passing, on seeing her plight, came over and carried her bundles home for her, something not so often seen in these days.

STVE BRODIE ACT.

A soldier garbed in bathing suit jumped off the High Bridge, on the canal above the Lift-Lock on Sunday and his stomach and face struck the water first. He was stunned and was rescued by other soldiers and some civilians, but when he came to, he gave this rescuers a tongue lashing instead of voicing appreciation.

JOINS THE NAVY.

Bill Staunton, former Westclox employee who served for three months in the Royal Canadian Navy some time ago, and was boarded out with a low medical category, has been successful in obtaining a new medical board and was passed. He reported for duty with the Navy on Monday of this week. He is a son of the late Harvey Staunton, who was fatally injured in a train accident a few years ago.

HE'S GOT A MONOPOLY

This man Dinnie Hendley, of Long Lake claims the Long Lake chain rates more glory, in that a maskinonge 24½ inches long has been caught in the lake. Spawn was placed there about three years ago, and it appears the fish are thriving. Deb Whatman of Peterborough and Bert Buott made the catch. Long famous for its bass and lake trout fishing, this lake should not be even more popular.

AMERICAN CARS

Gasoline rationing and tire restrictions may be reducing the flow of American tourists, but there are quite a number of cars on the city streets from south of the border. Cars from New York, Michigan, Ohio, North Carolina, and Wisconsin have all been noticed during the past two days.

ARRIVES OVERSEAS

Lt. Jim Parsons, son of City Engineer Parsons and Mrs. Parsons, Douro street, has arrived overseas with the latest contingent of Canadian troops. He enlisted more than two years ago, and after a course at Camp Borden was transferred to Red Deer, Alberta, as an instructor for a year and a half. He is with the motor transport section of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps.

WHERE ARE THEY?

George Street and the business section generally failed to react to the spirit of Army Week on Monday as flags were not in abundance. There were some flags flying, but not nearly enough, and there was not a single sidewalk flag out, although most merchants have them in their stores.

SOME GET STUNG.

There is a vending machine for soft drinks at the Armouries which is liberally patronized by the soldiers but with the additional tax on the drinks the men faced a problem. This was solved, however, when they arranged the bottles so that about every sixth bottle was empty, so often some thirst fellow draws a blank and has to spend a dime to get his coke. The plan is working out fine.

PARADE POSTPONED.

Members of the 4th Field Battery (Reserve) are reminded that there will be no training period on Wednesday evening, that is there will be no more parades until next Monday evening, the regular sight for drill.

POOL IS POPULAR

The heat Monday brought the kiddies crowding to the "swimming pool" at King Edward Park. Even though there were only a few inches per person in the pool, they thoroughly enjoyed themselves splashing around and fooling with each other, not feeling the heat in the least.

A POPULAR MOVE.

For the first time in more than a decade the band of the Prince of Wales Rangers held a concert on Sunday in the King Edward Park. There was a grand crowd. Monday night the Corps of Signals band played to a handful of people at Victoria Park, so this evening this same band will put on a band concert at King Edward Park. Alderman Curtis, working with Alderman Glover has been able to secure a portable band stand and tihs is being set up in the south end park to-day

MODERN WAYS

It is reported from some of the farmers of the district that there is a new method for collecting the cows at night. The man whose job it is to look after them no longer walks as he did in days gone by, but rides there on a bicycle, in the most approved style. Nice work, if you can do it.

ARMY WEEK SOLOIST.

As part of the Army Week program planned by the Peterborough Training Centre, Pte. Rudolph Abrahams now taking his basic course in Peterborough will be heard in a song recital over CHEX at 7.45 this evening. Pte. Abrahams is a Jamaican and has delighted many local audiences in his short stay in Peterboro. Gwen Craw will accompany him.

ARMY WEEK PROGRAM.

Over radio station CHEX last night a variety program was presented by members of the basic training centre. The program of song, instrumental and interviews was introduced by Col. E. O. Keeler O.C. of the centre. It went over in a big way and showed to the listening audience just what a variety of splendid talent is to be found at the Centre.

LANDS 19-POUNDER

Biggest maskinonge of the present season from the Stoney Lake area has fallen to Douglas Hammond. Trolling near Mount Julian on Saturday morning he snagged on to and landed a big fellow that tipped the scales at 19 pounds.

PARK GATES CLOSED

It is announced that in view of the Canadian General—Genelco picnic tomorrow the gates at Nicholls Oval will be closed to traffic tonight and will not be opened until Thursday morning. Motorists are asked to note this fact. A year ago a driver tried to smash through the closed gates.

CAR DAMAGED

Thomas Sproats, reported to police that as he was backing a truck out of the laneway at Stock's Bakery on Stewart street, the rear part of the machine struck a northbound taxi. The rear fender and bumper of the taxi were damaged, but the truck escaped without injury.

Save gas and spend the holiday sailing among the Thousand Islands of Stoney Lake.

Islinda leaves Lakefield at 9 a.m., returning at 3.15 p.m.

Police Warn Bicyclists To Get Lights

The fact that seven bicyclists were fined $2 and $1 costs in police court the other morning for riding wheels after dark that did not carry a light is pointed out by the police department as a warning to all other riders who have been guilty of this offence.

It is the intention to prosecute all cyclists who do not have lights on their machines after dark. They are regarded as a menace to traffic safety and all offenders who are seen by the police can expect a summons.

When cyclists applied for licenses the police department insisted on machines being equipped with lights before markers were issued. Now apparently many of the riders do not bother to turn on their lights, and it is because there have been complaints of near accidents as a result of this failure that the police department has opened out a campaign.

School Efforts Make $46 For War Victims

Continuing the good story of the work done by school children to give aid to those who have been the victims of air attacks over Britain, through the local and district British War Victims' Fund, today's list includes the results from two more schools, one in the surrounding district and the other within the city.

The children of Grades five to nine of School Section No. 1, Smith, known as the Lily Lake School, of which Miss Gala Rogers was the teacher, embroidered blocks and made a quilt which they then sold tickets for to raise the nice sum of $26. The draw for this took place at the school picnic and resulted in Miss Barbara Ferguson of R.R. No. 3 being the winner.

From two of the quilt blocks which were left over a cushion was made and given as a second prize, which was won by little Ruth Steinkraus of Grade two.

In forwarding this money, Miss Rogers also enclosed five dollars which comes from four ladies, Mrs. M. Young of Lakefield and Mesdames C. Ferguson, D. Wilson and Hope, all of R.R. No. 3, Peterborough, who had a table on behalf of the fund at the Lily Lake strawberry social, which was held on June 24 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Wilson, Smith, this in all combining and adding to the already splendid work done by the ladies of the Lily Lake district on behalf of the fund.

From Queen Mary School of this city, of which O. M. Steer is principal, also comes a nice donation of $20 which they made by collecting paper and rubber salvage, to supplement the already splendid work they have done for the fund on behalf of the victims of air raids in Britain, besides achieving an enviable record in a number of other efforts to help with the war. At the close of this present school session it was revealed that the students of this school had sold $2,700 in War Saving Certificates, and only just recently they gathered and sent half a ton of magazines to the Prince of Wales Rangers (active), under the command of Lieut.-Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., at Niagara, and these have been taken out to their new location in Western Canada.

In connection with the offer of Gordon Minty to form a swimming club for morning instruction at Inverlea Beach, Mrs. Hempstead of [illegible] Murray street, telephone 9950, has offered to act as secretary for registering those wishing to participate, and those interested can get in touch with her. Remember this is a two-way club, all proceeds are for the fund, and you learn the art of swimming with all fees going to help the people of Britain.

Planes Would Aid

OTTAWA, June 30—(CP).—The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation reported today its listening post here overheard the Melbourne station urging that the United States air force in China be strengthened.

The broadcast said that Japan has lost at least 800,000 tons of merchant shipping and has become more dependent on railway lines in China for moving supplies.

American bombers—and lots of them—the announcer said, could further cripple the enemy's supply lines as well as disrupt actual military operations.

68 Of Macaulay's Holsteins Average $1,926

HUDSON HEIGHTS, Que., June 30. — (CP). — The Mont Victoria Farm's world-famous herd of Holstein-Friesian cattle, the life-work in breeding of the l T. B. Macaulay, was sold here yesterday for a total of $130,950, an average for the sixty-eight listed animals and two baby calves of $1,926.

According to experts at the sale, ths average price was the highest ever obtained in the history of the breed on the North American Continent at a herd dispersal sale. Included in the average were many calves under six months.

Seventeen United States buyers from nine States paid about $70,000 for thirty-five animals, and twenty-one Canadians from Ontario, Quebec and Prince Edward Island paid some $60,000 for the remainder of the herd. More than 2,000 persons attended and all cattle were sold in five hours.

While outstanding Holstein breeders were largest purchasers, many animals went to average dairymen anxious to improve their herds. U. Ray MacLaughlin of Oshawa, Ont., purchased six animals for a total of $17,400 to head the list of buyers.

F. W. Griswald of Hopkins, Minn., and E. H. Ravenscroft of Antioch, Ill., each took three animals for $10,700; Senator Donat Raymond of Vaudreuil, Que., purchased three animals for $11,000, while five head went to Harry O. Norris, Wimbledon, Annapolis, Md., for $7,500.

Famed Animals in Sale

Included in the sale were all the great producers and show animals which have made Mont Victoria a famous name on all American show rings for two decades, including the four which in 1941 won the All-American get of sire, highest honor in American Holstein circles.

Martin Buth of Compston Park, near Grand Rapids, Mich., paid the top price of the sale—$6,500, for 5-year-old Montvic Bonheur Pietje B a cow which last year was All-American 4-year-old champion and one of the outstanding females in the breed in America. The price was not considered excessive.

Top male was Montvic Rag Apple Ajax, junior herd sire at Mont Victoria, which brought $5,200. Bought by Senator Raymond for Raymondale Farm at Vaudreuil, he was a twin, his brother having brought the highest price for a calf under five months paid in America since 1920. The Mont Victoria senior herd sire, Montvic Locnivar, sold at $4,400 to Mrs. W. 3. Kellogg of Berby, Conn., and J. Natwick of Ellicott City, Md. T. R. Dent and Clarke Brown of Woodstock, Ont., paid $4,075 for a two-months-old bull calf, Montvic Rag Apple Sovereign.

Ray McLaughlin of Oshawa paid $4,30 for a 5-year-old female, Montvic Bonheur Emily, and the same buyer paid $4,400 for the 2-year-old Montvic Abbekerk Jewell, a full sister of Montvic Lochinvar, the senior herd sire.

E. H. Ravenscroft of Antioch paid $5,200 for the 7-year-old female, Montvic Bonheur Hartog, which as a 4-year-old was world's champion junior butterfat producer. The same buyer paid $3,000 for Montvic Bonheur Patsy, same blood as Pietje B, high-price cow of the sale.

Other Canadian buyers were J. J. E. McCague of Alliston, Ont., $775 for a yearling female; W. R. McMenomy, Inkerman, Ont., $1,250 for a nine-months-old female; G. E. D. Green, Agincourt, Ont., $1,900 for a 4-year-old bull; Prince Edward Island Department of Agriculture, $1,100 for a 4-year-old female; R. J. Graham of Alexandria, Ont., $975 for a 5-year-old female, P.E.I. Department of Agriculture, $1,100 for a 2-year-old female; E. J. Meagher, Oakville, Ont., $2,000 each for two females, a 4 and 2-year-[illegible]; Albert Selling, Elmira, Ont., $2,650 for yearling female; J. M. Fraser, Streetsville, Ont., $1,175 for an aged female; H. L. Guilbert, Varennes, Que., $2,100 for a 2-year-old female and $400 for a bull calf a few days old; Mrs. Alice S. Hallwood, North Hatley, Que., $1,200, $1,100, $800 and $650 for four females; York County House of Refuge, Newmarket, Ont., $1300 for a 2-year-old female; Ontario Department of Health, $1,700 for a bull calf of four months; Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, $650 for an aged female, and Harold W. Honey, Seagrave, Ont., $600 for a four-month female calf.

Creepy Visitor

SOUTHPORT, N.C. June 30 — (AP). — D. I. Watson, awakened in the wee hours by the creaking of an unlocked screen door, went downstairs and, in the dark, reached for the door catch. His hand touched something lively. Watson switched on the light and found a two-foot snake had crawled up the door facing.

Three Small Boys Arrested Tuesday

Three young boys, two of them too young to be tried in open court, were arrested by police early this morning when discovered sleeping in an automobile in a used car lot. Their explanation was not considered satisfactory and the three were charged with vagrancy before Vincent Eastwood and E. B. Fowler, the justices of the peace occupying the bench at police court in the absence of Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., who held court at Lindsay today.

The oldest of the three appeared in open court and the others in juvenile court and without plea were remanded to jail until Friday, with bail fixed at $200.

Dominion Day Parade To Move Off 10:30

The largest display of military might and equipment ever to be shown in Peterborough will be on display Dominion Day with a parade downtown that will bring together more than 1600 men and officers of the active and reserve Canadian Army.

Lt. Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., E.D. officer commanding the Military Training Centre will be in charge of the parade, and items of ordnance including anti-aircraft guns, and searchlights will be towed down the main streets on their mobile carriers. Three bands, the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals Band from Kingston, the Prince of Wales Rangers Band and the Salvation Army Band will take part in the march.

Soldiers from the Training Centre will move up Aylmer street from the Camp to the Peterborough Armouries at 9.30 in the morning, and at that point will join the Prince of Wales Rangers (Reserve), the 4th Field Battery (Reserve), 33rd Reserve Company, Veteran's Guard of Canada, and members of Branch 52 Canadian Legion. Sharp at 10.30 the parade will start from the Armouries and will proceed south on George street. At the junction of King and George streets, the local units will break off and procced west on King to Aylmer returning to the Armouries, while the soldiers from the camp will proceed south on George street to the Camp.

With the big C.G.E. picnic on at the Oval, dancing in all the pavilions, theatres open, and the big parade it will be a perfect holiday for people of Peterborough and district.

New Manager

John E. Keyes, newly appointed manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Peterborough, assumes his duties this week. He comes from Toronto and has had wide experience at New York, and Montreal in the banking business.

NO GARBAGE COLLECTION

Owing to Wednesday, July 1st, being a public holiday, there will be no collection of garbage in the city on that day.

Clark-Cockburn Nuptials At St. George's, Toronto

An interesting marriage was solemnized in St. George's United church, Toronto, yesterday, when Miss Doris Frances Cockburn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Cockburn Sherwood avenue, and granddaughter of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. A. A. Cockburn, became the bride of Squadron Leader James Ralph Clark, R.C.A.F., medical service, son of Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Clark, Peterborough. Rev. Willard Brewing officiated, assisted by Wing Commander Ewart Cockram, assistant principal chaplain, Ottawa. Simeon Joyce played the wedding music and standards of pastel gadioli and delphinium were arranged as a background for the bridal party.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of petal white silk jersey made with draped front, the skirt extending into a slight train. She wore a necklace of pearls and halo veil of tulle illusion. Her flowers were a cascade of roses and bouvardia. The bride was attended by Miss Adele Melhuish and Miss Shirley Cockburn, her sister, the former in turquoise blue silk jersey made with a full skirt and French detail trimming, the latter in shell pink silk jersey with shirred bodice and full skirt. They wore small flower halos to match their cascade bouquets of roses with gysophila and pale blue larkspur. Flight-Lt. Kenneth Card was best man and the ushers were Aircraftsman Allan Clark and Aircraftsman Grant Clark, twin brothers of the groom, and Aircraftsman Robert Butterworth.

A reception was held at the Alexandra Palace, the bride's mother in a jacket frock of harvest wheat lace and crepe, corsage of roses. The groom's mother had chosen pale French blue silk, redingote style, with matching hat and corsage of roses shading from pale pink to red. The couple left for northern Ontario, the bride travelling in a tan and white printed silk dress with white tan wool jacket, tan accessories and corsage of bronze roses. The groom attended Queen's University.

Elizabeth May Is Wed In Lakefield To Eldon Jewell

LAKEFIELD, June 30—(ENS).—Amid a setting of blue delphinium at King Street United Church Parsonage, on Saturday, the Rev. J. V. McNeely, M.A., B.D., united in the bonds of holy matrimony Elizabeth Alice, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank May, St. Mary's, and Eldon Bruce, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Jewell, Lakefield.

The bride, given away by her father, was lovely in a street-length gown of beige sheer, trimmed with black lace, with sweetheart neckline. Her accessories were beige and black. She wore a corsage of red roses.

The bride's attendant was Mrs. Arthur Wood of Oshawa, who was charming in a figured green sheer with beige accessories. Her corsage was of ping roses.

The best man was John M. Morrison.

Following the ceremony members of the immediate families dined at the Genosha Hotel.

The bride's mother was attired in a two-piece navy sheer with hat of black seeded straw.

The groom's mother wore a two-piece beige sheer with a beige hat.

The bride's gift to the groom was a gold cigarette case and lighter. The groom's gift to the bride was a marcasite cross; to the bride's attendent a compact, and to the best man a pen and pencil set. They will reside at 183 Arthur street, Oshawa.

Patch-Watson Wedding At St. Paul's Church

The marriage of Gladys Hunter Watson, B.A., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilbert Watson, to Carleton Francis Patch, son of Mrs. W. R. Patch and the late William Patch, was solemnized by Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart, on Monday afternoon in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Pink and blue dephinimums, palms, and ferns, made lovely decorations in the church. Mr. Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register, Miss Alicia Langley sang "I Love You."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautiful in a white lace gown falling into a slight train, with fitted sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. Her finger-tip veil fell from a heart-shaped hat and was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of pink and white roses.

Miss Helen Cardiner of Toronto, maid of honor, and Miss Florence Warner of Lindsay and Miss Helen Steer, bridesmaids, were dressed alike in quaintly fashioned pastel shaded gowns with matching sweetheart hats. Little Mary Elizabeth Hunter, in a frilly dress of pale blue was a lovely flower girl. Donald Warner was ring-bearer. All carried nosegays of pink and white roses. Mr. Lawrence Henry was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Lloyd McClay and Mr. Paul Sweetman.

At the reception held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Watson received the guests in a gown of lime-colored crepe with a picture hat of the same shade and a corsage of orchids. The mother of the groom, who also received, wore a gown of pale blue crepe with a pale pink hat and a corsage of pink roses.

When the happy couple left on a short wedding trip, the bride was wearing a pale blue and white redingote frock and a large panama hat and blue accessories. They will live at 364 Simcoe street.

Twin Brothers Usher At Toronto Wedding

The Church of the Redeemer, Toronto, decorated with palms and pastel shaded flowers, was the scene on Saturday of a lovely choral wedding, when Beryl Hunt, daughter of Mrs. G. P. Hunt and the late Mr. Hunt of Toronto, became the bride of George Scott Shaw of Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shaw of Toronto. Rev. L. P. Hunt, brother of the bride, conducted the marriage ceremony

The bride, who was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Rev. A. de Vere Hunt, looked charming in a long, full-skirted gown of white sheer with a sweetheart neckline and tight waistline. She wore a net veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of Bettertime roses. Miss Lorna Roberts and Miss Constance Shaw attended the bride, gowned in pastel dresses of blue and pink, with wreaths of flowers in their hair and carrying colonial bouquets of Talisman roses.

Mr. Albert Shaw, brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Rev Desmond Hunt and Rev. Mansel Hunt, twin brothers of the bride.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, where Mrs. Hunt received her guests in a gown of marine blue crepe, a leghorn hat with matching trimmings and a corsage of roses and cornflowers.

Afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Shaw left on a trip to the Kawartha Lakes. For travelling the bride chose a blue crepe ensemble with a white hat and accessories. They will live in Peterborough.

Ennismore Couple Wed In Toronto

Red and white roses decorated the altar of St. Vincent de Paul's Church, Toronto, on Saturday morning. June 27, for the wedding of Margaret Irene Canavagh, Reg. N., daughter of Mrs. Francis Cavanagh and the late Francis Cavanagh, Ennismore, and Michael Francis Harrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Harrington, Downeyville.

Rev. Fr. Gerard Kirby was celebrant of the nuptial Mass which was served by Fergus Cavanagh, youngest brother of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her eldest brother, Michael, was becomingly attired in a floor-length model of pink net over taffeta with lace bodice and lace insertions in the full skirt. Her shoulder-length veil of pink net was shirred in front and caught with a wreath of pink roses. She wore lace mittens and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and maidenhair fern.

Mrs. Grant Goodwin, cousin of the bride, as matron of honor was dressed in ice-blue net over taffeta and a blue veil caught with pink roses. Her bouquet was of Briarcliffe roses and maidenhair fern. Mr. William Holmes, Toronto, acted as best man.

A reception was held at "The Old Mill," where the bride was assisted in receiving the guests by her mother and the groom's mother. Mrs. Cavanagh wore printed blue sheer with tan accessories and Mrs. Harrington navy sheer with white accessories.

The bridal couple left for a trip to Eastern Ontario, the bride travelling in a rose ensemble. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included friends from Ennismore, Downeyville, Belleville, Peterborough and Brantford.

You Can Use CERTO

BECAUSE CERTO IS FRUIT PECTIN, you can use it and conform with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Order No. 150 which states:

"No Sugar shall be purchased or used by a consumer for making any jam or jelly in excess of three-quarters of a pound of sugar for each pound of fruit, or in excess of one and one-quarter pounds of sugar for each pound of fruit if pectin is used in the making of such jam or jelly."

On the basis that "fruit" means the weight of "unprepared" fruit, then you are entitled to purchase sugar to make your jams and jellies the Certo way, which gives you approximately two-thirds more jam or jelly from the fruit used.

This Week's Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Our Readers
Baked Bean Roast with Tomato Sauce

(Contributed by Mrs. Sayer)

Two tablespoons minced onion, 4 tablespoons fat, 4 cups mashed baked beans, 2 eggs slightly beaten, 2 cups crumbs, 1 cup tomatoes, salt and pepper, ½ teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons green peppers are optional, but make a nice addition in the summer when they are abundant.

Saute the onions (and peppers if used) in the fat. Add the other ingredients in the order given. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. in a greased loaf pan for about 35 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce, made by boiling together ¼ onion sliced into 1 medium sized can of tomatoes for 5 minutes. Thicken the sauce by making into a paste 4 tablespoons flour and ⅛ cup water, stirring until thick, then adding salt and pepper to taste, and straining before serving.—Mrs. Sayer.

Thank you, Mrs. Sayer, for this strictly vegetarian dish—beef is back on the market this week, but this will be a welcome change whenever a shortage threatens in the future, or when we tire of the same old round, of meat, potatoes and vegetables day in and day out. Send us more of these discoveries of yours.

ARE MARRIAGES HAPPIEST WHEN WIFE IS THE ELDER?
They Are Successful Only If Husband Has Strong Mother Complex.

Dear Miss Dix: Lately a certain supposed authority on the subject has advanced the theory that the happiest marriages are those wherein the woman is three or four years older than the man. Judging from my own experience, also that of my friends, the most contented couples are those in which the wife looks up to the husband in personal qualities, ability, education and age. If this were reversed and the wife were the elder do you not think she would be apt secretly to consider her husband somewhat less able to cope with the world than she is and try to dominate him?

Professor Lewis Terman, the psychologist of Stanford University, deduces that the best years for a successful marriage are for women to be 20 or older, men 22 or older. And I understand that Harvard's leads on the question are the same.

Another viewpoint: Wouldn't a woman of 25 or 26 be able to outwit a man of 22 in the courtship deal? Would such a marriage be really his choice? Of course, there are exceptions to all rules, but what do you think of the age factor in marriage? C.E.D.

ANSWER: I think that after a man and woman are 30 or older that it does not matter greatly which one is the older. Both are then mature. Their tastes are formed. They know what they want in their mates. They are not likely to change. They pick out their wives and husbands with their heads as well as their hearts. So if a man finds a woman who meets all his requirements it is perfectly safe for him to marry her, even if she is 10 or 15 years older than he is.

Girls Mature Earlier.

But when a man is in his early twenties he takes a long shot at happiness if he marries a woman three or four years older than himself, because he is still a boy with a boy's changing ideals and tastes, while she is a mature, settled woman. Girls mature earlier than the boys do, and women age faster than men do, so that even at the same age the wife is older than the husband, and if the marriage starts off with her being the elder of the two the disparity between them is greatly marked in a few years.

The only marriages that turn out happily—when the wife is the elder—are those in which the husbands have a strong mother complex. Such men really don't want wives. They want mothers. They want women who will take care of them and pet them and cater to all their little whims, just as Mother did. They don't mind being bossed because they like the feeling of security and lack of responsibility they get by being tied to their wives' apron strings.

I think the marriages giving a couple the best chance of happiness are those in which the husband is five to ten years older than his wife. This gives the wife a chance to look up to him and respect his judgment and opinion and be guided by them, and that leaves them near enough in the same age class to enjoy doing the same things and have the same interests.

A Poor Home Better Than None

Dear Miss Dix.—I am a young girl, a junior at high-school, with twin brothers who are 14 and a younger brother and sister. We are forlorn, miserable children torn between two parents, and we don't know what to do. Dad is a drunkard, but very kind and considerate when sober. Mother is not true to Dad and goes out with other men.

Mother forever nags and talks about Dad's faults, but he never mentions hers until she goads him to the breaking point. They have been married nearly seventeen years and separated frequently, but make up. My twin brothers and I have often been on the verge of running away from home, but I do not see how it will help matters as I am the one who usually brings them to their senses, and the others would be worse off if I deserted them.

What shall we do? Shall my brothers and I run away to try to find happiness for ourelves, or shall we remain at home for the sake of the younger children?—Desperate.

Answer.—Try to stick it out, my dear, for the sake of your little brother and sister who would have no one to cling to, nothing to anchor them to decency and right living if you deserted them.

You are the one who holds the home, such as it is, together, and even a poor home is better than no home and ha its restraining influences. The children have a foothold, a place to come back to at night, a roof to shelter them, food to eat that they would not have if you left them to a drunken father, and a philandering mother.

It is a terrible responsibility to be put on one so young as you are, but you would have no happiness in running away from it and thinking of your little brother and sister wandering the streets and perhaps falling into the companionship of the gutter. Brace up and bear your load. God strengthens us to carry on if we meet our problems with courage.

But how can any father and mother face their own consciences when they see the wreck they have made of what should have been a happy home, and three forlorn little kids stumbling in the dark, trying to do the duties the parents have left undone? Surely in all the world there is no more piteous sight than children trying to reform their fathers and mothers.

Break The Engagement

Dear Miss Dix.—I am a young man, supposed to marry a girl I thought I loved. Arrangements for the wedding have been made, the invitations sent out. Well, a girl I used to go with came to see me the other day, and I found out that I still loved her and that she loved me. The girl I am engaged to has high social standing and loves me deeply. If I break the engagement, it will be quite a blow to her as well as to her family. But, on the other hand, the girl I love and I will be broken-hearted if I go through with this marriage with a girl I have ceased to care for. What should I do?—Bob.

Answer.—Break the engagement. If you were on the very steps of the church, turn back if you realized that you had made a mistake in your feelings and that you no longer wanted to go on with the marriage.

It is the only decent and honest and honorable thing you can do. It is the only kind thing you can do to the girl, for no woman is ever placed in such a cruel position as the one who knows herself to be an unloved and unwanted wife and that her husband married her only because of a sense of duty, or because he lacked the courage to face public criticism. It takes a lot of love to make a marriage a sucess and to be able to overlook a woman's whims and pecularities, and if a man does not possess this for his wife he cannot be a good husband.

FASHIONABLY CORRECT

By ALICE ALDEN

THE RECENT WPB rulings on the amount of fabric to be used in wartime wardrobes, doesn't faze a top-flight designer one whit. Great designers like Nicole, de Paris are famous for clothes that have a slim line, an utter absence of unnecessary detail and a minimum of fuss and feathers. Rather there is emphasis on perfection of cut resulting in clothes that fit perfectly into any picture. Here's a new Nicole design, a daytime frock of lightweight silk crepe in pinky beige, made with a slim skirt that is composed of three pleated tiers. It has pleated sleeves and back panel. A large red leghorn straw hat trimmed with field flowers and red grosgrain ribbon completes the costume.

Earl Robinson Wed In Noranda

A wedding of interest in Peterborough took place on Wednesday last in the Rouyn Noranda United Church when Phyllis Rowena, daughter of Mrs. Mary Hill of Kearns, Ontario, became the bride son of Earl Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Robinson of the Powell Rouyn Mine. Earl Robinson was born and educated in Lakefield, before his parents moved to Quebec in 1939.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Duncan Campbell, the bride was gowned in dusky rose sheer crepe over a foundation of rose satin, made with a fitted bodice, flattering sweetheart neckline and full skirt. She wore a tiny white velvet page's cap with a short tulle veil caught to it with tufted hat pins. She carried a sheaf of calla lillies and wore a two strand pear necklace, the gift of the groom. Mrs. Harvey Mills attended her niece as matron of honor, wearing a gown of rosy beige with a polka dot pattern and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers. Mr. Wesley Hyndman of the Powell Rouyn Mine attended the groom.

Mrs. Robert Miller presided at the organ and the combined junior and senior choirs of the church sang during the ceremony. The couple left the church to the strains of Bonnie Dundee played by pipers Bill Ross and Vince Thompson.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Noranda Hotel, where the bride's mother received the guests in a gown of navy crepe flecked with white, white accessories and a corsage of roses. The groom's mother was smartly gowned in pale blue with white accessories and a rose corsage.

Later the bride and groom left on a wedding trip, for which the bride wore a dressmaker suit with brown accessories.

Making Coffee And Using 25 Per Cent Less

While coffee like tea is still on the voluntary rationing list, reduced consumption is essential. The important thing about coffee now is to make the 75 per cent allowance produce enough coffee, and as good coffee as formerly. This is possible by measuring carefully and following some simple rules.

Essentials for a good cup of coffee are:

1 Freshly ground coffee of a grind to suit your pot.
2 An absolutely clean, fresh smelling coffee pot. This means scrubbed, scalded, and dried thoroughly.
3 Accurate meaurements.
4 Boiling water.
5 Immediate use when ready.

Strength of coffee is a matter of individual taste. The following rules for making coffee produce what may be termed "standard" coffee with a rich amber color and full flavor. Coffee is smoothest served with cream. A dash of salt helps to bring out the flavor.

In the rules given, use standard measuring spoons and cups.

Boiled Coffee

Use one to 1½ level tablespoons of coarse ground coffee to each cup of water. Measure coffee into coffee pot, add a dash of salt, and mix to a paste with a small amount of cold water. Add required amount of boiling water, bring to a boil and add a dash of cold water to help settle the grounds.

Scald percolator. Use one level tablespoon medium ground coffee to each cup of water. Put water in the lower part of percolator and coffee in the upper part. Heat and allow to percolate from eight to twelve minutes from the time the jet of wahet sohws a pale golden color. Remove grounds and keep coffee hot till served. The length of time for percolating varies with the blend of coffee.

Drip Coffee

Scald coffee pot. Use finely ground coffee. Use one level tablespoon of coffee to each cup of water. Put coffee in top part of pot packing it down by shaking the pot. Pour freshly boiling water over the coffee according to instructions for particular kind of coffee maker. The brew must be kept hot but never allowed to boil. Serve as soon as water has all dripped through the coffee. If stronger coffee is desider the brew may be put through again but that destroys some of the delicate flavor.

Coffee In Glass Coffee Makers

Use very finely ground coffee. Use one level tablespoon of coffee to each cup of water in the lower part of the coffee maker. Set the coffee maker over the burner until all the water has risen to the top container. Set aside until all the beverage has filtered through. Serve at once.

There are several thrifty suggestions to add to these rules. Keep the package in a cool place. Heat speeds up the loss of aroma.

If too much coffee has been made, pour the extra from pot when it is ready to use and store in it a glass container. Then reheat it when wanted.

Buy coffee in small amounts, so that it will be fresh.

Two Companies Midland Regiment Parade To Warkworth Church

NORWOOD, June 30—Members of "A" and "B" Companies, Midland Regiment, R.F., began their observation of Army Week Sunday with a Church Parade to St. Paul's United Church, Warkworth. Over 100 men and officers fell in on parade on the school grounds at 10.30. A few minutes later, the parade moved off, led by the Regimental Band of Campbellford. The parade was under the command of Major E. G. Johnston, O.C. "B" Coy. Officers commanding "A" and "B" Companies for the parade were Capt. A. L. Anderson and Lieut. N. A. McColl, respectively. Regimental Sergeant Major was E. J. Thomas, while the Company Sergeant Majors were P. P. Armstrong and F. King for "B" and "A" Companies respectively.

Rev. Dr. Cooper, minister of St. Paul's church, welcomed the troops. During his sermon, Dr. Cooper reminded the men in uniform that God was always with them, whether on the battle field or at home, and that they must never forget that He was their only hope and salvation." During the service, the choir rendered two inspiring anthems, one entitled "Marching To Victory." After the service, the parade marched back to the school grounds and later retired to the Masonic Hall, where the ladies of Warkworth prepared and served a much appreciated lunch. The ladies were thanked by Major Johnston, followed by three rousing cheers from the men, who had by this time enjoyed the bounteous lunch.

Journed To Campbellford

The parade then moved by motor transport to Campbellford, where they fell in on parade at 2.45 in front of the Campbellford Armouries. Again led by the Regimental Band, they proceeded to the Public School grounds for a Drumhead Service in commemoration of Army Week. Included in the parade were "A" and "B" Companies of the Midland Regiment under the commands of Capt. A. L. Anderson and Lieut. N. A. McColl, respectively, while a large number of veterans of the last Great War and former wars were under the command of Major J. M. Bygott. Members of the Campbellford Branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., Color Party led the procession.

The gathering was addressed by Mayor F. F. Long of Campbellford, who briefly told all present the meaning of Army Week. He also paid tribute to the men in His Majesty's Service wearing the uniform —the Army. He stated that "the army is the second service, the Navy being first, while the Air Force was as yet a Junior branch of the service. "The Army", continued Mayor Long, "will be the branch of the service to take the final step to Victory—march into Berlin." The band led in the playing of the hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." The singing throughout the service was led by Lieut. Alex Turnbull of the Salvation Army, Campbellford. Lieut. Turnbull led in the responsive reading of Psalm 46, followed by prayer for the Allied armies by Rev. G. N. Maxwell of Campbellford United Church and the Lord's prayer. The hymn, "Fight the Good Fight" was followed by the address for the day by the Rev. J. O. Ralston of the Anglican Church. Rev. Ralston stressed the point "Believe in the Empire." The hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers" was followed by the prayer for the Allied nations by the Rev. H. Bryant of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Rev. W. J. T. Hicks of the Baptist Church pronounced the Benediction and the singing of the National Anthem brought the Drumhead Service to a close. The parade then moved off under command of Major Johnston to the Cenotaph where the "eyes right" paid a fitting tribute to the fallen heroes of the last Great War. The parade was dismissed in front of the Armouries by Regimental Sergeant Major E. J. Thomas.

Men in uniform on parade included those from Norwood, Havelock, Hastings, Cobourg, Warkworth, Campbellford and Peterborough.

Squadron Quartermaster-Sergeant T. B. Griffin, 3rd Dragoons, was awarded the Colonial Auxiliary Forces Long Service Medal.

SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR

By BLANCHE ROBERTS

THE STORY: Judith Kingsly and Tom Burke, employes of an airplane factory, are en route to the west coast. When foreign agents kidnap Tom from an airliner, Judith leaves the plane with the new bomber plans which Tom had slipped to her. Pursued by the agents, she finds Tom in a cabin, leaves him fighting his captor, thumbs a ride with a truck driver, escapes again in a small western town, just as the pursuers are closing in on her.

ANOTHER RIDE
CHAPTER VI

Judith huddled in the dark against the cabin wall and tried to think of a way to escape.

"If this were only a town of some size," she sighed. "But it's just a wide spot in the road and there's no place to hide. Those men will search every nook for me and if I fall in their hands now, it's goodby to me—and the plans, too."

Never underestimate the enemy, she had read—and that thought persisted now. She turned her head to listen more carefully.

In a moment, one of the men asked for a cabin.

"Sure—that one right yonder. Put your car right next to the end cabin," instructed the woman.

Judith realized with a start that she had to act now. She darted across the vacant lot to the next building and hid in its shadow. She waited, shivering with fright, but no one followed. She knew she had not been seen.

Down the street she saw a filling station, and as she watched, the lights went off and a young man went about closing up for the night. A small car stood beside the building.

"Maybe he'll drive me to San Diego," she thought as she made her way carefully, avoiding the street. The bushes tore at her stockings, but she hardly felt them. She stayed hidden until the young man locked up, then approached him hesitatingly.

"Sorry, lady, but I just closed," he told her as she walked up. "No more sales tonight."

Her eyes swept over him quickly. He was just a boy, probably not yet 20.

"I don't want any gasoline," she said, with a smile. "Would you like to make $50?"

"Who wouldn't?" he grinned. Then he eyed her a bit suspiciously. "Are you on the level?"

"Oh yes. I want to reach San Diego as soon as I can. It's urgent. Something happened to the car I was riding in. I've had an awful time getting this far. Can you drive me there tonight?" she pleaded.

"Sure, I'll drive you," he said quickly. "But I'll have to call mom and tell her where I'm off to. She'd worry if I didn't show up."

He unlocked the door of the station office and went in. When he phoned, Judith got in the car, keeping a close watch down the street for the big black car.

"If it wasn't for my red hair, I might lose them." She put a hand up and felt the tousled curls. "Red makes me a marked woman." For the first time in her life, she wished for blond hair.

The youth came out and got in the car.

"Well, we're all set, I guess." He started the car.

As they sped down the highway, Judith opened her purse and drew out some bills.

"I'll pay you now, in advance," she told him. If anything went wrong she wanted the boy to have his pay.

"Oh, I trust you," he assured her. But he took the money and pocketed it. "I should have plenty of time to get you to the city and be back here by 7 to open up."

"Drive as fast as you like," she said, smiling, "the faster the better. I'm in a hurry, and you seem to be a good driver."

"Sure," he said, pressing hard on the accelerator. "Mom won't ever ride over 30 with me."

Judith held her breath but never uttered a sound as they wound around the mountains, climbing steep inclines and scooting down again. Confident in the boy's driving, she relaxed and dozed a few minutes.

Suddenly, she awoke with a scream of terror.

"It's only a tire, lady," he said hurriedly and brought the car to a jolting stop by the side of the road. "It won't take me long to fix it."

But Judith was shaking when she stepped from the car. She stared behind them, but only darkness met her eyes.

"Look," she began impulsively as he prepared to change his tire. "I'll be honest with you. There are some spies after me and if they catch me, it will mean harm to the government as well as the end of my life."

The young man straightened with a jerk and gulped.

"They were back there at the camp when we left town."

"Oh, my gosh!" he exclaimed hoarsely. "That's mom's camp and I told her I was taking a girl to San Diego. They may find out from her. She's an awful talker."

Judith's heart seemed to stop; then her cool-headedness took over,

Obituary

WILLIAM FITZGERALD

William Fizgerald, 364 Roger street passed away Saturday morning, after a lingering illness, at the age of 67.

Born in Otonabee, son of the late David Fitzgerald and Mary Lonergan, he lived and was educated there, later moving to Calgary and then returning to Peterborough, where he has resided for the past ten years. He was a member of the Church of the Immaculate Conception while in this city.

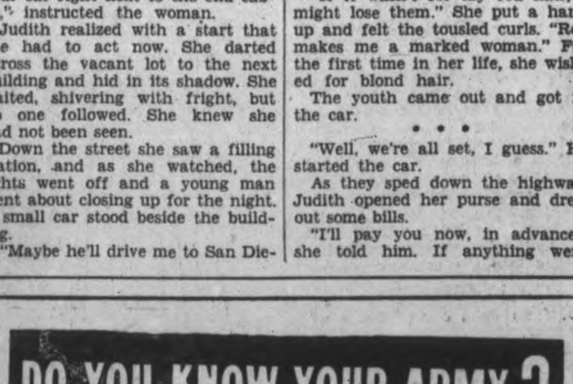
Surviving him are a sister, Mrs. Nora Farley, Indian River, and a brother, Charles, of Victoria, B.C.

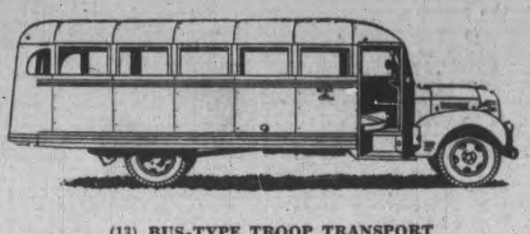
The body rested at the House of Providence until Sunday noon and then proceeded to the home of Alan Hayes Indian River. The funeral service was held at 9 a.m. Monday in St. Joseph's Church, Douro, where Requiem Mass was sung. Interment was made in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Want a Decision

OTTAWA, June 30—(CP). — Representatives of Pacific Coast shipyard workers have urged Labor Minister Mitchell to reach a speedy 'definite decision' of their proposed plan for a six-day week in coast yards, as opposed by the minister's seven-day, staggered week project

At a meeting with Mr. Mitchell Saturday morning, the delegation presented a brief expressing opposition to the seven-day-week scheme which went into effect at coast yard some weeks ago. It said the alternative six-day plan had been endorsed by 97 per cent. of the 30,000 shipyard workers on the Pacific.





(13) BUS-TYPE TROOP TRANSPORT

This is nothing more or less than our old friend, the passenger bus, a number of which are being used by the Army for carrying troops.

The type illustrated is a standard Royal Canadian Army Service Corps type, 35-passenger bus with sets arranged in the usual way of commercial vehicles of this class. It is employed for the transportation of army personnel.

The vehicle is 26 feet long overall.

This vehicle is used in Canada's Home War Establishment only, and is the same type of bus as commonly used by various commercial transport concerns.

War Savings Are Required To Supplement Taxes Levied

Too many people are toying with the though that payment of additional taxes through the terms of the budget which becames effective September 1 is sufficient contribution from them for the war effort, and they are forgetting that to win this war requires the maximum of effort and personal sacrifice. Payment of taxes alone will not meet Canada's war requirements, but the taxes must be supplemented by savings from current income and made available to the Government in war savings certificates and victory bonds.

Every Canadian must give serious thought to the curtailment of spending for goods that are not essential, and instead of thinking of cancelling any portion of his war saving stamps progrm, should study his financial needs, and try to figure what can be eliminated, so that more war saving stamps may be purchased out of every pay. Unless the average person realizes the great need for reduction in spending and an increase in saving, the Government may be forced to introduce more drastic taxation to suit the problem.

The income of the wage earning population has expanded over one and a half billion dollars due directly or indirectly to war activities Some 75 per cent of the national income reaches those earning less than $2,500 a year. Wage earners comprise a group of two million four hundred thousand, whose aggregate income exceeds three billion dollars, or about $250,000,000 a month. From those source the Government is getting now approximately $13,000,000 per month, through the sale of victory bonds and war savings certificates, or only 5.2 per cent of the payroll. The needs of the Government can only be met if a substantially higher percentage, probably ten per cent, can be achieved.

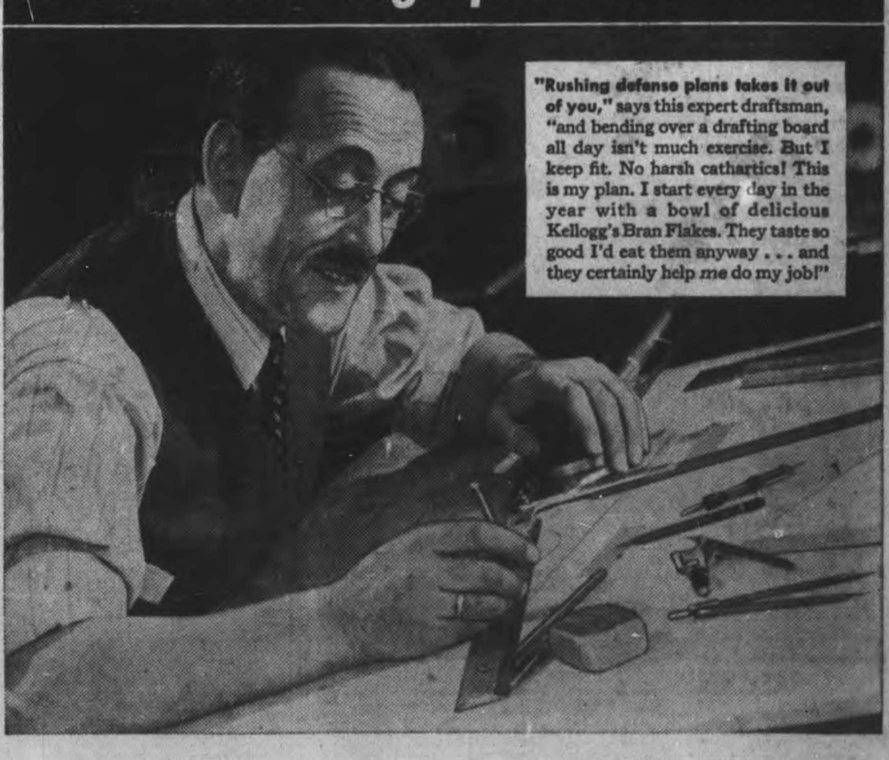
The new budget emphasizes the need for less spending on goods and more saving. The exemptions in regard to compulsory saving for insurance and mortgage payments are a relief to those having these responsibilities and may greatly reduce the amount the Government may expect to retain and by so doing transfer purchasing power from now until after the war.

Every sound-thinking Canadian can and will regard the budget as an indication of the seriousness of the war, and will not only continue to the full the purchase of stamps and certificates, but to increase these purchases substantially at the cost of real and denying sacrifice.

BELLS FOR ARMISTICE

KETTERING, England—(CP).—When armistice comes ring the church bells and keep them ringing, Rev. E. S. Powell advised Peterborough Diocesan Guild of Bellringers, saying "cranks" may want to introduce complicated regulations for the bells, now mostly silent for the duration.

Is YOURS a "high pressure" JOB?



"Rushing defense plans takes it out of you," says this expert draftsman, "and bending over a drafting board all day isn't much exercise. But I keep fit. No harsh cathartics! This is my plan. I start every day in the year with a bowl of delicious Kellogg's Bran Flakes. They taste so good I'd eat them anyway . . . and they certainly help me do my job!"

CAN YOU AFFORD TIME-WASTING ERRORS?

KEEP FIT WITH KELLOGG'S every day in the year!

Don't let that dull, "thick-headed" feeling cause you to make mistakes no matter how tense and confining your job may be, or how little real exercise it allows you. Follow these two rules of health: (1) To get well, see your doctor; (2) To keep well, watch your habits! Make especially sure that elimination is complete! But avoid harsh cathartics! Start the day with a crisp, delicious bowlful of gently laxative Kellogg's Bran Flakes With Other Parts Of Wheat. Do it every day in the year! They help supply valuable minerals and proteins, too. Ask your grocer for the golden-yellow package; it now comes in two convenient sizes. Or in restaurants, order the individual package with the inner, WAXTITE, sealed bag. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

IN MEMORIAM

PAYNE.—In loving memory of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Payne, who passed away July 1, 1940.

Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain.
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrows of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never:
The memory of the happy days
When we were all together.
—Remembered by Sons and Daughters.

PALMER.—In loving memory of my dear brother, Harry, who died June 30, 1939.

Dear one, who left us lonely,
Watch us through the gates ajar,
There a mother, there a brother,
Gone within those gates ajar.
—Lovingly remembered by sister Millie and Family.

SMITH.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Herbert Smith, who pased away June 30, 1942.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
Her world weary troubles and trials are past,
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.
—Fondly remembered by her Husband and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Harold Woodcock wishes to thank the sisters, nurses and doctors of St. Joseph's Hospital for their kindness and efficiency during her late husband's illness.

pushing back the threatening hysterics.

"If you don't mind, I'll just hide while you fix that flat. I am not taking any chances."

"This will be the quickest change I ever made." There was haste in his action, but even so, it was slow going in the dark.

Judith found protection under a culver and huddled there, almost paralyzed with fear. Bugs brushed against her face. If she ever got out of this, she told herself, she would never claim that she loved danger again. She would lead a peaceful, quiet life. That thought brought Tom Burke to her mind. But before she had time to dwell on him, she heard the hum of a motor approaching from around the mountain. Almost immediately, the car roared over her hiding place and came to a squealing stop by the boy.

"You got somebody with you?" demanded a voice she recognized as Heavy's. The car door banged as he got out.

"Not now," the boy said. "I did have a girl I was taking to San Diego. But when I got this flat, she hopped another car going by and left me. After promising to pay me, too."

"Was she a redhead?"

"I think so. I couldn't be sure."

"How long ago she hopped another ride?"

"Twenty minutes, I guess. Maybe 15."

"What kind of car?"

"I dunno, but I think it was a dark red one. I was so mad I didn't pay it any mind."

"Think he's telling the truth?" asked Karl.

"Sure," answered Heavy. "That dame's slicker'n an eel. Thanks, buddy."

The car roared off.

Judith crawled out and shook the dead leaves and dust from her clothes.

"I'll never be able to thank you enough for what you just did," she said. There were tears of gratitude in her blue eyes.

"I was glad to do it," the boy said, and sat down suddenly on the running board of his car. "I was scared stiff and I don't mind admitting it."

Judith sat down by him. She unfastened a small jeweled watch on her wrist; it was a gift from Tom on her last birthday. She reached for his hand and dropped the watch into his palm.

This is for you. Give it to your best girl friend."

"Gee, lady, I couldn't take that," he objected and tried to give the watch back to her. "You don't owe me anything more."

"I owe my life and what I am carrying to San Diego to you. And I want you to have this little token—at least, I want the girl you love to have it." She made him take it. She loved the little jeweled piece; it was her dearest possession. "Any time you hear of Judith Kingsly you can remember this night."

In a few minutes they were off again.

"I know a different route to the city and we'll take it," he said. "Of course, it's longer and rougher but I sure don't want to run into those men again."

* * *

Several hours later they reached San Diego. It was still dark, and Judith was almost unconscious from weariness and lack of sleep.

Here in the city, she thought, her pursuers surely could not catch up with her. She decided to get some sleep, and go to the airplane factory in the morning.

She asked the youth to drive her to a hotel. When they found one, she thanked him again, and stumbled wearily to the desk to get a room.

Margaret Grozelle Bride In Lindsay Ceremony

The marriage took place in St. Mary's Church, Lindsay, on Wednesday, June 24, at 9 o'clock a.m., of Margaret Veronica, Reg.N., of Peterborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grozelle of Lindsay, to Mark Joseph Crowley, son of Mr. Frank Crowley of Detroit, Mich., and the late Mrs. Crowley; the Reverend Father Earl Grant officiating. The church was decorated with pink and white roses and the music played by Miss Ruth Shannon, church organist. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Dr. Gleeson sang the "Ave Maria."

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and she wore a street-length tropical blue redingote corsage of pink and white roses, white accessories, carried a white prayer book and pearl rosary. She wore a yellow gold locket, gift of the groom.

Miss Noreen Grozelle, sister of the bride, was the only attendant. She was frocked in rose sheer crepe with white accessories and corsage of yellow and white roses. The best man was Mr. Albert Crowley, brother of the groom and the ushers were Mr. Jack Crowley of Peterborough, brother of the groom and Mr. Bert Hannivan of Toronto, cousin of the bride.

After the wedding a reception was held at the Hotel Benson, where the bride's mother received in a navy and white sheer redingote, matching accessories. She wore a bouquet of pink carnations. The bride's aunt, Mrs. Howard Reynolds who also received, wore a gown of heaven blue sheer crepe with white accessories and a bouquet of pink roses.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Toronto and St. Thomas. For travelling, the bride wore a green crepe tailored suit and white accessories. On their return they will reside in Lindsay.

M. Isabel Skitch Bride Of Ronald Seabrooke

Trinity United Church, decorated with peonies, delphiniums, orange blossoms, was the scene of the wedding on Saturday of Mary Isabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Skitch to Sgt. Ronald E. Seabrooke, R.C.A.F, Mountain View, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Seabrooke. Dr. G. S. Easton officiated and Miss Lenore Skitch, sister of the bride, played the wedding music. During the signing of the register Miss Helen F. Miller sang "Because."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white silk net with a fitted bodice from which the long skirt fell into a train, three-quarter sleeves and a square neckline. Her finger-tip veil of white silk net was caught to her head with a halo of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of briarcliffe roses and sweet peas.

Miss Margaret Skitch attended her sister, wearing a frock of pink silk net similar in design to that of the bride, with a matching Dutch cap and cascade bouquet of Talisman roses and delphiniums. Mrs. Walter Seabrooke, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Jack Skitch and Mr. Ken Hamley.

At the reception which followed the ceremony Mrs. Skitch received the guests in a gown of Athens blue embroidered sheer with a matching picture hat and a corsage of roses and sweet peas. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a jacket frock of printed silk with white accessories and a corsage of roses and sweet peas.

Later Sgt. and Mrs. Seabrooke left on a boat trip to Montreal. For travelling the bride chose a dusty pink redingote frock with white accessories. They will live at 38 Ridley avenue, Belleville, Ontario.

Watson-Lancashire Nuptials At Toronto Church

MILLBROOK, June 30—(ENS)—A pretty June wedding of local interest was solemnized on Saturday at Kingsway - Lambton United Church, Toronto, when Evelyn Mary, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Watson of Acton, Ont., became the bride of Henry J. Lancashire, of Millbrook; the Rev. W. G. Barker performing the ceremony.

The wedding music was played by Mr. Gerald Rutledge, and the bride, who looked charming in a chalk white gown of triple sheer, falling into a graceful train, was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Perry Watson. Her bouquet was a cascade of sweet peas and roses, and she was attended by Miss Hermione Wark, who wore forget-me-not blue triple sheer and carried pink roses and gypsophlia. Mr. Howard Lancashire of Millbrook was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. A. F. Gray, brother-in-law of the groom, and Earl Robertson. Following the reception at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Allen F. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Lancashire left for their wedding trip, and upon their return will reside at Newmarket.

Olive Carleton Bride Of Carman Davidson

TWEED, June 30.—(ENS).—On Saturday morning, at 10:30 a.m. in the Anglican Church, Thomasburg, the rector, Rev. F. C. Beazer, Roslin, officiating, Olive Carleton, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Carleton, became the bride of Mr. Carman Davidson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davidson,, Roslin.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a floor-length white sheer dress, finger-tip veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and ferns. She wore the gift of the groom, a gold chain and locket.

Mrs. Murney Gibson of Peterborough, was matron-of-honor and wore a floor-length dress of pale blue sheer with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of red roses and fern.

Mr. Harry Carleton, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

Mrs. Clayton LaFontaine of Tweed played the wedding march and Miss Emma Porter played the hymns for the occasion.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, about thirty-five invited guests being present. The bride and groom received a number of lovely and useful gifts.

You Can Win After 40 Shown in Pitkin's Book

"Failure" Can Become Success

So you think you're a failure! Past 40 and you never got that promotion. You never swung that deal.

Depressing, blind-alley thoughts! Walter B. Pitkin shows that at 40 you're just getting your start! In his "Life Begins at 40," a book that inspired 1,000,000 readers, he gives case after case of successful men whose score was zero until middle age.

Dr. J. A. Britton explained to the American Medical association that 45 to 55 are the years of maximum efficiency. Beethoven, Goya and Michelangelo did their best work after 40.

Your only weakness in middle age is a purely muscular one. You can't whack a tennis ball as you once could ,but how much better you can tackle a mental problem than your juniors! You have experience, judgment, balance.

Pitkin says: "Nobody knows much about this complex world until he is close to 40." The tables should be turning in your favor. If they don't, give them a strategic push!

Our 32-page booklet is a condensation of Walter B. Pitkin's "Life Begins at 40" (permission of Whittlesey House). Learn from it how to make the most of your mind and energy and win happiness, success in the middle years.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of "Life Begins at 40." Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and NAME of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BE A MISER

SOME PLAYERS are squanderers, playing their winning cards at the earliest opportunity and thereby simplifying the problems of the enemy. Some go to the other extreme, and are regular misers when it comes to holding on to their high cards and trumps. As between the two, the first is probably the better fault to have. Neither, however, is as effective as being balanced about the matter, being neither in haste to use your good cards nor unduly stingy about spending them.

Possibly East should have bid 2-Hearts after that double, to give his partner a choice, since his own hand was so strong, but he passed in preference to raising the height of the contract. South, of course, did right in passing, so he could play for penalties against the vulnerable opponents, in view of his trump holding. The same bidding as that chronicled above was used at two different tables of a duplicate game. In other cases, East redoubled, or bid hearts or No Trumps on the second turn.

Notice what happened in the play, however, at one table. The club 10 went to the A, and North returned the spade 8 to prevent diamond ruffing. East played low and South for some reason decided to do likewise, letting the 10 win in dummy. The diamond 9 was sent through to the 10, and South returned the club 2, North putting on the Q for the K to win. The diamond A and a ruff of the diamond J followed, the club J won, next the heart K and A, North returning his third heart, which South ruffed. Having only his top three trumps left, South had to lead into East's A-K-J, so that the declarer made an extra trick.

At the other table, after North won the opening club with the A, he led the heart 6 to the K, took the return with the A, led a third heart for South to trump, and then played low when South returned the club 2 to the K. The diamond A, the 4 to the K, spade 8 to the A, diamond J ruffed and the heart J ruffed by the 7 made the sixth trick for the defense. East ruffed the club return and took the spade K, but had to give the setting trick then to the spade Q.

What is the best way for West to plan the bidding of his hand, after East opens this deal with 2-Spades?

Start to Learn Typing With Aid of New Booklet

Touch System Used in Business

Typing away with never a glance at the keys! It may look tricky to you, if you haven't had much business training.

Really, touch typing's so simple you can learn the fundamentals yourself, and so increase your value in business. You start with a keyboard chart like the one in our sketch.

First step is to place your fingers on the "guide keys" Your fourth, third, second and first left fingers are on the "a," "s," "d" and "f." Your first, second, third and fourth right fingers are on the "j," "k," "l" and ";" keys.

You'll see, too, that your chart is marked off, so many keys to a finger. Now with exercises you train each finger to reach accurately the keys in its territory returning to its guide key between each stroke.

You soon get the feel of it, type away like a professional—with "eyes on copy!" Then you learn rules for typing English, master business forms.

Our new 32-page booklet has keyboard chart, exercises, speed drills to train you in touch typing. Includes rules for typing English; business, social and official letters, tables of figures. Can serve as a basis for a business college course. Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of "Teach Yourself Touch Typewriting." Be sure to write plainly your name, address and name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT'S THE HURRY?

AFTER YOUR partner has committed the pair to reaching at least a game, by an original game-guarantee two bid, by a jump bid of one more than necessary to overcall your own opener, by a bid of an opponent's suit or otherwise, there is no need to hurry. You can take your time then, giving as much information as you can, about your distribution and other assets, being sure that he won't drop the bidding. By taking it gradually, you can frequently give and receive more information, to help in reaching the best contract.

What a terrific error West made in jumping as he did at Table 1. East could not tell what in reason he should do, after that, except make the best possible guess. He did this when he chanced 6-Spades.

Maybe 6-Spades is the correct bid, for most players, as a bit of work must be done to make the grand slam, and also a bit of good fortune is needed. If South had the heart K instead of North, the contract of small slam could have been made, but not the grand slam.

Aside from West's boldness on his last turn, the bidding at Table 2 was much sounder, and West had pretty sound logic back of what he did. On his first response, he refrained from a positive response of 3-Spades, with no particular high cards to show, so that later support of spades would make it clear he had a splendid fit. His second bid, after the 3-Diamonds, was revealing. Then, when East bid the small slam lacking two trump honors, he decided to try the grand slam which, of course, was made.

Havelock Lodges Attend Church Services

HAVELOCK, June 30 — (ENS).— On Sunday afternoon the L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. Societies attended the United Church service at Trent River, when Rev J. W. Wilkinson delivered a fine address to the members of these Orders.

In the evening several carloads motored over to Norwood and attended church service with the brethren there. Quite a large number of the veterans and members of the Midland Regiment attended a drumhead service in Campbellford, while still others of the I.O.O.F. attended the decoration service in Peterborough.

A highly successful bingo party was held in the Township Hall in Belmont on Friday evening, which was sponsored by the Women's Institute. All the prizes for bingo games were donated by members of the branch, and consisted of groceries, fancy dishes, candy, strawberries, etc.

A lovely fancy quilt which was made and donated by the Go-Bang Branch of the Junior Red Cross was drawn for and the lucky winner was AC2 Harold Smith, Dauphin, Man. Two special prizes of $1.00 each were won by Mrs. W. Ashby and Garnet Brooks. The proceeds of the evening amounted to over $15.00, and will be used for war activities, and the committee in charge Misses Iva Smith and Lois King are to be congratulated on the success of this event.

Always Enough Pilots

LONDON, June 30—(CP Cable). —Capt Harold Balfour, Undersecretary for Air, said last night that there will always be sufficient pilots and aircrews to man bomber and fighter planes no matter "however many aircraft Britain and America produce."

"We can now match all our production of aircraft with pilots and other members for aircrews," he said in a statement.

"We can forecast ahead in this respect and we are not fearful that we shall not be able to match our production—however great it is."

Dean Of Canterbury Inspects Bomb Damage

Ancient cathedral towns in Britain were the targets for Nazi bombs following heavy R.A.F. assaults on vital German industrial centres. Here the Dean of Canterbury is shown viewing the damage done to the cathedral library by the recent "Baedeker" raid on the historic town. The cathedral itself escaped unharmed.

Norwood I.O.D.E. Asks That Curfew Be Enforced

NORWOOD, June 30—(ENS). —The regular monthly meeting of the ... Northumberland Regiment chapter, I.O.D.E. was held in the Royal Bank Building with the Vice-Regent, Mrs. Goheen in the chair. There was a great deal of correspondence consisting mostly of "thank you" letters from the boys overseas, every one of whom had replied to the box shipped to him in April. These boxes always appear to bring great joy to the recipients, and this knowledge amply repays any labor or sacrifice involved in sending them out.

The treasurer reported that $711 had been raised from January to June,-besides two loads of salvage, the returns from which had not yet come in; of this amount $119 was on hand to carry through the two holiday summer months. It was decided to pay to Provincial Headquarters three months' donation to the British War Guest Fund, and to make the Australian Hurricane donation up to $50.

The knitting convener reported nearly 400 pieces of knitting completed during the past six months, also that over fifty ditty bags had been distributed for filling during the summer months. It was urged that owing to the increased need for field comforts everyone continue knitting during the summer months —even if on holiday.

A report from the educational secretary was given. A total of $36.65 has been donated to the Chapter during the past six months from Norwood Public School, $18.65 of which was for the mile of pennies drive just completed, which totals $77.88. Two other rural schools had also contributed to this, Elgin and Centre Dummer. Each room contributing to the fund was given a book, while the one with the largest collection was presented with a very fine framed picture of the King and Queen.

On motion it was decided to send a box of treats to the boys of Norwood now serving wih the Midland Regiment on the West Coast. A resolution was adopted to be forwarded to the Council requesting that they be responsible for enforcing the curfew law.

It was decided to send cigarettes to all the Norwood boys overseas this month.

Activities Ceased.

The Norwood Boy Scout Troop and the Girl Guides have ceased their activities for the summer months. So many of the older members are away either working or on holiday making the working of the troops very difficult. The boys wound up a good season's work with a very enjoyable weiner roast on Friday evening. It was a beautiful moonlight night so that the regular camp fire was greatly enjoyed. Games were played in regular Scout style, and later all did full justice to the good things provided.

The Girl Guides ended their short season (having only recently been organized) with a splendid concert. Six of the oldest girls had already left the village to work on the fruit farms, but the twenty or so remaining gave a very good account of themselves. The program consisted of songs, recitations two skits, the Sailor's Hornpipe, a short play, and a very pretty patriotic drill. Miss Borisuk acted as chairman, and Helen Bailey played the accompaniments throughout.

The sessions of the community prayer meetings which have been held in the various churches of the village throughout the past months were brought to a close on Friday evening with a service in the Anglican Parish Room Rev. Mr. Price giving the Bible meditation. These meetings have proved very helpful to all, and it is hoped that they may again be started early in the fall.

Willing Workers Meet.

The Willing Workers are still carrying on their important part of the war effort of the village, and met for their usual June meeting. Work was turned in and a fresh supply given out. Part of the evening was spent in the park, where suitable games were played and races enjoyed, Dorothy Parker being the winner. The girls have been consistent in their efforts during the past months and great credit is due them and their leaders, for they are the youngest of our working groups, but have achieved much.

Splashes Of Death For A U-Boat

A German U-boat caught in the Bay of Biscay by a Sunderland flying boat of the R.A.F. coastal command suffered heavy gun and machine-gun fire as shown in this picture, made from the plane. The U-boat, en route to the Atlantic, was forced to surface when the Sunderland dropped bombs. Then, bombs exhausted, the Sunderland subjected the submersible to such fire that she fled, half-submerged, leaving a trail of oil on the water.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Is Lauded For Donation

CAMPBELLFORD, June 30. — (ENS).—Any questions of importance arising during the summer months will be dealt with by their executive it was announced at the regular meeting of the I.O.D.E. Bemersyde Chapter held Friday evening. It was decided that the executive should be empowered to deal with all matters of importance during the months of July and August when regular meetings are cancelled. The Regent, Mrs. G. A. Ironside, presided for the meeting and after the group attendance was given Mrs. S. A. Anderson gave the treasurer's report in the absence of Miss Kae Bygott. A letter from the Navy League, expressing thanks to the Chapter for their contribution of $200 made as a result of their annual tag day was read by the secretary. Seventeen emarkation parcels were reported awaiting preparation and two of the members, Mrs. J. M. Ferris and Mrs. R. E. Fox volunteered to pack these during the coming week. Mrs. Fox also gave the sewing convener's report, revealing that four dresses and a number of smaller articles were ready to be turned over to members for completion during the summer months. Two quilts were completed and ready for sale according to Mrs. George Hawthorne, who reported on this work. On receipts of a letter from the Kinsmen's Club at Cobourg it was decided to send a contribution of $5.00 to the Milk For Britain Fund. During the evening a draw was made among members on an angel cake donated by Miss Lillian Hay. Miss E. Ferris was the winner and the proceeds will augment those for Miss Hay's group and will be used for general work of the Chapter. The regular salvage report was given by Mrs. J. M. Ferris and a number of members were given tickets on which has been arranged as a means of raising funds for the I.O.D.E. by the Retail Furriers Association. Miss Dorothy Lock took over that portion of the program which is devoted to Empire Study and as feature of this gave a talk on 'Malta.' The group will not meet again until the first Thursday in September.

Two Of Havelock's Brides-to-Be Guests Of Honor

HAVELOCK, June 30—(ENS).— On Friday evening the United church Young Peoples' League met to do honor to Miss Eileen Brisbin, who has been their efficient president for the past year, and a most faithful member for many years.

A lively game of volley ball and other outdoor sports were enjoyed on the spacious church lawns, during the early part of the evening. Later in the church basement an informal program was given, then Miss Mary Page read an address and Miss Ruth Wilkinson presented Miss Brisbin with 3 decorated Gothic jugs. The bride-to-be replied in a few words, expressing her appreciation for the gifts and thanked the members for the fine co-operation she had received. All joined in singing "She's a jolly good fellow," after which delicious refreshments were served.

The teacher, pupils and parents of Old Havelock School held their annual picnic at McCutcheon's beach on Friday afternoon. After a fine program of water sports, racing, etc. the gathering was called to order and Mrs. C. Jenkins read an address to their teacher, Miss Eileen Brisbin, and Mr. John Menzies, trustee, presented her with a cheque for $25.00 as a wedding gift. Although completely taken by surprise, Miss Brisbin thanked her friends warmly and assured them she would not forget her two happy years as teacher of the Old Havelock School.

Ruth Edwards Honored

On Friday evening the closing meeting for the summer of the Young Peoples' Class at Gospel Mission Hall was held with splendid attendance.

The devotional service part was taken by Mrs. Ray Peters and Miss Helen Buchanan played a violin solo.

Miss Ruth Edwards, one of the young ladies in charge of the Mission Hall for the past year, and who is a bride-elect of August, was the guest of honor. During the program she was the recipient of a beautiful travelling bag, which was presented to her by Miss Helen Smith and the address was read by Mrs. J. Cornell. Miss Edwards thanked her friends for their kindness to her during her sojourn here.

Games and contests were much enjoyed and a lovely lunch was served.

Mare Battles Gander

GORE'S LANDING, June 30.— (ENS)—"The female of the species is more deadly than the male," was demonstrated on the farm of John Waldon this week, when a mare with a day-old foal battled with a gander.

Sensing a newcomer in the barnyard and asserting his position as head of the flock of geese, the gander hissed at the little colt. The mare grabbed the gander by the neck, tossed him high in the air and trampled on him when he hit the earth. Mr. Waldon rescued the badly hurt gander but was forced to kill the bird.

War...: and the Telephone

War has created an unprecedented demand for telephones. At the same time, it has diverted large quantities of telephone materials and equipment to war purposes—both in our factories and our armed forces.

The result is that it is no longer possible to satisfy all civilian demand for new installations. Even when new telephones must be installed, the choice of instruments and services is limited.

As a telephone user, you can help to safeguard telephone service in the interests of Canada's war effort by carefully observing these wartime telephone tactics:—

WARTIME TELEPHONE TACTICS

• BE SURE you have the right number, consult the directory.
• SPEAK DISTINCTLY, directly into the mouthpiece.
• ANSWER PROMPTLY when the bell rings.
• BE BRIEF. Clear your line for the next call.
• USE OFF-PEAK hours for Long Distance calls: before 9.30 a.m., 1-2 p.m., 5-7 p.m., after 9 p.m.

These things may look trifling, but on 6,500,000 daily telephone calls, they are very important.

Four Officers Go Down In The Rideau

Fail to Make Canal Raiding Ottawa City Police Station

OTTAWA, July 2 (CP)—Two soldiers were rushed to hospital and artificial respiration was continuing on two others beside the Rideau Canal today after the four went under while trying to swim the canal during an Army Week manoeuvre.

Defence Minister Ralston and several hundred spectators were on the canal bank when the men, with other troops, attempted to cross the 75 feet of water to "recapture" the city police station which, for purposes of the operation, was designated as being in Japanese hands.

Whether the four soldiers who failed to make the crossing would live was not known immediately, police said. Their identity was not disclosed at once, but they were believed to be from the Brockville, Ont., Officers' Training Centre.

At first it was believed by police that three men had been drowned but later it seemed probable that two would be the maximum toll.

Sailor Raises Alarm

Spectators praised a "big sailor" whose identity they did not know, for spreading the alarm promptly when he saw the soldiers sink, and for diving into the canal in efforts to rescue them.

It was some minutes however, before the men were brought to the surface and artificial respiration began.

The men were in full battle order.

Seven soldiers stationed in Ottawa played a prominent part in the rescue efforts: Pte. A. W. Weeden, Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps; Cpl. J. D. N. Roach, Corps of Military Staff Clerks; S. Sgt. J. R. Reardon, C.M.S.C.; Q.M.S. C. R. Anderson, Royal Canadian Engineers; Pte. P. R. Poulin, Royal Canadian Army

Arrest Twenty As U-Boat Aides

Army Headquarters, Panama Canal Zone, July 2 —(AP)—Lt. Gen. Frank Andrews, United States commander of the Caribbean area, announced today the arrest of 20 persons who, the army charges, formed spy rings engaged in fueling Axis submarines and disclosed information of United States shipping to the enemy.

A roundup completed June 25 included arrests extending from British Honduras to Panama.

Involved are prominent business men, laborers, night club hostesses, coast guard shipping employees, and trusted Panama Canal zone workers. All 20 persons are being held for trial.

The governor of British Honduras is awaiting the authority of the British government before determining trial procedure of those arrested in his territory.

Give McNaughton Charge Of Technical War For The Allies, Urges Lords' Deputy Speaker

LONDON, July 2.—(CP Cable).—Lord Denham, Deputy Speaker of the House of Lords, suggested in that chamber today that the services of Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian army in Britain, might be utilized in organizing the technical side of the war machine.

He praised Gen. McNaughton as a 'good soldier and a first-rate engineer.

Previously Lord Denham suggested that it might be well to bring home Gen. Sir Ahchibald Wavell and place him in a position of authority, such as chief of a combined general staff, where he could bring his experience to bear upon organization problems, particularly in the mechanization of the army.

Ottawa Holding Ceiling On Butter Bonus Farmer To Avoid Shortage

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 2.—(CP).—Butter consumers of Canada will continue to have the protection of the 35-cent-a-pound price ceiling for another year, but prices paid to farmers for milk sent to creameries will be increased by bonuses to make their returns more nearly in line with those of farmers whose milk is used for cheese, the Canadian Press was told today by an official source.

The 35-cent basic ceiling makes provision for slight increases in the winter months, which will also be continued.

Differences of long standing between the Agriculture Department and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board over butter prices have been composed as a result of conferences held this week between Agriculture Minister Gardiner and J. G. Taggart, the board's food administrator, it was learned.

Confronted with a butter shortage next winter unless butter production is stepped up, Agriculture Department experts have contended the only way to bring up production is to increase remuneration to the farmer. They urged that the 35-cent price ceiling be lifted.

On the other hand, the board has been fighting any increase in the ceiling price because of its effect on the cost of living.

As a result of this week's conferences, it has been decided to hold the price ceiling where it is and bonus the producers — presumably from Commodity Prices Stabilization Corporation funds.

Bonus Equals 40 Cent Butter

Exact amount of the bonus has not been worked out but it was believed the farmers will be paid for their milk including the bonus at a rate about equal to what they would receive without a bonus if butter sold slightly above 40 cents a pound.

The agriculture officials have generally opposed bonuses in lieu of what they call fair prices for farm products on the ground it places farmers in the light of getting gov-

Vichy Fearful Interned Fleet To Be Sunk

VICHY, July 2.—(AP).— Asking, "Do the English want to destroy our fleet at Alexandria " the Vichy government served notice in a semi-official statement to-day that any such action against the interned squadron would be considered "an act of violence."

(Nine war vessels of the French fleet have been interned at Alexandria since the summer of 1940).

Seizing on an article in the Times of London raising the question of putting the interned squadron out of commission lest it fall into the hands of Axis forces, the statement said this would be "a new act of violence which the English might perpetrate against the French fleet in the course of events which are now feared at Alexandria."

The interned squadron consists of the 23,000-ton battleship Lorraine, built is 1916; the new 10,000-ton cruisers Suffren, Tourville and Duquesne; the 7,000-ton cruiser Guguuay-Tourin, the destroyers Basque, Fortune and Fortin, and the submarine Protee.

Because of the equadron and French interest in the Suez canal interest in the Egyptian situation was marked here on this 144th anniversary of Napoleon's capture of Alexandria.

At the same time a Vichy source declared, "Informed circles in Vichy attach no more importance to the recent accusation of the Tass agency concerning shipment of supplies to the Germans through Tunisia than thep do to previous accusations by the same source on the same subject."

Girl's Death At Cottage Being Probed

17-Year-Old Girl Dies At Rice Lake Cottage In Mysterious Manner

GORE'S LANDING, July 2.—(ENS)—Shirley Anderson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Anderson of Cobourg died shortly after eight o'clock this morning while on a holiday near Gore's Landing and the cause of her death is unknown.

Miss Anderson with Sally Hall of Cobourg had gone to a cottage owned by the late Charles Pringle of Cobourg, a brotner-in-law of Tom Hall, Cobourg lawyer who is Sally Hall's father. On July 1, the girls along with Barbara Wallace of Gore's Landing planned a fishing trip for this morning, along with Jim Wallace, a brother of Barbara's who was to pick the girls up in a boat at the cottage.

Miss Sally Hall stated that shortly before eight o'clock today she heard Shirley moaning, and when sne rushed into the bedroom the girl was in a coma. Barbara Wallace immediately rushed to the cottage of her cousin, Miss Katherine McCausland of Toronto, a registered nurse, to get assistance. In the meantime Sally Hall applied artificial respiration but the girl died within fifteen minutes.

Dr. Wilkins of Cobourg was called, and so far he has not been able to determine what caused the death.

The girls state that last night before retiring Miss Anderson ate, a quantity of chocolates from a one-pound box, Sally Hall, had one, Barbara Wallace three and Shirley Anderson ate quite a number. Then they had a quantity of pop, but this was not unusual with them, but more or less of a nightly habit. Shirley Anderson's father was a traveller for a candy firm, but is now in the army.

Shirley Anderson attended Cobourg Collegiate and is a well known and popular member of the younger crowd.

BULLETIN

OTTAWA, July 2.—(CP)—Three cadets from the officers' training centre at Brockville, Ont., were reported to be recovering in hospital and artificial respiration was still continuing on two others beside the Rideau Canal after the five went under while swimming across the Canal. The three in hospital were Cadet Leonard Rockwell of Brockville, Cadet Graham Perry of Montreal and Cadet Jack Dunklee of St. Catharines, Ont.

Russians Battle On Hand to Hand Odds Ten to One

MOSCOW, July 2 (AP)—Overwhelming German forces carried the battle into the city of Savastopol itself after breaking through its fortifications, but defenders of the Black Sea base continued to fight against heavy odds, Soviet dispatches said today.

The dispatch ended: "Nevertheless the glorious defenders of Sevastopol continue their stubborn resistance to the enemy."

With hand to hand fighting going on and the Germans numerically 10 to 15 times superior, at some points Red army troops and Black Sea fleet sailors were reported to be refusing to surender.

One company which repulsed five attacks by two enemy battalions retreated only when the Germans sent in a third, fresh battalion.

An artillery battery was cited also for firing constantly until it was outflanked and surrounded. Then it broke its way through the enemy encirclement and resumed fighting.

The Government said at noon today that Russian soldiers fought on overnight in the Sevastopol sector and the Red army amassed a toll of about 7,000 German dead in repulsing attacks over a 48-hour period on the Kursk front 500 miles to the north.

In London, the German claim to have captured the Crimean naval base is "not doubted" informed British sources said today.

Fighting in the Crimea is not entirely finished but remaining Russian troops are not expected to continue their resistance much longer, it was stated.

"The defenders of Sevastopol have covered themselves with unfading glory," the Soviet information bureau said "They are firmly and hourageously defending from the German Fascist invaders every inch of Soviet Land."

Guerillas Kill 1,000.

A guerilla detachment in the region of German-occupied Orel was declared to have slain nearly 1,000 invaders in two montns, battered their communication lines and captured rifles, machine guns and several thousand cartridges.

Numerically-superior German forces seeking to expand their lodgments east of Kharkov were declared to have sacrificed more than 1,000 men in two days of action against Soviet lines and then "retreated to their original positions.

"In the Kursk direction our troops beat off German attacks, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy," the information bureau said. 'In two days of fighting Soviet units destroyed 39 German tanks and armored cars, 54 mortars and 24 guns"

Fresh details on the battle of Sevastopol were lacking here, but

Struggle In No Way Decided, Says Premier Adding "Grave News Impending" From Battle Only 70 Miles Off Alexandria

Battle Rages Unabated For Fleet Base, Both Armies All Out

CAIRO, July 2— (AP) —British forces, making their stand in defence of Egypt on a line approximately 70 miles west of Alexandria, repulsed heavy Axis attacks yesterday at El Alamein, British headquarters announced today.

Results of the righting were "not unfavorable for us," a communique declared.

"One attack by enemy tanks effected a temporary break in a defended locality," it added, "but later the enemy tanks were driven out and engaged by our columns."

Allied bombers, meanwhile, stepped up their attacks on Axis land forces, blasting away at lines of communication, supply depots and concentrations of mechanized units.

The air operations were carried out despite heavy sandstorms, headquarters declared. Especially heavy attacks were reported concentrated on the Axis airdrome near Sidi Barani, where seven enemy planes were destroyed and many others damaged.

While the main fighting on the land front apparently was centred directly west of El Alamein, mobile columns further south yesterday lashed out 17 miles west of the main defence line to engage enemy forces just north of the Qattara depression, the communique declared.

The stand by the British forces followed a 350-mile retreat across the desert in less than three weeks.

Rome Claims Al Elemein

In Rome, the Italian high command claimed today that Axis troops had stormed and captured El Elamein, 65 miles west of Alexandria.

The British positions were "tenaciously defended," the high command said, asserting they were overrun after sharp fighting.

(The claim lacked confirmation.)

"Our air force, which repeatedly intervened in the field, dominated the battle i nthe sky," the communique asserted. "The R.A.F. in air combats lost nine planes."

The Italians also claimed that Axis bombers had made violent assaults upon Malta, during which 11 British planes were shot down without an Axis loss.

The high command said that British planes had attacked the Island of Scarpento in the Eastern Mediterranean 28 mile southwest of Rhodes, but declared they did no damage.

Back Door To Russia At Stake

It seemed certain, however, that on the outcome of the battle depended not only the fate of Alexandria with its great naval base, but the whole British positions in the Eastern Mediterranean and the Allies' backdoor supply route to Soviet Russia.

The 8th Army was bolstered for the struggle by support troops and reserves stretching back across the desert to Alexandria, and it appeared that Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck

WASHINGTON, July 2. —(AP).—President Roosevelt created today a military commission of seven generals to try eight persons accused of landing in Florida and New York to try to commit sabotage.

Berlin Boasting Not Too Loud On Egypt Yet

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), July 2 — (AP). — The German high command claimed to-day that Axis forces were pursuing a British retreat toward the Nile Delta after having broken through the defenders' El Alamein position 65 miles west of Alexandria.

The high command also claimed a German submarine, off Port Said, Mediterranean terminus of the Suez Canal sank an 1,800-ton British munitions steamship.

Despite the high command's report of a break-through in the Battle of Egypt, Berlin military quarters are not of the opinion that Egypt will now drop easily into the hands of German and Italian forces, the Transocean News Agency said.

"It is rather expected that in view of the importance attached to the positions hitherto held by the British that they will put up a fierce fight," the agency despatch continued.

"It is not believed in these quarters that the British Fleet has steamed off to the Red Sea as some reports would have it.

"British warships have probably departed from Alexandria, but this move is not interpreted in Berlin military circles as proof that they have also left the Mediterranean or that they intend doing so for the time being, since the Fleet is an almost indispensable factor for England in the present defence fighting or British positions in Egypt."

Mr. King Sees Day Near For Canucks

OTTAWA, July 2.—(CP).—Another hopeful augury of future aggressive action by the United Nations has been sounded by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, fresh from important strategy talks in Washington with Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt

In a brief holiday message to the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. King said the day may be close at hand when the Canadian army will have "an honored place in the van of attack."

The Prime Minister spoke while flights of Royal Canadian Air Force planes wheeled verhead in salute to army units parading on Parliament Hill, sometimes witl sc loud a roar the speech was difficult to hear.

"The Canadian army is not an instrument built only to resist attack," said the Prime Minister's

50,000 Troops Lost In Two Weeks; Tobruk, Real Shock

By DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 2 —(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill won an overwhelming vote of confidence from the House of Commons today after he had gravely assessed the Allied position in the Mediterranean and Middle East war zones as a near-disaster with a hope of victory pinned no "very considerable" reinforcements now in progress. The vote was 475 to 25.

The parlaimentary victory came at the end of a speech one hour and 28 minutes long in which Mr. Churchill staunchily defended his direction of the war as the best possible under the circumstances.

Mr. Churchill sketched a dark picture of the battle of Egypt. He said it had developed "a recession of our hopes and prospects in the Middle East and Mediterranean unequalled since the fall of France."

To this he added, without elaboration, a statement that "at any moment we may receive news of grave importance."

The 475 to 25 vote left 115 of the House's 615 members unaccounted for. Some members undoubtedly expressed partial disapproval of the government by abstaining from the vote but many could not attend the session because of wartime duties and other causes.

Given Great Ovation

Tremendous cheering greeted announcement of the vote. The opposition vote was the highest since the prime minister took office May 10, 1940.

The motion upon which the vote was taken was the first censure resolution introduced against the present government. Previous votes had been taken on the government's motions. The latest of these was the 464 to 1 vote of last Jan. 29.

The appiause was still ringing when Mr. Churchill left the House today. He stopped at the door, turned, lifted his fingers in the "V-For-Victory" sign and went back to work.

Mr. Churchill's sombre portrayal of the war in Africa was relieved only by his statement that "very considerable" reinforcements have reached or "are approaching" the battlefield.

This major strengthening of the 8th Army, athwart the Axis path to the Nile Delta, Alexandria and Suez, was basis of Mr. Churchill's statement that "I do not consider the struggle in any way as decided."

This appraisal of the Allied position in Africa and the Middle East, evoked by two days of debate in the House of Commons on Mr. Churchill's conduct of the war, was given in a speech which also touched upon the Prime Minister's recent consultations with President Roosevelt,

He said the conversations were concerned "only with movement of troops, ships and aircraft and measures to be taken to combat losses at sea and more than replace sunken tonnage."

All Details Secret As Yet

"Almost everything arranged was secret," Mr. Churchill added of his talks with the President, and "there was never a more earnest desire between Allies to engage the enemy."

In the closing passages of his historic reply, just before Commons

Lack of Water May Crimp Rommel's Race

Battle Tide May Sway Either Way, Favoring British Longer It Goes

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Waiting for the decision in the battle for Egypt is like sitting outside an operating room in a hospital while a surgeon wields his scalpel in a life or death operation.

The momentous engagement across the desert near El Alamein, 65 miles west of the naval base of Alexandria, may be one of the threads upon which hang our way of life. Equally it may determine the fate of the Nazi.

Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, the British commander, has, ended the withdrawal of his army and deliberately precipitated a battle. At latest reports the fighting was along a front of about 40 miles between the confines of the sea and the Qattara depression which forms a barrier to military operations and so would protect the Allied left flank.

Gen. Auchinleck chose this position because only a few miles further east the Qattara depression ends and the desert widens out Thus further retirement would present Nazi Field Marshal Rommel with an opportunity to outflank the enemy on their southern wing.

It was the supreme moment for which Rommel had been striving since he not only was anxious to engage the British force before the latter had a chance to re-organize, but he wanted to do battle before his dangerously drawn out lines of communication were further extended. The Nazi commander's supply lines likely are his greatest menace, especially since the Allies claim air superiority and warplanes have raked his communications upon which both armies depended for their very lives, especially water, every drop of which had to be transported over the burning sands under bombardment.

Early reports left the trend of the battle uncertain. The Italians to-daly claimed the capture of El Alamein Berlin followed this up with the ansertion that the Axis forces had broken the enemy line There as no immediate confirmation of this, British headquarters merely recording a repulse of heavy Axis attacks yesterday and saying that the fighting was 'not unfavorable to us.'

Meanwhile, ovtr on the other side of Hitler's pincers operation the Nazis claimed the capture of the important naval base of Sevastopol which the German communique described as the 'most powerful land and sea fortress in the world' Informed quarters in London said thev didn't doubt the Berlin claim."

Torpedo Ship In Daylight

Craft Goes Down in Flames in Sight of U.S. Port

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, July 2 (AP)—A large United States cargo ship was torpedoed in broad daylight June 28 off the Atlantic coast and burning brightly amidship, went to the bottom almost within sight of her home port after going through more than 18,000 miles of submarine-infested waters during the past several months.

A nearby vessel rescued the torpedoed ship's entire crew of 50 within a few minutes and landed them here two hours later, the Navy announced in releasing news of the sinking today.

Two seamen, John Johnson of Dover, N.J., and Vincent Shine of Ozone Park, Long Island, N.Y. were trapped on the foremast and mainmast by flames and smoke which poured from the ship immediately after the attack but slid down wire stays to the deck.

Special Hydro Guard Unit

Provincial Group Also to Watch Gov't Buildings

TORONTO, July 2.—(CP).—Attorney General G. D. Conant said to-day that a special branch of the Ontario provincial police will be set up to guard the province's Hydro-Electric power plants and all provincial government buildings and works.

The new branch will be organized after he has made a personal survey of all power plants, Mr Conant said. An officer will be selected to head the special guard branch on a full-time basis, and it will require several hundred men.

Mr. Conant will begin his survey next Wednesday, accompanied by W. H. Stringer, provincial police commissioner. Travelling by plane, they first will visit Ottawa river plants, then Abitibi Canyon, Nipigon, Port Arthur and Niagara

The decision to increase protection against possible sabotage followed the capture in the United States last week of Nazi agents whose plans for sabotage included Niagara Hydro plants.

LACK OF VISION IS CHARGED AGAINST THE BRITISH ARMY HEADS

Bevan Lashes British Army Heads

Charges Lack of Vision Class Prejudice, Demands 2nd Front

LONDON, July 2—(CP).—Aneurin Bevan, Labor, opening the second day of discussion on conduct of the war, told the House of Commons today that while Winston Churchill probably will win the debate, "the country is more concerned with the Prime Minister winning the war."

"He wins debates and loses battle after battle," the day's first opposition speaker said.

The Prime Minister and the Government lack elementary knowledge of modern war and it is "disgraceful that British soldiers' lives should be lost," Mr. Bevan asserted.

"The British army is ridden by class prejudice and you will have to change it. If the House does not make the Government change it, events will.

Lack of Vision at Top

The British people cannot tolerate the comparison of Sevastopol "holding out for months and the collapse of Tobruk in six hours," Mr. Bevan continued, and the loss of battles "not by lack of courage but by lack of vision at the top."

Recalling the taunt that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, if he were in the British army, would still be a sergeant, Mr. Bevan disclosed that Michael Dunbar, who was chief of staff for the Spanish Republicans in the victorious Battle of the Ebro River, is a sergeant in a British armored brigade.

Mr. Bevan charged the army has "no confidence" in the "former civil servant," Sir James Grigg, whom the Prime Minister "plucked from respectable obscurity" to become Secretary for War.

Mr. Bevan said the British and Russian peoples expect a second front against Germany and "we have got to do it this year."

DamageCharges Are Dismissed

Declaring that there was too much doubt to register a conviction, Magistrate O.A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning dismissed a charge against Earl Shisler of doing wilful damage to the property of Hum Horning.

A similar charge against Thomas Brooks was dismissed when the crown called no evidence.

In the charge against Shisler, Hum Horning stated that he heard a crash in the downstair washroom and when he went to the head of the stairs Shisler and Brooks were coming up. He had stopped them and sent for the police. Hum Horning said that three electric light bulbs and a globe had been shattered. Apparently the globe had been thrown against the side of the wall next to the stairs. The witness stated that Shisler and Brooks were the only two persons downstairs and that the front door of the restaurant had been locked five minutes before because the place was crowded.

Shisler and Brooks swore that the damage had been done by an American member of the Royal Canadian Air Force who was just coming out of the washroom as they got down stairs. They said they saw him break the globe and that he had then gone upstairs They swore that the door of the restaurant was locked by Hum Horning after he had stopped them at the top of the stairs.

Sergt. John Thompson of the police department called by the crown after the defence had concluded said that the boys had told the same story about the American airman when they were questioned by police immediately after the complaint had been received from the Mayfair restaurant.

began voting on a motion to censure his Government for its direction of the war, Mr. Churchill said:

"I have stuck hard to my 'blood, toil, sweat and tears,' to which I have added muddles and mismanagement."

The war, in Mr. Churchill's opinion, is likely to be a long one and moreover, he said ,there is no reason to suppose that hostilities will cease "when the final result has become obvious."

He paid tribute to the Russians for their "steady resistance" to the Germans, and predicted they would "surprise Hitler again."

Mr. Churchill met his critics with a blunt account of the Libyan defeat.

Grave News Due

"At any moment we may receive news of grave importance, he told the House of Commons on the heels of Axis claims that the British 8th Army, driven with heavy losses from Libya and its first Egyptian positions, was again in retreat, less than 70 miles from Alexandria.

He said that the fall of Tobruk, the last bulwark in Egyptian Libya, which opened the way for eastward invasion of Egypt, had been "utterly unexpected" by the Cabinet, the chiefs of staff and Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, commander in chief of Middle Eastern forces.

Winding up two days of debate on the grave events in Africa, and facing another test of confidence in his Government, Mr. Churchill spoke soberly to the grave-faced Parliament.

He said that Britain and her allies, including the Dominions, the Free French and the Poles, had lost "upwards of 50,000 men" in the last two weeks as the battle of Libya turned into the battle of Egypt.

He added to this figure "a great mass of material" and "large quantities of stores."

On the night before the Libyan bastion, Tobruk, fell to the Axis, Mr. Churchill said, Gen. Auchinleck advised the Cabinet that the port and fortress city was adequately garrisoned, with its defences in "good order" and with "90 days supplies available for the troops."

He said Tobruk was garrisoned by about 25,000 men and that generally British resources had been much larger than those of the Axs. In Libya, at the start of the battle, he said, the British forces had 100,000 men and the Axis 90,000 of which 50,000 were Germans.

Had Edge In Taks, Too

"We had superiority in numbers of tanks of perhaps seven to five and superiority in artillery of nearly eight to five," he added.

By way of explanation of the defeat, Mr. Churchill said that heavy air attacks on Malta, Mediterranean base aflank the Axis supply line to Libya, made it impossible to impede the Axis reinforcements and the enemy "got lots of stuff across to Africa."

He said the decision to defend Tobruk had been made by Gen. Auchinleck with concurrence of the War Cabinet and its professional advisers and as a result "I am very ready on behalf of my government to take my full share of responsibility."

Criticism of Mr. Churchill's direction of the war has been associated in the debate with the fact that he is both Prime Minister and Miniser of Defence. One group of critics in Commons has been demanding that he yield the defence post to another who could devote more time to it.

While Mr. Churchill assumed responsibility for Tobruk, he nevertheless lashed out at his detractors with a charge that "everything had been done to weaken confidence in the Government."

"Military misfortunes of the last fortnight in Cirenaica and Egypt have completely transformed the situation not only in that theatre but throughout the Mediterranean", he said.

Expected By No One

The fall of Tobruk was "utterly unexpected" by the cabinet, the chiefs of staff and Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, commander in chief in the Middle East, he disclosed.

On the night before Tobruk's capture, Gen. Auchinleck telegraphed the cabinet that the city was garrisoned with "defences in good order" and "90 days' supplies available for our troops," Mr. Churchill said.

The decision to hold Tobruk was by Gen. Auchinleck, he said, but the war cabinet and its professional advisers "thoroughly agreed with him" and "I am ready on behalf of the government to take my full share of the responsibility."

Tobruk was garrisoned by "about 25,000 men," the Prime Minister disclosed, lashing at his critics in a biting phrase:

"To blame the Army is mean and to blame your predecessor is contemptible."

British resources were "much larger" than those of the Axis, "and so were our approaching reinforcements," he continued, as he swung into a discussion of the opening phase of the Libyan campaign.

He Let the Generals Alone

Replying to charges that he tried to direct the battle from 10 Downing street in London, Mr. Churchill said the policy had been "not to worry the generals but to leave them alone to do their job."

Mr. Churchill said he found it "difficult to believe Tobruk had fallen" when on June 21 he went into President Roosevelt's room in Washington and heard the report.

"The decision was taken to the best of my knowledge by the commander of the fortress," he said.

He declared that his feelings had been aggravated in the following days by "distorted accounts of the feeling in Great Britain" with headlines such as "Commons Demands Churchill Return: Face Accusers" and "Churchill Returns to Supreme Crisis."

"Such an atmosphere" he termed "naturally injurious to a British representative negotiating great matters of state upon which the larger issues of war depend."

Nevertheless he said he believed "the bonds of comradeship between all men at the top were actually strengthened" by the press reports.

The Prime Minister said he "explained to my hosts" that those "who were voluble in Parliament in no way represent the House of Commons" just as a "small handful of correspondents who pour out damaging utterance of our affairs to the United States and Australia in no way represent the honorable profession of journalism."

His conversations with Mr. Roosevelt were concerned "only with the movement of troops, ships and aircraft," he said, "and measures to be taken to combat losses at sea and more than replace sunken tonnage."

50000 troops .... Take.9.. ...

"Almost everything arranged was secret," Mr. Churchill said, declaring "there was never a more earnest desire between the Allies to engage the enemy."

The United States is building this year "for times as much gross tonnage" as the British are building "and will build eight to 10 times more in 1943.'

Malta Stronger Than Ever.

Returning to the Libyan campaign, he said Malta is "now stronger in aircraft than ever before" but during heavy attacks it was impossible for the fortress to "impede (Axis) reinforcements to Tripoli and Bengasi" and the enemy got lots of stuff across to Africa."

When the battle for Libya opened the British had 100,000 men and the enemy 90,000 of which 50,000 were Germans, Mr. Churchill disclosed.

"We had superiority in the number of tanks of perhaps seven to five and superiority in artillery of nearly eight to five," he said.

British equipment included the latest model of 55-pound howitzers and 'it is not true' that the 8th army had to face enemy 50-pound-rible hazards and unforeseeable accidents of battle."

The army in Libya "so far has been overpowered and driven back," but he said "I must make it clear that this is not due to any conscious or willful grudging of men and material."

Part of the Australian forces were removed from the Middle East "to defend their homeland" and "important troops" had to go to India and forces intended for the Middle East had to remain in India, he related.

Mr. Churchill said he hoped "there will be no disparagement of the United States shipbuilding program."

"Shipping losses have been very heavy lately and the bulk has been upon the eastern shores of America," he added.

Vast Supplies Sent East

The Prime Minister disclosed that there had been sent to the Middle East from the British Isles, the Empire, and "to a lesser extent the United States":

"More than 950,000 men, 4,500 tanks, 6,000 aircraft, nearly 5,000 pieces of artillery, 50,000 machine guns and over 100,000 mechanical vehicles." (These figures apparently cover the entrie Middle East: Syria, Iraq, Iran, Egypt as well as Libya.)

This was done in the period in which Britain was threatened by invasion and was sending large supplies to Russia.

Britain had to concentrate on numbers rather than quality of tanks when the "threat of invasion" hung over her, the Prime Minister said.

He said more than 2,000 tanks had been sent to Russia.

Replying to criticism that Britain lagged in tank design, he said the "Churchill tanks were designed as late as 1940 and would eventually prove a powerful massive serviceable weapon of war." The Commons cheered him.

A later tank possessing greater speed was designed the following year and plans have been made "to put it into production at the earliest moment' but neither of these types have yet been employed against the enemy, he said.

In the first battle in Libya, the "equipment was adequate" and in the second battle (apparently he referred to the most recent one) "we tried to make up by numbers for admitted inferiority in quality."

Chiefs Rap Dive Bombers.

Most air marshals think little of dive bombers, Mr. Churchill said. He reminded his critics who have called for 1,000 transport planes that these "have to come off our already far from adequate bombing force."

He was willing to accept 'constitutional responsibility or everything that has happened.

"I consider I discharged that responsibility by not interfering with the tactical handling of armies in contact with the enemy."

He said before the battle opened in Libya he urged Gen. Auchinleck to take command himself, but the General "gave various good reasons for not doing so, and Gen. Ritchie really fought the battle."

Gen. Auchinleck has since taken command of the 8th Army.

Mr. Churchill warned the House that the generals "will not run risks "unless they feel they have the loyal support of the majority."

Mr. Churchill said the balance of naval power in the Pacific has been "altered in our favor' by the "brilliant victories of the United States Navy and Air Force" over the Japanese in the Coral Sea and at Midway.

"I am confident that now a land invasion of Australia would be most hazardous and unprofitable operation for Japan," he declared.

"The splendid American achievements have not received the attention they deserve in these islands."

Obituaries

MRS. WILLIAM COLLINS

Friends will mourn the passing of a 94-year-old resident of this district, Mrs. Elizabeth Collins, 242 Romaine street, who died Tuesday after a long illness.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs George Connell, she was born in Keene and had lived in the Peterborough district all her life. The late Mr. William Collins, her husband, was a well-known lockmaster here. Mrs. Collins had the honor of being a charter member of St. James' Church, and when able was an active member.

Surviving he are a family — six daughters, Mrs. Agnes Gowie of London, Mrs. Ada Booth, Mary, Maude, Emma and Clara, all of Peterborough; three sons, George, Will and Charles of Peterborough; a sister, Agnes Connell, of Peterborough, and a brother, Jack Connell, of Indian River. The late Mrs. Collins also had twenty-seven grandchildren and thirty-six great-grandchildren.

The funeral service, which will be private, will take place Friday at 2.30 p.m. from the residence at 242 Romaine street with the Rev. F. W. Craik and the Rev. J. Dudgeon, assisting. Interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. THOMAS B. HATLEY

A resident of Peterborough for thirty-six years, Mrs. Thomas Hatley, 128 Rubidge street, died suddenly, Wednesday, at the age of 63.

The late Mrs. Hatley was born in London, England, and came directly from there to this city. She was the widow of the late Thomas B Hatley, and her illness was of very short duration as she was out carrying on her regular duties on Tuesday. Mrs. Hatley was a faithful member of the Pentecostal Assembly.

Left to mourn her passing are three daughters Mrs. C. Pennells, Toronto; Mrs. J. McKibben and Mrs. A. Frazzelle, both of Peterborough; and one son, Thomas, of this city.

The funeral service will take place Friday, at 2 p.m from the Nesbitt Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street. The Rev. G. A. Chambers will conduct the service and interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

WESLEY CHARLES FORD

After a long illness, another old Peterborough resident, Wesley C. Ford, 21 Western avenue, North Monaghan, a former employee of the Canadian National Railway for twenty-five years, died Wednesday in his 61st year.

Born in Berkshire, England, he came to Canada and settled in Peterborough over thirty-five years ago. He was a faithful member of St. James' Church and belonged also to the Ancient Order of Foresters.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Jessie Clapper; two daughters, Mrs. E. Robinson and Mrs. G. Raymond, both of Peterborough, and two sons, Leonard, R.C.E.R. U., overseas, and Douglas of Peterborough. There is also one sister, Mrs. E. Lambden, of Toronto.

The funeral will be held Friday, at 3.30 p.m., from the Nesbitt Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street, the Rev. W. Craik conducting the service. Interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. MAE LEHANE

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mae Lehane, which was held from the J. J. Duffus Funeral Parlors on Tuesday morning to St. Peter's Cathedral, was very largely attended by people throughout this district, from Montreal, Toronto Lindsay and Cobourg.

Requiem high mass which was offered for the repose of her soul was celebrated by Reverend K. Malane, who also preached the sermon on death.

Among those who attended from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. M. Mulhearn, Montreal; Mrs. James O'Shea and Mrs. O'Brien, Toronto; Mrs. H. N. Logue, Sharksville, Penn.; Mrs. Burns, Miss Margaret and Mr. Vincent Dwyer, Lindsay; Mrs. J. J. Collins, Misses Mary and Barbara and Master Jackie Collins of Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Herr, Mrs. Gerald Maloney and Mrs. David Garvey of Norwood.

The burial services at St. Peter's cemetery were conducted by Reverend Gregory Wolfe.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Frank Hickey, Edward Hickey, John Torpey, William Grady, Edward LaPlante and Nagle Phalen.

Members Score Federal Price Control

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 2.—(CP)—One Liberal and one Conservative member of the House of Commons yesterday joined in criticism of Federal Price Control authorities and the effect of their regulations on agriculture.

They were Tom Reid (Lib. New Westminster) and Lt.-Col. J. A. Ross (Con. Souris). Both spoke in the continuing budget debate in the House.

Mr. Reid warned members to be watchful of the powers granted the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and predicted many of the powers the Board now held would not be given up "without a fight."

Col. Ross said under the price control machinery farm prices were not based on equity and added: "I am satisfied that money is still in control, and is considered more important in some places than the essentials of life."

J. M. Dechene (Lib. Athabaska) and Dr. F. W. Gershaw (Lib. Medicine Hat) also spoke in the budegt debate.

Informed sources said it was probable the debate would be finished this week. If it ends today or Friday the House will resume study of the conscription-enabling measure.

As the House opened Prime Minister Mackenzie King recalled that it was the 75th anniversary of confederation. Referring to the observance of army week, he said the day might be close at hand when the army would have "an honored place in the van of attack."

Others who spoke on the occasion of Dominion Day were Conservative House Leader Hanson, C.C.F. House Leader Coldwell, New Democracy Leader Blackmore, and Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, former Min-

24,000 Bottles Of Pop, 2,500 Chocolate Bars 400 Dozen Hot Dogs Sold At C.G.E. Picnic

Luckily for the children there is still an ample supply of the goodies that are the nainstays of any picnic and on Wednesday the crowd of children attending the C G.E. annual picnic cleaned up on a tremendous amount of hot dogs, drinks, krackley nut and other delicacies.

A check-up late last evening revealed that 24,000 bottles of soft drinks of every description, 1,800 boxes of brackley nut, 400 dozen hot dogs, 2,500 chocolate bars, and 2,400 long suckers all disappeared into yawning mouths.

Another service th was taxed to capacity was the City Bus Lines. Special busses were put on the East City run to handle the crowds, and every bus was crowded.

Most of the troops involved in the manoeuvre crossed the canal without difficulty.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police began an immediate search of the canal in the vicinity of the manoeuvre for the men. Grappling irons were sent for and rowboats obtained to facilitate the search.

The Rideau Canal cuts through the Ottawa business district a few hundred yards from the Parliament Buildings, past the Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Railway yards. The police station is across the canal from the yards.

The manoeuvre, kept secret until a few minutes before it began, was an "It Can Happen Here" feature of th Capital's Army Week program.

ernment handout, whereas they would only be getting reasonable prices. However, the board officials have successfully stressed the serious effect on living costs if butter prices went higher.

The class of people hit by the new arrangement will be the farmers who make their own butter and sell to neighbors in the villages. They will not be able to participate in the bonus and cannot get more than ceiling price.

Cheese bonuses by the Dominion and Provinces, brings in returns to the farmers on a basis of slightly more than 23 cents a pound. It takes about twice as much milk to make a pound of butter as to make cheese and this would make the butter price around 46 cents if the prices were to be equalized.

The good prices for pigs and the fact skimmed milk from butter production is more valuable for feeding pigs than whey from cheese would pare down the butter prices somewhat.

Alarm Over Production.

What has made all parties anxious has been the falling off in butter production this summer, in the face of greatly increased domestic consumption because of the more abundant incomes of the ordinary consumer. Canadians are eating more than 2,000,000 pounds of butter each month in excess of the five year average consumption.

On June 1, the creamery butter in storage according to preliminary estimates was 11,331,000 pounds or approximtaely 3,500,000 pounds less than the five year average for that date and 8,600,000 pounds less than at June 1 of last year.

The feeling is that if butter production continues at the present basis there will not be enough stored up to last over next winter, the season when production usually falls off.

Agriculture experts say the bonus will not affect production immediately for it will not be sufficient to switch dairy farmers from cheese for which the demand from the United Kingdom continues urgent, or condensed milk for which the war demand is increasingly great

The bonus will, however, encourage farmers to increase winter milk production and enlarge their herds for next sping.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTI[illegible]

With an entry t[illegible]r surpassed anything the com[illegible] had hoped for, the Dominio[illegible] local tournament went all-[illegible] well over the top. It once [illegible]oved what a live committee [illegible] when they have the co-opera[illegible] of the club members. And when [illegible]e say "liv[illegible] committee we mean ju[illegible]t that—they worked hard and th[illegible] club as a whole benefits by thei[illegible] work.

Not since around 1936 has the Dominion Day tournament been such a success. Well over a hundred members, ladies and gentlemen, took part in the day's games.

Commencing around 1:45 o'clock and playing right through until 10:30 p.m., the boys and girls gave all they had and all seemed to enjoy the day's fun. To Dr. C. Fulford goes the honor of skipping his own schedule rink into first place. It was his first attempt in an open tournament and a swell job he made of it.

Ralph Burns' quartette came second, but he made Fulford and company step lively and in the four-end playoff it was no cinch.

Benny Chesler's rink came in for third place and only for a great big six-end that Percy Moore slipped over Benny—and slipped is the word —Benny might have been furth[illegible] up.

As Chairman Clegg said when he presented the prizes, the competition was keen but friendly, and he thanked all the members for helping to put over the biggest local tournament in many years.

Looking over the prize list we notice that the daily doubles are Dr. and Mrs. C. Fulford, Mr. and Mrs. F. Dawe, Mr. and Mrs. G. Spence.

The ladies staged a little tournament all their own and they, too, had a grand time. They played three 12-end games and also had a playoff for third position.

It's not very often an eight-end is scored, but Mrs. J. Baird did that little thing yesterday afternoon at the expense of Mrs. Martin's rink. And just in passing, this same Mrs. Baird is setting up a pace that is going to be hard to beat. Anyway, take it all in all, it was a great day."

To-morrow night will be for me[illegible] rings—draw from the board at the usual time.

We have no report from the boys who played in the Withrow Park tournament, and we have no report from those who took part in the Oshawa tournament.

All Except Mitch

Toronto July 1 (CP).

WITH the exception of Premier Mitchell Hepburn, all members of the Hepburn household at St. Thomas have scarlet fever, the Premier reported at Queen's Park yesterday.

Mrs. Hepburn, Peter and Patsy and Mrs. William Tapsell, the foreman's wife, have had the disease for several days. Helen, another of the daughters, was afflicted yesterday.

Premier Hepburn was given an immunizing serum and tests showed he has not contracted the fever.

Grove Cadets Enjoy Summer Camp

LAKEFIELD, July 2. — Returned from ten days at Naval Camp on Beausoleil Island, a large party of cadets and staff from the Lakefield Preparatory School broke up at the H.M.C.S. York, Naval Barrack, Toronto. The lads, 52 in number, with 11 officers, carried on as aboard ship with strict naval discipline and the day broken into watches. The duty watch of 20 boys served in the kitchen as cook's help, peeled potatoes, carried wood, served their fellows at table, washed dishes, swabbed deck, while another party stood signal sentry on the bridge to report the comings and goings of ship's boats, receive visitors, log the weather, and command the ship for the day.

Thorough Course

A solid program of instruction in seamanship, navigation, first-aid, naval history and customs was given the lads. Among the instructors engaged especially for the ten-day intensive course was A. O. Phillips, St. John Ambulance Association, of Peterborough, who served also as sick bay officer at the camp; Dr. Edwin Smith, R.N.R. (ret.), F.R.-A.S., of Pickering, instructed the cadets in navigation and astronomy, and Chief Petty Officer George Lee, D.S.M., of Lakefield, taught the boys seamanship. G. Winder Smith, headmaster of Grove School, was in charge of the Lakefield party, while Thomas Crawford and Stanley Rickard of the school staff, served in other capacities. The corps carried out the routine for the day under its own boy officers, headed by Phillip Carr-Harris, Kingston. As a compliment to the boys of Lakefield Prep. School, two of their numbers are now serving for the summer at the camp: Sub-Liutentant John Agnew, Kingston, as instructor; and Pat Arnoldi, Toronto, as cook's help.

Hammock Sleeping

The sound of the bugle at seven in the morning was followed by the pipes of the boatswain's mates, and the traditional naval cry of Heave to show a leg, lash up and stow." From that point the boys carried out a program for the day after the pattern of life aboard ship. And for the time being, "floors" became decks, "walls, bulkheads. Through the Navy League, which sponsors the camp, the instructors had several row-boats, dinghies, a five-banked gig, a power launch and the 75-foot schooner-rigged yacht Oriole IV to teach navigation and seamanship. And Chief Petty Officer Lee, with 28 years in the Royal Navy, turned many a landlubberish boy happily into the paths of nautical learning.

In their duty watch the lads, aged 12 to 17 wore the uniform of midshipmen, blue serge with gold buttons and stripes, and the peaked-cap with white top. And their parade through Midland, en route to camp, brought forth admiring remarks. Since the Lakefield boys' visit to Midland, a troop of sea cadets numbering 43 is in formation.

Many Use Camp

Every ten days through this summer a lot of 170 sea cadets will train at Camp Queen Elizabeth under officers lent by the Naval Service, Department of National Defence and the Navy League. Camp Commandant is Sub-Lieutenant Jack McInnis of Quebec City, and the manager, Lieutenant of Sea Cadets Dick Goodhaye of Collingwood. The boys are housed in mess-decks or individual bunk-houses, where 20 hammocks can be hung. And the first night in hammocks finds many lads unfamiliar and falling out to the floor below. In the morning, after naval fashion, the boys learn to "lash up and stow" their beds.

The Lakefield boys moved into the new camp almost before the carpenters' hammers left off ringing, and had a good deal of spade work to do in trimming the property about the "ship on land." However, the boys pitched in with a right good will to the point where one navy veteran said, "Had they been men aboard ship with so arduous a routine, they'd surely have mutinied."

Before the proper flag-staff was erected, a jury-mast was rigged, and the blue ensign was raised to float in the northern breeze at Camp Queen Elizabeth for the first time. This was followed by the anouncement read from a cable to H. R. Gillard, Navy League Executive, that Queen Elizabeth had given gracious consent to the use of her name for the camp.

First church service aboard the "ship" was takn entirely by the boy officers, who read the lesson, and led the singing of fine old hymns connected with the sea. A short and vitally interesting talk was given at the service by Dr. Smith, speaking on St. Paul's shipwreck, in which Dr. Smith retraced the course of the ancient's ship into harbor at Malta. This course, Dr. Smith had found in research, when stationed after the Great War with the Navy in the Mediterranean.

Among boys of Peterborough and immediate neighborhood attending the camp on Beausoleil Island were Sub.-Lt. Edgar Moore, Peterborough; Midshipman Kaye Fraser, Burleigh Falls; David Addyman, Peterborough; James Crozier, Lakefield; Stead Lumb, Bancroft; Presley Nickle, Madoc; Robert Meggs, Gore's Landing.

Jap Retreat In B.C.

Ottawa, July 2 (CP)

T. J. O'NEILL (Lib. Kamloops) related in the House of Commons last night a story of Japanese in a British Columbia labor camp "getting out of hand" and advancing on a residence only to be scared away by the lone woman occupant wielding a 30-30 rifle.

He said the woman's efforts succeeded in discouraging the Japanese and their retirement constituted "the first Japanese retreat in British Columbia."

Find Girl's Body

CALEDONIA, July 2 — (CP). — Body of Miss Dorothy Hamilton, 21, of Beamsville, was recovered from the Grand River Tuesday by police who had dragged the river all night with firemen and volunteer workers.

The young woman who was employed at the Otis-Fensom plant at Hamilton came out to the river on a fishing trip with W. H. Byrons, Hamilton. She is said to have slipped in while walking on the dam.

Music For The East

New York, July 2 (AP).

MAYOR La Guardia yesterday dispatched to a British Middle East hospital one alto and one melody saxophones and two clarinets for use in the hospital band to replace instruments "lost in action."

The mayor obtained the instruments through Bundles for Britain, Inc., in response to a cable from a Major Morey of the 64th General Hospital, Middle East Forces.

Bundles for Britain appealed through the New York press and obtained from manufacturers and individuals 20 band instruments and hundreds of reeds. The mayor personally supervised packing of the instruments and said:— "Well, there you are. They can get anything they ask for in New York."

"I DO A MAN'S JOB NOW!"

1. I once thought I'd never be able to stick this wartime job, but my friend Millie took to it like a duck to water. "You should improve your diet," she warned me. "You need Post's Bran Flakes, the delicious cereal with three benefits."

2. "Post's Bran Flakes will help you to avoid constipation due to lack of bulk," she said. "They're wholesome and nourishing and simply delicious to eat. And they provide useful quantities of the iron and phosphorus your body needs."

3. It's lucky for me I took her advice. I eat those scrumptious Post's Bran Flakes every morning now! Mom makes them into lovely Post's Bran muffins for me, too. I always feel fit now. As Millie says, I do a man's job now!

Eat Them for 3 Important Benefits:

They help prevent constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet.

They contain useful quantities of iron for the blood and phosphorus for bones and teeth.

Crisp, golden flakes — full of delicious taste-tempting flavor and so good for you, too.

Miss Macphail On Education

Speaking to a Home and School Club in Burlington, Miss Agnes Macphail criticised secondary school education in this province sharply; "Secondary schools are infected with a fatal case of dry rot," she said. She is reported to have continued her remarks thus: "The curriculum is not designed for boys and girls to go out and solve their own problems; only five per cent. of the secondary school students go to university now; there are no schools designed for the 95 per cent. except technical schools; the regular secondary school is just so much truck." Miss Macphail feels that cultural heritage, the way of earning a living for the student and democratic mechanism should be studied. We agree with her in part, but we should like to hear her express her views more fully; that is to say, we agree with Miss Macphail that the curriculum of our secondary schools is capable of improvement, but we, like Miss Macphail, have clearly formed ideas as to what form this improvement should take, and we are not sure that we are in complete agreement with her in matters of detail.

For instance, we are out of sympathy with any move to sacrifice the academic side of high school teaching to the purely utilitarian or vocational side. The study of languages, history and literature will not help a high school student to make a living, but it will do much to teach him how to live. Living is more than mere getting and spending of money and avoiding death as long as possible; much of a man's living is done in his head, and if that head is ill-furnished the living will be squalid, however prosperous the man's material circumstances may be. At present Canada has a literate, but not an educated public; to reduce the amount of academic education given to high school pupils might produce more skilled workers, but it would also create in this country an industrial peasantry, earning large wages but incapable of intelligent self-government. This is to be avoided at all costs.

But as to the study of cultural heritage we are in complete agreement with Miss Macphail. At present such hints as the teachers are able to give regarding the inter-relation of ideas, and the essential unity of history, art and science, have to be crowded into the moments which can be spared from the actual imparting of facts. Education in its highest sense begins only when the learning of facts is finished, and it would be a great step forward in our educational system if some time on the curriculum could be cleared for this work of unifying and inter-relating what the student has learned.

The study of democratic mechanism could be profitable if it were combined with a study of political systems generally. If we expect democracy to flourish we must show young people that it is the best system for them to live under by comparing it with other systems as they have been tried and as they exist elsewhere. Our country needs political education badly, and such political education as may now be combined with the teaching of history is not enough. The indifference of the democratic peoples to all politics save party politics during the past twenty years is one of the main reasons why we are engaged in a bitter war today.

We are not quite sure that Miss Macphail means by a study of ways of earning a living for the student. Surely this is a matter too closely connected with the welfare of the state as a whole to be profitably studied in school. In the ideal state, of course, there will be a congenial job for everybody, but no state is ideal and we see no prospect of an ideal state arising after this war. Certainly we are against any idea that the schools should undertake to supply skilled labor as this is needed; excellent as this scheme appears on the surface, in practice it would lead to abuses and coercion of young men and women who did not know their own minds. We should be glad to hear Miss Macphail enlarge her views on this interesting and important topic.

Egypt and Russia

An examination of the map shows that the battle for Egypt is taking place at a point which may be regarded as the southern end of the Russian front. A failure on our part to hold Egypt would deprive Russia of a supply route and would make a German pincer-movement against the Caucasus considerably easier. The battle of Egypt is, in fact, a vital part of the battle of Russia.

We have been assured by various official spokesmen and by Mr. Churchill himself that we are capable of holding Egypt and we can only hope that events will justify this optimism. So far as the Allied plan is discernible at present it appears to rely upon drawing the enemy deep into Egypt and forcing him to stretch his lines of supply while we shorten ours. Rommel has shown himself to be a military genius, but his tactical resource will do him no good unless he can force a quick decision. If his main force can be staved off long enough and his supply lines strafed from the air his drive may collapse or weaken sufficiently to enable our forces to counter-drive successfully. Desert warfare is by nature furious and shifting and the man whose drive is in full swing today may find himself in hasty retreat next week.

Our confidence in the eventual successful outcome of the Egyptian campaign is based upon Mr. Churchill's assurance. Although optimistic, he is not given to making predictions unless he knows that they can be realised, and we can only assume that in this instance he knows more than is apparent to most observers and that Rommel may find a surprise in store for him.

After the recent deliberations between Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt a statement was issued which promised that the United Nations would take action to divert German troops from the Russian front. Naturally nothing more specific was revealed, but such a promise is sure to worry the Nazi leaders. It is possible that it may confine their activities this year to sudden, sharp localized thrusts such as that at Kharkov and that a general offensive will not be attempted. We will not know what the cryptic statement of the two leaders meant until after action has been taken.

Meanwhile we can only watch the Egyptian battle with deep concern, knowing how fateful its outcome must be not only for British power in the East but for the cause of the United Nations and for Russia, our staunch ally.

Dogs And Best Friends

In our issue of June 10 we published a short note in these columns about the Don't Call-Nazis-Dogs Because - Dogs - Are-Nice Society which was having a jamboree in New York; we were not polite about this organization; we hinted that it made us sick. We also said a few words about dogs; specifically we said, "we have nothing against dogs, though we admit freely that we could live happily if we were told that we should never see a dog again."

A dog-lover in North Dakota has written to us, in a most reasonable and charming way, to dispute this matter. He sends us some clippings, designed to prove that the dog is man's best friend. He sends us a tribute paid to dogs by U.S. Senator Vest; he sends us "A Dog's Prayer For His Master"; he even sends us a picture of a dog who is visiting his sick master—the sagacious animal appears to be feeling the man's pulse—which he has clipped from the Examiner! This literature has made us wonder if we were not wrong about dogs; they seem to be very high-minded beasts. Listen, for instance, to this affecting extract from the dog's "Prayer": "Give him (the master) a face cheerful like unto my wagging tail; give him a spirit of gratitude like unto my licking tongue". We could use a dog with a style like that right here on this paper.

Our friend in North Dakota suggests that we should step out, lift our hat to the first dog we meet and say to him humbly, "I beg your pardon, sir" (or madam, as the case may be). We shall certainly attend to this matter the very next rainy day, when we are wearing a hat. Meanwhile, we think that we should clarify our position before we are sent to the dog-house by other irritated dog-lovers.

We repeat, we have nothing against dogs. We prefer cats, but dogs are all right. What we do not like is dog-worship. And we do not believe that a dog is man's best friend; man's best friend (and worst enemy) is man. Dash it all, we humans have got to stick together if we are not to go to the dogs completely.

The Use and Abuse of Books

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

EVERY now and then librarians and other interested persons involve themselves in a hot dispute about modern reading. Opinions are varied: some say that few people read, in any acceptable sense of that word; others hold that many people read, but few understand what they are reading; still others maintain that there is more reading and more understanding today than at any other time in history. One thing, however, seems clear; there are fewer private libraries today than there were a century ago.

There was a time when every man of comfortable means considered it necessary to have a library in his house. Perhaps he did not use it, but he owned it. His home contained a book-lined room in which he wrote letters, read the newspapers, and smoked his cigars. If he cared for reading he doubtless read there, too, but this was not considered strictly necessary. When he died the books in the library became the possession of his heir, who might either add to them or leave them undisturbed, according to his taste.

HOW many men nowadays leave libraries behind them when they die? Probably not many. Some of those Victorian libraries were magnificent affairs, containing thousands of books, well-kept and handsomely bound. A wealthy man might send all his books to the binder to have them bound in a uniform style which he liked, with his crest or his initials stamped on the covers. A library of this sort makes a handsome appearance, forming a kind of wall-decoration, and giving off the warm glow of polished leather. The custom has almost vanished, owing to the high cost of binding today, and this in turn is the result of the chemical curing of leather. Chemically cured leather, though all right for boots, is no good for books, and rots in a few years. And the proper binding leather is now much rarer and consequently more expensive than it used to be.

Not many of us nowadays have the money to collect books on an extensive scale, and the idea of buying them merely as decoration does not occur to us. But there are many people in this country who read a great deal who nevertheless have no library of their own; they depend on the free libraries for their supplies. I find it hard to believe that such people are really fond of books at all. How otherwise could they be content to use copies of their favorites which were theirs for a stated period only, and which had been handled by a score or a hundred readers before they came to them? To the real lover of books there are some volumes which are as intimate as a tooth brush, and as little available for lending. As time passes they become worn and marked, and their personalities become as distinct as those of their owners. It is when books reach this stage that it is impossible to part with them; they have become friends, and no other copy of the work, however handsome it may be, has quite the same value.

AND there is a special pleasure in owning a library, however small it may be, which can be achieved in no other way that I know of. Whatever dreams our communist friends may have, there are some pleasures of personal possession which will die hard in the human breast, and that of owning books is one of them. A man's library, if he collects it to read and not merely for ostentation, is a reflection of himself; it is an infallible index of his tastes. Too many people, when they decide that they want a library, buy complete sets of the works of authors for whom they feel no genuine affection, and their books always have a dead and unread look. A shelf of battered thrillers is more of a library than such a collection. To have a book on one's shelves which one has not read or referred to is a detestable form of pretence.

If you have a few such prized volumes you will not grudge the time which it will take to keep them in proper condition. It is a good idea to take books off their shelves at least twice a year in order to dust them. This does not mean the violent rubbing and tumbling about of books which goes on at 'spring cleaning.' It is a slow and loving process; the tops of books particularly should be gently cleaned with a soft rag. Books should stand upon their shelves in such a way that they are neither too loose not too tight; if the former they will gape and spread, and if the latter they may be damaged by tugging them off the shelf. Leather books become dry if they are not frequently handled; the natural moisture and grease of the hand is the best preservative for them. If you have some prized leather books which you wish to treat for dryness you may use vaseline or saddle-soap, or else a mixture made of two parts of castor oil to one part of paraffin wax. Never apply these dressings thickly or they will make the boots sticky. And when you acquire a new book it is worth while to take the time to open it all through, page by page, in order that it may not have its back broken at some later period. Finally, it may be remarked that heat and sunlight are enemies of books; if you value your library, see that the room in which it is kept has a reasonable amount of humidity during the winter.

IT IS wrong to reckon a library in thousands of books; a library is a personal collection of well-loved and well-read books. We may not now be able to collect books on the grand scale of our grandfathers, and we certainly cannot have them so beautifully bound, but we can have our libraries all the same, and the man who lives and dies without one has missed one of the great pleasures of life.

Unconsidered Trifles

He sat fidgeting and nervous in the solicitor's waiting-room. A clerk entered.

"I say," said the client, beckoning to him. "I have an appointment with the solicitor at 10 o'clock. It's about a legacy."

"And how long have you been waiting?"

"Twenty years!" replied the other.

The taxi was a very ancient one and had taken an unconscionable time to reach its destination.

As the passenger paid his fare, he remarked: "How do you manage when your fare is in a desperate hurry?"

"Ah," said the driver, leaning towards the passenger, confidentially, "I keeps on changin' me gears and onking me 'ooter."

Hun Two Days Off Alexandria

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

A RAMPART of Empire infinitely more vital to Britannia's rule of the waves than lost Singapore was perilously close to the same fate as another night closed down over the Egyptian desert with an Axis armored spearhead within two days march of Alexandria.

There could be no question that the crisis in Egypt was close at hand. General Auchinleck's ringing battle order to his troops reflected it. He told them the battle was not over nor would it be "until we have defeated the enemy, and defeat him we will."

Even though meagre and conflicting British and Axis accounts afford no clear pattern of the struggle by which to measure the odds of victory or defeat, that Auchinleck order has definite meaning. It ranks with the famous Haig order to British troops in France in the spring of 1918, a "backs-to-the-wall" call for a stand against the Kaiser's Juggernaut.

SUSPECT BRITISH TRAP

Britons stood then in the first Great War as they now must stand in Egypt to save Alexandria. That stand a quarter century ago in France proved not only the high water mark of the German war effort of that day, but the point at which American troops entered the conflict to turn the scales finally in Allied favor. It pointed the way inevitably to Nov. 11 and German surrender.

There are hints, even in the more thoughtful of the Italian and German appraisals of the situation in Egypt, that the speed with which Rommel has raced eastward to drive one stabbing tank attack all but through the narrow Egyptian corridor could prove his undoing. Suspicion that General Auchinleck may have baited a trap for his foe is reflected. Cautious Axis analysts see no other reasonable explanation of British retreat into the slender corridor between the Mediterranean and the Quattara Depression without a die-hard stand.

What was said in Parliament in bitter face-to-face denunciation of Prime Minister Churchill's war leadership would be as nothing compared to the storm he must face if Alexandria falls. London commentators even picture destruction of the Suez Canal behind a retreating British Fleet if the worst comes.

WAIT CHURCHILL REPLY

A British naval withdrawal from the Eastern Meriterranean at this point would be a confession of utter weakness not borne out by the Auchinleck order or its implications. It would be an open invitation for an Axis airborne invasion thrust at Cyprus, Suez or Syria. Desperate as the British position seems in the dwindling Egyptian defense corridor, it is not yet so critical as to warrant a retreat of the fleet or ships to block the Suez Canal against Axis use.

Pending outcome of the pitched battle in Egypt, the first day of the London war debate had little meaning.

Mr. Churchill's answer to his critics Thursday may prove more illuminating. He could have averted the challenge to his leadership at so anxious a moment by a mere gesture. He disdained that strategy probably because he has something to say, not to Britons alone, but to the peoples of the United Nations and the world as fruit of his most recent conferences with President Roosevelt.

Whitehall Notebook

By DOUGLAS AMARON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 2 —(CP Cable)—The Government, after losing the Maldon by-election to Independent Tom Driberg, adopted new successful tactics in Windsor, appealing directly to the voters in a joint letter signed by all four party leaders.

Prime Minister Churchill, in addition, sent a personal letter to Government candidate Capt. C. E. Mott-Radclyffe. This is the first time a joint appeal for support has been made by those leaders—Mr. Churchill, Conservative, Clement Attlee, Labor; Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal and Ernest Brown, Liberal National. Mott-Radclyffe won handily over William Douglas-Home, Independent. It was the fourth victory for the Government in eight by-elections. The others were won by Independents.

Speaking of by-elections, the Government man in Salisbury, Maj. J. G. Morrison, Conservative, has two Independent opponents on his hands—J. D. Monro and W. R. Hipwell.

Morrison, who received his invitation to stand as a candidate while in the Middle East, is a son of the late Hugh Morrison, former M.P. for the division. The voting day is July 8.

LOSING ORNAMENT

Whitehall is going to lose one of its biggest ornaments—a moosehead weighing 1,000 pounds and carrying a six-foot span of antlers. It belonged to the late Dr. H. Lightstone, a Canadian, formerly director of the Ministry of Pensions Medical Services, and for years it occupied considerable space in his room.

It is bound for an R.C.A.F. bomber squadron which advertised for a moosehead for its headquarters. The head was one of five offered to the squadron not including two "very large" stag heads which, it was explained, would require "a rather high room."

LYTTELTON'S LIMELIGHT

Oliver Lyttelton, Minister of Production, will be more in the limelight during the next week or two than at any time since he joined the Government. Besides being the Government's first speaker in the censure debate, he will open the production debate in the following series of sittings.

FAN MAIL

One of the biggest worries of the post office is "fan mail" sent to prisoners of war. Every time the addresses of soldiers in enemy prisons are published, hundreds of unknown fans, usually girls in search of romance, write them letters.

The mayor of a borough near London recently received a letter from a prisoner saying he was lonely. He passed on this news and soon had 900 letters to forward. Then the post office heard about it.

The result: Two of the 900 letters were mailed.

Even prisoners sometimes complain about the heavy mail, especially a corporal in Germany who received 32 letters in one day.

SLIGHT ERROR

With its propaganda eye cocked at the Indian masses, the German radio station at Bremen broadcast "a musical salute" to Mother India and her children whom, the announcer was sure, would recognize the gems of Indian folklore in the concert. The salute began with "Song of India" and ended with "Indian Love Call" from "Rose Marie."

WHATS COOKIN'?

As the war gets older, its novelty wearing thin, it is only natural that other problems should engage the minds of the populace. For example, a taxicab chauffeur unburdened himself to Charles Colebaugh of this magazine. Halted by a red light, the driver asked Mr. Colebaugh to consider the hats on a group of ladies crossing the street. "It used to be," said the driver, "that women dressed to attract us men." There was a long pause, the taxicab driver contemplating the ladies morosely. Then the light changed. "I wonder," he said, getting started, "what they got on their minds now."—Collier's.

DEMAND FOR WOOL

Anyone with a sheep may rest assured that there is a market for the fleece. There is a demand for more than one hundred million pounds of wool in Canada, with a crop of less than twenty million pounds to fill it.—Farmer's Advocate.

BE CAREFUL MEN

These are the days when an observant gentleman has to be careful and not tell a lady her stockings are wrinkled. With silk hosiery so scarce, a lot of 'em aren't wearing stockings. —Dunnville Chronicle.

"What's the matter, Al?" asked his friend. "You're looking worried." "I am. It's nothing but work, work, work, work, from morning till night," came the reply. "Oh, so you've got a job, then?" "Yes, I start tomorrow."

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

JULY 2

1912 The 14th Regiment of Kingston and the 41st Brockville Regiment spent Dominion Day here as the guests of the Peterborough Rangers.

A terrific storm sweeps Regina, killing many people, but word from the stricken city says Peterborough folk there are all safe.

Fire has broken out along Sandy Creek in Harvey township and a tract of over 200 acres has already been burned over.

The thirteenth annual picnic of St. Peter's T.A.S. is held at T.A.S. Park on the Otonabee.

Chubby Coose, Brantford shortstop hits a homer over the left field fence at Riverside Park Saturday to defeat the Petes in eleven innings 6 to 5.

1922 Capt. James Ward is appointed to the position of assistant chief of the fire department.

Members of the city council express disapproval of the new Adolescent School Attendance Act.

Rev. W. E. Honey is presented with a purse of gold by the congregation of Keene Church.

Michael C. Tooley, for many years proprietor of the Queen's Hotel here is dead.

Donald Gunn, Toronto boy, is wounded when accidentally shot during a frog-hunting trip at Kawartha Park.

1932 Lieut.-Col. T. W. H. Rogers, V.D. who was overseas in the veterinary service during the last war is dead at the Christie Street Hospital, Toronto.

Drs. J. A. Morgan, Loudon and A. Moir, with their families sail on the Duchess of Atholl to attend the convention of the British Medical Association in London.

In spite of bad weather over 3,000 people attended the aquatic meet at Chemong Park yesterday.

All other sports in the district were wiped out by rain, programs being called off.

There were only 15 weddings in Peterborough in June compared with 30 in the same month last year.

IN WAR TIME

1917 Pte. Herbert Nicholls, former member of the 93rd Battalion is officially reported wounded.

The 50th anniversary of Confederation was fittingly celebrated here with $1,000 raised for the Health Association.

Rev. A. J. Thomas, formerly of the London conference has assumed his pastorate at the George Street Church.

Local customs receipts for June totalled $78,827.89, a big increase over the same period a year ago.

Several hundred are turned away for lack of accommodation when A.O.F. holds a picnic at Stoney Lake.

A Bible Message For Today

The Lord hath appeared of old unto me, saying, Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love: therefore with lovingkindness have I drawn thee.—Jer. xxxi, 3.

And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed: and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee. And, behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

And Jesus knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts? For whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise and walk. But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy), Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house. And he arose and departed to his house.

But when the multitudes saw it, they marvelled and glorified God, which had given such power unto men.—Matt. ix, 2-8.

Draw nigh unto God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded....Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up.—James iv, 8, 10.

Canada's After-War Role

Imperialism is dying throughout the world and the present war is administering the coup de grace to it. It cannot be a question of reviving it. The world of tomorrow and the peace of tomorrow will have none the less a need of a tutelary influence which the victorious nations will exercise. Their association, following a formula to be determined upon, will respect all political sovereignties but will require from all a spirit of international solidarity for which we must now prepare. Is this to say that Canada, once started along that path, will be exposed for the future to participation in all wars? The only answer to that question is the one dictated by experience: the duties involved in the mission of vigilance which will appertain to the strong nations, linked together by a just peace, will perhaps run counter to our natural instinct of reliance upon ourselves, but they will be less onerous than those obligations into which we should inevitably be plunged by another war. Either Canada will choose, after the next war to play the role of a great nation, beside Great Britain, the United States, Russia, France and the peoples of the British Commonwealth, in which case it must accept its part of the task of maintaining peace in the world; or else it must commit the fault of isolating itself, an irreparable fault in a world at last awakened by the hard trials of war to the value of unity. — La Patrie (Montreal).

Errors of Printing

Having established, I hope, that printers' errors are rarely the printers' fault, we may now proceed to a few choice examples.

By misplacing a letter, a machine operated by a compositor of outstanding accuracy once obliged a politician to say what he probably had in mind but did not intend to reveal. Instead of "the masses" it produced "them asses."

A letter's failure to emerge has been known to amend the first line of the Old Hundredth so that it read: "All people that on earth do well."—Leeds Yorkshire Post.

Dominion Day Honors Army In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, July 2 (ENS) —Not since the Old Home Week celebration held in this town a decade ago have Campbellford citizens taken their celebrating as seriously as they did yesterday which was the big day in the Army Week celebration here. It was a clear case of everyone wanting to do his part to honor the Canadian Army and if there were but few local boys on Active Service home to see just how the home town felt about them they can take it from this correspondent that never in the history of the town of Campbellford was there such unanimous support given to any celebration.

Coinciding as it did with Dominion Day people were in a holiday mood and the few who had not decorated their homes and places of business before, burst out with a galaxy of flags and bunting, while thanks partly to gas and tires, the parade of floats, bicycles and other vehicles was the biggest ever seen locally. Though the local committee worked hard in an effort to put the celebration over, its actual success was due mainly to the generous cooperation of the Department of National Defense and the Officers of Military District No. 3. For it was a body of R.C.O.C. Troops from Barriefield, together with those of B Company of the Midland Regiment R.F., who added real meaning to the parade as they marched together with Legion members to the music of the Midland Regiment Band.

Review Presented

If it was a big day for civilians locally it was an even bigger day for the soldiers, who derived equal pleasure from the feature event. Thanks again to the Department of National Defense more than two thousand gathered on the lawns of the Public School here and witnessed on a platform built on the top terrace, the fine program. It was an hour and a half program of high class entertainment. It was called the "M.D. No. 3 Review," and was under the direction and personal supervision of Morley Plunkett. He brought with him a troupe of ten girls from Kingston, who incidentally got nothing more for their services than the well deserved applause of the crowd, a free trip to Campbellford via military transport and a chicken dinner and supper as the guest of local women's organizations headed by the Red Cross. Their songs and dance routines drew a big hand from the audience.

Prize Presented

Mayor F. F. Long welcomed the nearly seventy men who came to take part in the parade from the R.C.O.C. under Major G. H. Free whose home is in Campbellford and also the performers and Master of Ceremonies Morley Pluinkett. He also announced winners of the various classes entered in the parade which contained upwards of thirty cars and trucks in addition to numerous bicycles, clowns, pony carts and even motorcycles. Winners were as follows: Floats — 1 Rutherford's Dairy, 2 F. G. DeCarroll, 3 I.O.D.E.; Girl's Bicycle—1 Miss Masterson, 2 Nancy Hollings; Boy's Bicycle—1, Phillip Schaffer, 2 Gordon Jacobs; Clowns—1 E. Sloggett, 2 W. J. Callagan.

The parade itself was headed by a 70-year-old phaeton drawn by a span of horses and in which were seated Major J. M. Bygott, Marshall of the Parade, Mayor F. F. Long, C. H. Davidson, W. J. Armstrong, George Temple (the town's oldest citizen, 94). Following this came the various floats, a clown band, Brownies, Girl Guides, Legion, troops from the R.C.O.C., the Midand Regiment Band under Bandmaster E. C. Dolman, B. Company of the Midland Regt. (RF) under Lieut. N. Alex. MacColl with platoons from Havelock, Norwood and Warkworth running their total strength up to near the one hundred mark. One float which perhaps showed the greatest amount of imagination, even though not among the prize winners, was entered by the Victory Club. It consisted of a black coffin for Hitler with the figure of a red devil holding a hammer and nails which he constantly drove into the box.

To top off the day there was a ball game on the High School diamond at twilight between No. 10 Platoon (Campbellford), and No. 12 Platoon (Norwood). It was more entertainment than contest since the visitors walked away with a score of 36 to 8 and took the lead early in the exhibition. Later in the evening Rotarians conducted a bingo following a parade of troops to the East Side parking lot. Money raised from this went to pay for the prizes offered to winners of various classes in the parade.

Former Manvers Reeve Dribes Life In The Canadian Arm

A letter from L. Bdr. Jack Payne, former Reeve of Manvers, has been received by Lt.-Col. MacNachtan, counties' clerk, Cobourg.

R. JACK PAYNE

The letter was written in May, and gave an interesting description of the life he is leading. He said that they moved around a good deal and at present were stationed in two large vacated houses. L Bdr. Payne and two of his buddies share a large room which is equipped with a radio. Their quarters are situated in a rural area at a nice distance from town and there are lots of tree to make the countryside attractive.

"I expect we will be having more night manoeuvres soon," he said. "I had a very pleasant leave recently in Scotland and everyone was so kind, particularly the people of Glasgow and Edinburgh. We saw a lot of the country, for we went up by one route and came back by another. You can see a real change at the border in the homes, farms and people.

Telling of passing through York, England, after an air raid, he said that the place was a mess but that the casualties that time were few in number and the people were carrying on as if nothing had happened. Everyone was behaving magnificently.

The ex-reeve expressed hearty thanks to the counties' council for a parcel and said that the mail was very irregular and slow. He wanted to membered to all the boys he wo with in the council chamber.

"I love to spend as long as I the sessions of June, 1941, I guess that will have to wait we are through with Jerr writer concluded.

12-Run Splurge Swaps Aces

COBOURG, July 2—A big sixth inning in which they scored 12 times brought victory for Dominion Wheel and Foundry over Dunham Aces in a Cobourg's Men's Softball League game. Included in the assortment of 11 hits by Foundry players in the sixth was a home run by Medhurst and doubles by Platt and Goody. Final score of the contest was 18-3.

Foundry pulled off two fast double plays, one in each of the first two innings, and had two home runs. Besides the one by Medhurst, there was a homer by Stevenson in the fourth inning.

Mconsistent hitter for the Aces Dick Turpin with four hits in attempts, one of them a dou Randall, catcher, had two for plus a walk. For the winner edhurst had three for four, plus walk.

Bazaar Is Held Oiosing Day

GORE'S LANDING, June 29 — (ENS). — The closing exercises of S.S. 16, Gore's Landing-Plainvill School were held on Friday afternoon. The art work of the children for the past season was hung on the walls and included many fine drawings and paintings. A bazaar was also held, all the work being done by the pupils, and tickets had been sold on a rose satin cushion.

The Junior Red Cross proceedings were in charge of Garnet Thackeray and Lloyd Waldon. The treasurer Joan Harris, reported $8.50 in the treasury, which was later considerably augmented by the proceeds of the bazaar.

ris Buttars was chairman for the program which followed. A th drill was well done and the gram included two piano solos Joan Harris and Selina Gilpin, itations by Melvine Fisher and oris Buttars, readings by Garnet hackeray and Adrian Drayton, a ng by Joan Harris, and a chorus the children rounded out a var- l and interesting entertainment.

A feature of the afternoon was e presentation of two gifts of assware, one from the boys and e other from the girls to the acher, Miss Ruby Hoskin, who is ving this term to be married. iss Hoskin made a charming reply d invited the children to come d see her in her new home.

One of the smaller children drew e ticket for the satin cushion, ich was won by Miss Jean Mactosh of Gore's Landing. Miss Hos- gave the report on War Savings rtificates which had been pur- ased by the children. At least 30 tificates had been applied for, d over $100 had been saved by children since the war savings ve started. The sum of $21.00 s realized from the bazaar, part which was given to the Junior Cross Fund.

With Miss Hoskin leading, the cdren gave "The Salute to the F," after which "God Save the Kg" was sung. As some articles fr the bazaar were still unsold, Ms Eileen MacIntosh auctioned the off, and the school term was ove until fall.

Safety Heads Draw Program

PORT HOPE, July 2.—(ENS)— On Tuesday night a meeting of the administrative committee of Central Ontario Division of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations of Central Ontario was held at the St. Lawrence Hotel.

Attending this meeting was chairman H. A. Cranfield of Peterborough; Secretary F. H. W. Brooks of Port Hope; Vice-Chairman F. J. Overend; Vice-Chairman K. N. Gerow of Belleville; Vice-Chairman H. J. Bird of Port Hope and Vice-Chairman D. N. Storie of Oshawa.

This business meeting outlined the 1942-43 program of accident prevention in this division covering from Pickering to Napanee and Bancroft to Haliburton.

Plans were made to hold twelve dinner meetings of industrial executives with several meetings for different classes of industry.

Head-on Collision

COBOURG, July 2. — (ENS).— Driven by Leonard Lee of Toronto, with Dr. E. H. Shannon of Toronto, as a passenger, a car met a truck head on, Tuesday night. Although the car was almost a total loss, the two men were only cut and shaken up. Driver of the truck was W. Johnstone, of Toronto It was stated that the truck went out of control while rounding a bend, colliding with the Lee car. Provincial Constable D. Wilson of Colborne investigated The accident occurred near Grafton.

C.Y.O. Ties Guides In Softball Tilt

COBOURG, July 2—Fourth game in the C.Y.O. and St. Michael's Guides softball series, ended in a 13-13 draw in seven innings played on St. Michael's school grounds. Mary Hogan for the C.Y.O. fanned 15 guides but issued seven passes. Following is the summary:

Home run, Mary Hogan and Joan Leonard; three base hits, Teresa O'Brien; two base hits, Jean Fleming; struck out—by Mary Hogan, 15 and by Jean Fleming, 6; bases on balls off Jean Fleming, 3, off Mary Hogan 7; double play, Betty Martin to Margaret Buger.

The C.Y.O. have won two, lost one and tied one and the Guides have won one, lost two and tied one.

Letting Her Know

SEBRING, Fla., July 2—(AP). — "Hi-Life," publication of Hendricks Field here, tells about a letter received by the sweet-heart of a soldier in the Pacific war zone. The letter had passed through the usual censor routine in California. Opening the girl found a slip of paper on which was written: "Your boy friend still loves you, but he talks too much." The slip was signed "Censor."

Over Two Thousand Citizens Attend Army Show

COBOURG, July 2.—(ENS). — Over two thousand citizens attended the special observance in the park July 1 of Army Week. A parade made up of the local military units, veterans, boy scouts, girl guides, air cadets and various local organizations marched to the bandstand.

"We are here to pay tribute and to honour our men who are in the active service forces Men who have left their loved ones and their occupations to help maintain the freedom we enjoy here I want to pay tribute to my predecessor, ex-Mayor Quartermaster Sergeant Jack Ewat, who is over in England. We honour to-day those who have given their lives in the last war and in this one," stated the mayor in opening the program.

A brief address was given by Colonel W. E. Dumble, O.B.E., on the qualities which make up a soldier. He declared that when the boy donned his uniform and went away with his unit, his family could see a change in him when he came home on leave He had a bearing about him that suggested discipline, the speaker declared.

"Two qualities which go to make up a soldier, were a sense of discipline and a sense of comradeship," Colonel Dumble said.

It was not the brutal discipline of the German army or a slavish carrying out of orders The discipline of the soldier fighting for the democracies was one which was governed by soul and conscience. There was a limit to discipline and that was when soul and conscience dictated a course which was contrary to discipline, he said.

Then there was the sense of comradeship upon which so much depended. The continuance of a unit often depended on the comradeship of each man in it. It meant unity and co-operation under fire and was vital in a soldier's career, he said.

Later during the program Mayor Burnet commented on the fact that there had been at one time a suggestion to get A.R.P. work under way here. It had been discussed a number of times but it was felt that in view of the reserve army and the veterans' guard, there was enough to meet an emergency and there was not the difficulty of preventing overlapping of services in the present set-up as would be the case with A.R.P. The civic bodies could give assistance when called upon The mayor urged enlistments in the reserve army of those who were too young fo the last war and outside the present conscription classification in this war. They had the opportunity of getting basic training in the reserve force. It was possible, said the mayor, that all men who could carry a gun would be eventually conscripted.

Captain A. Anderson and Major G. Dundas also spoke on behalf of the reserve force, urging the men in the town who had not yet donned a uniform to get into the reserve army.

The band presented several selections during the afternoon's program. Soloists who contributed to the program were Mrs. J. Randall, Sergeant-Major Albert Hircock and Alan Knight. Mr. Alfred Mortimer was accompanist.

On the return march, the salute was taken across from the town hall by Col. J. W. Odell and Col. Dumble.

Wallet Recovered

COBOURG, July 2.— (ENS). — Charles Huish of Stayner, who is employed with the H.E.P.C. in Cobourg, lost his wallet containing $80 on the beach a few days ago and yesterday it was located by Constable E. Houghton. Constable Houghton learned that a boy had found the wallet and an investigation revealed that it had been found by 12 year old George Rogers. The boy told the constable that he had been going to advertise it.

JAMS and JELLIES made with CERTO turn out RIGHT

SHORT BOIL—For jam you need give only a one-minute to two minute full, rolling boil—for jellies only a half-minute to a minute.

THRIFTY—As practically no juice has time to boil away you get up to two-thirds more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit.

NATURAL TASTE—The boil is so short it cannot affect the fresh natural taste or darken the color.

SURE RESULTS—Follow exactly the tested recipes given with Certo and you'll have lovely jams and jellies.

CERTO is Pectin Extracted from Fruit

When pectin is used in making jam and jelly, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Order No. 150 allows you to use sugar not in excess of one and one-quarter pounds of sugar for each pound of fruit. On the basis that "fruit" means "unprepared" fruit, this allows you to make your jams and jellies the Certo way which gives you approximately two-thirds more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit.

Look for book of 72 Tested Recipes under the label of every Certo bottle.

TRAINING CENTRE BOYS DEFEAT 4th BATTERY IN BENEFIT GAME

Juveniles Trounced By Royals In Second Game Of Doubleheader

The Military Training Centre uncorked too much fire power for 4th Battery in the benefit game at Riverside Park Dominion Day evening and the boys from the big camp won a six-innings affair by 14 to 9. The game was part of a doubleheader in air of the fund to supply smokes for Canadian soldiers overseas and although the heavy shower just before game time kept the crowd down $20.20 was handed over to Bob Hotrum for the cigarette fund.

Royals and Juveniles met in a regular City League game in the second half of the twin bill and Royals won easily 15 to 6 to climb up to a tie for second place with Luckies, a game behind the league-leading Plazas.

4th Battery laid down an early barrage on the Military Training Centre team and at the end of the first half of the third were in front 5 to 0. They got three in the first on a walk to Crowe, an error on Starr's bunt, a double by Bill Lewis and an infield out and came back with two more in the third when Red Eason singled to drive in Kingdon and Lewis.

Then the Camp team started to come. Hits by Anderson and McKerrigan were followed by a homer by Sero to drive in three runs in the third and in the next frame singles by Tummon, Macklin, McKerrigan and Sero and Herrick's triple chased in five more and put the Camp nine in front 8 to 5. Anderson's double with two on added a pair in the fifth and in the sixth Sero's double, McIlveen's homer, a single by Macklin, an error and Anderson's triple sent for four more across.

For the Battery Lewis was safe on a fumble in the fifth and scored ahead of Ellis when the latter homered to deep left and in the sixth a walk to Weir was followed by Crowe's homer to left.

The Camp started a new pitcher, Bennett, a left-hander, who worked the first three innings Ken Fleming finishing the game. Bill Lewis of Luckies went the route for the losers and was hit hard in the later stages. Sero had a homer, double and single, Anderson a triple, double and single and McKerrigan and Macklin each had three singles.

None of the losers had more than one hit off the two Camp twirlers. Fielding features were a running catch by Archie Weir in right for the Battery and a fast Kingdon to Crowe to Ellis double play.

The teams:

Military Training Centre: Anderson, 3b; McKerrigan, 2b; Herrick, 1b; Sero, ss; McIlveen, lf; Maybin, cf; Mortimer, cf; Tummon, rf; Kilfoyle, rf; Macklin, c; Bennett, p; Fleming, p.

4th Battery: Crowe, 2b; E. Starr, c; Kingdon, ss; Lewis, p; Ellis, 1b; Eason, 3b; Dorris, lf; Weir, rf; O'Toole, cf; Taylor, cf.

Royals Win Handily

In the City League game a replay of a tie between the two clubs, Royals spotted the juveniles four runs in the first inning and then went on to defeat them 15 to 6 in a game in which the winners slammed out 19 hits and had the advantage of 13 bases on balls.

Outside of the first and last innings in which the losers scored all their six runs Ron Akers had the youngsters well under control. They were popping up all night. It was the iron man stunt for Akers who had pitched a full game at the C.G.E. picnic in the afternoon.

Bev. Gray, who was the starting pitcher for Juveniles, also worked a game in the afternoon and he weakened badly in the third innings when Royals broke through for a flock of runs and drove him out of the box. Tim Jones, another Chatham boy, with an unusual delivery, stopped the attack for a while when he took over the pitching burden but he ran into heavy weather himself in the sixth when the Royals had another big innings to score five runs on as many hits and two walks. Bill Jones pitched the last two innings and yielded a run in the ninth.

Juveniles got away nicely. Anderson singled, Garvey walked and Gray was safe on an error, filling the bases. Leether doubled to centre to drive in a pair and after T. Jones had flied to Gatfield, Bill Jones singled to right to score Gray and Leether.

A single by Gatfield, an infield out and Akers' double scored a run for Royals in the second and in the third they broke out in front by scoring six times. Pryde homered, after Smith had walked, for the first pair. Then hits by Giardino, Gatfield, D. Holmes and Parnell drove in three more and a pass to Hawks left the bases full. Tim Jones went into pitch and Smith forced a runner at third, the sixth run coming over. Murphy lined to Leether to end the frame.

There was no more scoring until the sixth when singles by Smith, Murphy, Jobe, L. Holmes and Parnell and two walks built up a five-run total. The winners added a pair in the seventh on passes to Pryde and L. Holmes and singles by Akers and Parnell, and got their final score in the ninth with Bill Jones pitching when L. Holmes crossed the plate.

Juveniles did not score from the first frame until the ninth. In that inning, with one out Gray was safe on an error by Murphy. Leether tripled to right, scoring Gray and registered himself when Parnell dropped the ball at the plate. Bill Jones singled but the next two plays retired the side.

Parnell, Akers and L. Holmes with three hits each led the winners' assault. Bill Jones had three singles and Leether a double and triple for the Juveniles. Catches by Leether and Gray of hard-hit drives were fielding features.

Royals: Parnell, c; Hawks, 3b; Smith, 1b; Murphy, ss; Pryde, cf; Giardino, 2b; Gatfield, rf; Jobe, rf; D. Holmes, lf; L. Holmes, lf; Akers, p.

Juveniles: Anderson, rf; Garvey, c; Gray, p, ss; Leether, 3b; T. Jones, ss, p, 2b; B. Jones, 2b, p; White, cf; Millen, cf; Detlor, 1b; Smith, lf; Cross, lf.

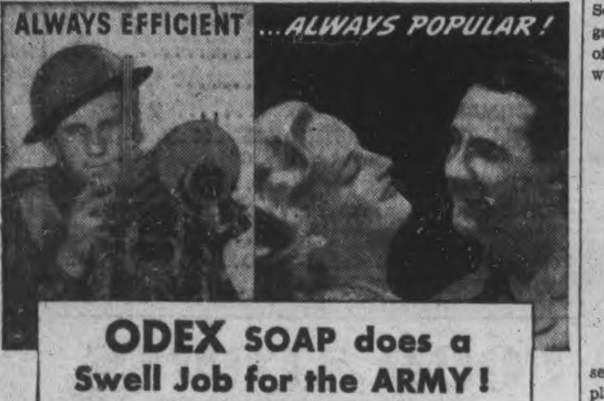
NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP).—The baseball equipment fund, which gets the first $100,000 paid to see the two all-star games, already is $16,000 in the red after starting out last year with $27,500. But Ford Frick, who runs the show, says the fund has managed to provide a little equipment for every outfit in the United States and a few outside ...total administrative expense so far has been just $67.62.

Tanks for the memory:

After the army's big war show, featuring tanks, jeeps, peeps, etc., has finished a week's stand at Philadelphia's Franklin Field, H. Jamison Swarts, Penn graduate manager of Athletics, surveyed the battlefield and found the turf on the gridiron was practically ruined, the surface of the running track was gone and an area of about 75 square feet, where flame throwers had been in action, had to be dug out six inches and refilled with fresh soil.



ODEX SOAP does a Swell Job for the ARMY!

The troops sure go for Odex Soap. It makes a swell lather and gives them the more effective protection of a new, odour-free antiseptic—ti-tree oil.
Ti-tree oil is an Australian antiseptic, eleven times stronger than carbolic as a germicide, yet won't irritate tender skins.
So, take a tip from the troops and make Odex your bath soap. It will help you keep fit and will remove perspiration acid film from your skin, after work, so you feel great!

SPORTS — DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Juveniles after clashing last night with Royals come right back tonight to meet the league-leading Plazas in a league game at Riverside Park at 7 o'clock. The youngsters have been giving every team a battle and they would like nothing better than to take a fall out of the hockey squad tonight. On the other hand the Plazas are anxious to stay out in front of the parade and they will have their strongest lineup in action, declining to take any chances. They have plenty of respect for the prowess of the Juveniles. It is likely that Tom Parsons will get the call to do the pitching for Plazas with Eddie Starr behind the bat while Juveniles will likely use Bob Crowe with Fred Garvey handling his delivery. The clash between the leaders and the youngsters should be one of the most interesting of a season that so far has been full of interesting battles. Fans like the games on the big diamond, especially the manner in which the outfielders have been pulling off dazzling catches.

* * * * * *

A heavy downpour of rain that came just at game time cut down the attendance at the softball benefit double-header at Riverside Park Dominion Day evening but in spite of that bad break the cigarette fund was enriched by $30.20, paid in as collection by the faithful fans who turned out in spite of the shower. The rain left the diamond muddy and slippery but the two games were pulled off nevertheless. The boys from the camp after getting away on the wrong foot and finding themselves down 5 to 0 finally got their machine operating and won out a heavy-hitting affair from the 4th Battery 14 to 9. The Artillerymen had Eddie Starr, Jim Ellis, Don Crowe and Bun Kingdon of Plazas and Bill Lewis of Luckies while two former City Leaguers Archie Weir and Roy Taylor were in action. The Keelerites tried out a number of new players, including a new battery. In the City League game between Royals and Juveniles the former Chesterfields hit the ball hard and got the benefit of a baker's dozen free trips to hand the youngsters a 15 to 6 defeat. Two pitchers who had worked a full game in the afternoon opposed each other on the go-in and the iron man stunt worked all right so far as Ron Akers of the Royals was concerned but Bev. Gray, the Juveniles' choice found the going tough.

Westclox who picked up their second win of the season over Brintons on Monday night in one of the best games of the campaign will be back in action tonight, for the last time in several weeks as holidays will interfere with their part in the schedule for the next fortnight. The Clockmakers will clash with Electrics tonight and are hopeful of grabbing off their second victory in succession at the expense of Bob Batley's team. Electrics are not feeling that way about the affair. They took a shellacking from their sister club the Generals Tuesday night and are anxious to get revenge at the expense of Westclox tonight. It looks like Marg. Watson as the starting pitcher for the Westclox and either Mary or Audrey Larmer for Electrics. Incidentally the best pitching performance of the season was turned in by Marilyn McCarthy of the Generals Tuesday when she held Electrics to three hits and struck out 21 of them. Her fast fall was snapping in and Electrics could do little with it. The win was the sixth straight for Generals who were handled by George Hawks in the absence of Manager Mike O'Brien.

Chief interest in big league baseball right now centres in the slump of the New York Yanks and the upward surge of the Boston Red Sox, who seeing the leaders staggering around the track in front of them have put on a drive that has been carrying them closer and closer to the waning McCarthyites. When yesterday afternoon's double-header with Washington was over the Red Sox were only 3½ games behind the Yanks, and when the A's got through with the New Yorkers at night the gap was only three games. For the second day in succession Joe Cronin's club, which is now getting effective pitching to go along with its offensive power, swept both ends of a twin bill from Senators, giving them four wins in two days over the tail-enders. The Red Sox had a battle on their hands to win the first game. Twice the Senators went out in front by a one-run margin but the fighting Boston gang twice tied up the game and finally went out in front to win 3 to 2. Chase and Yank Terry did the pitching for Boston while the losing Washington pitcher was old Bucky Newsom.

* * * * * *

The second game was Boston all the way, the Red Sox finally winning out 7 to 1. They gave Jack Wilson a hot reception and Washington finally had to call on a couple of relief pitchers. Charlie Dobson went the route for the winners and picked up his fifth win of the campaign by tossing a five-hitter. In the other afternoon game in the American loop, Cleveland had an easy time subduing Chicago White Sox 7 to 2. The Indians got all their runs in the first frame when they drove rookie Orval Grove out of the box and Jake Wade finished effectively. Al Smith had Chicago shutout until the ninth when they managed to chase home two runs. That was an unusual first inning. The first seven men to face Grove reached first safely and eventually all seven of them scored. The Indian attack folded up after that but it didn't matter as the Red Sox were doing little or nothing with the offerings of Al Smith.

* * * * * *

In the National League Ernie White pitched effective ball as the St. Louis Cards shut Pittsburgh Pirates out 4 to 0, their second straight win of the series. White allowed only six hits and earned a shutout by his steady hurling. Ken Heintzelman started for the Corsairs but the Cards broke through his service to score two runs in the third, and one in the fourth. Wilkie relieved him in the seventh and yielded the last Cardinal run.

* * * * * *

The City Softball League issued orders yesterday that no more player transfers were to take place until the cases had been referred to the executive for approval. The ultimatum comes none too soon. In fact it has probably come too late to head off the first protest of the season for Soldiers are expected to enter a kick to the league executive over the fact that George Hawks, third baseman of the Royals played against the camp team in a recent game won by the Luckies. Last night Hawks switched back to the Royals again and played with them in their win over Juveniles. The Soldiers' protest that he had no right to play for Luckies and that that game should be thrown out. Certainly this jumping around is not the kind of thing the league executive should permit and the officials have done well to close the gates against any more of it.

* * * * * *

The Toronto Maple Leafs will be lucky if they even get mentioned by a certain Buffalo radio commentator after this. Their stunt of winning five straight games over the Bisons will certainly put them in the dog house so far as that individual is concerned. At all events the Leafs gave their loyal home fans a lot of fun yesterday by smothering the Buffiao gang twice, taking the first game, a knock-em-down-and-drag-em-out affair, by 11 to 7, scoring eight runs in the seventh innings to turn the trick and then came back to breeze home in the second end of the double bill by 9 to 4. The Leafs made a total of 26 hits in the two games.

The whole Yank machine is apparently similarly afflicted. They only got five hits in losing to the Philadelphia Athletics last night....The A's came from behind to win out 4 to 3....Defeat of Ten to Ace in the Canadian Derby ranks as the major racing upset of the season. 35 Enter Field Against Burns In Ontario Open

TORONTO, July 2— Bob Burns, Weston Golf Club's talented shotmaker, will have a small but formidable challenging field to contend with in the 36-hole Ontario open championship tournament at Cedar Brae to-day and Friday.

Burns lifted the title last year at Ancaster with a 54-hole total of 209. The previous year Sam Snead one of the few American pros to show in the Ontario open, hedge-hopped over the field at Eric Downs. This year's tournament has been reduced to 36 holes because of the smaller field.

The entry list shows thirty-six amateurs and professionals ready to toe the mark at Cedar Brae today and Friday. Eighteen holes will be played each day.

Cedar Brae course, scene of this year's open, is in excellent playing condition. Its par 70 should provide a stout challenge to Ontario's leading linksmen.

Course in Fine Shape.

Most of the Toronto open colony have had two or three practice rounds at Cedar Brae during the past week. Bill Kerr, the home pro, turned in a 68, best count of the warmer-uppers. Gray had a 69 on Sunday, and followed up with a 70 yesterday. Phil Farley, Scarboro's amateur ace, also caught a par 70 on Wednesday.

Cedar Brae can be reached via Kingston Road (turning north on Markham Road), or via O'Connor Drive and Eglinton Avenue East (turning north on Markham Road).

First threesome tees off to-day at 12 o'clock noon.

12:00—Arthur Hulbert, Thornhill G. and C.C.; James Johnstone, Rosedale G.C.; Bill Aziz (a), Cedar Brae G. and C.

12:10—Les Franks, Islington G. C.; Jack Littler Glen Mawr G.C.; Jack Ritchie (a), Mississauga G. and C.C.

12:20 — William Freeman, York Downs G. and C.C.; Jack Galloway, Glendale G. and C.C.; Geo. Cumming, Toronto G.C.

12:30—Ben Norris, Fairmount G. and C.C.; Matt Brown unattached; Jim Turney (a), Waterdown G. C.

12:40—Herb Epstein, Oakdale G. C.; Tom Williams, Waterdown G. C.; Allan Renwick, Britannia Hotel G.C.

12:50— Lionel Ross, Summit G. and C.C.; Joe Noble, The Elms G. C.; Stan DaFoe (a), Cedar Brae G.C.

1:00—Bob Burns, Weston G. and C.C.; Jim Twiss (a), Mississauga G. and C.C.; Russell Evans, Cedar Brae G.C.

1:10—John Richardson (a), Cedar Brae G.C.; Bill Kerr, Cedar Brae G.C.; Ernie Bentley (a), Weston G. and C.C.

1:20—Bob Gray, Scarboro G. and C.C.; Gordon Duncan (a), Summit G. and C.C.; Dick Borthwick, Oakdale G. and C.C.

1:30—Willie Lamb, Lambton G. and C.C.; Bill Tredway (a) Cedar Brae G.C.; Gordon Brydson, Mississauga G. and C.C.

1:40— Phil Farley (a), Scarboro G. and C.C.; Norm Himes, Westmount G. and C.C.; Bruce Bradley (a), Oshawa.

1:50—Cec Ross, Cliffside; Grif Owen, Kirkland Lake; J. McTague (a), Toronto G.C.

A short answer:

After a recent brawl in the Pacific Coast League, Umpire Jack Powel penned this report: "Gilly Campbel and Al Niemic fought for 15 minutes—nothing happened."...In reply prexy Will Tuttle said: "If they can't hit each other in 15 minutes break them up."

21 Electrics Are Struck Out As Generals Win

Marilyn McCarthy set up a new strikeout record in the Girls' Softball League Tuesday night when she fanned 21 Electrics as the league-leading Generals won their sixth straight game, defeating their sister team from the big plant in hollow fashion 16 to 1.

The Generals' pitcher allowed the losers only three hits, two of them bunched in the fifth for the only Electric run. She blew her fast ball past the batters so effectively that in four different innings she retired the side on strikes.

It was a one-sided argument. Generals had their batting togs on, slamming out 18 hits off Mary Larmer, and they scored in every inning but the fourth. Norma Strickland, Marilyn McCarthy and May Wade led the onslaught with three hits each and Eleanor Craig slammed out a homer. N. Hunter, Ruby Milburn and G. Stewart were the only members of the losing club to get a hit.

Generals started out in the first with a gift run, came back with a pair in the second, with a triple by Ruth Hewitt playing a big part and then bunched four hits and two walks for five runs in the third to make the affair a parade.

After that it was only a question of how big the final margin would be.

Electrics could do nothing in the early stages against effective hurling of Marilyn McCarthy who struck out the side in the first and second innings and struck out the first batter in the third before an Electric batter could hit a fair ball. Then she threw out the next two herself.

Electrics got their solitary counter in the fifth inning when N. Hunter got their first hit by beating out a tap to second. M. Killingbeck struck out and Grace Barnes rolled to M. McCarthy but Ruby Milburn slammed a double to centre to send the run in.

Shirley Milburn playing second for the losers had an unassisted double killing for the feature fielding play.

Keep On Skating Newlywed MaryRose Hopes

WINNIPEG, July 2—(CP).—Mrs. Robert Baer, 20, formerly Mary Rose Thacker of Winnipeg, Canadian and North American figure skating champion, said in an interview here yesterday that in all probability she will continue her skating career despite her marriage.

Mary Rose, married at Flin Flon, said she at first denied reports of her marriage of Baer of Milwaukee, Wis., because she wished to arrive home before news reached her mother, Mrs. L. G. Thacker.

She and her husband, 28, a foreman on a dam under construction on the Churchill River near Whitesand Rapids, will honeymoon at Winnipeg. Mary Rose said her husband will have to return to Whitesand Rapids in a few days and that she expects to stay with her mother until his work in Northern Manitoba is finished.

Baer, a constructive worker in Canada for most of the last fourteen years, served with the Winnipeg Grenadies (Active) being discharged for medical reasons before the battalion left for Hong Kong in 1941.

Athletics Maul Yankees For 5-4 Score

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

It has been some time since anyone needed to feel sorry for the world champion New York Yankees, but their plight is getting more pathetic night and day.

Since marching boldly out of Yankee Stadium nearly three weeks ago they have lost 11 out of 17 contests and last night saw their American League lead cut to three games as they blew a 5-4 decision to the Philadelphia Athletics.

This was a reduction of 1½ games in their first place margin in a single day because of the Boston Red Sox' second straight double-header victory over the Washington Senators.

The Yankees were held at five hits by three Philadelphia pitchers, but this was not what whipped them. The champs held a 4-0 lead at the end of four innings, one of the runs being Joe DiMaggio's 11th homer of the year. But then the Yanks folded up as they have done in four of their last five games.

Washington was held to five hits in each game and the Red Sox made twice as many. They downed Buck Newson 3-2 in the opener with a run in the seventh and three innings of perfect relief pitching by Yank Terry and then they captured the nightcap with the greatest of ease 7-1.

This brought Boston's current surge to 20 victories in 24 games and put a premium on the three-game series between the Yanks and Red Sox at Fenway Park tomorrow and Saturday—with the possibility that New York may lose control of first place.

Indians Take Sox 7-2

The Cleveland Indians kept within sight of the struggle for the lead by beating the Chicago White Sox 7-2 on the seven-hit hurling of Lefty Al Smith. The Tribe scored seven runs in the first inning, routing Orval Grove before he could get a batter out.

The St. Louis Browns turned loose at 14-hit assault to score in all but one inning and belt the Detroit Tigers 12-0 on the five-hit hurling of Elden Auker, who thus became the first American League pitcher to gain ten victories this season. Home runs by George McQuinn and Mike Chartak dressed up St. Louis' attack.

Action in the National League was limited to two games with the St. Louis Cardinals shutting out the Pittsburg Pirates 4-0 and the Chicago Cubs cuffing the Cincinnati Reds 5-2 in a night encounter.

The latter affair was perhaps the last start for both Claude Passeau and Johnny Vander Meer before the All-Star game in New York Monday. Passeau performed in his customary fashion, yielding five hits and scoring his 12th victory against five defeats. Vander Meer on the other hand lasted only three innings and left the game trailing 4-2. Elmer Riddle finished creditably, and the Cubs were held to a total of five hits.

St. Louis' success came on the six-hit pitching of Lefty Ernie White, who had been troubled with a sore arm earlier this season.

Visiting The Press Box The Hard Way

Please don't ask us which is Phil Muscato of Buffalo, N.Y., and which is Johnny Lawler of Cleveland. Both of them are entwined on the press table after falling out of the ring in the fourth round of their five-rounder. It was part of Cleveland's all-star fight card for the "bomber for MacArthur" fund. The referee extends his hand to get them back into the ring. They returned and Lawler won by a technical K.O. in the 5th.

Sulky Williams Is Yanked After Roasting

By BILL KING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON, July 2 (AP) — Unless penitence has replaced sulkiness, the many-mooded Ted Williams, the only member of the hustling Boston Red Sox who challenges the home fans' rights to jeer at will, may feel the disciplinary hand of Manager Joe Cronin today when he reports at Fenway Park.

For the third time since he joined the Red Sox in 1939, Williams, the American League's .406-batting champion, was pulled out of the lineup by Cronin yesterday when, irked by a spectator's jibe, he sulked and loafed at the plate.

Williams dressed and quit the park immediately and, after the game, Cronin, visibly annoyed by his star's display of ill-temper, appeared undecided about his disciplinary measure.

"I won't make any decision until game-time tomorrow," Cronin said. "Everything will depend on Williams' attitude."

The excitable Williams seemed in an unusually happy frame of mind while batting against Bobo Newsom during the first game of the Sockers' second straight double-header sweep over the Washington Senators. Early in the second game, however, he appeared to take his own time chasing a hit in left field and then answered back when a spectator in that end of the grandstand yelled at him, "don't you ever try to get off a dime?"

The Crowd Didn't Like It

Williams made no secret of his annoyance when he came to bat in the third inning and took two half-hearted swings before flying out to centre field. That performance brought a scattering of boos from the 15,594 crowd. The jeering became general in the fifth when, with the Sockers leading only 1-0, Williams sauntered to the plate with Lou Finney on first base. After taking two strikes without moving his bat, Williams swung lazily and fouled and then, with an even more lackidasical effort, drove a sizzling liner into left-centre. Finney managed to score from first base but the jogging Williams was content to stop at second. It was questionable, however, whether he could have stretched it into a three-bagger by hustling.

The crowd jeered him roundly when he was batted home and the angry Cronin rushed from the dugout and yelled, "If you don't want to play, get out of the game." Thereupon Williams continued on to the clubhouse and Pete Fox took over his left field berth.

Leafs Celebrate By Trouncing Bisons 11-5, 9-4

(By The Associated Press)

The fighting spirit that Manager Burleigh Grimes has instilled into Toronto Maple Leafs has worked wonders with the International League club. Although beset by injuries and a bad start, the Leafs now are in fourth place, one game under the .500 mark.

Last season it was a rare occurrence when a Toronto player stole a base, but this year it is as common as a base hit. They are leading the league in this department.

Toronto celebrated Dominion Day by walloping Buffalo Bisons twice, 11-7 and 9-4. The Leafs won the opener by scoring eight runs in the seventh inning to overcome a 6-3 Bison lead. Lee Handley, pinch hitting for Pitcher Dick Conger, started the rally with a single and singled again when he came up later in the inning.

In the second game, Nick Strincevich coasted to his seventh victory of the season as his mates pounded three Bison hurlers for 13 hits, including two doubles, three triples, and a home run. Grimes was forced to use Outfielder-Infielder Ed Yount behind the plate because of injuries suffered to Ed Fernandes and Marvin Felderman, regular backstops

Montreal Royals advanced to within two games of the league-leading Newark Bears as they swept a holiday twin bill from Rochester Red Wings, 5-2 and 4-3.

Max Macon won his eighth game of the season in the opener as he set down the wings with six hits. Rochester knocked Spencer Smith out of the box in the nightcap with a two-run rally, but Les McCrabb, who relieved him, allowed the Wings only one run over the remaining distance to receive credit for the triumph.

Baltimore defeated Newark 3-2 in the only other game played. Orioles garnered only five hits off Al Gerheauser, but two of them were home runs, one by Bob Lemon which tied the score in the sixth, and the other a game-winning blow by Hank Edwards in the eighth.

Hamilton Jockey Club Asked For Longer Race

HAMILTON, July 2.—The stewards have recommended to the Hamilton Jockey Club that races at a mile and one-sixteenth be discontinued at the next summer meeting and that the distance be increased to a mile and one-eighth.

The running of the Hamilton Handicap last Saturday was deprived of interest by the crowding of the field going to the first turn, resulting in the chances of the public choice, Air Current, a newcomer in Ontario racing, being ruined. There has been piling up of horses at the mile and a sixteenth ever since.

The last race Tuesday night saw a serious jamming and it was only by fortunate fate one or more of the horses did not go down. The stewards questioned Jockey A. Nash, who rode Sweepshot and also Henry Williams, aboard Arjayen, in this race. No action was taken on account of Sweepshot bearing over on the field when Nash went to the whip leaving the gate. Sweepshot struck Arjayen knocking that racer over on the horses running on the inside of the turn and forcing several riders to take up their mounts or go down.

Trainer J. La Breche revealed a new one for the racing book to the stewards when explaining about Sweepshot lugging in. During a race at Dufferin, the trainer explained, Sweepshot became frightened by the crowds yelling and swerved in, striking the inside rail. For Tuesdays' race he thought he had a solution to avoid the crowd annoying the gelding, so he stuffed her ears with cotton batting, this apparent failed to work, so he Hewitt he was going to secure a "runout" bit and work, Sweepshot with the new equipment.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By MAURICE DESJARDINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, July 2 — (CP). — Executives of the Canadian Swimming Association must be firm believers in this "safety in numbers" business, for they have just appointed more than 30 officials for the forthcoming Dominion swim championships at Ste. Adele, Que. Swimming enthusiasts rejoiced at there being no shortage of those gentlemen affectionately referred to as "badgers" and hoped there would be enough space left around the pool for spectators.

It took nearly three dozen judges to handle 90 competitors...One-armed outfielder Peter Gray celebrated his return to the Three Rivers Black Foxes lineup this week with a one-for-three performance at the plate. Gray had his collarbone fractured a few days after the curtain rose on the Canadian-American League season and was his team's leading hitter at the time... Speaking of Black Foxes, Jean-Pierre Roy, a graduate of Montreal sandlots who starred in Three Rivers last summer, was officially unveiled as an International League hurler last Sunday when he held Montreal Royals to four hits, but lost a 4-3 heart-breaker for Rochester Red Wings.

This and data:

Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara observes that the war is certainly affecting baseball with Montreal Royals' batboys the tiniest of all time. Latest youngster to be hired could sleep in a catcher's mitt...Incidentally, Royals' former trainer and expert masseur Bill O'Brien, now with Brooklyn Dodgers after a straight swap for Doc Wilson, landed the rubdown assignment with the National League all-stars for next week's annual classic at the Polo Grounds.

Breezin' around:

Legs Fraser and Bill Craig, Montreal soccer players of note and the former also a hockey goalie, are leading lights on the Royal Canadian Force's Manning Depot soccer team in Toronto.. Sam Radu of Regina, a member of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps in Toronto, turned in a nifty relief chore for Union Dairies against Peoples in Toronto, holding the opposition to one scratch hit in the six innings he toiled. But his team lost 7-2, through no fault of his'n...J. P. (Toronto Telegram) Fitzgerald says it begins to look as if Borleigh Grimes has the knack of imparting a lot of his skill and foxiness to his young Toronto moundsmen. Fitz adds that the entire International League takes its hat off to the Maple Leaf flinging brigade.

Had 20-Length Lead At Half

By WALLY HILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, July 2.—(CP).—Racing fans to-day hadn't recovered from the biggest upset in years when Ten to Ace, eastern contender was defeated in the Canadian Derby, feature attraction at Polo Park here yesterday Maginot Line, a three year old brown colt, won the $5,000 added classic.

On the streets, in restaurants, on street cars and in the homes, the public talked about the surprising upset of the great Ace, who was such a prohibitive favorite that no betting was allowed. In the mile and a quarter run, the Ace led by almost 20 lengths at one time, only to falter coming into the stretch drive to finish last in the six-horse run.

It was the first defeat of Harry Giddings, Oakville, Ont, horse by a Canadian-bred horse. The Ace whisked around Woodbine race track in Toronto, May 23, and finished 10 lengths in front of Cossack Post to win the King's Plate. All the colts in the Derby feature carried 126 pounds, with the lone filly, Witch's Taxi, carrying 121 pounds.

With almost 20 lengths lead at the halfway mark, the 17,000 fans just figured it was a matter of how many lengths Ten to Ace could add on as continued to run away from the others. But as he neared the second last turn the others closed the gap and caught him just as they rounded the turn into the stretch.

Maginot Line, given a masterful ride by Jockey Craigmyle, moved from fourth position, overtook and passed Ace to go on to win over Fighting Finn, who finished second and Panbroom, third. The win netted Owner Dr. L. H. Appleby of Vancouver, B.C. $4,490.

Giddings, commenting on the outcome of the race, said: 'He was a little off form. I don't think he has recovered completely from shipping fever'," and added that he figured "it was just one of those things that happens in horse racing."

Cheese Patrons Favored Class

CAMPBELLFORD, July 2. — (ENS).—Cheese factory patrons are at least one branch of the farm industry which is showing a vast difference in the prices they got ten years ago. Proof of this is seen in the May statement for one factory in this district, which paid patrons, (subsidy included) 57 cents per pound for fat. Ten years ago in May 1932 the same patrons were getting exactly 18 cents a pound. Some difference! However, District Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray, who supplies us with this information, does not claim that this is general.

During the past two weeks 3,411 boxes of cheese were graded at Campbellford as compared with 2,888 during the same period in 1941, and further evidence of improving quality came from Empire factory where Maker Leslie Shillinglaw boosted his score up to 95 on 87 boxes last week.

In the opinion of Mr. Murray the cheese box scarcity in this section has been relieved, at least temporarily, by the receipt of 'a few loads' from Boxmaker Anglin in Kingston. Another item coming under the heading of supplies, came from Central Ontario recently. There one farmer will shortly be arraigned in court charged with a breach of the act designating the use to which milk and cream cans may be put.

Much depended on Rommel's ability to maintain his extended lines of communication, stretched almost to the breaking point by a swift advance that has covered some 305 miles in the 10 days since his armies captured Tobruk—now his nearest port of supply.

In an attempt to smash these lines of communication the R.A.F., aided by United States Air Force bombers, was said to be operating a veritable "shuttle service" across the battlezone from dawn to dusk.

An American tank corps general returning here from the fighting front commented on the high degree of co-operation attained between the air and land forces and said the latter had been given maximum protection during their withdrawals.

Amendment Barred

Speaker Glen yesterday ruled out of order an amendment to the budget resolution moved on Tuesday by New Democracy Leader Blackmore on the ground the House had previously decided on smiliar issues. The amendment expressed non-confidence in the Government, and advocated "a moderized credit and currency policy."

Mr. Dechene said development of the Northern Alberta tar sands should receive attention of the House. Such development would make available fuel supplies urgently required.

He added: "I am wondering if there is not a possibility that a cartel exists in this country in connection with gasoline in order to stop or retard the development of the bituminous oil sands of Fort McMurray, Alta."

Mr. Reid said steps should be taken to bring the Canadian dollar to part with that of the United States. He had heard the statment that Canada by its own decision had changed the value of its money in terms of United States money. An explanation of the situation should be given by Finance Minister Ilsley.

"Both Canada and the United States are full partners in this life and death struggle," said Mr. Reid. "That being so why should our Canadian dollar be at a discount of 10 per cent?"

It was true that in certain lines of agriculture prices had increased, but farm products on the average were at an index figure of 80.2 in May while industrial wages had gone up to 120.9.

"I say to him (Mr. Ilsley) that the farmers are not fighting with labor for a larger portion of the swollen national income," said Mr. Reid. "They are asking that they, as a class, be not called upon to make a greater sacrifice than any other civilian class."

Sacrifice of the Farm

Agriculture was making that greater sacrifice at present. Members of Parliament with whom he had spoken had a sense of frustration because they felt the government had set them aside and handed certain powers to boards.

If the Price Board continued to set the prices of farm products conditions in agriculture would become worse. The agriculture department had been "divorced" but it was a good thing for farmers that Agriculture Minister Gardiner was in charge of the agriculture department.

Mr. Reid said it was an "open secret" that Mr. Gardiner "has had a terrible fight with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to obtain anything for the farmer."

Farmer organizations had told the board of their difficulties but had been informed it was not interested in what production cost.

Mr. Gardiner had predicted there would be a butter shortage if the board did not raise the maximum price of 35 cents a pound.

"We are almost 13,000,000 pounds shy," said Mr. Reid.

"Potatoes Being Let Rot"

The price of new potatoes had been set at five cents a pound in Ontario and such potatoes were being left to rot in the ground while potatoes were being imported from the United States.

With butter at 35 cents, farmers were selling their cows to the United States. Herds were being depleted because of the prices board rulings.

He had no complaint about Donald Gordon, chairman of the Prices Board, but people were asking why so many bankers and industrialists were obtaining positions with this and other boards when agriculturists and labor had been ignored.

Mr. Reid said Canadians did not seem to recognize the significance of the Japanese landings on the Aleutian islands and he would not be surprised at a desperate attempt to attack Alaska, with the objective of cutting off supplies for Russia.

The Japanese submarine which shelled the west coast of Vancouver Island might have been looking for supplies cached there earlier. The Japanese had landed men surreptitiously on the Queen Charlotte Islands before the war, and when the war started 300 Japanese disappeared and the authorities could not find them.

The budget being brought down in the middle of the year upset any systematic planning by the people with respect to their livelihood. The income tax proposals were "unfair" to the family man on a $2,000 income.

Col. Ross said the Hong Kong expedition inquiry should not have been in secret and the report of Chief Justice Sir Lyman P. Duff, commissioner, should be discussed in the House.

He was satisfied that if the evidence was produced and there was no dereliction of duty or error on the part of the cabinet war committee, the Defence Ministry, members of the joint defence council of Canada and the United States and high-ranking officers, all officers of the expeditionary force and of military district No. 10 (Winnipeg), would be entirely exonerated.

'No Time for Prosecutions'

"I think that at a time like this, in face of the peril that now exists to the democracies of the world, prosecutions of loyal citizens under the defence of Canada Regulations are unjustified and are not in the interests of an all-out war effort," said Col. Ross.

Such an action had been instituted against Lt.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, a "gallant and great soldier," said Col. Ross.

Dr. Gershaw said he believed the budget represented the end of the phase of capitalism which allowed poverty and want to exist side by side with great wealth and waste.

He supported larger pensions for the aged and blind, and advocated the continuation of high taxation after the war so that the work of reconstruction could be carried out. No one who had gone overseas should lose because of having done so and none should gain by having stayed at home.

Many Canadians still were without the high-vitamin foods necessary to health and there should be the ones to provide an adequate diet for all Canadians. Such provision would provide a market for farm products.

Always Comrades

CHUNGKING, July 3—(AP). — China expressed her appreciation today to American Volunteer Group fliers and Brig.-Gen. C. L. Chennault, who are winding up their work as a unit against the Japanese July 4, with dissolution of the organization and induction of at least some of the personnel into the United States army air force. "Gen. Chennault and his company of air knights will always be remembered by the Chinese people as comrades in arms and the friendly representatives of a friendly people," a government spokesman said.

Teacher Leaves Fairmount School After Two Years

FAIRMOUNT, July 2—(ENS). — A pleasant afternoon was spent at Fairmount School No. 3 on Friday when the pupils presented a club bag to their teacher, Miss E. D. Scott, who had taught here since September, 1940. In that time she had gained a close friendship with all. Several of the parents were present and ojined in the lunch which was served.

The community regrets losing Miss Scott, who is on the teaching staff of Hamilton School now. She was a great help both in Sunday School and Young People's work. Best wishes were extended to her as she left for her home in Toronto after the presentation.

HEIR TO VALOUR

HOW can we possibly pay adequate tribute to the Soldier of Canada?

Whether he wears the badge of a time-honoured unit whose colours are heavy with battle honours, or of some new service born entirely of modern warfare, the traditions of a heroic past and the pledge of a courageous future are in his care.

Until the day of victory . . . and beyond . . . he carries our hearts with him.

We whose part it is to protect, through Life Insurance, the economic future of the Canadian home are proud to join in a public tribute to the Canadian Army. Their devotion and courage protect not only our beloved Canada, but the cause of freedom and justice throughout the world.

MAIN TREET TOICS

ANOTHER RECRUIT

Robert (Bob) Morton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton, 624 Water street, has enlisted in the F.C.N. Reserve as bugler, and will leave Friday for Toronto where he will begin his training.

HE IS MARRIED, TOO

Pat Rafferty, the popular comedian, who has bee: seen by local audiences many times, admitted on Wednesday evening that he had joined the ranks of the benedicts for the second time. He was married to Miss Kitty McGirk at Montreal, 8 weeks ago.

TO LEAVE THE CITY

It was confirmed on Thursday that Lt.-Col. Maurice .. Park, officer commanding the Prince of Wales Rangers, 2nd Battalion (Reserve) has accepted a position on the teaching staff of the Toronto Normal School, and will begin his duties commencing next term. He has been a member of the Peterborough Normal School staff for several years.

SHORT STAY

The fifty-four boys who went to Connaught Park, Ottawa, Sunday, from the Collegiate Institute for ten days' training in camp, returned Wednesday evening and staged a triumphal parade up George street, loaded with duffle bags and suitcases. Some of the boys had to return to work before their period of training was completed and the authorities felt that they could not return in two parties so they packed them up a lunch and sent them back.

A DIFFICULT STUNT

The huge crowd watching the vaudeville at the C.G.E. picnic on Wednesday evening marvelled at the ease with which The Lowells, a man and a woman, did some difficult acrobatic stunts. Mrs. Lowell, who weighs 116 pounds, and is the mother of a 13-months-old baby, formed a wrestler's bridge, with just the back of her head and her heels on the ground, then held her husband, who weighs 135 pounds, in a perfect hand stand.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT

Some of the more public-spirited of the Peterborough citizens have been donating part of their holidays and spare time to helping out the farmers who were short-handed. Mr. I. H. Graham of the Collegiate staff has been helping out up near Fenelon Falls, and Dr. J. Graham may be doing the same thing shortly. D. T. Crawford, principal of King Edward School, has been lending his services where they were needed. James Wharry of the Quaker Oats was doing his bit over the week-end pitching hay, and Dr. J. A. Madill of the Normal School has been assisting in the fruit picking in the Niagara Peninsula.

IDENTAL TOLL LIGHT

Nicholls Oval Is Scene Of Gala Outing

Conservatively estimated at 12,000 people, a crowd unparalleled in the history of Peterborough picnics jammed the broad reaches of Nicholls Oval, and overflowed under the trees on Wednesday as the Canadian General Electric Company and the Genelco Limited employees held their annual outing.

It was truly a gala outing, unmarred by accidents of any description, and the huge crowd set another record in the amount of soft drinks, hot dogs and other summer delicacies which were consumed. Arranged with meticulous care that has characterized all C.G.E. outings, Wednesday's picnic was a masterpiece of organization, and the day's program moved along with a smoothness that combined with near ideal weather to make the day perfect.

5,000 Employees

For the first time, the C.G.E. employees tied in with employees from Genelco Limited to set a new attendance record, and generally the picnic followed the established practise of former year. As usual the children occupied the paramount position in the minds of the picnic committee, all members of the picnic committee, all member of the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club and Canteen Fund, and they saw to it that the kiddies were well treated. All children of employees, 14 years and under received a strip of tickets free of charge. These tickets, five in number, could be used for bus transportation, rides and at any of the large refreshment booths on the grounds.

This ticket scheme relieves the parents of a financial burden, particularly the men with a large family, and the custom has met with favor for so many years it is now an accepted thing. There were 3,200 strips of tickets distributed at the plant and on the grounds. Four large refreshment booths, housed in tents 20 x 40 feet and manned by sixty employees did a boom town business from ten in the morning until way after dark.

Six major prizes were added to the program list this year, and included a refrigerator and a console radio. These prizes had to be claimed by persons on the ground, and the refrigerator went to A. E. Ryerson of Genelco Ltd., and the radio to Mrs. F. Merrett, 363 Leslie avenue. Mantel clocks were won by E. H. Wagar and A. Brazer, and table lamps by Mrs. B. Stirling and Mrs. T. Davies.

Three Rides

There were three carnival rides, and the operators hustled droves of children back and forth, operating the rides at capacity here was a merry-go-round, a chairoplane and a roundabout, and there was a calliope to provide a background of music.

The vaudeville program, featuring top ranking entertainers from Toronto, was an ambitious venture for an outdoor picnic and it served perfectly to round out the well-balanced program.

Arranged through Garden Bros. Amusement Corporation of Toronto the vaudeville casts had variety and class. An unusual cabaret act, by Marquette and Linda, introduced a clever marionette act, in which both members manipulated large size marionettes in dancing acts. The Lowells drew plenty of applause with acrobatic performance that was distinctly unusual. Others are the program were Carr Bros., comedian-acrobatic team; Gus Munro, accordeonist; Mildrew Mowry, singer, mimic and dancer, who teamed up with the ever-popular Pat Rafferty in a comedy skit; Miller and King, roller skaters; Sid Long, xylophonist, and the Tip Tops, six smart-looking dancers, who had four numbers.

Lost Children

Mary Greer, Reg.N., of the C.G.E. plant hospital and Divisional Supt. of the St John Ambulance Nursing Division, had charge of the first aid tent, and 20 girls from the plant, all graduates of the St. John Ambulance Association, were on duty. This group patched up bruised children, managed minor cuts, and used the tent as a depot for locating lost children. As soon as a child was brought to the tent, announcement would be made over the public address system, and the parents were soon on the scene. The nurses also operated a checking booth for parcels, baskets, and clothing.

Frank W. Robinson, general chairman of the picnic committee was a busy man throughout the entire day, and special tribute should also be given to Jack Cameron, chairman of the sports committee, who headed a hard-working committee of men who handled a big job in an efficient manner.

Recordings were broadcast over the loud speaker system during the day, and in the evening between seven and eight, the band of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals from Kingston, under the direction of Warrant Officer S. T. Cruikshank, gave a band concert which delighted the huge audience. The program included marches, overtures, medleys, and a few popular numbers.

Bob Bailey' band from Toronto, dressed up as clowns and paraded through the crowd during the afternoon, much to the amusement of the youngsters.

The general committee consited of F. W. Robinson, general chairman; Reg. H. Perks, general secretary; N. E. Crowe, treasurer; Jack Cameron, chairman spots; Tom McCabe, chairman transportation, and J E. Thomas, chairman draw committee. Officials were J. E. Girven and S. O. Shields, announcers; Dave Grant, starter; Dave Menzies, A. L. Malby, J. Begley, and E. MacDonald, judges; R. M. Hanscom and S. W. Daniel, sound equipment; Chris Jay, Ted Chambers, S. Valentin, W. G. Shiner, W. Wright, B. Pakenham, O. Price, C. B. Muir, B. Baker, D. McGregor, D. Emery, W. T. Fanjoy, A. R. Church and A. Taylor, track and race Supervisors; C. Cadd and J. Londerville, volley ball; A. E. Hutchinson and H. D. Allin, horseshoes.

Following the long vaudeville show, the merrymakers danced until past midnight, to the music of Bob Bailey and his orchestra. The dancing was done on a specially built outdoor pavilion which also served as a stage for the big outdoor floor show.

Celebrates First Mass

Rev. J. F. Corkery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denis Corkery, 238 Westcott street, newly-ordained member of the Redemptorist order, and one of the youngest priests to be ordained in the missionary order, celebrated his first solemn high mass at the Sacred Heart Church, Sunday morning. He received his primary education at the Sacred Heart School and spent two years at St. Peter's High School.

Midnight Show Goes To Aid Cigarette Fund

The Buckshee Fund will be able to purchase 43,000 more cigarettes for the boys from Peterborough overseas because of a midnight show arranged by Syd Goldstone, Centre Theatre as a gesture in connection with Army Week.

The show was held on Tuesday at midnight, and every cent was turned over to Bob Hotrum, local manager of the Buckshee Fund. Another interesting touch was given the program when Sgts. Thompson and Lancaster, both of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment who have been serving overseas and are now in Canada, told the audience just what cigarettes mean to the men in Britain.

Additional features to the theatre program included the songs, "Johnny Doughboy Found a Rose in Ireland," and "Dear Old Pal of Mine" by Johnny Gibson, of the Centre Theatre staff. Two young ladies sang the "White Cliffs of Dover" and as an encore sang "Red River Valley."

Ted Borbridge Dies In West

Edward Franklin (Ted) Borbridge, well known lawyer, and former member of the law firm of Peck, Kerr, McElderry and Borbridge of Peterborough died on July 1 at Spring Point, Alberta, where he was spending a holiday. He was 29 years of age.

Born at Ottawa, a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Borbridge, now of Peterborough, this young man obtained his early education at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, and received his Arts degree from Trinity College, University of Toronto in 1934. He was called to the bar in 1937, and a short time later became associated with the Peterborough law firm.

While in Peterborough Mr. Borbridge was an active and popular member of the Kinsmen Club, and held a commission in the Prince of Wales Rangers (Reserve). He was a very active member of St. John's Anglican Church, and had a capacity for work, and a pleasing personality that made him one of the best liked men of his set. Three years ago he married Dorothy Jane Metcalf of Hamilton, and a year ago he left Peterborough to practice law as an associate member of the Toronto law firm of Elliott, Sankey and Killey. He was a member of the Law Association in Peterborough.

He has been in poor health in recent months and it is understood he went to the west for a rest to regain his health only to have death overtake him. Surviving besides his wife and parents are two sisters, Mrs. Ralph Honey of Peterborough and Mrs. Frank Stinson of Millbrook.

His home address is 15 Claxton Road, Toronto, and burial will take place in Ottawa.

Six-Pound Pickerel Is Caught In River

Orville Smith, 216 Woodbine Ave., has been taking a lot of kidding lately because of his inability to match his young son's success and also that of the boy's friend, in the fishing game. But he has the last laugh now.

For over a week both the boys, the father and a friend of his have been fishing in the vicinity of Hunter street bridge, and the boys have been bringing in some nice pickerel, while "father" couldn't even get a nibble. A couple of nights ago he became so exasperated that he and his friend took the lines from the boys and started in, but it was no dice.

Sunday night, vowing to do or die, Mr. Smith and Albert Starr, went to their regular spot and waited patiently and were magnificently rewarded, catching a 6 pound, 7 ounce, pickerel, which sets something of a record for fishing in the waters at Peterborough.

Friends say that Mr. Smith is walking on air since his big catch and isn't worrying about catching anything more for the rest of the season.

CGE Employees Raise $60 For War Victims

The story of how a small penny box through the ingenuity of its sponsors the Tool Design department of the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., supervised by A. Spicer, is unfolded with the list of receipts for this day's report for the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund. Starting off by passing the box around among the employees in this department, a guessing contest was then held with each paying a small sum to be eligible for the prize of a silver dollar which was donated by Mr. Spicer. When the smoke of battle died away, a little over $26 was the combined total for the fund. For this a draw was held at $1.00 a ticket of which fifty were put in circulation and all disposed of, so that the final result was $50 coming to the fund, which was handed in by Miss Betty Hughes, an employees in that department. That's nice work, and the amount will do a lot of good in Britain.

Then to further augment this contribution from the C.G.E. comes one of $10.71 from the foremen's association of the same plant, who held a stag moonlight excursion recently at which report says there was loads of fun. By butting in to various side shows, and confiscating part or all of the proceeds, the sum mentioned was gathered together for the fund, with no hard feelings engendered, but rather that of satisfaction at making their party the means of doing some good for others, the money being handed in by G. W. Allison.

S.S. No. 5, Cavan, Helps

On June 25, the pupils of S.S. No. 5, Cavan, of which R. A. Sutton is the teacher, held their annual achievement day, starting off with a program of various types of musical numbers and recitations, before an audience composed of parents and friends, which was followed by a display of work and a bazaar where cloth and wooden articles made by the students, together with products from the school garden were sold with liberal patronage from those present to make a total of $17.50 which appears in today's list of receipts for the fund. A touch and take table provided quite some fun, and added materially to the receipts. The children of this school have done previous work on behalf of the British War Victims, and during the holidays are keeping up the good work by selling tickets on a quilt, the results of which will be heard from at a later date.

Another school in the district is also included in this day's list, with J. Duncan Seymour the teacher at S.S. No. 7, Smith, bringing in $3.75 from those who have been under his charge at that school for the past school year. Finally, a personal donation is listed from the district when Jack and Wallace of Keene between them make a contribution of $5 to help the victims of air raids in Britain.

Stamp Salesmen To Get Banquet

Carrier boys and girls of the Peterborough Examiner, who have done such splendid work selling War Savings Stamps, are to be honored by the city of Peterborough at a banquet to be held next Monday evening at 7.45 in the Empress Hotel.

The dinner is in appreciation of the fine work that these young girls and boys have done towards financing Canada's war effort. At the dinner, the usual monthly presentation of a large gold trophy will be made to the carrier who sold the greatest amount of stamps during the month of June, and this lucky winner will also receive a replica of the trophy for permanent possession.

Prizes will also be given to the carriers for sale of stamps during the current week, one prize for the biggest cash increase in sales in the month of June, and another prize for the largest sales of stamps per customer. Five-cell chrome-plated flashlights and wristwatches have been chosen as prizes.

Milk For Britain

A small school in the township of Fenelon which has only nine pupils on the roll, wanted to do something for the children in Britain who could not get any milk to drink so they took up a collection and raised in all $2.75, with the assistance of their teacher, Miss Verna M. Alldred.

The other day an American visitor called in one of the city banks to exchange his American money for Canadian currency and $5.00 of the extra funds given him in exchange he turned over to the Milk for Britain Fund

Training Centre Is Open To Public Friday

Through the kind permission of Lt.-Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., V.D., officer commanding the Military Training Centre, the Centre will be thrown open to public inspection tomorrow afternoon.

A program of championship sports including track and field events, softball games, volleyball games and horseshoe pitching will be staged during the afternoon and the public are also invited to witness the sports.

The sports will commence at 1 o'clock sharp and will continue until the championships are decided in each event. The men's sleeping quarters will be open to the public and visitors will be conducted through the quarters by a non-commissioned officer. The men's dining quarters will also be thrown open to inspection as will the medical inspection hut, the dental clinic and the camp hospital.

At 3 o'clock and continuing for one hour, visitors will be guests of the commanding officer, officers and men at tea to be served in the men's dining hall.

The climax to the afternoon's program will take place on the main parade ground when a building erected for the purpose will be set afire to demonstrate the efficiency of the army's fire-fighting equipment.

Another interesting event of the afternoon will be the changing of the guard from 3.30 until 4 o'clock.

During the afternoon the gas chamber will be in operation and an opportunity will be offered civilians to test the efficiency of the army respirator in a chamber filled with tear gas. Altogether an interesting program has been drawn up for the entertainment of the civilian population of the city and district and arrangements have been completed for the entertainment of a large crowd.

Salary Increase Is Refused

CAMPBELLFORD, July 2 (ENS) — The question of High School teachers' salaries which came up at the regular meeting of the Board of Education dragged the session out into one of the longest in years. It was the "ability to pay" that the matter was finally reduced to and after hearing several motions for which there was no seconder it was apparent the members could not agree on the problem and they left the meeting with no action taken.

With a dwindling attendance in the High School (down to less than 200 pupils last year) members were little disturbed by the request for leave of absence "for the duration" from science and P.T. teacher, G. E. M. Shouldice, who joined the staff six months ago. He told them in his letter that he was joining the Air-force and asked that they continue to pay his superannuation fee while he was in the service. The board thought that this would be "a nice gesture" but considering his length of service it was decided that no action would be taken. E. H. McKeel made the suggestion that Mr. Shouldice pay into this fund himself and if he returned to teach in Campbellford he should be reimbursed by the Board. Messrs. McKeel and Russel made the motion that Mr. Shouldice's request for leave of absence be granted.

During subsequent discussion of a letter from the Bank of Commerce announcing the closing out of its branch here Dr. Richardson rose to pay tribute to the Manager, A. G. Thompson, who has been on the Board for fourteen years and held nearly every committee chairmanship during that time. "We were always glad of his advice and counsel. He gave his best at all of the meetings." High School Principal E. H. Greig also expressed regret at Mr. Thompson's departure on behalf of the staff.

Speaking on the question of decreasing the staff for the coming term Principal Greig declared it was a difficult thing to estimate the the probable number of pupils there would be at the school for the fall term. He said it was particularly in the Upper School that attendance had dropped off during 1941-42 but so far as entrance pupils were concerned there would probably be about the same number. He admitted that it might be possible to carry on with one less teacher but with the additional subjects being added to the curriculum as a result of the war (particularly the new P.T. course) it was going to result in a great deal of extra work. He said the Department of Education was emphatic in stating that a certain amount of added time must be devoted to the new studies. W. Roy Loucks characterized the falling off of attendance as a trend which would not be rectified till the war was over "when jobs are fewer."

Japs Call 50,000 Off Philippines

CHUNGKING, July 2—(AP). — About 50,000 Japanese troops from the Philippines have been concentrated on Formosa for "readjustment and training," a Chinese army spokesman reported today. "Just where they will be sent remains to be seen," he said.

A wide gap still exists between the two Japanese columns on the Kiangsi railway battlefronts in China, he said, with the Japanese still around Keeiki in the west and Shankjao in the east.

This leaves them about 50 miles apart. Possibly the Japanese will try to invade coastal Fukien province from adjoining Kiangsi and Chekiang provinces in an attempt to eliminate airbases from which Japan could be bombed.

10 Canadians Back

JERSEY CITY, N.J., July 2. — (AP)—The Swedish liner Drottningholm from Lisbon tied up here today and preparations were made immediately to discharge her passengers, including 10 Canadians. The passenger list totalled 949.

The white-painted vessel had safe-conduct passage from all the belligerents. Some passengers came from concentration camps and others from embassies.

Use Wooden Piston

LUNENBURG, N.S., July 2 — (CP)—Ingenuity of the Lunenburg fisherman was again apparent when the schooner Marjorie and Dorothy made port here recently, with a wooden piston in her engine. The schooner developed engine trouble on the Grand Banks and put in at St. Pierre. While awaiting replacement parts the crew contrived a wooden piston.

SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR

By BLANCHE ROBERTS

THE STORY: Judith Kingsly and Tom Burke, employes of an airplane factory, are en route to the west coast. When foreign agents kidnap Tom from an airliner, Judith leaves the plane with the new bomber plans which Tom had slipped to her. Pursued by the agents, she finds Tom in a cabin, leaves him fighting with his captors, thumbs two rides and, after many narrow escapes, eludes the pursuers and reaches San Diego.

WHERE IS TOM?

CHAPTER VII

IT was after 1 o'clock in the afternoon when Judith opened her tired and swollen eyes. She hadn't intended to sleep so long, but once asleep she could not waken. Every bone and muscle in her exhausted body ached. It took all her strength and will power to get out of bed.

She walked to the window and looked down on the crowded street. For no apparent reason her heart quickened its beat and intuition told her the car parked across from the hotel belonged to the spy ring. A man walked slowly up and down the street, occasionaly glancing at the hotel entrance.

"They have found out in some way that I am here." A gleam of light came into her eyes as she turned from the window to the telephone.

"Please send me a maid," she told the man at the desk. And while she waited she mused: "I've come this far on my own and I can go the rest of the way. I'll deliver these plans in person and nothing is going to stop me."

To the maid she said, "Could I rent a uniform from you?"

"Oh, yes, miss," the girl replied eagerly at the sight of the bill in Judith's hand. "I'll get it for you now."

Judith left the hotel by the servants' entrance without being accosted and found a cab. An hour later she entered the manager's office at the west coast factory.

He looked up, startled at seeing a smiling, redheaded maid standing there. He cleared his throat while Judith enjoyed his embarrassment.

"I don't blame you for being amazed, Mr. Matthews. I'm Judith Kingsly of the eastern office. I have the plans Mr. Burke was bringing to you. Sorry they are late in arriving."

Matthews got hastily to his feet and came around the desk to take her hands. There was deep admiration in his eyes.

"You got through!" he exclaimed, overjoyed. "When we heard Tom Burke was missing we had just about given up hopes of the plans. Mr. Watson has been frantic about you. You'd better call the home office right away. Here"—he pushed her into a chair—"I'll have the call put right through for you."

"But what happened to Tom Burke?" Judith asked fearfully. "Is he all right?"

"We don't know. The plane was located yesterday and brought in. The passengers told us what happened before and after your disappearance, but they were all shady about the looks of the men."

"The last time I saw Tom," said Judith, her voice low and her eyes misty, "he was fighting with his captor. He ordered me to leave. I had the plans. He dropped them in my seat when they were taking him off the liner. The spies had him in a shack near where the plane was brought down."

"The FBI men found the shack. It was empty, of course."

"Of course," she repeated. "They would have Tom with them. So he must be all right," she said, more for her own benefit than for the manager's.

When the long distance call came through, Judith gave Watson a brief resume of her experiences.

"I didn't know I was letting you in for all that," Watson told her contritely. I want you to stay out there in California for a rest. Three weeks' vacation—and a raise, too."

She hung up, and lifted sad, speculative eyes to Matthews.

But immediately another idea made her eyes sparkle with adventure. "I can help find Tom Burke and the spy ring. I'm sure of it."

"How?"

She shrugged her slim shoulders. "Just leave it to me. Those spies have been on my trail constantly. Just because I have delivered the plans doesn't mean they will let me go free. I rather imagine they'd like to get hold of me if for no other reason than to put me out of the picture."

Matthews sat silent and concerned. Judith walked to a window and looked out.

"I wouldn't be surprised if someone was waiting for me right now."

"We wouldn't think of letting you take such a chance," Matthews exploded. "I'm going to send you back east in a private plane from the field here."

Judith shook her head.

"Tom's life may be at stake," she said crisply, then added smilingly, "Besides, I've just been promised three weeks' vacation."

"Let's hear your plan, Miss ...ngsly."

"Those men won't let Tom go—... while he knows things they ... use, or while he knows their ...outs. If I can help the Fed... men catch the spies and res... Tom, I think it is my duty—a...ity I want to perform."

Chief Left Alone As 3 Constables Quit In Lindsay

LINDSAY, July 2 — (ENS). — Lindsay's Police Force has been reduced to one man—Chief Lawlor, and he is at present in Quebec City attending a convention of Police Chiefs. About a fortnight ago Constable John Simnett resigned from the force to accept a position with the C.N.R.. On Monday night Constable John Nesbitt handed in his baton to accept a position also with the C.N.R., and on Wednesday Constable Reeves severed his connection with the force and entered the railway service.

Th chairman of the Police Committee had a busy time of it hunting up relief men. He was finally obliged to call on County Constable Hergreaves of Kirkfield to go on night duty. An effort was made to hold a special session of the Council on Wednesday morning in order to deal with the situation, but a majority of the members were out of town. A regular meeting of the Council will be held next Monday when steps will be taken to fill the vacancies on the force.

NOW'S THE TIME TO BUY YOUR COAL!

'Fill that coal bin now!' says the government

"Get all the winter coal you're going to need—and get it NOW," is the urgent request of the government. Protect your family from the serious consequences of the possible shortage next winter!

There is a simple way to buy all the coal you need—to buy for cash and take advantage of low coal cash prices. A special plan now lets you have all the cash you need and repay the cost in small monthly instalments at a very small net charge per ton. For instance, a $100 loan can be repaid for as little as $7.78 per month.

You get four other important advantages by taking prompt advantage of this new plan. 1. Complete privacy in making all arrangements. 2. No co-signers or endorsers required. 3. 15 full months in which to repay. 4. No guarantee of your loan by your coal dealer or any outside source. And the first payment will not be due for thirty days.

Learn all about this budget plan for coal users. Phone or visit Household Finance Corporation of Canada, 177 Charlotte Street, Peterborough. Phone 5841.

One Topic Missed

Ottawa, July 2 (CP).

EVERYTHING has been mentioned in the House of Commons debate on the government bill to permit conscription for overseas service except the question of women without stockings, George Cruickshank (Lib. Fraser Valley) said in the House last night.

"Practically everything has been mentioned in this debate except whether the stenographers of the House should go without stockings and paint their legs," said Mr. Cruickshank.

"We are sitting here dawdling around in complacency, both individuals and the government, and we do not know there is a war on."

MILLBROOK

Call Is Given Rev. C. Patterson

MILLBROOK, July 2 — (ENS). —The congregations of Millbrook and Centreville Presbyterian circuit have invited Rev. C. E. Patterson, of Paisley, to become their minister, taking the place of Rev. A. Raeburn Gibson, B.D., who has gone to Chesley as pastor. Definite word of acceptance from Rev. Mr. Patterson has not, as yet, been received.

Cadets Go to Camp

Eleven members of the Millbrook Cadet Corps joined the company going to the Connaught Ranges on Sunday, for a week's training in camp. The train arrived here shortly before 8 a.m. on Sunday, having started at Lindsay, and having accommodation for almost one thousand cadets. Local boys included: Teddy Stinson, Evans Hatherly, Zenas Ward, Donald Edmunds, Brenton Dawson, Teddy Sisco, David Fallis, B. Stewart, Karl Fee, Lindsay Belch, and Lyal McMahon.

Senior Cadet Ted Stinson, was the Sergeant in charge of the local unit.

Mrs. (Dr.) Adam Clarke, of Winnipeg, visited her cousins, Mr. A. A. and Miss Henrietta Needler, at the weekend, Misses Janet and Alice Needler, who had been here for the week, returning to Toronto on Saturday evening. With their host and hostess, they were guests of the Misses Roddick at Cobourg on Friday.

Social Evening

A pleasant social evening was held in the L.O.L. Hall at Carmel, south of the village, on Friday at 8 p.m., when over one hundred of the folk of the community, and a number of guests from Millbrook as well, gathered to do honor to Miss Muriel Hall, who has resigned after being the popular and efficient teacher of the school for the past seven years.

Progressive euchre took up the time for the first part of the evening, the highlight being reached when the guest of honor was invited to a seat on the platform by the chairman, Delbert Olan, when an address, appreciative of the fine work Miss Ball had accomplished in the local school, and the keen regret felt at losing her services, was read by Lola Gardiner, and presentation made of a handsome vanity set in opalescent green and gold, as well as a large box of chocolates, Ruth Thorne and Elsie Gibson offering the gifts. Previous to the more formal presentation, little Lois Gardiner gave Miss Muriel a lovely arm bouquet of fragrant summer flowers.

Suitable reply was made by the guest of the evening, who after the vacation, goes to Lindsay to teach, the service of dainty refreshments bringing to a close an enjoyable gathering. Mrs. Robert Gibson and Miss Florence Gardiner headed the committee which planned the social event.

Rommel's Army Smashing Toward Alexandria

Gen. Erwin Rommel's Afrika Corps is reported smashing its way toward the base of the British Mediterranean fleet located at Alexandria. It is reported Rommel's forces are but 70 miles from here, and are already many miles into Egypt. The main Axis column had advanced along the coastal railroad in reaching Matruh where the British withdrew. ABOVE is an air view of Alexandria.

Norwood Orangemen Hold Church Parade

NORWOOD, July 2 — (ENS). — Christ Church Norwood was filled to capacity on Sunday evening when members of L.O.L. 32 and their friends as well as members from visiting lodge attended divine service.

All took part heartily in the service which was in charge of the rector the Rev. R. E. Lemon. He took for his text Isaiah 55 and part of the first verse "Look unto the rock whence ye are hewn, and the hole of the pit whence ye are digged," and endeavored by scripture and history to answer the very deep problem "Is religious peace possible." The choir rendered special music for the occasion.

A short meeting took place in the L.O.L. lodge room after the service where expressions of appreciation were voiced by members of the brethren.

Chandos School Board Accepts Resignation

GLENALDA, July 2 — (ENS). — At a meeting of the Chandos Union School Section held in the Owenbrook School the resignation of the teacher, Miss D. Redden, was accepted on a motion of Theodore Liscum and Sam Bartman.

It was decided to pay Louis Post $5.00 for work for a day and a half, on a motion by Amos Forbes, seconded Sam Bartman. It was moved that if it was necessary, to borrow $150 and that the secretary-treasurer look after it. The motion was moved and seconded by James Rosebush and Amos Forbes.

The Board decided to pay $10.15 to the Glenalda School teacher for the curtains and window shades that she had purchased, and that the necessary repairs be done in the schools during the summer.

Toronto Man Killed Near Lindsay Two Aged Persons Badly Hurt

LINDSAY, July 2.—(ENS).—A serious accident which was attended with fatal results occurred about eleven-thirty Wednesday morning at the C.N.R. crossing one mile west of Lindsay, when Owen Yearsley, 73, of Bloor street, Toronto, was instantly killed and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sloan, of Little Britain seriously injured. The party was motoring east en route to Pleasant Point when the car, driven by Mrs Sloan, crashed into the engine of the outbound Midland way freight. The car struck the engine near the steps and was turned round twice before coming to a stop on the highway a few feet west of the crossing. Mr. Rearsley was thrown from the badly wrecked car on to the north shoulder of the highway. The oter occupants of the car were rushed to the Ross Hospital Mrs. Sloan, 77, sustained severe lacerations about the face and had one eye badly injured. She is also suffering from bodily bruises and shock. Mr Sloan, who is eighty-five years of age, was badly injured about the body and is suffering from shock.

The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable McBrien, Traffic Officer Sipple, C.N.R. Constable Morden and Constable Reeves.

The freight train was in charge of Conductor James O'Leary, with Martin Fox engineer. Coroner Dr. Logan has ordered an inquest.

Silver Tea Is Held By Millbrook W.A.

MILLBROOK, July 2—(ENS). — The warm June day on Friday afternoon, with its attendant sunshine and fresh breezes, undoubtedly played a part in bringing out an unusual number of guests for the annual summer silver tea, sponsored by the W.A. of St. Thomas Anglican Church, and held at the home of Mrs. T. A. Campbell from four to six o'clock.

Receiving in the entrance hall were Mrs. C. M. Westmacott president of the hostess society, and Mrs. C. Chevis, wife of the new rector of Cavan parish, while in the living-room were Mrs. Campbell and her mother, Mrs. Martin. Mrs. George Raper was cashier. Summer blossems were tastefully arranged throughout the large rooms, and at the lace-covered table, centred with a silver basket of pink and gold flowers, Mrs. H. A. Attwooll poured tea. Assistants in the service of the guests included Mrs. J. W. Hilton Mrs. W. E. Massey-Cooke, Misses Janet and Alice Needler of Toronto and formerly of Millbrook, and Miss Bella McCorry. Others who helped with the tea were Mrs. H. J. Russell and Mrs. H. M. Trick, who kept the plates filled and looked after the making of the tea.

The rector, Rev. Mr. Chevis, was among the guests, taking advantage of the opportunity of becoming acquainted with his own people, and those of other congregations, and from Port Hope were Mrs. B. Dawson Mrs. Crosswaite, Miss Rigby, and Miss Florence Patterson. Mrs. L. H. Winslow and Miss Rose Macnamara were in charge of the table of home baking, their wares being speedily disposed of. The sum of $27.00 was realized from the undertaking.

Military Units Parade On Dominion Day

One of the largest military parades ever witnessed in Peterborough took place Dominion Day when about 1,300 soldiers from both active and reserved units paraded down George Street from Confederation Park, before between four and five thousand people who burst into spontaneous applause as the sun-burned men marched smartly by. This was yet another item in the celebration of Army Week.

Lt. Col E. O. Keeler, M.C., D., Officer Commanding the Military Training Centre, was in charge of the parade. All the units, including the soldiers from the Training Centre, the Prince of Wales Rangers (Reserve), 33rd Reserve Company, Veterans' Guard of Canada and members of Branch 52 Canadian Legion converged at Confederation Square at 10 o'clock.

Before leaving the park, Lt. Col. E. O. Keeler presented the Colonial Auxiliary Forces Long Service Medal to Q.M.S. T. B. Griffin for 20 years of service in the Prince of Wales Rangers. Another presentation was to have been made to Q.M.S. Warrant Officer Class 2) A. E. Borland, but he was sent on leave. He was to receive the clasp to the Canadian Efficiency Medal which he already holds. The medal itself denotes 12 years service and the clasp six, making a total of 18 years service. Both men have sons now in the army.

The soldiers from the Training Centre, in full marching kit led off, and were cheered by enthusiastic crowds as they passed by. Half way down their long column was the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals Band, from Kingston, who along with the Prince of Wales Rangers Band and the Salvation Army Band, rendered splendid service. After the men, from the Training Centre, came five trucks and one lorry with war equipment made at Genelco. They were two 3.7 anti-aircraft guns, with accompanying crews, two anti-tank guns and their crews and two enormous searchlights of 8,000,000 candle-power each.

This display of armed might was followed by the Prince of Wales Rangers Band and the Prince of Wales Rangers (reserve unit) headed by Lt. Col. M. H. Park. After them came the Salvation Army Band and veterans of the Canadian Legion who can still hold their own with the best of them on the march. A number of members of C.W.A.C. from the Training Centre rode in the army trucks, presenting a smart appearance.

The long lines of khaki-clad men stretched down George street as far as the eye could see and their rhythmic tread gave back a dull beat long after they had passed.

These well trained men are the ones on whom Canada's defence rests and citizens of this city paid them real homage on Dominion Day, in a rousing enthusiasm which has not been seen here for a long time.

Will You Do This For Us Mrs. Housewife?

WILL YOU HELP US TO RECOVER SOME OF THE THOUSANDS OF MILK BOTTLES LOST DURING LAST YEAR?

By Order Of The Glass Administrator Milk Bottles Are Now Rationed

The bottle loss suffered each year is a matter of serious concern. How serious you can appreciate when you consider that each quart bottle costs at least 7½c each, but worse yet, no matter what we are willing to pay, the quantity available is limited.

The supply of new milk bottles available is very limited, and unless we are able to get back the empty bottles now lying around, the delivery of milk to your homes may be difficult. Our request is not too difficult to comply with. It will involve little time. All we ask is that you put out for your Campbell Dairy milkman any milk bottles you may have which are not in use or which are not being used to hold milk, cream, or buttermilk. Many housewives merely forgot to put bottles out for their drivers while others use them for purposes other than which they are intended. For this reason we are appealing to your spirit of fair play by asking you to assist us to get back bottles which are the property of the dairy. . . property which is loaned until the milk, cream, whipping cream, or buttermilk has been used and the bottle is empty.

PLEASE PUT ALL EMTY BOTTLES OUT FOR YOUR DRIVER

IF YOU NEGLECT TO DO THIS A BOTTLE DEPOSIT OF 5c WILL BE RENDERED

Using Surprise Fllings In Making Sandviches

By MARY MOORE

In Great Britain white bread is not sold any more. At one period since the war began all white bread was vitamin-enriched—but now that is not good enough.

All wheat bread is made from whole wheat. I don't know about rye bread, but because Canadians are remarkably slow in catching on to even an old idea, over 90 per cent of us continue to eat white bread even when we know whole wheat bread is better for our health on three different counts: more of several vitamins; more valuable minerals; more food elements.

The government nutrition people are thoroughly aware of this Canadian preference for white bread and are doing their best to improve this mistaken habit by fortifying the white bread with a V-vitamin and giving us a certain amount of vitamin health in spite of ourselves.

The housewives, you who are reading this, are the only ones who can swing Canadians over to the general consumption of whole wheat bread. Persist in buying it. Eventually your family will become so aware of its superior flavor they will prefer it.

This summer the number of sandwiches that are going to be made could take substantial part in your campaign to make your family whole wheat ead addicts.

I beg to the Dagwood school of Sanich Construction. The simplest of sandwich for me must have a nerous thick slice of ham or beef, a whole chopped egg and lettuce d mayonnaise and, if accessible, thin slice of cucumber and tono. I've often given myself a tporary case of lock jaw trying tonsume these skyscrapers.

So whel talk about sandwiches, it's an ave expert who is giving out.

I am tking of sandwiches for many occons as I write but foremost in mind, as ever, is nourishment.

Some othese fillings could be used for ernoon tea but please make thenvafer-thin and cut off the crustor your Duchess-type friends wile outraged.

Cottage Che and Tomato Triple Decker

One and -quarter cups cottage cheese, 2 taspoons melted butter, ½ teaspoon t, 2 tablespoon mayonnaise, sd tomatoes whole wheat breadCut slices of whole wheat bread inch thick but do not remove the ts. Rub the cheese to a smooth ste, and add slowly, beating, the ted butter and then the mayonna Cover 1-3 of the slices of wholeeat bread with the cheese fillingCover with a slice of whole wheat bread. Cover this with a layer of thinly sliced tomatoes, sprinkle well with salt and pepper and cover with third slice of whole wheat bread.

NOTE: Chopped Peanuts are a nice addition to the cheese filling.

Workingman's Pate de Fois Gras Sandwich

The original recipe for this called for chicken livers but an American friend of mine changed it to suit hed budget thus:

One cup boiled minced baby beef liver, ¼ cup chopped crisp bacon, 1 cup coarsely chopped watercress (loosely packed), 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 4 drops tobasco or 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. All these ingredients but the cress are best if put through the mincer—the smoother the paste the more similar to true pate de fois gras it is. Spread on whole wheat bread of course.

This is one of the fillings that is so well suited to afternoon teas—if you use it for these occasions, cut off the crusts and garnish sandwich plate with cress.

Frosty Sandwich Ribbon Loaf

Fillings for this must be smooth but not too moist.

Slice a loaf of day-old sandwich bread in lengthwise slices, getting 3 or 4 long slices ¾ inch thick. Spread each slice with a different filling using softened butter as the blending agent. Spread the slices with stiff mayonnaise only.

Filling No. 1: Chopped green pepper and pimientoes, cottage cheese, and salt and pepper. Add soft butter to make filling smooth enough to spread.

Filling No. 2: Ground cooked ham and dills put through mincer twice and flavored with pepper and mustard. Add soft butter to make filling smooth enough to spread.

Filling No. 3: Chopped salted peanuts (with skins off) or walnuts or cashews, mayonnaise, minced or grated celery, small amount of onions (1 teaspoon gives enough flavor for filling for 1 lengthwise slice of bread) and enough soft butter to make filling smooth enough to spread.

Any of these fillings make good individual sandwich fillings.

Emem's De Luxe Eggs Sandwiches

Using day-old whole wheat bread cut it into ½-inch slices. For one medium sandwich loaf, you will require 6 or 7 eggs. Cook the eggs in their shells at simmering temperature for ½ hour. Chill as soon as time is up in running cold water.

Peel hard-cooked eggs and chop them in large bowl with ⅓ cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon minced raw Spanish onion, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, ⅓ cup finely chopped cucumber or celery, pepper and generous amount of salt.

Mix until very well blended and spread on unbuttered side of sandwich (butter only one slice in every pair when making sandwiches—it saves time.) When sandwiches are made, if they are to be eaten at a table, crusts should be removed and sandwiches cut into four triangles and these triangles stood in a row in centre of plate on their longest side. Garnish plate with fancy cut slices of cucumber and radishes.

These make delicious and nourishing lunch box sandwiches.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, July 3.

The astral combination intervening in this day's affairs makes for a close attention to the inner meaning of all that occurs, with keen analysis and insight into transpiring events in the professional as well as social, domestic affectional and artistic realm. A serious note may undertone these with an accent on the matter of duty and obligation, on tenets of law and order. Especial caution is recommended in all pertaining to writings speech, correspondence, travel and change, since swift and ill-considered moves might involve loss and regret. With care there should be prosperity and happiness.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year in which their own devotion to duty, principle, and personal obligations, sustained by keen analysis, logic and forthrightness, may result in enduring progress, prosperity and personal happiness. Integrity, vigilance with speech and writings, as well as caution in change, travel and business transactions are urged. Over clever and quick moves bespeak loss and regret, with reactions on private satisfactions. There may be tokens of appreciation and love from elderly females.

A child born on this day should have many kindly, sympathetic and high principled traits which should assure it personal happiness. Laxity as to speech and writings should be avoided. Rigid business tenets should be inculcated.

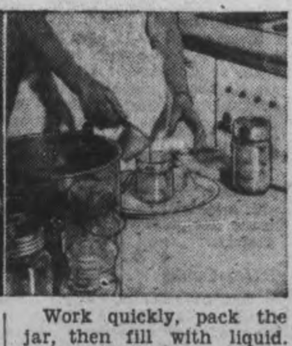
Seven Steps In Canning

First step in canning is to select, sort and grade good fruit. The quality of canned food depends upon the quality of the raw material used.

Check all equipment. Needed are sharp knives, a colander, bowls, measuring cups, enamel pie plates, wooden spoons, a wide mouthed funnel, a jar lifter and sterilizer which may be the wash boiler, oven or steam pressure cooker.

Test jar for leakage; see that it isn't cracked and there are no chips in the rim or cover, fill with water, seal and invert to test.

Test rubber rings. To be effective they must be elastic. Bend rings double; a poor one will crack. Then stretch; a good rubber will spring back.



Work quickly, pack the jar, then fill with liquid. Pack corn, beans and spinach loosely to allow heat penetration for even sterilization.

To remove air bubbles, after filling dip the blade of a knife in boiling water and run down and around inside of the jar until all bubbles have disappeared completely.

For processing, adjust sterilized rubbers and tops, partially seal. With wire clamp jars adjust top but do not spring down lower. With screw top screw tight then unscrew half turn.

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Would it be too much to ask if you could help me by giving me a recipe for a fruit cake? I want to make one for an anniversary. I like a nice dark moist cake. I am late starting—it should have been made but I put it off from day to day for I did not know just how about starting. Thanking you for it and others which are good, I am, Mrs. E. R. P.S.—Pan sizes are 10" x 10" x 3"; next 8" x 8" x 3"; next 6" x 6" x 3"; next 4" x 4" x 3". All the recipes I have are for four pans. E. R.

ANSWER: The fruit wedding cake I usually recommend comes up to your requirements of being moist and dark, and weighs 12 lbs. when finished which I think will just fill your pans nicely.

Wedding Cake
(Dark Moist Fruit Cake)

One pound butter, ½ pound granulated sugar, 1-3 cup brown sugar, 10 eggs, 1 orange, juice and grated rind, ½ lemon, juice and grated rind, ⅛ teaspoon soda, ½ cup molasses, ½ cup black coffee, ½ cup fruit juice (peach, cherry, pineapple, etc.), 1 pound flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon nutmeg, 1 tablespoon mace, ½ cup tart jelly (red currant is preferable but not essential), 1½ pounds seeded raisins, 1 pound seedless raisins, 2½ pounds currants, ½ pound almonds, 1 lb. citron, 1 cup flour (for the fruit). Cream the butter until very soft. Add the white sugar and the sifted brown sugar and mix thoroughly. Add the beaten yolks and mix again with the grated rind. Add one-half the soda to the molasses, stir until foamy and add, with the coffee and fruit juices, alternating with the 1 pound of flour, the rest of soda, the salt and spices sifted together. Break the jelly into pieces and stir in. It is not necessary to have the jelly thoroughly mixed in.

Look over the raisins and currants, wash if necessary, drain and dry. Blanche the almonds and slice. Save half the nuts to sprinkle o the bottom and top of the cake. Cut the citron in thin strips. Mix the one cup of flour thoroughly with this fruit.

Mix the prepared fruit with the batter. This may be added from time to time with the flour. When all is thoroughly combined, fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites.

This amount makes 12 lbs. cake and may be baked in four nested cake tins. Line the greased pans with three layers of greased paper (bottom and sides), having the top layer well greased. Sprinkle the bottoms with about one-third of the reserved nuts. Apportion the mixture into the prepared pans, making sure the corners are well filled and that the top is level and smooth. Sprinkle the remaining nuts on top. These may be steamed one hour and baked 1¾ hours at 250 deg. Fahr. or baked 2¼ hours at 250 deg. Fahr. (very slow oven). Let cool in the pans, but let stand on rack. When cool, turn out and remove the paper. Cool and store in cool dry place tightly covered.

As there is so much preparation involved the fruits and nuts may be readied before the batter is. Even after the cake is entirely mixed in the pans it may stand overnight if kept in a cool place.

We hope this recipe is exactly what you want and that we may help you again.

Question.—I am sending you a wartime cake recipe. It needs no sugar, if used as a pudding with sweet sauce or as a cake with sugar icing.

We like it quite sweet so I make it with the sugar.

Do you have recipe leaflets on canning, without too much sugar? I would like some recipe leaflets. I would like some recipes—I think you had some cookies made without sugar—also any others you may have.—"Mabe of Windsor."

Double Boiler Wartime Cake

Contributed by "Mabe of Windsor" (This requires a large double boiler.)

Two tablespoons shortening melted, ¼ cup brown sugar (if desired), ½ cup molasses, ½ cup sour milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon mixed spice, ½ cup or more of raisins, dates or nuts, 1 egg (the egg may be omitted if this is used for a pudding).

Method.—Mix all ingredients together. Grease top part of large double boiler and empty the batter into it. Cover tightly and steam about two hours. Turn out on plate. We use half as a hot pudding with sauce and frost the other half when cold, for a delicious cake.

Answer.—Rumor had reached me about this double boiler cake, but you are the first to share the secret. Did you perfect the cake. If so, I think you deserve a lot of credit. I am sending you the leaflets I have on cookery without sugar, by private mail.

We always like to hear from you, and know that your letters always contain interesting news.

Helson-Isaac

WARKWORTH, July 2.—(ENS).—In the living-room at the home of the bride's parents, on Saturday, June 27, under an arch of evergreens interspersed with wild orchids, Ruth Lenore, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benoni Isaac, Warkworth, was united in marriage to Vernon Arthur, only son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Helson of Percy Township. Banked about arch and decorating the spacious home were masses of pink peonies, blue delphinium and Canterbury bells.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. E. Smyth of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. R. R. Cooper of St. Paul's United Church, in the presence of the immediate families.

Miss Ina Rosevear, A.T.C.M., of Harwood, friend of the bride, played the wedding music.

The lovely bride wore a street length dress of turquoise blue sheer with lace, white hat and accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Elmer McKee, sister of the groom, wore pale pink sheer with white hat and accessories and corsage of pink Carnations and blue delphiniums. Mr. Elmer McKee supported the groom.

After the ceremony the guests repaired to the dining-room where the bride's mother received. She wore a dress of brown and white printed silk, and corsage of brown and gold snapdagon, and matching accessories. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore deep blue sheer with white accessories and corsage of deep rose snapdragon and pink roses.

The dining-room table was centred by the wedding cake and white candles, and the dining-room was attractive with decorations of pink and white streamers and flowers.

The wedding breakfast was served by four girl friends of the bride, Misses Ann Grant, Yvonne Edwards, Grace Plumpton and Ona Carr. They were assisted by Mrs. Carman Carlaw.

The groom's gift to the bride was a three-strand pearl necklace; to the matron of honor and pianist, white purses, and to the best man, a billfold.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Helson left for a short honeymoon motor trip.

Previous to their marriage they were given a miscellaneous shower, and among the beautiful gifts which they received was a cut velour studio couch and a Westminster chime mantel clock.

$10 For War Victims

St. David's Welsh Society held a meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. G. Pakenham, on Monday evening. Business was discussed and it was decided to give another $10 to the British War Victims' Fund. Members voted not to have a picnic this year and to hold no meetings during July and August. The fall work will begin with a social evening in September. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Fitzpatrick-Roddy

BURNLEY, July 2.—(ENS)—A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Peter's Church, Burnley, at nine o'clock Tuesday morning when Aileen Rita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Roddy, became the bride of Philip Ambrose Fitzpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Fitzpatrick of Norwood. Rev. Dean Ferguson officiated.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor-length gown of white triple sheer with finger-tip veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses. She was attended by her sister Miss Marie Roddy, in a floor-length gown of shell pink sheer with matching picture hat and a bouquet of delphiniums and roses.

Mr. John Fitzpatrick was best man.

After the reception at the home of the bride's parents, the happy couple left on a motor trip west. The bride travelled in a becoming blue dress with cocoanut straw hat and matching accessories.

Range Pals Meet

Members of the Range Pals met at Miss May and Mr. Gordon Thompson's home this week. In the business period they were asked to bring material for aprons instead of fees for the first meeting in July. Then the Pals enjoyed a treasure hunt and spelling match. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Next week the meeting will be held at the home of Miss Audrey and Miss Dorothy Larmer.

Friends Honor Bob Morton

Before his departure to enlist in the R.C.N.V.R. as a Bugler, Robert (Bob) Morton, was presented by a group of friends with an Eversharp pen and pencil set in navy blue and a money-belt, at a party held in his honor at his home on Water street. Among those present were: Bill Greatrix, Bob Graham, Doug Butcher, Roger Barrie, Martin McIlvena, Bob Clarke, Jack Bolderson, Earl Hall, Max Powell, Vince Howard, Gerald Powell, Stanley Rylott, Ken Burnham. Bob was also presented with a signet ring by his associates in the foot-press department at the Westclox.

Bates-Tubbs

CAMPBELLFORD, July 2. — (ENS). — Cambridge Street Baptist Church in Lindsay was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon when Jean Helen Tubbs became the bride of Arnold Edward Bates in a quiet ceremony for which Rev. C. P. Reid officiated. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Tubbs, Lindsay, and the groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bates, Campbellford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white silk chiffon with lace inserts and sweetheart neckline. She carried a white Bible with rosebuds and baby's breath, while her face veil fell from a small white hat. She was unattended. A reception was later held at "Ye Old Cottage Tea House" in Lindsay, and here the bride's mother received in a navy dress of burnt crepe with matching hat and shoes. She wore a corsage of pink roses and was assisted by Mrs. Edward Bates, the groom's mother, who chose a turquoise crepe with white accessories and corsage of roses.

For travelling the bride donned a pale blue crepe suit trimmed with brown and brown and white accessories. Following a wedding trip to the Kawartha Lakes, Mr. and Mrs. Bates will return to reside in Campbellford where they will resume their positions on the staffs of the High and Public School here.

O'Connor-Martin

The marriage was quietly solemnized on Saturday of Pearl Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, Peterborough, to Edward Lawwrence O'Connor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward O'Connor of Lindsay. Miss Dorothy Grady attended the bride and Mr. John Legrow was best man. The young couple will reside in Peterborough.

C.W.L. President Visits Marmora

MARMORA, July 2 — (ENS). — The June meeting of Marmora Subdivision of the Catholic Women's League was held on Tuesday afternoon at the summer home of Mrs. H. A. McNally at Crowe Lake, with a large attendance. The meeting opened with prayer led by the chaplain, Rev. H. J. Farrell. Mrs. J. Black president, welcomed the Diocesan president, Mrs. A. B. Collins of Belleville. Several notes of thanks were read from members for baskets of fruit sent them during illness.

The Diocesan president congratulated the sub-division on the creditable reports. She also spoke on lay retreats and the national scholarship.

A discussion was held on war work and it was decided to meet at the home of the president every Tuesday afternoon during July and August for sewing. Finished quilt blocks were turned in by the members for the making of a quilt and more clothing will be gathered for the packing of another box for the British war victims. Mrs. Black spoke of her pleasure in the increased membership. She had asked each member to secure one new member, and she especially congratulated Mrs. H. Auger, who had brought in the names of thirteen new members.

Brief reports followed from the conveners of social service, child welfare, membership, and magazines. Rev. F. Quinlan, O.M.I., Ottawa, addressed the members briefly, wishing them success in their good work. Rev. H. J. Farrella also congratulated the members on the work they had accomplished and on the increased membership. Mrs. William Shannon gave an interesting reading on The Sacred Heart. At this point Mrs. Collins was presented with a bouquet of roses in appreciation of her interest in the sub-division. The presentation was made by Mrs. C. Crawford. Mrs. H. A. McNally received the presentation of a beautiful china teapot from the members as a mark of gratitude for the use of her summer home for the June meeting for the past four years Mrs. J. Ethier making the presentation. As a special request, Mrs. J. Black recited a poem "Unawares." Several games of bingo were played, after which a contest sponsored by Mrs. Black was held. This consisted of the ladies emptying their purses and counting the number of articles. The prize went to Mrs. J. Ethier, who had a total of 94 articles.

Votes of thanks having been tendered Mrs. Collins and Mrs. McNally, the meeting was closed with prayer. A delicious lunch was then served.

SWEET SUMMER BREEZE

At the left, a calot made of black horsehair is banked with muguet de bois, or valley lilies. At the right a huge tulle picture hat has a brim wreath of the same blossoms.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

LIGHT, pick-me-up perfumes are the only ones that a kind woman should use in mid-summer. There is something awful about a blast of heavy scent, no matter how good its quality, let loose on the swooning days when the thermometer is within an ace of blowing up.

If you are a one-scent woman and yours is as heavy as the best tawny port, tone it down into lotion or cologne form, but please! If you have an open mind, however, splash yourself with delicate flower scents and be as liberal as you like. You simply can't get an overdose. Lily of the valley, or muguet, to give it the "parfum" not perfume name, is a beautiful summer scent, and the pretty dogday hats above were inspired by it.

DOROTHY DIX

WIVES ARE MADE MARTYRS BY IMAGINARY GRIEVANCE

Woman Complains Because Her Husband Doesn't Observe Anniversaries

DEAR MISS DIX: I am married and have two children, both very young. My husband is a good provide- but he never remembers me on Mothers' Day or on my birthday. I suppose the only reason I get a Christmas present is because we open our gifts together under the tree and it probably would embarrass him if I had no package to open. I have always remembered him on the various days of the year and I cannot understand how anyone with a nickel in his pocket could pass up Mothers' Day.

I am only 25 years old, am good-looking and intelligent. I devote myself to my children and home. I spend no money foolishly and have not even been to a show in two years. Now how should I handle my situation? Does my husband's ignoring my birthday and Mothers' Day indicate that he has no affection for me and that he thinks that I am a poor mother? It is not the price of the gift that I consider, but his attitude toward it. Should I continue to remember him on Fathers' Day and his birthday, or should I forget them, as he has mine?

The children are entirely too young to understand what Mothers' Day means, but how are they to find out if their father does not buy some little gift for them to give me to show their appreciation of me as a mother? PERPLEXED.

ANSWER: Sometimes I think that it is just as well for a woman to have a genuine, bonafide affliction, such as a drunken husband, or a husband who beats her, or a lazy loafer she has to support, for if she hasn't, she goes out and hunts up an imaginary trouble. She can get just as much misery and shed as many tears over the grievance she has trumped up as she can over the real one. And of all the self-elected martyrs I have ever encountered you, poor lady, are tops.

The gods have been kind to you. They have given you a good, upright, domestic husband who is a fine provider. You have a nice home and comfortable living and two fine children, yet you are spoiling it all by being miserable over your husband's failure to celebrate your birthday and Mothers' Day. You take that omission to mean that he no longer loves you and that he does not think you a good mother.

Her Great Mistake

Can't you see that you are making the mistake of trying to put a woman's mind and a woman's reactions into a man's head and that you are judging him by a woman's standards? That can't be done, though thousands of women like you try it and spoil the whole happiness of their marriages by setting values on small observances that mean everything to them, but never mean anything to their husbands.

I grant you it is flattering to a wife to have her husband remember her birthday and her wedding anniversary and Mothers' Day with some gift that will show his appreciation of her, but because he does not do so is no indication that he is not devoted to her. It simply means that he is busy, or careless, or one of the men to whom dates mean nothing, or, most likely, that he comes from a family that practiced none of the little gallantries of life.

So forget your grievance against your husband and don't worry about the children not observing Mothers' Day. They will be taught to do that in kindergarten, and they will do it because all the other children do. Just remember that if you married a man who isn't a sentimentalist you can't make him one, and that although a sentimentalist is desirable on sentimental occasions, a good provider is somebody to tie to for everyday living.

More Mother-in-Law Trouble

DEAR MISS DIX: Every time my mother-in-law visits us she tries to make over the whole house and all our habits and arrangements. She moves my pictures because she thinks they would look better in another light or a new grouping. She practically does over my kitchen so I can't find a pot or a pan when she is gone. She pulls flowers out of my porch boxes and puts them elsewhere, and so on and so forth.

Now I don't want to have any friction with her, but will you tell me a pleasant and polite way of asking her to attend to her own business and let mine alone?

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

ANSWER: There are questions that not even Solomon could answer, and one of them is how to keep a bossy woman from running everybody else's affairs. The leopard can change its spots easier than such a woman can concede to other people the right to lead their own lives in their own ways, and to furnish their own houses according to their own tastes, and rear their own children by their own formulas.

Such women believe that they have been miraculously endowed by Heaven with infallible wisdom on every subject in the world; that their judgment never falters, their opinions are never wrong, their taste is impeccable, and that they have a sacred mission to correct the mistakes that the balance of humanity makes and set everybody right. This cheerful view of themselves is not affected by the fact that they are dull and stupid and failures in all their undertakings; that they are slouchy-looking and poor housekeepers.

They go their devastating way, riding roughshod over everyone who knows them, and nothing stops them except death, or somebody having the nerve to tell them to keep hands off of their affairs.

Wartime Marriages

DEAR MISS DIX: You advise boys and girls who have no money and no one to help them out in case of trouble not to marry until after the war is over, especially when the boy will have to go overseas. What do you think of the marriage of a couple who are well-off, who are mature, who have been engaged for six months, and when the man will be able to do his service in this country? R. J. M.

ANSWER: Circumstances alter cases, and there is no reason why such a couple should not marry at once instead of waiting until after the war.

My reason for thinking it unwise for young boys and girls to marry on this wave of war hysteria are many. One is that in too many cases the marriages are based on impulse, or drink, instead of real love. Often the youngsters are not really acquainted with each other. Boy meets girl. They have a few drinks and rush off to a magistrate. Or some boy and girl who have been going with each other, but have never thought of being in love, feel sad at parting and decide to marry—she because she is afraid if she doesn't marry now she may be left an old maid; he because he is homesick and wants somebody to belong to him.

Such marriages are bound to end in disaster. Another reason they should not marry when they have no money is that if the young wife has a child she comes as a burden on his family, or her family, who generally can ill-afford to support here. And the main reason is that during war times both the boy and the girl will grow up and change and neither may want the other when the war is over.

TWILIGHT FASHIONS

By ALICE ALDEN

DAYTIME FROCKS that have a look of after-dark formality about them are news that meet with the approval of women everywhere. Here's a beauty of a dress, a real furlough fashion, if ever we saw one. The frock is of pleated black sheer, the street length skirt is pleated and bordered with black lace. Matching black lace is used for the deep V neckline and to edge the brief sleeves. A tiny lace hat is worn with this costume which is an ideal background for jewelry, but just as nice without. Black suede gloves and black suede shoes give emphasis to the accent of formality.

Children's garments require more than ordinary washing

You need Sunlight's "EXTRA-SOAPINESS" to get right at those extra grubby parts

ISN'T it amazing how children get their clothes so dirty? Isn't it surprising, too, how stubbornly the dirt sticks? You know yourself that no ordinary washing is completely effective in cleansing the very dirty parts. Some of the dirt is left behind, and so the clothes won't come really clean.

Whether you use flakes, powder or bar soap you need Sunlight's "extra-soapiness" to remove every speck of dust and grime. The Sunlight method of washing is simply to apply Sunlight right on to the "extra dirty" parts at once.

And you do this lightly—not with hard rubbing—for Sunlight has a wonderful "extra soapiness" which makes it exactly suited for soaping the clothes. The light film of Sunlight left in contact with the dirt is sufficient to loosen the most stubborn grime—quickly—thoroughly—leaving the clothes fresh and spotlessly clean. Use Sunlight Soap for all washing and household cleaning tasks. Its purity gives it tremendous cleansing power and saves you hours of work—it's gentle to your hands, too.

IN MEMORIAM

BATHGATE.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. George Bathgate, who passed away July 2, 1941.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
Her world weary troubles and trials are past.
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore
'Till God called her home to suffer no more.
—Ever remembered by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Bathgate.

HUNT.—In loving memory of my dear wife Margaret (Peggy) Hunt who passed away July 1, 1936.

There's a face that is haunting as ever,
There's a voice that we're longing to hear,
There's a smile we'll remember forever,
Though we try to forget every tear.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance,
There's a memory fond and true,
There's a token of affection, dear,
And heartache still for you.
—Remembered by her Husband, Beverly and Bobby.

Hooks Six Pike 17 Pickerel

CAMPBELLFORD, July 2—(ENS) —Early season returns from fishermen in this district point to a big season for the lovers of rod and reel. A June bug and live minnow have so far been the best lure offered in the opinion of some authorities and this is borne out by the reports of the fortune of a group of local men who were fishing down at Bradley Bay last evening. Charles, Aleric and Harold Cochrane and Mert Ellis hooked six pike and 17 pickerel down at the bay using live minnow and casting from a boat. The pike ranged from 3 to 5 pounds and the pickerel went up to seven.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Taylor brought in the nicest pair of 'lunge we have seen this season. They were working in the water of Crow Bay when they made their catch and the two fish weighed seven and nine pounds.

Develop Talent at Home With Fashion Art Course

Don't 'ry to Copy—Use Charts

Discouraged so soon! Yet this would-be fashion artist has a real talent to develop.

Like so many girls who long for a well-paying career in art, she must do her studying at home. But she doesn't quite know how to go about it.

This is where charts and diagrams, professional instruction can help you. With their aid you soon learn to draw really graceful, well-proportioned faces and figures.

For the glamourous, Garboesque face of fashion ads, draw an oval and divide it in half, horizontally. This is the eye line. Now divide the lower half into five equal parts and place the nose line two fifths down from the eye line, the mouth three fifths down.

Once you have these main proportions, the finishing touches come easier—shaping the eye and mouth, drawing the soft contours of the hair.

And the figure? You follow the same principle of dividing up, as our 24-page fashion art course shows you. Teaches you perspective, how to "block in" pose and dress figures, work in line and wash, and draw fabric textures such as velvet, jersey, net, chiffon, also furs.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of "Fashion Drawing Made Easy." Be sure to write plainly your name, address and name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DISTRIBUTION DECIDES

WHEN YOU have a hand of about average high card strength—the equivalent of one ace, one king, one queen, one jack—the question of whether that is a good hand or a bad hand can be decided by your distribution. If you have three suits of three cards each and only one four-carder, it is a bad hand. If they are distributed in any other way, it begins to be a good hand. And, the farther away it gets from that even pattern, the better it becomes, so long as there is any kind of fitting suit between your holding and your partner's.

Just value East's high cards. He has one of everything from the ace to the seven-spot, inclusive. That hand is as close to an exact average as you expect to see, being above it only to the extent that it contains two sixes. It hasn't five cents worth of distribution value, in suit lengths and suit shortages. In brief, those high cards must be rated at their very lowest.

As the hand stands, it is worth about one bid, to see if West wants to force on the next round. East made the best bid when he indicated his club protection with a bid of that suit. But he should not have spoken again, barring a force, unless West showed a different declaration from his first one, hearts, to make a preference obligatory.

After the deal, East explained that his partner's heart rebid showed the suit long enough to require only three-card support, which he possessed. He therefore felt a raise by him was in order. It was not, however, for the simple reason that his hand, taken as a whole, was not good enough. Take two of those diamonds out, and add two cards of any other suit, or one each of two suits, and a raise would be in order. As it is, the side got set one trick, whereas 2-Hearts would have been made—a partial score which would have won the rubber when the next deal produced 2-Spades bid and made.

What simple rule should guide East in his defense against North's 6-Diamonds, after 5-Diamonds had been bid originally, West had doubled, East had bid 5 Hearts, and North then had bid 6-Diamonds, doubled by East?

GUNNERS SWIM FOR IT

LONDON—(CP).—Coastal command airmen report a new trick of German U-Boat commanders when spotted from the air. They crash-dive so fast the submarine's gunners are left on deck and have to swim or sink.

Church Observes 106th Anniversary

CAMBPELLFORD, July 2. — (ENS). — The 106th anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held on Sunday. Both the morning and evening services were conducted by their recently inducted pastor, Rev. J. O. Ralston, and in addition to his own congregation he addressed many visitors from St. John's United Church, Campbellford, and from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Warkworth at the evening service, for both of these churches cancelled their regular services.

The special music by the choir under the direction of the organist and choirmaster Albert Hazell, was augmented by the presence of George Coleman, bass soloist from St. Paul's Church, Peterborough. During the morning Mr. Coleman offered two selections, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say" and "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings" while in the evening he gave "The Lords Prayer" and "Stranger of Galilee." As their contribution the choir offered the anthem "Lord of the Nations" for their first number in the morning and "O Give Thanks" with Miss Dorothy Reynolds as soloist, for the second number. In the evening Miss Hazel Atkinson took the solo part in the anthem "I Will Pray the Father." At both morning and evening services Rev. Mr. Ralston emphasized that the founders of the church had left a heritage which it was the duty of the present day generation to maintain.

On Monday evening the congregation held its annual anniversary supper which was largely attended by people from the entire district.

Four Holsteins Bring $19,000

HUDSON HEIGHTS, Que., July 2—(CP). — Four head of Holstein-Frisien cattle, classed as "all-American get of sire for 1941,' sold for $19,000 Monday at the dispersal sale at the Mount Victoria Farm of the late T. B. Macauley, Montreal. The Macauley herd of 70 head of Holstein cattle is being sold on auction

Top price of the four first sales was $6,500 paid by Martin Buth of Comstock Park, Mich., for 'Mont Victoria Bonheur Pietje, all-American four year old last year. Runner-up for the animal was R. A McLaughlin of Oshawa, Ont.

Mr. McLaughlin purchased 'Mont Victoria Empress Abberkerk,' year-old female, for $4,500 and 'Mont Victoria Bonheur Emile.' four-year-old. for $4,300. The five-year-old 'Mont Victoria Bonheur Dale' went to Senator Raymond of Vaudreuil, Que., for $3,700.

Axis Making Desperate Effort To Reach Suez

Here is a map showing the four routes necessary to the armies of Adolf Hitler to get the oil they need to carry on the war against the United Nations. The chief hope of the Nazis is in the forces of Gen. Erwin Rommel who is over the Egyptian frontier in a race for Suez and the oil of Iran over the course indicated by arrow No. 1. Should this smash fail, the Nazis may try an air-borne invasion of Syria as shown by arrow No. 2. This route may be chosen in preference to route No. 3 which would call for invasion of Turkey, who is strengthening her defences as a result of equipment sent her by the U.S. The last hope of Hitler is to smash through the Caucasus which would bring the oil of Iran as shown by arrow No. 4. Some slight progress was made when the Reds on Kharkov front withdrew across the Oskol River.

School Section No. 1 Of Smith Honors Teacher

The pupils and school section of S.S. No. 1 Smith held their annual picnic at the school Friday afternoon. There was a splendid attendance and everyone enjoyed a pleasant time.

A number of games and stunts were run off under the capable direction of the teacher, Miss Gala Rogers. Prizes were awarded to the lucky winners.

As Miss Rogers is leaving to take up duties at another school near Bobcaygeon, the afternoon's program took on a farewell aspect. The pupils of the school presented her with an ivory alarm clock, a very fitting address was read by Audrey Hatherley, a ninth-grade pupil. Miss Rogers, taken very much by surprise, gave a warm "thank you," and expressed her regrets at leaving those whom she had learned to admire and love.

The Christian Endeavor Society also bade au revoir to Miss Rogers by presenting her with a compact as a token of her service and the goodwill of its members. Miss Jean Hancock, the president, addressed the gathering, giving the teacher wonderful praise for her willingness to help at all times, and lovely personality

Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss read an address on behalf of the school section. In it she said, "The whole locality had been helpfully influenced by the beautiful character and the very fine work which Miss Rogers had shown during her two years in the community, and that she had set a high standard for another teacher to reach. After Miss Rogers gave her reply, a social time was spent. A bountiful and delicious lunch was served by the ladies.

Just at the lunch hour little Beverley Tully, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Tully, met with an accident when she was hit on the face with a swing and badly cut on the nose. She had to be rushed to the doctor for medical treatment. The prizes for the best plot in the school garden, judged by Mrs. C. Ferguson and Mrs. C. Chapman went to Harold Turcotte and Audrey Hatherley.

The children had made a quilt: V-for-Victory in red, white and blue." Tickets for the War Victims' Fund were sold and a sum of over $25 was made from the sale. The lucky ticket was drawn for by little Dianne Rowland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferd. Rowland, which gave the quilt to Barbara Ferguson, a pupil of last year. The cushion to match was drawn for, only the names of those pupils who had sold tickets were in this box, and Ruth Steinkrauss won the gift.

The pupils and teacher extend their thanks to all those who bought tickets to help this worthy cause along.

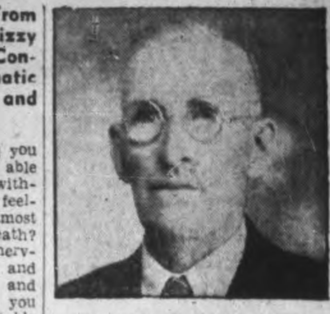
Stomach And Kidney Troubles Gone; Praises Syntona Tonic

Tells of Grand Relief From Gastritis, Cramps, Dizzy Spells, Headaches and Constipation. Had Rheumatic Pains in Shoulders and Joints.



MR. ROBERT THOMBLISON

How many times have you said you would give ANYTHING to be able to eat three good meals a day without getting that heavy, bloated feeling in your stomach that almost makes you gasp for your breath? Those cramps, dizzy spells or nervous headache; pains in back and limbs caused by excess acids and impurities in the system. Do you know that EVERY DAY reputable men and women who have suffered with one or more of these distressing ailments tell how Syntona has relieved them after everything else they tried had failed. Here, for example is the experience of Mr. Robert Thomblison well-known Burlington man, residing at 5 Caroline Street West, Sarnia, as reported only recently.

"I suffered with a gassy, upset stomach and cramps after every meal and I had to stake strong laxatives for constipation. When I would stoop over or get up quickly I would get dizzy spells and I was subject to frequent severe headaches At night I had to get up at all hours to relieve my kidneys so I felt tired out and weakened right from the beginning of each day. Then rheumatic pains set into my shoulders and joints.

"I had tried every treatment I ever heard of, but I couldn't get any satisfactory results, and I often wondered if I would ever feel any better. It was my son who first got me started taking Syntona. He brought some home one day and suggested I try it. Well, I could tell it was helping me right from the first bottle. I liked the way it acted on my stomach and bowels, so I took a full treatment and it fixed me up fine. I soon got so food digested well. Then the kidney trouble and pains left me. It surely was a great relief and I would take Syntona any time if my system gets upset again."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Get yourself a treatment today. You, too, may say it is the best medicine you ever had the good fortune to use.—(Advt.)

Rowe Fears Ban On Criticism May Hit Press

OTTAWA, July 2. — (CP). — W. Earl Rowe, Conservative-Dufferin-Simcoe, in the House of Commons Monday warned that the government was exhibiting a "tendency" in respect to those criticizing it that might extend from individuals to the press.

The warning came soon after an attempt by Dr. H. A. Bruce (Con. Toronto-Parkdale) to get information from the government regarding the cases against Lt.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, and Rene Chaloult, member of the Quebec Legislature for Lotbiniere.

Dr. Bruce was stopped by rules of the House preventing reference to matters pending in the courts, after a brief discussion.

In his speech in the conscription debate Mr. Rowe said:

"We have reached a rather critical point in this country and I should like to warn the government of the day of the difference between rigid control of those who hinder the war effort and the persecution by a Gestapo of those who criticize the government for its lack of war effort—and I claim there is a difference.

"I am not mentioning any names. When I see my deskmate hit over the head and knocked down, and another honorable member liable to the same treatment if he is not careful, I wonder how long this situation is going to continue.

"I do not know much about the law as the Minister of Justice but I am wondering how much I could say before he would intern me.

"I do not suggest that there is a tendency in this country that might well be feared by more than the individual because history has told us, in shocking stories of the past, that when the fights of the individual have been gestpo-ed the freedom of the press is restricted very shortly thereafter.

"I warn my friends in the press gallery to watch their fast pens these days because there are several newspapers that are vigorously condemning this government because of its war effort or lack of it."

Dropping The Charges?

Dr. Bruce at question time referred to an editorial in last Friday's Toronto Star under the heading "Public men brought into court" and asked if it was the intention of the government to withdraw the charges against Col. Drew and Mr. Chaloult.

The Pensions Minister, Hon. Ian Mackenzie at once raised the ruling against referring to a matter in which a judicial decision was pending.

The Conservative House Leader, Hon. R. B. Hanson: "That rule does not apply here at all."

Mr. Mackenzie: "Who says so?"

"I say so," retorted Mr. Hanson. "We are not expressing an opinion of any decision but merely referring to the propriety of the government or of the minister in laying a charge that is open to criticism. I hope the time will never come when we cannot do that."

Mr. Mackenzie: "If my honorable friend knew the rules better he would not make such an exhibition of himself."

Speaker Glen ruled that the question came under the ban in the ruling quoted by Mr. Mackenzie and it would be impossible to answer it without the minister giving an expression of opinion.

BRITISH PRESS ROMMEL PUSHED BACK FOUR MILES

CAIRO, July 3 (AP)—The battle of Egypt was rejoined with unrelenting fury today west of El Alamein in the bottleneck of the coastal approach to the Nile Valley, with the resurgent British 8th Army striving to exploit its first successful counter-stroke since the Axis invasion of Egypt started.

Following their repulse in the El Alamein area yesterday the Axis forces fell back to positions some three or four miles to the west to regroup.

The German and Italian forces under Rommel were forced to retreat last evening after a general assault on El Alamein, less than 70 miles short of the main goal, Alexandria, was crushed, with the Germans suffering heavy losses.

The battle seemed to have been constricted to the northern sector, in the immediate vicinity of El Alamein, and there were no indications of enemy movements on the edge of the Quattara depression.

Qattara, with its supposedly impassable terrain, lies some 30 miles inland. It and the Mediterranean shore form the sides of the bottleneck through which any eastward invasion of the rich Nile Valley must pass.

Flank Attack Hurts

Yesterday the British forces, now being considerably reinforced, struck at the flanks of the Axis drive on El Alamein, and with nightfall the R.A.F., buttressed by the South African Air Force and the United States Army Air Force, struck out anew at the enemy's immediate rear as well as vital ports for supplies and reinforcements.

The R.A.F. and United States Air Forces made one of the heaviest bombardments of Tobruk, Libyan port.

Throughout yesterday's battle fighting planes and dive bombers shuttled over the land forces, providing invaluable backing for the defenders and attacking Rommel's concentrations. It could be assumed that this offensive continued today.

Informed quarters said the new Italian Littorio mechanized division had gone into action in the desert for the first time, increasing Rommel's strength to four divisions — two German and two Italian.

Numerous dogfights developed over the lines, during which British fighters were credited officially with shooting down eig t Axis planes against loss of seven planes in bomber and fighter operations.

Both Sides All Out.

Both sides are throwing everything they have into tre struggle, climax of a 350-mile Axis drive, and advices from the front indicate that rewly-arrived British reinforcements are beginning to make their weight felt.

In an attempt to counter Field Marshal Erwin Rommels armored assaults, British forces struck at the Axis rear late yesterday afternoon by a carefully-planned manoeuvre in which a flying column of tanks and mobile artillery circled the enemy's right flank.

The thrust apparently relieved pressure on positions at El Alamein, some 65 miles west of Alexandria, which was reported to have beaten off a new Axis assault.

So heavily engaged are the main bodies of the two opposing armies that there is no question of turning back or breaking off the battle to re-organize battered units.

For Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, commander in chief, the issue is clear cut—he must destroy the enemy completely or be destroyed himself and lose Egypt.

Gen. Auchinleck's chances of victory appear to ringle mainly on his ability to deliver a smashing blow at Rommel's armored strength with his artillery and at the same time cripple his extended lines of communication by concentrated air attacks.

Reports from the front said the new six-pound anti-tank guns with which the British positions have

Turks Order Ships Out Of Black Sea

Uneasy on Situation At Sevastopol And Middle East

LONDON, July 3 —(CP)—Reuters News Agency heard the German-controlled Paris radio say today that Turkish ships in the Black Sea had been ordered to put into Istanbul in view of the Middle East and Sevastopol "situations."

In a German broadcast the Nazi Transocean News Agency asserted today the German and Italian government had published "a solemn declaration stating that they will respect and ensure the independence and sovereignty of Egypt."

(This is a standard device in Axis propaganda, seeking to incite opposition behind United Nations' lines and put a good face on its own aggressions.)

Two bicyclists shot and seriously wounded the woman manager of a Paris apartment house in an attack which police termed in reprisal for informing German authorities on subversive activities of a tenant, reports reaching London today from Vichy said.

It was the first recorded shooting of a woman in the long series of assaults against pro-Nazi collaborationists.

Sees Gunpower The Tide-Turner

MELBOURNE, July 3—(AP)—The Melbourne Herald said in an editorial today that the major cause of the Libyan reverse was the mistaken calculation that the greater number of men and tanks could make up for the greater weight of gunpower possessed by the enemy.

"While the story of the two great military debacles—the loss of 230 tanks in one day's unsuccessful [illegible]ing and the sudden collapse of the defences of the heavily-manned fortress of Tobruk—has still to be told," the paper said, "Prime Minister Churchill's review leaves little doubt that the major cause of the Libyan disaster was the miscalculation that a greater number of men and tanks would make up for the greater weight of gunpower in the enemy's weapons."

After The U-Boats

London, July 3 (CP)

THE British director of anti-submarine warfare—not otherwise identified — made a recent trip to the United States to advise the U.S. Navy on means of combatting the U-boat menace, it was disclosed today.

Since the United States entered the war some of the best British advisers have been in New York and Washington conferring on convoy and anti-submarine techniques.

New Defeat No Cause For Too Easy Criticism They Carried Us 2 Years, Reminds NY Times

NEW YORK, July 3.—(CP).—The New York Times today took to task those in the United States who as a result of the defeats in Libya and Egypt are critical of Great Britain and her leaders.

"Another reverse which could have been avoided has overtaken a British army," the Times said in a lengthy editorial captioned "Faith in Britain." "But let us not make this the occasion for a field day of too easy criticism. Let us, instead, salute a brave people who for more than two years held the fort for us—a brave people who still have endurance, faith and tremendous reserves of unused power. To the end of the road we shall go together, staunch allies in a winning cause."

Trade Chief's Back, Just A Bit Late But—Singapore, Java You Know

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 3.—(CP).—Canada's trade commissioner to Singapore, J. L. Mutter, walked into the Trade and Commerce Department today and expressed his apologies for not showing up sooner.

With Mrs. Mutter he had just ended a 10,000-mile trip by cattle boat, river craft and army transport—much of it just a hop, skip and jump ahead of the Japanese.

Mr. and Mrs. Mutter left Singapore Feb. 1, two weeks before the city fell to the Japanese on Feb. 15.

When Japanese planes first attacked Singapore Mr. and Mrs. Mutter were spending a few days on local leave in the hills, 400 miles from the city. They hastened back and for the next few weeks Canada's trade commissioner was mainly engaged as an air raid warden and Mrs. Mutter as a member of a voluntary aid detachment unit.

Mrs. Mutter served in a hospital where some of the most serious A tic casualties were treated.

Gradually conditions became worse and casualties increased.

Rather Close Behind

"It sounds imposible," Mr. Mutter recalled, "but one of our air raid wardens came into the city and reported for duty one day, and when he tried to go home he found his house was behind the Japanese lines."

Australian Air Force squadrons put up a brave but hopeless fight.

"The coolies that maintained the airdromes deserted them and before the men could take off they would have to fill bomb holes in the field," Mrs Mutter said. "When they came back they sometimes found new holes. Finally the fields were so chewed up they had to move to new bases."

The Mutters' departure was even more nerve-wracking than their war experience in Singapore. The night before they left they heard from their home an almost constant series of explosions as the causeway, 12 miles distant, was destroyed.

Their ship was to sail at 9 a.m.,

Get Those Flaws Press Growls At Mr. Churchill

LONDON, July 3—(CP).— Now that Prime Minister Churchill has the House of Commons' new pledge of faith in his war leadership, the press asked today for an end of recrimination and attention to the job of correcting the faults which caused Britain's setbacks in North Africa.

Most editorials expressed gratification over yesterday's 475 to 25 vote of confidence in Mr. Churchill but called the debate ill-timed and unsatifactory.

Still unanswered, several argued, are the reasons for the sudden reversal of Britain's bright prospects and, specifically, for the defeat in Libya.

The News-Chronicle called for "the most ruthless re-examination" of present and planned armaments with emphasis on more imagination and foresight.

"The debate on the central direction of the war came to its right and inevitable end in Commons with the defeat of the no confidence motion," said The Times.

"The week's debate cannot win or lose the battle already in progress but it can....communicate a new sense of urgency not only to the Government but to the administration and factories and bring nearer the day when a complaint will come from the German said that their armament is insufficient and their mechanical design outclassed."

What Went Wrong?

The Daily Mail: "What the public want to know is the real reason for the reversal of the fair prospects which were officially held out a few weeks ago and on this vital point Mr. Churchill was not illuminating."

The Daily Herald: "It (the debate) has produced no constructive proposals to remedy our system of production and strategic direction to remedy the series of military misfortunes....We still do not

600 Strikers Tie Up Quebec Plant

Illegal Says Ottawa As Frantic Firm Sees 3-Week Layoff

BEAUHARNOIS Que., July 3 — (CP). — A strike of the 600 employees of Alloys and Metals Limited was announced to-day by a company official who said that production would be halted for two to three weeks should the plant's metal pots "freeze" within thet next 24 hours due to lack of operation.

"The situation is serious," said Robert Turnbull, company vice-president, as he announced that the 600 men went on strike last night without, he said, advising company officials.

"Our plant will be shut down for two to three weeks if the pots 'freeze'—and they will 'freeze' within 24 hours if not attended to. It will take a couple of weeks to clean them out."

Turnbull said that the company had advised the Dominion Department of Labor of the strike, and added that the men had gone on strike without any preliminary negotiation with the company.

"So far as we could find out—just a few minutes ago—they are apparently out for higher wages," he continued. "Right now they are picketing the plant and won't let anyone enter."

Turnbull said that in striking the men had violated a wage agreement which expires next year, but he did not give details of the scale of wages paid by the company. He added that they had "gone over the heads of their union" in walking out.

No statement was available immediately from spokesmen for the strikers.

Illegal Rules Ottawa.

OTTAWA, July 3 — (CP). — A Labor Department spokesman today termed "illegal" the strike of 600 employees of Alloys and Metals Ltd. at Beauharnois, Que., which was announced to-day by an official of the company.

A Labor Department investigator has gone to the strike scene this morning, this official said.

Details of the stroke were not known at Labor Minister Mitchell's office.

A Departmental spokesman said that neither the men's leaders nor the company officials had been notified in advance of the men's intention to quit their jobs.

He said the men had a working agreement with the company and that the strike was contrary to the terms of this agreement.

Greatest Tank Battle Of Year Now On, Reds Yielding Little

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 3 — (AP).—The greatest tank battle of the current German offensive, with hundreds of machines engaged on both sides, is in progress east of Kursk, while 75 and 100 miles to the south Nazi shock troops are attempting to outflank and separate the Russian central and southern armies, Soviet military dispatches reported today.

The battle on the Kursk front began Wednesday morning with an attack by about 200 German tanks, the dispatches said.

These were hurled back, and then the real mass engagement began at noon that day.

Red Star described the Kursk battle as centring along an important stream. For three days, it said, the Germans were hurled back in efforts to push tanks across the river.

Finally, on the fourth day, they used such masses of tanks and a reserve of planes, believed to have been brought from Crete, that they were able to cross at a few points.

The means of crossing was not disclosed, but Red Star said the Germans had been unable to enlarge their bridgehead and those on the Soviet side of the stream were in a difficult position.

Reds Bolster Lines

The Germans have suffered tremendous losses, and in the thick of battle the Red Army has managed to increase the fortifications of its already-strong positions, said Red Star, the army newspaper.

Few details were given, but the Russians were said to have recaptured several villages.

Kursk, a key front in the present conflict, is about 280 miles south of Moscow and 125 miles north of Kharkov.

To the south, the new German thrusts were in the Belgorod and Volchansk sectors, 50 and 35 miles north and northeast of Kharkov.

In other areas of the Kursk front, several villages have been taken and retaken as many as five times.

The German method is to throw masses of tanks against Soviet infantry, but to veer away when Russian tanks come up, the paper said, leaving motorcycle with anti-tank rifles to combat the Soviet machines.

The Russians are meeting these tactics by leaving some light tanks in ambush to knock out the cyclists, Red Star reported.

No Real Gains.

At these points, roughly midway in the battlelise from Kursk to Kupyansk, the Germans were admitted to hold numerical superiority. Before Volchansk the Germans were acknowledged to have broken through temporarily at some points with small groups of tanks.

7 Axis Ships Sunk In June Toll

Big Munition Carrier Libya-Bound Among Main Prizes

LONDON, July 3—(CP)—Seven Axis vessels, including an Italian destroyer and a large ammunition-laden supply ship en route to Libya, were sunk during June, in addition to many vessels damaged by British and United States air and naval patrols, it was shown in a view issued today. Among those damaged were several Italian warships.

Listed as sunk were:

An Italian destroyer of the 1,628-ton Navigatori class, three medium-sized supply ships and a small merchant ship by the submarine Turbulent, in the Mediterranean.

A large supply ship carrying ammunition and a medium supply ship in the Mediterranean, also by submarine action.

Other actions reported for the month included:

June 7—One of two German torpedo boats encountered off the Belgian coast hit amidships by a torpedo and almost certainly sunk.

June 14—Italian naval force of two battleships and four destroyers attacked by torpedo planes. Number of hits scored and fires caused. Second naval force of cruisers and destroyers attacked. One cruiser set on fire, one destroyer probably hit.

June 19—Large supply ship hit by torpedo as German convoy is raided, several E-boats damaged by gunfire.

June 20—150-ton patrol vessel left burning, several E-boats probably hit as light coastal patrols fight in the English channel.

June 21—Six E-boats scattered, some damaged by gunfire as light coastal craft attack.

June 23—Two merchant ships hit off Cape Spartivente. One settles at stern. Destroyer also hit, causing an explosion. Large enemy ship carrying supplies in Mediterranean damaged by torpedo.

EXTRA!

BERNE—(AP).—Dispatches from Berlin claimed late today that German and Italian troops were within 15 or 20 miles of Alexandria and that the Battle of El Alamein was already regarded as won, Rome and Berlin dispatches said British 9th and 10th Army reinforcements were arriving in Egypt from Palestine and Syria.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica.—A submarine attacked Puerto Limon tonight (presumably with its deck gun), sinking a vessel, the San Pablo, which was at dock discharging its cargo.

LONDON.— (CP Cable).— Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Free French, told his countrymen in France tonight that the final battle of the war, "which decides everything," would be fought there and urged them to prepare for it.

Reported Missing

Norman Hull, son of Fred Hull, proprietor of a summer resort at the mouth of Jack's Creek, Stoney Lake, is officially reported missing and believed killed on active service. Norman, who was 23 years old, was a member of the Royal Canadian Navy, and the message telling the sad news was received by his father from the Navy Minister. No particulars have been received as to when or where the action in which he is believed to have been killed took place.

Hermoine Victim Of Costly Dash To Malta

LONDON, July 3. — (CP). — The British light cruiser Hermione, four British destroyers and one Polish destroyer were lost in the recent effort to reinforce Malta and British forces in Libya before they were pushed back into Egypt, the Admiralty announced to-day.

(Australian Navy Minister N. J. O. Makin announced last Monday the loss of the Australian destroyer Nestor, presumably in this same action. The 1,605-ton craft was one of a flotilla of destroyers turned over by Britain to the Commonwealth and manned by Australian crews).

The loss of the ships was announced in Commons June 23 by Dominions Secretary Clement R. Attlee, but he did not then identify them.

Besides the 5,450-ton Hermione, the destroyers were the British Bedouins, Hasty, Grove Airedale and the Polish Kujawiak.

All were comparatively new and several were completed since the war began.

The Hermione, completed in 1939, was one of nine cruisers of the Dido class and carried ten 5.25-inch guns.

The destroyer Hasty, 1,340 tons, was finished in 1939 and the Grove and Airedale, tonnage undisclosed, were completed in 1940.

(Jane's fighting ships does not list the Bedouin, which presumably was recently completed, and gives no details of the Polish destroyer Kuajwiak.)

Auchinleck Matches Rommel in Strategy

Scot Hits German Hard At His First Slip In Desert Scrap

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

With exceeding caution one observes that latest reports from Cairo indicate easement of the Allied position in the bloody battle for Egypt as the result of a sudden seizing of the initiative by the British 8th Army in a fierce counter-attack against the Axis flanks.

This action is said to have thrown back Field-Marshal Rommel's main assault against the British position at El Alamein with severe losses, and to have forced him to fall back to the west.

This is encouraging in that it shows Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck has acquired the reinforcements necessary for a counter stroke. However, we must remember that the battle isn't yet finished, that Rommel is one of the most resourceful leaders of our time, and that the danger is still grave.

This counter-attack, which developed as the conflict was swirling through the burning desert sands, was a brilliant tactical move by the canny Scotsman in whose hands the fate of Egypt rests. It was one of those fast-thinking actions for which Rommel himself has become famous.

[illegible] happened apparently was this, to judge from incomplete accounts thus far received: The battle front lay roughly north and south, between El Alamein on the coast and the Qattara depression some 35 miles down in the desert. The British line was anchored at El-Alamein.

Rommel decided to make his main attack on the British concentration in the neighborhoo of El Alamein, with the idea of crushing the defenders in a swift frontal thrust and opening a direct route to the naval base of Alexandria some 65 miles further east. The German commander launched his assault, flinging into it all available forces.

As a result the British forces suddenly found the pressure eased on their left flank near the Qattara depression. Gen. Auchinleck, on the lookout for just such a chance, flung a counter-attack against this enemy flank and started to roll the Axis forces back. At the same time he made another counter-stroke against Rommel's northern wing, and this too met success. With both his flanks rolling back there was nothing for Rommel to do but pull his army out of the trap which was developing.

Obviously this is only a phase of the conflict, and the battle may have been resumed in full force again even as this is being written. One thing is made clear in despatches from the front—it is a fight to a finish between Rommel the Nazi and Auchinleck the Scotsman. There will be no half-way business. Either the Allies or the Axis will take a murderous beating.

U.S. Deferment List, July 15

Plans Rosters of Essential Civilian Activities

WASHINGTON, July 3 —(AP)—War manpower sources said today that rosters of essential civilian activities and "critical war occupations" will be published about July 15 to establish a definite guide for military deferment.

By direction of manpower chairman Paul V. McNutt, copies of the lists will be sent to all local draft boards, and "to the extent required for the maintenace of essential activities, individuals who are engaged in essential occupations in essential activities" will be deferred from military service.

This does not mean, however, that every man of draft age working in one of the occupations listed will be automatically deferred, since the selective service act prohibits "group" deferments.

Each man in such essential classifications, or his employer, must establish to the local board that his skill or service is necessary to the war effort according to the definitions of the manpower commission.

6-Cent Subsidy On Butterfat

Ottawa Starts Drive to Eliminate All Waste

OTTAWA, July 3 — (CP). — To combat an anticipated shortage of butter during the winter months the Government has authorized a six-cent-a-pound subsidy on butterfat, launched Federal campaigns to increase butter production and urged the Canadian consumer to eliminate all waste of the important commodity "in every kitchen and dining-room in the country."

The subsidy, announced last night by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, will be payable to creameries, and through them to the producers, on butterfat used in manufacture of creamery butter. It is effective as from July 6.

The new program has been drafted, the Board said, as a "combined attack" on the twin evils of dwindling production and soaring domestic disappearance, but it will not mean an increase in consumer price, now under a 35-cent-apound ceiling.

The Board statement said the new subsidy was equivalent to five cents a pound on dairy butter.

HUGE FEDERAL BUDGET APPROVED BY COMMONS VOTE OF 129 TO 8

Heavy Ilsley Budget Is Approved

Eight Are Opposed Mainly Quebec Liberals

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 3—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley's $3,900,000,000 budget was approved in its broad principles last night when the House of Commons adopted the minister's motion to go into committee on the budget resolutions by a vote of 129 to eight.

Details of the various resolutions will be discussed in committee.

The vote, concluding a three-day debate, came more than half-an-hour after the usual adjournment time of 11 p.m.

Conservative, C.C.F. and New Democracy members supported the government. Voting against the measure were Quebec Liberal and Independent members who have opposed the government's bill to permit conscription for overseas by order-in-council.

The eight opposing the budget resolution were: J. S. Roy (Ind. Gaspe), Liguori Lacombe (Can. Laval-Two Mountains), Maxime Raymond (Lib. Beauharnois-Laprairie), Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata), Wilfred Lacroix (Lib. Quebec Montmorency), Edouard Lacroix (Lib. Beauce), Dr. Pierre Gauthier (Lib. Portneuf), and Emmanuel d'Anjou (Lib. Rimouski).

The budget resolutions provide for sharply increased income taxes and other levies to raise revenues to meet mounting war costs.

Debate Denied

In the debate John Diefenbaker (Con. Lake Centre) said the government was continuing in increasing measure to govern the dominion by order-in-council, with the result that parliament was denied the opportunity of debate on matters affecting the welfare of the people.

He was one of 12 members speaking yesterday. Others were G. K. Fraser (Con. Peterborough West), Angus MacInnis (C.C.F. Vancouver East), G. A. McLean (Lib. Simcoe East) Hon. W. Earl Rowe (Con. Dufferin-Simcoe), Mr. Roy, Mr. Raymond, G. K. Isnor (Lib. Halifax), Anthony Hlynka (N. D. Vegreville), Mr. Lacombe, T. V. Grant (Lib. King's) and Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata).

Today the House will devote to private bills and if these are disposed of, it will deal with a war risk insurance bill and several other measures. Debate on the conscription-enabling measure is expected to resume next week.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, July 4

HIGH LEVELS of public festivity and celebration, probably fanfare enthusiasm and patriotism, are likely to make this national holiday one of unprecedented and unforgettable importance. There is likely to be lavish expenditures, excesses and self-indulgence in an abandoned spirit of gayety. It would be well to be on guard against intrigue trickery and duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year in which public affairs seem to overshadow all other interests. Under an expansive and induiging mood there may be affiliations with groups, communities and political or fraternal bodies which may bring prominence and public acclaim. But in intimate contacts there is need for precaution against fraud, deception illicit or undercover agreements or understanding. There may be surprising turns to events and in anxious spots elders may assist by wise counsel or aid.

A child born on this day should have much ingenuity, skill, enterprise and spirit of adventure, supported by sound technics and persistent efforts toward a useful and happy life.

Fire Destroys Two Automobiles

Within the past couple of days, two different automobiles that plunged off district highways into the ditch turned over, caught fire and were completely destroyed.

Iobert Weller, Keswick, Ont lumber buyer was driving between Buckhorn and Bobcaygeon when his steering gear locked, he told police, and his 1938 Cadillac shot off the highway, plunged down an embankment, rolled over and almost instantly burst into flames

Weller came out of the wreck with his clothing on fire and he sustained first and second degree burns which were treated by Dr Boyd of Bobcaygeon His automobile was destroyed.

Eight miles east of Peterborough on Highway 7 a similar accident happened to William Crossen, Grand Hotel, Campbellford. Blinded by the lights of an approaching vehicle he lost control of his machine which went into the ditch and turned over. Crossen was not hurt, but his car caught fire and was ruined.

Port Hope Cadets Attend Ottawa Camp

PORT HOPE, July 3—(ENS). — In a report from the Port Hope High School Cadet Corps, which is now in Ottawa with 1,100 cadets from all over the province, comes the news of a win of 16 to 6 in a baseball game with Picton Cadets. In this game Dave Fulford hit a three-bagger. At the game to cheer for Port Hope were Cpl. Hodgson and Cpl. Duke from the C.W.A.C. of Kingston and formerly of Port Hope High School.

Cadet Captain Keith Staples, in charge, feels very proud of the fine showing of discipline and punctuality which the Port Hope High School cadets are showing, and the boys are hoping to make some good points on field day.

Cycle Holiday Solves Problem

Mr. and Mrs. W. Dodge, a young Westmount, Que. couple, who are spending a day or two here, guests at the Kaledan have solved the problem of how to have a good holiday and see a lot of the country without wasting a lot of gasoline.

Wanting a trip through Ontario and only having two weeks available for vacation, Mr. and Mrs. Dodge took the train to North Bay, taking with them two bicycles. After visiting the Quints, the Westmount couple, travelling by easy stages, wheeled through the lake district and down to Toronto. Then they shipped their bicycles down to Peterborough and came down here by train. Today they took in the boat trip on the steamer Islinda around Stoney Lake and tomorrow they will cycle out of Peterborough on their journey back to Westmount.

They will make the return trip leisurely and if time presses they will finish the journey to their homes by train.

time for one of the Japanese raids which came over with clock-like precision. The dock, which they finally reached with a commandeered truck and a few pieces of hand luggage, was piled high with oil, explosives and war equipment. Alongside the boat they were to sail on was a submarine.

"An ideal target," was the way Mr. Mutter described it.

The raid came and for half an hour Mr. and Mrs. Mutter lay face down on the pavement of a street that was "rather the worse for the suspension of street cleaning operations."

Ship Still There

The raid ended and the ship was still afloat. She sailed at 4.30 that afternoon with the fuselage of a bomber on deck in clear view of attacking planes. A few hours out she passed a vessel that had left a few hours before, only her top spars showing above water.

It took nine days for the cattle boat to reach Java—normally a 36-hour trip—and meantime Mr. and Mrs. Mutter with the other passengers slept on hatch covers and ate spinach and mashed potatoes.

Java seemed like a haven of safety but day by day the Japanese smashed nearer. Finally evacuations of all sailable craft was ordered.

They found place on a little river boat which they subsequently knew had long been declared unseaworthy. With six times her normal passenger limit and only emergency Royal Air Force rations for food for this little craft with a six-foot draft set sail for Australia.

"For 11 days we lived on bully beef and hardtack with a whiskey bottle full of water for drinking and washing every day," Mrs. Mutter said.

Three days off Australia they ran into one of the worst storms ever experienced in that area, and later the captain expressed even greater astonishment than the passengers that thy weathered it.

Red Star said they had made no real gains, however, being exterminated or driven back to their previous positions.

At Belgorod the Germans were reported thrown back to their original starting place by the fierce resistance of Soviet artillery and infantry supported by tanks and planes.

German losses in both areas were described as "extremely heavy."

A Russian communique at noon declared that the Crimean city of Sevastopol, which the Germans claim to have taken after a bitter siege and assault, "fighting continued in the streets."

Other Russian dispatches from undisclosed places, said the Germans rushed the city after concentrating several divisions of infantry and many tanks and planes in a single narrow sector.

The exhausted retreating defenders were declared to be offering stubborn resistance to the advancing foe.

The Soviet information bureau said the German attacks in the Belgorod and Volchansk sectors began yesterday, and "stubborn battle commenced."

HOLLYWOOD, July 3 —(AP)— Comedian George Jessel and his young showgirl wife, Lois Andrews, who has just signed a movie contract, have parted, temporarily, at least. Jessel said last night he has lots of writing to do, and both believed "it's better this way." Jessel, now 44, married Miss Andrews in 1940 when she was 16.

Torpedo Blaze Kills 33 Of 47

A U.S. GULF COAST PORT, July 3—(AP)—Most of the British seamen aboard a medium sized British cargo ship were burned to death in their bunks or in lifeboats when two torpedoes from a submarine touched off violent explosions and fire that took 33 of 47 lives in the Gulf of Mexico June 29. Sinking of the vessel was announced today.

Fourteen survivors who managed to get clear in one lifeboat were brought to port the following morning. The other two lifeboats with their occupants were caught in flames and destroyed.

Capt. Hugh Bradford Bentley of Bristol, England, the master, reported that the ship was moving too fast to permit launching lifeboats as she was hit. He singled out the third engineer J. Steel, who was lost, for particular heroism in stopping the engines so that the lifeboats could be launched.

"Everything became red, yellow and orange—a technicolor scene. We made for the other side but before we had crossed over another fish clipped us."

The gun crew had no opportunity to use their gun and a general ship's alarm was impossible because the first torpedo knocked out the communication system.

A United States Coast Guard auxiliary boat picked up the survivors before dawn. The ship burned for eight hours, then sank.

Add Two Indians To War Cabinet

LONDON, July 3.—(CP Cable).—The India Office today announced that Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar and the Maharajah Jam Sahib of Nawanagar have been added to the British War Cabinet and the Pacific War Council.

Simultaneously the India Office announced new appointments in the Viceroy's Council with inclusion of hitherto unrepresented communities such as the Sikhs and the depressed classes; and expansion of the Council from 2 to 15 members.

The steps were seen by the Manchester Guardian as a step in the right direction.

"The new appointments in India are welcome so far as they go," said the Guardian, adding that the gesture of inviting two Indians to serve in the War Cabinet and Pacific Council was "overdue but not novel" because Indians served in the War Cabinet in the First Great War.

The Guardian said further, in commenting on expansion of the Viceroy's Council, "this reform has nothing of the boldness evident in Sir Stafford Cripps' recent proposals though perhaps it will open by another fraction the door he left."

Rap Windsor Doctors As Army "Slackers"

WINDSOR, Ont., July 3 (CP) — Younger doctors of Windsor were termed "slackers" in the present war effort by Lieutenant-Colonel Day C. Warnica, O.C., 30th Reconnaissance Battalion (Active), at a meeting yesteday of the Optimist Club. More than 30 members of the active army were guests of the organization.

"I'm going to speak bluntly," Col. Warnica said. "I'm going to name the profession that has done little in this war effort, and that's the medical profession.

"I can count the members of the profession in Windsor on both hands who have enlisted in the army, and only one of these is under 50 years of age. All the rest are veterans of the last war.

The younger doctors are slackers as far as the present war effort is concerned."

Rake Bremen 3 Times Inside Week

Canucks in Big Role, City Blazes Like Patchwork Quilt

By ALLAN NICKELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 3 (CP Cable).—Scores of Canadians helped the R.A.F. smash at the remaining vital points of Bremen in a "very heavy" attack last night, it was disclosed today. Canadian aerial gunners shot down at least one of the numerous Nazi night fighters that challenged the attackers.

The Canadians agreed it was the most satisfying of recent raids on Bremen and said fires were burning so fiercely when they reached the target that bombing the port city was like "aiming at a patchwork quilt."

It was the third blasting attack on Bremen in a week. In the first, 1,000 planes poured death and destruction on the important docks and warehouses June 26.

Thirteen raiders did not return.

"The weather was good and many fires were left burning," the Air Ministry said. "One enemy night fighter was destroyed."

The Canadian crews said their gunners were more active than for some time because of the presence of many enemy fighter planes.

Po. David Williams of Vancouver reported fierce fires blazing over his objectives, while other crews, including those of a squadron commanded by Wing-Cmdr. D. A. R. Bradshaw of London, Ont., said searchlights were heavy but their aircraft had little difficulty in finding bombing targets.

Down a Junkers

Sgts. N. C. Cassinbault of Brockville, Ont., and H. W. Bond of Stratford, Ont., flying a Wellington bomber, brought down a Junkers 88.

A long engagement between a Messerschmitt 100 and a Wellington captained by Flt. Sgt. Laurence Swanson of Edmonton ended when the Canadian crew saw the Nazi plane disappear in a long dive with smoke pouring from its engines.

Flying with Swanson were Flt. Sgt.. K. Crosby of Yarmouth, N.S., and Sgt. Pat. Murphy of Halifax whose trigger finger sent the Nazi reeling. Murphy said he did not know whether the Nazi plane was badly hit, and its destruction was not claimed.

PO. John Higham of Assiniboia, Sask., and Sgt. Karl Sveinson of Elfros, Sask., said they saw a night fighter which attacked their plane hit by the fire of Gunners Sgt. Art Loach of Islington, Ont., and Flt. Sgt. Ernie Burnett of Toronto.

Making his first flight against the enemy, Flt. Sgt. Russ Harling of Winnipeg fired a burst into another fighter but could not see the result. His ship piloted by PO. S. R. Fillmore of Alma, N.B., was right over the target at the time.

Local Greek Faces Charge

Following a raid made by provincial and city police on a service station and refreshment booth on the Warsaw road Andrew Christus faced a charge in police court this morning of keeping liquor for sale.

Christus pleaded not guilty to the charge and asked for an adjournment.

He was remanded on bail until July 10.

A woman who was found in the place by the police raiders pleaded guilty to illegal consumption and she was fined $10 and $1 costs when it was intimated that she had been the victim of circumstances.

SOUTH MONAGHAN

Woman Is Honored On 90th Birthday

SOUTH MONAGHAN, July 3.—(ENS).—Mrs. Rebecca Armstrong recently celebrated her 90th birthday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moncrief. Mrs. Armstrong formerly lived in Millbrook.

A number of friends called during the afternoon and evening to offer best wishes. The rooms were pretty with June flowers, many of the bouquets being gifts to Mrs. Armstrong.

Mrs. C. Emberso, Mrs. Bill Moncrief, Jean, Beth and Marie Moncrief assisted with the service of dainty refreshments from a table lovely with lace cloth and silver vases with roses. The two-storey birthday cake had its place of honor in the centre banked with sprays of rose-buds on a reflector. Candles were lit on the cake at the tea hour.

During the afternoon a toast was proposed by Mr. James Armstrong to his sister-in-law to which Mr. John Moncrief feelingly replied. She received many pretty gifts, some of which were cheques, chocolates, lavender set, dresser scarfs, fruit, etc. Those present included: Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Perrin, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McGill, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Emberson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moncrief and family, Mrs. Charles Barnard, Miss Ruth Lander, Miss Mary Hethington, Mrs. Ken Moncrief and Betty; Mrs. George Finnie, Grace and Gerald, Mr. J. Making Greater Use Of Nicholls Oval

Erection of a substantial platform at Nicholls Oval by the C.G.E. Company for their annual picnic, has started the minds of the Council veering to the possibilities of making this park of more value to the community as a picnic and recreation spot. At the meeting of the finance committee of the City Council on Thursday evening, a committee was appointed to ascertain if the platform could be taken over by the city for the use of other organizations which might wish to use the park, and at the same time there was a hint that the Council might be willing to go a little bit further in establishing conveniences of a permanent nature.

Alderman J. E. Sullivan said he could not understand why there was reluctance on the part of sporting organizations to use this park, because the park lends itself admirably for all forms of sports.

"They hesitate to use it because there are no dressing rooms," Alderman Bradburn remarked, recalling an incident of his high school days when somebody filched his wrist watch.

The upshot of the discussion was a motion by Aldermen Dutton and Glover, that a survey be conducted by the parks committee, and Alderman Cotton, to determine if the park might be put to greater use.

The committee approved a motion that Parks Committee Chairman Floyd Curtis attend the annual convention of parks commissioners at Stratford today.

LONDON — (CP). — Escaping fishing boats usually move from France to Britain, but sailor Jack Sweeney, charged with stealing a fishing boat, told the court he wanted to get to France and thence to Brazil to "start life afresh."

Mannerheim Hit

BERNE, Switzerland, July 3.—(AP).—A Stockholm report to the Basler National Zeitung said today that Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, chief of Finland's armed forces, was wounded in the leg shortly before he visited Hitler last week on the Russian front.

The dispatch said a heavy shell fragment hit the marshal while he was inspecting a front-line sector and that the injury delayed his visit a few days.

Nazis Batter For Hole At Kupyansk

Thousands Cut Down About Kursk, Initiative Waning

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 3.—(AP)—Nazi shock troops, still evidently seeking to drive a wedge between Russia's central and southern armies, probed Soviet positions midway between Kursk and Kupyansk in newly-instituted offensive operations today.

Several thousand Germans were reported killed in a day's fighting on the Kursk front and a noon communique declared that "at Sevastopol, fighting continued in the streets."

The Soviet Information Bureau said the Germans struck yesterday in the Belgorod and Volchansk sectors, strategically a part of the Kharkov front, and "stubborn battles commenced."

Military observers said these and associated thrusts appeared aimed at a break-through toward Voronezh, on the Moscow-Rostov railway 130 miles east of the Nazi-occupied city of Kursk, itself 280 miles south of Moscow.

The Moscow radio declared "the initiative is being wrested from the Germans" in their five-day-old offensive against the Red Army division holding plateau slopes before Kursk.

Germany's claim to fall of Sevastopol, the Crimean fortress city, was still officially ignored, although Soviet dispatches said the Russians were outnumbered 15-to-1 and the situation was tense.

"Berlin dispatches cleared through neutral Switzerland indicated the Germans hoped to wreck the Red Army organization by September—a feat they boasted several times in 1941—stabilize winter positions and release a large number of troops probably in anticipation of a second Allied front.)

Main Line 60 Miles Long

The new battlefields are at the middle of a 150-mile line along which most of the heavy mainland fighting has developed in the last 60 days.

Volchansk lies 35 miles northeast and Belgorod 50 miles north of Kharkov, a pre-invasion steel centre now the headquraters of Nazi Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock. The city of Kupyansk, on the Oskol River 60 miles southeast of Kharkov, is the easternmost Nazi base in that area.

A midnight communique on operations at Kursk said simply "our troops carried out tank battles against the enemy." Mechanized Red army detachments killed more 16 tanks in a day.

Broiler Market Holds Up Well

TORONTO July 3 (CP). — The dressed poultry market continues steady with quotations unchanged, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports.

Receipts of broilers and fowl are increasing and quality improving, the majority of broilers grading B milk-fed and a large percentage of fowl making the Grade A mark.

Fresh chicken of roasting weight are becoming more plentiful but appear to lack finish mostly grade B. There is a lack of demand for light weight spring chicken and these are being packed for storage as is the case of any slight surplus of fowl and broilers.

A few old hen turkeys of real good quality were on the market for which 24-25 cents lb. was paid.

A better demand is in evidence for frozen turkeys locally and out-of-town.

The local demand for dressed poultry generally for the holiday business was fairly good. Broilers and heavy chicken are moving satisfactorily. Out-of-town movement is good to eastern and northern points with some inter-provincial and export shipments going forward.

Dealers are quoting producers and country shippers:

Spring chicken 25-26 cents lb.; Broilers, grade A milk-fed 25-26, grade B milk-fed 24-25, Grade A 25, Grade B 23.

Fowl: grade A, 5 lbs. and up 22-23, 4 to 5 lbs. 21-22, 3 to 4 lbs. 20; grade B, 5 lbs. and up 20-21, 4 to 5 lbs. 19-20, 3 to 4 lbs. 18.

Old roosters 16-17.

PORT HOPE COUNCIL REFUSES TO HEAR DEPUTATION OF CITIZENS

Public Opinion Strongly Behind Citizens

PORT HOPE, July 3.—(ENS)—An obstacle in the form of a refusal by the town council of Port Hope to hear a deputation of citizens on the school question is gumming up the civilian blitz which has been going on for weeks. A statement from the citizens' committee indicates that good progress has been made in arousing public opinion in support of their campaign.

The progress report lists four items for the benefit of the people of Port Hope as follows:

(1) The committee wishes to report that when the case of Mr. Brackenbury and the staff was heard before the council of the United Counties the resignation of their appointee, W. J. B. Davidson, was requested.

(2) When the case was next presented to the Public School Board of Port Hope, that body took a similar stand and requested the resignation of their appointee, R. E. Sculthorpe.

(3) All efforts to present the case to the town council of Port Hope have been frustrated by members of the council with the exception of Messrs. Moncrief, Martin and Bird.

(4) The committee is still energetically engaged in the struggle and is quite pleased with the support the citizens are giving them. Over 1,500 people have signified their opposition to the trustees' action and the number increases daily.

Beavers Tie Grill Ballsters

PORT HOPE, July 3—(ENS). —A five-run rally in the 7th inning tied the score for the Grill and Beavers, 7-7, in the baseball game of the Town League on Thursday night.

Catcher Jimmy Rowcliffe sustained an injury to his wrist in scoring the tying run in the 7th inning. He was rushed to the doctor's, but whether the wrist was broken is not yet determined. Jimmy also had a big night at the bat, a double and two singles in four trips.

Mann, the Beavers' catcher also had a field day with the willow having three hits out of four, including a double.

LUMBAGO

Or chronic, weak back can make you feel years older and definitely limit the pleasures of every day life. Very frequently this condition is due to a strain or an injury, leaving the back muscles in a weakened condition.

As a result the slight over-exertion, or colds immediately renew the irritation, and because of the burden of supporting the body each day, the back muscles have no opportunity to be relieved from strain. The common sense method of treating this condition is to own a support, and wear it during periods when your back gives you trouble.

Yankee Tanks Practice For Second Front In Northern Ireland

Armored units of the American expeditionary force in Northern Ireland, among the most recent arrivals, have lost no time in getting into hard training and preparing for the opening of a possible second front. Negotiating rough country in Northern Ireland, these "General Grant" tanks, followed by U.S. infantrymen, are proving that they can take it.

Two Youths Are Sentenced To Reformatory

COBOURG, July 3.—(ENS.)—Albert Ivey of Campbellford, age 16 and Andrew, age 21, received their sentences in court yesterday on a long list of charges Albert received concurrent terms of two years less a day in the reformatory on 20 breaking and entering charges. He was charged jointly with his brother on two breaking and entering charges, for which he received two years less a day. Andrew was given 12 months definite and six indefinite on these two counts. Andrew Ibey on 12 charges of breaking and entering was given 12 months definite and six indefinite on each charge, to run concurrently.

The two were arrested by Provincial Constable Don Carruthers of Campbellford on June 4 at the home of Andrew Ibey in Seymour township. The charges involved breakins of cottages in Seymour, Percy Alnwick and Sidney townships during the months of April and May and the first week in June. The principal loot consisted of food and clothing and other articles. Four boots were also stolen but these were recovered. Some of the stolen goods were hidden in bushes where wet weather damaged much of the loot.

When they appeared in court last week they were remanded for sentence until yesterday.

Albert Ibey had an extensive record, the court was told.

Reeve Proposes Exchange Merchant Labor

HASTINGS, July 3—(ENS). — If a plan proposed by Reeve Lewis E. Kelley to alleviate existing acute farm labor shortage is adopted, local merchants will close their stores two half days a week and head for the wide-open spaces. The reeve proposes to establish a manpower "exchange", whereby the merchants could submit their names to him so as to be sent to farmers, where and when required.

"As I see it," he commented, "taking into consideration that the farmers have indication of a bumper season and the few youth left in the village will be going to camp with the reserve army, the merchants will either have to act voluntarily in his matter or the govment will enforce a period of compulsory farm labor. Speaking of pay, the reeve added, "I think a few good farm meals would be ample reimbursement for this vitally patriotic and healthy work.

Commenting on the proposal, J. M. Baker, village clerk and general merchant, stated that more than one half-holiday in the week would cause considerable confusion, with other municipalities.

H. G. Fairman, butcher, told the Examiner that he was shy of skilled help in his own business. "The summer season is the only one in which we make any profit in a village such as Hastings," stated Mr. Fairman, who doubted if the proposal would be feasible.

Rev. J. E. Glover, United Church minister, did not wait for the merchants to decide a course of action. Already he has spent a day at the haying, which is extremely heavy and two weeks ahead of an average season.

Jitney Bowling Tourney Ends

HASTINGS, July 3—(ENS). — The rink skipped by H. G. Fairman won the abbreviated jitney lawn bowling tournament staged by the local club here Wednesday evening. Mrs. A. C. Putnam and Robert Glass were other members of the winning team.

H. G. Fairman defeated R. Burnham, 9 to 6, in the first contest, while Arthur Fleming overwhelmed T. E. Kelley 9 to 5.

The Kelley-skipped rink lost their second game to Burnham 10 to 8, as Fairman topped Fleming by a score of 10 to 7.

Torch Bearers Club Raised $1,050.87

COBOURG, July 3—(ENS). — Cobourg Collegiate "Torch Bearers' Club," an organization which devotes its efforts to raising funds for war work, raised the sum of $1,050.87 in the school year just ended, it was revealed in the financial statement issued by the treasurer. This money has been used to provide donations to various war charities and to provide boxes for boys overseas.

The pupils themselves raised $234.95; teachers donated $110.25; salvage receipts were $328.80; mile of coppers' drive, $280.99; total, $1,050.87.

Donation were: Evening Telegram's Christmas Cheer Fund, $40; Kinsmen Milk Fund, $50; Junior Red Cross, $10; Cobourg Red Cross, $176.58.

During the year there were 95 boxes sent to collegiate pupils overseas, at a cost of $489.93. Average cost per box was $5.15. During the year, 1,040 articles were made for the Red Cross.

Death Of Girl At Cottage Still Remains A Mystery

COBOURG, July 3.—(ENS)—Body of 17-year-old Shirley Pringle who died suddenly yesterday morning at the Pringle cottage at Gore's Landing, was brought to Cobourg yesterday afternoon and was taken to McFayden's undertaking parlors.

Until an autopsy is held, the exact cause of death will not be known. Doctor W. E. Wilkins, who was called to Gore's Landing yesterday morning to attend the girl, stated that he did not feel her death was due to a fall which she sustained a few days ago as the skull was apparently not fractured and there was no indication of a cerebral hemhorrage.

The fact that she ate some chocolates and drank some pop before she went to bed on Wednesday night is not held responsible for her death, The Examiner learned. The possibility that death might have been caused by a ruptured blood vessel somewhere in her body, with the exception of the head, has been considered but as this could be determined only by a thorough examination, no definite conclusion can be reached, it was stated.

The girl was given a medical examination some time ago to determine her physical fitness for the voluntary farm work by school girls, and she was found to be sound physically with no indication of heart trouble, The Examiner learned.

Her tragic death disrupted happy plans for a fishing trip which was to have taken place Thursday morning, according to Sally Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Hall of Cobourg. Miss Hall, Miss Barbara Wallace and Shirley Anderson went out to the cottage on Monday.

"We had planned to go fishing today," Miss Hall said. "Jim Wallace was to call for us in the morning. Before we went to bed last night we all had some chocolates and some pop. There was nothing unusual in our eating that and it never made Shirley sick before. When we got up in the morning to get ready to go fishing, Barbara heard Shirley moaning. We found her in bed, in a coma. Barbara ran over to the Wallace cottage for her cousin, Catherine McCausland of St. Catharines who is a trained nurse. Then they put in a call for the doctor. While the doctor was coming I applied artificial respiration for about a half hour but when the doctor arrived he said that Shirley had been dead for some time," stated Miss Hall.

Dr. W. Wilkins, who is the family doctor, was accompanied by Captain Lorne Anderson, the girl's father, when they went out in summons to the urgent call from the girls at the cottage.

The whole community here was saddened by the news of the death of the girl. Seventeen years of age, she was born at St. Catharines and came to Cobourg with her parents while a young girl. She attended Cobourg Collegiate Institute and was a very popular student. She took part in all school activities and recently was a tagger in the Navy League tag day. She was clever student, took a lively interest in school affairs and there was nothing to suggest that she would come to such an early end.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 with Rev. W. P. Woodger of Trinity United Church conducting the service. She is survived by her parents and one brother, Keith.

Another Churchill Crisis

Winston Churchill has received a vote of confidence from Britain's Parliament, with a majority of 475 to 25. Once again the Prime Minister has weathered a political storm and his popularity has been proven, but the inconvenient questions asked by his critics have been merely brushed aside or cleverly parried; they have not been answered. It is doubtful if the people of Britain are as thoroughly satisfied with their leadership as this vote might indicate.

A statesman who possesses great personal magnetism is blessed indeed. If the public takes a fancy to him, delights in his idiosyncracies and adopts him as a national mascot, he can do many things which would not be tolerated in a less colorful personality. The British people remember with gratitude that Winston Churchill took the wheel when their fate was darkest, and guided them to better days; he cheered them with great oratory, and his courageous and forthright spirit infected the faintest hearts. He has led them from pitiful weakness to great strength, he has dextrously allied them with the great fighting forces of Russia, and he has done much personally to draw Britain closer to the United States. At the same time he has stubbornly maintained a Cabinet which able critics consider to be less than the best possible, he has himself insisted on holding the dual office of Prime Minister and Minister of Defence, and during his time in office Britain has suffered some of the most mortifying defeats in her long history. The people of Britain know these things more intimately than we do.

If the vote in the House has gone against the Prime Minister (and no one ever expected that it would do so) he would have resigned, and no one wants him to do that. What a great many people do want, however, is a new Minister of Defence; more correctly, they want a Minister of Offence. The Axis has taken the initiative in every major engagement of this war, and it is clear that the side which takes the initiative has a great advantage over its opponent. There are accusations in some sections of the British press that Mr. Churchill lacks the offensive spirit; Mr. Lloyd George told Louis Fischer, the American correspondent, that Churchill's disastrous Gallipoli campaign in the last war had made him over-cautious. The feeling is strong that Britain wants a new Defence Minister, although it does not want a new Prime Minister.

Much hangs upon the outcome of the battle in Egypt. The loss of that country, we have been told, might prolong the war by as much as three years. It would be another painful blow to Britain's prestige and to the fortunes of her allies. Mr. Churchill, not long ago, expressed confidence that Egypt could be held: if he is right, he will be amply vindicated; if he is wrong, Britain will want a new master of strategy.

It has been suggested in some sections of the Canadian press that comment upon such matters as this is hardly in order in Canadian papers. We cannot agree with this opinion. We are fighting with Britain, and as a country Canada is deeply concerned in Britain's fate. Whether Britain soon begins to win important battles or continues to lose them is as much our concern as that of our allies. It is not in our power, nor is it desirable, that we should tell Britain what to do, but let no one imagine for that reason that it is no concern of ours what she does. That is why we shall watch developments in the Middle East, and subsequent developments at Westminster, with the most intimate concern.

Captain Black's Indiscretion

We never cease to be amazed by the number of people in responsible positions who speak without thinking, and thereby embroil themselves in embarrassing arguments. The most recent candidate for honors in this field is Captain George Black, Conservative M.P. for Yukon, who made this statement in the House on Friday last: "I think only those in the army, in the navy or in the air force who are doing actual fighting should be allowed to wear uniforms. There are uniformed battalions of accountants and clerical workers in Ottawa and many other Canadian cities. These people have no intention of getting any closer to the war than behind a desk or an ink bottle, and they should be made to shed their uniforms. Uniforms should be only for fighting men, the brave men who are doing their duty by their country, not for those who stay at home and try to have an easy time of it."

Captain Black's remarks have caused quite a stir. Many of the men who are engaged in clerical work are veterans of the last war who have accepted the only means of service now open to them. Many are men who are physically unfit for fighting but who are glad to do what they can as clerks. And none of them appear to be dismayed by the suggestion that their uniforms be taken away; rather, they welcome the idea. Army dress is hot, impractical and uncomfortable for an office worker. And if the clerks were put in mufti, they would be able to go where they liked when they liked, without the embarrassment involved in avoiding officers, and they would be spared much saluting, just as weary officers would be spared the necessity of saluting them.

But they think that Captain Black's sneer about hiding behind ink-bottles is uncalled for, and many people will agree with them. Modern war demands an enormous amount of office drudgery and someone must do it; not every man can be in the front line and not every man would be useful there. Nothing is gained by casting slurs on men who are doing an unheroic job because it is all that is open to them.

Accuracy And Color

In his address to the Commons on the Middle Eastern situation Mr. Churchill made an interesting reference to journalism as it is practised in this war. Certain members had complained that the Government appeared to be less fully informed than the press of events in Egypt. In reply Mr. Churchill said that the Government was "in fact more accurately but less fully or colorfully informed than the newspapers." In this connection he said: "There has never been in this war a battle where so much liberty has been given to war correspondents. They have been allowed to roam all over the battlefield; to take their chance of being killed and send home very full messages, almost whenever they can reach a telegraph office. This is what the press has always asked for and this is what they got. These war correspondents moving about amid the troops and sharing their perils have also shared their hopes and been inspired by their buoyant spirit."

The inference in Mr. Churchill's reference to the press is that some of the optimism which we have cherished about the Middle East was attributable to attractively colored newspaper accounts. It may also be pointed out that much of it must be charged against the Prime Minister's own clearly expressed optimism. We do not suggest that newsmen have been blameless; we are content to point out that when a Prime Minister is optimistic he chooses the key in which most of the press will sing, and that a discordant voice will not have much chance of being heard.

But from the point of view of the press, the attitude of the British authorities in this matter cannot be sufficiently praised. The news, necessarily somewhat disjointed and sometimes unavoidably distorted, comes direct from the field of action and is presented to the public. Correspondents have no illusion that they are writing history; they tell what they know at the moment, and are content with that. And, although they strive for accuracy, they cannot entirely exclude color, also.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Germany has stopped telephone communications between herself and non-Axis countries. Now who calls it a phoney war?

"Iron Output Heavier For May" says a headline, which reminds us of the old riddle: Which is heavier—a pound of iron or a pound of feathers?

A man was fined in Indianapolis last week for driving an airplane while drunk. We wondered how long it would be before traffic laws were extended to the air.

A Chicago woman who found that she was engaged to a Nazi saboteur says that she is 'ashamed'; if she had married him she would probably have been completely mortified.

Many critics of the present Government complain of the mediocre leadership under which we are supposed to suffer, and imply that better leaders exist in Canada than those in power. But they do not name them. Now, boys, forget your manners and point.

Social Security Now

From WINNIPEG FREE PRESS

THE prime minister, Mr. King, in one of his recent broadcasts said that if the shape of the world to come is not discernible before the war is over that there is little hope of a better world being wrought. This is profoundly true. Happily the shape the world will take internationally is now assuming form. It will be a world of collective security for all countries in which decent international law will prevail. But the shape of things to come inside the countries of the world, with several notable exceptions, is still obscure. No international system of security can survive unless the countries are all domestically healthy. The upheavals resulting from internal social distress are bound to overflow national borders.

There must be, as President Roosevelt so eloquently put it, freedom from want and freedom from fear. The individual states will, of necessity, have to expand their social services. The right to work must become a recognized principle of domestic policy. Because Canada recognized this, it has instituted a system of unemployment insurance. The question now arises as to there being other steps which can be taken in the same direction.

One of the prime causes of unemployment which originated in the last war was the shortening of the working age. Men over 60 found it increasingly difficult to find and keep employment. To alleviate distress caused by the lack of employment for elderly citizens old age pensions were established. It is now generally conceded that these pensions are too low and the age minimum of 70 years too high. There has been a widespread demand for a reduction of the age eligibility to 65 years and an increase in the pension rate.

THE Dominion government now pays 75 per cent of the cost of old age pensions. This costs the government some $30,000,000 a year. The main objection raised against increasing the pension and lowering retirement age has been financial. To have done so would have increased the cost many-fold. Times, however, have changed considerably since the war started. We have, for the first time in more than a decade, approached total employment in this country. This would make the present an ideal moment at which to institute a system of contributory old age pensions. The system now in force in the United States might well serve as a model.

The United States system is financed by a tax on payrolls. It started with employees and employers each contributing one per cent. The rate was raised to two per cent each this year and will be increased to three per cent each in 1949. Upon retirement at 65 years of age the benefits are computed on the average earnings of the worker over the insured period. Thus a worker who earned an average of $100 and was insured for 20 years would receive a pension of $30 per month. If his wife were also 65 or over, the pension would be $45. If there was a child under 16 years of age, or under 18 and still in school, the pension would be $60.

Should an insured worker die before he reaches 65 and leave a widow and family, pensions are paid to the widow until the children reach 18 years of age. The pension then stops but the widow becomes eligible again for a pension when she reaches 65. Her pension then would depend upon how long her husband had been insured and the amount of his income. Thus the pension of the widow of the example cited above would receive $22.50 per month. Lump sum payments are provided for in case of death.

All employment is not covered by the United States social security act. Agricultural labor is not covered, nor domestic servants, government or railway employees. When a person becomes eligible for his pension, he cannot work in any trade covered by the act. He can, if able and willing, obtain employment in any line of endeavor outside the act and still receive his pension.

THERE are several good reasons why a similar act could be established in Canada now. It would put old age pensions in Canada on a self-sustaining basis. It would divert substantial sums of money from the consuming public into the national treasury. Locally it would lift a considerable burden from Manitoba municipalities which must now pay a quarter of the old age pensions. If the mothers' allowances were incorporated into a national social security act, the provinces would likewise be relieved of a financial responsibility they have assumed.

"Any man can find work if he'll only use his brains," said the efficiency expert, "providing, of course, he is ready to adapt himself to circumstances, like a piano-tuner I once met on the Canadian prairie."

"But even if he was adaptable," protested one listener, "he couldn't make piano-tuning pay with pianos so few and far between."

"Admitted," replied the expert, "but he made quite a decent living tightening up barbed-wire fences."

No Time Now To Swap Chiefs

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

BEHIND the 20-to-1 vote of confidence that confirmed Winston Churchill as Britain's war captain at so perilous an hour lie many unspoken considerations. High among them must be the traditional British admiration of courage.

The vote was more a tribute by his fellows to the dauntless heart of the man himself than a ratification of his war management. Again as when France fell and England came to the blackest moment in her history, he symbolized British bulldog grit. And Britons had need of that never-say-die valor as they awaited tidings from the Egyptian battle.

The confidence vote was no surprise. Whatever grief and dismay the British people may have felt over the catastrophe to the army in Libya or new disasters that may be impending in Egypt, it obviously was no time to shift leadership.

That does not mean, however, that there will be no revision in war commands at home or in the field as a consequence of the Libyan disaster.

Mr. Churchill himself seemed at a loss to explain that defeat. He made no effort to attribute it to British military inferiority in any respect except in generalship.

NOT LACK OF VALOR

On the contrary he asserted, backed by specific figures, that the British 8th Army held superiority over its Axis foes in manpower, tanks, guns, and in the air, yet still was crushed.

By Mr. Churchill's accounting, the Battle of Libya, perhaps of Egypt, was lost on June 13 when a powerful British force of 300 tanks went into action, presumably aiming at destruction of Axis forces, and was itself trapped and all but destroyed. Only 70 heavy tanks emerged, he said, but what precise failure caused the disaster was not indicated.

It was certainly not lack of valor. That has never been questionable in British or Empire armies. It is not questionable now in the swirling battle in defense of Alexandria.

Mr. Churchill could tell the House that heavy British reinforcements had arrived or were moving up to warrant his assertion that the issue in Egypt still was to be decided. He could say, too, that Allied air power still was greater than that of the foe in the crucial struggle.

And he could add one other assurance to brace British morale, whatever happens in Egypt or the Middle East. American-built war keels are already taking the water this year at a rate four times greater than the British shipping output, he said. Next year American-built tonnage will exceed British eight or ten times, he added.

GRAVITY NOT CONCEALED

On shipping turns the ability to bring to bear against the Axis mates on any front, east or west, the full United States battle weight and the products of the American war arsenal.

However, the shipping figures do little to ease immediate tension over the Egyptian crisis, the gravity of which Mr. Churchill made no effort to conceal. He could not have done so if he desired. Casual inspection of any map of the Eastern Mediterranean reveals the terrible danger lands of Palestine, Syria and the oil riches of in which not only the Suez Canal but the Bible Persia stand as Rommel's war machines roll closer to Alexandria and Hitler looses the weight of his growing offensive against Russia.

That map was in Mr. Churchill's mind far more than the political pattern of his confidence vote victory as he turned to hover anew over reports from the Egyptian frnot. Hours might see the map redrawn, deferring Allied victory hopes and prolonging the war indefinitely.

Washington Spotlight

By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 3 (CP)—When the Federal Bureau of Investigation rounded up the eight German saboteurs landed from U-boats in New York and Florida last week, they did something they had no intention of doing—they made it almost impossible for a change to be made in the law forcing Canadians and all other alien residents of the United States to obtain indivdual permits from the war or navy departments to work in munition plants.

The law has resulted in hundreds, perhaps thousands, of Canadians losing jobs in the United States and being automatically black-balled when they apply for other war work because many plants have gone outside its terms and refuse to employ aliens under any circumstances.

The F.B.I. roundup of the Nazi saboteurs has had the effect of making it almost impossible at the moment to lift or relax these restrictions as they affect Canadians because the American people have suddenly become spy-conscious and the service departments, sabotage-wary.

PRIME MINISTER IS QUIZZED

When Prime Minister Mackenzie King was here last week, President Roosevelt questioned him about the forced loan provisions of the Dominion budget. So did Prime Minister Churchill whose government already has adopted the system in a much paler form.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, was keenly interested in it because it is generally agreed in Washington that the United States will resort to compulsory loans if the present voluntary system fails to get results. The President is one of a group of high officials in Washington who realize that the United States has lots to learn from Canada on the handling of the economic side of the war.

It already has copied Canada's over-all price ceiling and is studying force loans and the deduction of income tax at the source.

HULL CENSORS HIMSELF

Cordell Hull, courtly, grey-haired Secretary of State, once referred to Yoshuke Matsuoka, former Japanese Foreign Minister, as "crooked as a basket of fish hooks." Now he doesn't believe that language is strong enough but hesitates to lapse into Tennessee cussing, at least publicly.

Listening to the soft-spoken, gentlemanly Secretary of State on an official occasion, it would be difficult to believe that he can be absolutely sulphurous at times. When the war is over, one of the most famous documents to be dug out of the state department achives will be the verbatim copy of what Hull said to the two Japanese "peace ambassadors" a few minutes after he learned of what was happening at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

It started when Hull told his negro door-man to "show those so-and-so's-in" and from then on, Hull used every expression he ever had heard and a few he made up under the excitement of the moment, to tell Nomura and Kurusu exactly what he thought of them and their country.

Political observers in Washington are watching closely the day-to-day developments in the New York fight for the Republican nomination for governor because they see in it a fight for control of the party. It is a fight between old line Republicans like Herbert Hoover and Alf Landon and those who believe in the advanced leadership of Wendell L. Willkie.

It is believed here that if Thomas E. Dewey, the old racket buster, is put up for the governorship, it will represent a victory for the old guard, perhaps not only for the New York governorship but for the next presidential campaign as well.

The "draft Willkie" movement is under way by a group of Republicans who regard Dewey and the old guard as reactionary elements and the fight has all the outward appearances of developing into a deep schism within the party.

What will happen now that Willkie has announced he is not a candidate for the governorship—he said in a statement Wednesday night that "I have no intention of becoming one"—is anybody's guess.

A Bible Message For Today

I will extol thee, my God, O king; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever. Every day will I bless thee; and I will praise thy name for ever and ever. Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised; and his greatness is unsearchable. One generation shall praise they works to another, and shall declare thy mighty acts. I will speak of the glorious honour of thy majesty, and of they wondrous works....

The Lord is good to all: and his tender mercies are over all his works....Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations....The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works.—Psalms, cxlv, 1-5, 9, 13, 17.

Budget For Bachelors

The need for cutting down civilian expenditures was a basic factor in the form of the new taxation.

An examination of rates raises the question whether that objective is being attained equitably.

Take the case of a single man with an income of $3,000. He pays $1,064 in taxes and has $1,936 left to spend. A married man with the same income whose living expenses are considerably heavier pays in taxes $884 and has left $2,116. The married man with two children, or three dependents in all, pays $668 in taxes and retains $2,332 out of his income. These figures include the refundable portion but that of course isn't available for spending now.

The married man, without children, has only $180 more to spend than the single person with no dependents. The married man with two children has only $400 more.

This surely puts the blessed in "single blessedness." Surely a wife should rate more than $180 difference; surely a wife and two children a difference greater than $400.

We knew Bachelor Mackenzie King kept a finger in most government pies, but didn't suspect him of much tinkering with the technicalities of tax rates. How did Husband and Father Ilsley have this slipped over on him?—Financial Post.

Tanks Made In Garages

Tanks are being assembled in Britain from parts made in 6,000 little workshops, many of them garages with little to do now that private cars are virtually off the road. Together they make one great factory which no air raid could put out of action.

Planning the distribution of the work caused many a headache before production started. Each separate part, down to the smallest nut, has to arrive for assembly by train or lorry from workshops miles around at just the right moment for the assembly shops, where as many as 12 men may be required to work together on the heavier of the 50,000 operations involved.

Because thousands of separate operations are carried out in the manufacture of the parts, each little workshop has its own gauges or measuring devices, precisely checked up to the same standard of exactitude so that any one part picked from a collected heap by the assemblers will fit to a hair's breadth.—British Industries Bulletin.

A young woman was extremely vain of the honors conferred upon two distant male relatives. She talked on the subject to all and sundry: I have two relatives in the House of Lords. Have you any?"

"No," replied one of her acquaintances, "but I have three maiden aunts in the Kingdom of Heaven."

LONDON—(CP). — Children in London schools number 188,900, but, says an education department report, between 1,000 to 2,000 children who returned from evacuation have not reported to schools.

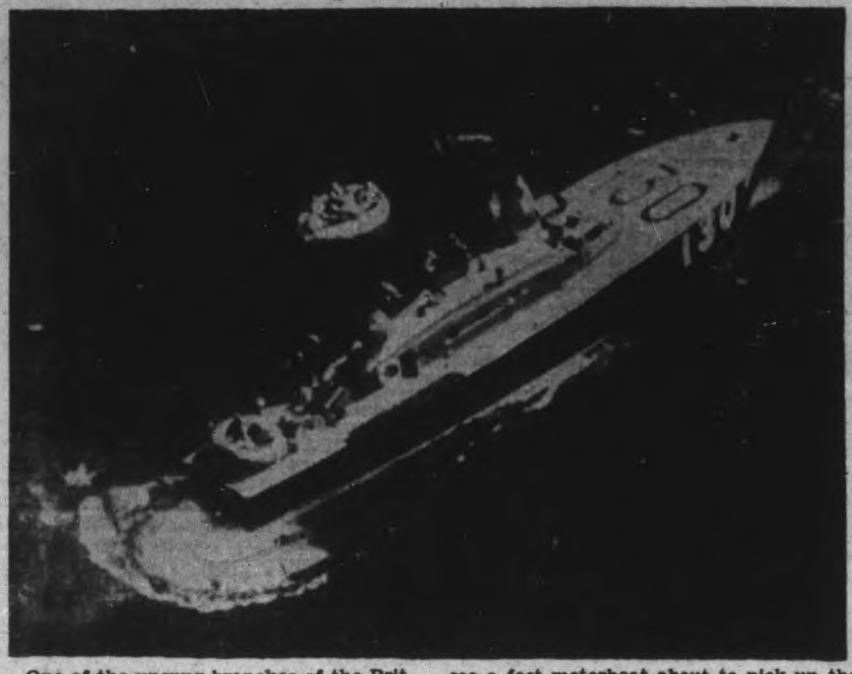
800 Recruits

London, July 3 (CP)

EIGHT hundred French officers and soldiers were reported today to have arrived in Britain from Madagascar with their families and it was believed they would be given an opportunity to join Gen. Charles de Gaulle's "Free French" forces.

The group included troops captured in May at Diego Suarez naval base.

Rescue By R.A.F. In The English Channel



One of the unsung branches of the British Royal Air Force is the sea rescue service. Composed of planes and fast motorboats, this service has saved many lives of friend and foe by picking up downed aviators in the English Channel and other waters adjacent to the English coast. Here you see a fast motorboat about to pick up the crew of a destroyed Halifax bomber in the channel. The men are crowded into a tiny rubber dinghy. Aircraft of the rescue service keep constant patrol in search of such castaways. Surface craft is summoned by radio.

Rangers' Camp Wooded Area On The West Coast

WEST COAST, June 27—(By Airmail)—The Prince of Wales Rangers A.F., Peterborough regiment, encamped inland about 450 miles from the Pacific coast, has settled down in earnest for intensive training in this potential theatre of war. Major R. J. Bolton, second-in-command of the regiment, told the unit as a whole that it is quite within the realms of possibility the men may be called upon at any time to face an enemy approaching from the coast. All ranks were called upon to take a deep interest in their training and be prepared for any eventuality.

The camp is located about the center of the province midway between two ranges of the Rockies, 200 miles away on either side. The area is an entirely new military location and is three miles from town However, the boys have uncovered a short cut through a section of woods and they can make town in 40 minutes on foot. At present the entire personnel is under canvas but a large building program is well under way near the camp and, it is expected that, in about two months the new barracks will be ready for occupation. In the meantime, despite the fact the tented area is located on broken ground, conditions are steadily improving. Taps have been installed under shelter and the cookhouses are wooden buildings.

Under the direction of Col. Dewart, men of the regiment went into a section of woods and with much work cleared about two acres adjoining the camp area but some yards to the south. Stumps were pulled and burned and the area is now in the final stages of being finished. "The men did this work themselves and worked hard at it," Col. Dewart said.

Two other Ontario regiments occupy the lines on either side of the Rangers, one having moved in Friday morning. Less than a week ago, the area was bereft of troops but the story is different now. As days go on, a brigade will be built up. Lt.-Col. J. A. Dewart, officer commanding the Prince of Wales Rangers has been appointed camp commandant. The O.C. has been extremely busy since arrival planning facilities for the entertainment of troops and selecting training areas and a rifle range. Permission has been granted the regiment to use the municipal airport for training purposes.

Days Are Long

One of the most outstanding features of this area is that there is about 17 hours daylight each day. One could easily read a paper close to midnight with natural light. Some of the boys have called it "the land of the midnight sun" but natives say it is the reverse in winter. The daylight hours are very short. So far, the days have been quit warm but a night, there is a sharp change in the temperature. Despite the fact that the men were in possession of three woollen blankets, they were still cold and so the Q.M. stores issued two extra blankets per man.

The town has a population of about 2500. One theatre is in operation and a second being made ready. There are several restaurants, hotels, etc. Despite the fact the regiment is about 2400 miles from home, mail facilities are fairly good. There is an airmail service five times weekly and almost daily train service. Night letter wires may be sent to Ontario at the rate of $1.45 for 50 words. Several of the men attended a dance in the town last night.

Needless to say, the trip through the first range of the Rockies was a sight never to be forgotten. About an hour east of Jasper, the lofty peaks could be seen stretching into the sky with their snow capped tops. During the stop at Jasper, a real good view was seen of the mountains for they completely surround the town. The appearance of snow at this time of year almost caused one to shudder for those of the regiment coming from Ontario, the sight was something entirely new, save for a few who had made the trip before.

Douro Friends Honor Joseph Moher

DOURO, July 3 — (ENS). — A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Moher on Monday evening when the local teachers with their mothers and a few other friends gathered to make a presentation to Joseph Moher, who leaves shortly to join the armed forces. Joseph has been the teacher in S.S. No. 8, Douro, for the past two years. An address was read by Phillip Leahy and the presentation of a handsome set of toilet articles and an identification bracelet was made by Richard Sheehan and John Devlin. Lunch was served and singing and dancing enjoyed. Among those present were: Mrs. Richard Sheehan and son Richard, Mrs. Frank Devlin and son John, Mrs. F. D. Leahy and son Phillip, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moher and son Joseph, Mrs. John Sullivan and daughter Madeline and son Cletus, Miss Mary Walsh, Mrs. John Towns and daughter Frances Mrs. P. G. SOCK-TESTING ROBOT

LONDON—(CP).— "Tommy," a sock tester invented by a British army clothing inspector, "marches" 60 miles a day in army socks. He has two mechanical feet and reproduces perspiration and strain of long marches.

TIPS on the new RAYONS

The new rayon stockings are lovely—every bit as glamorous as silk —BUT you must give them gentle care!

1. When you buy be sure of foot and length measurements.
2. Put them on carefully—just as you did your precious silk ones.
3. Don't use harsh soaps—don't rub or twist them. That weakens delicate threads and results in runs.
4. Do dip them in lukewarm Lux suds the minute you take them off. This saves elasticity—helps them to fit better.
5. When drying *gently squeeze out moisture. Don't wring! Then roll them in a turkish towel.
6. Don't use clothespins! Hang over a smooth rod, away from heat and sun.
7. Dry thoroughly. Leave them a full day after you've dipped them before you put them on again. Rayons are strongest when perfectly dry.

For longer wear, dip your rayon or bemberg stockings in LUX after each wearing. Lux whisks away harmful perspiration which rots delicate threads. Lux cuts down embarrassing, costly runs.

WESTCLOX GIRLS SMOTHER ELECTRICS—PLAZAS COMB JUVENILES

BIG WINNER - - - By Jack Sords

Four Pitchers Touched For 23 Hits

Combing four pitchers for 23 hits and a total of 42 bases Plazas defeated Juveniles 24 to 2 in a City League fixture at Riverside Park Thursday night. The one-sided win increased the lead of the hockey squad over Luckies and Royals to a game and one-half.

In addition to hitting the ball hard and often, Plazas played errorless ball behind steady pitching by Tom Parsons and the youngsters never had a chance. Parsons held them to six hits and until the seventh inning not one of the losers had got as far as second base.

Bob Crowe started on the hill top for the losers but Julian Wade's long homer with two on in the second greased the skids for him and when the first five Plaza batters in the third frame reached first safely Cross was sent in to pitch and Plazas continued their onslaught at his expense, getting six runs before the side was retired. Warren Smith took over the pitching burden in the sixth and ran into trouble in the eighth when the Plazas broke loose with a barrage of eight hits, including triples by Don Crowe and Julian Wade, a homer by Joe Blewett and a double by Eddie Starr, ten runs cantering in before the side was finally retired. Bob Crowe who had remained in the game returned to the firing line in the ninth to escape without being scored on.

The youngsters did not threaten until the seventh when they finally broke through Parsons' delivery for a run. Fred Garvey drew a pass, the first issued by Parsons, stole second and dashed home when Bill Jones slammed a double to centre field. Garvey also got the only other Juvenile run in the ninth when he opened with a single, went to second while Ellis was retiring Leether and scored on Bill Greatrix's single to centre.

Plazas had a field day at bat. The youngsters simply could not get Joe Blewett out, the centre fielder reaching first seven times in a row. He had a homer, double and two singles, walked twice and reached first once on an error. Art Heal had two doubles and a single, Jim Ellis and Bun Kingdon had three singles, Eddie Starr two double and a single and Julian Wade hammered out a homer and a triple. Every member of the winners got at least one hit and scored at least one run.

The only Juvenile player to get more than one safe blow was leftfielder Bill Greatrix who singled in the fifth and again in the ninth, his last blow driving in the second Juvenile run. Jack White came up with a couple of fine catches in centre field for the losers and Art Heal dashed back into left field to make a fine grab of a short fly for the Plaza fielding gem.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

With second place at stake Luckies and Royals will clash at Riverside Park tonight at 7 o'clock in a City League battle that should be brimful of interest. The winner of this tussle will climb a half game closer to the leading Plazas while the losers will drop back to a tie with Soldiers for third place so that a lot hinges on the result. The league standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Plazas	6	2	.750
Luckies	4	3	.571
Royals	4	3	.571
Soldiers	4	4	.500
Juveniles	1	7	.125

With second place at stake there is plenty to make tonight's game a red hot contest. In addition there is the fact that the two clubs have mildly locked horns over a number of players. Mowry, former Royal catcher, is now a member of Luckies and third baseman George Hawks, after jumping over to the Luckies for one game has since jumped back to the Royals so that there are all the ingredients present for a more or less hectic argument when the two outfits clash tonight. Bill Fraser will likely toss them for Royals against either Bill Lewis or Dal Taylor for Luckies.

* * * * * *

Juveniles absorbed much their worst beating of the season last night when they were swamped by Plazas 24 to 2. The hockey squad really performed like leaders, hitting the ball hard and often, playing errorless ball in the field and getting fine pitching from Tom Parsons who has not been defeated this season. Against the combination the kids hadn't much of a show. They could do little on the attack against the effective hurling of Parsons who did not let a man reach second base until the seventh and their pitching failed in the face of hard hitting by Plazas who were going for distance, as their total of 42 bases, a season's record, shows. Once Julian Wade drove a long homer to deep left with two on in the second the youngsters bogged down and after that it was noly a question of how many. The kids have played a lot better ball on most of their appearances than they did last night but they were up against a good squad, performing at its best and that is mighty tough opposition for a juvenile outfit. Manager Reg Kingdon called on all his reserves but in spite of that the score climbed steadily.

* * * * * *

Although Mike O'Brien's Generals have won six straight games in the Girls' Softball League and have made a parade of the campaign so far signs of opposition are beginning to develop and the steady improvement in the work of the Westclox squad indicates that the Generals may find the former champs tough enough come playoff time. The Westclockers got away to a bad start but they have won three out of their last four games and are now firmly set in second place. They piled up one of the biggest scores for several seasons last night when they overwhelmed the luckless Electrics 26 to 3. Coach Bob Batley's team were resplendent in smart new uniforms of bright red and white but the change in regalia did not bring them any better luck. On the contrary they ran into the worst shellacking they have encountered this season, with Westclox winding up the affair by scoring 18 runs in their last three times at bat. Westclox played good ball behind steady hurling by Marg Watson and at the bat they helped themselves liberally from the offerings of Mary and Audrey Larmer who shared the pitching burden for Electrics.

Raybestos Eke Out Win

There was another good battle in the Industrial League Thursday night when Raybestos, after setting up an early lead, just did manage to hold off Outboard Marines and grab off a decision by 9 to 8. It was a close argument with Marines manufacturing four runs in the last three innings to make it a photo finish. Rays outhit their opponents almost 2 to 1—by 15 to 8 to be exact—but in spite of that fact the Marines battled them right to the wire. Raybestos played errorless ball behind good pitching by Reutley who allowed eight hits, struck out six and passed two. L. Maudsley was his battery mate. The Marine battery was J. Maguire and Watkins, Maguire yielding 15 hits, passing two and whiffing the same number. A double-play, McMillan to English, was a fielding feature. Dominion Woollens and Brintons will clash tonight at 7 o'clock at the Brinton Field.

* * * * * *

Strangest thing about the clash between Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox and his star outfielder Ted Williams is that it should have bobbed up when the Sox were in a winning streak and slicing big hunks off the Yankee lead. Usually when a club is winning the Temperamental Tommies are on their best behavior but apparently Mister Williams, one of the greatest ball players of the present era can be temperamental win or lose, slump or no slump. At all events he committed the cardinal sin of not hustling and Cronin, noted as a fighter, will not stand for players who will not go all out to win. That is why in spite of the fact that Williams expressed regret at the incident yesterday and apologized that the Red Sox pilot slapped a $250 fine on him. Williams shouldn't worry about the fans. He has been in the big show long enough to have learned that the birds who ride him today will lead the rooters' chorus if he should happen to bust a couple on the nose in the all-important series with the Yanks which opens today.

Girl Pitcher Wins

The C.G.E. Shop League had one for the book last night when the Switchgear called on Norma Strickland, pitcher for the C.G.E. Generals to do the tossing for them against the Wire team. It was the first time on record that a girl player had ever performed in a league that had been strictly a male affair. Norma however got along quite nicely for her team won the argument 15 to 8. She kept the Wire's hits well scattered and incidentally collected two safe blows herself.

Third Victory Of Season For Clockmakers

Westclox won their third game of the season and hung up their second win in succession Thursday night when they smothered Electrics at the Bowl in a Girls' League game by 26 runs to 3. The victory firmly established the Clockmakers in second place, as they suspend activities for a couple of weeks on vacation.

Electrics took the lead in the first inning by pushing a run over but Westclox came back with two in the second and added five more in the next frame. After that it was merely a parade. Mary Larmer on the hill top for the losers didn't seem to have anything in her repertoire to fool the Westclox batters who hit hard and often and in addition the Electrics' defence was shaky and their errors hurt. Audrey Larmer took over the job in the eighth but she too got a hot reception, the Clockmakers chasing five more runs over the counting station with a barrage of six hits. In their last three times at bat Westclox scored a total of 18 runs, getting eight in the sixth, five in the seventh and the same number in the eighth. V. Patterson, Marg. Hawthorne, Marg. Watson and B. Rome led the winners' assault with three hits each.

Marg. Watson did a very effective job of pitching for Westclox holding the Electrics to three hits, two of which came up in the ninth inning and were wasted. Two walks and an error gave the losers their first run in the opening frame and a base on balls and couple of errors accounted for the other pair scored by the Electrics.

Grace Barnes in right field for the losers made some fine catches and M. Killingbeck also starred with a fine grab of a line drive.

Frick Asks Five Saved For Scrap

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 2. — (AP). — Ford Frick, who doesn't mind losing sleep if it will keep his National Leaguers from losing the all-star game, is staying awake these July evenings to think up ways of making baseball's dream game a nightmare for the American League.

The two picked squads of the major leagues will square off at the Polo Grounds for their 10th annual outing at 6:30 p.m. E.D.T. Monday, a shindig in which the president of the National League has a twofold interest.

He would like, probably in the order named (1) to fatten the baseball equipment fund for the armed forces by $100,000, and (2) to flatten the American Leaguers for a good many reasons by any legal method.

"You know, I certainly want to win this ball game and I'll do everything possible to get the strongest team out there," Frick told a group of baseball writers he had gathered about him for the purpose.

"I have asked the managers concerned to rest five pitchers for the two days preceding the all-star game, if possible. Of course, this is a lot to ask because all of the clubs must play four games in those two days, but I've been promised every co-operation."

As for Mort Cooper, the Cardinal ace who seems to be the likely choice to start against the American Leaguers, Frick said he would be able to rest the night before the game in a New York hotel instead of riding a train until a few hours before game time.

Frick has arranged plane reservations, with priority ratings, for all five Cardinal all-stars, who will fly here Sunday night along with Passeau, who will be in St. Louis with the Cubs Sunday.

Moore Showing His Old Form

By The Associated Press

When the New York Yankees sold outfielder Eugene Moore to Montreal Royals of the International League this Spring, it looked like the end of Gene's major league career.

To date his showing in centrefield has been convincing. His batting average is among the leaders and he has batted in more than 50 runs, topping his record last season with Boston Braves.

Moore's organized-baseball career started in 1929 and he has played with Cincinnati Reds, St. Louis Cardinals, Boston Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League and passed through the roster of New York Yankees last winter in a deal with the Braves.

He enjoyed his greatest season while playing with the Braves with whom he performed from 1936-38. Boston sold him to Brooklyn and he played with the Dodgers in 1939 and part of 1940 before returning to Boston, where he ended his National League career in 1941, bowing out with a .272 average.

His value was fully appreciated by the sports writers and radio announcers who picked him as one of the outfielders to represent the north in the International League's first all-star game which will be played at Buffalo next Wednesday night.

Moore will be 32 years old in August.

Only two games were scheduled in the International League yesterday and both were postponed. All teams are scheduled to wing back into action today.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By ROBERT CLARKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 3.— (CP). — Portly Bill O'Brien's appointment as trainer for the National League team in the all-star baseball game recalls one of the many stories that he likes to tell about the star athletes he has handled....Large William always was a top-notcher at the business of handling splints and liniment, probably gaining his greatest renown in the days when he was trainer of Montreal's National Hockey League Maroons... And this story is about fiery Red Dutton, a Maroon stalwart some years ago.

Dutton was always complaining to O'Brien that his skates weren't sharp enough....And finally, even the patient O'Brien could stand it no longer so he decided to see what could be done ....Came the night of the next game and Dutton, after a warm-up whirl, skated over to the boards to register dissatisfaction....So Bill took an ordinary stone that he had picked up on the street out of his pocket, not the usual whetstone used on skates, and pretended to run the stone over the skates....Away skated Dutton, returning a minute later to say "That's the way I like to have my skates sharpened, Bill"....And once O'Brien told the story around the dressing room he heard no more about skate sharpening from Dutton.

There's talk in Winnipeg and at the head of the lakes about the possibility of a junior hockey hookup next winter between Manitoba and Thunder Bay districts....All of which prompts F. W. (Fort William Times-Jouranl) Edwards to note: "As a matter of fact it was recently suggested to us that the Portage La Prairie Terriers, this year's Dominion champions, three teams from Winnipeg, one from Kenora and one from each of the Lakehead cities form a circuit"....Edwards says there isn't any question but what such a proposal would be well received by the centres involved, provided transportation difficulties could be surmounted....He thinks Fort William and Port Arthur will be particularly interested because the question of senior hockey at the Lakehead is so doubtful.

The recent death in Ottawa of Ovide Lafleur prompted Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara to pay the following tribute: "Ovide was one of the most able French Rugby players of all time, in fact one of the greats of the game. Those who claim that French Canadians will not adapt themselves to Rugby should have seen Lafleur in his prime or when he played for Rough Riders"....Harness racing is enjoying a boom in Quebec these days...Kempton Park race track, about 12 miles from Montreal on the south shore of the St Lawrence, has opened its gates again after a long layoff....It was one of the most favored spots for turfmen years ago.

FARLEY SHOOTS FOUR UNDER PAR WITH A 66 TO PACE OPENER

Chalks 14 Pars And Four Birdies, Lamb Runs Second

TORONTO, July 3 (CP)—Along the greens and fairways he first trod as a youngster, Phil Farley will make his bid today for Ontario's highest golfing honors—the Open championship.

The Toronto Scarboro amateur shotsmith launched his challenge yesterday by combing the Cedarbrae course for a 66—four under par—and just one off the competitive course record. In 1940 Stan Leonard of Calgary and Vancouver, playing in the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association tourney, toured the same layout in 65.

Farley, who first played over the Cedarbrae course as a lad of 12, bested a field of 40 pros and amateurs in the opening 18-hole test. If he retains his commanding position in the second 18-hole round today he will be the second amateur champion in the history of the Provincial Open. Henry Martell won the honors at Burlington in 1939.

Bill Lamb, Lambton's professional, chased the youthful Farley in with a 68—the only other competitor to break par figures.

Behind the leaders came Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener's Rockaway, who equalled par with a 70, made up of 37 and 33; Bob Burns, Weston and Dick Borthwick, Oakdale, with 71 and Jim Twiss, former Ontario Junior titleholder with 72.

Burns is the defending champion while Borthwick won the honors in 1936.

Others in the low 70's were Jimmy Johnstone, Rosedale, 74; Jack Littler, Glen Mawr, 75;; Allan Renick Britannia Hotel, 73; Joe Noble, the Elms 75; Bill Kerr, Cedarbrae 74.

Farley and Twiss are the only amateurs amond the leaders.

The Fourth of July fireworks in the major leagues are slated to be ret off at twilight to-night in Fenway Park at Boston where the rocketing Red Sox and the sputtering New York Yankees will collide in the most important series of the midsummer.

A mere three games separate the clubs in the standing and the game at 6 pm. (EWT) to-night and tomorrow's holiday doubleheader will give the Red Sox a chance to move into a tie for the American League lead.

Till yesterday Boston had at least a slender chance of taking over exclusive possession of first place on Independence Day, traditionally the date for tagging pennant winners, but weather kept both clubs idle.

It took none of the lustré away from the Red Sox-Yankee series however, and chiefly furnished a lull during which Manager Joe Cronin fined Slugger Ted Williams $250 and lectured him in front of the entire club for loafing.

The sox have won 20 of their 24 games and Williams presumably chastened and ready to make his bat do his talking they may add additional bruises to the already battered world champions,, who have lost 11 of 17 games, leaving New York nearly three weeks ago. Boston already has won five out of eight games from the Yanks this season.

33,352 For Relief

The Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers, both took advantage of the idleness of New York and Boston yesterday to tighten the boundaries of the first division.

The Indians completed a sweep of their four-game series with the Chicago White Sox last night with a 7-5 triumph before 29,000 fans who turned out at Comiskey Park for an Army-Navy relief affair that netted $33,352.

Lefty Lovill (Chubby) Dean kept the Sox subdued on three hits for eight innings, while the Tribe gave him a 7-1 lead on 13 hits, two by Dean himself, but Chicago rallied for four runs in the ninth and it took two relief hurlers, Joe Heving and Harry Eisenstat, to smother the fire.

This lifted Cleveland with 6½ games of the lead.

Detroit, in fourth place, edged up to 8½ games by beating the St. Louis Browns, 5-4. Big Al Benton obtained his fifth successive victory, but was staggering at the finish. The Browns nailed him for 12 hits, nine of them in the last four innings, and they had the tying and winning runs on base in the ninth before finally yielding.

The Tigers were limited to eight hits, but five of them produced four runs in the sixth inning to provide a cushion for Benton.

In the only game played in the National League the St. Louis Cardinals extended their winning streak to four games by beating the Pittsburg Pirates, 3-1, on the five hit hurling of John Beazley, who had a shutout till the ninth.

Bob Klinger held the Redbirds to one run for seven stanzas, but was forced out by two runs in the eighth.

Birth Of A Baby Is Coming Here

Jim Cameron, of Toronto, was in town conferring with Manager Art Cauley of the Capitol theatre regarding the forthcoming appearance of the American committee on maternal welfare's film "The Birth of a Baby." The film has been booked to play for three days starting on Thursday, July 16. "This is one of the great pictures of today," said Mr. Cameron. "It was not made for the purpose of providing light or any other kind of entertainment. It is important, dealing as it does with something vital in the lives of everyone. It is a stirring dramatization of family life."

The objectives of the picture, which has been sanctioned by Ontario health and film authorities, despite the fact that it was once banned in Canada, are: To reduce maternal and infant mortality and morbidity; to avert fear of child-bearing to prevent abortion; to warn against the dangers of promiscuity; to impress father with their responsibilities, and to present sex in its proper relation to life. It makes a straightforward approach to sex, yet is so well dealt with that it can be witnessed by mixed audiences without embarrassment.

Children will be permitted to see the picture only when accompanied by their parents.

Likely Lineups For The Major League All-Star Show

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, July 3 — (AP). — With some understandable hedging, Joe McCarthy and Leo Durocher disclosed today the probable starting lineups for the major league All-Star show that will be staged in the gloaming at the Polo Grounds, Monday.

Neither manager was able to name his pitcher because of the two days of double-headers that face every club in the big leagues this week-end. But assuming that righthanded hurlers are on the mound at the beginning, the batting orders were announced tentatively as:—

American League.—D. DiMaggio, Boston, rf; Boudreau, Cleveland, ss; William, Boston, lf; J. DiMaggio, New York, cf; McQuinn, St. Louis, 1b; Gordon, New York, 2b; Keltner, Cleveland, 3b; Dickey, New York, c.

National League. — Brown, St. Louis, 2b; Vaughan, Brooklyn, 3b; Reiser, Brooklyn, cf; Mize, New York, 1b; Ott, New York, rf; Medwick, Brooklyn, lf; W. Cooper, St. Louis, c; Miller, Boston, ss.

Mort Cooper, start of St. Louis Cardinals, is almost certain to be the opening pitcher for the National Leafue, and Durocher specified that his younger brother, Walker Cooper, would do his receiving. However, if something should prevent starting the Redbirds' big righthander who has won 11 games and scored six shutouts while losing three contests by one run, Mickey Owen of the Dodgers will be the catcher.

The identity of the American's starting pitcher is a deep-dyed mystery, and the mantle might fall upon almost any one of the nine hurlers on the squad with one of the Yankees, Red Ruffing, Ernie Bonham or Spud Chandler, favored.

Bucky Harris, Washington manager and one of the All-Star coaches, has announced he would save Sid Hudson and since big Al Benton of Detroit worked yesterday, he also is sure to be ready.

Ted Williams Sorry, Joe Cronin Fines Him $250.00

BOSTON, July 3 (AP)—The iron hand of Joe Cronin fell on an apologetic Ted Williams to the extent of a $250 fine yesterday as the exasperated Boston Red Sox manager warned his temperamental slugger that an indefinite benching would be the punishment for his next outburst of tantrums.

Before imposing the fine, the first drastic punishment meted out to Williams since he joined the club in 1939 Cronin gave him a thorough tongue-lashing as he and the other players awaited word of the postponement of today's game with Washington Senators because of weather.

He's "Going Fishing"

Before Williams reported at the clubhouse, he apologized to baseball writers for the loafing and sulky tactics that prompted Cronin to yank him out of yesterday's second game with the Senators.

"I know it was all my fault" Williams told the writers. "Joe did the right thing in taking me out of the game. I'm just childish enough, thick-headed enough and screwy enough to let those wolves in left field get under my skin. What I should do to them is bring out twenty-five pounds of raw hamburg and invite them down to enjoy it."

After being subjected to the Cronin ire, Williams hurried from the clubhouse and, while brushing past photographers said:

"I'm getting out of here quick. I'm going fishing."

Cronin intimated to the baseball writers that Williams would be back in left field tomorrow when the Red Sox who have won twenty of their last twenty-four games and now are only three games behind the New York Yankees, open a three-game series with the champions in a twilight contest.

Fans Have Right to Boo—Cronin

"I fined Williams $250 for loafing during the fifth inning of yesterday's second game," Cronin said. "That's all I have to say about that."

After reviewing the incidents that angered the crowd into jeering Williams—his half-hearted batting attempts in the third and fifth innings—Cronin added:

"Williams said before they can't boo him. Well it's the privilege of the fans who pay their way in to boo anyone they think is not doing his best. If Williams wants to play for the Red Sox, he's going to hustle or he won't be in there."

As was the case after his two previous removals from the line-up for ill-tempered displays, back in 1939, Williams' anger changed to penitence overnight.

"The Yankees are in a hole and I want to be in there against them," he said before he arrived at the ball park. "I want to play and I'll be in there if they let me."

People Will Pay If Gov't. Stops Waste—Fraser

By E. G. SMITH

OTTAWA, July 3.—While it seemed like a fairy tale that Canada could raise $1,481,000,000 this year, or $609,000,000 more than last year, the people were willing to pay it and would pay it to the last cent without grumbling "if the Government gives them a lead and stops waste in Governmental activities," Gordon K. Fraser, Conservative, Peterborough West, told the Commons yesterday in the Budget debate.

Mr. Fraser said that an order for return in regard to the Toronto Shipbuilding Company (the former Dufferin Shipbuilding Co.) and the Dufferin Paving and Crushed Stone Company showed "the shipbuilding company is renting at 25-ton crane from the Dufferin Company at $750 for the first shift per month, plus $375 for the second shift per month, or $1,125 per month.

"That crane, I believe, could be bought to-day, brand new, for $15,000, so that in a year the Government is going to more than pay for it. The 20-ton crane is rented ta $935 for the first shift and $470 for the second shift, or $1,405 per month. The 10-ton crane is rented for $565 for the first shift, $285 for the second, or $850 per month; and the two 7½-ton cranes are rented at $510 each for the first shift and $225 for the second, or $765 per month.

"The Government is paying $4,910 per month to this firm, to the Dufferin Construction Company, which I understand is run by the Franceschini outfit."

Advocating a continuance of the National Housing Act, Mr. Fraser said "I was surprised to see in the paper that the Government had given a permit to the Provincial Government to build at $50,000 home for the Quints. That is not the right thing to do at this time; that is going to mean a large upkeep, and if other people cannot afford it, or if the Government does not want other people to spend money that way, there is no reason why this residence should be built."

Suggests Exemptions

Mr. Fraser suggested insurance premiums on new insurance and Victory Loan purchases should be deductible from the refundable portions of the Income Tax. He complained the Budget still hindered donations to charitable institutions.

"A few weeks ago I heard an announcement on behalf of some finance company. It went something like this: 'Why worry about your income tax? Why not let us look after it.' I believe the Minister should see that these finance companies are not permitted to advertise in this way, because they only encouraged people to spend their money and there must be a day of reckoning. When that day comes, the people have to pay through the nose.

"The taxes affect rich man poor man, beggar man, thief and if this rate of taxation continues a few years there will not be any rich man in this country. Today many men who are in the higher and middle brackets have found in order to adjust themselves to these new taxes and the new modes of living they involve, they have to draw on their capital, and if that state of things continues for a few years we shall have no rich in this country; there will be a wonderful levelling off process" said Mr. Fraser.

Wives Taxed

Even a man's wife was taxed.

"They do not value wives very highly because we are allowed only $150 a year for them. Through the Defense of Canada Regulations even the right of free speech is taken away.

"Today the people of Canada are not only taxed to death but are restricted in every way. With the Defense of Canada Regulations and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, our people are virtually in strait jackets. Some know it and some do not, but eventually they will.

"Those Wartime Prices and Trade Board regulations are regulating the small business man out of business and are depressing the farmer so that he will be deeper in debt at the end of the war than he was before."

Kurk front destroyed several dozen German tanks, 200 trucks and 15 anti-aircraft guns and blew up an ammunition dump," it was announced later. "Soviet planes brought down 20 enemy planes in combat and destroyed five on the ground."

German attacks from Kursk partly with cavalry, were declared by the Moscow radio to have been broken up and halted or thrown back. Three villages were reported retaken by Russian counterattacks.

Soviet troops killed or wounded more than 200 Germans to recapture a height temporarily lost ot the invaders on the Kalinin front, northwest of Moscow, and annihilated about 300 in three days of fighting on a Leningrad sector, a communique said.

Rake Bremen

Cmdr. John Fulton, D.F.C., of Kamloops, B.C., sighted several fighters but was unable to get in any bursts.

Flt. Sgt. Jack Wiggins of Winnipeg and his crew, Sgts. P. H. Rosenberg of Toronto, Ray Woods of Niagara Falls, Ont., and Harvey Powell of Frankfort, Ont., sighted three enemy planes but did not get close.

Another R.C.A.F. squadron led by Wing-Cmdr. J. D. Twigg of Ottawa took part in its third successive big-scale raid without a single casualty although it got a "fair pasting" from flak. Flt. Lt. Gordon Fisher of Regina flew as Twigg's navigator.

Coastal Fields Smashed

Nazi air fields in Belgium and The Netherlands were singled out as the target of other raids and Coastal Command Hudson bombers attacked German shipping off the Dutch coast, it was announced.

The thrust at Bremen was the third following up a mass attack by more than 1,000 R.A.F.—R.C.A.F. planes upon its docks, warehouses, factories, railways and other targets the night of June 26, which followed similar four-figure raids against Cologne and Essen.

(In view of recent estimates that losses in the night raids upon German centres ranged about four per cent, the announcement that 13 bombers are missing would indicate about 325 planes were involved last night.)

been reinforced already had rendered a good account of themselves. More of these weapons are being rushed into action, along with 25-pounders.

More Hun Air Opposition

The R.A.F. and the co-operating United States Air Force, meanwhile, hammered ceaselessly at the enemy ground forces and appeared to be retaining mastery of the skies, although increased German fighter opposition was encountered yesterday.

German bombers struck back with a raid on Alexandria yesterday which the Egyptian government said injured eight persons and caused slight damage.

An announcement said that during the last seven nights airmen had subjected German supply bases and lines of communication to the most concentrated bombardment of the entire North African campaign.

Excellent protection given the bombers by British fighters was said to have made these operations possible.

Despite the gravity of the situation facing Egypt, Cairo itself remained calm. Many persons had feared that if the enemy ever got near the Nile Valley there would be an outburst of fifth column activity with widespread sabotage and possibly fighting in the streets, but these fears have not materialized.

There have been signs of anti-British sentiment by certain elements in Egypt, but there seems less now—certainly far less than last winter when cries of "Long live Rommel" were heard in student demonstrations.

Rommel was 400 miles away then, and now that he is closer most Egyptians apparently are reflecting on what the Germans might do to the country and its food resources if they ever got into the Nile Valley, where 98 per cent. of the population lives.

Some surprising expressions of support for the Allies have come in recent days from Egyptians.

"We like to see the British taken down a few pegs, but not all the way," one Egyptian told a group of British officials.

While the Egyptian army is not fighting in the desert it is performing numerous valuable defence duties in the Nile Valley and the government has acted firmly in support of the war effort by arresting 200 persons for fifth column activities—mostly rumor mongering—in the last two weeks alone.

resolution were introduced yesterday and both were ruled out of order by Speaker Glen. Mr. Roy moved that it was expedient to take steps to secure new sources of oil in Canada. Mr. Lacombe moved that the House declare that compulsory military service would endanger victory by reducing Canadian agricultural production.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government had seen fit to prosecute various newspapers under the Defence of Canada regulations, "and the only reason has been that these newspapers have been criticizing the government in a manner that did not appeal to it."

No Discussion

The government attitude on the investigation into the Hong Kong expedition had been one of preventing discussion in parliament to obviate criticism. This attitude had resulted in refusal to place before parliament the evidence taken by the Commission of Inquiry.

The Defence of Canada regulations, passed under the War Measures Act, had been designed to cover dangerous men and their activities and permit the government to act quickly without having to have recourse to the ordinary means of criminal law.

The regulations gave the government power to proceed against men, no matter how honest their purpose, who said anything the government did not think in the public interest.

"If ever there was a time when the provisions of those sections should not be invoked, it is now and in the trying weeks that are to come," said Mr. Diefenbaker.

Old age pensions should be increased, with provision for the care of unemployables even at the age of 60, said Mr. Isnor.

Mr. Hlynka said the budget underlined the faulty principles of "the outlived financial system," and would encourage study of monetary reform.

Mortgage on the Country

Under the present system the budget represented a mortgage on the nation. The government proposed to pay two per cent on forced loans, and to obtain this interest would tax the same man and pay it back to him. By the people having an investment in the force loans they would almost be compelled to perpetuate the present "debt-creating system."

Mr. Grant said he believed the lower and middle classes, although more heavily taxed, were better off than before the war. Farmers were receiving prices as good as any received between 1920 and 1930.

"My suggestion is that when the war is over the government should continue this taxation for a week or 10 days and build a tunnel from New Brunswick to Prince Edward Island," said Mr. Grant.

Mr. Pouliot said that during the First Great War it had been said that one-third of the moneys voted for it had been stolen, one-third wasted and only one-third spent for real war purposes.

"At that time there were detailed estimates and public accounts," said Mr. Pouliot. "At the present time there are no detailed estimates, and the public accounts give very little information."

Mr. MacInnis said taxes should not penalize people for raising a family. He did not complain of the proposed new income taxes on single persons or married persons without children or with one child, but care should be taken to see family income taxes were not cut unduly.

Sees Farmer the Martyr.

A food production committee, representative of producers and consumers, was advocated by Mr. Rowe. The agricultural economy of the Dominion required organidation and long-range planning. The farmer was likely to be the martyr of a period of inflation.

Men who had invested in feeder cattle were likely to 'take a real trimming' under existing ceiling arrangements. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board, having fixed a ceiling of beef, was reducing it month by month. Prices for the farmer would be reduced as a result.

"The farmers are up in arms because of the novel policies that are carried out by men who are merely theorists without practical knowledge," said Mr. Rowe.

Both Mr Rowe and Mr. Fraser advocated income exemption on new life insurance premiums and on subscriptions for war savings certificates.

Mr. Roy said proposed income tax increases should not be levied so that they would discourage the raising of families.

In Quebec it was often found that in large families of 10, 12 and 15 children that five or six brothers were in the army. This demonstrated the importance of large families to a nation.

"I do not think there is any fairness in taxing the father of 10 or 12 children to within a few hundred dollars of the amount we tax a single man," said Mr. Roy.

He wondered if anything would be left from the large budget requirements to provide for the defence of Canadian coasts.

Cattle Ease $1.00, Sales Slacken During the Week

TORONTO, July 3—(CP)—Cattle prices dropped $1 to $1.50 cwt. and several hundred head were unsold, in trade on the livestock market here this week.

Hogs gained 5 cent cwt. Calves, lambs and sheep were steady.

The cattle run was heavy at the opening but eased off in volume toward the close. Weighty steers closed at $11 to $12 cwt.

Butcher steers were $10 to $11.50 with a few at $13. Heifers sold at $10 to $11.50. Butcher cows were $7.50 to $9.25 with a few up to $9.75. Bulls sold at $9 to $10. Fed calves were mostly $12 to $13 cwt. Stockers opened steady at $12 to $13 for best stock calves with 500 to 700 lb. stockers at $9.50 to $11.50. There were very few sales of stockers after Monday. Good milkers and springers were steady at $115 to $130 each.

Veal calves were unchanged at $14 to $14.50 for choice with common downward to $9. Grassers sold mostly at $6 to $9 cwt.

Hogs closed at $15.65 to $15.75 dressed. Sows were $12 dressed. Feeders sold at $11.50 liveweight with deduction of $2 per head.

Lambs were steady at $16.50 for good quality and at $13 to $14 for culls. Sheep ranged from $4 to $8 cwt. according to quality.

Stoco Yielding Fine Pickerel

TWEED, July 3 — (ENS). — Eighteen pickerel were taken from Stoco Lake over the holiday. It was ideal weather and the lake was dotted with small boats all day. There were also a goodly number of visitors from Toronto, while several American parties spent the day at the lake, enjoying the fishing.

The favorite game fish, the muskie, was also in evidence with seven, weighing up to fifteen pounds being taken from the lake by three American parties.

ESCAPED AND RESCUED

LONDON—(CP). — Four persons adrift in a small fishing sloop escaped from France were rescued by a British minesweeper, the refugees including a 40-year-old Belgian and his financee, formerly a French army nurse, a fisherman and his 16-year-old son.

Concert Is Given At Indian School

A successful year at the Anda-young School for Indian children, at Burleigh Falls, was brought to a close on Friday, when an interesting program was presented for the parents.

Adjutant Norman Buckley, chairman, made a few remarks and the Rev. Mr. Kelly took charge of the closing exercises. The rest of the program was handled by the children.

It has been decided that the Board which began and carried out the work last year, will continue without change for the coming year, with the Rev. Mr. Kelly, who has been appointed for three years, Adjutant N. Buckley, who has two more years to serve, and Mrs. G. K. Fraser who will serve one more year. Miss Edith MacLaren the present teacher will resume her post in September.

There are twenty-five children at present attending the school and much of the program was arranged so that all of them might participate. The program was as follows:

Group of two songs by the school, My Little Buckaroo, I'm a Little Teapot; Sing me a Song of the Saddle, sung by three pupils, harp accompaniment; Coral reading by Class 1, If you were a Pine Tree, 2 Puppy and I; First Aid demonstration, head and hand bandage; Group of four songs by the school, 1 Early One Morning, 2 I had a Little Sailboat, 3 The Laughing Brook, 4 I had a Little Doggie; Hiawatha—two short selections read by the teacher and one of the senior boys. The parts of the "little hunter" and Hiawatha demonstrating his sign language to his "wandering people" acted during the readings by a junior and senior pupil; Nursery Rhyme played and sung by the Rhthm Band; Ninety and Nine sung by two girls from class II.

IF INVASION COMES

LONDON — (CP). — Prisoners serving sentences for civil crimes will be released to help civilians defend towns in the event of an invasion, according to instructions issued by the Prison Commissioners.

AN INDIAN'S LAMB

LONDON—(CP)—Crowds thronging Piccadilly Circus stared in astonishment when an Indian soldier walked calmly along the street with a tiny lamb trotting at his heels. The soldier adopted the lamb when its mother died.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

NON-SUPPORT CASE

A charge against Leon Marsh of failing to support his wife and children was adjourned until next week when called before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

IT WORKED

For the first time the board of directors of Little Lake Cemetery opened the gates of the cemetery and allowed cars to drive through on the Saturday before Decoration Day. More than 1,000 cars passed through at no inconvenience to anyone, and everyone who took advantage of this privilege was careful to observe all the rules, it was stated.

UNSEEN BUT NOT UNSUNG

Pedestrians on Water street below Hunter this morning were somewhat startled on passing a seemingly empty car to hear considerable commotion. It was impossible to locate the exact spot from which the noise was coming, but it appeared to be from the back of the car. The owner had apparently purchased some chickens and left them while he did some other business and the chicks were chirping away as merrily as any song bird.

MORE GIRLS NEEDED

Lions Club of this city wants girls to enter a popularity contest in which the girl selling the most tickets on the Lions Club car wins a diamond ring worth $100. Some have entered but at least 15 more are wanted, and the ones who enter early and get their friends working for them are most likely to collect. There is twenty-five cents profit on every book which the girls keep as well. Entries are being accepted by Bruce Sargent, Great West Life in the Bridgeway Building on Charlotte street.

A HUSKY HELPER

Bruce Sargent, manager of the Great West Life went pitching hay on the holiday. His regular holidays start next week, and it was learned that he has already offered his services in the hay field again for another two days.

GET LONG ADJOURNMENT

In the case of the three young boys, found by police sleeping in an automobile on a used car lot the other night, long adjournments were granted today when the oldest boy appeared in police court and the two younger lads in juvenile court. This course was suggested by Chief Constable Newhall.

A PERFECT SPECIMEN

Jerry Moher of Cleveland, a trouble shooter for the White Motors, has set the pace for the fishermen down at John Rogers camp on Belmont Lake. He was out fishing on Thursday morning with John when a 20-pound maskinonge snapped up his rainbow pikie plug, and there was a nip and tuck battle. It took about 15 minutes to tire the fish, which broke water several times, a somewhat unusual thing for a fish so large. Moher is having the muskie mounted in Peterborough.

RELIC OF THE PAST

Older residents of Peterborough who remember the big excursion steamer the Otonabee when she was the queen of the waters in this district will be interested in a story from Barrie which says that interesting relics of early Lake Simcoe navigation which have turned up at the Barrie salvage depot are the old steel propellers and shafts of the Otonabee. The big steamer after plying the river here for a number of seasons was sold thirty years ago to Barrie interests and was destroyed by fire shortly afterward.

Cop In Search Of Hidden Beer Bitten By Dog Guarding Pups

To be bitten by a dog while searching for hidden beer was the unusual experience of Provincial Constable Price Morris the other night.

The officer had reason to believe that illegally purchased beer was hidden in a McDonnel street residence. After a lengthy search the alcoholic refreshment was found in the cellar and over top of it was a female dog and several pups. Just about this time the dog took a part in the excitement by biting the officer on the leg.

This morning in police court Pte. H. E. Boyneth, a member of the Toronto Scottish in training at the Military Training Centre and Dorothy Tobin, McDonnel street, were both charged with being in possession of liquor not legally acquired on a permit and they were fined $10 and costs when they entered a plea of guilty.

Nancy Leith Is Trophy Winner

Good service to her Examiner customers in the west end, plus real enthusiasm for the cause of Canada's war effort, have again brought Nancy Leith the coveted Gold Trophy given by The Examiner for monthly competition in this self-imposed task of these lively boys and girls who bring The Examiner to almost every house in the city of Peterborough. Nancy Leith of 614 Gilmour street again wins the trophy for selling a grand total of War Savings Stamps amounting to $272.50 during the month of June. This is the second time this young lady has come through with record sales, and this past month's are far ahead of any previous individual carrier's sales for one month. In April Nancy Leith sold stamps to the amount of $268.50 and she beats her own record with sales of $272.50 for June. At a complimentary banquet being given to Examiner carriers on Monday evening next Nancy and her enthusiastic co-workers will be presented with the rewards for such fine work.

Another consistently productive worker in the sale of these War Stamps is Jack Harris, mentioned many times before for his great efforts, but one whose tangible rewards have never been properly equal to the results of his hard work. Jack is not looking for rewards now or at any time, but he has not been richly rewarded for his energetic salesmanship on his south-end route. In second place twice now in monthly totals and weekly prize winner no less than eight times, he is again the runner-up with $120.25 for June. Bill Edgar, also to be presented with his cups and prizes for May on Monday evening, is well up with the amount of $95.00. Very close behind is another girl carrier in East City, Elva Laing, who has appeared here often before. Her total for June was $91.50. George Clark makes a very creditable showing once more with sales of $85.75 Victor Doughty, another regular contributor to the higher brackets, brings $78.00. Donald Pagett, trophy winner of a former month; $60.00, and Keith Orde, winner in March, sold another $51.50. Adrian Langhorne, another south-end boy, sold $31.00, and two others, Cyril Robinson and Ray Douglas, both in the south end, sold $28.25 and $25.75 respectively. Gerald Rose helps considerably with $22.00 and Dan McIsaac with $19.75. Others worthy of honorable mention are Jack Berwick, $18.50; Bob Sugden, $17.75; Gwen Cooper, $16.25; Leonard Moore, $16.00; Dick Fulford, $14.00, and Bertha Bradley, with the smallest route in the city, sold $12.50.

Winners of the weekly theatre ticket prizes for the week ending June 27th were Bill Edgar, winner of The Examiner Trophy for May, whose sales for this week were $72.25. Elva Laing of East City is second again with sales of $46.25.

Horses on Golf Grass

TORONTO, July 3.—(CP)—The golf ball shortage isn't the only thing worrying Ontario's golf clubs. Reports from the Royal Muskoka tell of horses being used to draw mowers because of gasoline rationing and a tractor shortage.

Rambling Reporter

WATCH FOR THIS MUSKIE

Some Rice Lake fishermen is going to get an awful jolt one of these days, for it is possible there is a muskie swimming around down there with a fine looking set of store teeth ready to tackle the tough plug baits. They would be just the thing, for these muskies shed their regular teeth in about a month. Who knows but that this incident may start an entire new market for artificial teeth. It all happened on July 1, when George McGauhey, local carpenter was fishing near Keene. He ate a few peanuts, and when one lodged in his upper plate, George took the plate out, and swished it back and forth in the water. Unfortunately the teeth struck the oar, and away they went into the depths of Rice Lake. If anyone catches a fish with the teeth the local man, claims a priority on the molars for he is at work today, minus an upper plate — McG.

ISN'T IT THE TRUTH

It's poppa who pays every time and this is just one more incident to prove it. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Holden, 482 Driscoll Terrace went fishing over the holiday. Having no car, Mr. Holden rides his bicycle up to where the boat is kept and takes the necessary equipment, while his wife walks. Mrs. Holden was lucky enough, with probably a little help, to catch three nice bass about three pounds each. But when it came time to come home, it wasn't Mr. Holden who took the fish home, but Mrs. Holden proudly carried them all the way with the express purpose of making sure that the neighbors got a good look at them, while poppa pedalled home on the bike with the tackle.—(J.S.)

Hard To Remedy Low Awnings Aldermen Told

Low awnings came under the gun of the City Council on Thursday evening when a deputation from the Peterborough Business Men's Association met the Finance Committee to discuss the question.

The deputation consisted of Dennis Fitzgerald, J. J. Dorris, Coleman Blewett, Jack Lewis, and Chill Turner. Acting as spokesman J. J. Dorris said that a survey had been made and they found the majority of the awnings were from 7 feet to 7 feet 5 inches from the sidewalk. He also stated that the height of the awning was determinedto some extent by a wooden or brick cornice on the building as the awning roller had to be set in below the projection. It was also impossible to shorten the irons holding the awning, and he listed these as difficulties facing the merchants who would try to correct the awnings not conforming with the by-law at the present time.

"Why some of those awnings are only six feet from the sidewalk," Alderman Cotton remarked.

"By the look of some awnings on George Street, it wouldn't hurt a bit to have new ones put up," added Alderman Gordon.

W. F. Huycke, K.C., city solicitor, pointed out that the liability in the event of an accident rested with the owner of the awning.

Ald. Gordon: "The by-law came up before he Police Commission, and is obscure on one point. It is doubtful if a conviction could be recorded."

Ald. Bradburn: "The arms of the awning are often so low they constitute a hazard. Let's revise the by-law to make it workable."

At this point Dennis Fitzgerald read a letter from J. J. Turner & Sons, in which they pointed out that war commitments made it almost impossible for a person to buy new store awnings, that labor was scarce, and that while they wished to co-operate in every way, the war orders had priorities.

Alderman Dutton: "Let's amend the by-law so there will be no doubt as to its meaning."

Alderman Swanston: "You say this by-law was drafted in its present form in 1922. It seems a funny thing to me that we have to wait twenty years to enforce a by-law."

Mayor Hamilton: "Oh, it has come up several times before this."

Alderman Bradburn: "I brought it up in Council to eliminate a hazard. I saw a pedestrian get a nasty bump by walking into one of the low awning supports."

Alderman Cotton: "We will give this matter our earnest consideration; the public must get protection, but we have no desire to impose any additional hardships on the merchants."

On motion of Aldermen Dutton and Swanston, the by-law was referred to the Legal Committee for revision and amendment if they find it advisable.

Heavy Hay Crop At Downeyville

DOWNEYVILLE, July 3— (ENS)—Hayiug has started here and the crop is a very heavy one, but tons will be spoiled of not cut at all as there is no help around. The younger men have all left the farms and there are only elderly men and the children left. If farmers fail to get assistance the grain crop will also suffer. However, there is only a crop this year as help was hard to get when seeding was being done.

Muskie Kills Large Pickerel

There is a maskinonge roaming through the watery depths of Belmont Lake, which makes all lunge to date fit into the minnow class. A story which came from John Rogers' camp on the lake this morning, and vouched for by Mr. and Mrs. Tanner, Buffalo florists, is distinctly an unusual experience.

The Tanners were casting for pickerel on July 1 when a large pickerel broke water, near their boat trying to escape from a hungry muskie which had a tail about ten inches wide. On the first attack the muskie struck the pickerel, but only injured it slightly, then saw the boat and failed to follow up. The Americans tried to pick up the pickerel, but it dove to the bottom again. In a matter of seconds, however, the water was churned once again as the muskie renewed that attack, and this time succeeded in breaking the pickerel's back. The boat came close rather quickly and the big maskinonge dove out of sight, leaving the pickerel squirming on top of the water. Mr. Tanner reached over and flipped the pickerel into his net. Whey they returned to the cottage, they weighed the pickerel and it went 4½ pounds.

The Americans have had good luck, but Mr. Tanner claims tat if anyone hooks this mammoth maskinonge, nothing short of a steel chain will suffice to land it. He estimates its weight at close to fifty pounds.

Artillery Duel Outside Mersa Matruh

A British gun crew is shown in action outside Mersa Matruh. The shell fire in the picture is from the German artillery. British lost Mersa Matruh in the battle for Egypt, but made a stand before El Daba. The battle scene was sent by radio-photo direct from Cairo.

No Builders Want Incinerator Job

Not a single tender has been obtained so far for the superstructure of the proposed incinerator for the City of Peterborough, City Engineer Parsons reported to the Property committee on Thursday evening.

"We are making good progress pouring the foundation and the concrete base for the radial brick chimney, and all of this work should be completed in about a week," he said.

It was also pointed out that time for receiving bids had been extended to July 10, and it was possible that one tender from a local firm might be obtained. Special invitation had been given to local tenders but none could take care of it as their work program was too heavy. There were no out of town bidders.

Alderman Bradburn—"I'd like to know when this man Withers is going to put tarpaulins on the garbage wagons."

Alderman Swanston—"He has had them on order for four months and can't get them because the army demand for canvas is too heavy. Why he even has to take wagon work to Indian River because most of the local blacksmiths have closed up shop and gone into war industries. If the snow doesn't come soon, he won't have any wagons left."

Alderman Glover— "We have to put up with some inconvenience, and right now, it is a matter of just waiting until the tarps are available."

The committee endorsed a plan of tearing down old houses owned by the city, instead of selling them This applies to a house on Sophia street. It was decided on motion to give the tenants notice to vacate, and demolish the house.

LAC Hallihan And Frank McAuley Meet for First Time In Cairo, Egypt

That it is a small world is the conclusion reached by two men from the Peterborough district, Frank McAuley, brother of Rev. Father John V. McAuley, Campbellford, and LAC Hubert Hallihan, son of Oscar Hallihan of the Department of National Revenue in Peterborough, who met recently in Cairo, Egypt, quite by accident.

Frank McAuley is an oil driller with the Standard Oil Company and has been in Turkey since September, 1939. On his way to New York his boat docked at Cairo, and he fared forth in search of a restaurant. After he finished his meal, he had just left the building when a young man attached to the R.A.F. came up to him and asked him if he knew Cairo and if he could direct him to a Catholic Church. Mr. McAuley said that he was going to one himself, so the two joined forces.

In the course of conversation, he questioned the airman as to where he hailed from, and the young man said "Canada," and upon further questioning amplified it by saying "near Toronto," and finally said "Peterborough." Then the tongues did fly. LAC Hallihan asked Mr. McAuley to tell his father that he was fine, but that he had received no mail for eight months.

Continuing his journey from Cairo, Mr. McAuley travelled on a small Dutch steamer with a few hundred Jewish refugees round the Cape of Good Hope. On the way home he saw eight ships which had been sunk by a submarine, but said they were lucky and didn't catch even a glimpse of a sub.

At Trinidad he said that about half the refugees, who had no passports, disembarked there with a hope of reaching and crossing the Mexican frontier. The rest took a chance and continued on to New York.

Mr. McAuley has been visiting the different members of his family in this district for the past few weeks, and at present is near his old home at Wooler.

9 Per Cent. in Army

AYR, Ont., July 3.—(CP)—For a small village, Ayr has done big things in the way of enlistments. Almost nine per cent of the population is now serving with some of the armed services. Brian Jones, one of the first to enlist, lost his life at Dunkirk.

War—25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

JULY 33, 1917—Third contingent of United States troops arrived in France. Germany artillery bombarded French positions north of St. Quentin on the left bank of the River Meuse. Argentine government demanded apology from Germany for sinking of merchant ships.

Convent Girls Make $35 For War Victims

From the girls of St. Mary's Convent has come a nice donation of $35 to help the victims of air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund. To them goes the whole credit, for they themselves made an afghan which in itself for young folk great credit is due, and they sold tickets to the value mentioned above which is listed in today's receipts for the fund. The lucky winner of the afghan was Mrs. Bert McLeod of Charlotte street. Only recently these same girls collected $36 for the Red Cross, and this dual result of their work on behalf of the fund deserves a real pat on the back. Well done, girls.

In a lovely spot on the lawn at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. McIntyre, 157 Crescent street, opposite Little Lake, their two children, Elva and Hugh, held a bazaar on Tuesday afternoon, with a variety of goods, such as orange and lemonades, home-made cookies and candies of various kinds to make the nice sum of $8.00 for the fund. These children have got away to an excellent start for their holidays, pleasure always is much sweeter when preceeded by such work to do some good for others.

One personal donation of $5.00 is listed, and there was every reason to indicate that its giving entailed quite some sacrifice to help others who have suffered so much from air raids over Britain.

New Treasurer

Ever since the fund commenced operations on Dec. 5, 1940, D. B. Falkner of the Canadian Bank of Commerce has acted as treasurer, receiving the daily deposit from the secretary of the fund, which has been made every day the bank is open for business since that time.

Mr. Falkner has now retired on superannuation from the post of manager, and for some time at least will be away from the city, and under these circumstances has retired from the post of treasurer which he filled so happily and well, and the fund management wishes to record its deep sense of appreciation for the part he played in the affairs of this worthy humanitarian effort on the part of the residents of the city and district to help the people of Britain. John E. Keyes, who has assumed the position of manager in Mr. Falkner's stead, has enthusiastically undertaken the office of treasurer for the fund as from July 1, and as such has been registered with the War Charities Board at Ottawa under the provisions of the registration of the fund.

Tricky Job

GUELPH, Ont., July 3.—(CP)—Police here didn't appreciate the meaning of light-fingered until they were called to investigate the theft of nearly a dozen 200-watt bulbs from a grandstad at Exhibition Park. They said thieves risked death in climbing high steel girders to take the lights.

City Awaiting Permit For Road Oil

Piling up of work and a growing shortage of labor loomed as further obstacles to the annual program of the Board of Works committee of the City Council as it met on Thursday night to deal with the accumulating problems.

The request from the residents of Fleming Place, that this street which is a privately owned lane, be treated to eliminate surface water in thaw season and after heavy rains was blocked because of the fact that the city has no jurisdiction over the property. Seven houses face this street. City Engineer Parsons presented a report to the committee in which he pointed out that the cost of a storm drain would be $270, and the cost of resurfacing the street would be $447.

Mayor Hamilton—"We can't touch this job, there is too much work ahead."

Alderman Sullivan—"Why not get the assessment on this property and deal with the entire problem then?"

Alderman Gordon—"What bearing has the assessment on the problem, we cannot spend the citizen's money to fix up private lanes."

It was decided on motion of Aldermen Glover and Sullivan that the citizens on this street be notified of the cost of the work, and the inference was left that if they decided the work was essential, then they would have to pay for it themselves.

Drainage Problem

A drainage problem on Monaghan Road between King and Bolivar streets precipitated quite a discussion. It seems that the ratepayers on the east side of the street are requesting that something be done to prevent flooding of their property with water from the west side.

"Why not raise the sidewalk on the east side," queried Mayor Hamilton.

"That would be perfectly feasible but the property owners object," City Engineer Parsons replied.

"The Suburban Road Commission has some say in this road, let us refer the matter to them," said Alderman Gordon.

On motion of Aldermen Sullivan and Cotton, it was proposed that Mr. Parsons bring in a report on the cost of raising the sidewalk and that he also confer with the Suburban Road Commission as to its part of the project.

The original petition had asked for a curb and gutter and Mr. Parsons reported that a new drain would cost $160 and a new road surface would cost $1500.

Roadway at C.G.E.

On motion of Aldermen Gordon and Swanston it was decided that the Board of Works undertake work amounting to $250 as the city's share of improvements necessary to the crossing in front of the main C.G.E. gate. Requests from Mr. Lucano on Aylmer street and Mr. Logan on Armour Road asking for slight changes in the sidewalk and driveway, were approved.

Mr. Parsons reported that so far the Oil Controller had not given the city a permit to purchase road oil, and that the quantity asked for had been cut in two. It was expected the permit would be available in the near future.

The committee dealt with a letter from the Board of Education approving the school area signs which had been set up, but expressed regret no action could be taken on the question of making Monaghan Road a through street. The Board had asked for special consideration before this was done because it increased the traffic hazard to school children of the two west ward schools. Unfortunately by the time the letter was received Monaghan Road had been made a through street north to Charlotte, and north from Charlotte, so that it might serve as a trunk artery to relieve rush hour factory traffic.

Tedford Reunion Is Held At Young's Point

A jolly crowd gathered on P. P. Young estate at Young's Point July 1st for the annual Tedford re-union. All who can, come in the morning, prepared to stay until evening. All were very thankful to those responsible for the many long tables with seats, which were very much more comfortable at meal time than getting down on the grass, but even so, the tables overflowed on to the grass and many table cloths had to be spread there before all were really seated ready to partake of the sumptuous dinner, at which 137 sat down.

The booth was a very popular place all day long, especially with the younger folk. Each year there is a book at the booth for all to register in, so that some idea is had of the number present. Another interesting feature is a large scrap book in which have been pasted choice snapshots of former re-unions. This year there is a new page where one finds the pictures of the boys who are in uniform in different parts of Canada and in Englanl.

During the day softball was played by both boys and girls, also football and horseshoes.

Shortly after dinner the following program of sports was much enjoyed by old and young alike.

Girls under 5 — Myrna Payne, Nancy Little.

Boys under 5—Bobbie Dubay, Neil Lloyd.

Girls 10 and under—Ann Richardson, Marie Fawcett.

Boys 10 and under—Kenneth Fife, Clare Millage.

Vice President's Team Wins

J. L. "Girvie" Girven and his team of par punchers shot their way through for a win over Ed. "Men's Wear" Riley and his team in the President vs. Vice President match at the Kawartha Golf and Country club on Dominion Day. This is one day of the year when the members are really the guest, and the President and his Vice pay the shot. Refreshments for everybody and everyone throws their thoughts of war and trouble to the winds.

Stan Whiddon, the little giant of Kawartha, came through with a beautiful gross 77 to lead a large field of divot diggers. Next was Fraser Dunfield, just home from holidays and a bit rusty with a nice gross 80, nice rust, eh.

The net winners were paced by Ken. Wood with a two under par 69. Read closely Lionel Browne, and sharpen up the handicap axe. Ken is only a second year man at golf and gives promise of fast becoming the Ben Hogan at Kawartha. Hap. Wilgar hit old man par between the eyes with a bulls-eye net of 71, to take the prize for second place. On the Vice-President's side C. Cavely and C. Selkirk won first and second net with scores of 72 and 73.

Bob. Hay won the hidden holes competition on the side of the President, Stan Adamson winning on the Vice President's side. Two of the many highlights of the day should be mentioned here. On the second hole, Girvie looking very much like the King of Swat pummeled the little white pill right down the middle of the fairway for a record run of 325 yards. He claims the extra steam was accumulated from reading the new income tax laws.

The second is Archie Hood's 30-foot putt on the second green. That must have been quicksilver in Archie's glass.

The results for the day:

E. Riley 0, vs. J. L. Girven 0.
A. McGregor 0, vs. D. Hunter 2.
A. Drynan 0 vs. R. McKimmie 0.
D. R. McGregor 0, vs. A. Jones 0.

K. Wood 0 vs. V. Gallon 0.
K. Smylie 0 vs. V. Gallon 3
H. McGougan 3, vs. J. B. Betts 0.
Total—Presidents 18; Vice Presidents 19.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

There were so many interesting and well played games that we doubt if we will be able to cover them all properly. It mattered not what game you were watching, there was something happening nearly every end or two. We'll start off with the Chesler-Harrison game. A rattling good game—good bowling—with Jim being a little generous on a couple of ends. On the last end Chesler was lying the possible eight when Jim played his last bowl, but he finished up with only two. The Chesler boys are still leading the parade.

The defeat of R. F. Downey in another well played game knocks him out of a tie for second place, down to third position.

Another game that was not decided until the last end was the Gimblett-Coleman Sr. affair. This keeps the Gimblett rink in a tie for second place with R. Payne. This game was featured by some real fine running shots by both skips. At one time it looked as if the curfew law would have to be enforced. The Payne-Freeman game was good for about half way and then somebody pulled the switch and Rufus & Co. still are tied for second place with G. Gimblett.

Bob Hendry's boys pushed Ernie Wall's ring one rung further down the ladder and they are now out of third position. The 'Wee MacGregor' played a hundred per cent. game and deserved the win.

The Barns-Renaud game was a hard fought one. Tied about three times, but Charlie made a good try on the last end but was just a little narrow.

The Lang-Routley game and the Coleman Jr. and Williamson game were the only ones that were never in doubt. Their scores would bear out that statement, just an off night, as it were.

Remember the men's tournament tonight at 7.30 o'clock. Everything else the same as usual. Peterborough is not the only place where eight ends are scored. Somebody page Geo. Gimblett.

This one is too good to keep. It was during the Chesler-Harrison game. Ed. Coleman who plays vice for Jim Harrison had just delivered his bowl, and as Ed. walked down the green Jim says: "A good bowl Eddie, well played, but you were just a little heavy for your weight".

Still Think the Ace Champion Stuff

WINNIPEG, July 3.—(CP)—Joe Ryan, sports columnist of Winnipeg Free Press, commenting yesterday on the Western triumph over Harry Giddings' Eastern champion, Ten to Ace, in the Canadian Derby, termed it "a sort of hollow victory."

Ten to Ace, odds-on favorite, finished last against five Western horses in the mile and a quarter race at Polo Park, while Maginot Line, owned by Dr. L. H. Appleby of Vancouver, captured the $5,000 added feature:

Ryan wrote in his column:

"Few that saw that race Wednesday came away other than convinced that something had gone wrong. Ten to Ace started out like the champion. We still think he is. Perfect running style and sheer class shoved him out to the front in the early stages, and before the mile was reached many thought he would win by a furlong or more..."

"In our book, he's still a great horse—better than anything running Wednesday...Harry Giddings, good sportsman he is, refused to offer a sign of an alibi for Ten to Ace's showing. We don't think he needs to."

Columnist Herb Manning of Winnipeg Tribune wrote:

"There are two separate theories on the outcome of the race. The first, advanced by those who watched The Ace in training for the

Surprise Party Is Enjoyed By All

GILMOUR, July 3—(ENS). — A surprise party was held at S.S. No. 2, school on Wednesday evening in honor of the teacher Miss Harding, who is leaving. The evening was pleasantly spent in games under the direction of Mrs. Roland Scott, Mrs. Lorne Reynolds and Miss Dorothy Clarke.

Later Miss Harding heard Mrs. Lorne Reynolds read an appropriate address and Dorothy Clarke presented her with a beautiful table lamp. Miss Harding in a few well chosen words thanked everyone. Lunch was served by the ladies.

Festival Enjoyed

The annual strawberry festival of Gilmour church was held, Friday night with a splendid attendance. The play "Only Sally Ann" was put on by the Springville young people and added to the fun. The proceeds for the evening amounted to over $125.00.

The newspaper is an educational force Through its News columns, its advertisements and its features it enlightens and informs its readers

Young Monte Randall is getting along all right in his job. He's had a couple of promotions and the salary increases that go along with them. He's a nice chap and it isn't hard to understand why he does "get along" in his job. He's so vitally interested in everything, likes to discuss world events and scientific progress and the changes in clothing fashions and books and plays and a lot of other things. He's surprisingly well-informed on a lot of subjects, and he really keeps up with the things that are going on around him. Just an average young fellow who reads his newspaper.

Mail's More Important Than Rations To Morale

Officers serving in the Western Egyptian desert have placed the mails ahead of meals in order of importance to their men's well-being. It is a well known fact that many a soldier would far sooner miss rations than the call "Mail's In."

The mails have been called a nation's life stream. In maintaining, despite war conditions, the flow of both civil and military mails, our postal service is filling a vital role in our national war effort.

In the larger sense, the chief contribution of the Canadian Post Office to the welfare of the Canadian Army, air force and navy must be considered the value of its services in helping maintain morale by keeping those at home in touch with the boys overseas.

Keeping our fighting men happy and contented through messages from home depends largely upon how often their relatives and friends write to them. Too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the tonic value of frequent, cheerful and newsy letters—tobacco, cigarettes—and parcels of comforts.

The maintenace of postal services to our armed forces calls for a highly specialized organization and scientific planning. At the head of the Canadian Post Office Department is the Honourable William P. Mulock, K.C., M.P., who is keenly conscious of the value of mail service to men on active service.

Postal Corps Big Factor

In speaking of the Post Office Department's relation to the war effort, special mention must be made of the Canadian Postal Corps— a branch of the Canadian Army which provides postal service to the army and air force.

Mobilized at the outbreak of war, with headquarters in Ottawa, the Corps has been rapidly expanded in keeping with the growth of our forces. Its members are mostly volunteers from the ranks of the executive of the department and from post offices throughout Canada. Members of the Corps are serving both in this country and overseas. In Canada the chief activity is the operation of the Base Post Office and Sub-Base Post Office, as well as field post offices. Overseas it provides postal service to the Canadian Army and the Royal Canadian Air Force

All mail addressed to the Canadian Army overseas is concentrated at, and despatched by, the Base Post Office Canada; the mails for soldiers and airmen serving in Canada being transmitted to the camps by the civil postal service. Some idea of the growing task which confronts the Canadian Postal Corps at the Base Post Office in "keeping the mails coming" as the boys overseas request, is seen in the figures given for a recent normal week when: 300,000 letters, 47,000 ordinary parcels, 35,000 tobacco parcels and 50,000 lbs. of newspapers and magazines were despatched overseas.

Sorted By Units

Systemized treatment is given the mails to ensure rapid delivery and a method of "unit" sortation operates at the Base Post Office. By this method letters addressed to men in the unit are separated, tied together, labelled and placed in the same bag, which bears that unit's address. The bag is sealed and the seal is not broken until after delivery is made overseas.

A contribution, to the advantage of the men overseas, was made by Hon. Mr. Mulock in the introduction of a special system for handling tobacco gifts ordered through tobacco companies. Following a special survey, he instituted what is in effect a system of hand-to-hand registration for all tobacco parcels. These are now checked, listed and bagged under the supervision of postal authorities at the factories; relisted, given unit sortation, numbered and checked and placed in the unit bag along with a list of contents at the Base Post Office. The bag is sealed and delivered, seal unbroken, overseas.

Space forbids a detailed account of all the postal concessions to our armed forces. Free mailing privileges have been granted our armed forces overseas mailing letters to Canada through a Canadian Field Post Office or aboard H. M. or Allied ships. This privilege now includes the United Kingdom, Newfoundland and Jamaica.

Special reduced rates have been extended to facilitate the sending of parcels to our armed services overseas, including men of British, Empire or Allied Forces.

Letters By Photo

Advantage has been taken of air transportation to expediate correspondence to the fighting services abroad, as is seen in the inauguration of the Airgraph System last November. By this system photographic negatives of original messages are made in miniature film, flown to the United Kingdom where enlargements are made, placed in envelopes and delivered. Just recently the Postmaster General reduced the fee on airgraphs to our armed services to 6c from 10c and extended the use of this facility for correspondence to civilian addresses in the United Kingdom.

The inception of the Armed Forces Air Letter Form in June, 1942, placed an economical air mail service at the disposal of Canadians writing to members of the fighting forces stationed at any point in the world—the postage free being only 10c.

Remittance by mail to the overseas forces has been greatly facilitated and money orders from Canada to them are transmitted by air mail without extra cost to sender. Free redirection has been allowed on parcels mailed to soldiers serving in Canada. The Post Office has collected tens of thousands of books, handed in unaddressed at postal wickets, for the use of our men in Canadian and Newfoundland Camps.

A LETTER FROM HOME IS A BIG EVENT TO A SOLDIER

GERMAN GRATITUDE

LONDON—(CP).—A secret Belgian newspaper reports that George Beckers, a Belgian officer decorated in the First Great War for saving two German children from drowning, has been shot after six months imprisonment for attempting escape to England.

Camouflage

KHAKI, the name which unofficially at least has been used to describe all the drab and grey-green uniforms in British armies, has its origin in "khak," a word of the East Indian Urdu language meaning dust.

The color, which makes the soldier hard to distinguish from the natural background of scenery, was apparently first used by the Guides, a mixed regiment of troops, in India about 1848. During the Indian Mutiny 1857-8 most British troops wore the color and it was also general in the South African War.

Progress Made In Civil Medicine Has Worked Many Changes In Care Given In Armed Forces

Health of the Canadian soldier is of paramount importance. Responsibility for the physical well-being of our fighters rests with Brigadier R. M. Gorssline, director-general of medical services.

The activities of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, which he commands, extend through all branches of the army, and stand guard over the soldier; examining, inoculating, diagnosing, treating, advising his Commanding Officer, or protecting his health both mental and physical from the day he enlists to the day he is discharged.

Varied Activities.

These activities fall roughly into four main groups:

(1) The setting up of physical standards and the organization of medical boards for screening our defective recruits and soldiers who become unfit.

(2) The care of the sick and injured both in Canada and overseas, and the preservation of accurate professional medical records.

(3) The collection, evacuation and treatment of the wounded and sick from battle areas. In this connection the Medical Corps plays a large part in the provision of reinforcements by the speedy treatment of the ill and casualties, rendering many of them rapidly fit for combat duty again.

(4) The prevention of unnecessary wastage from disease by advising the army command with regard to matter of hygiene and sanitation.

The Medical Corps fits its arrangements into he general plan for the army and its personnel are sometimes spread out thinly to attend the smallest detachment in the farthest outpost, and at other times are congregated in detachments, Casualty Clearing Stations, Field Ambulances and Hospitals under the command of a Medical Officer.

Some hospitals are small and some are large, comparing favourably with our large civilian institutions. They have the best medical equipment and batteries of highly quaified specialists on the staff. Special units are also formed such as Field Hygiene, Sections, Mobile Field Laboratories, Field Transfusion Units, Mobile Bath Units, special Hospitals, Motor Ambulance Convoys etc.

Administration.

The administration of the Medical Corps, with its multitudinous special technical activities, and its widely scattered individuals, detachments and units, lays a heavy burden of responsibility on the Directorate. As many armies have been defeated by disease and ill health as by the enemy.

The Director on whose good judgment the health of the troops depends has a deputy and a staff of six assistant medical directors, each in charge of a phase of Medical Corps work, and consultants in medicine, surgery, X-ray, etc. whose advise in special matters.

Assistant medical director 1 is responsible for handling the personnel of the Corps. The problem of obtaining doctors, never too plentiful in times of peace, has become quite serious since the war. The medical profession has responded magnificently, but there is need of more and more medical officers as our army grows. Approximately 20 per cent. of the 11,000 doctors in Canada have rallied to the colours, but the army will still require some 600 to 700 during the coming year and could use over 300 immediately in Canada and overseas.

Hospitalization

Assistant medical director 2 handles the problems of physical standards, medical care of troops including hospitalization, medical boards and statistics. This is a tremendously busy department and as a rough guide to the amount of work performed, it is stated that 100,000 patients were treated in hospitals in Canada alone during the past year.

Assistant medical director 3, sees to it that the best of drugs, medical supplies and equipment are provided for the care of the troops, whether at a regional outpost in a battle area, or a ship at sea or in a hospital in Canada.

Assistant medical director 4, is in charge of the Nursing Service.

Assistant medical director 5, has the important function of advising on all matters of hygiene and sanitation. Here activities of the medical corps are paramount in the prevention of outbreaks of contagious disease. Constant study is made in this department of new vaccines, toxoids and sera for rendering our soldiers resistant to smallpox, typhoid fever, tetanus (lock jaw), cholera, yellow fever and other diseases.

The combination of typhoid vaccine and tetanus toxoid in a single inoculation has been a great step forward during the present war.

Assistant medical director 6 arranges medical care of troops on embarkation and debarkation. It is largely due to this department that there have been no serious outbreaks of contagious disease on troop transports proceeding overseas, and that there have always been plenty of qualified medical officers and medical supplies when accidents or sirkness occured on the ships.

Consultants

The consultants attached to the Directorate advise on matters pertaining to clinical medicine and surgery, equipment, new procedures and research. The radiological consultant deals largely with X-ray equipment and advises on the X-ray surveys of all recruits. This survey, worked out in connection with the medical consultant, has been one of the greatest practical medical advances during the present war.

Research is carried on under the direction of the consultants in chemical warfare and in matters of importance to army medicine and hygiene.

The department of Food Supply and Conservation deals with diets and food supply for the military hospitals. A schedule of diets has been drawn up which fulfils all the bodily requirements of calories, vitamins and minerals for the sick and for relatively healthy convalescents.

The military administration is divided into eleven (11) Districts. Previous to this conflict, the Canadian Medical Services were personnelled by a very small staff, which had to be augmented on the event of hostilities.

War Expansion

When war was imminent, arrangements were made to provide for the examination of a large number of recruits and to further carry on other necessary medical care and prevention of disease, sanitation, etc.

Medical science has advanced so much in recent years that provisions not heretofore largely in force, had to be provided. Arrangements had to be made for the boarding of recruits; the prevention, and the care, of disease and injury; the medical provisions of the Military Service Act; the re-examinations with inauguration of X-ray of the chest; reboarding for classification for category and discharge; care of invalids returning from overseas; hospital ships and trains.

Best Doctors

Care was taken that the best professional men obtainable were selected for the various medical units and duties. It was seen, too, that each unit had its proper proportion of specialists and that they were specialists. Some of the most brilliant and best qualified of Canadian specialists are already serving in the active army, and at considerable personal sacrifice.

Early in 1939 a Consultants Branch of the D.G.M.S. Directorate was organized composed of highly qualified officers of outstanding abilities in their various specialties. Among the many problems studied were—blood transfusions; forms of therapy; facial and plastic surgery; selection of equipment and supplies; standards of physical fitness; new methods of treatment; X-ray examinations; psychological tests, etc.

The consultants have a close liaison with the National Research Council of Canada, Canadian Medical Association and other scientific bodies.

Amongst other provisions, training of officers was arranged, and lectures were planned on military aspects for the professional man. An R.C.A.M.C. Advanced Training Centre was established to provide training of officers and other ranks for re-inforcements. All medical officers without previous R.C.A.M.C. qualifications have to attend this course for qualification, which is an intensive one.

Military Medal Given For Bravery In Ranks

The Military Medal, awarded to non-commissioned officers and men of the army for individual or associated acts of bravery in the field, was instituted by King George V in 1916.

It is a silver medal with the royal effigy on the one side and the words "For Bravery in the Field" encircled on the other.

The ribbon is dark blue with three white and two crimson stripes alternating in the centre.

The medal may be awarded to women for devotion to duty under fire. Although warrant officers class one and two were not eligible for the award of the Military Medal when it was first instituted they can now receive it under the same conditions as N.C.O.'s and men.

$8,840 for Softeners

PRESTON, July 3—(CP).—Hard water isn't making things any softer for Preston taxpayers, reports F. O. Pelz, chairman of the Water and Light Commission. He estimates that water softening material used annually here may run as high as $8,840 for the town or $5.20 for each consumer.

Various Types Of Training At Canadian Centres

Kingston Is The Headquarters Of M.D. No. 3

KINGSON, June 27. — To many passersby "Headquarters —Military District No. 3," is just a large, pre-war estate converted to military use, or a familiar phrase appearing frequently in the papers and on public lips, vaguely connected with the war.

Most people have heard it, a lot have seen it but few understand its full significance — the wide, complicated field of administration it covers in the war effort.

Lying on the first reaches of the mighty St. Lawrence, Headquarter's roots are firmly entrenched in the rich, historic soil made famous by the United Empire Loyalists. It ranks as one of the oldest settled (regions) of Canada, with a large percentage of native-born citizens of sturdy British heritage and traditions of loyalty.

A Nerve Centre.

Just as the brain is the control centre for the rest of the body, so is this Headquarters on the outskirts of Kingston, the nerve centre of Military District No. 3.

As all our impulses are prompted and controlled from the brain cells, so are all the activities concerning military matters dealt with by a carefully selected staff of personnel, under the leadership of Brigadier F. Logie Armstrong, O.B.E., District Officer Commanding.

Probing out from this focal point, M.D. No 3 covers a wide area of Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec, spreading to the westward along Lake Ontario to Bowmanville, North to Noranda in Quebec, South-East to where the Quebec-Ontario border touches the St. Lawrence and West again to Kingston.

In contact with this large area at all times, are the experienced feelers or keen, able staff officers who advise, under the supervision of the District Officer Commanding, about the many military problems that crop up in the moulding of Canada's Army.

Good Leaders

It is an accepted fact that Military District No. 3 has been exceedingly fortunate in the calibre of its leaders.

Due to far-sighted administration by Brigadier Armstrong and his predecessors, this district is highly regarded as a model of co-operation in all military efforts and undertakings connected with the war.

Just what M.D. No. 3 composed of?

First, its headquarters is located in the Limestone City of Kingston —famous for industry, ship-building and soldiering.

Kingston, for year has been a city of soldiers, a garrison town in the truest sense of the word. Even in peacetime the mere mention of the name implied things military—Royal Military College, whose officers are serving all over the Empire, and in the present conflict offering its abundant capacities and fine traditions to advance the training of Canada's senior officers.

Barriefield Common and Vimy—the gathering place for years past of men in khaki, men who realized that some day Canada's Militia might have to form the nucleus of a great fighting machine, in a struggle against despotism and enslavement.

There are many others—the old stone forts in and around the City, that carry the limestone community back into the pages of history, where solid foundations for its present place as Headquarters, Military District No. 3, were cemented.

The staff of this capable military centre consists of senior and junior officers, occupied in widely diversified branches of the service, united in the common effort of providing leadership for all military activities in the district.

Under these officers is a large, competent staff of other ranks running from Private to Regimental Sergeant-Major and civil servants. They are responsible for the general office routine—the reams of typing, filing, and hundred and one other minor but co-related tasks.

In brief—District Headquarters, with all its complexities, is really the hub around which the wheel of military activity turns. The spokes radiate out, connecting with District Depots, Active and Reserve Units, Training Centres and other phases associated with military affairs.

Many Responsibilities

The branches under its control include Supply and Transport which provides food and transport for the soldier; pay—one of the prime requisites to the boys in khaki; engineers — responsible for construction, maintenance and repair; medical; intelligence; audit; auxiliary services — entertainment

Headquarters Staff Of Canadian Provost Corps

Responsible for the orderly bearing and conduct of Canadian soldiers when away from their stations, the Canadian Provost Corps is an important branch of the army. Here are the corps headquarters staff. LEFT to RIGHT, R. B. Morison, quartermaster; Lieut.-Col. G. T. Goad, assistant provost marshal; Col. F. A. Piuze, provost marshal, and Capt. A. H. Fitzgerald, adjutant. Col. Piuze is a veteran of the last war who, in years of peace, became interested in prison reform and the rehabilitation of the criminally inclined. He is a former warden of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, and a former commissioner of the Quebec Provincial Police. (Canadian Army Photo)

Preserving Strawberries By Using Corn Syrup

By MARY MOORE

The research work on preserving strawberries has taken longer than we expected. Now it is finished and we are ready to announce some highly satisfactory results.

NOTE: These recipes should be clipped and filed for they represent weeks of research work on strawberries alone.

Strawberries can be canned, preserved, or made into jam. jelly or conserves by the use of syrups made with corn syrup and sugar.

These findings will have some far reaching effects because we feel that the flavor of all these products has been improved.

Corn syrup enhances the strawberry flavor. Instead of being merely a sweetener as sugar is, corn syrup serves to improve the flavor of the finished product.

There is no chance of our corn syrup supplies being rationed because corn syrup is an all-Canadian product. There's comfort for you.

In the jam, jelly and conserve we recommend the use of pectin crystals (certo crystals). This product is made by the same company who manufacture the commercial liquid pectin with which we are familiar—but the liquid pectin provided additional water which reduced the jellying power of the completed product. We give you this explanation in case you are tempted to try the liquid pectin with which you are so familiar—if you do the product will not "jell" as well.

One quart of strawberries weighs a pound or slightly over when purchased.

For canning and preserving you may use ½ lb. sugar to each pound of strawberries.

For jams, jellies and conserves you may use ¾ lb. sugar to each pound of strawberries.

Canned Strawberries:

Six boxes strawberries 3 cups granulated sugar, 9 cups corn syrup. Wash berries well and remove hulls. Put berries, sugar and corn syrup in preserving kettle, mix gently and bring to boiling point as fast as possible over hot fire. Boil 6 minutes, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking. Pour into sterile jars with sterile rubbers and tops and seal. When cool invert jars for 24 hours. Store in cool, dark place.

Strawberry Preserves:

Four boxes strawberries, 5 1-3 cups corn syrup, 4 cups sugar, 4 tablespoons lemon juice. Wash berries well and remove hulls. Place in kettle with the corn syrup, stirring well. Bring to boiling point quickly and boil hard 5 minutes. Then add the lemon juice (the lemon juice recommended in any of these strawberry recipes keeps the color bright) and boil 8 minutes longer, stirring frequently. Pour into sterile jars and cover with sterile rubber rings and tops and seal. When cool, invert for 24 hours. Store in cool, dark place.

Strawberry Jelly:

Three quarts ripe berries, 3½ cups corn syrup, 4½ cups sugar, 1 2-3 cups pectin crystals (certo crystals), 3 tablespoons lemon juice, ¾ teaspoon butter. Mash berries very well and stir in pectin crystals. Bring to boiling point quickly and boil hard for 1 minute. Add the sugar and corn syrup and boil hard for 2 minutes longer. Strain through fine sieve. Boil the strained jelly ½ minute, then pour into sterile jelly glasses and cover with melted paraffin immediately, adding a second coating when jelly is cold. (Makes 9 6-ounce jars.)

Strawberry Jam:

Six quarts strawberries 4½ cups sugar, 4½ cups corn syrup, 1½ cups pectin crystals (certo crystals), 6 tablespoons lemon juice (to keep strawberry color bright), 1½ teaspoons butter. Mash berries, with potato masher until all berries are crushed and add pectin crystals. Boil fast one minute then add corn syrup and sugar, lemon juice and butter and boil hard three minutes. Pour into sterile jam jars and cover with paraffin immediately, adding a second coating when cold. Store in cool, dark place.

Strawberry Conserve:

Six cups sliced strawberries, 3 cups corn syrup, 1½ cups sugar, 1 cup less 1 tablespoon of pectin crystals (1½ boxes certo crystals) ¾ teaspoon certo crystals) ¾ teaspoon butter, 3 cups raw sliced rhubarb, 1½ cups seedless raisins, 1 orange sliced wafer-thin as for marmalade, 1 cup choice blanched almond or walnuts (cashews will do when almonds or walnuts are not available). Mix all ingredients except berries and pectin crystals together and let stand over-night, covered. In morning add pectin crystals and sliced strawberries. Stir well and bring quickly to boiling point, and boil slowly, stirring often, for 15 minutes watching closely to prevent scorching. Pour into sterile jam jars and cover with paraffin immediately adding a second coating when cold. Store all strawberry products in cool, dark place to prevent fading.

Mahood-Lackey Reunion Picnic At Jackson Park

The annual re-union of the Mahood-Lackey families was held on July 1 at Jackson Park with some 54 members present. The afternoon was spent registering the guests and recalling events of the past year, while the children went bathing and enjoyed sports provided for them on the grounds. A list of names was prepared for an Honor Roll of members of the families serving in the different branches of the King's Forces.

At five o'clock all sat down to the re-union supper which had been orranged for by the committee in charge.

The officers for next year: President, Mary Lackey; chairman, Frank Lackey; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. John Harryman; and the following committee, George Mullen and Ernest Mahood of Peterborough, and Elmer Mahood of Omemee.

Mrs. H. E. Smith of Millbrook gave a short history of how the Mahood-Lackey families are connected. All were happy to have the Rev. Henry Vaclavik from the Church of All Nations, Toronto, and minister to the Czechs in Batawa, Frankford, who is a guest of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lackey, and he spoke stressing the privilege all have of enjoying fellowship with each other as families and which is impossible in his country as well as in many others to-day. In conclusion he voiced the feelings of all present in trusting that peace may be restored before next year's meeting.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the re-union to a close.

Margaret M'Carthy Bride Of Cecil J. Viscoff

The wedding took place in Sacred Heart Church on July 1, of Margaret Mary McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. McCarthy, to Cecil James Viscoff, son of Mrs. Viscoff and the late Christopher Viscoff. Rev Father James Houlihan officated.

The church was decorated with red roses and white peonies, and the music was played by Mr. John Armstrong. During the offertory, Mrs. William Prindible sang an "Ave Maria," and the choir, of which she was a member, sang a hymn in honor of the Blessed Virgin at the signing of the register.

Due to the illness of her father, the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, W. J. Cavanagh of Belleville, and she wore a gown of romance blue lace over taffeta, a white straw bonnet tied with blue tulle. She carried a white prayer book from which fell white streamers caught with rosebuds. Her shoes and gloves were white kid.

The bridesmaid was Miss Marion McCarthy, who wore a frock of silk jersey in an orchid shade and a corsage of pale pink roses. She wore a white picture hat with long orchid streamers and white gloves and shoes.

The best man was Edward Johnston and the usher were Frank and Tom McCarthy brothers of the bride.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home to the immediate family.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Brockville and points east. For travelling the bride wore a suit of gold linen with chocolate brown accessories.

BRIGHT PRINT

By ALICE ALDEN

IT'S A GREAT year for prints, and women who customarily prefer a solid color find it hard to resist the delightful and varied designs available in every price range. Joan Fontaine, who dotes on prints, selects this as her favorite for it is in her pet color scheme of red, white and black. A slim skirt of dull black crepe is topped with a long black crepe tunic splashed with red and white in an interesting design. An applique of the print is used at the centre front of the skirt.

Roseneath

Corp. and Mrs. Bull left on Monday morning for Petawawa, where he is posted.

Many friends of Elma Franklin of Port Hope and for many years a pupil at Roseneath school, will be interested to know she has concluded her high school course and has secured a position in the Mines and Resources Department at Ottawa.

Mrs. Ella Brown and Miss Irene Brown visited the former's sister-in-law, Miss Mary Brown, Toronto, on Friday.

Saturday guests of Mrs. Leonard Brisbin and Mrs. Ella Brown [illegible]cluded Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Harper, Fenella, and the latter's sister, Mrs. McGillivary of Richmond Hill and Mr. and Mrs. S. Ash of Toronto.

In an account of the Bull-Pringle wedding, appearing in a recent issue one of the ushers was named as Hilton Edington. It should have read Hilton Linton, not Edington. The correspondent regrets the error.

THE BIG BLACK HAT

By ALICE ALDEN

THIS SUMMER sees the hat of graceful beauty and flattering lines, the big flower-trimmed hat, come into its own. Women of taste and discernment always prefer this type of hat. Helen Jepson, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, famous for her fashion sense, delights in a big black hat. Here she wears a matador hat of black moire especially designed for her by Kenneth Hopkins of Hollywood. Roses in shades of pink and peach, draped from underneath the brim to the nape of the neck, complete this smart chapeau.

MEN ENDURE MARRIAGE BETTER THAN DO WIVES

Domesticity Leaves Women Free to Mull Over What Might Have Been.

A CORRESPONDENT asks who stand the wear and tear of marriage better—men or women? Men apparently, for although we hear a great deal about the faithful and devoted wife and very little about the faithful and devoted husband, statistics show that in the great majority of divorce cases it is the wife who is the petitioner. And in a recent questionnaire, in which 100 married couples were asked how they liked the holy estate, far more husbands than wives replied that they were happy and contented in it.

This would seem to indicate that there are more good wives than there are good husbands, but common observation does not bear this theory out. Looking about among our married friends it seems to us, so far as livability is concerned, husbands and wives appear to be cut off the same bolt of cloth, and that there are just as many domestic martyrs of one sex as of the other. For if Mr. A. has a wandering foot, Mrs. A. has a perpetual-motion tongue; and if Mr. B. is a groucher, Mrs. B. is a henpecker, and so on down the long list of major and minor grievances that make the matrimonial route hard to travel.

Doubtless husbands have just as much to stand from their wives as wives have to endure from their husbands, but there is no denying that men meet the situation with more sportsmanship than women do. A man, for instance, rarely criticizes his wife to others or makes a bid for the sympathy of his friends by telling what a poor housekeeper Mary is or how Jane keeps his nose to the grindstone because of her extravagance, or how Maud nags the life out of him.

But where women gather together for a talkfest, the main topic of conversation is the faults and foibles of their husbands, and their favorite diversion is weeping on each other's breast and moaning out that their hearts are broken because their husbands take them for granted.

Never Smear Own Character

Also, it is not uncommon for a husband to manufacture the evidence on which his wife gets a divorce—when she has become tired of him—in order to save her face but you never hear of a woman smearing her own character, or letting herself be branded as being guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment of her husband in order to let him get a divorce to marry her rival.

The reason that men can take the ups and downs of marriage with more philosophy than women is probably because they are more realistic about their attitude toward life. They don't ask too much of it, marriage included. They know that nothing quite comes up to our expectations; that we have to work and sweat for all we get; that no undertaking is going to be all profit and no loss. So if their wives are reasonably cheerful and amiable and fairly good housekeepers they content themselves with their bargains.

But women can't do this because no amount of education or sophistication keeps them from believing in fairy tales and that, no matter what has happened to their sisters and their cousins and their mothers, their marriages are going to be idyls that will never grow stale never lose their thrills, never outlive their romance. They expect to be perpetual brides, trailing clouds of glory for forty or fifty years.

They Can't Take It

When this doesn't happen when their marriage comes down to earth with a dull, cold thud and is filled with work and worry, and babies, and stretching dollars and a husband who is more concerned over the state of his heart, they simply can't take it without squawking to heaven about marriage being a failure.

If a man's marriage isn't all his fondest fancy painted, he has a consolation prize in his career. He has his work, which is the universal panacea for whatever ails us. He has something to think about besides his disillusion in discovering that Arabella is a human being instead of the pin-feathered angel he thought she was.

But the curse of domesticity for a woman is that while it employs her hands, it leaves her mind free to mull over her disappointment that marriage landed her in a two-by-four flat instead of an ivory tower, and to dream what might have been if only she had espoused a career instead of a husband, or married the man she didn't marry.

So the reason that men are more content with marriage than women are, is because men take marriage as is, while women yearn for it as it isn't.

CAPTIVE LOVERS

CHAPTER VIII

Judith, happy and relaxed, was enjoying the ocean view when her cab stopped abruptly, almost throwing her off the seat. Two men got in, one in the front and the other in the back with her. She had never seen either of them before. The man beside her pressed a gun against her ribs. For an instant her heart jumped, then settled back to normal beating.

"Don't make a sound," he ordered curtly. The eyes back of the gun confirmed the grim warning.

Judith raised her brows inquiringly and eyed him frankly. Disregarding his order, she asked, "Where are you taking me—and why?"

His voice was soft and there was amusement in its tone. She was almost enjoying herself. Why be afraid when she had a bodyguard nearby? The man showed surprise at her coolness.

"You're wanted by the boss," he told her roughly. "Now keep your trap hut."

"Didn't they teach you in school to say mouth?" she asked.

"Why you—!" he growled, without finishing the sentence.

She chuckled softly as she realized she had the fellow's goat, and he heard her.

"You're a cool one," he said.

"Why should I get excited?" she demanded, eyeing him intently. "Just why now?"

"I give up," he muttered.

"In your place, I would too," she told him scornfully. "A big man like you sticking a gun in a girl's side when she isn't half your size. You should be ashamed."

"Shut up!" he hissed, and this time she did. His face grew black with rage and she realized she might carry the goading too far.

In a deserted part of the city they switched from the cab to a closed car, its back shades down. It was then Judith felt a wave of real fear. The foreigner was sitting in the back seat. She eyed him silently as she was pushed in beside him. The door slammed and the car slipped down the street.

"Clever young lady," smiled the man called Karl, and the smile showed the cruel twist of his mouth.

"Yes," agreed Judith. "The plans are safe now. So why do you want me? What can you gain?"

"I am not in the habit of letting people up set my plans and get away with it," he said. His accent was more pronounced now than before; she had no difficulty in deciding his homeland. "I do not tolerate interference."

"I suppose you have already done away with Mr. Burke?" There was a tremor of fear in her casual tone.

"Oh; no," he answered. Judith felt dizzy with happiness at his words. "The two of you are to die together when the time comes."

"I see."

Just to know that Tom was still alive gave her new spirit to face the future dangers. It might not be so hard to die with the man she loved. Then she remembered again that she was being shadowed by a government man and she would not die at the hands of these ruthless captors. She smiled from the secret knowledge.

"You are happy?"

She shrugged her shoulders.

"It is better to laugh than cry," she replied. "I was wondering what good it would do you to kill us? You'd be taking an awful chance. Crime doesn't pay, you know—not over here."

"Maybe you won't die," and he did the shrugging this time. "You might be more valuable alive, the both of you. Who knows?" His evil laugh chilled her to the bone. "Mr. Burke knows some things about the plans that are very valuable to us. We want that knowledge. I think he will talk now that we have you." He paused for a moment. "You are a very beautiful girl, Miss Kingsly."

Judith kept reminding herself after that: "Don't show fear. Don't ever let him know you are afraid." But she was horribly frightened. She knew without doubt that they would threaten her life—torture her, perhaps, to make Burke talk. To save her life, Tom would have to betray the secrets of the new bomber. The longer she thought about it, the more her fear gave way to deep anger. Her blue eyes smoldered. Abruptly, she turned to the man and smiled slowly in the semi-darkness of the sedan.

"I hope you have good food where you are taking me." She made her voice sound friendly. "You haven't given me much time to eat, and I'm pretty hungry."

Instead of the pleasant reply she expected, his tone was gruff. "You'll be fed."

* * *

After that, she huddled deeper in her corner of the car. She wanted a cigaret badly, but decided against opening her purse; it still held the little gun.

"They will probably search my bag," she told herself, "and take the gun away before I get a chance to use it."

Careful not to attract his attention, she moved the purse to rest on top of her left hand and with the aid of her right fingers, she opened the fastener. Moving very slowly, her left hand found its way inside the purse and gripped the automatic. She eased it out into her lap under the big patent leather bag. From there, she worked her hand to her coat pocket and dropped the weapon inside with a sigh of relief.

"Do you mind if I smoke?" she asked Karl and pretended to open her purse.

He shook his head but reached for her purse. He made sure there was no gun in it and handed it back to her. It was now necessary to get her gun back inside without discovery while she smoked her cigaret. She succeeded just as the car stopped. Before she could see where they were, a blindfold was tied over her eyes. She was led up some steps and inside a building. She heard doors open and close as they passed deeper into the place and their steps were deadened by thick carpets on the floor

Finally, she was pushed into a chair and the cloth removed from her eyes. The bright glare of the electric lights blinded her for a moment.

"Don't make the mistake of thinking you can escape," she was told, and the man went out.

"Judith!" said a voice that whirled her around instantly to face Tom Burke on the other side the large room. He had been lying on a couch, and now struggled to a sitting position. He stared at her with a look that sent blood rushing through her veins.

"Tom," she gasped and ran forward but within a foot of him she checked herself. "They haven't harmed you."

It was a statement and not a question. She had been on the verge of giving her feelings away, and that was the one thing she did not want to do before Tom. He must not know how she felt, not until he made the first move. And it did not appear he was going to make that move now.

He shook his head and lifted his finger to his lips. There must be a dictaphone in the room somewhere to catch their conversation. A smile crossed her face as she sat down by him.

Bending forward, she put her mouth to his ear and whispered, "The plans are safe with Mr. Mathews. He is having me followed."

He nodded and looked as if he wanted to kiss her but she leaned back. Aloud for the benefit of their listeners, he asked:

"What are you doing here?"

"I don't know." Again, she spoke softly into his ear. "I know they will threaten me with death to make you reveal the secrets of that bomber. Don't give in."

PAINTED SILKS have run through fashions off and on for centuries, but it is very recently indeed that they became fare for her who buys "off the rack," as the trade term for wholesale manufactured frocks goes.

Odd that a pretty girl from Hawaii should have put this handwork into current fashions for everybody at just about the time when priorities put a chilly finger on practically everything except handwork. But that's how smart some people are . . . and the photograph above shows how smart, indeed.

William Lech & Sons Announce That—

Present Fur Stock Prices Will Not Be Increased

New Furs To Be Dressed And Dyed Bear 25% Government Tax

Since the budget has come down we have had scores of phone calls regarding the increased taxation on furs. Our reply to this question is that all our fur neck pieces and fur coats can be purchased yet from us without any increased taxation whatever. Fortunately for the people of Peterborough we have a very large stock of manufactured furs on hand subject to no extra taxation. Now, however, when we dress and dye our new skins we will have to pay the 25% tax on the value of the skins' dressing and dyeing.

We Recommend You Buy Furs Now

We would recommend that you buy your fur coat from us now before this new taxation is included in the selling price.

If you do not wish to pay cash, convenient terms can be arranged or on Lay-away Plan.

Still Think The Ace

Derby, was that shipping fever contracted en route here three weeks ago left the colt short and far beneath his usual form. The second was that a horse which runs as swiftly as Ten to Ace away from the gate can't expect to maintain his speed beyond the mile.

"We think Ten to Ace wasn't a fit horse, and if he had been the others never would have seen him after the eighth pole. Even conceding The Ace won't run the last quarter of a mile and a quarter as quickly as he covers the first part, he normally figures to do it in better than 24 4-5 seconds, which was the winner's time for the final quarter of the race..."

Telling Mystic Fortunes Lends You New Glamour

What Secrets in the "Crystal"?

What enthralling fortunes you can read for your beau, using for your "magic crystal" just an old fish bowl! Do you see real crystal-gazing symbols in it? Well . . . that's your secret!

Get yourself up in a gipsy scarf, move your hands mysteriously over the bowl. "I see something taking form," you murmur tensely. Then, in a relieved tone: "Ah, it's a document . . . a legacy!"

And, sure enough, he's going to be rich! Splendid! And he's going to marry, too! You "see" bells, almost seem to hear them ringing! But what does that mailbox mean? Good or bad news?

You can entertain so cleverly, on dates or at parties, telling fortunes this way. Cards are fun, too, especially when you read them by the "Cross of Fifteen."

The 15 cards are arranged as a cross; some tell the past, others the future. Can the fortune-seeker expect happiness? The Ten of Hearts says—"Yes." But if the Eight of Spades turns up, heartbreak!

You can find more about the "Cross of Fifteen" from our 32-page booklet. Explains 85 tealeaf fortune symbols; gives meaning of every card in the deck. Has a horoscope for each month, tells how to read fascinating fortunes in dominoes, dice, the "crystal."

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps to Peterborough Examiner Home Service for your copy of "Fun With Fortune Telling." Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

AGAINST A PRE-EMPT

HERE'S A PRETTY good little rule to use when trying to defeat a pre-emptive bid. Pick off one trick in each likely-looking suit, if you can, before trying to gain a second trick in any single suit. That idea is based on the study of several hundred pre-emptive bids found in the records of various tournaments. It indicates that a singleton is the most likely holding, in any particular side suit, in the hand of the player who made the pre-emptive bid.

There is a contract which was set a couple of tricks at most tables of a tournament. The soundest order of defense is to cash the club A first, because it is the least likely to be ruffed, being in the shortest suit; next the spade A because its holder knows the side has it, and finally to lead a heart to the K, whereupon the show is over. The correct return for West after that is the club K, as that suit is shorter, and therefore more likely to find North holding another card, than in the longer hearts.

One East defied that simple logic, however. After winning the first trick with the club A, he decided to lead the club 4, in the hope that the declarer had either the K or the Q in addition to the 3 which he put on the first trick. North at that table ruffed the second club, led the diamond 3 to the K, led a third club which was ruffed by the diamond A, went to the dummy then with the diamond 5 to the 9, and ran clubs. On these he parked the two spades and the lone heart, leaving him only a bunch of good trumps, so that he made the unmakable contract.

Brodeur Named Rear-Admiral

OTTAWA, July 3 (CP)—Commodore First Class V. G. Brodeur, Canada's Navy Attache at Washington and a member of the first class of cadets to be inducted into the Canadian Navy, was promoted to the rank of rear-admiral in a lengthy series Dominion Day.

The promotions included higher rank for a number of men in command of the Dominion's destroyers and corvettes.

Rear-Admiral Brodeur, born in 1892 at Ste. Hilaire, Que., joined the youthful Canadian Navy in 1908 at the same time as Vice-Admiral Percy W. Nelles, chief of the naval staff. The chief of the naval staff also was a member of the first class of cadets inducted into the service.

Prior to going to Washington Rear-Admiral Brodeur was commanding officer on the Pacific coast.

The promotions, numbering almost 150, were in two lists and included recognition of the work done by members of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve and the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve.

Cmdr. C. J. Stuart, O.B.E., senior commander in the R.C.N.R., is promoted to captain. He was in command of the navy's first cadet training ship and many of the senior officers of today got their instruction under his eye.

Cmdr. E. A. Brock was promoted captain and surgeon-capt. A. McCallum, medical director-general for the naval service, was confirmed in his rank. Both are of the R.C.N.V.R. Promotion of Capt. Brock gave the R.C.N.V.R. two officers with the rank of captain and a surgeon-captain.

Surgeon-Capt. McCallum is 52 and a native of Cartier, Ont.

A number of lieutenants in charge of destroyers were promoted to lieutenant-commanders and the work of corvette captains received similar recognition.

D.S.O. To Padre

LONDON, July 3 — (CP). — Neville Metcalfe, 28-year-old miner-padre who believed that work at the coalface was a better means of understanding his people than preaching in the pulpit, has won the D.S.O. for gallantry. During the Burma retreat he got the last ambulance away from Pegu, then disregarded wounds to walk 25 miles to Hlegu with the last infantry to withdraw along the railway.

Doughboys Go For A Ride

Bombing Way To Beat Germans Says Exchangee

JERSEY CITY, N.J., July 3. — Ruth Mitchell, sister of the late Brig.-Gen. Billy Mitchell, who was an early American advocate of the use of air power, declared upon her return from Nazi-dominated Europe on Tuesday that the way to beat Germany was by bombing from airplanes.

The slim, blond-haired woman, who joined the Yugoslav Chetnik Guerilla Army in April, 1941, and later spent almost a year in 12 different concentration camps following her arrest by the German gestapo, was the first of 949 passengers to disembark from the diplomatic exchange liner Drottningholm.

"Bombing by planes is the way to beat Germany," she told interviewers.

She said the Chetniks still were fighting "magnificently" in the mountains of Yugoslavia and "are keeping five divisions of Germans engaged."

The passengers included more than 500 American nationals exchanged for Axis citizens. Also aboard were 10 Canadians.

Miss Mitchell, the wife of Stanley Knowles, a British subject, told of spending miserable months in German prison camps during which she said she and others were ill-treated. By contrast she said the Germans fell over backwards to be nice to her during her last five days in Germany at the Spandau concentration camp near Berlin.

She said she was arrested by the gestapo as she was bathing on a beach at the Adriatic resort port of Dubrovnik in September, 1941.

Still Keeps Poison.

At that time she had been a Chetnik for several months and had taken the Chetnik pledge of suicide rather than surrender and carried in the collar of her uniform a vial of poison which she said she still retained.

Many of her friends, she said, were shot in German prison camps, adding that in the Liebenau concentration camp there were 360 British and 56 American women prisoners.

Miss Mitchell said the German concentration camps were filthy and that she had been treated "like a criminal." Men in the camps were chained up, she said although she was not subjected to that treatment.

She said that on May 29 she was subjected to a court-martial, the nature of which she did not disclose, and that during a week of questioning she lost 40 pounds.

On another occasion, she said, she was given one cup of hot water with which to bathe, and as she washed a male guard entered. She said she struck him in the face and was then placed in "the condemned cell," an experience she said that happened to her so often that "it didn't make any difference to me."

Major G. H. Free Awarded Medal

CAMPBELLFORD, July 3. — (ENS). — Among the list of Canadian soldiers to receive awards during Army Week is one Campbellford officer, Major G. H. Free of Barriefield. Major Free, who has been a resident of this district all his life, has been awarded the Canadian Efficiency Decoration, which is presented to an officer after twenty years of service. He will now be entitled to use the initials E.D. after his signature.

Actually Major Free's Army service dates back 28 years when he became affiliated with the 14th Field Battery and went to Petawawa with that unit in 1914. He enlisted as a gunner in the Cobourg Heavy Battery and went overseas in 1917 with the C.E.F. and was in action in both France and Belgium, returning in 1919. In 1925 he became a member of the Northumberland Regiment and was commissioned as a lieutenant, working his way up by attending Army schools until in 1936 he received his Majority. Major Free was on the Brigade Staff in the fall of 1939 with the 9th Infantry Brigade, and in July of the following year when the Midland Regiment became an active unit he was Brigade Major. After more than a year on the A. and T. staff as O.C. of C Company at Port Hope, he transferred to the Ordnance Corps as regimental officer of No. 3 Detachment at Kingston. Last February Major Free went to Barriefield to assist with officer training there for the Ordnance Corps.

Major Free was born in Seymour Township, and has been a resident of Campbellford since his early youth, having worked with the Department of Railways and Canals, Game and Fisheries, and subsequently as an operator for the H. E.P.C.

Not Before The Third

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 3 — (CP). — The C.P. didn't want to "crime" three sentries who challenged him incorrectly and whose rifles were loaded contrary to regulations. He looked at their crime sheets and found they were clean—so he sent them back to their billet to write 100 times: "I must not load my rifle before the third challenge."
